This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

TFA
D
1916
Suppl.
1919
v.1

1919 SUPPLEMENT

TO

UNITED STATES COMPILED STATUTES ANNOTATED

EMBRACING

THE STATUTES OF THE UNITED STATES OF A GENERAL AND PERMANENT NATURE ENACTED FROM

DECEMBER 20, 1916, TO MARCH 4, 1919

AND DECISIONS CONSTRUING AND APPLYING ALL THE FEDERAL STATUTES CONTAINED IN THE U. S. COMP. ST. ANNOTATED, 1916, AND IN THIS SUPPLEMENT, FROM THE CLOSE OF THE ANNOTATED EDITION OF 1916 TO MARCH 1, 1919

INCORPORATING UNDER THE HEADINGS OF THE REVISED STATUTES THE SUBSEQUENT LAWS, TOGETHER WITH EXPLANATORY AND HISTORICAL NOTES, AS WELL AS NOTES SETTING OUT THE SUBSTANCE OF EXECUTIVE PROCLAMATIONS ISSUED IN PURSUANCE OF CONGRESSIONAL AUTHORIZATION

TEXT AND ANNOTATIONS
COMPILED BY THE PUBLISHERS' EDITORIAL STAFF

IN 2 VOLUMES

VOLUME 1

ST. PAUL
WEST PUBLISHING CO.
1920

COPYRIGHT, 1920
BY WEST PUBLISHING COMPANY

(1 SUPP.U.S.COMP.'19)

266381

PREFACE

THE publisher of the United States Compiled Statutes Annotated, 1916, presents, in two volumes, a Supplement continuing that publication, with its various features. All laws of general application enacted after December 20, 1916, the date of the closing of the main edition, and up to and including March 4, 1919, have been included in the Supplement. The new laws have been classified in accordance with the scheme of division employed in the edition of 1916 and according to the method of distribution adopted by the Revised Statutes of the United States. To determine whether a provision now appearing in the edition of 1916 is still intact and a part of the laws of the United States, the searcher can turn to the same section number in the Supplement. If the number does not appear in the Supplement, the reader can take it for granted that no change has been made in the former provision. If the provision has been repealed or superseded, a note will appear in the Supplement, under the appropriate section number, indicating the subsequent history of the legislation.

The annotations have been continued on the plan of the former edition to March 1, 1919. To facilitate ready reference from the edition of 1916 to the Supplement, the notes have been given the same numbers that they bore in the original edition.

In addition to the text of the statutes, executive proclamations have been inserted in the notes following text provisions giving power to the executive to declare by proclamation some matter or fact essential to the operation or enforcement of the act.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

VOLS. 1-2

		Page
Preface	(Vol. 1)	iii
Table of Titles and Chapters	(" ")	v
Compiled Statutes Supplement 1919 (Annotated)	(Vols. 1–2)	1–2414
Organic Laws of the United States of America—
Northwest Territorial Government Act	(Vol. 2)	2415
Constitution (Annotated)	(" ")	2416
Table of Revised Statute Sections	(" ")	2683
Chronological Table of Laws	(" ")	2685
Table of Acts Cited by Popular Name	(" ")	2703
General Index	(" ")	2705

TABLE OF TITLES AND CHAPTERS

OF U. S. COMPILED STATUTES ANNOTATED, SUPPLEMENT 1919
CARRYING NEW TEXT OR NEW ANNOTATIONS

FOLLOWING THE PLAN ADOPTED BY CONGRESS IN THE

REVISED STATUTES OF 1874 AND 1878

WITH SUCH ADDITIONAL TITLES AND CHAPTERS AS HAVE BEEN FOUND NECESSARY FOR THE INCORPORATION OF THE NEW LEGISLATION

VOLUME 1

TITLE II

THE CONGRESS

Chap.		Sec.
1.	Election of Senators	14b
2.	Apportionment and election of Representatives	17
4.	Compensation of Members	40
5.	Officers and persons in the employ of the Senate and House of Representatives	58
6.	The Library of Congress	129
7.	Congressional investigations	155
8A.	Contributions for purpose of influencing elections	188

TITLE III

THE PRESIDENT

2. Office and compensation of the President 227

TITLE IV

PROVISIONS APPLICABLE TO ALL THE EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS 234

TITLE V

THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE 294

TITLE VI

THE DEPARTMENT OF WAR

A. The Department and the Secretary of War 312

TITLE VII

THE DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

1. The Department 351a
2. The Secretary of the Treasury 382
3. The Comptroller 401
4. The Auditors 416
5. The Treasurer 472
6. The Register 485
8. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue 490
9. The Comptroller of the Currency 495

Chap. Sec.
11. The Bureau of the Mint..... 508
11A. The Bureau of Engraving and Printing..... 510
11B. The Bureau of War Risk Insurance..... 514a

TITLE VIII

THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE..... 515

TITLE IX

THE POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT..... 568

TITLE X

THE DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY

A. The Department and the Secretary of the Navy..... 611
B. The Hydrographic Office..... 657a

TITLE XI

THE DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

1. The Department..... 666
2. The Secretary of the Interior..... 681
3. The General Land-Office..... 690
4. The Commissioner of Indian Affairs..... 713
5. The Commissioner of Pensions..... 727
6. The Patent-Office..... 736
9. The Office of Education..... 766
9B. The Bureau of Mines..... 783a

TITLE XII

THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

A. The Department and the Secretary of Agriculture..... 790a
B. The Weather Bureau..... 841
C. The Bureau of Animal Industry..... 850

TITLE XII A

THE DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

A. The Department and the Secretary of Commerce..... 854
B. The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce..... 873
D. The Bureau of Navigation..... 891
E. The Bureau of Light-Houses..... 896
F. The Bureau of Fisheries..... 907a
G. The Census Office..... 915
H. The Bureau of Standards..... 925

TITLE XII B

THE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

A. The Department and the Secretary of Labor..... 932
B. The Bureau of Labor Statistics..... 944
C. The Bureau of Immigration..... 955a
D. The Bureau of Naturalization..... 961
E. The Children's Bureau..... 965

TITLE XII C

THE JUDICIAL CODE

1. District Courts—Organization..... 968
2. District Courts—Jurisdiction..... 991
3. District Courts—Removal of causes..... 1010

Chap. Sec.
4. District Courts—Miscellaneous provisions..... 1023
5. District Courts—Districts, and provisions applicable to particular states.. 1051
6. Circuit Courts of Appeals..... 1109
7. The Court of Claims..... 1127
8. The Court of Customs Appeals.....1179a
10. The Supreme Court..... 1207
11. Provisions common to more than one court..... 1233
12. Juries 1252
13. General provisions..... 1266
14. Repealing provisions..... 1274

TITLE XIII

THE JUDICIARY

13. Habeas corpus..... 1281
14. District attorneys, marshals, clerks and other court officers, and commissioners 1296
16. Fees and compensation of officers..... 1375
17. Evidence 1464
18. Procedure 1534
19. Limitations 1707
21. The Court of Claims—Jurisdiction, powers and procedure..... ——

TITLE XIV

THE ARMY

1. Organization 1714
2. Retirement 2073aa
3. Pay and allowances..... 2089
4. The Military Academy..... 2206
4A. Military instruction in educational institutions.....2289aa
4B. Desertions 2297
5. Articles of War.....2308a
6. The United States Disciplinary Barracks.....2458a

TITLE XV

THE NAVY

1. Organization 2471a
2. General provisions relating to officers..... 2619
3. Retired officers and men of the Navy..... 2653
4. Rank and precedence, promotion and advancement.....2660a
5. The Naval Academy.....2726bb
6. Vessels and navy-yards and naval stations.....2776a
7. General provisions relating to the Navy..... 2805
8. Pay, emoluments, and allowances.....2816a
8A. The Naval Reserve Force.....2900½a
9. The Marine Corps.....2901a
9A. Naval Flying Corps.....2952½cc
10. Articles for the government of the Navy.....2980a

TITLE XVI

THE MILITIA

A. The National Guard, and the unorganized militia..... 3041
B. Naval Militia, and National Naval Volunteers.....3078a

TITLE XVI A

SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' CIVIL RELIEF.....3078¼a

TITLE XVI B

VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION OF SOLDIERS AND SAILORS 3078½a

TITLE XVII

ARMS, ARMORIES, ARSENALS, ORDNANCE AND FORTIFICATIONS AND NITRATE PLANTS

Chap. Sec.
A. Arms, armories, arsenals and nitrate plants....3084a

TITLE XVII A

NATIONAL DEFENSE

Council of national defense....3115ee
Mobilization of industries....3115f
Advisory committee for aeronautics....3115ll
Wharves, docks, piers, etc....3115jj
Aircraft board and aircraft patents....$3115^{1}/_{22}$a National war labor board.... —
Special preparedness fund.... —
Ships and war material....$3115^{1}/_{16}$a
Charters, freight rates, and regulation of loading, discharge, movement, etc., of vessels....$3115^{1}/_{16}$a Conservation of food....$3115^{1}/_{8}$a
Conservation of supply and control of distribution of necessaries....$3115^{1}/_{8}$c
Conservation of supply and control of distribution of ores, metals and minerals....$3115^{1}/_{8}$s
Manufacture, etc., of explosives....$3115^{1}/_{4}$a
Trading with the enemy....$3115^{1}/_{2}$a
Federal controlled transportation systems....$3115^{3}/_{4}$a Federal controlled telegraph, telephone, marine cable, or radio systems....$3115^{3}/_{4}$x
War finance corporation and capital issues committee....$3115^{4}/_{5}$a Housing for war-industry employés....$3115^{5}/_{6}$a War emergency services....$3115^{7}/_{8}$a
Committee on public information....$3115^{7}/_{8}$b
Condemnation of property for generating electric energy....$3115^{11}/_{12}$a Prohibition zones....$3115^{11}/_{12}$e
Manufacture, sale, etc., of intoxicating liquors....$3115^{11}/_{12}$f
Adjustment of war contracts....$3115^{14}/_{15}$a

TITLE XVIII

DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR OFFICERS

1. Diplomatic officers 3116
2. Consular officers....3141a
3. Provisions common to diplomatic and consular officers.... 3198

TITLE XIX

PROVISIONS APPLICABLE TO SEVERAL CLASSES OF PUBLIC OFFICERS AND EMPLOYÉS

A. Appointment, qualification, compensation, and services, in general....3214a
B. Civil Service Commission and classified civil service.... 3271

TITLE XIX A

OFFICIAL [AND PENAL] BONDS.... 3294

TITLE XXI

SEAT OF GOVERNMENT, INCLUDING THE PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS, PARKS, AND RESERVATIONS

A. Public buildings and grounds, parks and wharves....3311a
B. Capitol building and grounds.... 3370
BB. Intoxicating liquors in the District of Columbia....$3421^{1}/_{4}$a
BBB. Women and minor employés in District of Columbia....$3421^{1}/_{2}$a

TITLE XXII

THE STATES.... 3424

TITLE XXIII

THE TERRITORIES AND INSULAR POSSESSIONS

Chap.		Sec.
1.	Provisions common to all the Territories	3483
3A.	Alaska	3530
3B.	Hawaii	3698
3C.	Porto Rico	3747
3D.	The Philippine Islands	3810
3F.	The Virgin Islands (The Danish West Indies)	3924¼a

TITLE XXIV

CIVIL RIGHTS 3925

TITLE XXV

CITIZENSHIP 3946

TITLE XXVIII

INDIANS

1.	Officers of Indian affairs, their duties and compensation	3979½
2.	Performance of engagements between the United States and Indians	4034
3.	Government and protection of Indians	4106
4.	Government of Indian country	4129
4A.	Education of Indians	4161
4B.	Rights of way through Indian lands	4181
4C.	Allotment of Indian lands	4195

TITLE XXIX

IMMIGRATION

A.	Regulation and restriction of immigration in general	4242
B.	Exclusion of Chinese	4290

TITLE XXX

NATURALIZATION 4351

TITLE XXXI

THE CENSUS 4385

TITLE XXXII

THE PUBLIC LANDS

1.	Surveyors and deputy surveyors	4435
2.	Registers and receivers	4469
3A.	Withdrawal from settlement, location, sale, or entry	4523
4.	Pre-emptions	——
5.	Homesteads	4530
6.	Mineral lands and mining resources	4613
6A.	Timber and stone lands	4671
6B.	Desert and arid lands, and irrigation and reclamation	4674
7.	Sale and disposal of the public lands	4756
8.	Reservation and sale of town-sites on the public lands	4784
9.	Survey of the public lands	4803
10A.	Reservations and grants to states for public purposes	4860
10B.	Grants in aid of railroads and wagon roads	4882
10C.	Rights of way and other easements in public lands	4918
10D.	Grants of swamp and overflowed lands	4958
10E.	Drainage under state laws	4976a
10F.	Protection of timber and depredations	4980
10G.	Unlawful inclosures or occupancy; obstructing settlement or transit	4997
10H.	Abandoned military reservations	5012
10I.	Ceded Indian reservations	5014

Chap. Sec.
10J. Public lands in Oklahoma..... 5025
10K. Public lands in Alaska..... 5046
11. Miscellaneous provisions relating to the public lands..... 5097

TITLE XXXII A

THE NATIONAL FORESTS..... 5121

TITLE XXXII B

THE NATIONAL PARKS, RESERVATIONS, AND MONUMENTS 5196

TITLE XXXIII

DUTIES UPON IMPORTS

A. Tariff schedules..... 5291
B. The tariff commission.....5326bb

TITLE XXXIV

COLLECTION OF DUTIES UPON IMPORTS

1. Collection-districts, ports, and officers 5327
2. Qualifications, pay, and duties of officers..... 5359
4. Entry of merchandise..... 5481
5. Unlading 5556
6. Appraisal 5591
7. The bond and warehouse system.....5650a
7A. Immediate transportation in bond to inland ports..... 5695
8. Payment 5714
10. Enforcement of duty-laws and punishment for violations..... 5763
11. Provisions applying to commerce with contiguous countries..... 5809

TITLE XXXV

INTERNAL REVENUE

1. Officers of internal revenue.....5851a
2. Of assessments and collections..... 5895
3. Special taxes..... 5965
4. Distilled spirits and wines..... 5981
5. Fermented liquors..... 6144
5A. Sirups, extracts, soft drinks, mineral waters and carbonic acid gas....6161½a
6. Tobacco and snuff..... 6168
7. Cigars.....6202a
7A. Oleomargarine, adulterated butter, and process or renovated butter.... 6215
7E. Opium for smoking.....6287a
7F. Opium, coca leaves, and compounds, manufacturers, etc., thereof.....6287g
8. Banks and bankers..... 6293
8A. Special excise tax on corporations..... 6300
8B. Excise tax on dealings in cotton futures.....6309a
8C. Transportation facilities by public utilities.....6309⅛a
8D. Insurance policies.....6309¼a
8DD. Tax on transportation and other facilities, and on insurance.....6309½a
8E. Theater, etc., admissions and club dues or fees.....6309½a
8EE. Tax on admissions and dues.....6309⅝a
8F. Miscellaneous articles.....6309¾a
8G. Excise taxes.....6309⅞a
9. Stamp-taxes on specific objects.....6318a
9A. Incomes 6319
9AA. Income tax.....6336⅛a
9B. Munition manufacturer's tax.....6336¼a
9C. Excess-profits tax.....6336⅜a
9CC. War-profits and excess-profits tax.....6336 7/16a
10A. Estate tax.....6336½a
10B. Tax on employment of child-labor..... ..6336⅞a
11. Provisions common to several objects of taxation.....6340a
11A. Increase of internal revenue (Revenue Act of 1916).....6371bb
11B. War revenue (Revenue Act of 1917).....6371⅛a
11C. Revenue Act of 1918.....6371¼a

VOLUME 2

TITLE XXXVI

Chap. Sec.
DEBTS DUE BY OR TO THE UNITED STATES..... 6372

TITLE XXXVII

COINAGE 6432

TITLE XXXVIII

THE CURRENCY..... 6553b

TITLE XXXIX

LEGAL TENDER..... 6575

TITLE XL

THE PUBLIC MONEYS..... 6603

TITLE XLI

APPROPRIATIONS 6676a

TITLE XLII

THE PUBLIC DEBT..... 6810

TITLE XLIII

PUBLIC CONTRACTS..... 6832

TITLE XLIII A

PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND WORKS..... 6903a

TITLE XLIV

THE PUBLIC PROPERTY..... 6941

TITLE XLV

PUBLIC PRINTING, ADVERTISEMENTS, AND PUBLIC DOCUMENTS 6953a

TITLE XLVI

THE POSTAL SERVICE

1. Post-offices and postmasters..... 7190
2. Carriers, branch offices, and receiving-boxes..... 7300aa
3. Mail-matter 7302
4. Postage 7345
5. Postage-stamps, postal cards, and envelopes..... 7392
6. Registered mail..... 7405
8. Contracts for carrying the mails..... 7427
9. Carrying the mail..... 7456
9A. Rural Post Roads..... 7477bb
10. Railway service..... 7478
11. Foreign mail-service..... 7539a
12. Post-office inspectors..... 7548a
13A. Postal savings depositories..... 7580
14. Accounts and revenues..... 7607

TITLE XLVII

Chap. Sec.
FOREIGN RELATIONS..... 7615

TITLE XLVIII

REGULATION OF COMMERCE AND NAVIGATION

1. Registry and recording.....7709aa
2. Clearance and entry..... 7789
5. Navigation 7841
6. Transportation of passengers and merchandise..... 8002
7. Log books..... 8037

TITLE L

REGULATION OF VESSELS IN DOMESTIC COMMERCE..... 8083

TITLE L A

UNITED STATES SHIPPING BOARD, NAVAL AUXILIARY AND RESERVE, AND MERCHANT MARINE.....8146a

TITLE LII

REGULATION OF STEAM-VESSELS

1. Inspection 8155
2. Transportation of passengers and merchandise..... 8225

TITLE LII A

REGULATION OF MOTOR BOATS..... 8279

TITLE LIII

MERCHANT SEAMEN

1. Shipping-commissioners 8287
2. Shipment 8300
3. Wages and effects..... 8315
4. Discharge 8338
5. Protection and relief..... 8345
6. Fees of shipping-commissioners..... 8378
7. Offenses and punishments..... 8380

TITLE LV

LIGHTS AND BUOYS.....8435c

TITLE LV A

THE COAST GUARD

A. General Provisions.....8459½a
B. The Revenue-Cutter Service.....8459½b

TITLE LVI

THE COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY.....8548a

TITLE LVI A

REGULATION OF COMMON CARRIERS OF INTERSTATE AND FOREIGN COMMERCE

A. Regulation of transportation..... 8563
B. Bills of lading.....8604a

Chap. Sec.
C. Safety appliances and equipments on railroad engines and cars, and protection of employés and travelers 8605
D. Care of animals in transit 8651
E. Liability for injuries to employés 8657
F. Arbitration between carriers and employés 8675a
G. Hours of service of employés 8677

TITLE LVI B

REGULATION OF INTERSTATE AND FOREIGN COMMERCE AS TO PARTICULAR SUBJECTS

A. Animals, meats, and meat and dairy products 8681
B. Food, drugs, and liquors 8717
D. Grain standards 8747½
E. Warehouses 8747¾
F. Insect pests 8758
H. Viruses, serums, toxins, antitoxins, and analogous products 8785
I. Teas 8791
J. Opium 8800
L. Prevention of white-slave traffic 8812
M. Child labor 8819a

TITLE LVI C

MONOPOLIES AND COMBINATIONS IN RESTRAINT OF TRADE 8820

TITLE LVI D

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION, PREVENTION OF UNFAIR COMPETITION AND PROMOTION OF EXPORT TRADE 8836¼a

TITLE LVI E

PROTECTION OF MIGRATORY GAME AND INSECTIVOROUS BIRDS 8837

TITLE LVI F

PROTECTION OF FUR SEALS AND OTHER FUR-BEARING ANIMALS 8850

TITLE LVI H

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGES AND EXPERIMENT STATIONS

B. Agricultural experiment stations 8878

TITLE LVI I

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES AND STANDARD TIME 8907r

TITLE LVI J

LABOR

C. Hours of labor 8918
D. Compensation for injuries to employés of United States 8932a

TITLE LVII

PENSIONS 8933

TITLE LVIII

THE PUBLIC HEALTH

Chap. Sec.
A. The Public Health Service....9136a
B. Sanitation and quarantine.... 9173
C. Leprosy 9188a
D. Social Hygiene....9188¼(a)

TITLE LIX

HOSPITALS, ASYLUMS, AND CEMETERIES

1. Hospital relief for seamen....9189a
1A. Navy Hospitals, Naval Home, and Army and Navy Hospitals....9204a
3. The National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.... 9258
4. The Government Hospital for the Insane....9301aa
5. The Columbia Institution for the Deaf....9355a
6. National cemeteries.... 9368

TITLE LIX A

EDUCATION AND EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS

F. Vocational education....9390¼a

TITLE LIX B

NATIONAL TRAINING SCHOOLS

A. National Training School for Boys....9409b

TITLE LX

PATENTS, TRADE-MARKS, AND COPYRIGHTS

1. Patents 9427
2. Trade-marks 9485
3. Copyrights 9517

TITLE LXI

BANKRUPTCY

1. Definitions 9585
2. Creation of courts of bankruptcy and their jurisdiction.... 9586
3. Bankrupt 9587
4. Courts and procedure therein.... 9602
5. Officers, their duties and compensation.... 9622
6. Creditors 9639
7. Estates 9645

TITLE LXII

NATIONAL BANKS

1. Organization and powers.... 9659
2. Obtaining and issuing circulating notes....9698a
3. Regulation of the banking business.... 9755
3A. Federal reserve banks.... 9786
4. Dissolution and receivership.... 9806

TITLE LXII A

FEDERAL FARM LOANS....9835w

TITLE LXIII

RIVERS, HARBORS, AND CANALS

Chap. Sec.
A. Navigable waters....9844a
B. Improvements of rivers and harbors....9866a
C. Preservation and protection of rivers and harbors and of improvements.. 9910
DD. Regulation of vessels in ports of United States....9959¼a
E. Bridges over navigable waters.... 9962
F. Dams and water power.... 9976
G. The Mississippi River Commission....9995a
GG. Waterways Commission....10003¼a
H. The California Débris Commission....10004
HH. Control of floods of Mississippi and Sacramento rivers....10030¼a
I. The Panama Canal and the Canal Zone....10038

TITLE LXIV

RAILWAYS 10057

TITLE LXV

TELEGRAPHS 10072

TITLE LXVI

EXTRADITION 10110

TITLE LXVIII

REMISSION OF FINES, PENALTIES, AND FORFEITURES....10130

TITLE LXIX A

THE CRIMINAL CODE

1. Offenses against the existence of the Government....10165
2. Offenses against neutrality....10173
3. Offenses against the elective franchise and civil rights of citizens....10183
4. Offenses against the operations of the Government....10196
5. Offenses relating to official duties....10265
6. Offenses against public justice....10295
7. Offenses against the currency, coinage, etc....10320
8. Offenses against the postal service....10360
9. Offenses against foreign and interstate commerce....10402
10. The slave trade and peonage....10441
11. Offenses within the admiralty and maritime and the territorial jurisdiction of the United States....10445
12. Piracy and other offenses upon the seas....10469
13. Certain offenses in the territories....10489
13A. Search warrants....10496¼a
14. General and special provisions....10502
15. Repealing provisions....10515

TITLE LXX

CRIMES

9. Prisoners and their treatment....10521

TITLE LXXIII

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION....10567

UNITED STATES COMPILED STATUTES

ANNOTATED

SUPPLEMENT 1919

VOLUME 1

TITLE II—THE CONGRESS

CHAPTER ONE—ELECTION OF SENATORS

§ 14b. (Act June 4, 1914, c. 103, § 2.) Mode of election of Senators.

Notes of Decisions

Effect of passage of state law.—This act was superseded by a state primary election law upon the effective date of such law. U. S. v. Gradwell, 37 S. Ct. 407, 61 L. Ed. 857.

Conspiracy to commit election fraud.—Under this act there was no protection of rights of candidate at primary election in West Virginia, there being no state law on the subject, and hence conspiracy to commit election fraud did not fall within Criminal Code, §§ 19, 37 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 10183, 10201). U. S. v. O'Toole (D. C.) 236 F. 993, judgment affirmed Same v. Gradwell, 37 S. Ct. 407, 61 L. Ed. 857.

Conviction of candidate of felony.—Proceeding to restrain secretary of state from placing on primary nominating ballot the name of a candidate for United States Senator, on ground that after filing his affidavit as candidate he was convicted of felony in federal court, and was under sentence to imprisonment, dismissed. State v. Schmahl (Minn.) 167 N. W. 481.

CHAPTER TWO—APPORTIONMENT AND ELECTION OF REPRESENTATIVES

§ 17. (Act Aug. 8, 1911, c. 5, § 3.) Election by districts.

Notes of Decisions

Validity of act redistricting state.—Laws N. Y. 1917, c. 797, dividing state into congressional districts pursuant to Act Cong. Aug. 8, 1911, c. 5, reapportioning number of Representatives, etc., is valid, although Laws N. Y. 1911, c. 890, also redistricted state immediately following said congressional reapportionment. People ex rel. Fitzgerald v. Voorhis, 119 N. E. 106, 222 N. Y. 494, affirming order (Sup.) 168 N. Y. S. 1124.

What statute controls election.—Laws N. Y. 1917, c. 797, dividing state into congressional districts, applies to election for filling vacancy caused by resignation of Representative whose district at time of his election was fixed by Laws N. Y. 1911, c. 890. People ex rel. Fitzgerald v. Voorhis, 119 N. E. 106, 222 N. Y. 494, affirming order (Sup.) 168 N. Y. S. 1124.

Executive proclamation, calling special election to fill vacancy in specified congressional district, refers to district as then fixed by Laws N. Y. 1917, c. 797, and not to district as it existed under Laws N. Y. 1911, c. 890, when resigning Representative was elected. Id.

§ 18. (Act Aug. 8, 1911, c. 5, § 4.) Redistricting under state laws.

Notes of Decisions

Constitutionality.—Courts may not treat provisions of congressional apportionment act under which referendum is recognized as repugnant to republican form of government guaranteed by Const. art. 4, § 4, since Congress has exclusive authority to uphold the guaranty. State of Ohio ex rel. Davis v. Hildebrant, 36 S. Ct. 708, 241 U. S. 565, 60 L. Ed. 1172, affirming 114 N. E. 55, 94 Ohio St. 154.

Recognition by Congress in this act of referendum as part of state power in creating congressional districts, does not violate Const. art. 1, § 4, that times and manner of holding elections for representatives shall be prescribed by the Legislature of each state. Id.

Exercise of legislative power.—Congress by this act intended that, where the referendum is treated as part of the legislative power, it should be held as the state legislative power for the purpose of creating congressional districts. State of Ohio ex rel. Davis v. Hildebrant, 36 S. Ct. 708, 241 U. S. 565, 60 L. Ed. 1172, affirming 114 N. E. 55, 94 Ohio St. 154.

Result of election.—The Congressional Redistricting Act, having failed of approval on submission to referendum, is invalid. State v. Hildebrant (Ohio) 114 N. E. 55.

CHAPTER FOUR—COMPENSATION OF MEMBERS

§ 40. (R. S. § 38, as amended, Act March 3, 1875, c. 130, § 1.) Representatives' salaries payable monthly.

The Sergeant at Arms of the House of Representatives was authorized and directed to pay to the members of the House of Representatives of the 65th Congress, who had been serving with the military or naval forces of the United States in the war with Germany and her allies, compensation from and after the day of their discharge from military or naval duty at the rate provided by law for Representatives in Congress, upon the resumption and during the continuance of their duties as Representatives in Congress, by Res. March 3, 1919, c. 117, 40 Stat. 1324.

§ 43a. (Res. March 3, 1919, c. 117.) Compensation to members serving with military or naval forces.

See note under § 40.

§ 57. (Act July 31, 1894, c. 174, § 1.) Salaries of Senators filling vacancies.

Cited without definite application, Illinois Surety Co. v. United States, to Use of Peeler, 36 S. Ct. 321, 60 L. Ed. 609.

CHAPTER FIVE—OFFICERS AND PERSONS IN THE EMPLOY OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Sec.
58. Officers and employés of Senate.
59. Officers and employés of House.
73. Janitors to committees of House.
74a. Clerks to Senators.
75. Clerks to Members and Delegates of House.
76. Clerks to Members of House.
76a. Clerks to members, delegates and resident commissioners.
78. Pay of official reporters.
106a. Legislative Drafting Service; duties.

§ 58. (R. S. § 52.) Officers and employés of Senate.

For enumeration of officers and employés of the Senate, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 59. (R. S. § 53.) Officers and employés of House.

For enumeration of officers and employés of House of Representatives, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 73. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Janitors to committees of House.

Janitors under the foregoing shall be appointed by the chairmen, respectively, of said committees, and shall perform under the direction of the Doorkeeper all of the duties heretofore required of messengers detailed to said committees by the Doorkeeper, and shall be subject to removal by the Doorkeeper at any time after the termination of the Congress during which they were appointed. (40 Stat. 1218.)

This section is a provision following an appropriation for clerks, messengers, and janitors to certain enumerated committees of the House of Representatives, in the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in prior legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation acts.

§ 74a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Clerks to Senators.

Clerical Assistance to Senators: For clerical assistance to Senators who are not chairmen of the committees specifically provided for herein: * * Such clerks and assistant clerks shall be ex officio clerks and assistant clerks of any committee of which their Senator is chairman. (40 Stat. 1215.)

This section is a provision following an appropriation for clerks and messengers to certain enumerated committees of the Senate in the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above.

§ 75. (Res. March 3, 1893, No. 21.) Clerks to Members and Delegates of House.

The annual legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation acts make appropriations for clerk hire for Members, Delegates, and Resident Commissioners, accompanied by a provision that no part thereof shall be paid to any member, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner. See Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 76. (Act July 7, 1898, c. 571, § 1.) Clerks to members of House.

For current appropriation for clerks to members of House of Representatives, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 76a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Clerks to members, delegates and resident commissioners.

See note under § 76.

§ 78. (Act June 22, 1874, c. 388, § 1.) Pay of official reporters.

For current appropriation for the official reporters, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 106a. (Act Feb. 24, 1919, c. 18, § 1303.) Legislative Drafting Service; duties.

(a) There is hereby created a Legislative Drafting Service under the direction of two draftsmen, one of whom shall be appointed by the President of the Senate, and one by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, without reference to political affiliations and solely on the ground of fitness to perform the duties of the office. Each draftsman shall receive a salary of $5,000 a year, payable monthly. The draftsmen shall, subject to the approval of the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, employ and fix the compensation of such assistant draftsmen, clerks, and other employees, and purchase such furniture, office equipment, books, stationery, and other supplies, as may be necessary for the proper performance of the duties of the service and as may be appropriated for by Congress.

(b) The Drafting Service shall aid in drafting public bills and resolutions or amendments thereto on the request of any committee of either House of Congress, but the Library Committee of the Senate and the Library Committee of the House of Representatives, respectively, may determine the preference, if any, to be given to such requests of the committees of either House, respectively. The draftsmen shall, from time to time, prescribe rules and regulations for the conduct of the work of the service for the committees of each House, subject to the approval of the Library Committee of each House, respectively.

(c) For the remainder of the current fiscal year there is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $25,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the establishment and maintenance of the service, including the payment of salaries herein authorized. One-half of all appropriations for the service shall be disbursed by the Secretary of the Senate and one-half by the Clerk of the House of Representatives. (40 Stat. 1141.)

This section is § 1303 of the Revenue Act of 1918 (Title XIII—General Administrative Provisions), cited above.

CHAPTER SIX—THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

§ 129. (Act Feb. 19, 1897, c. 265, § 1.) Appointment of Librarian, and government of Library.

For current appropriation for Librarian, Chief Assistant Librarian, etc., with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 134a. (Act March 4, 1915, c. 141, § 1.) Superintendent of Library building and grounds; salary.

The legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, Act July 3, 1918, c. 130, § 1, 40 Stat. 757, and that for the fiscal year 1920, Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213, fix the salary of the Superintendent of the Library buildings and grounds at $3,600 per annum.

CHAPTER SEVEN—CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATIONS

§ 155. (R. S. § 101.) Oaths to witnesses.

Power of committee to investigate acts of district attorney.—A subcommittee of the House of Representatives, acting under a resolution for the impeachment of a United States district attorney, is acting within constitutional limits when it investigates the attorney's acts. U. S. v. Gordon (D. C.) 235 F. 422.

CHAPTER EIGHT A—CONTRIBUTIONS FOR PURPOSE OF INFLUENCING ELECTIONS

§ 188. (Act June 25, 1910, c. 392, § 1.) "Political committee" defined.

Adoption of state laws.—That Congress has provided for expenses to be incurred in primary elections by candidates for House of Representatives and Senate is no adoption as federal legislation of state laws on the subject. U. S. v. O'Toole (D. C.) 236 F. 993, judgment affirmed Same v. Gradwell, 37 S. Ct. 407, 243 U. S. 476, 61 L. Ed. 857.

§ 192. (Act June 25, 1910, c. 392, § 5, as amended, Act Aug. 19, 1911, c. 33, § 1.) Statements by treasurer to be filed, etc.

See U. S. v. Gradwell, 37 S. Ct. 407, 61 L. Ed. 857.

Habeas corpus on ground of unconstitutionality of statute.—See Ex parte Blair (D. C.) 253 F. 800.

§ 195. (1) (Act June 25, 1910, c. 392, § 8, as amended, Act Aug. 19, 1911, c. 33, § 2, and Act Aug. 23, 1912, c. 349.) Candidate defined.

See U. S. v. Gradwell, 37 S. Ct. 407, 61 L. Ed. 857; Ex parte Blair (D. C.) 253 F. 800.

TITLE III—THE PRESIDENT

CHAPTER TWO—OFFICE AND COMPENSATION OF THE PRESIDENT

§ 227. (R. S. § 155.) Officers of the President's household.

For enumeration and fixing of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, ch. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 229. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Detail of employés of Executive Departments to office of President.

Employees of the executive departments and other establishments of the executive branch of the Government may be detailed from time to time to the office of the President of the United States for such temporary assistance as may be necessary. (40 Stat. 1222.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

TITLE IV—PROVISIONS APPLICABLE TO ALL THE EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS

Sec.
234. Salaries of heads of Departments.
235. Departmental regulations.
242. Classification of Department clerks.
243a. Employment of wives of soldiers and sailors.
246. Salaries of clerks and employés.
249. Officers, clerks, etc., how employed.
251a. Transfer of clerks from executive departments to independent establishments.
251b. Employment of employés of executive departments, in other executive departments, at increased compensation.
251c. Branches of government of District of Columbia as governmental establishments.
252a. Details of persons in classified service at Washington for service outside District.
258. Disbursing clerks.
259. Vacancies; temporarily filling.
260. Vacancies in subordinate offices.
270. Evidence for suits in Court of Claims.
283a. Coordination of executive agencies.
283b. Transfer of personnel or duties.
283c. Executive agency for control of aeroplanes.
283d. Expenditure of appropriations.
283e. Abolition of bureaus.
283f. Acts suspended; termination of act.

§ 234. (R. S. § 160.) Salaries of heads of Departments.

See legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act, Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 235. (R. S. § 161.) Departmental regulations.

2. Regulations not to be inconsistent with law.—See Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. U. S., 52 Ct. Cl. 53.

Departmental regulation that soldier's homestead declaratory statement may be executed before any officer authorized to administer oaths held not inconsistent with act providing for administering of oaths by certain United States official in district in which land is situated, or provision of Rev. St. § 2293 (Comp. St. 1916, § 4545). U. S. v. Morehead, 37 S. Ct. 458, 243 U. S. 607, 61 L. Ed. 926.

5. Regulations for carrying out particular laws.—Regulation requiring affidavit to soldier's homestead declaration giving him preferential right under Homestead Law, Rev. St. §§ 2304–2309 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 4592–4594, 4602, 4603, 4605), could be adopted by the Land Department under Rev. St. §§ 441, 453, 2478 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 681, 699, 5120), and this section, notwithstanding reference to pre-emption cases in section 2309 (Comp. St. 1916, § 4605). U. S. v. Morehead, 37 S. Ct. 458, 243 U. S. 607, 61 L. Ed. 926.

Under Cr. Code, § 194 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10364), and this section, and regulation of Post Office Department, prescribing what should constitute a letter box within the Criminal Code, held within the authority conferred upon the Postmaster General. Rosen v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 148, 245 U. S. 467, 62 L. Ed. 406, affirming judgments 237 F. 810, 151 C. C. A. 52, and Pakas v. U. S., 240 F. 350, 153 C. C. A. 276.

Under this section the Postmaster General has authority to designate a private box for the receipt of mail as a letter box, within the meaning of Criminal Code, § 194 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10364). Pakas v. U. S., 240 F. 350, 153 C. C. A. 276.

6. Custody, use, etc., of property.—Mail is property, within this section, and belongs for certain purposes to the United States. Pakas v. U. S., 240 F. 350, 153 C. C. A. 276.

9. Force and effect of regulations as law.—Under Criminal Code, § 194 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10364), and this section, and regulation of Post Office Department, boxes placed in hall of building for receipt of mail, held authorized depositories of mail matter as respected stealing of mail matter. Rosen v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 148, 245 U. S. 467, 62 L. Ed. 406, affirming judgments 237 F. 810, 151 C. C. A. 52, and Pakas v. U. S., 240 F. 350, 153 C. C. A. 276.

Rules and regulations adopted pursuant to power conferred on head of department held to have the force of law if consistent therewith, reasonable, and within the scope of the power conferred. In re Aliens (D. C.) 231 F. 335.

11. Violations of regulations.—Under this section, and Criminal Code, § 194 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10364), a conviction for receiving property taken from letters stolen from a private box, designated as a letter box, is authorized. Pakas v. U. S., 240 F. 350, 153 C. C. A. 276.

Cited without definite application, Illinois Surety Co. v. United States, to Use of Peeler, 36 S. Ct. 321; In re Valecia Condensed Milk Co. (C. C. A.) 240 F. 310.

§ 242. (R. S. § 163.) Classification of Department clerks.

Change of classification as affecting rights as to compensation.—Widow of one originally appointed assistant weigher of customs, statutes not providing for such assistants, later appointed by collector clerk, class 3, new office, to act as acting United States weigher, and still later appointed clerk, class 4, could not recover from United States salary of her deceased husband as United States weigher of customs from time of appointment as clerk, class 3, up to his death, though he performed some or all duties of weigher. MacMath v. U. S., 39 S. Ct. 31, 63 L. Ed. —.

§ 243a. (Act Aug. 31, 1918, c. 166, § 5.) Employment of wives of soldiers and sailors.

The wife of a soldier or sailor serving in the present war shall not be disqualified for any position or appointment under the Government because she is a married woman. (40 Stat. 956.)

This was section 5 of an act entitled "An act amending the act entitled 'An act to authorize the President to increase temporarily the Military Establishment of the United States,' approved May eighteenth, nineteen hundred and seventeen," cited above.

§ 246. (R. S. § 167.) Salaries of clerks and employés.

For enumeration of clerks and employés in the various departments, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 249. (Act Aug. 5, 1882, c. 389, § 4.) Officers, clerks, etc., how employed.

Transfer between departments.—Designation of clerk in Department of Commerce to perform additional services without extra pay in Department of Labor is not an "employment," prohibited by Comp. St. 1916, § 6778, nor by this section, as to employment without specific authority of Congress. 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 129.

§ 251a. (Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 79, § 6.) Transfer of clerks from executive departments to independent establishments.

Section five of the Act of June twenty-second, nineteen hundred and six, prohibiting the transfer of employees from one executive department to another, shall apply with equal force and effect to the transfer of employees from executive departments to independent establishments and vice versa and to the transfer of employees from one independent establishment to another: Provided, That the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation shall be considered a Government establishment for the purposes of this section. (40 Stat. 383.)

This was section 6 of the urgent deficiency appropriation act for the year 1918, and prior years, cited above.

§ 251b. (Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 79, § 7.) Employment of employés of executive departments, in other executive departments, at increased compensation.

No civil employee in any of the executive departments or other Government establishments, or who has been employed therein within the period of one year next preceding his proposed employment in any other executive department or other Government establishment, shall be employed hereafter and paid from a lump-sum appropriation in any other executive department or other Government establishment at an increased rate of compensation. And no civil employee in any of the executive departments or other Government establishments or who has been employed therein within the period of one year next preceding his proposed employment in any other executive department or other Government establishment and who may be employed in another executive department or other Government establishment shall be granted an increase in compensation within the period of one year following such reemployment: Provided, That the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation shall be considered a Government establishment for the purposes of this section: Provided further, That this section shall not be construed to repeal section five of the Act of June twenty-second, nineteen hundred and six, which prohibits the transfer of employés from one department to another. (40 Stat. 383.)

This was section 7 of the urgent deficiency appropriation act for the fiscal year 1918, and prior years, cited above.

§ 251c. (Act March 28, 1918, c. 28, § 2.) Branches of Government of District of Columbia as governmental establishments.

All branches of the government of the District of Columbia shall be considered a governmental establishment for the purposes of section seven of the deficiency appropriation Act approved October sixth, nineteen hundred and seventeen. (40 Stat. 498.)

This was section 2 of the urgent deficiency appropriation act for the year 1918, and prior years, on account of war expenses, cited above.

§ 252a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 6.) Details of persons in classified service at Washington for service outside District.

In expending appropriations made in this Act persons in the classified service in the District of Columbia, shall not be detailed for service outside of the District of Columbia except for or in connection with work pertaining directly to the service at the seat of government of the department or other Government establishment from which the detail is made: Provided, That nothing in this section shall be deemed to apply to the investigation of any matter or the preparation, prosecution, or defense of any suit by the Department of Justice. (40 Stat. 1267.)

This section is § 6 of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. The appropriations referred to are those made for officers, etc., in the legislative, executive, and judicial departments. The provisions of this section have been repeated in prior legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation acts.

§ 258. (R. S. § 176.) Disbursing clerks.

The appointment of special disbursing agents for the duration of the war with Germany, to disburse the appropriation for the expenses of the audit of accounts of the military establishment in foreign countries, is authorized by a provision of Act Sept. 24, 1917, c. 56, § 12, post, § 420a.

Notes of Decisions

Failure to make appropriation.—Failure of Congress to make specific provision for salary of disbursing clerk in Department of Labor, authorized by Comp. St. 1916, § 933, does not preclude his appointment, in view of this section. 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 129.

§ 259. (R. S. § 177.) Vacancies; temporarily filling.

Powers of special assistant attorney.—Under Act June 30, 1906, Rev. St. §§ 161, 348, 360 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 235, 517, 535), and this section, attorney, not resident of district wherein prosecutions were instituted, having been appointed special assistant, by letter signed by Assistant Attorney General, for Attorney General, held authorized to participate in grand jury proceedings. May v. U. S., 236 F. 495, 149 C. C. A. 547.

De facto officer.—Assistant to Attorney General appointed for special prosecutions under Rev. St. §§ 161, 348, 360 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 235, 517, 535), and this section and Act June 30, 1906, held at least a de facto officer so that, on motion to quash indictment, his right to appear before grand jury could not be questioned. May v. U. S., 236 F. 495, 149 C. C. A. 547.

§ 260. (R. S. § 178.) Vacancies in subordinate offices.

Admissibility of certificates of Comptroller of Currency.—In view of this section and Rev. St. §§ 327, 884 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 498, 1496), as to certificates of Comptroller of the Currency, all certificates from the office of the Comptroller of the Currency of the United States, authenticated by seal, are admissible. Weitzel v. Brown, 112 N. E. 945, 224 Mass. 190.

§ 270. (R. S. § 188.) Evidence for suits in Court of Claims.

Cited without definite application,
United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 316.

§ 283a. (Act May 20, 1918, c. 78, § 1.) Co-ordination of executive agencies.

For the national security and defense, for the successful prosecution of the war, for the support and maintenance of the Army and Navy, for the better utilization of resources and industries, and for the more effective exercise and more efficient administration by the President of his powers as Commander in Chief of the land and naval forces the President is hereby authorized to make such redistribution of functions among executive agencies as he may deem necessary, including any functions, duties, and powers hitherto by law conferred upon any executive department, commission, bureau, agency, office, or officer, in such manner as in his judgment shall seem best fitted to carry out the purposes of this Act, and to this end is authorized to make such regulations and to issue such orders as he may deem necessary, which regulations and orders shall be in writing and shall be filed with the head of the department affected and constitute a public record: Provided, That this Act shall remain in force during the continuance of the present war and for six months after the termination of the war by the proclamation of the treaty of peace, or at such earlier time as the President may designate: Provided further, That the termination of this Act shall not affect any act done or any right or obligation accruing or accrued pursuant to this Act and during the time that this Act is in force: Provided further, That the authority by this Act granted shall be exercised only in matters relating to the conduct of the present war. (40 Stat. 556.)

This section, and the five sections next following, were an act entitled "An act authorizing the President to co-ordinate or consolidate executive bureaus, agencies, and offices, and for other purposes, in the interest of economy and the more efficient concentration of the government," cited above.

§ 283b. (Act May 20, 1918, c. 78, § 2.) Transfer of personnel or duties.

In carrying out the purposes of this Act the President is authorized to utilize, coordinate, or consolidate any executive or administrative commissions, bureaus, agencies, offices, or officers now existing by law, to transfer any duties or powers from one existing department, commission, bureau, agency, office, or officer to another, to transfer the personnel thereof or any part of it either by detail or assignment, together with the whole or any part of the records and public property belonging thereto. (40 Stat. 556.)

See note to § 283a, ante.

§ 283c. (Act May 20, 1918, c. 78, § 3.) Executive agency for control of aeroplanes.

The President is further authorized to establish an executive agency which may exercise such jurisdiction and control over the production of aeroplanes, aeroplane engines, and aircraft equipment as in his judgment may be advantageous; and, further, to transfer to such agency, for its use, all or any moneys heretofore appropriated for the production of aeroplanes, aeroplane engines, and aircraft equipment. (40 Stat. 557.)

See note to § 283a, ante.

§ 283d. (Act May 20, 1918, c. 78, § 4.) Expenditure of appropriations.

For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this Act, any moneys heretofore and hereafter appropriated for the use of any executive department, commission, bureau, agency, office, or officer shall be expended only for the purposes for which it was appropriated under the direction of such other agency as may be directed by the President hereunder to perform and execute said function. (40 Stat. 557.)

See note to § 283a, ante.

§ 283e. (Act May 20, 1918, c. 78, § 5.) Abolition of bureaus.

Should the President, in redistributing the functions among the executive agencies as provided in this Act, conclude that any bureau should be abolished and it or their duties and functions conferred upon some other department or bureau or eliminated entirely, he shall report his conclusions to Congress with such recommendations as he may deem proper. (40 Stat. 557.)

See note to § 283a, ante.

§ 283f. (Act May 20, 1918, c. 78, § 6.) Acts suspended; termination of act.

All laws or parts of laws conflicting with the provisions of this Act are to the extent of such conflict suspended while this Act is in force.

Upon the termination of this Act all executive or administrative agencies, departments, commissions, bureaus, offices, or officers shall exercise the same functions, duties, and powers as heretofore or as hereafter by law may be provided, any authorization of the President under this Act to the contrary notwithstanding. (40 Stat. 557.)

See note to § 283a, ante.

TITLE V—THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE

Sec.
294. Assistant Solicitors.
295. Law clerk to edit laws.
297. Salaries of Secretary, Assistant Secretaries, and other officers.
300. Management of foreign affairs.
301. Custody of seals and property.

§ 294. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Assistant Solicitors.

Department of State. * * Assistant solicitors of the department, to be appointed by the Secretary—five at $3,000 each, two at $2,500 each. * * (40 Stat. 1224.)

This section is a part of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It supersedes similar provisions in the prior legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation acts.

§ 295. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Law clerk to edit laws.

Department of State. * * Law clerk and assistant, to be selected by the Secretary to edit the laws of Congress and perform such other duties as may be required of them, at $2,500 and $1,500, respectively. * * (40 Stat. 1224.)

This section is a part of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It supersedes similar provisions in the prior legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation acts.

§ 297. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Salaries of Secretary, Assistant Secretaries, and other officers.

Department of State. For Secretary of State, $12,000; Under Secretary of State, to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, $7,500; Assistant Secretary, $5,000; Second and Third Assistant Secretaries, at $4,500 each; director of the consular service, $4,500; officers to aid in important drafting work—five at $4,500 each, ten at $3,500 each, fourteen at $3,000 each, seventeen at $2,500 each, to be appointed by the Secretary, any one of whom may be employed as chief of division of far eastern, Latin-American, near eastern, or European affairs, or upon other work in connection with foreign relations; * * chief clerk who shall sign such official papers and documents as the Secretary may direct, $3,000; law clerks—one $2,500, two at $2,250 each, three at $2,000 each; * * chiefs of bureaus—two at $2,250 each, five at $2,100 each; two translators, at $2,100 each; additional to chief of Bureau of Accounts as disbursing clerk, $200; private secretary to the Secretary, $2,500; private secretary to the Under Secretary, $2,000; clerk to the Secretary, $1,800. * * (40 Stat. 1224.)

This section is a part of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It supersedes similar provisions in the prior legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation acts.

§ 300. (R. S. § 202.) Management of foreign affairs.

Cited without definite application,
Whelpley v. Grosvold (C. C. A.) 249 F. 812.

§ 301. (R. S. § 203.) Custody of seals and property.

Since this section, and §§ 319 and 617, respectively, make the Secretary of State, Secretary of War, and Secretary of Navy, in express terms, custodians of property of respective departments, they, as mere custodians, cannot without consent of Congress, reassign quarters in the State, War, and Navy Building. 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 70.

TITLE VI—THE DEPARTMENT OF WAR

CHAPTER A—THE DEPARTMENT AND THE SECRETARY OF WAR

Sec.
312. Assistant Secretaries of War.
314. Subordinate officers.
315a. Chief clerk authorized to sign papers.
317. Assignment of clerks and employés to duty in War Department.
319. Custody of the departmental records and property.
322. Transportation of troops.
334a. Reports of Secretaries of War, Treasury, and Navy.
335a. Claims for damages to private property from military operations; duties of Auditor for War Department.
335b. Same; military operations; presentation and approval.
335c. Same; laws governing.
335d. Same; appropriation available for.
335e. Same; effect of act.

§ 312. (Act March 5, 1890, c. 26, as amended, Act April 6, 1918, c. 46.) Assistant Secretaries of War.

There shall be in the Department of War an Assistant Secretary, a Second Assistant Secretary, and a Third Assistant Secretary, each of whom shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The Assistant Secretary shall be entitled to a salary of $5,000 per annum, payable monthly, and the Second Assistant Secretary and Third Assistant Secretary shall each be entitled to a salary of $4,500 per annum, payable monthly, and shall perform such duties in the Department of War as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or as may be required by law. (26 Stat. 17. 40 Stat. 515.)

The legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213, fixes the salary of the Assistant Secretary at $5,000; of the Second Assistant Secretary at $4,500; and makes no appropriation for the "Third Assistant Secretary."

§ 314. (R. S. § 215, as amended, Act Feb. 27, 1877, c. 69, § 1.) Subordinate officers.

The urgent deficiency appropriation act for the year 1918, and prior years, on account of war expenses, Act March 28, 1918, c. 28, § 1, 40 Stat. 459, provides for the temporary employment of such additional force of clerks, etc., as may be necessary to the prompt dispatch of official business in the War Department and its bureaus, requires the Secretary of War to submit to Congress a statement showing the number and designation of the persons employed and the annual rate of compensation paid to each, and provides that no more than thirty persons shall be employed at a rate of compensation in excess of $1,800 per annum each and not exceeding $2,400 per annum each.

The legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213, makes the following provision for subordinate officers in the Department: "Private secretary to the Secretary, $2,500; clerk to the Secretary, $2,000; stenographer to the Secretary, $2,000; clerk to the Assistant Secretary, $2,400; assistant chief clerk, $2,400; disbursing clerk, $2,750; appointment clerk, $2,250; four chiefs of divisions, at $2,000 each; superintendent of buildings outside of State, War, and Navy Department Building, in addition to compensation as chief of division, $500; chief telegrapher, $1,800," and certain enumerated clerks.

§ 315a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Chief clerk authorized to sign papers.

Office of the Secretary: * * Assistant and chief clerk, who shall sign such official papers and documents as the Secretary may direct, $4,000. * * (40 Stat. 1225.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. Prior legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation acts have contained a similar provision.

§ 317. (Act July 9, 1918, c. 143.) Assignment of clerks and employés to duty in War Department.

No clerk, messenger, or laborer at headquarters of tactical divisions, military departments, brigades, service schools, and office of the Chief of Staff shall be assigned to duty in any bureau of the War Department. (40 Stat. 853.)

This was a provision of the army appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

§ 319. (R. S. § 217.) Custody of the departmental records and property.

Reassignment of quarters.—Since §§ 301, 617, and this section respectively make the Secretary of State, Secretary of War, and Secretary of Navy, in express terms, custodians of property of respective departments, they, as mere custodians, cannot, without consent of Congress, reassign quarters in the State, War, and Navy Building. 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 70.

§ 322. (R. S. § 220.) Transportation of troops.

Rates and charges.—After plaintiff accepts transportation requests calling for a given rate, the furnishing of the transportation, and the rendering of bills at that rate, it is too late to raise any question under a theory that the rate was only available when payment was made in cash. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. U. S., 52 Ct. Cl. 259.

§ 334a. (Act June 15, 1917, c. 29, § 5.) Reports of Secretaries of War, Treasury, and Navy.

In addition to the reports now required by law, the Secretaries of the Treasury, War, and Navy shall each on the first Monday in December, nineteen hundred and seventeen, and annually thereafter, transmit to the Congress a detailed statement of all expenditures under this Act. (40 Stat. 217.)

This was section 5 of the urgent deficiencies appropriation act for the military and naval establishments on account of war expenses for the fiscal year 1917, cited above.

§ 335a. (Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 79, § 1.) Claims for damages to private property from military operations; duties of Auditor for War Department.

See post, § 6404a, and note thereunder.

§ 335b. (Act April 18, 1918, c. 57, § 1.) Same; military operations; presentation and approval.

Claims of inhabitants of France or of any other European country not an enemy or ally of an enemy for damages caused by American military forces may be presented to any officer designated by the President, and when approved by such an officer shall be paid under regulations made by the Secretary of War. (40 Stat. 532.)

This section, and the three sections next following, were an act entitled "An act to give indemnity for damages caused by American forces abroad," cited above.

§ 335c. (Act April 18, 1918, c. 57, § 2.) Same; laws governing.

Claims under this statute shall not be approved unless they would be payable according to the law or practice governing the military forces of the country in which they occur. (40 Stat. 532.)

See note to § 335b, ante.

§ 335d. (Act April 18, 1918, c. 57, § 3.) Same; appropriation available for.

Hereafter appropriations for the incidental expenses of the Quartermaster Corps shall be available for paying the claims herein described. (40 Stat. 532.)

See note to § 335b, ante.

§ 335e. (Act April 18, 1918, c. 57, § 4.) Same; effect of act.

This statute does not supersede other modes of indemnity now in existence and does not diminish responsibility of any member of the military forces to the person injured or to the United States. (40 Stat. 532.)

See note to § 335b, ante.

TITLE VII—THE DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

Chap.		Sec.
1.	The Department	351a
2.	The Secretary of the Treasury	382
3.	The Comptroller	401
4.	The Auditors	416
5.	The Treasurer	472
6.	The Register	485
8.	The Commissioner of Internal Revenue	490
9.	The Comptroller of the Currency	495
11.	The Bureau of the Mint	508
11A.	The Bureau of Engraving and Printing	510
11B.	The Bureau of War Risk Insurance	514a

CHAPTER ONE—THE DEPARTMENT

Sec.
351a. Additional Assistant Secretaries.
352. Organization of Department, offices, and salaries.
352a. Positions in office of Auditor for Post Office Department.
353. Chief clerk to be chief executive officer of Department.
356. Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants.
357. Supervising Architect.
368. Public accounts to be settled.
378a. Enforcement of laws relating to Treasury Department; employment of persons paid from certain appropriations for.

§ 351a. (Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 79, § 1.) Additional Assistant Secretaries.

For two additional Assistant Secretaries of the Treasury, to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, who are authorized at the rate of $5,000 per annum each from the date of this Act to the close of the present war and six months thereafter. * * (40 Stat. 347.)

This was a provision of the urgent deficiency appropriation act for the fiscal year 1918, cited above.

§ 352. (Act March 3, 1875, c. 130, § 2). Organization of Department, offices, and salaries.

For current appropriations for officers and employés of the Treasury Department differing somewhat from the provisions of this section, see Act July 3, 1918, c. 130, § 1, 40 Stat. 757; Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213. The latter act provides for an assistant to the Secretary, at $5,000, for three Assistant Secretaries, at $5,000 each, and for two additional Assistant Secretaries, at $5,000 each. It also provides for a government actuary, under the control of the Treasury, at $4,000.

§ 352a. (Act March 3, 1917, c. 163, § 1.) Positions in office of Auditor for Post Office Department.

Hereafter the Secretary of the Treasury may diminish from time to time, as vacancies occur by death, resignation, or otherwise, the number of positions of the several grades below the grade of chief of division in the Office of the Auditor for the Post Office Department and use the unexpended balances of the appropriations for the positions so diminished as a fund to pay the compensation, as fixed by the Secretary of the Treasury, of such number of employees as may be necessary to audit the accounts and vouchers of the Postal Service. (39 Stat. 1086.)

This was a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1918, cited above.

§ 353. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Chief clerk to be chief executive officer of Department.

Office of chief clerk and superintendent: Chief clerk, including $300 as superintendent of Treasury Building, who shall be the chief executive officer of the department and who may be designated by the Secretary of the Treasury to sign official papers and documents during the temporary absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretaries of the department, $4,000. * * (40 Stat. 1225.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in prior legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation acts.

§ 356. (Act July 31, 1894, c. 174, § 10.) Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants.

What are "public moneys."—Moneys received by the Federal Reserve Board, under section 10 of the Federal Reserve Act of December 23, 1913 (38 Stat. 261), are "public moneys" within the meaning of the auditing statutes, and consequently are subject to audit by one of the auditors of the Treasury Department under § 420, or this section. 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 308.

Books as evidence.—Books of record prepared by treasury officials held admissible in action by United States to recover dividends on corporate stock owned by it, to show that payment of such dividends had not been made. Chesapeake & Delaware Canal Co. v. U. S., 240 F. 903, 153 C. C. A. 589.

§ 357. (Act Aug. 23, 1912, c. 350, § 1.) Supervising Architect.

For current appropriations for officers and employés in the office of the Supervising Architect, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 368. (R. S. § 236.) Public accounts to be settled.

Cited without definite application, Illinois Surety Co. v. United States, to Use of Peeler, 36 S. Ct. 321, 60 L. Ed. 609.

§ 378a. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 113, § 1.) Enforcement of laws relating to Treasury Department; employment of persons paid from certain appropriations for.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to use for, and in connection with, the enforcement of the laws relating to the Treasury Department and the several branches of the public service under its control, not exceeding at any one time four persons paid from the appropriation for the collection of customs, four persons paid from the appropriation for salaries and expenses of internal-revenue agents or from the appropriation for the foregoing purpose, and four persons paid from the appropriation for suppressing counterfeiting and other crimes, but not exceeding six persons so detailed shall be employed at any one time hereunder: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to deprive the Secretary of the Treasury from making any detail now otherwise authorized by existing law. (40 Stat. 642.)

This was a provision of the sundry civil appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

CHAPTER TWO—THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY

§ 382. (R. S. § 249.) Collection of duties.

Cited without definite application, Vitelli & Son v. U. S., 7 Ct. Cust. App. 243.

§ 384. (R. S. § 251.) Rules, regulations, and forms.

Cited without definite application, Vitelli & Son v. U. S., 7 Ct. Cust. App. 243.

§ 386. (R. S. § 257.) Reports of Secretary.

The Secretaries of the Treasury, War, and Navy are required to transmit annually to Congress detailed statements of all expenditures under the urgent deficiencies act for the military and naval establishments on account of war expenses for the fiscal year 1917, by section 5 thereof, ante, § 334a.

§ 390. (Act July 31, 1894, c. 174, § 12, as amended, Act May 28, 1896, c. 252, § 4.) Reports of officers delinquent.

Cited without definite application, Illinois Surety Co. v. United States, to Use of Peeler, 36 S. Ct. 321, 60 L. Ed. 609.

CHAPTER THREE—THE COMPTROLLER

Sec.
401. Comptroller.
404. Assistant Comptroller; chief clerk.
406. Power of Comptroller to direct settlement of accounts.
410. Powers as to inspection of accounts in District of Columbia.
414a. Chief clerk; countersigning warrants.
415a. Chief of examining division.

§ 401. (R. S. § 268.) Comptroller.

For current appropriation for Comptroller and Assistant Comptroller of the Treasury, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 404. (Act July 31, 1894, c. 174, § 4.) Assistant Comptroller; chief clerk.

The appointment of an assistant comptroller, for the period of the war with Germany, for the performance of certain duties relating to the audit in other countries of the accounts of the military establishment, is authorized by a provision of Act Sept. 24, 1917, c. 56, § 12, 40 Stat. 293, post, § 420a.

§ 406. (R. S. § 271, as amended, Act July 31, 1894, c. 174, § 6.) Powers of Comptroller to direct settlement of accounts.

Cited without definite application, Illinois Surety Co. v. United States, to Use of Peeler, 36 S. Ct. 321, 60 L. Ed. 609.

§ 410. (Act Feb. 19, 1897, c. 265, § 1.) Powers as to inspection of accounts in District of Columbia.

See 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 308.

§ 414a. (Act July 3, 1918, c. 130, § 1.) Chief clerk; countersigning warrants.

The Chief Clerk in the office of Comptroller of the Treasury hereafter shall have the power, in the name of the comptroller, to countersign all classes of warrants. (40 Stat. 773.)

This was a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above.

§ 415a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Chief of examining division.

The comptroller may designate a national-bank examiner to act as chief of the examining division in his office. (40 Stat. 1230.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above.

CHAPTER FOUR—THE AUDITORS

Sec.
416. Auditors.
418. Position of deputy auditor abolished.
420. Auditors; settlement of accounts.
420a. Place of audit of accounts of military establishment.
420b. Same; date of determination of war.
425. Conclusiveness of balances certified; revision of accounts.
437. Regulations.
457. Settlement of expenses of intercourse with foreign nations.

§ 416. (R. S. § 276.) Auditors.

For current appropriations for the Auditors, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 418. (Act March 4, 1911, c. 237, § 1.) Position of deputy auditor abolished.

The appointment of an assistant auditor, for the period of the war with Germany, for the performance of certain duties relating to the audit in other countries of the accounts of the military establishment, by a provision of Act Sept. 24, 1917, c. 56, § 12, 40 Stat. 293, post, § 420a.

§ 420. (Act July 31, 1894, c. 174, § 7.) Auditors; settlement of accounts.

The Auditor for the War Department is required to settle certain claims for damages to and loss of private property incident to army operations, by a provision of Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 79, § 1, 40 Stat. 345, post, § 6404a.

Notes of Decisions

What are "public moneys."—Moneys received by the Federal Reserve Board, under section 10 of the Federal Reserve Act of December 23, 1913 (38 Stat. 261), are "public moneys" within the meaning of the auditing statutes, and consequently are subject to audit by one of the auditors of the Treasury Department, under this section or § 356. 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 309.

§ 420a. (Act Sept. 24, 1917, c. 56, § 12.) Place of audit of accounts of military establishment.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized during the war, whenever it shall appear that the public interests require that any of the accounts of the Military Establishment be audited at any place other than the seat of Government, to direct the Comptroller of the Treasury and the Auditor for the War Department to exercise, either in person or through assistants, the powers and perform the duties of their offices at any place or places away from the seat of Government in the manner that is or may be required by law at the seat of Government and in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(a) Performance of duties.

When the Secretary of the Treasury shall exercise the authority herein referred to, the powers and duties of the said comptroller and auditor, under and pursuant to the provisions of the Act of July thirty-first, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, and all other laws conferring jurisdiction upon those officers, shall be exercised and performed in the same manner as nearly as practicable and with the same effect away from the seat of Government as they are now exercised and performed and have effect at the seat of Government, and decisions authorized by law to be rendered by the comptroller at the request of disbursing officers may be rendered with the same effect by such assistants as may be authorized by him to perform that duty.

(b) Performance of duties in foreign countries.

When pursuant to this section the said comptroller and auditor shall perform their duties at a place in a foreign country, the balances arising upon the settlement of accounts and claims of the Military Establishment shall be certified by the auditor to the Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants of the Treasury Department as now provided for the certification of balances by said auditor in Washington, and the balances so found due shall be final and conclusive upon all branches of the Government, except that any person whose account has been settled or the commanding officer of the Army abroad, or the comptroller may obtain a revision of such settlement by the comptroller upon application therefor within three months, the decision to be likewise final and conclusive and the differences arising upon such revision to be certified to and stated by the auditor as now provided by law: Provided, That certificates of balances due may be transmitted to and paid by the proper disbursing officer abroad instead of by warrant: Provided further, That any person whose account has been settled, or the Secretary of War, may obtain a reopening and review of any settlement made pursuant to this section upon application to the Comptroller of the Treasury in Washington within one year after the close of the war, and the action of the comptroller thereon shall be final and conclusive in the same manner as herein provided in the case of a balance found due by the auditor.

(c) Preservation of accounts.

The comptroller and auditor shall preserve the accounts, and the vouchers and papers connected therewith, and the files of their offices in the foreign country and transmit them to Washington within six months after the close of the war and at such earlier time as may be directed by the Secretary of the Treasury as to any or all accounts, vouchers, papers, and files.

(d) Assistant comptroller and assistant auditor.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to appoint an assistant comptroller and an assistant auditor and to fix their compensation, and to designate from among the persons to be employed hereunder one or more to act in the absence or disability of such assistant comptroller and assistant auditor. He shall also prescribe the number and maximum compensation to be paid to agents, accountants, clerks, translators, interpreters, and other persons who may be employed in the work under this section by the comptroller and auditor. The assistant comptroller and assistant auditor shall have full power to perform in a foreign country all the duties with reference to the settlement there of the accounts of the Military Establishment that the comptroller and auditor now have at the seat of Government and in foreign countries under the provisions of this section, and shall perform such duties in accordance with the instructions received from and rules and regulations made by the comptroller and auditor. Such persons as are residing in a foreign country when first employed hereunder shall not be required to take an oath of office or be required to be employed pursuant to the laws, rules, and regulations relating to the classified civil service, nor shall they be reimbursed for subsistence expenses at their post of duty or for expenses in traveling to or from the United States.

(e) Examination of books of contracting, purchasing, and disbursing officers.

It shall be the duty of all contracting, purchasing, and disbursing officers to allow any representative of the comptroller or auditor to examine all books, records, and papers in any way connected with the receipt, disbursement, or disposal of public money, and to render such accounts and at such times as may be required by the comptroller. No administrative examination by the War Department shall be required of accounts rendered and settled abroad, and the time within which these accounts shall be rendered by disbursing officers shall be prescribed by the comptroller, who shall have power to waive any delinquency as to time or form in the rendition of these accounts. All contracts connected with accounts to be settled by the auditor abroad shall be filed in his office there.

(f) Employés restored to former positions.

Any person appointed or employed under the provisions of this section who at the time is in the service of the United States shall, upon termination of his services hereunder, be restored to the position held by him at the time of such employment. No provision of existing law shall be construed to prevent the payment of money appropriated for the salary of any Government officer or employee at the seat of Government who may be detailed to perform duty under this section outside the District of Columbia, and such details are hereby authorized.

(g) Appropriation for payment of expenses.

For the payment of the expenses in carrying into effect this section, including traveling expenses, per diem of $4 in lieu of subsistence for officers and employees absent from Washington, rent, cablegrams and telegrams, printing, law books, books of reference, periodicals, stationery, office equipment and exchange thereof, supplies, and all other necessary expenses, there is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and eighteen, the sum of $300,000, of which not exceeding $25,000 may be expended at Washington for the purpose of this section, but no officer or employee shall receive for duty in Washington any compensation other than his regular salary.

(h) Special disbursing agents of appropriation.

The Secretary of the Treasury may designate not more than two persons employed hereunder to act as special disbursing agents of the appropriation herein, to serve under the direction of the comptroller, and their accounts shall be rendered to and settled by the accounting officers of the Treasury in Washington. All persons employed under this section shall perform such additional duties as the Secretary of the Treasury may direct.

(i) Authority to administer oaths to American citizens.

The comptroller and the auditor, and such persons as may be authorized in writing by either of them, may administer oaths to American citizens in respect to any matter within the jurisdiction of either of said officers and certify the official character, when known, of any foreign officer whose jurat or certificate may be necessary on any paper to be filed with them.

(j) Sale of Army stores to employés.

Persons engaged in work abroad under the provisions of this section may purchase from Army stores for cash and at cost price for their own use such articles or stores as may be sold to officers and enlisted men.

(k) Termination of effective force of section.

The authority granted under this section shall terminate six months after the close of the war or at such earlier date as the Secretary of the Treasury may direct, and it shall be the duty of the comptroller and auditor to make such reports as the Secretary of the Treasury may require of the expenditures made and work done pursuant to this section, and such reports shall be transmitted to the Congress at such time as he may decide to be compatible with the public interest.

(l) Limit on compensation of officers.

No officers, employees, or agents appointed or employed under this section shall receive more salary or compensation than like officers, employees, or agents of the Government now receive. (40 Stat. 293.)

This section, and the section next following, were a part of an act entitled "An act to authorize an additional issue of bonds to meet expenditures for the national security and defense, and, for the purpose of assisting in the prosecution of the war, to extend additional credit to foreign governments, and for other purposes," cited above. The other sections of the act relate to the designation of depositories of public moneys in foreign countries, and the issue of bonds, etc., by the United States, and are set forth post, §§ 6612a, 6829kk–6829pp, 6831.

§ 420b. (Act Sept. 24, 1917, c. 56, § 13.) Same; date of termination of war.

For the purposes of this Act the date of the termination of the war between the United States and the Imperial German Government shall be fixed by proclamation of the President of the United States. (40 Stat. 295.)

See note to § 420a, ante.

§ 425. (Act July 31, 1894, c. 174, § 8.) Conclusiveness of balances certified; revision of accounts.

Decisions of Comptroller on questions involving payments to be made.—The provision authorizing disbursing officers to submit questions involving payments to be made by them to the Comptroller of the Treasury held not to apply to the salary of an officer fixed by law, and for the payment of which an appropriation has been made. Smith v. Jackson, 241 F. 747, 154 C. C. A. 449.

Cited without definite application, Illinois Surety Co. v. United States, to Use of Peeler, 36 S. Ct. 321, 60 L. Ed. 609.

§ 437. (Act July 31, 1894, c. 174, § 22.) Regulations.

Conflict with statute.—Army regulation, in attempted compliance with this section, requiring presentation of claims of officers for lost property through War Department, cannot amend or affect requirement of Comp. St. 1916, § 6403(4), that the claim be presented within two years; and presentation to the War Department within two years does not save the claim. Newcomber v. U. S., 51 Ct. Cl. 408.

§ 457. (R. S. § 291.) Settlement of expenses of intercourse with foreign nations.

The diplomatic and consular service appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, Act March 4, 1919, c. 123, 40 Stat. 1325, contains the following: "To enable the President to meet unforeseen emergencies arising in the Diplomatic and Consular Service and to extend the commercial and other interests of the United States and to meet the necessary expenses attendant upon the execution of the neutrality Act, to be expended pursuant to the requirement of section 291 of the Revised Statutes, $700,000, together with the unexpended balance of the appropriation made for this object for the fiscal year 1919, which is hereby reappropriated and made available for this purpose."

CHAPTER FIVE—THE TREASURER

§ 472. (R. S. § 301.) Treasurer.

For current appropriation for the Treasurer, Assistant Treasurer, and clerks and employés in the office of the Treasurer, see Act July 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

CHAPTER SIX—THE REGISTER

§ 485. (R. S. § 312.) Register.

For current appropriation for the Register of the Treasury, Assistant Register, etc., see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 487. (R. S. § 314.) Assistant Register.

Salary of Assistant Register fixed at $2,500 by appropriation act of March 1, 1919, ch. 86, 40 Stat. 1213.

CHAPTER EIGHT—THE COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE

Sec.
490. Commissioner of Internal Revenue.
490a. Commissioner; salary.
493. Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue.
493a. Deputy Commissioners and assistant to Commissioner; salaries.
494a. Deputy Commissioner; designation to act as Commissioner.

§ 490. (R. S. § 319.) Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The salary of the Commissioner is fixed at $10,000, by the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act of March 1, 1919, ch. 86, 40 Stat. 1213. See, also, § 490a, post.

§ 490a. (Act Feb. 24, 1919, c. 18, § 1300.) Commissioner; salary.

Hereafter the salary of the Commissioner shall be $10,000 a year. The difference between the amount appropriated under existing law and the salary herein established shall, for the period between the passage of this Act and July 1, 1919, be paid out of the appropriations for collecting internal revenue. (40 Stat. 1140.)

This section is § 1300 of the Revenue Act of 1918 (Title XIII—General Administrative Provisions), cited above.

The term "Commissioner" means the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. See § 6371¼a, post.

For current appropriation for the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Assistant Commissioner, deputy commissioners, etc., see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 493. (R. S. § 322.) Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The current appropriation act of March 1, 1919, ch. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213, provides for five deputy commissioners, with salary of $5,000 each.

§ 493a. (Act Feb. 24, 1919, c. 18, § 1301(a).) Deputy Commissioners and assistant to Commissioner; salaries.

(a) Hereafter there may be employed in the Bureau of Internal Revenue, in lieu of the deputy commissioners whose salaries are now fixed by law, five deputy commissioners and an assistant to the Commissioner, who shall each receive a salary of $5,000 a year, payable monthly. The assistant to the Commissioner may be authorized by the Commissioner to perform any duties which the deputy commissioners may perform under existing law. (40 Stat. 1140.)

This section is paragraph (a) of § 1301 of the Revenue Act of 1918 (Title XIII—General Administrative Provisions), cited above.

§ 494a. (Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 79, § 1.) Deputy Commissioner; designation to act as Commissioner.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue is authorized to assign to deputy commissioners such duties as he may prescribe, and the Secretary of the Treasury may designate any one of them to act as Commissioner of Internal Revenue during the commissioner's absence. (40 Stat. 348.)

This was a provision of the urgent deficiency appropriation act for the fiscal year 1918, cited above.

CHAPTER NINE—THE COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY

§ 495. (R. S. § 324, as amended, Act Dec. 23, 1913, c. 6, § 10.) Bureau of Comptroller of Currency.

What are "public moneys."—Moneys received by the Federal Reserve Board, under section 10 of the Federal Reserve Act of December 23, 1913 (38 Stat. 261), are "public moneys" within the meaning of the auditing statutes, and consequently are subject to audit by one of the auditors of the Treasury Department under § 420 or § 356. 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 308.

§ 496. (R. S. § 325.) Comptroller of Currency; salary.

For current appropriation for the Comptroller of the Currency, deputy comptrollers, etc., see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 498. (R. S. § 327.) Deputy Comptroller.

Effect of certificates in general.—All certificates from the office of the Comptroller of the Currency of the United States, authenticated by seal, are admissible. Weitzel v. Brown, 112 N. E. 945, 224 Mass. 190.

Deputy acting as comptroller.—Under this section, order of deputy comptroller of currency as acting comptroller will, in absence of showing to contrary, be presumed lawful. Simmons & Kell v. Freeman (Ga.) 90 S. E. 965.

Certificate, signed by acting comptroller of currency levying assessment against stockholders in insolvent national bank, was admissible in evidence. Id.

Certificate signed by deputy comptroller of currency as acting comptroller in accordance with this section is a sufficient certificate by Comptroller of Currency. Id.

Order of acting comptroller of currency with reference to insolvency of national bank is admissible in evidence, in action against stockholders to collect assessment, despite objections that acting comptroller had no authority to order appointment of receiver and that no appointment of such comptroller was shown. Id.

§ 500. (R. S. § 328.) Clerks.

See current appropriation act of March 1, 1919, ch. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213, enumerating and fixing salaries of clerks, etc.

CHAPTER ELEVEN—THE BUREAU OF THE MINT

§ 508. (R. S. § 344.) Salary and expenses of Director.

For current appropriation for Director of the Mint, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

CHAPTER ELEVEN A—THE BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING

§ 510. (Act June 4, 1897, c. 2, § 1.) Powers of and reports by Director.

For current appropriation for the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 513b. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Limitation on expenditure of funds.

Bureau of Engraving and Printing. * * No other fund appropriated by this or any other Act shall be used for services, in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, of the character specified in this paragraph, except in cases of emergency arising after the passage of this Act, and then only on the written approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, and in every such case of emergency a detailed statement of the expenditures on account thereof shall be reported to Congress at the beginning of each regular session. (40 Stat. 1231.)

This section is a provision accompanying an appropriation for the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above.

CHAPTER ELEVEN B—THE BUREAU OF WAR RISK INSURANCE

This chapter originally consisted of Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, and Act Aug. 11, 1916, c. 332. It was amended by Act March 3, 1917, c. 169, § 2, 39 Stat. 1131, Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, 40 Stat. 102, and Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, 40 Stat. 398, to read as set forth here.

ARTICLE I

Sec.
514a. Bureau established; Director; salary; Divisions; commissioners; salaries.
514b. Insurance of American vessels, freight, masters, officers and crews of vessels.
514b½. Insurance of vessels of foreign friendly flags, masters, officers and crews thereof, and freight thereon.
514bb. Reinsurance of vessels.
514c. Form of policy; premiums; salvage.
514cc. Insurance of officers and crews of American vessels.
514ccc. Same; insurance by Bureau; premiums.
514e. Advisory Board; adjusters.
514ee. Services of claim agents or attorneys.
514g. Appropriation for payment of losses.
514h. Appropriation for expenses.
514i. Suspension of operation of act.
514ii. Suspension of act.
514k. Application of §§ 2–7.
514kk. Powers and duties of Director; compensation of claim agents; unlawful charges.
514kkk. Deputies, assistants, actuaries; advisory board.
514kkkk. Subpœnas; information and reports of officials.
514*l*. Annual estimate of appropriations.
514*ll*. Appropriation for expenses; civil service rules.
514*lll*. Military and naval family allowance appropriation.
514*llll*. Military and naval compensation appropriation.
514m. Military and naval insurance appropriation.
514mm. Military and naval pay deposit fund.
514mmm. Evidence of marriage of claimants; definitions.
514mmmm. Payments to minors.
514n. Information by Bureau to persons in military or naval service.
514nn. False statements in claims.
514nnn. Fraudulent acceptance of payments.
514nnn⅛. Fraudulent obtaining or receiving of payments.
514nnn¼. Allotments, allowances, compensation, and insurance not assignable and exempt from claims and taxation.
514nnn½. Effect of discharge from service.
514nnn¾. Citation of act.

ARTICLE II. ALLOTMENTS AND FAMILY ALLOWANCES

Sec.
514nnnn. Application of article.
514o. Allotments; compulsory and voluntary.
514oo. Voluntary allotments.
514oo(1). Voluntary allotments; continuance of payments of.
514ooo. Deposit of unallotted pay to credit of enlisted men.
514oooo. Family allowances; amount; payment.
514p. Same; compulsory allotment prerequisite; when.
514pp. Same; conditions prerequisite to payment to Class B.
514ppp. Same; limitations on amounts payable to Class B.
514pppp. Apportionment of allotments and family allowance between Classes A and B.
514q. Payments of allotments to Treasury Department.
514qq. Investigations as to allowances and allotments.
514qq¼. Pay status of missing enlisted men.
514qq½. Time of taking effect of certain sections.

ARTICLE III. COMPENSATION FOR DEATH OR DISABILITY

514qqq. To whom payable.
514qqqq. Death; amounts; apportionment.
514qqqq½. Time of taking effect of amendment to preceding section.
514r. Disability; amounts.
514rr. Same; disability; examination of persons receiving.
514rrr. [Repealed.]
514rrrr. Review of awards.
514s. Time of death or disability.
514ss. Official record of death.
514sss. Death inflicted as lawful punishment; dismissal or dishonorable discharge.
514ssss. Time of filing claim.
514t. Payment of compensation prior to filing claim.
514tt. [Repealed.]
514ttt. Compensation to persons receiving service or retirement pay; pension laws.
514tttt. Assignment of right of action for injury causing death or disability.

ARTICLE IV. INSURANCE

514u. Amount.
514uu. Application for; time for making.
514uu⅛. Same; time of taking effect of amendments of preceding section.
514uu½. Same; extension of time for.
514uuu. Terms and conditions of contracts; beneficiaries.
514uuu½. Designation of beneficiaries.
514v. Expense of administration and excess of cost; premium rates.
514vv. Form of insurance; conversion.
514vvv. [Stricken.]
514w. Credits to disbursing clerk for payments of insurance installments.

ARTICLE I

§ 514a. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 1, as amended, Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 1, and Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 1.) Bureau established; Director; salary; Divisions; commissioners; salaries.

There is established in the Treasury Department a Bureau to be known as the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, the director of which shall receive a salary at the rate of $5,000 per annum.

That there be in such bureau a Division of Marine and Seamen's Insurance and a Division of Military and Naval Insurance in charge of a commissioner of Marine and Seamen's Insurance and a commissioner of Military and Naval Insurance, respectively, each of whom shall receive a salary of $4,000 per annum. (38 Stat. 711. 40 Stat. 102, 398.)

The amendment of this section by Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 1, 40 Stat. 398, cited above consisted in the addition of the second paragraph.

For current appropriations for the officers and employés of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 514b. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 2, as amended, Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 2.) Insurance of American vessels, freight, masters, officers and crews of vessels.

The said Bureau of War Risk Insurance, subject to the general direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall, as soon as practicable, make provisions for the insurance by the United States of American vessels, their freight and passage moneys, cargoes shipped or to be shipped therein, and personal effects of the masters, officers, and crews thereof against loss or damage by the risks of war, whenever it shall appear to the Secretary that American vessels, shippers or importers in American vessels, or the masters, officers, or crews of such vessels, are unable in any trade to secure adequate war-risk insurance on reasonable terms.

The Bureau of War Risk Insurance, subject to the general direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall, as soon as practicable, make provisions for the insurance by the United States, as further provided in section three a, of masters, officers, and crews of American merchant vessels against loss of life or personal injury by the risks of war, and for compensation during detention following capture by enemies of the United States whenever it shall appear to the Secretary that in any trade the need for such insurance exists. (38 Stat. 711. 40 Stat. 102.)

This section was amended by Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 2, 40 Stat. 102, by adding after the words "shipped or to be shipped therein," the words "and personal effects of the masters, officers, and crews thereof," and, after the words "shippers or importers on American vessels," the words "or the masters, officers, or crews of such vessels," and by adding the last paragraph, so as to make the section read as set forth here.

§ 514b½. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 2b, as added, Act July 11, 1918, c. 145, § 1.) Insurance of vessels of foreign friendly flags, masters, officers and crews thereof, and freight thereon.

When it appears to the Secretary of the Treasury that vessels of foreign friendly flags, or their masters, officers, or crews, or shippers or importers in such vessels, are unable in any trade to secure adequate war-risk insurance on reasonable terms, the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, with the approval of the Secretary, is hereby authorized to make provisions for the insurance by the United States of (1) such vessels of foreign friendly flags, their freight and passage moneys, and personal effects of the masters, officers, and crews thereof against the risks of war when such vessels are chartered or operated by the United States Shipping Board or its agent, or chartered by any person a citizen of the United States, and (2) the cargoes to be shipped in such vessels of foreign friendly flags, whether or not they are so chartered. Such insurance on the vessel, however, is authorized only when the United States Shipping Board or its agent operates the vessel or the charterers are, by the terms of the charter party or contract with the vessel owners, required to assume the war risk or provide insurance protecting the vessel owners against war risk during the term of the charter or hire of the vessel.

The Bureau of War Risk Insurance, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, is also hereby authorized to insure the masters, officers, and crews of vessels operated or chartered as aforesaid against the loss of life or personal injury by the risk of war and for compensation during the detention following capture by enemies of the United States, whenever it appears to the Secretary that the owners, operators, or charterers of such vessels are unable, in any trade, to secure such insurance on reasonable terms. (40 Stat. 897.)

§ 514bb. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 2a, as added, Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 3.) Reinsurance of vessels.

The Bureau of War Risk Insurance, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, is hereby authorized to make provisions for the reinsurance by the United States of vessels of foreign friendly flags or their cargoes, or both, when such vessels or their cargoes are insured by the Government of any country which is at war with an enemy of the United States; and, further, to reinsure with the Governments of any countries which are at war with an enemy of the United States American vessels and their cargoes. (40 Stat. 103.)

This section was added by Act July 12, 1917, c. 26, § 3, 40 Stat. 103, cited above.

§ 514c. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 3, as amended, Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 4.) Form of policy; premiums; salvage.

The Bureau of War Risk Insurance, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, is hereby authorized to adopt and publish forms of war-risk policies and to fix reasonable rates of premium for the policies which it is authorized to issue under this Act, which rates shall be subject to such change to each port and for each class as the Secretary shall find may be required by the circumstances. All proceeds of the aforesaid premium and from salvage which have been or are hereafter received shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, and in addition to all other appropriations made under this Act are hereby permanently appropriated for the purpose of paying losses and return premiums accruing under this Act. (38 Stat. 711. 40 Stat. 103.)

This section originally read as follows: "The Bureau of War Risk Insurance, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, is hereby authorized to adopt and publish a form of war risk policy, and to fix reasonable rates of premium for the insurance of American vessels, their freight and passage moneys and cargoes against war risks, which rates shall be subject to such change, to each port and for each class, as the Secretary shall find may be required by the circumstances. The proceeds of the aforesaid premiums when received shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States." It was amended by Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 4, 40 Stat. 103, cited above, to read as set forth here.

Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 12, 40 Stat. 105, repealed Act Aug. 11, 1916, c. 332, § 2, 39 Stat. 514, which read as follows: "All moneys from premiums and from salvage shall be covered into the Treasury to the credit of the appropriation made for the payment of losses and be available for the purposes thereof." Said Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 12, 40 Stat. 105, also repealed Act March 3, 1917, c. 169, § 3, which read as follows: "All moneys received from premiums and from salvage shall be covered into the Treasury to the credit of the appropriation made for the payment of losses and be available for the purposes thereof."

§ 514cc. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 3a, as added, Act June 12, 1917, c. 26; § 5.) Insurance of officers, and crews of American vessels.

Whenever it shall appear to the Secretary of the Treasury that the effecting of such insurance is desirable in the national interest in the case of vessels engaged in any trade, the owner of every American merchant vessel engaged in such trade shall insure the master, officers, and crew of such vessel against loss of life or personal injury from war risks as well as for compensation during detention by an enemy of the United States following capture.

Such insurance shall be effected either with the Bureau of War Risk Insurance or in insurance companies, and on terms satisfactory to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Such insurance shall provide, and the Bureau of War Risk Insurance is authorized to write policies so providing—

(a) In case of death, permanent disability which prevents the person injured from performing any and every kind of duty pertaining to his occupation, or the loss of both hands, both arms, both feet, both legs, or both eyes, or any two thereof, for the payment of an amount equivalent to one year's earnings, or to twelve times the monthly earnings of the insured, as fixed in the articles for the voyage (hereinafter referred to as the principal sum), but in no case shall such amount be more than $5,000 or less than $1,500;

(b) In case of any of the following losses, for the payment of the percentage of the principal sum indicated in the following tables:

One hand, fifty per centum;
One arm, sixty-five per centum;
One foot, fifty per centum;
One leg, sixty-five per centum;
One eye, forty-five per centum;
Total destruction of hearing, fifty per centum;

That the Bureau of War Risk Insurance may include in its policy undertakings to pay specified percentages of the principal sum for other losses or disabilities; and

(c) In case of detention by an enemy of the United States, following capture, for the payment during the continuance of such detention of compensation at the same rate as the earnings of the insured immediately preceding such detention, to be determined in substantially the same manner as provided in subdivision (a) of this section.

The aggregate payments under this section in respect to any one person shall not exceed the amount of the principal sum.

Payments provided for in this section shall be made only to the master, officer, or member of the crew concerned, except that a payment for loss of life shall be made to the estate of the insured for distribution to his family free from liability of debt, and payment on account of detention by an enemy following capture shall be made to dependents of the person detained, if designated by him.

No claim under this section shall be valid unless made by the master, officer, or member of the crew concerned, or his estate, or a person designated under this section, within two years after the date on which the President suspends the operations of this Act in so far as it authorizes insurance by the United States. (40 Stat. 103.)

This section was added by Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 5, 40 Stat. 103, cited above.

§ 514ccc. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 3b, as added, Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 6.) Same; insurance by Bureau; premiums.

In the event of failure of the owner of any vessel to effect insurance of the master, officers, and crew of such vessel prior to sailing, in accordance with section three a of this Act, the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to effect such insurance with the Bureau of War Risk Insurance at the expense of the owner of such vessel, and the latter shall be liable for such expense and, in addition, to a penalty of not exceeding $1,000. The amount of such premium, with interest and of the penalty and of all costs, shall be a lien on the vessel. (40 Stat. 104.)

This section was added by Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 6, 40 Stat. 104, cited above.

§ 514e. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 5, as amended, Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 7, and Act July 11, 1918, c. 145, § 2.) Advisory Board; adjusters.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to establish an advisory board, to consist of three members skilled in the practices of war-risk insurance, for the purpose of assisting the Bureau of War Risk Insurance in fixing rates of premium and in adjustment of claims for losses, and generally in carrying out the purposes of this Act; the compensation of the members of said board to be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, but not to exceed $20 a day each while actually employed. He is likewise authorized to appoint two persons skilled in the practice of accident insurance for the purpose of assisting the Bureau of War Risk Insurance in the adjustment of claims for death, personal injury, or detention; the compensation of persons so appointed to be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, but not to exceed $20 a day each while actually employed. In the event of disagreement as to the claim for losses, or amount thereof, between the said bureau and the parties to such contract of insurance, an action on the claim may be brought against the United States in the district court of the United States, sitting in admiralty, in the district in which the claimant or his agents may reside. The Secretary of the Treasury is, in his judgment, authorized to compromise the claim either before or after the institution of an action therein. (38 Stat. 711, 40 Stat. 104, 898.)

This section was amended by Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 7, 40 Stat. 105, cited above, by reducing the per diem of the members of the advisory board from 25 to 20 dollars per day, and by adding the sentence, which commences with the words, "He is likewise authorized." The amendment of July 11, 1918, consisted in the addition of the last sentence.

§ 514ee. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 5a, as added, Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 8.) Services of claim agents or attorneys.

No claim agent or attorney shall be entitled to receive any compensation whatever for services in the collection of claims against the Bureau of War Risk Insurance for death, personal injury, or detention, except when proceedings are taken in accordance with section five in a district court of the United States, in which case the judge shall, as a part of his determination and order, settle and determine the amount of compensation not to exceed ten per centum of amount recovered, to be paid by the claimant on behalf of whom such proceedings are instituted to his legal adviser or advisers, and it shall be unlawful for any lawyer or other person acting in that behalf to ask for, contract for, or receive any larger sum than the amount so fixed. (40 Stat. 104.)

This section was added by Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 8, 40 Stat. 104, cited above.

§ 514g. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 7, as amended, Act March 3, 1917, c. 169, § 2, and Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 9.) Appropriation for payment of losses.

For the purpose of paying losses and return premiums accruing under the provisions of this Act there is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $50,000,000. (38 Stat. 712. 39 Stat. 1131. 40 Stat. 105.)

This section was amended by Act March 3, 1917, c. 169, § 2, 39 Stat. 1131, cited above, by increasing the appropriation from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000. It was further amended by Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 9, 40 Stat. 105, also cited above, by increasing the appropriation to $50,000,000. Said first amendatory provision, Act March 3, 1917, c. 169, § 2, 39 Stat. 1131, was repealed by Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 12, 40 Stat. 105.

§ 514h. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 8, as amended, Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 10.) Appropriation for expenses.

There is hereby appropriated, for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the establishment and maintenance of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, including the payment of salaries herein authorized and other personal services, and for the purchase of necessary books of reference, periodicals, etc., that may be paid for in advance out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $250,000. (38 Stat. 712. 40 Stat. 105.)

This section was amended by Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 10, 40 Stat. 105, cited above, by increasing the appropriation from $100,000 to $250,000, by striking out the words "in the District of Columbia," after the words "and other personal services," and by adding, after the words "and other personal services" the words "and for the purchase of necessary books of reference. periodicals, etc., that may be paid for in advance," so as to make the section read as set forth here.

§ 514i. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 9, as amended, Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 11, and Act July 11, 1918, c. 145, § 3.) Suspension of operation of act.

The President is authorized whenever in his judgment the necessity of further war insurance by the United States shall have ceased to exist to suspend the operation of this Act, in so far as the Division of Marine and Seamen's Insurance is concerned, which suspension shall be made in any event within six months after the end of the war, but shall not affect any insurance outstanding at the time or any claims pending adjustment. For the purpose of the final adjustment of any such outstanding insurance or claims, the Division of Marine and Seamen's Insurance may, in the discretion of the President, be continued in existence for a period not exceeding three years after such suspension.

These words "end of the war" as used herein shall be deemed to mean the date of proclamation of exchange of ratification of the treaty of peace, unless the President shall, by proclamation, declare a prior date, in which case the date so proclaimed shall be deemed to be the "end of the war" within the meaning of this Act. (38 Stat. 712. 40 Stat. 105, 898.)

This section, as originally enacted, provided for the suspension of the operation of the act at any time within two years after its passage, and provided for the continuance in existence of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance for a further period of not exceeding one year. Act Aug. 11, 1916, c. 332, § 1, 39 Stat. 514, provided that said Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 9, 38 Stat. 712, should be amended so as to require the suspension of the operations of the act within three years from the date said act was approved. Said act Aug. 11, 1916, c. 332, § 1, 39 Stat. 514, was amended by Act March 3, 1917, c. 169, § 1, so as to read as follows: "That section nine of an Act establishing a Bureau of War-Risk Insurance, approved September second, nineteen hundred and fourteen, as amended by the Act of August eleventh, nineteen hundred and sixteen, be, and is hereby, amended so as to require the suspension of the operations of the Act within four years from the date said Act of September second, nineteen hundred and fourteen, was approved." Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 11, 40 Stat. 105, cited above, amended this section so as to make it read as follows: "The President is authorized whenever in his judgment the necessity of further war insurance by the United States shall have ceased to exist to suspend the operation of the Act, in so far as it authorizes insurance by the United States against loss or damage by risks of war, which suspension shall be made, in any event, within four years after the passage of this Act, but shall not affect any insurance outstanding at the time or any claims pending adjustment. For the purpose of the final adjustment of any such outstanding insurance or claims, the Bureau of War Risk Insurance may, in the discretion of the President, be continued in existence a further period not exceeding three years." Both of the first two amendatory provisions, Act Aug. 11, 1916, c. 332, § 1, 39 Stat. 514, and Act March 3, 1917, c. 169, § 1, were repealed by Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 12, 40 Stat. 105.

§ 514ii. (Act Aug. 11, 1916, c. 332, § 1.) Suspension of act.

This section was repealed by Act June 12, 1917, c. 26, § 12, 40 Stat. 105.

§ 514k. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 12, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Application of §§ 2–7.

Sections two to seven, inclusive, and section nine, shall be construed to refer only to the Division of Marine and Seamen's Insurance. (40 Stat. 398.)

This section, and the forty-five sections next following were added by Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, 40 Stat. 398.

§ 514kk. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 13, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and amended Act May 20, 1918, c. 77, § 1.) Powers and duties of Director; compensation of claim agents; unlawful charges.

The director, subject to the general direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall administer, execute, and enforce the provisions of this Act, and for that purpose have full power and authority to make rules and regulations not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, necessary or appropriate to carry out its purposes, and shall decide all questions arising under the Act, except as otherwise provided in section five. Wherever under any provision or provisions of the Act regulations are directed or authorized to be made, such regulations, unless the context otherwise requires, shall or may be made by the director, subject to the general direction of the Secretary of the Treasury. The director shall adopt reasonable and proper rules to govern the procedure of the divisions and to regulate and provide for the nature and extent of the proofs and evidence and the method of taking and furnishing the same in order to establish the right to benefits of allowance, allotment, compensation, or insurance provided for in this Act, the forms of application of those claiming to be entitled to such benefits, the methods of making investigations and medical examinations, and the manner and form of adjudications and awards: Provided, however, That payment to any attorney or agent for such assistance as may be required in the preparation and execution of the necessary papers shall not exceed $3 in any one case: And provided further, That no claim agent or attorney shall be recognized in the presentation or adjudication of claims under articles two, three, and four, except that in the event of disagreement as to a claim under the contract of insurance between the bureau and any beneficiary or beneficiaries thereunder an action on the claim may be brought against the United States in the district court of the United States in and for the district in which such beneficiaries or any one of them resides, and that whenever judgment shall be rendered in an action brought pursuant to this provision the court, as part of its judgment, shall determine and allow such reasonable attorney's fees, not to exceed five per centum of the amount recovered, to be paid by the claimant in behalf of whom such proceedings were instituted to his attorney, said fee to be paid out of the payments to be made to the beneficiary under the judgment rendered at a rate not exceeding one-tenth of each of such payments until paid.

Any person who shall, directly or indirectly, solicit, contract for, charge, or receive, or who shall attempt to solicit, contract for, charge, or receive any fee or compensation, except as herein provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and for each and every offense shall be punishable by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment at hard labor for not more than two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment. (40 Stat. 399, 555.)

§ 514kkk. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 14, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Deputies, assistants, actuaries; advisory board.

The bureau and its divisions shall have such deputies, assistants, actuaries, clerks, and other employees as may be from time to time provided by Congress. The bureau shall, by arrangement with the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy, respectively, make use of the services of surgeons in the Army and Navy. The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to establish an advisory board consisting of three members skilled in the practice of insurance against death or disability for the purpose of assisting the Division of Military and Naval Insurance in fixing premium rates and in the adjustment of claims for losses under the contracts of insurance provided for in article four and in adjusting claims for compensation under article three; compensation for the persons so appointed to be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, but not to exceed $20 a day each while actually employed. (40 Stat. 399.)

§ 514kkkk. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 15, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Subpœnas; information and reports of officials.

For the purposes of this Act, the director, commissioners, and deputy commissioners shall have power to issue subpœnas for and compel the attendance of witnesses within a radius of one hundred miles, to require the production of books, papers, documents, and other evidence, to administer oaths and to examine witnesses upon any matter within the jurisdiction of the bureau. The director may obtain such information and such reports from officials and employees of the departments of the Government of the United States and of the States as may be agreed upon by the heads of the respective departments. In case of disobedience to a subpœna, the bureau may invoke the aid of any district court of the United States in requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documentary evidence, and such court, within the jurisdiction of which the inquiry is carried on, may, in case of contumacy or refusal to obey a subpœna issued to any officer, agent, or employee of any corporation or other person, issue an order requiring such corporation or other person to appear before the bureau, or to give evidence touching the matter in question; and any failure to obey such order of the court may be punished by such court as a contempt thereof. Any person so required to attend as a witness shall be allowed and paid the same fees and mileage as are paid witnesses in the district courts of the United States. (40 Stat. 399.)

§ 514*l*. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 16, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Annual estimate of appropriations.

The director shall submit annually to the Secretary of the Treasury estimates of the appropriations necessary for the work of the bureau. (40 Stat. 400.)

§ 514*ll*. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 17, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Appropriation for expenses; civil service rules.

For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this Act there is hereby appropriated, out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $100,000, for the payment of all expenses incident to the work authorized under this Act, including salaries of the director and commissioners and of such deputies, assistants, accountants, experts, clerks, and other employees in the District of Columbia or elsewhere, as the Secretary of the Treasury may deem necessary, traveling expenses, rent and equipment of offices, typewriters and exchange of same, purchase of law books and books of reference, printing and binding to be done at the Government Printing Office, and all other necessary expenses. With the exception of the director, the commissioners, and such special experts as the Secretary of the Treasury may from time to time find necessary for the conduct of the work of the bureau, all employees of the bureau shall be appointed from lists of eligibles to be supplied by the Civil Service Commission and in accordance with the civil-service law. Such fees, allowances, and salaries shall be the same as are paid for similar services in other departments of the Government. (40 Stat. 400.)

§ 514*lll*. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 18, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Military and naval family allowance appropriation.

There is hereby appropriated from any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $141,000,000, to be known as the military and naval family allowance appropriation, for the payment of the family allowances provided by Article II. Payments out of this appropriation shall be made upon and in accordance with awards by the Commissioner of the Division of Military and Naval Insurance. (40 Stat. 400.)

§ 514*lll*. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 19, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Military and naval compensation appropriation.

There is hereby appropriated, from any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $12,150,000, to be known as the military and naval compensation appropriation, for the payment of the compensation, funeral expenses, services, and supplies provided by Article III. Payments out of this appropriation shall be made upon and in accordance with awards by the director. (40 Stat. 400.)

§ 514m. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 20, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Military and naval insurance appropriation.

There is hereby appropriated, from any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $23,000,000, to be known as the military and naval insurance appropriation. All premiums that may be collected for the insurance provided by the provisions of Article IV shall be deposited and covered into the Treasury to the credit of this appropriation.

Such sum, including all premium payments, is hereby made available for the payment of the liabilities of the United States incurred under contracts of insurance made under the provisions of Article IV. Payments from this appropriation shall be made upon and in accordance with awards by the director. (40 Stat. 400.)

§ 514mm. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 21, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Military and naval pay deposit fund.

There shall be set aside as a separate fund in the Treasury, to be known as the military and naval pay deposit fund, all sums held out of pay as provided by section two hundred and three of this Act. Such fund, including all additions, is hereby made available for the payment of the sums so held and deposited, with interest, as provided in section two hundred and three, and the amount necessary to pay interest is hereby appropriated. (40 Stat. 400.)

Section 203, mentioned above, is set forth as § 514*ooo*, post.

§ 514mmm. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 22, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and as amended, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 1.) Evidence of marriage of claimants; definitions.

For the purpose of this amendatory Act the marriage of the claimant to the person on account of whom the claim is made shall be shown—

(1) By a duly verified copy of a public or church record; or

(2) By the affidavit of the clergyman or magistrate who officiated; or

(3) By the testimony of two or more eyewitnesses to the ceremony; or

(4) By a duly verified copy of the church record of baptism of the children; or

(5) By the testimony of two or more witnesses who know that the parties lived together as husband and wife, and were recognized as such, and who shall state how long, within their knowledge, such relation continued: Provided, That marriages, except such as are mentioned in section forty-seven hundred and five of the Revised Statutes, shall be proven in compensation or insurance cases to be legal marriages according to the law of the place where the parties resided at the time of marriage or at the time when the right to compensation or insurance accrued; and the open and notorious illicit cohabitation of a widow who is a claimant shall operate to terminate her right to compensation or insurance from the commencement of such cohabitation: Provided further, That for the purpose of the administration of Article II of this Act marriage shall be conclusively presumed, in the absence of proof, that there is a legal spouse living, if the man and woman have lived together in the openly acknowledged relation of husband and wife during the two years immediately preceding the date of the declaration of war, or the date of enlistment or of entrance into or employment in active service in the military or naval forces of the United States if subsequent to such declaration.

In Articles II, III, and IV of this Act unless the context otherwise requires—

(1) The term "child" includes—

(a) A legitimate child.

(b) A child legally adopted more than six months before the enactment of this amendatory Act or before enlistment or entrance into or employment in active service in the military or naval forces of the United States, whichever of these dates is the later.

(c) A stepchild, if a member of the man's household.

(d) An illegitimate child, but, as to the father, only, if acknowledged by instrument in writing signed by him, or if he has been judicially ordered or decreed to contribute to such child's support, and if such child, if born after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and seventeen, shall have been born in the United States, or in its insular possessions.

(2) The term "grandchild" means a child as above defined of a child as above defined.

(3) Except as used in section four hundred and one and in section four hundred and two the terms "child" and "grandchild" are limited to unmarried persons either (a) under eighteen years of age, or (b) of any age, if insane, idiotic, or otherwise permanently helpless.

(4) The term "parent" includes a father, mother, grandfather, grandmother, father through adoption, mother through adoption, stepfather, and stepmother, either of the person in the service or of the spouse.

(5) The terms "brother" and "sister" include brothers and sisters of the half blood as well as those of the whole blood, stepbrothers and stepsisters, and brothers and sisters through adoption.

(6) The term "commissioned officer" includes a warrant officer, but includes only an officer in active service in the military or naval forces of the United States.

(7) The terms "man" and "enlisted man" mean a person, whether male or female, and whether enlisted, enrolled, or drafted into active service in the military or naval forces of the United States, and include noncommissioned and petty officers, and members of training camps authorized by law.

(8) The term "enlistment" includes voluntary enlistment, draft, and enrollment in active service in the military or naval forces of the United States.

(9) The term "commissioner" means the Commissioner of Military and Naval Insurance.

(10) The term "injury" includes disease.

(11) The term "pay" means the pay for service in the United States according to grade and length of service, excluding all allowances.

(12) The term "military or naval forces" means the Army, the Navy, the Marine Corps, the Coast Guard, the Naval Reserves, the National Naval Volunteers, and any other branch of the United States service while serving pursuant to law with the Army or the Navy. (40 Stat. 400, 609.)

The amendment of this section consists in the changes in the second subdivision, paragraph (4), of the section, as set forth above. Said paragraph originally read as follows: "The term 'parent' includes a father, mother, grandfather, grandmother, stepfather, and stepmother, either of the person in the service or of the spouse."

R. S. § 4705, mentioned above, is set forth in 1916 U. S. Comp. St. as § 8988.

§ 514mmmm. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 23, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Payments to minors.

When, by the terms of this amendatory Act, any payment is to be made to a minor, other than a person in the military or naval forces of the United States, or to a person mentally incompetent, such payment shall be made to the person who is constituted guardian or curator by the laws of the State or residence of claimant, or is otherwise legally vested with responsibility or care of the claimant. (40 Stat. 402.)

§ 514n. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 24, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Information, by Bureau to persons in military or naval service.

The Bureau of War Risk Insurance, so far as practicable, shall upon request furnish information to and act for persons in the military or naval service, with respect to any contracts of insurance whether with the Government or otherwise, as may be prescribed by regulations. Said bureau may upon request procure from and keep a record of the amount and kind of insurance held by every commissioned and appointive officer and of every enlisted man in the military or naval service of the United States, including the name and principal place of business of the company, society, or organization in which such insurance is held, the date of the policy, amount of premium, name and relationship of the beneficiary, and such other data as may be deemed of service in protecting the interests of the insured and beneficiaries. (40 Stat. 402.)

§ 514nn. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 25, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) False statements in claims.

Whoever in any claim for family allowance, compensation, or insurance, or in any document required by this Act or by regulation made under this Act, makes any statement of a material fact knowing it to be false, shall be guilty of perjury and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $5,000, or by imprisonment for not more than two years, or both. (40 Stat. 402.)

§ 514nnn. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 26, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Fraudulent acceptance of payments.

If any person entitled to payment of family allowance or compensation under this Act, whose right to such payment under this Act ceases upon the happening of any contingency, thereafter fraudulently accepts any such payment, he shall be punished by a fine of not more than $2,000, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both. (40 Stat. 402.)

§ 514nnn⅛. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 27, as added, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 2). Fraudulent obtaining or receiving of payments.

Whoever shall obtain or receive any money, check, allotment, family allowance, compensation, or insurance under Articles II, III, or IV of this Act, without being entitled thereto, with intent to defraud the United States or any person in the military or naval forces of the United States, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $2,000, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both. (40 Stat. 609.)

§ 514nnn¼. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 28, as added, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 2.) Allotments, allowances, compensation, and insurance not assignable and exempt from claims and taxation.

The allotments and family allowances, compensation, and insurance payable under Articles II, III, and IV, respectively, shall not be assignable; shall not be subject to the claims of creditors of any person to whom an award is made under Articles II, III, or IV; and shall be exempt from all taxation: Provided, That such allotments and family allowances, compensation, and insurance shall be subject to any claims which the United States may have, under Articles II, III, and IV, against the person on whose account the allotments and family allowances, compensation, or insurance is payable. (40 Stat. 609.)

§ 514nnn½. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 29, as added, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 2.) Effect of discharge from service.

The discharge or dismissal of any person from the military or naval forces on the ground that he is an enemy alien, conscientious objector, or a deserter, or as guilty of mutiny, treason, spying, or any offense involving moral turpitude, or willful and persistent misconduct shall terminate any insurance granted on the life of such person under the provisions of Article IV, and shall bar all rights to any compensation under Article III or any insurance under Article IV. (40 Stat. 609.)

§ 514nnn¾. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 30, as added, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 2.) Citation of act.

This Act may be cited as the war-risk insurance Act. (40 Stat. 610.)

ARTICLE II. ALLOTMENTS AND FAMILY ALLOWANCES

§ 514nnnn. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 200, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and as amended, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 3.) Application of article.

The provisions of this article shall apply to all enlisted men in the military or naval forces of the United States, except the Philippine Scouts, the insular force of the Navy, and the Samoan native guard and band of the Navy. (40 Stat. 402, 610.)

The amendment of this section consists in the addition of the exception, as set forth above.

§ 514*o*. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 201, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and as amended, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 4.) Allotments; compulsory and voluntary.

Allotment of pay shall, subject to the conditions, limitations, and exceptions hereinafter specified, be compulsory as to wife, a former wife divorced who has not remarried and to whom alimony has been decreed, and a child, and voluntary as to any other person; but on the written consent of the wife or former wife divorced, supported by evidence satisfactory to the bureau of her ability to support herself and the children in her custody, the allotment for her and for such children may be waived; and on the enlisted man's application or otherwise for good cause shown, exemption from the allotment may be granted upon such conditions as may be prescribed by regulations.

The monthly compulsory allotment shall be $15. For a wife living separate and apart from her husband under court order or written agreement, or for a former wife divorced, the monthly compulsory allotment shall not exceed the amount specified in the court order, decree, or written agreement to be paid to her, and for an illegitimate child, to whose support the father has been judicially ordered or decreed to contribute, it shall not exceed the amount fixed in the order or decree.

If there is a compulsory allotment for a wife or child, then a former wife divorced who has not remarried and to whom alimony has been decreed, shall not be entitled to a compulsory allotment, but shall be entitled to a family allowance as hereinafter provided. (40 Stat. 402, 610.)

The amendment of this section consists in the changes in the second and third paragraphs of the section, as set forth above. Said paragraph originally read as follows: "The monthly compulsory allotment shall be in an amount equal to the family allowance hereinafter specified except that it shall not be more than one-half the pay, or less than $15; but for a wife living separate and apart under court order or written agreement or for a former wife divorced, it shall not exceed the amount specified in the court order, decree, or written agreement to be paid to her. For an illegitimate child, to whose support the father has been judicially ordered or decreed to contribute, it shall not exceed the amount fixed in the order or decree. If there be an allotment for a wife or child, a former wife divorced and who has not remarried shall be entitled to a compulsory allotment only out of the difference, if any, between the allotment for the wife or child or both and one-half of the pay."

§ 514oo. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 202, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Voluntary allotments.

The enlisted man may allot any proportion or proportions or any fixed amount or amounts of his monthly pay or of the proportion thereof remaining after the compulsory allotment, for such purposes and for the benefit of such person or persons as he may direct, subject, however, to such conditions and limitations as may be prescribed under regulations to be made by the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy, respectively. (40 Stat. 403.)

§ 514oo(1). (Act Feb. 28, 1919, c. 82.) Voluntary allotments; continuance of payments of.

In all of those cases in which an authority of allotment by an enlisted man directing the payment of an indicated amount to a designated beneficiary is on file in the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, and payments pursuant to this authority had been made by said bureau prior to July first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, but which payments were discontinued as of that date, the War and Navy Departments are directed to resume the payments of allotments in these cases, pursuant to the authority on file as aforesaid, pending the receipt of a new authority, or of a written rescission of the old authority from the enlisted men. In those cases in which pending the receipt of the new authority, the military authorities, beginning with July first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, have reserved from month to month out of the soldier's monthly accruing pay, the amount directed to be paid by the original authority of allotment, the War and Navy Departments, upon resuming the payment of allotments in such cases, under the authority of this Act, shall pay all arrearages out of these respective reservations. (40 Stat. 1212.)

This section is an act entitled "An act to authorize the payment of allotments out of the pay of enlisted men in certain cases in which these payments have been discontinued," cited above.

§ 514ooo. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 203, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and as amended, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 5.) Deposit of unallotted pay to credit of enlisted men.

In case one-half of an enlisted man's monthly pay is not allotted, regulations to be made by the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy, respectively, may require, under circumstances and conditions as may be prescribed in such regulations, that any proportion of such one-half pay as is not allotted shall be deposited to his credit, to be held during such period of his service as may be prescribed. Such deposit shall bear interest at the same rate as United States bonds bear for the same period, and, when payable, shall be paid principal and interest to the enlisted man, if living, otherwise to any beneficiary or beneficiaries he may have designated, or if there be no such beneficiary, then to the person or persons who, under the laws of the State of his residence, would be entitled to his personal property in case of intestacy. (40 Stat. 403, 610.)

The amendment of June 25, 1918, consists in changing the rate of interest from four per cent. to the rate as stated above.

§ 514*0000*. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 204, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and as amended, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 6.) Family allowances; amount; payment.

A family allowance of not exceeding $50 per month shall be granted and paid by the United States upon written application to the bureau by such enlisted man or by or on behalf of any prospective beneficiary, in accordance with and subject to the conditions, limitations, and exceptions hereinafter specified.

The family allowance shall be paid from the time of enlistment to death in or one month after discharge from the service, but not for more than one month after the termination of the present war emergency. No family allowance shall be made for any period preceding November first, nineteen hundred and seventeen. The payment shall be subject to such regulations as may be prescribed relative to cases of desertion and imprisonment and of missing men.

Subject to the conditions, limitations, and exceptions hereinabove and hereinafter specified, the family allowance payable per month shall be as follows:

Class A. In the case of a man to his wife (including a former wife divorced) and to his child or children—

(a) If there is a wife but no child, $15;

(b) If there is a wife and one child, $25;

(c) If there is a wife and two children, $32.50, with $5 per month additional for each additional child;

(d) If there is no wife, but one child, $5;

(e) If there is no wife, but two children, $12.50;

(f) If there is no wife, but three children, $20;

(g) If there is no wife, but four children, $30, with $5 per month additional for each additional child.

(h) If there is a former wife divorced who has not remarried and to whom alimony has been decreed, $15.

Class B. In the case of a man or woman to a grandchild, a parent, brother, or sister—

(a) If there is one parent, $10;

(b) If there are two parents, $20;

(c) If there is a grandchild, brother, sister, or additional parent, $5 for each.

In the case of a woman, the family allowances for a husband and children shall be in the same amounts, respectively, as are payable, in the case of a man, to a wife and children, provided she makes a voluntary allotment of $15 as a basis therefor, and provided, further, that dependency exists as required in section two hundred and six. (40 Stat. 403, 610.)

The amendment of this section consists in the changes in the third and fourth paragraphs of the section as set forth above. Said paragraphs originally read as follows:

"Class A. In the case of a man, to his wife (including a former wife divorced) and to his child or children:

"(a) If there be a wife but no child, $15.

"(b) If there be a wife and one child, $25.

"(c) If there be a wife and two children, $32.50, with $5 per month additional for each additional child.

"(d) If there be no wife, but one child, $5.
"(e) If there be no wife, but two children, $12.50.
"(f) If there be no wife, but three children, $20.
"(g) If there be no wife, but four children, $30, with $5 per month additional for each additional child.
"Class B. In the case of a man or woman, to a grandchild, a parent, brother or sister:
"(a) If there be one parent, $10.
"(b) If there be two parents, $20.
"(c) For each grandchild, brother, sister, and additional parent, $5. In the case of a woman, to a child or children:
"(d) If there be one child, $5.
"(e) If there be two children, $12.50.
"(f) If there be three children, $20.
"(g) If there be four children, $30, with $5 per month additional for each additional child."

§ 514p. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 205, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Same; compulsory allotment prerequisite, when.

Family allowances for members of Class A shall be paid only if and while a compulsory allotment is made to a member or members of such class. The monthly family allowance to a former wife divorced shall be payable only out of the difference, if any, between the monthly family allowance to the other members of Class A and the sum of $50, and only then if alimony shall have been decreed to her. For a wife living separate and apart under court order or written agreement or to a former wife divorced the monthly allowance, together with the allotment, if any, shall not exceed the amount specified in the court order, decree, or written agreement to be paid to her. For an illegitimate child, to whose support the father has been judicially ordered or decreed to contribute, it shall not exceed the amount fixed in the order or decree. (40 Stat. 404.)

§ 514pp. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 206, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and as amended, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 7.) Same; conditions prerequisite to payment to Class B.

Family allowances to members of class B shall be paid only if and while the members are dependent in whole or in part on the enlisted man, and then only if and while the enlisted man makes a monthly allotment of his pay for such members in the following amounts:

(a) If an enlisted man is not making a compulsory allotment for class A the allotment for class B required as a condition to the family allowance shall be $15;

(b) If an enlisted man is making a compulsory allotment for class A the additional allotment for class B required as a condition to the family allowance shall be $5, or if a woman is making an allotment of $15 for a dependent husband or child the additional allotment for the other members of class B required as a condition to the family allowance shall be $5. (40 Stat. 404, 611.)

Act Oct. 6, 1917, amended hereby, read as follows:
"Family allowances to members of Class B shall be granted only if and while the member is dependent in whole or in part on the enlisted man, and then only if and while the enlisted man makes a monthly allotment of his pay for such member or members equal to the amount of the monthly family allowance as hereinabove specified, except that—
"(a) The maximum monthly allotment so required to be made to members of Class B shall be one-half of his pay.
"(b) If he is making no allotment to a member of Class A, the minimum monthly allotment so designated to be made to members of Class B shall be $15 per month.
"(c) If he is making the compulsory allotment to a member of Class A, the minimum monthly allotment so designated to be made to members of Class B shall be one-seventh of his pay, but not less than $5 per month.
"On the enlisted man's application, or otherwise for good cause shown, exemption from this additional allotment under Class B, as a condition to the allowance may be granted, upon such conditions as may be prescribed by regulations."

§ 514ppp. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 207, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Same; limitations on amounts payable to Class B.

The amount of the family allowance to members of Class B shall be subject to each of the following limitations:

(a) If an allowance is paid to one or more beneficiaries of Class A, the total allowance to be paid to the beneficiaries of Class B shall not exceed the difference between the allowance paid to the beneficiaries of Class A and the sum of $50.

(b) The total monthly allowance to beneficiaries of Class B added to the enlisted man's monthly allotment to them shall not exceed the average sum habitually contributed by him to their support monthly during the period of dependency but not exceeding a year immediately preceding his enlistment or the enactment of this amendatory Act. (40 Stat. 404.)

§ 514pppp. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 208, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Apportionment of allotments and family allowance between Classes A and B.

As between the members of Class A and as between the members of Class B, the amount of the allotment and family allowance shall be apportioned as may be prescribed by regulations. (40 Stat. 404.)

§ 514q. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 209, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Payments of allotments to Treasury Department.

The War and Navy Departments, respectively, shall pay over to the Treasury Department monthly the entire amount of such allotments for distribution to the beneficiaries, and the allotments and family allowances shall be paid by the bureau to or for the beneficiaries. (40 Stat. 404.)

§ 514qq. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 210, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and amended, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 8, and Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 36.) Investigations as to allowances and allotments.

Upon receipt of any application for family allowance the commissioner shall make all proper investigations and shall make an award, on the basis of which award the amount of the allotments to be made by the man shall be certified to the War Department or Navy Department, as may be proper. Whenever the commissioner shall have reason to believe that an allowance has been improperly made or that the conditions have changed, he shall investigate or reinvestigate and may modify the award. The amount of each monthly allotment and allowance shall be determined according to the conditions then existing: Provided, however, That whenever the commissioner shall by further investigation or reinvestigation modify the existing award, no reimbursement from the person receiving an allowance shall be required for allotments and allowances already paid nor shall any deductions be made from allotments and allowances to be paid in the future for any change in award made in previous allotments and allowances, except where it is conclusively shown that the person receiving the allowance does not bear the relationship to the enlisted man which is required by the Act and except in cases of manifest fraud. (40 Stat. 404, 611, 1160.)

This section, as added to Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, by Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, 40 Stat. 404, was amended by Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 36, 40 Stat. 1160, cited above, by adding thereto the proviso, as set forth above.

Act Oct. 6, 1917, is identical in language with the act as it now reads down to and including the words "conditions then existing." The act of June 25, 1918, introduced no change, except that its concluding words were as follows: "Conditions existing on the first day of the month."

§ 514qq¼. (Act Nov. 4, 1918, c. 201, § 1.) Pay status of missing enlisted men.

For the purpose of the payment of allotments made by the enlisted men or the payment of family allowances under Article II of the Act of October 6, 1917, as amended, an enlisted man reported as missing in action shall be considered as occupying a pay status until his actual status has been determined by proper official authority of the department in which the man served or is serving: Provided, That payments authorized hereunder shall not continue for more than one year. (40 Stat. 1024.)

This was a provision of the "First Deficiency Appropriation Act, 1919," cited above.

§ 514qq½. (Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 9.) Time of taking effect of certain sections.

Sections four, six, seven, and eight of this Act shall take effect on the first day of July, nineteen hundred and eighteen. (40 Stat. 611.)

The sections referred to are §§ 514*o*, 514*oooo*, 514pp, 514qq.

ARTICLE III. COMPENSATION FOR DEATH OR DISABILITY

§ 514qqq. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 300, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and as amended, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 10.) To whom payable.

For death or disability resulting from personal injury suffered or disease contracted in the line of duty, by any commissioned officer or enlisted man or by any member of the Army Nurse Corps (female) or of the Navy Nurse Corps (female) when employed in the active service under the War Department or Navy Department, the United States shall pay compensation as hereinafter provided; but no compensation shall be paid if the injury or disease has been caused by his own willful misconduct: Provided, That for the purposes of this section said officer, enlisted man, or other member shall be held and taken to have been in sound condition when examined, accepted, and enrolled for service: Provided further, That this section, as amended, shall be deemed to become effective as of October sixth, nineteen hundred and seventeen. (40 Stat. 405, 611.)

The amendment by Act June 25, 1918, consists in adding the two provisos above set forth.

§ 514qqqq. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 301, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and as amended, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 11.) Death; amounts; apportionment.

If death results from injury—

If the deceased leaves a widow or child, or if he leaves a mother or father either or both dependent upon him for support, the monthly compensation shall be the following amounts:

(a) If there is a widow but no child, $25;

(b) If there is a widow and one child, $35;

(c) If there is a widow and two children, $42.50, with $5 for each additional child up to two;

(d) If there is no widow, but one child, $20;

(e) If there is no widow, but two children, $30;

(f) If there is no widow, but three children, $40, with $5 for each additional child up to two;

(g) If there is a dependent mother (or dependent father), $20, or both, $30. The amount payable under this subdivision shall not exceed the difference between the total amount payable to the widow and children and the sum of $75. This compensation shall be payable for the death of but one child, and no compensation for the death of a child shall be payable if the dependent mother is in receipt of compensation under the provisions of this article for the death of her husband. Such compensation shall be payable whether the dependency of the father or mother or both arises before or after the death of the person, but no compensation shall be payable if the dependency arises more than five years after the death of the person.

If the death occurs before discharge or resignation from service, the United States shall pay for burial expenses and the return of the body to his home a sum not to exceed $100, as may be fixed by regulations.

The payment of compensation to a widow shall continue until her death or remarriage.

The payment of compensation to or for a child shall continue until such child reaches the age of eighteen years or marries, or if such child be incapable, because of insanity, idiocy, or being otherwise permanently helpless, then during such incapacity.

Whenever the compensation payable to or for the benefit of any person under the provisions of this section is terminated by the happening of the contingency upon which it is limited, the compensation thereafter for the remaining beneficiary or beneficiaries, if any, shall be the amount which would have been payable to them if they had been the sole original beneficiaries.

As between the widow and the children not in her custody, and as between children, the amount of the compensation shall be apportioned as may be prescribed by regulation.

The term "widow" as used in this section shall not include one who shall have married the deceased later than ten years after the time of injury, and shall include a widower, whenever his condition is such that, if the deceased person were living, he would have been dependent upon her for support. (40 Stat. 405, 611.)

The Act of Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, amended hereby, read as follows:

"If death results from injury—

"If the deceased leaves a widow or child, or if he leaves a widowed mother dependent upon him for support, the monthly compensation shall be the following amounts:

"(a) For a widow alone, $25.

"(b) For a widow and one child, $35.

"(c) For a widow and two children, $47.50, with $5 for each additional child up to two.

"(d) If there be no widow, then for one child, $20.

"(e) For two children, $30.

"(f) For three children, $40, with $5 for each additional child up to two.

"(g) For a widowed mother, $20. The amount payable under this subdivision shall not be greater than a sum which, when added to the total amount payable to the widow and children, does not exceed $75. This compensation shall be payable for the death of but one child, and no compensation for the death of a child shall be payable if such widowed mother is in receipt of compensation under the provisions of this article for the death of her husband. Such compensation shall be payable whether her widowhood arises before or after the death of the person and whenever her condition is such that if the person were living the widowed mother would have been dependent upon him for support.

"If the death occur before discharge or resignation from service, the United States shall pay for burial expenses and the return of body to his home a sum not to exceed $100, as may be fixed by regulations.

"The payment of compensation to a widow or widowed mother shall continue until her death or remarriage.

"The payment of compensation to or for a child shall continue until such child reaches the age of eighteen years or marries, or if such child be incapable, because of insanity, idiocy, or being otherwise permanently helpless, then during such incapacity.

"Whenever the compensation payable to or for the benefit of any person under the provisions of this section is terminated by the happening of the contingency upon which it is limited, the compensation thereafter for the remaining beneficiary or beneficiaries, if any, shall be the amount which would have been payable to them if they had been the sole original beneficiaries.

"As between the widow and the children not in her custody, and as between children, the amount of the compensation shall be apportioned as may be prescribed by regulations. The word "widow" as used in this section shall not include one who shall have married the deceased later than ten years after the time of injury."

§ 514qqqq½. (Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 15.) Time of taking effect of amendment to preceding section.

Where section three hundred and one of said Act is amended by striking out the provisions that a mother is entitled to compensation only when she is widowed and substitute provisions are included to the effect that compensation is payable to a dependent mother or dependent father, such substitute provisions shall be deemed to be in effect as of October sixth, nineteen hundred and seventeen. (40 Stat. 613.)

Section 301 referred to is § 514qqqq.

§ 514r. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 302, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and as amended, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, §§ 12, 13, 14.) Disability; amounts.

(1) If and while the disability is total, the monthly compensation shall be the following amounts:

(a) If the disabled person has neither wife nor child living, $30;

(b) If he has a wife but no child living, $45;

(c) If he has a wife and one child living, $55;

(d) If he has a wife and two children living, $65;

(e) If he has a wife and three or more children living, $75;

(f) If he has no wife but one child living, $40, with $10 for each additional child up to two;

(g) If he has a mother or father, either or both dependent on him for support, then in addition to the above amounts, $10 for each;

(h) If he is totally disabled and in addition so helpless as to be in constant need of a nurse or attendant, such additional sum shall be paid, but not exceeding $20 per month, as the director may deem reasonable: Provided, however, That for the loss of both feet or both hands or both eyes, or for becoming totally blind or becoming helpless and permanently bedridden from causes occurring in the line of duty in the service of the United States, the rate of compensation shall be $100 per month: Provided further, That where the rate of compensation is $100 per month, no allowance shall be made for a nurse or attendant.

(2) If and while the disability is partial, the monthly compensation shall be a percentage of the compensation that would be payable for his total disability, equal to the degree of the reduction in earning capacity resulting from the disability, but no compensation shall be payable for a reduction in earning capacity rated at less than ten per centum.

A schedule of ratings of reductions in earning capacity from specific injuries or combinations of injuries of a permanent nature shall be adopted and applied by the bureau. Ratings may be as high as one hundred per centum. The ratings shall be based, as far as practicable, upon the average impairments of earning capacity resulting from such injuries in civil occupations and not upon the impairment in earning capacity in each individual case, so that there shall be no reduction in the rate of compensation for individual success in overcoming the handicap of a permanent injury. The bureau shall from time to time readjust this schedule of ratings in accordance with actual experience.

(3) In addition to the compensation above provided, the injured person shall be furnished by the United States such reasonable governmental medical, surgical, and hospital services and with such supplies, including artificial limbs, trusses, and similar appliances, as the director may determine to be useful and reasonably necessary: Provided, That nothing in this Act shall be construed to affect the necessary military control over any member of the military or naval establishments before he shall have been discharged from the military or naval service.

(4) The amount of each monthly payment shall be determined according to the family conditions existing on the first day of the month.

(5) Where the disabled person and his wife are not living together, or where the children are not in the custody of the disabled person, the amount of the compensation shall be apportioned as may be prescribed by regulations.

(6) The term "wife" as used in this section shall include "husband" if the husband is dependent upon the wife for support. (40 Stat. 406, 612, 613.)

The amendment of this section consists in the changes in subdivisions 1 and 4 of the section, and in the addition of subdivisions five and six to the section, as set forth above. Said subdivisions 1 and 4 originally read as follows:

"(1) If and while the disability is total, the monthly compensation shall be the following amounts:

"(a) If he has neither wife nor child living, $30.

"(b) If he has a wife but no child living, $45.

"(c) If he has a wife and one child living, $55.

"(d) If he has a wife and two children living, $65.

"(e) If he has a wife and three or more children living, $75.

"(f) If he has no wife but one child living, $40, with $10 for each additional child up to two.

"(g) If he has a widowed mother dependent on him for support, then, in addition to the above amounts, $10.

To an injured person who is totally disabled and in addition so helpless as to be in constant need of a nurse or attendant, such additional sum shall be paid, but not exceeding $20 per month, as the director may deem reasonable: Provided, however, That for the loss of both feet or both hands or both eyes, or for becoming totally blind or helplessly and permanently bedridden from causes occurring in the line of duty in the service of the United States, the rate of compensation shall be $100 per month: Provided further, That no allowance shall be made for nurse or attendant."

"(4) The amount of each monthly payment shall be determined according to the family conditions then existing."

§ 514rr. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 303, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Same; disability; examination of persons receiving.

Every person applying for or in receipt of compensation for disability under the provisions of this article shall, as frequently and at such times and places as may be reasonably required, submit himself to examination by a medical officer of the United States or by a duly qualified physician designated or approved by the director. He may have a duly qualified physician designated and paid by him present to participate in such examination. For all examinations he shall, in the discretion of the director, be paid his reasonable traveling and other expenses and also loss of wages incurred in order to submit to such examination. If he refuses to submit himself for, or in any way obstructs, any examination, his right to claim compensation under this article shall be suspended until such refusal or obstruction ceases. No compensation shall be payable while such refusal or obstruction continues, and no compensation shall be payable for the intervening period.

Every person in receipt of compensation for disability shall submit to any reasonable medical or surgical treatment furnished by the bureau whenever requested by the bureau; and the consequences of unreasonable refusal to submit to any such treatment shall not be deemed to result from the injury compensated for. (40 Stat. 406.)

§ 514rrr. [Repealed.]

This section (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 304, as added by Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, 40 Stat. 407) relating to the re-education and vocational training of persons injured in the service, was repealed by Act June 27, 1918, c. 107, § 10, 40 Stat. 620. The repealed provision read as follows:

"In cases of dismemberment, of injuries to sight or hearing, and of other injuries commonly causing permanent disability, the injured person shall follow such course or courses of rehabilitation, reeducation, and vocational training as the United States may provide or procure to be provided. Should such course prevent the injured person from following a substantially gainful occupation while taking same, a form of enlistment may be required which shall bring the injured person into the military or naval service. Such enlistment shall entitle the person to full pay as during the last month of his active service, and his family to family allowances and allotment as hereinbefore provided, in lieu of all other compensation for the time being.

"In case of his willful failure properly to follow such course or so to enlist, payment of compensation shall be suspended until such willful failure ceases and no compensation shall be payable for the intervening period."

§ 514rrrr. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 305, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917; c. 105, § 2.) Review of awards.

Upon its own motion or upon application the bureau may at any time review an award, and, in accordance with the facts found upon such review, may end, diminish, or increase the compensation previously awarded, or, if compensation has been refused or discontinued, may award compensation. (40 Stat. 407.)

§ 514s. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 306, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Time of death or disability.

No compensation shall be payable for death or disability which does not occur prior to or within one year after discharge or resignation from the service, except that where, after a medical examination made pursuant to regulations, at the time of discharge or resignation from the service, or within such reasonable time thereafter, not exceeding one year, as may be allowed by regulations, a certificate has been obtained from the director to the effect that the injured person at the time of his discharge or resignation was suffering from injury likely to result in death or disability, compensation shall be payable for death or disability, whenever occurring, proximately resulting from such injury. (40 Stat. 407.)

§ 514ss. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 307, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Official record of death.

Compensation shall not be payable for death in the course of the service until the death be officially recorded in the department under which he may be serving. No compensation shall be payable for a period during which the man has been reported "missing" and a family allowance has been paid for him under the provisions of Article II. (40 Stat. 407.)

§ 514sss. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 308, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Death inflicted as lawful punishment; dismissal or dishonorable discharge.

No compensation shall be payable for death inflicted as a lawful punishment for a crime or military offense except when inflicted by the enemy. A dismissal or dishonorable or bad conduct discharge from the service shall bar and terminate all right to any compensation under the provisions of this article. (40 Stat. 407.)

§ 514ssss. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 309, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Time of filing claim.

No compensation shall be payable unless a claim therefor be filed, in case of disability, within five years after discharge or resignation from the service, or, in case of death during the service, within five years after such death is officially recorded in the department under which he may be serving: Provided, however, That where compensation is payable for death or disability occurring after discharge or resignation from the service, claim must be made within five years after such death or the beginning of such disability.

The time herein provided may be extended by the director not to exceed one year for good cause shown. If at the time that any right accrues to any person under the provisions of this article, such person is a minor, or is of unsound mind or physically unable to make a claim, the time herein provided shall not begin to run until such disability ceases. (40 Stat. 407.)

§ 514t. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 310, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Payment of compensation prior to filing claim.

No compensation shall be payable for any period more than two years prior to the date of claim therefor, nor shall increased compensation be awarded to revert back more than one year prior to the date of claim therefor. (40 Stat. 408.)

§ 514tt. [Repealed.]

This section (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 311, as added by Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, 40 Stat. 408), relating to the exemption of compensation payable under the article, was repealed by Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 16, 40 Stat. 613. It read as follows: "Compensation under this article shall not be assignable and shall be exempt from attachment and execution and from all taxation."

§ 514ttt. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 312, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and as amended, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 17.). Compensation to persons receiving service or retirement pay; pension laws.

Compensation under this article shall not be paid while the person is in receipt of service or retirement pay. The laws providing for gratuities or payments in the event of death in the service and existing pension laws shall not be applicable after the enactment of this amendment to any person in the active military or naval service on the sixth day of October, nineteen hundred and seventeen, or who thereafter entered the active military or naval service, or to their widows, children, or their dependents, except in so far as rights under any such law have heretofore accrued.

Compensation because of disability or death of members of the Army Nurse Corps (female) or of the Navy Nurse Corps (female) shall be in lieu of any compensation for such disability or death under the Act entitled "An Act to provide compensation for employees of the United States suffering injuries while in the performance of their duties, and for other purposes," approved September seventh, nineteen hundred and sixteen. (40 Stat. 408, 613.)

Prior to the amendment by Act June 25, 1918, the first paragraph read as follows: "Compensation under this article shall not be paid while the person is in receipt of service or retirement pay. The laws providing for gratuities or payments in the event of death in the service and existing pension laws shall not be applicable after the enactment of this amendment to persons now in or hereafter entering the military or naval service, or to their widows, children, or their dependents, except in so far as rights under any such law shall have heretofore accrued." In other respects the amended and amendatory provisions are the same.

Act Sept. 7, 1916, mentioned above, is set forth as §§ 8932a–8932ww, post.

§ 514tttt. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 313, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and as amended, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 18.) Assignment of right of action for injury causing death or disability.

(1) If an injury or death for which compensation is payable under this article is caused under circumstances creating a legal liability upon some person other than the United States or the enemy to pay damages therefor, the director, as a condition to payment of compensation by the United States, may require the beneficiary to assign to the United States any right of action he may have to enforce such liability of such other person, or if it appears to be for the best interests of the beneficiary the director may require him to prosecute the said action in his own name, subject to regulations. The director may require such assignment or prosecution at any time after the injury or death, and the failure on the part of the beneficiary to so assign or to prosecute said cause of action in his own name within a reasonable time, to be fixed by the director, shall bar any right to compensation on account of the same injury or death. The cause of action so assigned to the United States may be prosecuted or compromised by the director, and any money realized or collected thereon, less the reasonable expenses of such realization or collection, shall be placed to the credit of the military and naval compensation appropriation. If the amount placed to the credit of such appropriation in such case is in excess of the amount of the award of compensation, if any, such excess shall be paid to the beneficiary after any compensation award for the same injury or death is made.

If a beneficiary or conditional beneficiary shall have recovered, as a result of a suit brought by him or on his behalf, or as a result of a settlement made by him or on his behalf, any money or other property in satisfaction of the liability of such other person, such money or other property so recovered shall be credited upon any compensation payable, or which may become payable, to such beneficiary, or conditional beneficiary by the United States on account of the same injury or death.

(2) If an injury or death for which compensation may be payable under this article is caused under circumstances creating a legal liability upon some person, other than the United States or the enemy, to pay damages therefor, then, in order to preserve the right of action, the director may require the conditional beneficiary at any time after the injury or death, to assign such right of action to the United States, or, if it appears to be for the best interests of such conditional beneficiary, to prosecute the said cause of action in his own name, subject to regulations. The failure on the part of the beneficiary to so assign or to prosecute the said cause of action in his own name within a reasonable time, to be fixed by the director, shall bar any right to compensation on account of the same injury or death. The cause of action so assigned may be prosecuted or compromised by the director, and any money realized or collected thereon, less the reasonable expenses of such realization or collection, shall be paid to such beneficiary, and be credited upon any future compensation which may become payable to such beneficiary by the United States on account of the same injury or death.

(3) The bureau shall make all necessary regulations for carrying out the purposes of this section. For the purposes of computation only under this section the total amount of compensation due any beneficiary shall be deemed to be equivalent to a lump sum equal to the present value of all future payments of compensation computed as of the date of the award of compensation, at four per centum, true discount, compounded annually. The probability of the beneficiary's death before the expiration of the period during which he is entitled to compensation shall be determined according to the American Experience Table of Mortality.

A conditional beneficiary is any person who may become entitled to compensation under this article on or after the death of the injured person.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to impose any administrative duties upon the War or Navy Departments. (40 Stat. 408, 613.)

The act, prior to its amendment by Act June 25, 1918, read as follows: "If an injury or death for which compensation is payable under this amendatory Act is caused under circumstances creating a legal liability upon some person other than the United States or the enemy to pay damages therefor, the director, as a condition to payment of compensation by the United States, shall require the beneficiary to assign to the United States any right of action he may have to enforce such liability of such other person or any right which he may have to share in any money or other property received in satisfaction of such liability of such other person. The cause of action so assigned to the United States may be prosecuted or compromised by the director and any money realized thereon shall be placed to the credit of the compensation fund."

Section 314 of this act, as added by Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, 40 Stat. 408, relates to the rate of pensions to widows of officers or enlisted men of the army, etc., who served in the Civil War, the War with Spain, or the Philippine Insurrection, and is set forth post, § 8981e.

ARTICLE IV. INSURANCE

§ 514u. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 400, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Amount.

In order to give to every commissioned officer and enlisted man and to every member of the Army Nurse Corps (female) and of the Navy Nurse Corps (female) when employed in active service under the War Department or Navy Department greater protection for themselves and their dependents than is provided in Article III, the United States, upon application to the bureau and without medical examination, shall grant insurance against the death or total permanent disability of any such person in any multiple of $500, and not less than $1,000 or more than $10,000, upon the payment of the premiums as hereinafter provided. (40 Stat. 409.)

§ 514uu. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 401, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and as amended, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 19.) Application for; time for making.

Such insurance must be applied for within one hundred and twenty days after enlistment or after entrance into or employment in the active service and before discharge or resignation, except that those persons who are in the active war service at the time of the publication of the terms and conditions of such contract of insurance may apply at any time within one hundred and twenty days thereafter and while in such service. Any person in the active service on or after the sixth day of April, nineteen hundred and seventeen, who, while in such service and before the expiration of one hundred and twenty days from and after such publication, becomes or has become totally and permanently disabled, or dies, or has died, without having applied for insurance, shall be deemed to have applied for and to have been granted insurance, payable to such person during his life in monthly installments of $25 each. If he shall die either before he shall have received any of such monthly installments or before he shall have received two hundred and forty of such monthly installments, then $25 per month shall be paid to his widow from the time of his death and during her widowhood, or if there is no widow surviving him, then to his child or children, or if there is no child surviving him, then to his mother, or if there is no mother surviving him, then to his father, if and while they survive him: Provided, however, That not more than two hundred and forty of such monthly installments, including those received by such person during his total and permanent disability, shall be so paid. The amount of the monthly installments shall be apportioned between children as may be provided by regulations. (40 Stat. 409, 614.)

Prior to the amendment by Act June 25, 1918, the latter part of the provision read as follows: "then $25 per month shall be paid to his wife from the time of his death and during her widowhood, or to his child or widowed mother if and while they survive him: Provided, however, That not more than two hundred and forty of such monthly installments, including those received by such person during his total and permanent disability, shall be so paid; and in that event the amount of the monthly installments shall be apportioned between them as may be provided by regulations." In other respects the amended and amendatory provisions are the same.

§ 514uu⅛. (Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 20.) Same; time of taking effect of amendment of preceding section.

Section nineteen of this Act amending section four hundred and one of the Act entitled "An Act to authorize the establishment of a Bureau of War Risk Insurance in the Treasury Department," approved September second, nineteen hundred and fourteen, as amended, shall be deemed to be in effect as of October sixth, nineteen hundred and seventeen: Provided, That nothing herein shall be construed to interfere with the payment of monthly installments, authorized to be made under the provisions of said section four hundred and one as originally enacted, for the months up to and including June, nineteen hundred and eighteen: Provided further, That all awards of automatic insurance under the provisions of said section four hundred and one as originally enacted shall be revised as of the first day of July, nineteen hundred and eighteen, in accordance with the provisions of said section four hundred and one as amended by section nineteen of this Act. (40 Stat. 615.)

The section 19 referred to is § 514uu.

§ 514uu½. (Res. Feb. 12, 1918, c. 17.) Same; extension of time for.

The time within which application for insurance may be made as set forth in section four hundred and one of the Act entitled "An Act to authorize the establishment of a Bureau of War Risk Insurance in the Treasury Department," approved September second, nineteen hundred and fourteen, as amended by the Act approved October sixth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, is hereby extended, with respect to every person in the active war service as to whom the time for making application would expire before the twelfth day of April, nineteen hundred and eighteen, so that every such person may make application for insurance up to and including the said twelfth day of April, nineteen hundred and eighteen: Provided, That nothing herein shall be construed to effect an extension of the automatic insurance provided for in the said section four hundred and one beyond the twelfth day of February, nineteen hundred and eighteen. (40 Stat. 438.)

This was a resolution entitled a "Joint Resolution granting to certain persons in the active war service an extension of time within which application for insurance may be made under section four hundred and one of the act entitled 'an act to authorize the establishment of a Bureau of War Risk Insurance in the Treasury Department,' approved September second, nineteen hundred and fourteen, as amended by the act approved October sixth, nineteen hundred and seventeen," cited above.

Section 401, mentioned above, is set forth as amended as § 514uu, ante.

§ 514uuu. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 402, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and as amended, Act June 25, 1918, c. 104, § 21.) Terms and conditions of contracts; beneficiaries.

The director, subject to the general direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall promptly determine upon and publish the full and exact terms and conditions of such contract of insurance. The insurance shall be payable only to a spouse, child, grandchild, parent, brother, or sister, and also during total and permanent disability to the injured person, or to any or all of them. The insurance shall be payable in two hundred and forty equal monthly installments. Provisions for maturity at certain ages, for continuous installments during the life of the insured or beneficiaries, or both, for cash, loan, paid up and extended values, dividends from gains and savings, and such other provisions for the protection and advantage of and for alternative benefits to the insured and the beneficiaries as may be found to be reasonable and practicable, may be provided for in the contract of insurance, or from time to time by regulations. All calculations shall be based upon the American Experience Table of Mortality and interest at three and one-half per centum per annum, except that no deduction shall be made for continuous installments during the life of the insured in case his total and permanent disability continues more than two hundred and forty months. Subject to regulations, the insured shall at all times have the right to change the beneficiary or beneficiaries of such insurance without the consent of such beneficiary or beneficiaries, but only within the classes herein provided. If no beneficiary within the permitted class be designated by the insured, either in his lifetime or by his last will and testament, or if the designated beneficiary does not survive the insured, the insurance shall be payable to such person or persons within the permitted class of beneficiaries as would under the laws of the State of the residence of the insured be entitled to his personal property in case of intestacy. If no such person survive the insured, then there shall be paid to the estate of the insured an amount equal to the reserve value, if any, of the insurance at the time of his death, calculated on the basis of the American Experience Table of Mortality and three and one-half per centum interest in full of all obligations under the contract of insurance. (40 Stat. 409, 615.)

The amended and amendatory acts are the same, except that the opening sentences in the former read as follows: "The director, subject to the general direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall promptly determine upon and publish the full and exact terms and conditions of such contract of insurance. The insurance shall not be assignable, and shall not be subject to the claims of creditors of the insured or of the beneficiary. It shall be payable only to a spouse, child, grandchild, parent, brother or sister," etc.

§ 514uuu½. (Res. April 2, 1918, c. 41.) Designation of beneficiaries.

Insurance under the Act entitled "An Act to authorize the establishment of a Bureau of War Risk Insurance in the Treasury Department," approved September second, nineteen hundred and fourteen, as amended by the Act approved October sixth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, shall be granted by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance on application made by the person to be insured or, subject to such regulations as the bureau may prescribe, by any person within the permitted class as specified in section four hundred and two of said Act: Provided, That the person to be insured has been taken a prisoner of war before April twelfth, nineteen hundred and eighteen: And provided further, That no one but the insured may designate a beneficiary, and nothing in this resolution shall be deemed to change or affect the permitted class of beneficiaries or impose any obligation on the insured against his will. (40 Stat. 502.)

This was a "Joint resolution authorizing the granting of insurance under the act entitled 'An act to authorize the establishment of a Bureau of War Risk Insurance in the Treasury Department,' approved September second, nineteen hundred and fourteen, as amended by the act approved October sixth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, on application by a person other than the person to be insured," cited above.

Section 402, mentioned above, is set forth, as amended, as § 514uuu, ante.

§ 514v. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 403, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Expense of administration and excess of cost; premium rates.

The United States shall bear the expenses of administration and the excess mortality and disability cost resulting from the hazards of war. The premium rates shall be the net rates based upon the American Experience Table of Mortality and interest at three and one-half per centum per annum. (40 Stat. 410.)

§ 514vv. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 404, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2.) Form of insurance; conversion.

During the period of war and thereafter until converted the insurance shall be term insurance for successive terms of one year each. Not later than five years after the date of the termination of the war as declared by proclamation of the President of the United States, the term insurance shall be converted, without medical examination, into such form or forms of insurance as may be prescribed by regulations and as the insured may request. Regulations shall provide for the right to convert into ordinary life, twenty payment life, endowment maturing at age sixty-two and into other usual forms of insurance and shall prescribe the time and method of payment of the premiums thereon, but payments of premiums in advance shall not be required for periods of more than one month each and may be deducted from the pay or deposit of the insured or be otherwise made at his election. (40 Stat. 410.)

§ 514vvv. (Act Sept. 2, 1914, c. 293, § 405, as added, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 105, § 2, and amended Act May 20, 1918, c. 77, § 2.) [Stricken.]

This section was amended by Act May 20, 1918, c. 77, § 2, 40 Stat. 556, cited above, by striking out said section. It read as follows: "In the event of disagreement as to a claim under the contract of insurance between the bureau and any beneficiary or beneficiaries thereunder, an action on the claim may be brought against the United States in the district court of the United States in and for the district in which such beneficiaries or any one of them resides. The court, as part of its judgment, shall determine and allow such reasonable attorney's fees, not to exceed ten per centum of the amount recovered, to be paid by the claimant on behalf of whom such proceedings are instituted to his attorney; and it shall be unlawful for the attorney or for any other person acting as claim agent or otherwise to ask for, contract for, or receive any other compensation because of such action. No other compensation or fee shall be charged or received by any person except such as may be authorized by the commissioner in regulations to be promulgated by him. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall, for each and every such offense, be fined not exceeding $500, or be imprisoned at hard labor not exceeding two years, or both, in the discretion of the court."

§ 514w. (Res. Feb. 26, 1919, c. 53.) Credits to disbursing clerk for payments of insurance installments.

For such reasonable time as may be fixed by the Secretary of the Treasury, but not extending beyond the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and twenty, the accounting officers of the Treasury are hereby authorized and directed to allow credit in the accounts of the disbursing clerk of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance for all payments of insurance installments heretofore or hereafter made under the provisions of Article IV of the war risk insurance Act in advance of the verification of the deduction on the pay rolls, or of the payment otherwise, of all premiums. (40 Stat. 1184.)

This section is a resolution entitled a "Joint resolution authorizing and directing the accounting officers of the Treasury to allow credit to the disbursing clerk of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance in certain cases," cited above.

TITLE VIII—THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

Sec.
515. Establishment of Department.
516. Solicitor-General.
517. Assistant Attorneys-General.
520. Assistant to the Attorney-General; salary.
521. Solicitors.
524. Solicitor of Department of Commerce.
525. Solicitor for Department of Labor.
525a. Attorneys; one in charge of condemnation proceedings in District of Columbia.
526. Subordinate officers.
533. Conduct and argument of cases.
534. Conduct of legal proceedings.
535. Performance of duty by officers of Department of Justice.
536. Officers to perform legal services for other Departments.
538. Counsel to aid district attorneys.
540. Counsel fees restricted.
541. Appointment and oath of special attorneys.
542. Interest of United States in pending suits.
543. Accounts of district attorneys.
556. Conduct of suits involving national banks.

§ 515. (R. S. § 346.) Establishment of Department.

Cited without definite application,
Barrett Co. v. Ewing (C. C. A.) 242 F. 506.

§ 516. (R. S. § 347.) Solicitor-General.

The salary of the Solicitor-General is now $10,000 per annum. See Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 517. (R. S. § 348.) Assistant Attorneys-General.

The legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213, provides for six Assistant Attorneys General, at $7,500 each per annum.

Notes of Decisions

Appearance before grand jury.—Under Act June 30, 1906, Rev. St. §§ 161, 177, 360 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 235, 259, 535), and this section, attorney, not resident of district wherein prosecutions were instituted, having been appointed special assistant, by letter signed by Assistant Attorney General, for Attorney General, held authorized to participate in grand jury proceedings, he being at least a de facto officer, so that, on motion to quash indictment, his right to appear before grand jury could not be questioned. May v. U. S., 236 F. 495, 149 C. C. A. 547.

Presumption as to authority.—Where an Assistant Attorney General signed a communication for and on behalf of the Attorney General, it must be presumed that he was acting lawfully and not usurping authority. May v. U. S., 236 F. 495, 149 C. C. A. 547.

§ 520. (Act Oct. 22, 1913, c. 32.) Assistant to the Attorney-General; salary.

The salary of the assistant to the Attorney General is fixed at $9,000 per annum by Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213. Said act also provides for the following attorneys: One at $4,500 per annum, one at $3,750 per annum, four at $3,500 each per annum, one at $3,250 per annum, fourteen at $3,000 each per annum, two at $2,500 each per annum; also for the following assistant attorneys: One at $3,500 per annum, two at $3,000 each per annum, two at $2,750 each per annum, five at $2,500 each per annum, one at $2,400 per annum, two at $2,000 each per annum; and for an assistant examiner of titles at $2,000 per annum.

§ 521. (R. S. § 349, as amended, Act June 19, 1878, c. 329, § 1.) Solicitors.

The legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213, fixes the salaries of the Solicitor for the Department of the Interior, the Solicitor for the Post Office Department, Solicitor of Internal Revenue, Solicitor for the Department of State, Solicitor for the Department of Commerce, Solicitor of the Treasury, and Solicitor for the Department of Labor, at $5,000 each per annum. Said act also provides for Assistant Solicitors as follows: Treasury Department and Department of Commerce, at $3,000 each per annum.

§ 524. (Act March 18, 1904, c. 716, § 1.) Solicitor of Department of Commerce.

The current appropriation act (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213) fixes the salary of the Solictor at $5,000 and Assistant at $3,000.

§ 525. (Act March 4, 1913, c. 141, § 7.) Solicitor for Department of Labor.

The current appropriation act (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213) fixes the salary of the Solicitor at $5,000.

§ 525a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Attorneys; one in charge of condemnation proceedings in District of Columbia.

Office of the Attorney General: * * Four attorneys, at $5,000 each, one of whom shall have charge of all condemnation proceedings in the District of Columbia and supervise the examination of titles and matters arising from such condemnation proceedings in which the United States shall be a party or have an interest, and no special attorney or counsel, or services of persons other than of those provided for herein, shall be employed for such purposes. * * (40 Stat. 1254.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

§ 526. (R. S. § 351.) Subordinate officers.

For enumeration of subordinate officers and employés of the Department of Justice, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 533. (R. S. § 359.) Conduct and argument of cases.

Conduct of suits.—Where suit by the United States was argued on appeal by Assistant Attorney General, who filed certified copy of letter from Attorney General authorizing its institution, held that sanction of Attorney General sufficiently appeared. Causey v. U. S., 36 S. Ct. 365, 240 U. S. 399, 60 L. Ed. 711, affirming decree 203 F. 1022, 121 C. C. A. 663.

An admission by government counsel of the government's liability is not controlling on the court of claims. Hooper v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 90.

Cited without definite application, Barrett Co. v. Ewing (C. C. A.) 242 F. 506.

§ 534. (Act June 30, 1906, c. 3935.) Conduct of legal proceedings.

In general.—Under this section and Rev. St. §§ 161, 177, 348, 360 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 235, 259, 517, 535), attorney, not resident of district wherein prosecutions were instituted, having been appointed special assistant by letter signed by Assistant Attorney General, for Attorney General, held qualified to act; he being at least a de facto officer. But he should present duly certified copies of his appointment and oath of office to any court in which he is called upon to act, so that the same may be recorded. May v. U. S., 236 F. 495, 149 C. C. A. 547.

Conduct of grand jury proceedings.—Under this section and Rev. St. §§ 161, 177, 348, 360 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 235, 259, 517, 535), attorney, not resident of district wherein prosecutions were instituted, having been appointed special assistant, by letter signed by Assistant Attorney General, for Attorney General, held authorized to participate in grand jury proceedings; he being at least a de facto officer, so that, on motion to quash indictment, his right to appear before grand jury could not be questioned. May v. U. S., 236 F. 495, 149 C. C. A. 547.

§ 535. (R. S. § 360.) Performance of duty by officers of Department of Justice.

See May v. U. S., 236 F. 495, 149 C. C. A. 547; notes under § 534.

§ 536. (R. S. § 361.) Officers to perform legal services for other Departments.

Cited without definite application, Barrett Co. v. Ewing (C. C. A.) 242 F. 506.

§ 538. (R. S. § 363.) Counsel to aid district attorneys.

Special counsel in Indian matters.—In view of this section, and § 540, special counsel in Indian matters, employed by Secretary of Interior, could not recover fees from the United States. Eslick v. U. S., 51 Ct. Cl. 266.

§ 540. (R. S. § 365.) Counsel fees restricted.

Special counsel in Indian matters.— In view of this section and § 538, special counsel in Indian matters, employed by Secretary of Interior, could not recover fees from the United States. Eslick v. U. S., 51 Ct. Cl. 266.

Cited without definite application, Barrett Co. v. Ewing (C. C. A.) 242 F. 506.

§ 541. (R. S. § 366.) Appointment and oath of special attorneys.

Cited without definite application, Barrett Co. v. Ewing (C. C. A.) 242 F. 506.

§ 542. (R. S. § 367.) Interest of United States in pending suits.

Cited without definite application, Barrett Co. v. Ewing (C. C. A.) 242 F. 506.

§ 543. (R. S. § 368.) Accounts of district attorneys.

Suit for benefit of private litigant.— In view of the condition in referee's bonds, and the fact that fees and compensation go to a referee as an individual, the United States cannot, despite Act July 1, 1916, c. 209, 39 Stat. 273, providing for investigation of the accounts of referees, etc., recover from referees in bankruptcy, for the benefit of private litigants, sums allowed and retained out of estates in excess of amounts provided for by the Bankruptcy Act. U. S. v. Brainerd (D. C.) 250 F. 1011.

§ 556. (R. S. § 380.) Conduct of suits involving national banks.

Cited without definite application, U. S. v. Weitzel, 38 S. Ct. 381, 62 L. Ed. 872.

TITLE IX—THE POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT

Sec.
568. Assistant Postmasters-General.
572. Clerks and employés.
572a. Clerks and employés; readjustments in salaries; assignment to bureaus.
574. Agents to superintend Railway Mail Service.
576. Superintendent of Railway Mail Service.
577. Assistant general superintendent and chief clerk, Railway Mail Service.
578. Superintendent of Division of Finance.
579. Purchasing agent.
579a. District and central offices for distribution of supplies.
582. Duties of Postmaster-General.
582a. Rewards for detection of post-office burglars.
584a. Signing contracts for mail transportation.
587. Postal arrangements with foreign countries.
609a. Commission to investigate, reclassify, and readjust salaries of postmaster and postal service employés.

§ 568. (R. S. § 389.) Assistant Postmasters-General.

The salaries of the Assistant Postmasters-General are fixed at $5,000 each per annum, by Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 572. (R. S. § 393.) Clerks and employés.

For enumeration of subordinate officers and employés of the Post Office Department, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 572a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Clerks and employés; readjustments in salaries; assignment to bureaus.

In making readjustments hereunder, the salary of any clerk in any class may be fixed by the Postmaster General at $100 below the salary fixed by law for such class and the unused portion of such salary shall be used to increase the salary of any clerk in any class entitled thereto by not less than $100 above the salary fixed by law for such class. The Postmaster General shall assign to the several bureaus, offices, and divisions of the Post Office Department such number of the employees herein authorized as may be necessary to perform the work required therein; and he shall submit a statement showing such assignments and the number employed at the various salaries in the annual Book of Estimates following the estimates for salaries in the Post Office Department. (40 Stat. 1252.)

This section consists of provisions in the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, following appropriations for the officers and employés of the Post Office Department, cited above. These provisions have been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

The clerks, whose salaries may be readjusted under the provisions of this section, are those for whom appropriations are made as follows: "Clerks—one hundred and ten of class four, one hundred and sixty-six of class three, two hundred and fifty-nine of class two, two hundred and ninety-seven of class one, one hundred and thirty-eight at $1,000 each, twenty-six at $900 each;" etc.

§ 574. (R. S. § 4020, as amended, Act March 3, 1897, c. 385, § 1.) Agents to Superintend Railway Mail Service.

See note under § 576.

§ 576. (Act March 1, 1881, c. 96, § 1.) Superintendent of Railway Mail Service.

The current appropriation act (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213) fixes the salary of the "general superintendent" of the railway mail service at $4,000. See notes under U. S. Comp. St. Ann. 1916, § 574.

§ 577. (Act April 16, 1890, c. 85.) Assistant general superintendent and chief clerk, Railway Mail Service.

The current appropriation act (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213) fixes the salary of the general superintendent at $4,000, the assistant superintendent at $3,500, and the chief clerk at $2,000. As to general superintendent, see note under § 574, U. S. Comp. St. Ann. 1916.

§ 578. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Superintendent of Division of Finance.

Office Third Assistant Postmaster General: * * superintendents of divisions— * * finance (who shall give bond in such amount as the Postmaster General may determine for the faithful discharge of his duties) $2,250. * * (40 Stat. 1253.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

§ 579. (Act April 28, 1904, c. 1759, § 3.) Purchasing agent.

Act Feb. 28, 1919, c. 69, § 4, 40 Stat. 1200 (the postal service appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920), contains the following provisions: "The Postmaster General and other responsible officials, in expending appropriations contained in this Act, so far as possible shall purchase material, supplies, and equipment, when needed and funds are available, from the various services of the Government of the United States possessing material, supplies, and equipment no longer required because of the cessation of war activities. It shall be the duty of the Postmaster General and other officials, before purchasing any of the articles described herein, to ascertain from the other services of the Government whether they have articles of the character described that are serviceable. And articles purchased from other services of the Government, if the same have not been used, shall be paid for at a reasonable price not to exceed actual cost, and if the same have been used, at a reasonable price based upon length of usage. The various services of the Government are authorized to sell such articles to the Postal Service under the conditions specified and the proceeds of such sales shall be covered into the Treasury as a miscellaneous receipt."

§ 579a. (Act March 3, 1917, c. 163, § 1.) District and central offices for distribution of supplies.

In order to promote economy in the distribution of supplies, and in auditing and accounting, the Postmaster General may designate districts and central offices in such districts through which supplies shall be distributed and accounts audited, but in no case shall the postmaster at the central station be given authority to abolish offices, to change officers or employees in offices included in such district. (39 Stat. 1110.)

This was a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1918, cited above. Section 4 of the postal service appropriation act for the fiscal year 1918, Act March 3, 1917, c. 162, 39 Stat. 1068, contains a somewhat similar provision as follows: "In order to promote economy in the distribution of supplies, and in auditing and accounting, the Postmaster General may hereafter designate district and central offices in such districts through which supplies shall be distributed and accounts rendered." This provision may be regarded as superseded by this section.

§ 582. (R. S. § 396.) Duties of Postmaster-General.

4. Regulations of postal service.—The failure for a number of years of the Postmaster General to exercise an authority granted to him by law does not abrogate the power. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 238.

U. S. Postal Regulations (Ed. 1913) § 350, held to be a reasonable regulation and a complete defense to an action for conversion by a retiring postmaster against his successor, where the latter only retained possession of the former's equipment for a reasonable time. Jaramillo v. Lovelace, 155 P. 719, 21 N. M. 448.

12. Restraining enforcement of order.—Equity has jurisdiction to grant injunction against order of Postmaster General excluding publication from mails solely to prevent irreparable pecuniary damage. Masses Pub. Co. v. Patten, 245 F. 102, 157 C. C. A. 398.

§ 582a. (Act Feb. 28, 1919, c. 69, § 1.) Rewards for detection of post-office burglars.

Office of the Postmaster General: * * For payment of rewards for the detection, arrest, and conviction of post-office burglars, robbers, and highway mail robbers: Provided, That rewards may be paid, in the discretion of the Postmaster General, when an offender of the class mentioned was killed in the act of committing the crime or in resisting lawful arrest. * * (40 Stat. 1190.)

This section is a provision of the postal service appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

§ 584a. (Act March 3, 1917, c. 162, § 2.) Signing contracts for mail transportation.

Contracts made in the Post Office Department for the various classes of mail transportation may, upon order of the Postmaster General, be signed in the place and stead of the Postmaster General by the Assistant Postmaster General who is charged with the supervision of the mail transportation involved, and such officer shall attest his signature to such contracts by the seal of the Post Office Department. (39 Stat. 1068.)

This was section 2 of the postal service appropriation act for the fiscal year 1918, cited above. It supersedes provisions of Act March 3, 1877, c. 103, § 3, 19 Stat. 335. See U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 584.

§ 587. (R. S. § 398.) Postal arrangements with foreign countries.

Postal convention as treaty or statute.—Postal conventions are not treaties, not being ratified by the Senate, and are not statutes. United States v. Four Packages of Cut Diamonds (D. C.) 247 F. 354.

Forfeiture for violation of Convention.—Under Tariff Act Oct. 3, 1913, c. 16, § 3, par. H, 38 Stat. 183, and Rev. St. § 3082 (Comp. St. 1916, § 5785), held, that merchandise imported into United States from Cuba by registered mail, in violation of Postal Convention, art. 11, dated June 16, 1903, between Cuba and United States, and article 16 of Universal Postal Convention dated May 26, 1906, was subject to forfeiture. U. S. v. Four Packages of Cut Diamonds (D. C.) 247 F. 354.

§ 609a. (Act Feb. 28, 1919, c. 69, § 3.) Commission to investigate, reclassify, and readjust salaries of postmasters and postal service employés.

A commission consisting of five members of the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads of the United States Senate, to be appointed by the President of the Senate, and five members of the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads of the House of Representatives, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, is hereby authorized to investigate the salaries of postmasters and employees of the postal service with a view to the reclassification and readjustment of such salaries on an equitable basis. Vacancies occurring in the membership of the commission shall be filled in the same manner as the original appointments.

The commission is authorized to sit during the sessions or recess of Congress, to send for persons and papers, to administer oaths, to summon and compel the attendance of witnesses, and to employ such clerical and expert services and incur such expenses as may be necessary to carry out the purpose of this investigation.

The heads of the Post Office Department, postmasters, supervisory officials, and employees of the Postal Service shall furnish data and information, and make investigations upon request of the commission.

It shall be the duty of the commission to report by bill or otherwise, as soon as practicable, the results of its investigation and what reclassification and readjustment of compensation should be made. The expense of such investigation shall be paid from the unexpended balance of any appropriation for the Postal Service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, or for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, and disbursed upon vouchers approved by the commission; which approval shall be conclusive upon the accounting officers of the Treasury Department. Funds necessary for the expenses of the commission shall become available upon the approval of this Act. (40 Stat. 1200.)

This section is § 3 of the postal service appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above.

Section 4 of Act Feb. 28, 1919, c. 69, 40 Stat. 1200, relates to expenditure of appropriations made under the act, and purchase of supplies. Its provisions are set forth as a note under § 579, ante.

TITLE X—THE DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY

CHAPTER A—THE DEPARTMENT AND THE SECRETARY OF THE NAVY

Sec.
611. Assistant Secretary.
614. Clerks and employés.
616. Naval stores and equipment of vessels.
617. Custody of the books and records.
621d. Chief of Naval Operations; allowances.
648. Reports by Secretary of Navy.
652aa. Adjustment of claims for loss of private property in Europe.
652b. Adjustment of claims for damages to private property from operations of aircraft.
654. Contingent expenses.
655a. Rewards to civilians.
655b. Distribution of automobiles.

§ 611. (Act July 11, 1890, c. 667, § 1.) Assistant Secretary.

The salary of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy is fixed at $5,000 per annum, by Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 614. (R. S. § 416.) Clerks and employés.

For enumeration of the officers and employés of the Navy Department, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, ch. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213. Said act also makes appropriation for temporary employés in the Department. Said act also contains the following proviso: "Provided, That the Secretary of the Navy shall submit to Congress on the first day of its next regular session a statement showing by bureaus or offices the number and designation of the persons employed hereunder and the annual rate of compensation paid to each: Provided further, That not more than thirty-five persons shall be employed hereunder at rates of compensation in excess of $2,000 per annum, of whom not more than ten shall be employed at a rate of compensation in excess of $2,400 per annum and not more than $4,000 per annum: Provided further, That detailed estimates shall be submitted by the Navy Department in the annual Book of Estimates for the fiscal year 1921 for necessary services of the character provided for in this paragraph."

Further provisions are made in said act for the services of draftsmen and other technical services in the following bureaus: Bureau of Steam Engineering; Bureau of Construction and Repair; Bureau of Ordnance; and Bureau of Yards and Docks. The expenditures for such services are required to be paid out of certain enumerated appropriations; and statements of the persons employed, their duties, and the compensation paid to each, are required to be made to Congress each year in the annual estimates.

§ 616. (R. S. § 417.) Naval stores and equipment of vessels.

Regulations for government of the Navy.—Under the regulations of the Navy Department, a "deserter" is one who is absent without leave and with a manifest intention not to return, while a "straggler" is one absent without leave, with the probability that he does not intend to desert, but, if his absence continues for 10 days, he becomes a deserter. Reed v. United States (C. C. A.) 252 F. 21.

§ 617. (R. S. § 418.) Custody of the books and records.

Reassignment of quarters.—Since this section, and Comp. St. 1916, §§ 301, 319, respectively, make the Secretary of State, Secretary of War, and Secretary of Navy, in express terms, custodians of property of respective departments, they, as mere custodians, cannot, without consent of Congress, reassign quarters in the State, War, and Navy Building. 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 70.

§ 621d. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 114.) Chief of Naval Operations; allowances.

Hereafter the Chief of Naval Operations shall receive the allowances which are now or may hereafter be prescribed by or in pursuance of law for the grade of general in the Army. (40 Stat. 716.)

This was a provision of the Naval service appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above.

§ 648. (R. S. § 429, as amended, Act June 22, 1910, c. 331.) Reports by Secretary of Navy.

The Secretaries of the Treasury, War, and Navy are required to transmit annually to Congress detailed statements of all expenditures under the urgent deficiencies act for the military and naval establishments on account of war expenses for the fiscal year 1917, by section 5 thereof, ante, § 334a.

§ 652aa. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 114.) Adjustment of claims for loss of private property in Europe.

Hereafter the Secretary of the Navy is authorized to consider, ascertain, adjust, determine, and pay the amounts due on all claims for damages to and loss of private property of inhabitants of any European country not an enemy or ally of an enemy when the amount of the claim does not exceed the sum of $1,000, occasioned and caused by men in the naval service during the period of the present war, all payments in settlement of such claims to be made out of "Pay, Miscellaneous." (40 Stat. 705.)

This was a provision of the naval service appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above.

§ 652b. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 114.) Adjustment of claims for damages to private property from operations of aircraft.

The Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized to consider, ascertain, adjust, determine, and pay out of this appropriation the amounts due on claims for damages which have occurred or may occur to private property growing out of the operations of naval aircraft. (40 Stat. 706.)

This was a provision of the naval service appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above.

§ 654. (Act June 22, 1906, c. 3514, § 1.) Contingent expenses.

Provision repeated in current appropriation act (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213).

§ 655a. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 114.) Rewards to civilians.

The Secretary of the Navy is hereby authorized, in his discretion and under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, to pay cash rewards to civilian employees of the Navy Department or the Naval Establishment or other persons in civil life when due to a suggestion or series of suggestions by them there results an improvement or economy in manufacturing process or plant or naval material: Provided, That such sums as may be awarded to employees or other persons in civil life in accordance with this Act shall be paid them out of current naval appropriations in addition to their usual compensation: Provided further, That no employee or other person in civil life shall be paid a reward under this Act until he has properly executed an agreement to the effect that the use by the United States of the suggestion or series of suggestions made by him shall not form the basis of a further claim of any nature from the United States by him, his heirs, or assigns. (40 Stat. 718.)

This was a provision of the naval service appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above.

§ 655b. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 114.) Distribution of automobiles.

The Secretary of the Navy is authorized to distribute the high-powered automobiles now owned and in use in the United States and its insular possessions to such places and service as they may be required. (40 Stat. 723.)

This was a provision of the naval service appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above.

CHAPTER B—THE HYDROGRAPHIC OFFICE

§ 657a. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 114.) Detail of naval officers to.

The Secretary of the Navy is authorized to detail such naval officers as may be necessary to the Hydrographic Office. (40 Stat. 708.)

This was a provision of the naval service appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. It supersedes prior provisions of a somewhat similar nature, viz. Act Aug. 29, 1916, c. 417, 39 Stat. 561, Act Mar. 4, 1917, c. 180, 39 Stat. 1172, and Act Apr. 25, 1917, c. 7, 40 Stat. 38.

TITLE XI—THE DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

Chap.		Sec.
1.	The Department	666
2.	The Secretary of the Interior	681
3.	The General Land-Office	690
4.	The Commissioner of Indian Affairs	713
5.	The Commissioner of Pensions	727
6.	The Patent-Office	736
9.	The Office of Education	766
9B.	The Bureau of Mines	783a

CHAPTER ONE—THE DEPARTMENT

Sec.
666. Assistant Secretary.
667a. Same; signing official papers, etc.
668. First Assistant Secretary.
668a. Chief clerk.
669. Clerks and employés.
672a. Board of appeals in office of Solicitor.
673. Financial clerk.

§ 666. (R. S. § 438.) Assistant Secretary.

The salary of the Assistant Secretary is fixed at $4,500 per annum, by Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 667a. (Res. March 28, 1918, c. 29.) Same; signing official papers, etc.

That the assistant to the Secretary of the Interior be, and hereby is, authorized to sign such official papers and documents as the Secretary may direct. (40 Stat. 499.)

This was a "Joint resolution authorizing the assistant to the Secretary of the Interior to sign official papers and documents," cited above.

§ 668. (Act March 3, 1885, c. 360.) First Assistant Secretary.

The salary of the First Assistant Secretary is fixed at $5,000 per annum, by Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 668a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Chief clerk.

Office of the Secretary: * * Chief clerk, including $500 as superintendent of buildings, who shall be chief executive officer of the department and who may be designated by the Secretary to sign official papers and documents during the temporary absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretaries, $4,000. * * (40 Stat. 1246.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above.

§ 669. (R. S. § 440, as amended, Act Feb. 15, 1916, c. 22, § 3.) Clerks and employés.

For enumeration of the officers and employés of the Interior Department, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 672a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Board of Appeals in office of Solicitor.

Office of Solicitor: Three members of a board of appeals, to be appointed by the Secretary of the Interior, at $4,000 each. * * (40 Stat. 1247.)

This section is a provision in the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

§ 673. (Act June 19, 1878, c. 329, § 1.) Financial clerk.

See § 739a, post.

CHAPTER TWO—THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR

§ 681. (R. S. § 441.) Duties.

3. Supervision of matters relating to public lands, in general.—Regulation requiring affidavit to soldier's homestead declaration giving him preferential right under Homestead Law, Rev. St. §§ 2304–2309 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 4592–4594, 4602, 4603, 4605), could be adopted by the Land Department under this section and Rev. St. §§ 161, 453, 2478 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 235, 699, 5120), notwithstanding reference to pre-emption cases in section 2309. U. S. v. Morehead, 37 S. Ct. 458, 243 U. S. 607, 61 L. Ed. 926.

Departmental regulation that soldier's homestead declaratory statement may be executed before any officer authorized to administer oaths held not inconsistent with act providing for administering of oaths by certain United States official in district in which land is situated, or provision of Rev. St. § 2293 (Comp. St. 1916, § 4545). Id.

Cited without definite application, Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Wismer, 38 S. Ct. 240.

§ 689a. (Act March 2, 1917, c. 146, § 1.) Exchange of automobiles.

The Secretary of the Interior may hereafter exchange automobiles in part payment for new machines used for the same purpose as those proposed to be exchanged. (39 Stat. 973.)

This was a provision accompanying an appropriation for the purchase of motor-propelled passenger-carrying vehicles in the Indian appropriation act for the fiscal year 1918, cited above.

CHAPTER THREE—THE GENERAL LAND-OFFICE

§ 690. (R. S. § 446.) Commissioner.

For enumeration of the officers and employés of the General Land Office, with the rates of their compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

Rules and regulations.—See U. S. v. Morehead, 37 S. Ct. 458, 243 U. S. 607, 61 L. Ed. 926; notes under § 681.

§ 698. (R. S. § 452.) Restriction upon officers, etc.

Officers, clerks, etc., within the prohibition.—Purchase by a Surveyor General for a state of school lands from the state held not rendered void by this section. Stutsman v. Olinda Land Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 525.

§ 699. (R. S. § 453, as amended, Act Feb. 18, 1875, c. 80, § 1.) Duties of Commissioner.

4. Land Department as special tribunal.—The Land Department of the United States is a special tribunal with judicial functions, and has exclusive jurisdiction over issues affecting title to public lands until patent is issued. Reed v. St. Paul, M. & M. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 123.

12. Departmental rules and regulations—Force and effect of rules.—A ruling by the Commissioner of the General Land Office held not a construction of Act May 27, 1908, § 3, which renders the enrollment of an Indian conclusive as to the date of his birth against a purchaser of land from him. McDaniel v. Holland, 230 F. 945, 145 C. C. A. 139.

A ruling of the Commissioner of the General Land Office that the date of application for enrollment of a citizen of the Five Civilized Tribes should be held to be the anniversary of the birth is not a construction of Act Cong. May 27, 1908, § 3, relating to conclusiveness of enrollment as to age of Indian. Heffner v. Harmon (Okl.) 159 P. 650.

20. Cancellation of entry—Grounds for cancellation.—In suit to vacate patent on ground of fraud practiced on land department, government must sus-tain burden of proof by evidence which produces conviction. U. S. v. Porter Fuel Co., 247 F. 769, 159 C. C. A. 627.

25. Appeal and review—Matters reviewable.—The United States Land Department's action in disposing of public domain will not be inquired into by courts, unless material error of law clearly appears or there has been fraud practiced upon or by the officer. Jones v. Fearnow (Okl.) 156 P. 309.

29. Finality and conclusiveness of decisions.—Decision of Land Department that contestant was owner of improvements within Cherokee Allotment Act July 1, 1902, § 11, held binding on the courts, unless it was without evidence to support it, or with error of law. Harnage v. Martin, 37 S. Ct. 148, 242 U. S. 386, 61 L. Ed. 382, affirming decree 136 P. 154, 40 Okl. 341.

The Land Department's adjudication of matters within its jurisdiction, such as its issuance of a patent to land, is, like those of other judicial tribunals, impervious to collateral attack, and voidable only by direct suit for that purpose on the ground of fraud or error of law. Conkling Mining Co. v. Silver King Coalition Mines Co., 230 F. 553, 144 C. C. A. 607.

In the absence of fraud, the findings and decisions of the officers of the land office in a contest cannot be collaterally attacked by one claiming through the predominating party in such contest. Ketchum Coal Co. v. Pleasant Valley Coal Co. (Utah) 168 P. 86.

32. —— Questions of fact in general.—In proceedings for the alienation of public lands, in the absence of fraud, imposition, or mistake, the action of the land department, upon matters of fact cognizable by it, is conclusive. Clear Lake Power & Improvement Co. v. Chriswell (Idaho) 173 P. 326; Clearwater County State Bank v. Ricke (Minn.) 163 N. W. 793, 137 Minn. 438.

To a bill seeking to enjoin trespasses on national forest reserve answer setting up a prior homestead entry and its disallowance by the Land Department and Secretary of Interior states no defense, the question being one of fact for the land office. U. S. v. Bush (D. C.) 233 F. 808.

Decisions of officers of Land Department upon questions of fact are conclusive upon third persons in absence of fraud; but if fraud is practiced upon them their rulings may be reviewed by the courts. Elliott v. Robbins (Cal. App.) 165 P. 1042.

Decisions of Land Department on questions of fact, in absence of showing by plaintiff, seeking to enforce trust as to land patented to defendant, that he has complied with rules of Department of Interior, are not subject to review by courts. Bond v. Walters (Cal. App.) 175 P. 909.

34. —— Character and status of lands.—The decision of the Land Department as to the character of public lands is not reviewable by the courts. Clear Lake Power & Improvement Co. v. Chriswell (Idaho) 173 P. 326.

36. —— Questions of law.—While decision of Land Department that entry was abandoned is conclusive as to facts, it may be inquired into by courts as question of law. Edwards v. Bodkin, 249 F. 562, 161 C. C. A. 488.

The question whether lands withdrawn from entry and settlement pending determination whether they should be included in a forest reservation and released thereafter were eliminated from the forest reserve is one of law as to which the courts are not controlled by departmental rulings. Walker v. Kingsbury (Cal. App.) 173 P. 95.

41. Judicial interference with Land Department.—See Lane v. United States ex rel. Mickadiet, 36 S. Ct. 599, 241 U. S. 201, 60 L. Ed. 956, reversing judgment United States of America ex rel. Mickadiet v. Lane, 43 App. D. C. 414.

The federal courts have no jurisdiction to quiet title and determine adverse claims to public land, title to which is in the United States, for the Land Department has exclusive jurisdiction over such matters. Reed v. St. Paul, M. & M. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 123.

Mandamus to the Secretary of the Interior to compel him to issue a patent based on a fraudulent registration in the roll of members of the Chickasaw Nation of Indians held not to lie. Lane v. Duncan Townsite Co., 44 App. D. C. 63.

46. —— Fraud.—The District Court may only correct errors of the Department of the Interior in disposing of public land for fraud or a manifest misconstruction of the law, and cannot sit as a court of appeal. Edwards v. Bodkin (D. C.) 241 F. 931.

Within the domain of fact, in the absence of extrinsic fraud, the conclusions of the Department of the Interior respecting the disposal of public lands are not susceptible to collateral attack. Id.

Fraud invalidating departmental decisions respecting the disposal of public lands must be alleged with fullness and particularity showing that it necessarily affected the action of the departmental officers. Id.

Where decision by Land Department in a contest of conflicting claims is attacked for fraud in obtaining it, right to make such attack is governed by same principles as control in testing validity of ordinary judgments of courts. Elliott v. Robbins (Cal. App.) 165 P. 1042.

In action for possession of public land in which plaintiff claimed under a certificate of entry, case exhibited held to establish plaintiff's right to recover possession, although he gave perjured testimony in proceeding in which his right to enter was sustained. Id.

49. Court of Private Land Claims.—Jurisdiction to establish, as a boundary between Mexican grants, a line reducing the area of one grant which had been confirmed and patented before Act March 3, 1891, creating a Court of Private Land Claims, was denied to that court by sections 8, 13. Board of Trustees of Sevilleta de la Joya Grant v. Board of Trustees of Belen Land Grant, 37 S. Ct. 215, 242 U. S. 595, 61 L. Ed. 514, affirming judgment 146 P. 959, 20 N. M. 145.

Consent of owners of Mexican grant, confirmed by Congress, will give no jurisdiction to Court of Private Land Claims, in contravention of Act March 3, 1891, §§ 8, 13. Id.

§ 705. (R. S. § 458.) Issue of patents.

1. Nature of patent.—As respects the government of the United States, the right to a patent once vested is equivalent to a patent issued. Thompson v. Thompson, 155 P. 1190, 79 Or. 513.

2. Necessity of patent.—Issuance of receiver's final receipt constitutes a conveyance of the equitable title, and until issuance of patent the government merely holds legal title as trustee for the holder of the receipt, although in case of fraud, it might still refuse to issue patent. Colm v. Francis, 159 P. 237. 30 Cal. App. 742.

The title to public land does not pass from the government until the issuance of a patent. Baker v. Berg (Minn.) 164 N. W. 588, certiorari denied Berg v. Baker, 38 S. Ct. 332, 62 L. Ed. 927.

A public land "patent" is the instrument which passes the legal title, and prior to its issuance the legal title remains with the government and is subject to investigation and determination by the Land Department. Bovey-Shute Lumber Co. v. Erickson (N. D.) 170 N. W. 628.

13. Construction and operation.—Notations on final homestead receipts as to the statute under which entry is made or the recitals in a patent have no controlling force upon the title of the grantee, as the law is read into such instruments. Entiat Delta Orchards Co. v. Unknown Heirs of Saska (Wash.) 168 P. 1130.

14. —— Title conveyed.—Where patent to government land is taken in the name of the husband on an entry made in his name, but paid for by the wife out of joint earnings, the land is his sole property, notwithstanding he was married at the time and the proceeds of a sale of the land, though made by the wife, also belongs to him. Kupfer v. Biehn (S. D.) 169 N. W. 514.

16. —— Relation back.—A patent relates back to the date of the patentee's entry. Pierce v. Chicago, M. & P. S. Ry. Co. (Mont.) 156 P. 127.

Where plaintiff secured cancellation of a prior entry and then filed his own entry, later securing a patent, his title cannot be construed as commencing before the entry. Id.

17. —— Property and rights included.—Where, under Homestead Law, land is patented as agricultural, such patent is adjudication of the Land Department that land is not then known to contain minerals in paying quantities, and of every other fact essential to validity of patent. U. S. v. Beaman, 242 F. 876, 155 C. C. A. 464.

23. —— Recordation.—Where land patents to assignee of military warrants are recorded at Washington, D. C., as provided by this section, they are notice to the county tax collector as to ownership, although not filed in the county. Bell v. George (Mo.) 204 S. W. 516.

24. —— Patents as evidence.—In a suit to abate a nuisance by maintaining an embankment on a public highway, a patent issued to defendant's predecessor in title, referring to the road as a highway was admissible as against the defendant. People v. Power (Cal. App.) 175 P. 803.

25. —— Presumptions.—A patent of United States is adjudication by Land Department, and raises presumption of right and regularity in all proceedings antedating it and of perfect title in grantee. U. S. v. Beaman, 242 F. 876, 155 C. C. A. 464.

28. —— Conclusiveness.—An occupant of land patented to a railroad, who relinquished his rights therein by homesteading other land, had no color of right to challenge the action of the Land Department in patenting the land to the railroad. U. S. v. New Orleans Pac. Ry. Co., 235 F. 833, 149 C. C. A. 145.

Patents issued by federal and state governments through land departments, under legislative acts, have the same force as if issued by the legislative body itself, and are conclusive in the absence of fraud or mistake. Caldwell v. Pierson (S. D.) 159 N. W. 124.

29. —— Collateral attack.—Patent to land, being decision of Land Department, is impervious to collateral attack and raises strong presumption that decision is right. U. S. v. Beaman, 242 F. 876, 155 C. C. A. 464.

A patent under the homestead laws is not a good defense in ejectment as against one claiming under a prior railroad grant, a patent being open to collateral attack where the land was already granted. People's Water Co. v. Perkins (Cal. App.) 168 P. 154.

31. Equitable remedies — Right to maintain suit.—An individual, maintaining a suit to have a patentee of land declared a trustee thereof for him, may not complain on behalf of the United States that defendant was not entitled to a patent. Fisher v. Rule, 39 S. Ct. 122, 63 L. Ed. —.

Plaintiff, by application, never allowed to enter land as a homestead, acquired no right or interest in the land, entitling him to complain of issuance of patent to defendant; the application as originally made, after cancellation of defendant's entry on decision and direction of the Secretary of the Interior, not sufficiently showing plaintiff was a qualified applicant, and, before further showing was made all action under the Secretary's decision being by him suspended, pending a reconsideration thereof, on which the decision was recalled. Id.

To succeed in a suit to have a patentee of land declared trustee thereof for plaintiff, he must show a better right than patentee, such as should have been respected by the land department, and being respected, would have given him the patent; it not being enough that patentee should not have received it. Id.

Trust, if any, in favor of occupant of land in railroad grant confirmed by Act Feb. 8, 1887, § 2, 24 Stat. 388, held not enforceable by the government. U. S. v. New Orleans Pac. Ry. Co., 235 F. 833, 149 C. C. A. 145.

Though patent to land was secured through fraud and misrepresentation, it cannot be attacked by the government where, after institution of a suit against the patentee, the land was transferred to a purchaser for value in good faith, without notice of the suit. U. S. v. Calcasieu Timber Co., 236 F. 196, 149 C. C. A. 386.

32. —— Trust in lands granted in general.—In suit to enforce trust as to lands held by defendant under patent from United States, plaintiff's allegation of conclusion that defendant was not entitled to receive land was not sufficient. He must go further, and show he occupied such a status, having complied with rules of Department of Interior, as entitled him to control title. Bond v. Walters (Cal. App.) 175 P. 909.

Plaintiff, seeking to enforce a trust as true owner of land held by another under patent, must show by his complaint that he is entitled to the relief sought, that he occupies a status entitling him to control legal title, and that officers who awarded land to defendant, to whom patent was issued, were imposed upon by fraudulent practices of defendant. Id.

Courts of equity will entertain proceedings to decree that persons who have received patents to land hold them in trust for the true owner. Id.

In suits to enforce trusts as to land held by defendant under patent from United States, complaints held insufficient, as failing to allege that plaintiffs, in their contests with defendant before land department, introduced any evidence they had complied with regulations of Department of Interior entitling them to lands but for adverse claim of defendant, and as failing to claim defendant practiced any fraud on government. Id.

33. —— Mistake or misapplication of law.—Whether officers of United States land department correctly applied the law must be determined upon the facts there found or established. Clearwater, County State Bank v. Ricke, 163 N. W. 793, 137 Minn. 438.

Where it is clear that officers of the United States land department have misapplied the law, a court of equity may give appropriate relief. Id.

35. —— Fraud or imposition.—The question whether fraudulent misrepresentations, by which the entryman obtained patent to homestead, were material, is a question for the court, not the jury. U. S. v. Jones (D. C.) 232 F. 218.

The question of the damages recoverable for fraud of a homestead entryman will not be determined on demurrer to an answer relating wholly to the measure of damages. Id.

Fraud in an application for commutation by an entryman not entitled to commute under Rev. St. § 2301 (Comp. St. 1916, § 4589), was not fraud as to a material matter. Id.

That an entryman effected his purpose by fraud in final proof, not entitling him to the land, does not estop him from denying the materiality of the misrepresentation. Id.

Misrepresentations in final proof, under which an entryman, through mistake of law, was allowed to deduct time of military service, under Rev. St. §§ 2304, 2305 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 4592, 4593), and Act Jan. 26, 1901, 31 Stat. 740, which deduction was contrary to Act Aug. 15, 1894, 28 Stat. 305, was misrepresentation as to an immaterial fact. Id.

37½. —— Laches.—Right to enforce trust, if any, in favor of occupant of land patented to railroad company and confirmed to it by Act Feb. 8, 1887, 24 Stat. 388, held barred by inexcusable laches. U. S. v. New Orleans Pac. Ry. Co., 235 F. 841, 149 C. C. A. 153.

Claim of occupant that title passing by patent inured to his benefit and that land was held in trust held cognizable only in equity, and subject to defenses of staleness and laches. Id.

Laches held not to bar defendant's right to recover public lands asserted within ten years after issuance of patent, where defendant's rights were protected, until patent issued by judgment against plaintiff's predecessors. Wolbol v. Steinhoff (Wyo.) 168 P. 251, rehearing denied 170 P. 381.

41. Cancellation of patents—Who may bring suit.—The United States may maintain a suit to cancel a patent to land erroneously issued, although the beneficial interest in the land has become vested in another. U. S. v. Great Northern Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 522.

44. —— Grounds for cancellation.—Where an entryman on public lands was entitled to a patent despite temporary absences, held, that his statement in his final proof that he had not been absent from the homestead did not, in view of circumstances, warrant cancellation of patent. U. S. v. Anderson (D. C.) 238 F. 648.

A patent to public land cannot be annulled for fraud unless the evidence is unequivocal, clear, and convincing. Id.

44½. —— Laches.—Laches held available as defense to suit to cancel grant of public land in interest of another claimant, though not available when government sues to enforce a public right or assert a public interest. U. S. v. Fletcher, 242 F. 818, 155 C. C. A. 406, affirming decree (D. C.) 231 F. 326.

Suit in the name of the government to cancel patent to land for benefit of another claimant held barred by laches, where for over 30 years no step in its prosecution was taken after its institution. Id.

45. —— Parties and process.—Entryman's grantee is entitled to notice of proceedings to cancel entry for fraud although he had actual notice thereof. Wolbol v. Steinhoff (Wyo.) 168 P. 251, rehearing denied 170 P. 381.

45½. —— Pleading and proof.—A bill to set aside a patent to public lands, averring that defendants claim some title, estate, and interest in the land by reason of a patent, is insufficient to give jurisdiction to a court of equity. Reed v. St. Paul, M. & M. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 207.

A bill to set aside a patent to public lands, which averred settlement upon, improvement, and failure to post notices of claim, and also averred plaintiff's adverse possession for 10 years, and the subsequent issuance of a patent to defendant, is insufficient to state a cause of action. Id.

A bill to set aside a patent to public lands is open to demurrer, where it does not show that the patent was issued through fraud, mistake of fact, or erroneous construction of the law. Id.

Under the prayer of the bill for a general relief in a suit to avoid for fraud a patent for public lands, defendant having passed the land to a bona fide purchaser, money damages may be decreed. U. S. v. Frick (D. C.) 244 F. 574.

46. —— Evidence and burden of proof.—Where the United States has shown that patents to public lands were obtained fraudulently, a subsequent purchaser, claiming through the patentees, has the burden of proving affirmatively that he was a good-faith purchaser. Northern Colorado Coal Co. v. United States, 234 F. 34, 148 C. C. A. 50.

In a suit by the government for cancellation of patents to coal lands obtained by fraud, the defendant has the burden of establishing the defense that he was a good-faith purchaser without notice by affirmative evidence. Hill v. U. S., 234 F. 39, 148 C. C. A. 55, affirming judgment (D. C.) U. S. v. Hill, 217 F. 841.

Unless proof that a patent to public land was secured through fraud is clear and convincing, the patent should not be overthrown. U. S. v. Albright (D. C.) 234 F. 202.

In a suit to cancel a patent to public lands on the ground that the patentee was acting under a contract to subsequently convey to defendant, evidence held insufficient to establish any such agreement, or that the patentee's entry was not in good faith. Id.

It is presumed that all preceding steps required to obtain a patent to public lands have been observed; and, in view of the importance and necessity of the stability of titles, a patent should be set aside for fraud in proofs only where the fraud is clearly established. U. S. Mahaffey, 235 F. 704, 149 C. C. A. 124.

While government may avoid a patent by suit in equity for false and deceitful representations, burden is on it to establish fraud by evidence producing conviction. U. S. v. Beaman, 242 F. 876, 55 C. C. A. 464.

In action to set aside a patent issued by United States land department after litigation, plaintiff must allege and show what facts were established in litigation, so as to show that officers of land department misapplied the law. Clearwater County State Bank v. Ricke, 163 N. W. 793, 137 Minn. 438.

47. —— Decree.—Where a suit in equity to cancel a patent to land was dismissed on motion of the United States attorney without any hearing or decision on the merits, the judgment of dismissal was not res judicata as to the issues involved in an action at law for damages for fraud in procuring the patent. Bistline v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 229 F. 546.

CHAPTER FOUR—THE COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

§ 713. (R. S. § 462.) Commissioner.

For enumeration of officers and employés in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 716. (R. S. § 463.) Duties of Commissioner.

Nature and scope of commissioner's authority.—Commissioner of Five Civilzed Tribes, Commissioner of Indian Affairs and Secretary of Interior have duty of allotting lands in Indian Nation, and their action will not be reviewed unless they have committed error of law, have been imposed on by fraud, or are guilty of fraud. Higgins v. Waters (Okl.) 159 P. 1129.

Cited without definite application, Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Wismer, 38 S. Ct. 240, 62 L. Ed. 716.

CHAPTER FIVE—THE COMMISSIONER OF PENSIONS

§ 727. (R. S. § 470.) Commissioner.

For enumeration of officers and employés in the office of the Commissioner of Pensions, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

CHAPTER SIX—THE PATENT-OFFICE

Sec.
736. Officers and employés.
738. Chief clerk.
738a. Examiners.
739. Private Secretary to Commissioner.
739a. Financial clerk.
739b. Librarian.
739c. Chiefs of divisions.
745. Regulations.
758. Annual report of the Commissioner.

§ 736. (R. S. § 476, as amended, Act Feb. 15, 1916, c. 22, § 1.) Officers and employés.

For enumeration of officers and employés of the Patent Office, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 738. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Chief clerk.

Patent Office: * * Chief clerk (who shall be qualified to act as principal examiner), $3,000. * * (40 Stat. 1248.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

§ 738a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Examiners.

Patent Office: * * Five law examiners, at $2,750 each; examiner of classification, $3,600; five examiners in chief, at $3,500 each; two examiners of interferences, at $2,700 each; examiners of trade-marks and designs—one $2,700, first assistant $2,400, six assistants at $1,500 each; examiners—forty-five principals at $2,700 each, ninety first assistants at $2,400 each, ninety second assistants at $2,100 each, ninety third assistants at $1,800 each, ninety fourth assistants at $1,500 each. * * (40 Stat. 1248.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above.

§ 739. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Private Secretary to Commissioner.

Patent Office: * * Private secretary, to be selected and appointed by the commissioner, $1,800. * * (40 Stat. 1249.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in the prior appropriation acts.

§ 739a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Financial clerk.

Patent Office: * * Financial clerk, who shall give bond in such amount as the Secretary of the Interior may determine, $2,250. * * (40 Stat. 1249.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

§ 739b. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Librarian.

Patent Office: * * Librarian, who shall be qualified to act as an assistant examiner, $2,000. * * (40 Stat. 1249.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

§ 739c. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Chiefs of divisions.

Patent Office: * * Eight chiefs of divisions, at $2,000 each; three assistant chiefs of divisions, at $1,800 each. * * (40 Stat. 1249.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

§ 745. (R. S. § 483.) Regulations.

Force and effect of rules.—Rules established by the Commissioner of Patents, pursuant to this section, if not inconsistent with law, have the force of statute. Westinghouse Traction Brake Co. v. Christensen, 243 F. 901, 156 C. C. A. 413.

§ 758. (R. S. § 494.) Annual report of the Commissioner.

Printing report.—The annual report of the Commissioner of Patents required by this section is not within the operation of section 9 of the sundry civil appropriation act of August 1, 1914 (38 Stat. 680), relating to the time within which the annual reports and accompanying documents of the heads of executive departments and other branches of the public service shall be furnished to the Public Printer. 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 296.

CHAPTER NINE—THE OFFICE OF EDUCATION

§ 766. (R. S. § 517.) Commissioner of Education.

For enumeration of officers and employés of the Bureau of Education, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 768. (R. S. § 518.) Report of Commissioner.

Printing report.—The annual report of the Commissioner of Education required by this section is not within the operation of section 7 of the sundry civil appropriation act of August 1, 1914 (38 Stat. 680), which limits the time within which heads of executive departments or other branches of the public service shall furnish copies of their annual reports and accompanying documents to the Public Printer. 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 293.

CHAPTER NINE B—THE BUREAU OF MINES

§ 783a. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 113, § 1.) Details of employés for service in Washington.

Persons employed during the fiscal year nineteen hundred and nineteen in field work, outside of the District of Columbia, under the Bureau of Mines, may be detailed temporarily for service in the District of Columbia, for purposes of preparing results of their field work; all persons so detailed shall be paid in addition to their regular compensation only their actual traveling expenses or per diem in lieu of subsistence in going to and returning therefrom: Provided, That nothing herein shall prevent the payment to employees of the Bureau of Mines their necessary expenses or per diem, in lieu of subsistence while on temporary detail in the District of Columbia, for purposes only of consultation or investigations on behalf of the United States. All details made hereunder, and the purposes of each, during the preceding fiscal year, shall be reported in the annual estimates of appropriations to Congress at the beginning of each regular session thereof. (40 Stat. 672.)

This was a provision of the sundry civil appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

§ 784a. (Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 23, § 1.) Experiments with lignite coal and peat; appropriation.

The Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized and directed to make experiments and investigations, through the Bureau of Mines, of lignite coals and peat, to determine the commercial and economic practicability of their utilization in producing fuel oil, gasoline substitutes, ammonia, tar, solid fuels, gas for power and other purposes; and there is hereby appropriated, out of the funds in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $100,000, or so much thereof as may be needed, to conduct such experiments and investigations, including personal services in the District of Columbia and elsewhere, and including supplies, equipment, expenses of traveling and subsistence, and for every other expense incident to this work. (40 Stat. 1154.)

This section, and the section next following, are an act entitled "An act authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to make investigations through the Bureau of Mines, of lignite coals and peat, to determine the practicability of their utilization as a fuel and in producing commercial products," cited above.

§ 784b. (Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 23, § 2.) Same; disposition of property after investigation concluded.

The Secretary of the Interior is authorized and directed to sell or otherwise dispose of any property, plant or machinery purchased or acquired under the provisions of this Act, as soon as the experiments and investigations hereby authorized have been concluded, and report the results of such experiments and investigations to Congress. (40 Stat. 1154.)

See note to § 784a, ante.

§ 787c. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 113, § 1.) Headquarters of mine rescue cars.

For purchase or lease of necessary land, where and under such conditions as the Secretary of the Interior may direct, for the headquarters of mine rescue cars and construction of necessary railway sidings and housing for the same, or as the site of an experimental mine and a plant for studying explosives, * *: Provided, That the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to accept any suitable land or lands, buildings, or improvements, that may be donated for said purpose and to enter into leases for periods not exceeding ten years, subject to annual appropriations by Congress. (40 Stat. 672.)

This was a provision of the sundry civil appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

TITLE XII—THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

CHAPTER A—THE DEPARTMENT AND SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

Sec.
790a. Additional Assistant Secretaries.
791. Salaries.
793. Clerks and employés.
795. Bureaus; Soils; Forestry; Chemistry; Plant Industry.
795aa. Same; Markets.
803. Details of employés from or to office of Secretary.
814b. Purchase of vehicles and motor boats.
814bb. Exchange of motor vehicles.
820a. Seeds and plants; contracts for printed packets.
823. Laws affecting national forest lands.
825a. Monthly crop reports; time for printing and distribution.
827a. Mexican pink boll-worm.
828a. Quality and condition of farm products received at central markets; certificates issued by agents.
832b. Sale of potash.
832bb. Sale of products from agricultural experiment stations in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands.
832c. Loan, rental or sale of films.
839a. Reports; expenditures for agricultural experiment stations.
839b. Vegetable dehydration plants.
839c. Requisition of buildings for use of Department.

§ 790a. (Act Aug. 10, 1917, c. 52, § 5.) Additional Assistant Secretaries.

The President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, may appoint two additional Assistant Secretaries of Agriculture, who shall perform such duties as may be required by law or prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture, and who shall each be paid a salary of $5,000 per annum. (40 Stat. 274.)

This was section 5 of an act entitled "An act to provide further for the national security and defense by stimulating agriculture and facilitating the distribution of agricultural products," cited above.

§ 791. (Act Feb. 9, 1889, c. 122, § 3.) Salaries.

The agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178, 40 Stat. 973, contains the following appropriation for salaries: "Secretary of Agriculture, $12,000; Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, $5,000; Solicitor, $5,000; chief clerk, $3,000, and $500 additional as custodian of buildings; private secretary to the Secretary of Agriculture, $2,500; executive clerk, $2,250; executive clerk, $2,100; stenographer and executive clerk to the Secretary of Agriculture, $2,250; private secretary to the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, $2,250; one appointment clerk, $2,000; one assistant in charge of information, $3,000; one officer in charge of supplies, $2,000; one assistant, $2,000; one inspector, $2,750; one inspector, $2,250; one law clerk, $3,250; two law clerks, at $3,000 each; two law clerks, at $2,750 each; four law clerks, at $2,500 each; eight law clerks, at $2,250 each; one law clerk, $2,200; five law clerks, at $2,000 each; three law clerks, at $1,800 each; four law clerks, at $1,600 each; one assistant editor, $2,000; four assistant editors, at $1,800 each; one assistant editor, $1,600; one expert on exhibits, $3,000; one assistant in exhibits, $2,000," etc.

§ 793. (R. S. § 522.) Clerks and employés.

See note to § 791, ante.

§ 795. (Act June 3, 1902, c. 985.) Bureaus; Soils; Forestry; Chemistry; Plant Industry.

The agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178, 40 Stat. 973, makes the following appropriations for the salaries of the officers, etc., of the various bureaus of the Department of Agriculture:

Bureau of Plant Industry—"One physiologist and pathologist, who shall be chief of bureau, $5,000; one assistant to the chief, $3,000; one executive assistant in seed distribution, $2,500; one officer in charge of publications, $2,250; one landscape gardener, $1,800; one officer in charge of records, $2,250; one executive clerk, $2,000; two executive clerks, at $1,980 each; one seed inspector, $1,000; one seed warehouseman, $1,400; one seed warehouseman, $1,000; one seed warehouseman, $840," etc.

Bureau of Chemistry—"One chemist, who shall be chief of bureau, $5,000; one chief clerk, $2,500; three executive clerks, at $2,000 each; ten clerks, class four; thirteen clerks, class three; two clerks, at $1,440 each; nineteen clerks, class two; one clerk, $1,300; sixty-six clerks, class one; one clerk, $1,100; thirteen clerks, at $1,020 each; fifteen clerks, at $1,000 each; one clerk, $960; twelve clerks, at $900 each; two food and drug inspectors, at $2,500 each; two food and drug inspectors at $2,250 each; one food and drug inspector, $2,120; thirteen food and drug inspectors, at $2,000 each; thirteen food and drug inspectors, at $1,800 each; one food and drug inspector, $1,620; eleven food and drug inspectors, at $1,600 each; ten food and drug inspectors, at $1,400 each; one assistant, $1,600," etc.

Bureau of Soils—"One soil physicist, who shall be chief of bureau, $4,000; one chief clerk, $2,000; one executive assistant, $2,000; four clerks, class four: two clerks, class three; five clerks, class two; one clerk, $1,260; ten clerks, class one; seven clerks, at $1,000 each; one soil cartographer, $1,800; one chief draftsman, $1,600; one soil bibliographer or draftsman, $1,400; one photographer, $1,200; five draftsmen, at $1,200 each; one clerk-draftsman, $1,200; two draftsmen, at $1,000 each," etc.

Bureau of Entomology—"One entomologist, who shall be chief of bureau, $4,500; one chief clerk and executive assistant, $2,250; one administrative assistant, $2,250; one editor, $2,250," etc.

Bureau of Biological Survey—"One biologist, who shall be chief of bureau, $3,500; one chief clerk and executive assistant, $1,800; one administrative assistant, $2,250; one executive assistant, $1,800," etc.

Bureau of Crop Estimates—"One statistician, who shall be chief of bureau, $4,000; one chief clerk, $1,800," etc.

Bureau of Public Roads—"One director, who shall be a scientist and have charge of all scientific and technical work, $4,500; one editor, $2,500," etc.

Bureau of Markets—"One chief of bureau, $4,500; one chief clerk, $2,000; one administrative assistant, $2,500; one clerk in charge of supplies and accounts, $2,250; one administrative assistant, $1,980," etc.

Forest Service—"One forester, who shall be chief of bureau, $5,000; one chief of office of accounts and fiscal agent, $2,500; one inspector of records, $2,400; seven district fiscal agents, at $2,120 each; one forest supervisor, $2,800; one forest supervisor, $2,700; eight forest supervisors, at $2,400 each; twenty forest supervisors, at $2,200 each; forty-nine forest supervisors, at $2,000 each; sixty-six forest supervisors, at $1,800 each; five forest supervisors, at $1,600 each; one deputy forest supervisor, $1,800; four deputy forest supervisors, at $1,700 each; twenty-eight deputy forest supervisors, at $1,600 each; thirty-one deputy forest supervisors, at $1,500 each; eighteen deputy forest supervisors, at $1,400 each; eleven forest rangers, at $1,500 each; twenty-three forest rangers, at $1,400 each; seventy-eight forest rangers, at $1,300 each; two hundred and eighty-eight forest rangers, at $1,200 each; six hundred and thirty forest rangers, at $1,100 each; one hundred forest guards, at $1,100 each, for periods not exceeding six months in the aggregate; forty forest guards, at $1,100 each, for periods not exceeding three months in the aggregate," etc.

Division of Accounts and Disbursements—"One chief of division and disbursing clerk, $4,000; one supervising auditor, $2,250; one cashier and chief clerk, $2,250," etc.

Division of Publications—"One chief of division, $3,500; one assistant chief of division, $2,500; one chief clerk, $2,000; one assistant, $2,000; one assistant, $1,400; one assistant in charge of indexing, $2,000; one indexer, $1,400; one assistant in charge of illustrations, $2,100; two draftsmen or photographers, at $1,600 each; two draftsmen or photographers, at $1,500 each; three draftsmen or photographers, at $1,400 each; one draftsman or photographer, $1,300; ten draftsmen or photographers, at $1,200 each; one assistant photographer, $900; one lantern slide colorist, $840; one laboratory aid, $720; one assistant in charge of document section, $2,000; one assistant in document section, $1,800; one assistant in document section, $1,400," etc.

Library, Department of Agriculture—"One librarian, $2,000," etc.

States Relations Service—"One director, $4,500; one chief clerk, $2,000; one financial clerk, $2,000," etc.

Enforcement of Insecticide Act—"One executive officer, $2,750; one executive assistant, $2,000," etc.

Federal Horticultural Board—"One secretary of board, $2,280; one executive clerk, $2,000."

§ 795aa. (Act March 4, 1917, c. 179.) Same; markets.

Hereafter, in the performance of the duties required of the Department of Agriculture by the provisions of this Act relating to the Bureau of Markets, the Secretary of Agriculture shall have power to administer oaths, examine witnesses, and call for the production of books and papers. (39 Stat. 1163.)

This was a provision accompanying appropriations for the Bureau of Markets in the Department of Agriculture in the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1918, cited above.

The agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178, 40 Stat. 973, contains the following provision: "In the performance of the duties required of the Bureau of Markets in the administration or enforcement of provisions of Acts (United States cotton-futures Act, Thirty-ninth Statutes at large, page four hundred and seventy-six; United States grain standards Act, Thirty-ninth Statutes at Large, page four hundred and eighty-two; United States warehouse Act, Thirty-ninth Statutes at Large, page four hundred and eighty-six; standard container Act, Thirty-ninth Statutes at Large, page six hundred and seventy-three; and the Acts making annual appropriations for the Department of Agriculture) relating to the Department of Agriculture, the Secretary of Agriculture, or any representative authorized by him for the purpose, shall have power to administer oaths, examine witnesses, and call for the production of books and papers, during the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and nineteen."

§ 803. (Act March 4, 1907, c. 2907.) Details of employés from or to office of Secretary.

Details may be made from or to the office of the Secretary when necessary and the services of the person whom it is proposed to detail are not required in that office. (34 Stat. 1280.)

Republished here to correct an error in the section as originally published, which consisted in the omission of the words "or to" after the word "from" in the first line.

§ 814b. (Act Aug. 11, 1916, c. 313.) Purchase of vehicles and motor boats.

The agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178, 40 Stat. 973, contains the following provision: "That not to exceed $63,000 of the lump-sum appropriations herein made for the Department of Agriculture shall be available for the purchase, maintenance, repair, and operation of motor-propelled and horse-drawn passenger-carrying vehicles necessary in the conduct of the field work of the Department of Agriculture outside the District of Columbia: Provided, That not to exceed $13,000 of this amount shall be expended for the purchase of such vehicles, and that such vehicles shall be used only for official service outside the District of Columbia, but this shall not prevent the continued use for official service of motortrucks in the District of Columbia: Provided further, That the Secretary of Agriculture shall, on the first day of each regular session of Congress, make a report to Congress showing the amount expended under the provisions of this paragraph during the preceding fiscal year."

§ 814bb. (Act March 4, 1917, c. 179.) Exchange of motor vehicles.

Hereafter the Secretary of Agriculture may exchange motor-propelled and horse-drawn passenger-carrying vehicles in part payment for new motor-propelled or horse-drawn passenger-carrying vehicles authorized to be purchased by him, to be used for the same purposes as those proposed to be exchanged, and shall, on the first day of each regular session of Congress, make a report to Congress for the fiscal year last closed showing, as to each exchange hereunder, the make of the vehicle, the period of its use, the allowance therefor, and the vehicle, make thereof, and price, including exchange value, paid, or to be paid, for each vehicle procured through such exchange. (39 Stat. 1167.)

This was a provision of the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1918, cited above.

§ 820a. (Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178.) Seeds and plants; contracts for printed packets.

The Secretary of Agriculture, after due advertisement and on competitive bids, is authorized to award the contract for the supplying of printed packets and envelopes and the packeting, assembling, and mailing of the seeds, bulbs, shrubs, vines, cuttings, and plants, or any part thereof, for a period of not more than five years nor less than one year, if by such action he can best protect the interests of the United States. (40 Stat. 983.)

This was a provision of the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

§ 823. (Act Feb. 1, 1905, c. 288, § 1.) Laws affecting national forest lands.

See 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 263.

Operation of act.—Right to use public lands in forest reservations as sites for electric power works was not given by Act Feb. 1, 1905, 33 Stat. 628 Utah Power & Light Co. v. U. S., 37 S. Ct. 387, 243 U. S. 389, 61 L. Ed. 791.

§ 825a. (Act March 4, 1917, c. 179.) Monthly crop reports; time for printing and distribution.

Hereafter the Monthly Crop Report shall be printed and distributed on or before the twelfth day of each month. (39 Stat. 1157.)

This was a provision of the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1918, cited above.

§ 827a. (Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 79, § 1.) Mexican pink boll-worm.

On account of the menace to cotton culture in the United States arising from the existence of the pink bollworm in Mexico, the Secretary of Agriculture, in order to prevent the establishment and spread of such worm in Texas and other parts of the United States, is authorized to make surveys to determine its actual distribution in Mexico; to establish, in cooperation with the States concerned, a zone or zones free from cotton culture on or near the border of any State or States adjacent to Mexico; and to cooperate with the Mexican Government or local Mexican authorities in the extermination of local infestations near the border of the United States. * * (40 Stat. 374.)

This was a provision of the urgent deficiency appropriation act for the fiscal year 1918 and prior years, cited above.

The agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178, 40 Stat. 973, contains the following provisions:

"Eradication of pink bollworm: To enable the Secretary of Agriculture to meet the emergency caused by the existence of the pink bollworm of cotton in Mexico, and to prevent the establishment of such insect in the United States by the employment of all means necessary, including rent outside of the District of Columbia and the employment of persons and means in the city of Washington and elsewhere, as follows:

"To prevent the movement of cotton and cotton seed from Mexico into the United States, including the regulation of the entry into the United States of railway cars and other vehicles, and freight, express, baggage, or other materials from Mexico, and the inspection, cleaning, and disinfection thereof $50,000; any moneys received in payment of charges fixed by the Secretary of Agriculture on account of such cleaning and disinfection at plants constructed therefor out of any appropriation made on account of the pink bollworm of cotton to be covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

"To conduct surveys and inspections in Texas or in any other State to detect any infestation and to conduct such control measures, including the establishment of cotton-free areas, in cooperation with the State of Texas or other States concerned, as may be necessary to stamp out such infestation, to establish in cooperation with the States concerned a zone or zones free from cotton culture on or near the border of any State or States adjacent to Mexico, and to cooperate with the Mexican Government or local Mexican authorities, or otherwise, by undertaking in Mexico such measures for the extermination of the pink bollworm of cotton as shall be determined to be practicable from surveys showing its distribution, $400,000: Provided, That no part of the money herein appropriated shall be used to pay the cost or value of crops or other property injured or destroyed."

§ 828a. (Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178.) Quality and condition of farm products received at central markets; certificates issued by agents.

For enabling the Secretary of Agriculture to investigate and certify to shippers and other interested parties the quality and condition of fruits, vegetables, and other perishable farm products when received at such important central markets as the Secretary of Agriculture may from time to time designate, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, including payment of such fees as will be reasonable and as nearly as may be to cover the cost for the service rendered: Provided, That certificates issued by the authorized agents of the department shall be received in all courts of the United States as prima facie evidence of the truth of the statements therein contained. * * (40 Stat. 1002.)

This was a provision of the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above.

§ 832b. (Act Aug. 11, 1916, c. 313.) Sale of potash.

The agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178, 40 Stat. 973, contains the following provision: "For the investigation and demonstration within the United States to determine the best method of obtaining potash on a commercial scale, $127,600: Provided, That the product obtained from such experimentation may be sold at a price to be determined by the Secretary of Agriculture, and the amount obtained from the sale thereof shall be covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts."

§ 832bb. (Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178.) Sale of products from agricultural experiment stations in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands.

To enable the Secretary of Agriculture to establish and maintain agricultural experiment stations in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the island of Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States, including the erection of buildings, the preparation, illustration, and distribution of reports and bulletins, and all other necessary expenses; * * and the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to sell such products as are obtained on the land belonging to the agricultural experiment stations in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the island of Guam, and the Virgin Islands of the United States. * * (40 Stat. 999.)

This was a provision of the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above.

§ 832c. (Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178.) Loan, rental or sale of films.

The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized, under such rules and regulations and subject to such conditions as he may prescribe, to loan, rent, or sell copies of films: Provided, That in the sale or rental of films educational institutions or associations for agricultural education not organized for profit shall have preference; all moneys received from such rentals or sales to be covered into the Treasury of the United States as miscellaneous receipts. (40 Stat. 996.)

This was a provision accompanying appropriations for the Division of Publications of the Department of Agriculture, in the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. This provision has been repeated in prior agricultural appropriation acts.

§ 839a. (Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178.) Reports; expenditures for agricultural experiment stations.

The Secretary of Agriculture shall prescribe the form of the annual financial statement required under the above Acts, ascertain whether the expenditures are in accordance with their provisions, coordinate the work of the Department of Agriculture with that of the State agricultural colleges and experiment stations in the lines authorized in said Acts, and make report thereon to Congress. (40 Stat. 999.)

This was a provision accompanying an appropriation for agricultural experiment stations, in the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. This provision has been repeated in prior agricultural appropriation acts. The acts referred to in this section are acts relating to agricultural extension work in the various agricultural colleges. See U. S. Comp. St. 1916, §§ 8870, 8877a–8877h, 8878–8889, 8891–8896.

§ 839b. (Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178.) Vegetable dehydration plants.

To enable the Secretary of Agriculture to cooperate with individuals, firms, or corporations, owning or operating plants for drying or dehydration of vegetables, fruits, and other perishable edible products to determine the best means and processes of dehydration and to disseminate information as to the value and suitability of such products for human food: * * Provided, That the Secretary of Agriculture is hereby authorized, if the President shall determine it to be necessary, to use all or any part of this appropriation for the establishment and operation of a plant or plants for the dehydration of vegetables, fruits, and other perishable edible products in any place or places in the United States for the purpose of supplying food for the Army and Navy, and the money received from the operation of any such plant or plants shall constitute a revolving fund until June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and nineteen. (40 Stat. 1007.)

This was a provision of the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above.

§ 839c. (Act Nov. 21, 1918, c. 212, § 1.) Requisition of buildings for use of Department.

The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized, for the official purposes of the Department of Agriculture, and within the limits of the appropriations for rent made by this or any other Act making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture, to requisition the use of, and take possession of, any building or any space in any building, and the appurtenances thereof which are now or heretofore have been used for such purposes, in the District of Columbia, other than a dwelling house occupied as such or a building occupied by any other branch of the United States Government; and he shall ascertain and pay just compensation for such use. If the amount of compensation so ascertained be not satisfactory to the person entitled to receive the same, such person shall be paid seventy-five per centum of such amount, and shall be entitled to sue the United States to recover such further sum as, added to said seventy-five per centum, will make up such amount as will be just compensation for such use in the manner provided by section twenty four, paragraph twenty, and section one hundred and forty-five of the Judicial Code. (40 Stat. 1048.)

This was a provision of an act entitled "An Act to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to carry out, during the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and nineteen, the purposes of the Act entitled 'An Act to provide further for the national security and defense by stimulating agriculture and facilitating the distribution of agricultural products,' and for other purposes," cited above.

The provisions of the Judicial Code, mentioned above, are set forth post, as §§ 1136 and 991(20), respectively.

CHAPTER B—THE WEATHER BUREAU

§ 841. (Act Oct. 1, 1890, c. 1266, § 3.) Chief; duties.

Records of bureau as evidence.—The records of the weather bureau at St. Louis that the greatest rainfall occurring in over 40 years occurred during a particular storm are inadmissible to prove conditions existing in Madison county. Handfelder v. East Side Levee & Sanitary District, 194 Ill. App. 262.

§ 842. (Act Oct. 1, 1890, c. 1266, § 4, as amended, Res. July 8, 1898, No. 57.) Same; appointment and compensation; employés provided for annually.

The agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178, 40 Stat. 973, contains the following appropriation for salaries of officers, etc., of the Weather Bureau: "One chief of bureau, $5,000; one assistant chief of bureau, $3,250; one chief clerk, $2,500; one chief of division of stations and accounts, $2,750; one chief of printing division, $2,500; three chiefs of division, at $2,000 each," etc.

§ 845a. (Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178.) Printing office.

General expenses, Weather Bureau: * *

For the maintenance of a printing office in the city of Washington for the printing of weather maps, bulletins, circulars, forms, and other publications, including the pay of additional employees, when necessary: * * Provided, That no printing shall be done by the Weather Bureau that, in the judgment of the Secretary of Agriculture, can be done at the Government Printing Office without impairing the service of said bureau. (40 Stat. 975.)

This was a provision of the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. It has been repeated in prior agricultural appropriation acts.

CHAPTER C—THE BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY

§ 850. (Act May 29, 1884, c. 60, § 1.) Establishment of Bureau; Chief; clerk, and employés.

The agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, Act Oct. 1, 1918, c. 178, 40 Stat. 973, contains the following appropriation for the officers, etc., of the Bureau of Animal Industry: "One chief of bureau, $5,000; one chief clerk, $2,500; one editor and compiler, $2,250; one executive assistant, $2,500; two executive clerks, at $2,000 each," etc.

TITLE XII A—THE DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Chap.		Sec.
A.	The Department and the Secretary of Commerce	854
B.	The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce	873
D.	The Bureau of Navigation	891
E.	The Bureau of Light-Houses	896
F.	The Bureau of Fisheries	907a
G.	The Census Office	915
H.	The Bureau of Standards	925

CHAPTER A—THE DEPARTMENT AND THE SECRETARY OF COMMERCE

Sec.
854. Assistant Secretary; clerks and assistants.
854a. Commercial attachés.
858. Control of fur-seal, etc.
872a. Lease of Commerce Building.

§ 854. (Act Feb. 14, 1903, c. 552, § 2.) Assistant Secretary; clerks and assistants.

For enumeration of officers and employés of the Department of Commerce, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 854a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Commercial attachés.

Commercial attachés: For commercial attachés, to be appointed by the Secretary of Commerce, after examination to be held under his direction to determine their competency, and to be accredited through the State Department, whose duties shall be to investigate and report upon such conditions in the manufacturing industries and trade of foreign countries as may be of interest to the United States; and for one clerk to each of said commercial attachés to be paid a salary not to exceed $1,500 each and for necessary traveling and subsistence expenses of officers, rent outside of the District of Columbia, purchase of reports, books of reference and periodicals, travel to and from the United States, exchange on official checks, and all other necessary expenses not included in the foregoing; such commercial attachés shall serve directly under the Secretary of Commerce and shall report directly to him. * * (40 Stat. 1256.)

This section is a part of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

§ 858. (Act Feb. 14, 1903, c. 552, § 7.) Control of fur-seal, etc.

Lease of islands for purpose of propagation of fur-bearing animals.—In view of power of executive presidential order, transferring to the Department of Commerce and Labor authority to lease certain islands for propagation of foxes, held valid, though Act Feb. 14, 1903, § 7, 32 Stat. 828, did not confer such power on Department of Commerce and Labor. Whelpley v. Grosvold (C. C. A. Alaska) 249 F. 812.

§ 872a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Lease of Commerce Building.

The Secretary of Commerce is authorized, in his discretion, to enter into a contract for the lease for a period not to exceed five years with an option for a period of five additional years, of the Commerce Building, now occupied by the Department of Commerce, at an annual rental not to exceed $65,500. (40 Stat. 1262.)

This section is a part of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above.

CHAPTER B—THE BUREAU OF FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COMMERCE

§ 873. (Act Aug. 23, 1912, c. 350, § 1.) Consolidation and transfer of duties of Bureau of Manufactures and Bureau of Statistics.

For enumeration of officers and employés of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 879. (R. S. § 336, as amended, Act Jan. 25, 1919, c. 10.) Former Bureau of Statistics in Treasury Department; annual report.

The Chief of the Bureau of Statistics shall, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, annually prepare a report on the statistics of commerce and navigation of the United States with foreign countries, to the close of the calendar year. Such accounts shall comprehend all goods, wares, and merchandise exported from the United States to other countries; all goods, wares, and merchandise imported into the United States from other countries, and all navigation employed in the foreign trade of the United States; which facts shall be stated according to the principles and in the manner hereby directed.

First. The kinds, quantities, and values of all articles exported, and the kinds, quantities, and values of all articles imported, shall be distinctly stated in such accounts, except in cases in which it may appear to the Secretary of the Treasury that separate statements of the species, quantities, or values of any particular articles would swell the annual statements without utility; and, in such cases, the kinds and total values of such articles shall be stated together, or in such classes as the Secretary of the Treasury may think fit.

Second. The exports shall be so stated as to show the exports to each foreign country, and their values; and the imports shall be so stated as to show the imports from each foreign country, and their values.

Third. The exports shall be so stated as to show, separately, the exports of articles of the production or manufacture of the United States, and their values; and the exports of articles of the production or manufacture of foreign countries, and their values.

Fourth. The navigation employed in the foreign trade of the United States shall be stated in such manner as to show the amount of the tonnage of all vessels departing from the United States for foreign countries; and, separately, the amount of such tonnage of vessels of the United States, and the amount of such tonnage of foreign vessels; and also the foreign nations to which such foreign tonnage belongs, and the amount of such tonnage belonging to each foreign nation; and in such manner as also to show the amount of the tonnage of all vessels departing for every particular foreign country with which the United States have any considerable commerce; and, separately, the amount of such tonnage of vessels of the United States, and the amount of such tonnage of foreign vessels; and in such manner as to show the amount of the tonnage of all vessels arriving in the United States from foreign countries; and, separately, the amount of such tonnage of vessels of the United States, and the amount of such tonnage of foreign vessels; and also the foreign nations to which such foreign tonnage belongs, and the amount of such tonnage belonging to each foreign nation; and in such manner as also to show the amount of the tonnage of all vessels arriving from every particular foreign country with which the United States have any considerable commerce; and, separately, the amount of such tonnage of vessels of the United States, and the amount of such tonnage of foreign vessels.

Fifth. Such accounts shall comprehend and include, in tabular form, the quantity by weight or measure, as well as the amount of value, of the several articles of foreign commerce, whether dutiable or otherwise; and also a similar and separate statement of the commerce of the United States with the British Provinces, under the late so-called reciprocity treaty with Great Britain. (40 Stat. 1055.)

This section was amended by Act Jan. 25, 1919, c. 10, cited above, by striking out the word "fiscal" before the word "year" at the end of the first sentence, and by inserting in lieu thereof the word "calendar," so as to make the section read as set forth above.

§ 888a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Disposition of money received from sale of reproductions of statistical compilations.

All moneys hereafter received by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in payment of photographic and other mechanical reproduction of special statistical compilations from its records shall be covered into the Treasury as a miscellaneous receipt. (40 Stat. 1256.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above.

CHAPTER D—THE BUREAU OF NAVIGATION

The clerical force and office expenses of the Division of Naval Militia affairs are transferred to the Bureau of Navigation, by a provision of Act July 1, 1918, c. 114, post, § 3078a (30¼).

§ 891. (Act July 5, 1884, c. 221, § 2.) Commissioner; general duties.

For enumeration of officers and employés in the Bureau of Navigation, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

CHAPTER E—THE BUREAU OF LIGHTHOUSES

§ 896. (Act June 17, 1910, c. 301, § 4.) Establishment of Bureau, etc.

For enumeration of officers and employés in the Bureau of Lighthouses, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

CHAPTER F—THE BUREAU OF FISHERIES

§ 907a. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 113, § 1.) Vessels of Commission; commutation of rations of officers and crews.

Commutation of rations not to exceed 60 cents may be paid to officers and crews of vessels of the Bureau of Fisheries under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Commerce. (40 Stat. 694.)

This was a provision of the sundry civil appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. It supersedes a similar provision of Act Sept. 8, 1916, c. 464, § 1, 39 Stat. 820.

§ 908a. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 113, § 1.) Expenditure of appropriations for propagation of food fishes.

Appropriations herein or hereafter made for propagation of food fishes shall not be expended for hatching or planting fish or eggs in any State in which, in the judgment of the Secretary of Commerce, there are not adequate laws for the protection of the fishes, nor in any State in which the United States Commissioner of Fisheries and his duly authorized agents are not accorded full and free right to conduct fish-cultural operations, and all fishing and other operations necessary therefor, in such manner and at such times as is considered necessary and proper by the said commissioner or his agents. (40 Stat. 693.)

This was a provision of the sundry civil appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above.

CHAPTER G—THE CENSUS OFFICE

Sec.
915. Officers and employés; additional.
916. Assistant Director; appointment clerk; disbursing clerk.
917. Compensation of officials during census period.
918. Additional clerks and employés during census period.
919. Same; examinations; selections.
920a. Suspension of other work during decennial census period.

§ 915. (Act March 3, 1919, c. 97, § 3.)[1] Officers and employés; additional.

During the decennial census period, and no longer, there may be employed in the Census Office, in addition to the force provided for by the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation Act for the fiscal year immediately preceding the decennial census period, an assistant director, who shall be an experienced practical statistician; a chief statistician, who shall be a person of known and tried experience in statistical work; a disbursing clerk; an appointment clerk; a private secretary to the director; four stenographers; eight expert chiefs of division; and ten statistical experts. The assistant director shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The chief statistician, the disbursing clerk, the appointment clerk, the chiefs of divisions, and the private secretary to the director shall be appointed without examination by the Secretary of Commerce upon the recommendation of the Director of the Census. The statistical experts and the stenographers shall be appointed in conformity with the civil service Act and rules: Provided, That whenever practicable women and honorably discharged soldiers and sailors shall be employed in the positions herein provided for. (40 Stat. 1292.)

This section is § 3 of an act entitled "An act to provide for the fourteenth and subsequent decennial censuses," cited above. Section 34 of said act repeals Act July 2, 1909, c. 2, § 3, 36 Stat. 2, which was similar in its provisions to this section.

§ 916. (Act March 3, 1919, c. 97, § 4.) Assistant Director; appointment clerk; disbursing clerk.

The assistant director shall perform such duties as may be prescribed by the Director of the Census. In the absence of the director, the assistant director shall serve as director, and in the absence of the director and assistant director, the chief clerk shall serve as director.

The appointment clerk shall perform the duties assigned him by the Director of the Census. The disbursing clerk of the Census Office shall, at the beginning of the decennial census period, give bond to the Secretary of the Treasury in the sum of $100,000, surety to be approved by the Solicitor of the Treasury, which bond shall be conditioned that the said officer shall render, quarter yearly, a true and faithful account to the proper accounting officers of the Treasury of all moneys and properties which shall be received by him by virtue of his office during the said decennial census period. Such bond shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Treasury, to be by him put in suit upon any breach of the conditions thereof. (40 Stat. 1292.)

This section is § 4 of an act entitled "An act to provide for the fourteenth and subsequent decennial censuses," cited above. Section 34 of said act repeals Act July 2, 1909, c. 2, § 4, 36 Stat. 2, which was similar in its provisions to this section.

§ 917. (Act March 3, 1919, c. 97, § 5.) Compensation of officials during census period.

During the decennial census period the annual compensation of the officials of the Census Office shall be as follows: The Director of the Census, $7,500; the assistant director, $5,000; the chief clerk and three chief statisticians for the divisions of population, manufactures, and agriculture, respectively, $4,000 each; three other chief statisticians for the divisions of vital statistics and statistics of cities, and the chief statistician provided for in section three of this Act, $3,600 each; the geographer, $3,000; the disbursing clerk, $3,000; the appointment clerk, $2,750; the chiefs of division, $2,500 each; the private secretary to the director, $2,250; the statistical experts, $2,000 each; and the stenographers provided for in section three of this Act, $1,800 each. (40 Stat. 1292.)

This section is § 5 of an act entitled "An act to provide for the fourteenth and subsequent decennial censuses," cited above. Section 34 of said act repeals Act July 2, 1909, c. 2, § 5, 36 Stat. 2, which was similar in its provisions to this section.

§ 918. (Act March 3, 1919, c. 97, § 6.) Additional clerks and employés during census period.

In addition to the force hereinbefore provided for and to that authorized by the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation Act for the fiscal year immediately preceding the decennial census period, there may be employed in the Census Office during the decennial census period, and no longer, as many clerks with salaries at the rates of $1,800, $1,680, $1,560, $1,440, $1,380, $1,320, $1,260, $1,200, $1,140, $1,080, $1,020, $960, and $900; one engineer at $1,200; and two photostat operators, at $1,200 each; as many skilled laborers, with salaries at the rate of not less than $720 nor more than $1,000 per annum; and as many messengers, assistant messengers, messenger boys, watchmen, unskilled laborers, and charwomen as may be found necessary for the proper and prompt performance of the duties herein required; these additional clerks and employees to be appointed by the Director of the Census: Provided, That the total number of such additional clerks with salaries at the rate of $1,440 or more per annum shall at no time exceed one hundred and fifty: Provided further, That employees engaged in the compilation or tabulation of statistics by the use of mechanical devices may be compensated on a piece-price basis to be fixed by the director. (40 Stat. 1292.)

This section is a part of § 6 of an act entitled "An act to provide for the fourteenth and subsequent decennial censuses," cited above. The remainder of said section 6 is set forth post, § 3214a. Section 34 of said act repeals Act July 2, 1909, c. 2, § 6, 36 Stat. 2, which was similar in its provisions to this section.

§ 919. (Act March 3, 1919, c. 97, § 7.) Same; examinations; selections.

The additional clerks and other employees provided for by section six shall be subject to such special test examinations as the Director of the Census may prescribe, subject to the approval of the United States Civil Service Commission, these examinations to be conducted by the United States Civil Service Commission, to be open to all applicants without regard to political party affiliations, and to be held at such places in each State as may be designated by the Civil Service Commission. Certifications shall be made by the Civil Service Commission upon request of the Director of the Census from the eligible registers so established, in conformity with the law of apportionment as now provided for the classified service, and selections therefrom shall be made by the Director of the Census, in the order of rating: Provided, That the requirement as to conformity with the law of apportionment shall not apply to messenger boys, unskilled laborers, and charwomen: * * And provided further, That when the exigencies of the service require, the director may appoint for temporary employment not exceeding six months' duration from the aforesaid list of eligibles those who, by reason of residence or other conditions, are immediately available; and may also appoint for not exceeding six months' duration persons having had previous experience in operating mechanical appliances in census work whose efficiency records in operating such appliances are satisfactory to him, and may accept such records in lieu of the civil-service examination: And provided further, That employees in other branches of the departmental classified service who have had previous experience in census work may be transferred without examination to the Census Office to serve during the whole or a part of the decennial census period, and at the end of such service the employees so transferred shall be eligible to appointment to positions in any department held by them at date of transfer to the Census Office without examination, but no employee so transferred shall within one year after such transfer receive higher salary than he is receiving at the time of the transfer: And provided further, That during the decennial census period and no longer the Director of the Census may fill vacancies in the permanent force of the Census Office by the promotion or transfer of clerks or other employees employed on the temporary force authorized by section six of this Act: And provided further, That at the expiration of the decennial census period the term of service of all employees so transferred and of all other temporary officers and employees appointed under the provisions of this Act shall terminate, and such officers and employees shall not be eligible to appointment or transfer into the classified service of the Government by virtue of their examination or appointment under this Act: And provided further, That in the selection of the additional clerks and employees provided for by section six the Director of the Census is authorized to use, so far is practicable, the reemployment registers established by Executive order of November twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and eighteen, so far as the same applies to permanent appointments by competition. (40 Stat. 1293.)

This section is a part of § 7 of an act entitled "An act to provide for the fourteenth and subsequent decennial censuses," cited above. The remainder of said section 7 is set forth post, § 3284. Section 34 of said act repeals Act July 2, 1909, c. 2, § 7, 36 Stat. 3, which was similar in its provisions to this section.

§ 920a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Suspension of other work during decennial census period.

The Secretary of Commerce is authorized, in his discretion, to suspend during the decennial census period such work of the Census Office, other than the Fourteenth Census, as he may deem advisable. (40 Stat. 1256.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above.

CHAPTER H—THE BUREAU OF STANDARDS

§ 925. (Act March 3, 1901, c. 872, § 4.) Officers and employés.

For enumeration of officers and employés of the Bureau of Standards, with their rate of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

TITLE XII B—THE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Chap.		Sec.
A.	The Department and the Secretary of Labor	932
B.	The Bureau of Labor Statistics	944
C.	The Bureau of Immigration	955a
D.	The Bureau of Naturalization	961
E.	The Children's Bureau	965

CHAPTER A—THE DEPARTMENT AND THE SECRETARY OF LABOR

Sec.
932. Establishment, etc.
933. Assistant Secretary; other employés.
934. Transfer of offices to Department.
936. Custody of buildings, etc.
940. Powers of Secretary as mediator, etc.

§ 932. (Act March 4, 1913, c. 141, § 1.) Establishment, etc.

For enumeration of officers and employés of the Department of Labor, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 933. (Act March 4, 1913, c. 141, § 2.) Assistant Secretary; other employés.

Absence of appropriation.—Failure of Congress to make specific provision for salary of disbursing clerk in Department of Labor, authorized by this section, does not preclude his appointment, in view of Comp. St. 1916, § 258, stating salaries of disbursing clerks. 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 129.

§ 934. (Act March 4, 1913, c. 141, § 3.) Transfer of offices to Department.

Claims under Workmen's Compensation Act.—Under this section and section 944, final authority to determine claims arising under the Workmen's Compensation Act of May 30, 1908 (35 Stat. 556), as amended, rests in the Secretary of Labor, and not the Commissioner of Labor Statistics. 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 145.

§ 936. (Act March 4, 1913, c. 141, § 6.) Custody of buildings, etc.

Cited without definite application, 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 145.

§ 940. (Act March 4, 1913, c. 141, § 8.) Powers of Secretary as mediator, etc.

The legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1. 40 Stat., contains the following provision: "To enable the Secretary of Labor to exercise the authority vested in him by section 8 of the Act creating the Department of Labor, and to appoint commissioners of conciliation, for per diem in lieu of subsistence at not exceeding $4, traveling expenses, and not to exceed $12,000 for personal services in the District of Columbia, $175,000."

CHAPTER B—THE BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS

§ 944. (Act March 4, 1913, c. 141, § 3.) Designations of Bureau and of Commissioner of Labor Statistics; powers, etc.

Claims under Workmen's Compensation Act.—Under this section and section 934, final authority to determine claims arising under the Workmen's Compensation Act of May 30, 1908 (35 Stat. 556), as amended, rests in the Secretary of Labor, and not the Commissioner of Labor Statistics. 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 145.

§ 947. (Act June 13, 1888, c. 389, § 2.) Commissioner.

For enumeration of officers and employés in the Bureau of Labor Statistics, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

CHAPTER C—THE BUREAU OF IMMIGRATION

§ 955a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Assistant Commissioner General.

Bureau of Immigration: * * Assistant Commissioner General, who shall also act as chief clerk and actuary, $3,500; private secretary, $1,800. * * (40 Stat. 1263.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

§ 959. (Act Feb. 5, 1917, c. 29, § 23.) Administration of immigration laws; contracts; detail of officers.

The Commissioner General of Immigration shall perform all his duties under the direction of the Secretary of Labor. Under such direction he shall have charge of the administration of all laws relating to the immigration of aliens into the United States, and shall have the control, direction, and supervision of all officers, clerks, and employees appointed thereunder; he shall establish such rules and regulations, prescribe such forms of bond, reports, entries, and other papers, and shall issue from time to time such instructions not inconsistent with law, as he shall deem best calculated for carrying out the provisions of this Act and for protecting the United States and aliens migrating thereto from fraud and loss, and shall have authority to enter into contract for the support and relief of such aliens as may fall into distress or need public aid, and to remove to their native country, at any time within three years after entry, at the expense of the appropriations for the enforcement of this Act, such as fall into distress or need public aid from causes arising subsequent to their entry and are desirous of being so removed; he shall prescribe rules for the entry and inspection of aliens coming to the United States from or through Canada and Mexico, so as not unnecessarily to delay, impede, or annoy persons in ordinary travel between the United States and said countries, and shall have power to enter into contracts with transportation lines for the said purpose. It shall be the duty of the Commissioner General of Immigration to detail officers of the Immigration Service from time to time as may be necessary, in his judgment, to secure information as to the number of aliens detained in the penal, reformatory, and charitable institutions (public and private) of the several States and Territories, the District of Columbia, and other territory of the United States, and to inform the officers of such institutions of the provisions of law in relation to the deportation of aliens who have become public charges. He may, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, whenever in his judgment such action may be necessary to accomplish the purposes of this Act, detail immigration officers for service in foreign countries; and, upon his request, approved by the Secretary of Labor, the Secretary of the Treasury may detail medical officers of the United States Public Health Service for the performance of duties in foreign countries in connection with the enforcement of this Act. (39 Stat. 892.)

This section and the section next following were sections 23 and 30 of the Immigration Act of 1917, entitled "An act to regulate the immigration of aliens to, and the residence of aliens in, the United States," cited above. Other sections of this act are set forth post, under Title XXIX, "Immigration," c. A.

Provisions similar to those of this section were made by Act Feb. 20, 1907, c. 1134, § 22, 34 Stat. 905, repealed by section 38 of this act, post, § 4289¼u.

Notes of Decisions

See Low Kwai v. Backus (C. C. A. 1916) 229 F. 481.

Rules and regulations.—Since such rules and regulations as the Commissioner General of Immigration was authorized to establish under section 22 of the Act of February 20, 1907, 34 Stat. 898, 903, must be consistent with the act itself, they could only have the force and effect of law when not in contravention of law. Nederlansch-Amerikaansche Stoomvart Maatschappij (Holland-America Line) v. United States, 53 Ct. Cl. 522.

§ 960. (Act Feb. 5, 1917, c. 29, § 30.) Division of Information; distribution of aliens; agents of States.

There shall be maintained a division of information in the Bureau of Immigration; and the Secretary of Labor shall provide such clerical and other assistance as may be necessary. It shall be the duty of said division to promote a beneficial distribution of aliens admitted into the United States among the several States and Territories desiring immigration. Correspondence shall be had with the proper officials of the States and Territories, and said division shall gather from all available sources useful information regarding the resources, products and physical characteristics of each State and Territory, and shall publish such information in different languages and distribute the publications among all admitted aliens at the immigrant stations of the United States and to such other persons as may desire the same. When any State or Territory appoints and maintains an agent or agents to represent it at any of the immigrant stations of the United States, such agents shall, under regulations prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, subject to the approval of the Secretary of Labor, have access to aliens who have been admitted to the United States for the purpose of presenting, either orally or in writing, the special inducements offered by such State or Territory to aliens to settle therein. While on duty at any immigrant station such agents shall be subject to all the regulations prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, who, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, may, for violation of any such regulations, deny to the agent guilty of such violation any of the privileges herein granted. (39 Stat. 895.)

See note to § 959, ante.

Provisions similar to those of this section were made by Act Feb. 20, 1907, c. 1134, § 40, 34 Stat. 909, repealed by section 38 of this act, post, § 4829¼u.

§ 960a. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 113, § 1.) Motor vehicles.

The purchase, use, maintenance, and operation of horses and motor vehicles required in the enforcement of the immigration and Chinese exclusion laws outside of the District of Columbia may be contracted for and the cost thereof paid from the appropriation for the enforcement of those laws, under such terms and conditions as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe. (40 Stat. 695.)

This was a provision of the sundry civil appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

CHAPTER D—THE BUREAU OF NATURALIZATION

§ 961. (Act March 4, 1913, c. 141, § 3.) Establishment of Bureau, etc.

For enumeration of officers and employés in the Bureau of Naturalization, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

§ 963. (Act June 29, 1906, c. 3592, § 1.) Former Bureau, etc.

Filing certificate in naturalization proceedings.—Under the Naturalization Act filing by petitioner of certificate of Department of Labor, is a matter of substance, and cannot be dispensed with by the court. U. S. v. Ness, 38 S. Ct. 118, 245 U. S. 319, 62 L. Ed. 321, reversing decree 230 F. 950, 145 C. C. A. 144, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 41, which affirmed (D. C.) 217 F. 169.

Under the Naturalization Act, an immigrant, though he did not file with his declaration of intention a certificate of landing, but erroneously stated that he landed before the law went into effect, will not, seven years afterward, be denied citizenship on that ground; a certificate of landing being filed before application for final papers. In re Titone (D. C.) 233 F. 175.

Cited without definite application, In re Cook (D. C.) 239 F. 782; In re Famolaro (D. C.) 247 F. 596.

CHAPTER E—THE CHILDREN'S BUREAU

§ 965. (Act April 9, 1912, c. 73, § 2.) Chief of Bureau, etc.

For enumeration of officers and employés in the Children's Bureau, with their rates of compensation, see Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1, 40 Stat. 1213.

TITLE XII C—THE JUDICIAL CODE*

Chap.		Sec.
1.	District Courts—Organization	968
2.	District Courts—Jurisdiction	991
3.	District Courts—Removal of Causes	1010
4.	District Courts—Miscellaneous Provisions	1023
5.	District Courts—Districts, and Provisions Applicable to Particular States	1051
6.	Circuit Courts of Appeals	1109
7.	The Court of Claims	1127
8.	The Court of Customs Appeals	1179a
10.	The Supreme Court	1207
11.	Provisions Common to More than one Court	1233
12.	Juries	1252
13.	General Provisions	1266
14.	Repealing Provisions	1274

CHAPTER ONE—DISTRICT COURTS—ORGANIZATION

Sec.
968. District courts established, etc.
968h. District judges; additional for western district of Texas.
968i. Same; additional for northern district of Texas.
968j. Same; vacancy in office for northern district of Texas.
969. District judges; salaries.
970. Clerks.
972a. Criers and bailiffs.
976. Courts always open, etc.
980. Designation of judge in case of disability.
981. Accumulation of business; designation of another judge.
984. Designation to aid another judge.
985. Circuit judge designated to hold district court.
988. Affidavit of personal bias or prejudice of judge.

§ 968. (Jud. Code, § 1, as amended, Act July 30, 1914, c. 216.) District courts established, etc.

Territorial jurisdiction of courts.—Under Judicial Code, §§ 69–115 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1051–1106), and in view of this section, the jurisdiction of the several District Courts is coextensive with the boundaries of the judicial district, and extends no further, save as Congress has expressly extended it. Primos Chemical Co. v. Fulton Steel Corporation (D. C.) 254 F. 454.

Cited without definite application, Guerini Stone Co. v. P. J. Carlin Const. Co., 36 S. Ct. 300, 60 L. Ed. 636; Southern Pacific Co. v. Jensen, 37 S. Ct. 524, 61 L. Ed. 1086, L. R. A. 1918C, 451, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 900.

§ 968h. (Act Feb. 26, 1917, c. 120.) District judges; additional for western district of Texas.

The President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint an additional judge of the district court of the United States for the Western District of Texas, who shall possess the same powers, perform the same duties, and receive the same compensation and allowance as the present judge

*The following new acts, not expressly amending the Judicial Code or made a part thereof by Congressional action, are carried into the Code in this compilation in order that matters of a similar nature may be brought together:

Act Feb. 22, 1917, c. 113, 39 Stat. 929, post, § 991a.
Act Feb. 26, 1917, c. 120, 39 Stat. 938, post, § 968h.
Act Feb. 26, 1917, c. 122, § 1, 39 Stat. 939, post, § 1095a.
Act Feb. 26, 1917, c. 122, § 2, 39 Stat. 939, post, § 1095b.
Act July 1, 1918, c. 113, § 1, 40 Stat. 684, post, § 972a.
Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, § 5, 40 Stat. 1157, post, § 1179a.
Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 50, § 1, 40 Stat. 1183, post, § 968i.
Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 50, § 2, 40 Stat. 1183, post, § 968j.
Res. Feb. 26, 1919, c. 54, 40 Stat. 1184, post, § 1083a.
Act March 1, 1919, c. 87, 40 Stat. 1270, post, § 1095bb.
Act March 1, 1919, c. 89, 40 Stat. 1271, post, § 1057a.

of said district, and whose official place of residence shall be maintained at El Paso until otherwise provided by law. (39 Stat. 938.)

This section was an act entitled "An act to provide for an additional judge in the State of Texas," cited above.

§ 968i. (Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 50, § 1.) Same; additional for northern district of Texas.

That the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint an additional judge of the district court of the United States for the northern judicial district of the State of Texas, who shall possess the same powers, perform the same duties, and receive the same compensation and allowance as the present judge of said district. (40 Stat. 1183.)

This section, and the section next following, are an act entitled "An act providing for the appointment of an additional district judge for the northern judicial district of the state of Texas," cited above.

§ 968j. (Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 50, § 2.) Same; vacancy in office for northern district of Texas.

Whenever a vacancy shall occur in the office of the district judge for the northern district of Texas senior in commission such vacancy shall not be filled, and thereafter there shall be but one district judge in said district. (40 Stat. 1183.)

See note to § 968i, ante.

§ 969. (Jud. Code, § 2, as amended, Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, § 1.) District judges; salaries.

Each of the district judges, including the judges in Porto Rico, Hawaii, and Alaska exercising Federal jurisdiction, shall receive a salary of $7,500 a year, to be paid in monthly installments. (40 Stat. 1156.)

This section was amended by Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, § 1, 40 Stat. 1156, cited above, by inserting, after the words "district judges," the words "including the judges in Porto Rico, Hawaii, and Alaska exercising Federal jurisdiction," and by increasing the annual salary from $6,000 to $7,500. Section 7 of said Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, 40 Stat. 1156, provides that the act shall take effect and be in force on and after the first day of the month next following its approval.

Section 3 of said Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, 40 Stat. 1157, provides that "the judges of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia shall receive salaries the same as salaries provided by this act to be paid to judges of district courts of the United States, and such salaries shall be paid as now provided by law."

§ 970. (Jud. Code, § 3.) Clerks.

Cited without definite application,
U. S. v. Oliphant (C. C. A.) 230 F. 1.

§ 972a. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 113, § 1.) Criers and bailiffs.

All persons employed under section seven hundred and fifteen of the Revised Statutes shall be deemed to be in actual attendance when they attend upon the order of the courts: Provided further, That no such persons shall be employed during vacation. (40 Stat. 684.)

This was a provision of the sundry civil appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. R. S. § 715, is section 5 of the Judicial Code (§ 972).

R. S. § 715, mentioned above, is set forth in 1916 U. S. Comp. St. as § 972.

§ 976. (Jud. Code, § 9.) Courts always open, etc.

6. Control over judgments or decrees in general.—An application for the modification of a judgment in a condemnation proceeding, giving the petitioner one year in which to pay the amount of the award, so as to extend such time, was addressed to the discretion of the court. City of Des Moines, Iowa, v. Des Moines Water Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 570.

In a proceeding by a city to condemn a waterworks plant and system, a judgment was entered fixing the value of the plant as of April 1, 1912, giving the city one year in which to pay the award, and reserving for future consideration questions as to the value of additions and extensions subsequent to April 1, 1912. It was necessary for the city to issue bonds, and during the year allowed for payment it submitted the question of issuing such bonds to the voters at three different elections; but, though there was a majority in favor of their issuance at each election, a majority of all the votes cast at the last preceding municipal election was not cast in favor of the issuance of the bonds, as required by statute. Held that, even though the judgment was not final, the court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to modify the judgment by extending the time within which the city might make payment. Id.

Where defendant, whose first answer was not properly verified, was not a party to the disloyalty of plaintiff's counsel in refusing to enter default, and was guilty of no fraud in procuring a dismissal for want of prosecution, the dismissal will not be vacated. S. M. Hamilton Coal Co. v. Watts, 232 F. 832, 147 C. C. A. 26, reversing order (D. C.) Watts v. S. M. Hamilton Coal Co., 219 F. 1003.

As there are no terms in bankruptcy, an order of the District Court in a bankruptcy matter may be revoked months after made. In re Barker Piano Co., 233 F. 522, 147 C. C. A. 408.

A docket entry of dismissal, made pursuant to an order of the District Court intended to clear its docket of stale cases, held not a "final judgment," depriving the court of power to reinstate the cause, though the term had expired. U. S. v. Sixty-Five Cases of Glove Leather (D. C.) 254 F. 211.

Where, after a docket entry of dismissal was made under a general order, the United States attorney put the case on the calendar at two different terms, and it was postponed at the instance of defendant, or by agreement, held, that restoration of the case to the docket cannot be denied, on the theory that the United States was guilty of laches. Id.

7. Power of court over judgment or decree during term.—Judgments or orders held generally under the control of the court during the term, and subject to be set aside, vacated, modified, or annulled. Winslow v. Staab, 242 F. 426, 155 C. C. A. 202, affirming decree (D. C.) 233 F. 305.

8. Power of court over judgment or decree after term.—In a proceeding by a city to condemn a waterworks plant and system, a judgment fixing the value of the water plant as of April 1, 1912, giving the city one year in which to make payment thereof, and reserving for future settlement questions as to the value of additions and extensions made subsequent to April 1, 1912, was not an interlocutory but a "final judgment," which the court was powerless to modify, after the term at which it was rendered had expired, with respect to the time within which payment might be made by the city. City of Des Moines, Iowa, v. Des Moines Water Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 570.

After the expiration of the term at which it was rendered, an order dismissing a suit cannot be vacated, save for special circumstances, as clerical errors, or errors which could formerly have been reached by the writ coram nobis. S. M. Hamilton Coal Co. v. Watts, 232 F. 832, 147 C. C. A. 26, reversing order (D. C.) Watts v. S. M. Hamilton Coal Co., 219 F. 1003.

It is the general rule that after the term has expired all final judgments and decrees pass beyond the control of the court, unless steps were taken during the term to set aside, modify, or correct them. Winslow v. Staab, 242 F. 426, 155 C. C. A. 202, affirming decree (D. C.) 233 F. 305.

After the expiration of the term at which it was rendered, a judgment cannot be vacated by the federal courts on mere motion. Forty Fort Coal Co. v. Kirkendall (D. C.) 233 F. 704.

A District Court loses power over its own final judgments at the close of the term at which rendered, if such term is not continued for the purpose of the particular case. U. S. v. Sixty-Five Cases of Glove Leather (D. C.) 254 F. 211.

12. End of term.—A term of federal District Court, Southern District of Florida, which under this section and Judicial Code, §§ 10, 11, and 76 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 977, 978, 1061), must always be open as a court of admiralty and equity, was not brought to an end, so far as criminal business was concerned, so as to prevent granting of new trial, by adjournment in accordance with court rule requiring, pending temporary absence of the judge, the clerk be present for transaction of business under orders of the judge. Abbott v. Brown, 36 S. Ct. 689, 241 U. S. 606, 60 L. Ed. 1199.

The federal District Court held open from the beginning of each session to its end for the return of writs on the criminal side though adjourned as a criminal court. U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 292.

§ 980. (Jud. Code, § 13.) Designation of judge in case of disability.

Acts of designated judge.—A District Judge appointed by a Circuit Judge under Rev. St. § 596, post, § 984, to hold the Circuit Court for a district other than his own district, was authorized to determine a case tried at such term of the Circuit Court, though it did not appear that the appointment was made in response to a certificate of the clerk, as section 596 does not require the clerk's certificate as a condition to the exercise of the power of appointment thereunder, as is required by this section and Rev. St. § 592 (Comp. St. 1916, § 981). In re National Telephone Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 785.

§ 981. (Jud. Code, § 14.) Accumulation of business; designation of another judge.

Extent of authority of designated judge.—See In re National Telephone Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 785; note under § 980.

§ 984. (Jud. Code, § 17.) Designation to aid another judge.

Contempt proceedings.—Where a newspaper is charged with contempt in publications concerning a judge sitting in a pending suit, though such judge has jurisdiction to dispose of the contempt proceedings, the contempt being of a direct character, if there be sufficient time, he may call in another judge. Toledo Newspaper Co. v. United States, 237 F. 986, 150 C. C. A. 636, affirming judgment (D. C.) U. S. v. Toledo Newspaper Co., 220 F. 458.

Extent of authority of designated judge.—See In re National Telephone Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 785; note under § 980.

§ 985. (Jud. Code, § 18, as amended, Act Oct. 3, 1913, c. 18.) Circuit judge designated to hold district court.

Trial in district where offense was committed.—Assignment of judge of one federal district and circuit to duty in another, under this section as amended by Act Oct. 3, 1913, 38 Stat. 203, does not destroy the latter district and thus violate the rights under Const. U. S. Amend. 6, by subjecting one tried before him to trial in a district not established when the offense was committed. Lamar v. U. S., 36 S. Ct. 535, 241 U. S. 103, 60 L. Ed. 912, affirming judgment 227 F. 1019, 141 C. C. A. 668.

As usurpation of power of appointment.—Power of appointment and confirmation vested by federal Constitution in President and Senate is not usurped by assignment under this section as amended October 3, 1913, 38 Stat. 203, of a judge of one federal district and circuit to duty in another district and circuit. Lamar v. U. S., 36 S. Ct. 535, 241 U. S. 103, 60 L. Ed. 912, affirming judgment 227 F. 1019, 141 C. C. A. 668.

§ 988. (Jud. Code, § 21.) Affidavit of personal bias or prejudice of judge.

Disqualification.—Judge, owning stock in oil company against which suit was brought by the government as part of a scheme or plan of litigation, held disqualified to sit in a suit against another oil company, brought as part of the same scheme. In re Honolulu Consol. Oil Co., 243 F. 348, 156 C. C. A. 128.

Necessity of proceeding under statute.—A defendant, who complains that he cannot obtain a fair trial on account of prejudice or bias of the judge, must apply for a transfer in accordance with this section, and where no such application has been made, a defendant cannot introduce evidence of an otherwise collateral matter for the purpose of discrediting the judge and attempting to show his animus. Wierse v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 435.

Time of filing.—Where District Judge was proceeding to dispose of petitioner's motion to fix an upset price below which mortgaged property should not be sold, held, that he could not be removed by an affidavit charging bias and prejudice. In re Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 232 F. 836, 147 C. C. A. 30.

Affidavit of disqualification of judge, required by this section, before term, unless good cause is shown, being tendered on the eve of second trial, six weeks after mandate of appellate court went down, was too late; the only excuse being that mandate was not filed in trial court till after term began. Shea v. United States (C. C. A.) 251 F. 433.

Striking out affidavit.—Though it would have been better practice to have permitted filing of affidavit of prejudice of judge, and then strike it, refusing to permit it to be filed was not prejudicial. Shea v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 433.

CHAPTER TWO—DISTRICT COURTS—JURISDICTION

Sec.
991. Original jurisdiction.
Par. 1. United States are plaintiffs; civil suits at common law or in equity.
2. Crimes and offenses.
3. Admiralty causes, seizures, and prizes.
7. Suits under patent, copyright, and trade-mark laws.
8. Suits for violation of interstate commerce laws.
9. Penalties and forfeitures.
14. Suits to redress deprivation of civil rights.
16. Suits against national banking associations.
18. Suits against consuls and vice consuls.
20. Suits against United States.
24. Suits concerning allotments of land to Indians; decrees; appeal.
991a. Same; bills of interpleader by insurance companies.
992. Commerce Court abolished, etc.
993. Same; jurisdiction.
994. Venue of suits.
996. Jurisdiction of the court, how invoked.
997. Suits to enjoin, etc.
998. Interlocutory injunctions.
1004. Suits to be against United States.
1005. Attorney General to control all cases, etc.
1006. Complainants may appear, etc

§ 991. (Jud. Code, § 24.) Original jurisdiction.

(1) United States are plaintiffs; civil suits at common law or in equity.

Notes of Decisions

See Pickering Land & Timber Co. v. Wisby (D. C.) 242 F. 993.

I. CIVIL SUITS AT COMMON LAW OR EQUITY

1. Nature and extent of jurisdiction.—See Ivanoff v. Mechanical Rubber Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 173; Champion Spark Plug Co. v. Champion Ignition Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 200.

15. Administration and probate.—Federal court cannot take jurisdiction of a bill involving administration of an estate, on theory that administrators appointed by court of ordinary of Georgia were not officers of court because of fraud or irregularities in their appointment. Smith v. Jennings, 238 F. 48, 151 C. C. A. 124, reversing order (D. C.) Jennings v. Smith, 232 F. 921.

Probate proceedings are not within words "suit of civil nature, at law or in equity," in this section. Powell v. Watkins, 90 S. E. 207, 172 N. C. 244.

20. Injunction.—When diversity of citizenship appears, and property rights of street railroad company which were valuable were involved, in suit to obtain protection from striking employés, federal court has jurisdiction. Puget Sound Traction, Light & Power Co. v. Whitley (D. C.) 243 F. 945.

27. Trusts.—A draft or check was purchased in England and sent by the purchaser to a bank for plaintiff's account. It was presented for payment at the clearing house and credited to the payee, but subsequently returned on the ground that the drawee had received no instructions to pay it; whereupon the payee bank drew its check and in form repaid the amount to the drawee. Before payment, the drawer made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, and a petition in bankruptcy was filed against him in New York. A creditor attempted to attach the account in the drawee bank, and plaintiff sued the bank to declare a trust for plaintiff and named as defendants the drawee bank, the attaching creditor, the purchaser of the draft, the drawer, his assignee, the petitioning creditors in bankruptcy, and the receiver in bankruptcy. Held that, there being the requisite diversity of citizenship between plaintiff and the drawee bank, the court had jurisdiction, since, if equitable jurisdiction did not exist, jurisdiction at law existed on the theory that there was a claim in personam against the drawee for money had and received under a mistake of fact and under the new equity rules the claim would be disposed of whether at law or in equity. Eastman Kodak Co. v. National Park Bank (D. C.) 231 F. 320.

II. SUITS BY THE UNITED STATES OR ITS OFFICERS

28. United States as party.—Under this section, federal court held without jurisdiction of suit by government contractor against subcontractor; the government being a stranger to the relation between them, though made a party. National Surety Co. v. Washington Iron Works (D. C.) 243 F. 260.

III. LAND GRANTS FROM DIFFERENT STATES

34. Grounds of jurisdiction.—One claiming title to land under a grant from one state as to land situated therein may sue to recover it from citizens of another state claiming under a grant from that state, in the United States courts of the first state, and have the title finally adjudicated by that court. Ferguson v. Babcock Lumber & Land Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 705.

IV. AMOUNT IN CONTROVERSY

(A) Constructions and scope of provision

36. Purpose and effect of provision.—Where a suit to foreclose a mortgage accrued prior to January 1, 1912, and the amount in controversy was more than $2,000, but less than $3,000, a federal jurisdiction was preserved by Judicial Code, § 299 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1276). Barnes v. Cady, 232 F. 318, 146 C. C. A. 366, affirming order (D. C.) Cady v. Barnes, 208 F. 359.

Notwithstanding Judicial Code, § 299 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1276), change in jurisdictional amount contained in this section held to apply to suits for acts done or causes arising prior to the taking effect thereof. Sloane v. Kramer Bros. & Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 727.

Statutes changing jurisdiction of federal courts, or amount in controversy necessary to give jurisdiction, held to apply, unless restricted without regard to time remedial right or cause of action accrues. Id.

(B) Cases subject to pecuniary limitation

38. Actions between citizens of different states or aliens.—See Pinel v. Pinel, 36 S. Ct. 416, 60 L. Ed. 817.

Under this subdivision diversity of citizenship of the parties will not give the federal court jurisdiction, where the amount involved is less than $3,000. New York Cent. R. Co. v. Mutual Orange Distributors (C. C. A.) 251 F. 230.

(C) Cases not subject to pecuniary limitation

46½. Suit by federal court receiver.—A suit by receivers appointed by a federal court to recover the possession of standing timber claimed by them as part of their trust estate, which they were prevented from cutting by the owner of the land, and to recover damages, was within the jurisdiction of the court appointing them, irrespective of the citizenship of the parties or the amount involved. Kirkland v. Knox (C. C. A.) 230 F. 806.

(D) Matter in dispute and amount or value claimed or involved

53. Amount claimed or value in general.—Jurisdiction of federal court held dependent on amount claimed, unless it appears from face of complaint that plaintiff cannot recover jurisdictional amount, and that part of claim is colorable and fictitious, and inserted in bad faith. Le Roy v. Hartwick (D. C.) 229 F. 857.

57. —— Bonds.—In suit to foreclose mortgage securing railroad bonds, held, that federal district court had jurisdiction, although amount of interest on complainant's bonds did not equal $3,000, the principal exceeding $1,000,000, having become due because of default. Lowenthal v. Georgia Coast & P. R. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 1010.

67. —— Quieting title and avoidance of conveyances.—Basis of relief against cloud on title held threatened attack on title and existence of apparent cloud, and it would seem that damages for trespass cannot be added to value of land to make jurisdictional amount. Sloane v. Kramer Bros. & Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 727.

Where land worth $7,500 was mortgaged for $2,500, suit by mortgagee who purchased at foreclosure sale to quiet title to nearly all of land on theory mortgagor had forfeited redemption rights by withholding part of land and to recover such land, amount involved was within jurisdiction of federal court, though land withheld was worth less than $3,000. Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. v. Welden (D. C.) 246 F. 265.

73. —— Torts.—Where partnership was insolvent and had only 10 days to run, no such sum could have been involved in action for its wrongful termination as is required to confer jurisdiction on federal court. Kebart v. Arkin, 232 F. 454, 146 C. C. A. 448.

As only compensatory damages are collectible, action on constable's bond in federal court for levy of wrongful execution will, under Judicial Code, § 37 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1019), be dismissed, where property levied on was of value much less than $3,000, the jurisdictional amount in District Court. Sclarenco v. Chicago Bonding Co. (D. C.) 236 F. 592.

74. Injunctions.—Where prayer of complaint was to enjoin defendant from exercising control over land forever, and not for time for which it was demised, value of land, and not rents reserved by lease, fixes amount in controversy. Port of Seattle v. Oregon & W. R. Co. (D. C.) 242 F. 986.

76. —— Infringement of trade-marks and trade-names and unfair competition.—The federal court had jurisdiction of a suit for unfair and fraudulent competition, where the value of the right to be protected by the injunction exceeded the jurisdictional amount, even though the damages recovered were less than such amount. Ury v. Mazer Cigar Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 551.

77. —— Injury to land.—In suit for injuries to land by construction of a drainage ditch, federal court is without jurisdiction where the damage was less than $3,000 and if upon final hearing that fact appears, suit must be dismissed. Bronson v. Boards of Sup'rs of Emmet and Kossuth Counties, Iowa (D. C.) 237 F. 212.

85. —— Taxes and assessments.—Where bill showed jurisdictional amount in controversy in B. county, between one of complainants and all defendants, except tax collector of D. county, joinder of other parties complainant and said tax collector defendant ceases to be a jurisdictional question, and bill will not be dismissed for want of jurisdiction of federal court. Everglades Drainage League v. Napoleon B. Broward Drainage Dist. (D. C.) 253 F. 246.

87. —— Unlawful interference with business—Where the property which strikers were threatening to destroy exceeded $3,000 in value, the federal court had jurisdiction, though less than $3,000 worth of property had been already destroyed. Tri-City Central Trades Council v. American Steel Foundries, 238 F. 728, 151 C. C. A. 578.

88. Effect of counterclaim and cross-bill.—For purpose of determining jurisdiction of federal court, matter involved includes demands of both plaintiff and defendant, where defendant pleaded set-off. Central Commercial Co. v. Jones-Dusenbury Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 13.

Where plaintiff's pleading showed only $2,950 in controversy, cause held not removable, though defendant pleaded a small counterclaim. Harley v. Firemen's Fund Ins. Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 471.

(E) Aggregation or joinder of claims

92. Common interest of several plaintiffs.—A suit by two children to establish title to an undivided interest in their deceased father's real property based upon his mistaken omission to provide for them in his will does not involve the amount requisite to the jurisdiction of the federal District Court, where the interest of neither complainant taken separately equals such amount. Pinel v. Pinel, 36 S. Ct. 416, 240 U. S. 594, 60 L. Ed. 817.

93. Distinct demands by several plaintiffs.—Where several holders of life policies with tontine features united in bill against company, held that, as their titles were not common, their claims could not be aggregated for purpose of giving the federal District Court jurisdiction. Eberhard v. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co., 241 F. 353, 154 C. C. A. 233.

Though suit by several policy holders be treated as class action, held, that their claims could not be aggregated for purpose of giving federal court jurisdiction, being based on separate titles. Id.

Where a number of persons sued complainant in the state court for fraud in the sale of corporate stock, the amounts of their several distinct claims cannot be aggregated, so as to give the federal court jurisdiction of a bill against them all to restrain multiplicity of suits. Robinson v. Wemmer (D. C.) 253 F. 790.

95. Suit by one for himself and others similarly situated.—A suit by a state, for the use of depositors in a state bank, citizens of such state, against a former bank commissioner, now a nonresident, and the nonresident surety on his bond, to recover the several losses of such depositors from the neglect of the commissioner, may not be removed to the federal court for diverse citizenship; none of the individual claims amounting to $3,000. Title Guaranty & Surety Co. of Scranton, Pa., v. State of Idaho, 36 S. Ct. 345, 240 U. S. 136, 60 L. Ed. 566, dismissing appeal State v. Title Guaranty & Surety Co. of Scranton, Pa., 152 P. 189, 27 Idaho, 752.

97. Actions by assignees and indorsees.—Where creditor, whose claim was less than $3,000, by assignment, which was absolute, acquired claims of other nonresidents, which in aggregate, with his own, exceeded $3,000, federal courts have jurisdiction of his suit; there being diversity of citizenship. Kentucky Wagon Mfg. Co. v. Jones & Hopkins Mfg. Co., 248 F. 272, 160 C. C. A. 350.

(F) Interest and costs

98. Interest.—In assumpsit for damages for failure to take and pay for rosin purchased, it was permissible to include in damages loss on resale of rosin and interest for purpose of fixing amount in controversy, so as to give federal court jurisdiction, although under statute interest as such cannot be included in estimating jurisdictional amount. Central Commercial Co. v. Jones-Dusenbury Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 13.

In an action for damages for fraudulent representations as to value of stock purchased by plaintiff, the jury might allow plaintiff an annual percentage, not as collateral interest, but as an element in giving her entire compensation for her loss, and such damages, although computed at a percentage rate, would not be that "interest" which the jurisdictional statute (Act March 3, 1887, § 1; Judicial Code, § 24 [Comp. St. 1916, § 991]) says must be excluded. Chesbrough v. Woodworth (C. C. A.) 251 F. 881.

Where life policy, which made no provision for payment of interest, entitled beneficiary to $3,000 federal District Court cannot despite diversity of citizenship of parties entertain jurisdiction under Judicial Code, § 24, of action by beneficiary, who demanded sum of $3,000, with interest. Voorhees v. Ætna Life Ins. Co. (D. C.) 250 F. 484.

Where plaintiff demanded recovery of a sum less than $3,000, with interest from the date of accrual, the federal court is without jurisdiction, though claim, with interest from the time of accrual, would exceed $3,000, for the demand for interest is a demand for interest as such, and not an interest calculation as a means of arriving at the amount of damages to be awarded on the principal demand. A. H. Marshall Co. v. Buick Motor Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 685.

100. Attorney's fees and costs.—An interest in a judgment to which plaintiff's counsel is entitled as a fee is a part of the judgment, for the purpose of determining the amount in controversy in a suit to set aside an assignment thereof. Lee Line Steamers v. Robinson, 232 F. 417, 146 C. C. A. 411.

Where a purchaser from a New Mexico county of state tax certificates sued to enjoin the treasurer from issuing redemption certificates, without payment of certain costs and penalties which had accrued up to the date of purchase, such costs, etc., which exceeded the amount necessary to give the federal court jurisdiction, under this section, were not "costs," as used in the provision declaring that such accessory demands cannot be counted in computing the jurisdictional amount. Glen Inv. Co. v. Romero (C. C. A.) 254 F. 239.

Where right to attorney's fees stipulated for in note sued on, dependent upon what law controlled, was in controversy, held, that the amount of the fee was to be included to make up the jurisdictional amount. Le Roy v. Hartwick (D. C.) 229 F. 857.

(G) Determination of amount

101. Objections to amount and disposition thereof.—Where suit in federal court for mandatory injunction involved public questions, court may on its own motion raise questions whether amount in controversy was within its jurisdictional limit, and whether complainant had an adequate remedy at law. Gaines v. Baltimore & C. S. S. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 786.

Where the jurisdictional question is first raised upon the trial, if defendant then elects to plead it, the court should determine the facts governing it; and if it is decided against defendant, or if he waives his right to object, the court may proceed to try the merits. Kever v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 814.

103. Amount claimed as test.—The damages claimed fix the amount in controversy for purpose of determining whether federal court has jurisdiction, and not the recovery. Central Commercial Co. v. Jones-Dusenbury Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 13.

Relative to jurisdiction of federal court, when damages recoverable on facts stated may be more or less than $3,000 as jury finds it, amount alleged and claimed is the amount in controversy; but when the law fixes damages on facts stated, that sum controls. Federal Wall Paper Co. v. Kempner (D. C.) 244 F. 240.

108. Effect of verdict or judgment for less than jurisdictional amount.—Where plaintiff in good faith believed he was entitled to recover from defendants a sum greater than $3,000, the federal courts have jurisdiction, notwithstanding plaintiff recovered a less sum or nothing at all. Garrett v. Mallard, 238 F. 335, 151 C. C. A. 351.

Where complaint alleged damages at a sum beyond $3,000, and it did not appear it was impossible for plaintiff to recover that amount and evidence did not show that damages had been fraudulently magnified, jurisdiction cannot be questioned because recovery was less than $3,000. Mullins Lumber Co. v. Williamson & Brown Land & Lumber Co., 246 F. 232, 158 C. C. A. 392.

Where the amount claimed in a complaint would give a federal court jurisdiction, the fact that upon the trial the amount recovered is less than the jurisdictional amount does not defeat the court's jurisdiction. Le Roy v. Hartwick (D. C.) 229 F. 857.

(H) Allegations in pleadings

109. Necessity of allegation of jurisdictional amount.—It is not absolutely necessary that a bill in equity in a federal court should contain an allegation that the amount in controversy exceeds $3,000, where that fact appears from other allegations. Lee Line Steamers v. Robinson, 232 F. 417, 146 C. C. A. 411.

Where policy holders failed to allege amount of their claims, though given an opportunity to set forth by amendment amount of their claims, held, that federal District Court was warranted in assuming that amounts involved were less than jurisdictional amount. Eberhard v. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co., 241 F. 353, 154 C. C. A. 233.

The federal court is without jurisdiction of a suit based on diversity of citizenship, unless the allegation of damages is sufficient on its face to satisfy the jurisdictional requirement as to amount involved. Fuerst Bros. & Co. v. Polasky (C. C. A.) 249 F. 447.

110. Sufficiency of allegation.—In a suit by two heirs to establish an interest in land of a decedent, an allegation that one of the complainants was entitled to a one-eighth interest, and the other to a two-eighths interest, "which said interests are of the value of $4,500 and upwards," does not amount to an averment that the interest of either complainant is of the value of more than $3,000 in order to confer jurisdiction on the federal District Court. Pinel v. Pinel, 36 S. Ct. 416, 240 U. S. 594, 60 L. Ed. 817.

Where, in action against attorneys for neglecting to defend, declaration did not show existence of defense, held, that it failed to show amount within court's jurisdiction, even though attorneys were liable for nominal damages. Maryland Casualty Co. v. Price, 231 F. 397, 145 C. C. A. 391, affirming judgment (D. C.) Same v. Price, Smith, Spilman & Clay, 224 F. 271.

In a suit to enjoin the taking of railroad station property for street purposes, an allegation in the bill that the value of the matter in controversy exceeds $3,000 is sufficient to give a federal court jurisdiction, where, if the theory of complainant as to the measure of damages for the taking of the property should be sustained, the damage would exceed that sum. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Incorporated Town of Lost Nation (D. C.) 237 F. 709.

Aside from $500 paid on contract of defendant to sell goods to plaintiff, complaint for refusal to deliver, and affidavit for plaintiff on motion to dismiss, held to show, as recoverable damages and amount in controversy, only the difference between contract price and value of goods as warranty, though complaint alleged damages in greater sum. Federal Wall Paper Co. v. Kempner (D. C.) 244 F. 240.

Relative to amount in controversy, and consequent jurisdiction of court, in action for damages for part of goods bought not being as warranted, and the balance not being delivered, held on motion to dismiss, that under the complaint $500 alleged paid on making of contract would not be considered included in $1.975 alleged paid for part delivered. Id.

In suit to restrain collection of drainage tax, complaint alleging generally that amount exceeds $3,000, and making Exhibit A, attached to bill, a part of the same, and praying reference, held to sufficiently show that amount in controversy was over $3,000, exclusive of interest and costs, so that federal court had jurisdiction. Everglades Drainage League v. Napoleon B. Broward Drainage Dist. (D. C.) 253 F. 246.

(I) Evidence and burden of proof

113. Evidence as to value.—The complaint and answer may be supplemented by affidavits as to the real value or amount in controversy on motion to dismiss on the ground that the amount is insufficient to give jurisdiction. Federal Wall Paper Co. Kempner (D. C.) 244 F. 240.

The papers, on motion to dismiss on the ground that the amount in controversy was insufficient to give jurisdiction, failing to show what sum plaintiff received on sale of goods on defendant's account, held it is fair to assume that it received what it alleges they were worth. Id.

114. Sufficiency.—A federal court of equity is not without jurisdiction to render a decree for an injunction against continuing trespasses, where threatened irreparable injury is alleged by the mere fact that no proof has been made of the specific amount of that injury. Moline Plow Co. v. Omaha Iron Store Co., 235 F. 519, 149 C. C. A. 65.

Amount in controversy, as regards jurisdiction of court, held limited to damages alleged and claimed in complaint, alleging no facts showing more, notwithstanding affidavit for plaintiff on motion to dismiss. Federal Wall Paper Co. v. Kempner (D. C.) 244 F. 240.

V. SUITS UNDER THE CONSTITUTION; FEDERAL LAWS OR TREATIES

(A) Federal question as jurisdictional ground

115. In general.—Where a suit involves a substantial controversy respecting a federal question, raised in good faith, the jurisdiction of a federal court does not depend on diversity of citizenship, nor on the validity of the claim asserted. Benedict v. City of New York, 247 F. 758, 159 C. C. A. 616, affirming decree (D. C.) 235 F. 258.

119. Settled legal propositions.—Assuming that bill to enforce price maintenance contract asserted rights under patent laws, a federal District Court had jurisdiction to determine whether suit arose under such laws, where question had not then been conclusively settled in negative. Boston Store of Chicago v. American Graphophone Co., 38 S. Ct. 257, 246 U. S. 8, 62 L. Ed. 551, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 447.

When federal law involved in suit has been settled by United States Supreme Court, it no longer furnishes basis for a claim that case arises under laws of United States. Postal Telegraph Cable Co. of Montana v. Nolan (D. C.) 240 F. 754.

129. Allegations in pleadings—Necessity of pleading federal question.—For federal court to have jurisdiction over suit under Judicial Code, § 24, subd. 1, cl. "a," as one arising under the Constitution and laws of the United States, that fact must appear in plaintiff's petition and cannot be shown by any other pleading. Bronson v. Boards of Sup'rs of Emmet and Kossuth Counties, Iowa (D. C.) 237 F. 212.

131. —— Anticipation of defenses.—A suit by a railroad company, which leased its line, to compel the lessee company to issue passes pursuant to the lease agreement, is not one over which the federal courts have jurisdiction under Act Aug. 13, 1888, c. 866, 25 Stat. 433, as a suit arising under the Constitution and laws of the United States, because the lessee's probable defense, based on the inhibition against the issuance of passes found in the acts to regulate commerce was anticipated and attacked on the ground that such defense was unavailing under the Constitution. Peterborough R. R. v. Boston & M. R. R. (C. C. A.) 239 F. 97.

Suit for damages for injuries to plaintiff's land by construction of drainage ditch under Iowa laws held not one arising under federal laws or Constitution, within Judicial Code, § 24, subd. 1, cl. "a," over which District Court had jurisdiction because of allegation law was invalid under the United States Constitution; averment merely anticipating defense. Bronson v. Boards of Sup'rs of Emmet and Kossuth Counties, Iowa (D. C.) 237 F. 212.

(B) Cases arising under the constitution

134. Constitutional question as ground for jurisdiction.—Federal District Court has jurisdiction to enjoin enforcement by state of provisions of Laws S. D. 1915, c. 275, prohibiting dealing in corporate stock without state sanction, which act is assailed as repugnant to federal Constitution. Caldwell v. Sioux Falls Stockyards Co., 37 S. Ct. 224, 242 U. S. 559, 61 L. Ed. 493.

Where complainant invoked rights under Constitution of the United States which were combated by defendant and federal District Court decided cause on constitutional grounds raised, jurisdiction was shown, though the parties were citizens of the same state. City of Mitchell v. Dakota Central Telephone Co., 38 S. Ct. 362, 246 U. S. 396, 62 L. Ed. 793.

Violation of plaintiff's rights under Const. U. S. Amend. 14, by St. Mass. 1911, c. 628, § 25, held not to give federal court jurisdiction, unless such violation is an essential part of the cause of action. Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum v. Hobart, 244 F. 385, 157 C. C. A. 11.

Federal court held without jurisdiction of certificate holder's suit for receiver of fraternal society, even though St. Mass. 1911, c. 628, § 25, prohibiting such suits, violated his rights under Const. U. S. Amend. 14. Id.

Even when a threatened act may be an impairment of a contract or a deprivation of property without due process of law still if the only means threatened to be used are resort to the courts or legal proceedings, a case is not stated within the jurisdiction of a federal court as involving a constitutional question. Columbus Ry., Power & Light Co. v. City of Columbus, Ohio (D. C.) 253 F. 499.

149. Proceeding without due process of law — Criminal proceedings. — One convicted of violating a state school law, after opportunity to present his defense, cannot maintain suit in a federal court to enjoin proceedings for subsequent violation, on theory that state decisions were erroneous and denied due process of law, in violation of Const. Amend. 14. Gillen v. Board of Public Education of City of Philadelphia (D. C.) 250 F. 649.

152. —— Eminent domain.—The federal District Court has jurisdiction without diversity of citizenship of a bill to prevent a municipality from appropriating complainant's water rights without compensation, the bill alleging that the city is insolvent and that its act will violate the contract and due process clauses of the federal Constitution. Cuyahoga-River Power Co. v. City of Akron, 36 S. Ct. 402, 240 U. S. 462, 60 L. Ed. 743, reversing decree (D. C.) 210 F. 524.

155. —— Local improvements.—Although bill to restrain collection of drainage tax, imposed pursuant to Laws Fla. 1917, c. 7430, § 7, did not specifically attack section 7, where it contained allegations that said section deprived complainants of their property, without due process of law, it raised a federal question, vesting federal court with jurisdiction, provided matter in controversy exceeded $3,000, exclusive of interest and costs. Everglades Drainage League v. Napoleon B. Broward Drainage Dist. (D. C.) 253 F. 246.

157. —— Occupation of street by carriers or electric companies.—The federal court has jurisdiction of a suit wherein it was asserted the conditions as to use of streets by franchiseless street railroad company were so unreasonable as to work a deprivation of property without due process, in violation of Const. U. S. Amend. 14. Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Toledo Rys. & Light Co. (D. C.) 254 F. 597.

172. Denial of equal protection of the law—Taxation of property.—Federal District Court has jurisdiction, irrespective of citizenship, of bill to enjoin state officers from enforcing state and local taxes on intangible property of public service corporation which, if permitted, would violate Const. Amend. 14, as denying equal protection of laws. Greene v. Louisville & I. R. Co., 37 S. Ct. 673, 244 U. S. 499, 61 L. Ed. 1280, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 88.

(C) Cases arising under federal laws

192. Laws relating to public lands —Telegraph companies.—Suit by interstate telegraph company to restrain railroad's cotenants in fee of right of way from removing plaintiff's telegraph lines, erected on right of way with railroad's permission, is not controversy arising under Comp. St. 1916, § 10072. Postal Telegraph Cable Co. of Montana v. Nolan (D. C.) 240 F. 754.

207. Laws relating to commerce—Enforcement of interstate commerce acts.—While bill charging violation of Sherman and Clayton Acts presents federal question, justiciable under Judicial Code, § 24 (a), in District Court, regardless of citizenship of parties, yet under section 51 such suit cannot be brought by original process in any other district than that of which defendant is an inhabitant. Venner v. Pennsylvania Steel Co. of New Jersey (D. C.) 250 F. 292.

209. —— Killing or injuring of stock by carriers.—An action for injuries to an interstate shipment of live stock is governed by the various acts regulating commerce, and so is one arising under the Constitution or laws of the United States within Judicial Code, § 28 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1010), providing for removal of such causes, and section 24 (section 991), giving the District Courts jurisdiction of such causes; that is, the right arising to hear and determine the same. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas (D. C.) 251 F. 332.

211. —— Rates and charges.—Under this section and Interstate Commerce Act, District Court has jurisdiction of action by railroad company on claim based on provisions of tariff duly filed, published, and approved as required, regardless of consignee's defense that he was mere commission merchant, and that railroad company, having failed to present charge at time of arrival of shipment, was estoped thereafter to assert claim; property having been sold and proceeds remitted to owner. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Rice, 38 S. Ct. 429, 247 U. S. 201, 62 L. Ed. 1071.

Under Interstate Commerce Act, § 9 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8573), District Court held to have jurisdiction of action by one carrier against another, which had been paid portion of freight charges to which it was not entitled under the tariffs filed. Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Washington & C. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 242 F. 531.

214. —— Telegraph companies.—Fact that destruction of telegraph line along right of way in which defendants were cotenants would interfere with interstate commerce does not give the federal court jurisdiction of a suit between citizens of the same state to restrain such destruction. Postal Telegraph Cable Co. of Montana v. Nolan (D. C.) 240 F. 754.

Under Act June 18, 1910, § 7 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8563), federal courts have jurisdiction relating to a telephone company's duties as an interstate agency. Stephens v. Ohio State Telephone Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 759.

215½. Laws relating to patents—Slander of title.—Suit by owner, manufacturer, and seller of a claimed patented pump alleging slander of title to his patent arises under the law of the state, rather than patent laws of the United States. American Well Works Co. v. Layne & Bowler Co., 36 S. Ct. 585, 241 U. S. 257, 60 L. Ed. 987.

218. —— Unfair competition.—Where, in an infringement suit, the patent is held valid and infringed, a claim for unfair competition arising out of the infringement may be considered in the accounting of profits and damages, although the parties are citizens of the same state. K-W Ignition Co. v. Temco Electric Motor Co., 243 F. 588, 156 C. C. A. 286.

In the absence of diversity of citizenship, a federal court is without jurisdiction of a suit for unfair competition, although joined with a cause of action for infringement of patent, where the alleged unfair competition arises from acts independent of the infringement. Mallinson v. Ryan (D. C.) 242 F. 951.

219. Laws relating to copyrights.—A suit by the owner of the copyright of a play to enjoin licensees from producing it as a photo-play, which right they claim under their license contract, is one for infringement of copyright, of which a federal court has jurisdiction, regardless of the citizenship of the parties. Harper Bros. v. Klaw (D. C.) 232 F. 609.

221. Revenue laws.—Suit against officers of the internal revenue department to set aside a sale of land to the government held one against the United States, of which the court was without jurisdiction. Gouge v. Hart (D. C.) 250 F. 802.

Plaintiff's case being founded on the application to the facts of the congressional exemption of Liberty Bonds from taxation, and such application being in dispute, the federal court has jurisdiction. Iowa Loan & Trust Co. v. Fairweather (D. C.) 252 F. 605.

223. Actions by or against United States corporations.—Act March 3, 1871, § 1, gave no exceptional federal jurisdiction of suits against railroad corporation created under it. Bankers' Trust Co. v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., 36 S. Ct. 569, 241 U. S. 295, 60 L. Ed. 1010.

Since enactment of Act Jan. 28, 1915, § 5, 38 Stat. 804, post, § 1233a, suit by or against railroad incorporated under act of Congress is one arising under the laws of the United States, unless there was reason therefor other than that the company was thus incorporated. Id.

A suit to foreclose mortgage of railroad incorporated under federal laws does not arise under laws of the United States so as to be within jurisdiction of federal court, since the enactment of Act Jan. 28, 1915, § 5, 38 Stat. 804, post, § 1233a. Id.

That corporation was operating sawmill in execution of contract with government held not to give District Court jurisdiction of suit to restrain intimidation and interference with its laborers. Pickering Land & Timber Co. v. Wisby (D. C.) 242 F. 993.

A company manufacturing munitions for the United States out of supplies furnished by the United States, which were shipped in interstate commerce, etc., is acting under the authority of the laws of the United States to as full an extent as though it had been incorporated under and in pursuance of national laws, and the federal courts have jurisdiction of a suit by such company to enjoin a labor union from illegally interfering with its prosecution of government work. Wagner Electric Mfg. Co. v. District Lodge, No. 9, International Ass'n of Machinists (D. C.) 252 F. 597.

229. Actions by or against national banks or receivers thereof—Suits by or against receivers.—A suit by the receiver of a national bank in the course of winding up its affairs held within the jurisdiction of a federal District Court, under Judicial Code, § 24, par. 16. Bates v. Dresser (D. C.) 229 F. 772.

232. Actions by or against receivers appointed by federal courts.—Objection to jurisdiction, because plaintiff and defendant were both citizens of Colorado, was untenable in suit by receiver appointed by federal court against resident of state of which receiver was resident. Glenwood Irr. Co. v. Vallery, 248 F. 483, 160 C. C. A. 493.

233. Actions by or against United States officers.—Under Judicial Code, §§ 24, 28 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1010), held, that suit begun in state court to enjoin postal inspector from delivering to third person property in possession of petitioner, who had been appointed postmaster, may by defendant be removed to federal court. Porter v. Coble, 246 F. 244, 158 C. C. A. 404.

A suit by the Director General of Railroads to enjoin sale of land owned by a railroad under execution issued on a judgment of a state court, on the theory that, having taken possession of the same, it was exempt from process under act of March 21, 1918, is a suit of a civil nature arising under the laws of the United States, etc., of which the federal District Court has jurisdiction, for it must be deemed that Act March 21, 1918, modified Jud. Code, § 265 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1242). United States Railroad Administration v. Burch (D. C.) 254 F. 140.

234. Actions on bonds of government contractors.—United States court has jurisdiction to dispose of suit on surety bond given United States government for performance of contract within South Carolina for erection of post office, under Act Cong. Aug. 13, 1894, 28 Stat. 278, as amended by Act Cong. Feb. 24, 1905, 33 Stat. 811. Equitable Surety Co. v. Illinois Surety Co. (S. C.) 94 S. E. 882.

238. Indians and Indian lands.—See Wellsville Oil Co. v. Miller, 37 S. Ct. 362, 243 U. S. 6, 61 L. Ed. 559, affirming judgment 150 P. 186, 48 Okl. 386.

Allegations in bill of lessee of an oil and gas mining lease from the heirs of an Indian homestead allottee for recovery of possession and for an injunction, alleging that a subsequent lease to defendant approved by Secretary of Interior was void under Act May 27, 1908, presented a cause of action within the jurisdiction of a federal District Court. Lancaster v. Kathleen Oil Co., 36 S. Ct. 711, 241 U. S. 551, 60 L. Ed. 1161.

238½. Lever act.—Though, in the absence of diversity of citizenship, the federal court has no jurisdiction to determine the controversy of price at which defendant agreed to furnish coal to plaintiff, a public service corporation, it will, leaving that question for courts of competent jurisdiction, enjoin defendant from disobeying the order of a state fuel administrator, under the Lever Act (post, § 3115¼aa), to continue furnishing plaintiff with coal till the act by its terms ceases to be in effect, by termination of the war, ascertained and proclaimed by the President. West Virginia Traction & Electric Co. v. Elm Grove Mining Co. (D. C.) 253 F. 772.

241. Pleading.—Allegations in suit by owners of placer mining claim to cancel record of location certificates as cloud on title must, when determining whether bill states cause of action under mining laws of United States, be regarded as essential parts of cause of action, either under general equity rule or under Rev. Codes Mont. §§ 6115, 6870, under which complaint in suits to remove cloud must show facts causing injury to plaintiff. Hopkins v. Walker, 37 S. Ct. 711, 244 U. S. 486, 61 L. Ed. 1270.

In an action to recover treble damages, under Sherman Anti-Trust Act, § 7 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8829), providing for such damages for violation of section 3 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8822), court is without jurisdiction, unless plaintiff alleges and proves that he was injured by unlawful combination in violation of act. Noyes v. Parsons, 245 F. 689, 158 C. C. A. 91.

Jurisdiction of federal court over action for damages for violation of Sherman Anti-Trust Act (Comp. St. 1916, § 8820 et seq.) must appear by distinct averments according to rules of good pleading, and cannot be left to inference. Id.

A case does not arise under the laws of the United States, so as to give District Court jurisdiction, unless it is apparent from complaint that it involves substantial dispute respecting the validity, construction, or effect of some federal law, upon the determination of which result depends. Postal Telegraph Cable Co. of Montana v. Nolan (D. C.) 240 F. 754.

A petition seeking to recover for injuries to a shipment of cattle, alleging that the cattle were shipped from one state to another, though making no specific reference to any federal law, states an action arising thereunder, as the various acts regulating commerce govern. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas (D. C.) 251 F. 332.

VI. SUITS BETWEEN CITIZENS OF DIFFERENT STATES

(A) Diversity of citizenship as jurisdictional ground

248. In general.—See Benedict v. City of New York (C. C. A.) 247 F. 758.

Jurisdiction given to federal courts on account of diversity of citizenship of parties is intended merely to secure to nonresident, as against citizens of state, impartial trial, and does not create in favor of nonresident any rights of action which citizens of the state under like situation would not have. Paterlini v. Memorial Hospital Ass'n of Monongahela City, Pa., 247 F. 639, 160 C. C. A. 49, affirming judgment (D. C.) 241 F. 429, and certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 334, 246 U. S. 665, 62 L. Ed. 929.

The federal District Court has jurisdiction of a suit involving $3,000 or more, where the parties are citizens of different states. Nevada-California Power Co. v. Hamilton (D. C.) 235 F. 317.

One ground of jurisdiction of federal courts is diversity of citizenship. Village Mills Co. v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Tex. Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 785.

249. Diversity of citizenship alone as sufficient to confer jurisdiction.—Where the state courts have not taken jurisdiction, a federal court sitting in equity may on ground of diversity of citizenship take jurisdiction of proceedings involving a decedent's estate only to preserve same and determine rights of creditors and others to share in the estate. Smith v. Jennings, 238 F. 48, 151 C. C. A. 124, reversing order Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 232 F. 921.

Notwithstanding diversity of citizenship of parties, federal court held without jurisdiction to entertain habeas corpus to enable petitioner to secure custody of child, to whose custody petitioner was entitled under adoption proceedings in another state. Ex parte Bell (D. C.) 240 F. 758.

Where federal jurisdiction is invoked, founded only on the fact that the action is between citizens of different states and the suit is brought in the district of the plaintiff's residence, objection thereto on the ground that the suit should have been brought in the district of the defendant's residence presents a question of venue, rather than of jurisdiction; and if in such case the requisite diversity of citizenship appears the objection is not well taken. Judicial Code, §§ 24, 51 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 991[1], 1033). Tate v. Baugh (D. C.) 252 F. 317.

250. Existence of diversity of citizenship as prerequisite to jurisdiction.—Where parties plaintiff and defendant in suit by trustee of bankrupt to set aside alleged fraudulent transfer were residents of same state, and transfer was made more than year before filing of petition, federal court had no jurisdiction, either by reason of diversity of citizenship or under Bankruptcy Act, §§ 60b, 67 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 9644, 9651), providing for the setting aside of preferential transfers made within four months of filing of petition. Hall v. Glenn (D. C.) 247 F. 997.

Where nonresident heirs of West Virginia decedent, all residents of same state sued in federal District Court for West Virginia to annul his marriage with defendant, a resident of the state, and for partition of his real estate, court cannot entertain jurisdiction of proceedings, unless such heirs disclaim any right to assail his marriage, and acknowledge defendant's interest in estate of decedent, for, if her marital rights were destroyed, there would be no diversity of citizenship. Hastings v. Douglass (D. C.) 249 F. 378.

251. Necessity of diversity of citizenship between all parties, plaintiff and defendant.—In an infringement suit, the court held without jurisdiction to adjudicate a counterclaim for unfair competition set up by a defendant, who was a citizen of the same state as complainant. United States Expansion Bolt Co. v. H. G. Kroncke Hardware Co., 234 F. 868, 148 C. C. A. 466, modifying decree (D. C.) 225 F. 383.

Where, in a suit in the federal court, based on diversity of citizenship, defendants impleaded a municipal corporation of the state of which plaintiff was a citizen, and plaintiff was allowed to file an amendment to the declaration, asserting that the several defendants were joint tort-feasors, the amendment ousted the federal court's jurisdiction, and it therefore had no power to enter judgment on the merits, either for plaintiff or any one of the defendants. Devost v. Twin State Gas & Electric Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 349.

In a suit to enjoin a railroad company from trespassing upon land which it had formerly occupied as a right of way, federal jurisdiction depending on diversity of citizenship, a lessee of the land to whom the company had granted the right to remove culm is an indispensable party defendant; hence, having been made a party by amendment, the suit must be dismissed, such lessee's citizenship being the same as that of complainants. Patterson v. Delaware & Hudson Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 255.

Where the citizenship of one of the necessary defendants was the same as that of the plaintiff, the federal District Court is without jurisdiction, on the ground of diversity of citizenship. Id.

Suit is not maintainable in federal court on ground of diversity of citizenship; defendants and one of plaintiffs being citizens of the same state. Rogers v. Chickamauga Trust Co. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 541.

Where some of the joint plaintiffs where citizens of the same state as were defendants, the federal court has no jurisdiction on the ground of diversity of citizenship. Hastings v. Hoog (D. C.) 234 F. 103.

253. —— Ancillary proceedings.—Suit to cancel, as procured by fraud, a release of judgment, and to subject an equity in land to payment of the judgment, is ancillary and supplemental to the suit in which the judgment was recovered, and so, without regard to the citizenship of the parties, may be maintained in a federal court where the judgment was recovered. Ross v. Miller (C. C. A.) 252 F. 697.

The fact that residents of the same state as cross-complainant were made parties to a cross-bill filed in suit for accounting and redemption from mortgage by a trustee in bankruptcy in the federal court on the ground of diversity of citizenship does not oust the court of jurisdiction. Brown v. Crawford (D. C.) 252 F. 248.

In a proceeding ancillary to the main suit, as to suit to foreclose a mortgage, it is not requisite to jurisdiction that there be a diversity of citizenship as to parties. Id.

254. Necessity of citizenship or residence in state where suit is brought.—Under Judicial Code, §§ 24, 28 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1010), a United States citizen, not a citizen of any state, cannot remove an action brought against him by a citizen of the state. Hough v. Société Electrique Westinghouse de Russie (D. C.) 231 F. 341.

255. Necessity of citizenship or residence in district where suit is brought.—Under Judicial Code, § 28 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1010), providing for removal, section 51 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1033), and this section, relating to the jurisdiction and venue of suits, a suit begun in the state court may be removed, where there is diversity of citizenship between the parties, though all of the plaintiffs were not residents of the district to which it was removed. James v. Amarillo City Light & Water Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 337.

Under this section, giving District Courts jurisdiction of civil suits between citizens of different states, etc., and section 51, providing that, where jurisdiction is founded on diversity of citizenship, suit shall only be brought in the district of the residence of plaintiff or defendant, a District Court has jurisdiction of a suit between citizens of different states on removal from a state court, although all of the plaintiffs were not citizens of such district. Id.

Where all parties to an action for a tort committed in South Carolina are nonresidents of the state, the case is triable in the state, and not subject to removal. Powell v. Southern Ry. Co. (S. C.) 96 S. E. 292.

256. Citizenship of parties within purview of statute.—A minor, having no parents, grandparents, or statutory guardian, may establish a domicile anywhere for the purpose of federal jurisdiction. Bjornquist v. Boston & A. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 929.

Domicile is the test of citizenship for the purpose of the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States. Id.

If defendant is an unincorporated society, the citizenship of its members determines the jurisdiction of the federal court. Wise v. Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (C. C. A.) 252 F. 961.

A domicile of choice, once acquired, is not lost until a new domicile has been acquired. Pannill v. Roanoke Times Co. (D. C.) 252 F. 910.

"Domicile" and "citizenship" are not always synonymous, though where domicile means home, and describes the state in which a citizen of the United States has his home, and to which he intends to return if absent, it is usually, if not always, equivalent to state citizenship; but when no new domicile has been acquired, and domicile exists only by legal fiction, and describes the former home state of a citizen of the United States to which he never intends to return, they are not synonymous. Id.

257. —— States.—Action against state bank commissioner and his surety, though not an action against a state, held not maintainable in federal court, because the parties were all citizens of one state. Martin v. Lankford, 38 S. Ct. 205, 245 U. S. 547, 62 L. Ed. 464.

The federal court may take jurisdiction of a suit on the ground of diversity of citizenship, where it was alleged, notwithstanding plaintiff had removed from Virginia, the state of defendant's residence, only a short time before beginning suit, where he testified that he intended to become a citizen of Maryland, the state to which he removed; his citizenship being a question of intention. Garrett v. Mallard (C. C. A.) 238 F. 335.

Where plaintiff at the time of the commencement of his action was domiciled in a state different from that of defendant, he is a citizen of that state for the purpose of suing in the federal courts. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Petrowsky (C. C. A.) 250 F. 554.

The term "citizen," as used in the Judiciary Act with reference to the jurisdiction of the federal courts, means the same thing as domicile, denoting a citizen of the United States residing permanently in a particular state. Id.

A state is not a "citizen," and a federal court does not acquire jurisdiction by removal of a suit by a state on the ground of diversity of citizenship. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. State of Nebraska (C. C. A.) 251 F. 279; Nevada-California Power Co. v. Hamilton (D. C.) 235 F. 317.

A citizen of the United States residing abroad who has abandoned his domicile is not a citizen of any state under the Fourteenth Amendment, and therefore cannot sue in the federal courts on the ground of diversity of citizenship. Stein v. Fleischmann Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 679.

The theoretical domicile, which is equivalent to state citizenship, is always one which exists animo revertendi, and such a domicile, clinging to a homeless wanderer, who never intends to return, is not equivalent to citizenship, in the sense in which the word "citizen" is used in the Judiciary Act. The grant of jurisdiction is not of controversies between citizens of the United States domiciled in different states, but of controversies between citizens of different states. Pannill v. Roanoke Times Co. (D. C.) 252 F. 910.

260. —— Corporations.—Railroad incorporated by act of Congress to carry on business in different states is not a citizen of any particular state for purpose of giving federal court jurisdiction of suit against it for diversity of citizenship. Bankers Trust Co. v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., 36 S. Ct. 569, 241 U. S. 295, 60 L. Ed. 1010.

The citizenship of a corporation, for purpose of jurisdiction of federal courts, is in state of its creation. Thomas v. South Butte Mining Co., 230 F. 968, 145 C. C. A. 162; Yanuszauckas v. Mallory S. S. Co. (C. C. A.) 232 F. 132, 146 C. C. A. 324; Everett Ry., Light & Power Co. v. United States (D. C.) 236 F. 806.

The federal District Court for New Hampshire is without jurisdiction on the ground of diversity of citizenship over an action by New Hampshire corporation against a railroad company incorporated, not only in Massachusetts, but also in New Hampshire. Peterborough R. R. v. Boston & M. R. R., 239 F. 97, 152 C. C. A. 147.

A joint-stock association is not a citizen, and its status in federal courts must be judged by citizenship of its members. Spencer v. Patey, 243 F. 555, 156 C. C. A. 253.

A joint-stock association cannot be a "citizen" within the meaning of the statutes regulating jurisdiction of the federal courts. Village Mills Co. v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Tex. Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 785.

Declaration of trust of joint-stock association held to give trustees thereof such power to sue and defend suits without joining stockholders that in suit in United States court in which trustees were parties their diverse citizenship properly alleged gave the court jurisdiction. Id.

262. Change of citizenship pending suit.—The jurisdiction of a federal court, once acquired on the ground of citizenship, continues, regardless of any change in citizenship. Stultz v. Cousins, 242 F. 794, 155 C. C. A. 382.

266. Character of actions within operation of statute.—A suit by receivers appointed by a federal court to recover the possession of standing timber claimed by them as part of their trust estate, which they were prevented from cutting by the owner of the land, and to recover damages, was within the jurisdiction of the court appointing them, irrespective of the citizenship of the parties or the amount involved. Kirkland v. Knox (C. C. A.) 230 F. 806.

A plenary suit against purchaser from bankrupt, who did not comply with Rem. & Bal. Code Wash. § 5296, relating to bulk sales, brought by trustee under Bankr. Act July 1, 1898, § 70e, as amended by Act Feb. 5, 1903, § 16 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9654), may in view of section 23, subds. "a" and "b," and sections 60b and 67e (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 9607, 9644, 9651), be removed by nonresident purchaser to federal court on ground of diversity of citizenship. Ewing v. S. L. Leszynsky & Co. (D. C.) 236 F. 811.

Where amount involved is above jurisdictional amount, federal courts can take jurisdiction invoked on account of diversity of citizenship to enjoin enforcement of unconstitutional state statute. Hebe Co. v. Calvert (D. C.) 246 F. 711.

(B) Joinder, dismissal, and rearrangement of parties

269. Joinder of citizens and aliens, or citizens of different states.—Under this section the District Court has jurisdiction of a suit wherein a citizen of one state was plaintiff and a citizen of another and a subject of a foreign power were defendants. Ryan v. Ohmer (D. C.) 233 F. 165.

270. Failure to join necessary parties.—Where complainant, with consent of its creditors, continued in force previous assignments of oil leases to defendant as nonresident under an agreement that a bank, as trustee, should disburse receipts, the creditors and the bank are indispensable parties to a suit to recover possession of the property, etc., and, being residents of the same state as complainant, there can be no diversity of citizenship which would give the federal court jurisdiction. Harris & Stevens Corporation v. Tarr & McComb (C. C. A.) 251 F. 570.

273. Improper or collusive making or joinder of parties.—By making persons who are necessary parties plaintiff defendants, jurisdiction is not conferred upon a federal court, where, if they had been made plaintiffs, there would not have been the necessary diversity of citizenship. Lindauer v. Compania Palomas de Terrenos y Ganados, Sociedad Anonimo, 247 F. 428, 159 C. C. A. 482, certiorari denied Compania Palomas de Terrenos y Ganados v. Lindauer, 38 S. Ct. 345, 246 U. S. 670, 62 L. Ed. 931.

Judicial Code, § 37 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1019), does not deprive a federal court of jurisdiction over a suit against an interstate telephone company to compel it to furnish service, though the parties are friendly antagonists and the company was willing to have the controversy submitted to the federal court. Stephens v. Ohio State Telephone Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 759.

Though complainant had control of stock of Ohio corporation, which manufactured articles for it, held, that suit by complainant, a New Jersey corporation, against Ohio corporation and a union, brought in federal court, could not be dismissed under Judicial Code, § 37 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1019), on ground that making complainant party was collusive.—Niles-Bement-Pond Co. v. Iron Molders' Union, Local No. 68 (D. C.) 246 F. 851.

274. Dismissal of parties whose presence would oust jurisdiction.—State court's involuntary dismissal of action against foreign corporation as to resident defendants joined therewith, did not authorize removal of action as to the nonresident defendant, on ground of diverse citizenship.—Landers v. Tracy, 188 S. W. 763, 171 Ky. 657.

275. Rearrangement of parties.—A corporation, which was an indispensable party, made a defendant, but which joined in the prayer of the bill, will be aligned by federal court as a complainant for jurisdictional purposes. Lindauer v. Compania Palomas de Terrenos y Ganados, Sociedad Anonimo, 247 F. 428, 159 C. C. A. 482, certiorari denied Compania Palomas de Terrenos y Ganados v. Lindauer, 38 S. Ct. 345, 246 U. S. 670, 62 L. Ed. 931.

278. —— Corporations.—In a suit by a minority stockholder in an Oregon corporation, who was a citizen of Oregon, for an accounting by nonresidents of Oregon respecting funds of the corporation misappropriated by them, the corporation could not be aligned on the side of plaintiff in determining the right of removal. Baillie v. Backus (D. C.) 230 F. 711.

In a stockholder's suit, where it is shown that the officers or others in control of the corporation are opposed to the object sought by complainants, the corporation will be aligned with defendants, for jurisdictional purposes. Whitaker v. Whitaker Iron Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 980.

280. —— Estates of decedents.—In suit by heirs of husband and wife, other than S., to set aside joint will, judgment in favor of trustees thereunder, and wife's residuary bequest to S., and for partition, court held to have erred in aligning S. with plaintiffs in determining question of diversity of citizenship. Sutton v. English, 38 S. Ct. 254, 246 U. S. 199, 62 L. Ed. 664.

282. —— Mortgages and trust deeds.—In a suit by a mortgagee against the mortgagor and its employés to enjoin the latter from violating their contract of employment, the mortgagor held alignable as a complainant for jurisdictional purposes. Mahon v. Guaranty Trust & Safe Deposit Co., 239 F. 266, 152 C. C. A. 254.

In determining whether the federal court has jurisdiction on the ground of diversity of citizenship, the court will align the parties according to their interest, so the trustee of a mortgage given to secure bonds will be treated as a plaintiff, if an indispensable party, and, though it was a citizen of the same state as the bondholder who began suit, the federal court has jurisdiction; the mortgagor being a citizen of a different state. Brown v. Denver Omnibus & Cab Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 560.

Where a bondholder, suing to foreclose a mortgage given to secure bonds, named the trustee, which had refused to act, a party defendant, held, that the omission of any prayer for judgment against the trustee warranted the federal court in treating the trustee as plaintiff, in determining whether there was requisite diversity of citizenship. Id.

(C) Particular parties within statute

299. Necessary and unnecessary parties.—The joinder of defendants, who are citizens of the same state as complainants, will not oust a federal court of jurisdiction, where they are not indispensable parties, and a decree may be entered between the other parties without affecting their rights. Weiland v. Pioneer Irr. Co., 238 F. 519, 151 C. C. A. 455.

Where there was requisite diversity of citizenship between plaintiff and the principal defendant, that another party defendant was a citizen of the same state as plaintiff will not deprive the federal court of jurisdiction, unless such person was an indispensable party. Brown v. Denver Omnibus & Cab Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 560.

In determining the removability of a cause indispensable parties only are to be considered. Webb v. Southern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 578.

Citizen of same state as plaintiff, intervening as defendant, and subsequently asking to be stricken, held not an indispensable party, and federal court had jurisdiction. Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 242 F. 561.

That defendant lessors, residents of Kentucky, made rival lease to a Delaware corporation, held not to deprive District Court for Kentucky of jurisdiction of suit by plaintiff, also a Delaware corporation, against lessors alone. Beatty Oil & Gas Co. v. Blanton (D. C.) 245 F. 979.

300. —— Actions for torts.—Insurers who paid policies covering part of property destroyed by fire held not indispensable parties to an action by the owner to recover for the loss from one whose negligence is alleged to have caused the fire, for the purpose of determining the removability of the cause. Webb v. Southern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 578.

313. —— Foreclosure suits.—Where a mortgage on land within the district was given by mortgagors who were residents of another district to secure the debt of a third person residing within the district, the latter was not an indispensable party to a suit to foreclose; and hence his residence within the district where complainant also resided was not fatal to the court's jurisdiction. Barnes v. Cady, 232 F. 318, 146 C. C. A. 366, affirming order (D. C.) Cady v. Barnes, 208 F. 359.

Where the trustee named in securing bonds refused to act, the trustee is not an indispensable party defendant to a suit by a holder of bonds to foreclose the mortgage; hence, though the trustee and the bondholder were citizens of the same state, yet, as there was diversity of citizenship between the mortgagor and the bondholder, suit to foreclose might be brought in the federal court. Brown v. Denver Omnibus & Cab Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 560.

326. Persons in representative or fiduciary capacity as parties.—A controversy between citizens of different states held not involved in a suit by nonresident bondholders' committee against a trustee, refusing to sue the guarantor of defaulted mortgage bonds, to satisfy deficiency judgment against guarantor in foreclosure suit; the defendants all being domestic corporations. Hamer v. New York Rys. Co., 37 S. Ct. 511, 244 U. S. 266, 61 L. Ed. 1125.

The jurisdiction of the federal courts upon diversity of citizenship depends upon the personal citizenship of the parties of record, and not upon the citizenship of the parties whom they represent. Memphis St. Ry. Co. v. Bobo, 232 F. 708, 146 C. C. A. 634.

The jurisdiction of federal court over an action for death maintainable by widow alone depends on place of residence and citizenship of the widow. Kever v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 814.

Under Acts W. Va. 1915, c. 73, federal court for West Virginia is without jurisdiction of suit by nonresident heirs of West Virginia decedent, assailing his marriage with resident of that state, for, if they be treated as nonresidents, they do not fall within terms of statute, and if they be treated as representatives of decedent there would be no diversity of citizenship. Hastings v. Douglass (D. C.) 249 F. 378.

328. —— Administrators and executors.—Requisite diversity of citizenship to sustain federal jurisdiction exists where citizen of Arkansas, as administrator under appointment in Tennessee, sues corporation for wrongful death, in view of decision of Supreme Court of Tennessee as to effect of Acts Tenn. 1903, c. 501. Memphis St. Ry. Co. v. Moore, 37 S. Ct. 273, 243 U. S. 299, 61 L. Ed. 733, affirming judgment Same v. Bobo, 232 F. 708, 146 C. C. A. 634.

There being no statute in West Virginia authorizing foreign administrators to sue, an administrator appointed in Pennsylvania cannot sue a resident of West Virginia in a federal court sitting in West Virginia by reason of diverse citizenship, as, independent of statute, an administrator's powers do not extend beyond the limit of the state of his appointment, and his control over the estate of his decedent is limited to such property as is in the state of his appointment. Klug v. Martinsburg Power Co. (D. C.) 229 F. 861.

It is the citizenship of the administrator suing, and not the place of his appointment, which gives a federal court jurisdiction. Gould v. Suburban Gas & Electric Light Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 930.

329. —— Guardians, next friends, and curators.—Curator of decedent's estate, having no greater right than an administrator, cannot by virtue of his appointment in one state sue in another state, even in federal court therefor, its jurisdiction being invoked only on account of diversity of citizenship, unless the laws of the other state permit; but he may in the other state sue in his own name on a right accruing to him directly by contract or by judgment in action as curator. Old Dominion Trust Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Oxford, N. C. (D. C.) 252 F. 613.

331. —— Trustees.—In a suit by bondholder for the appointment of a receiver after the trustee's refusal to act, the trustee is aligned in interest with plaintiff. Georgia Coast & P. R. Co. v. Lowenthal, 238 F. 795, 151 C. C. A. 645, affirming decree (D. C.) Lowenthal v. Georgia Coast & P. R. Co., 233 F. 1016.

332. Interveners and substituted parties.—Where a citizen of Ohio, the executor of a deceased partner, filed in the federal court a bill against the surviving partners, residents of Illinois, to wind up the partnership affairs, which alleged the existence of partnership assets, and creditors intervened, held that, though the alleged assets proved worthless, the court had jurisdiction to enter decrees in favor of the claimants against the surviving partners and the executor as such, regardless of the citizenship of the claimants. Lackner v. McKechney (C. C. A.) 252 F. 403.

(D) Pleadings, record, objections and waiver

334. Necessity of allegations or showing by record.—Where no issue of diversity of citizenship was made by the pleadings, evidence as to time spent by plaintiff in state other than that of which she testified she was a resident was properly excluded. Smith v. Smith, 247 F. 461, 159 C. C. A. 515.

335. Sufficiency of allegations or record.—Where complainant, who resided in California, averred that he was a citizen of that state, the federal court of New York, sitting in that district in which defendant resided, had jurisdiction of the suit on the ground of diversity of citizenship. Hanson v. Hanson, 234 F. 853, 148 C. C. A. 451.

Where a verified bill alleged diversity of citizenship and that amount involved as to each plaintiff exceeded $3,000, federal district court must, no counter affidavit having been offered, be deemed to have jurisdiction. Lutz v. City of New Orleans (D. C.) 235 F. 978, order affirmed Lutze v. Same, 237 F. 1018, 150 C. C. A. 654.

336. —— Particular allegations.—Petition alleging diversity of citizenship, and that bullion was forcibly taken from plaintiff's possession in Mexico, and was held by one of the defendants, who would deliver it to the others unless enjoined, without any reference being made to a state of war prevailing in Mexico, held sufficient to confer jurisdiction on a federal District Court. Ricaud v. American Metal Co., 38 S. Ct. 312, 246 U. S. 304, 62 L. Ed. 733.

337. —— Associations and copartnerships.—As a joint-stock association is not a citizen, and its status in the federal courts must be judged by the citizenship of its members, a complaint alleging that plaintiff was a citizen and resident of New Jersey, and that defendant was a joint-stock association with its principal place of business in New York, does not allege facts requisite to give the federal courts jurisdiction for the ground of diversity of citizenship. Spencer v. Patey (C. C. A.) 243 F. 555.

338. —— Corporations.—Complaint alleging that plaintiff was citizen of New Jersey, and that defendant was joint-stock association with principal place of business in New York, held not sufficient to give federal courts jurisdiction on ground of diversity of citizenship. Spencer v. Patey, 243 F. 555, 156 C. C. A. 253.

339. —— Effect of admissions in pleadings.—Allegation of plea that plaintiff was citizen of New Jersey held an admission thereof by defendant, in the absence of plea or evidence to the contrary. Kawin & Co. v. American Colortype Co., 243 F. 317, 156 C. C. A. 97.

Allegation of diversity of citizenship held prima facie proof thereof, and established as by default, unless traversed and proof made to the contrary. Id.

341. Amendment.—Where a bill was amended on complainants' motion, and not under compulsion of an order, the question whether the necessary diversity of citizenship to give the federal court jurisdiction was stated must be determined from the bill as amended. Patterson v. Delaware & Hudson Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 255.

345. Objections to jurisdiction.—That diversity of citizenship of the parties, necessary to give a federal court jurisdiction, has not been established as it should be, may be noticed by the court of its own motion. Wise v. Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (C. C. A.) 252 F. 961.

346. —— Time for objection.—In ancillary suit to restrain further proceedings in state court, held, that jurisdiction of original suit on ground that it was not removable as for diversity of citizenship could not be questioned. McCabe v. Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, 243 F. 845, 156 C. C. A. 357.

In the federal courts, where jurisdiction is based on diversity of citizenship, the objection that the court was without jurisdiction may be raised after defendants have answered to the merits. Hastings v. Hoog (D. C.) 234 F. 103.

347. —— Determination as to jurisdiction and burden of proof.—Evidence held insufficient to sustain burden resting on defendant of establishing change of domicile and consequent loss of citizenship in Tennessee, as citizen of which state he was sued. Stultz v. Cousins, 242 F. 794, 155 C. C. A. 382.

Evidence on question whether husband of plaintiff, a resident of Pennsylvania, was in employ of a New York corporation at time he met his death held to conclusively show that he was employed by a Pennsylvania corporation, so there was no diversity of citizenship, giving federal District Court jurisdiction. Postal Telegraph-Cable Co. v. Darrow (C. C. A.) 250 F. 581.

In an action for false imprisonment, where on the issue as to jurisdiction based on diversity of citizenship it was specially found that plaintiff "is and was a resident of the state of Mississippi at the day of bringing this suit," such finding was sufficient to sustain an inference that plaintiff was both a citizen and resident of the state of Mississippi, and that therefore the court was vested with jurisdiction. Reichman v. Harris (C. C. A.) 252 F. 371.

Judgment against a county is res judicata, on mandamus against its officers to compel levy for and payment of the judgment, as to the defense, that might have been made in the action, that there was no diversity of citizenship between the real parties in interest to give the court jurisdiction. Bunch v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 673.

Questions of jurisdiction of federal courts on diversity of citizenship may be disposed of on motion when depending upon facts appearing in the record; but, when depending on contested facts arising on plea that plaintiff is an alien, plaintiff may insist on jury trial. Kever v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 814.

In suit in federal District Court to have an attachment and judgment declared to have priority over a mechanic's lien, suit to foreclose which was brought by one of the defendants in a state court, in which suit a receiver was appointed, who took possession of the attached property, questions as to whether the jurisdiction of the state court excluded that of the District Court should have been presented to the latter court in limine. Pacific Coast Pipe Co. v. Conrad City Water Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 673.

349. Waiver of objection.—Where a suit was brought in federal court on ground of diversity of citizenship, defendant, who appeared generally, pleaded to the bill, and offered some proof, waived any objection on the ground that she was not a citizen of district alleged. Hanson v. Hanson, 234 F. 853, 148 C. C. A. 451.

Jurisdiction cannot be conferred by consent or failure of parties to raise question in trial court. Spencer v. Patey, 243 F. 555, 156 C. C. A. 253.

Where the federal court's jurisdiction was invoked on the ground of diversity of citizenship, that requirement is absolutely essential and cannot be waived, and want of it will be error at any stage of the cause, though assigned by the party at whose instance the error was committed. Devost v. Twin State Gas & Electric Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 349.

A defendant, raising a plea of jurisdiction upon evidence coming out during the course of a trial, must withdraw his general answer and submit to determination of the case upon his plea; and submission on merits, without regard to the plea, waives the jurisdictional question. Kever v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 814.

Defendant cannot stand on its plea to the jurisdiction and also contest the issue upon the merits, unless the trial court compels submission of the merits to the jury, conditional upon the jury's finding for the plaintiff upon the jurisdictional question. Id.

In a suit in a federal District Court, questions as to whether the jurisdiction of the court was excluded by the pendency of an action in a state court could not be waived, as, even if the parties consented thereto, the court would not knowingly invade the jurisdiction of another court. Pacific Coast Pipe Co. v. Conrad City Water Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 673.

A defendant, who removed an action against him by a citizen of the state in which the action was brought, and answered to the merits, waived jurisdiction over his person so long as plaintiff was a citizen of that state; but, when an alien was substituted as plaintiff, defendant then had a right to withdraw his answer and interpose a plea to the jurisdiction. Roman v. Lehigh Valley Coal Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 595.

Where, after the original complaint had been amended, so as to show that an alien, instead of a citizen of another state, was the proper plaintiff, defendant answered to the merits, without attempting to plead lack of jurisdiction, it thereby waived the objection to the jurisdiction of the federal court over an action by the alien against it. Id.

When diversity of citizenship is the ground of federal jurisdiction, if diversity of citizenship does not in fact exist, there is an entire absence of jurisdiction, which cannot be waived by the parties, and the court will dismiss on its own motion. Primos Chemical Co. v. Fulton Steel Corporation (D. C.) 254 F. 454.

VII. SUITS BETWEEN CITIZENS OF A STATE AND FOREIGN STATES OR CITIZENS

350. Suits by aliens.—See Keating v. Pennsylvania Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 155.

359. Nonresident citizens as aliens.—Under Act March 2, 1907, § 2 (Comp. St. 1916, § 3959), and article 4 of the treaty with Austria (17 Stat. 836), a naturalized Austrian, who has resided in Austria for two years, but is shown not to have renounced his American citizenship, cannot sue as an alien in the federal courts, though he has not shown his American citizenship before a diplomatic or consular officer. Stein v. Fleischmann Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 679.

365. Waiver of objection.—Under Act March 3, 1887, as amended by Act Aug. 13, 1888, held, that alien's right to object to place of suit or to any defect in service may be waived. Smithson v. Roneo (D. C.) 231 F. 349.

VIII. ASSIGNMENT AND TRANSFERS OF CHOSES IN ACTION

367½. Effect of assignment in general.—That one object of conveyance of land to corporation was to secure necessary diversity of citizenship held not to deprive federal court of jurisdiction of action to quiet title. Doane v. California Land Co., 243 F. 67, 155 C. C. A. 597, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 60, 245 U. S. 660, 62 L. Ed. 535.

Under this subdivision, District Court held to have jurisdiction of suit against Canadian corporation by administrator of alien's assignee; the assignee and the administrator being citizens. Sands v. James Carruthers & Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 636.

371. Promissory notes—Indorsers and indorsees.—This subdivision does not deny to a federal court jurisdiction of an action by an assignee on notes indorsed and transferred by a payee, to whom they were made merely that he might, as agent of the maker, negotiate them with third persons. Baltimore Trust Co. v. Screven County (D. C.) 238 F. 834.

375. What are choses in action.—A suit by the grantee of a prior grantee to enjoin the cutting of standing timber held not one brought as assignee of a chose in action, but within the jurisdiction of a federal court, regardless of the citizenship of complainants' grantor. Crown Orchard Co. v. Dennis, 229 F. 652, 144 C. C. A. 62, reversing decree (D. C.) 220 F. 516.

Action to recover back money deposited in court as condition of granting temporary injunction held not one upon a note or chose in action within this section, as to actions by assignee. Menasha Wooden Ware Co. v. Southern Oregon Co., 244 F. 83, 156 C. C. A. 511; Id., 244 F. 90, 156 C. C. A. 518.

A suit by an assignee of an interest in the distributive share of an heir in an estate held not one by an assignee of a chose in action within this subdivision, in which jurisdiction is dependent on diversity of citizenshp between defendant and the assignor. Stotesbury v. Huber (D. C.) 237 F. 413.

Action in equity by assignee of oil and gas lease, to restrain others from operating on land, is not "suit to recover upon a chose in action in favor of any assignee," within this section, prohibiting the federal District Courts from entertaining such suits. Shaffer v. Marks (D. C.) 241 F. 139.

379. Contracts.—An action by the assignee of a building contract, providing for assignment, to recover for work done after the assignment is not within this subdivision, which denies jurisdiction of suits by assignees, unless the assignor could have sued in the same court. Cullman County, Ala., v. Vincennes Bridge Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 473.

407. Pleadings and record.—Under this section, and Rev. St. Mo. 1909, §§ 10001, 10002, 10004, petition in action by indorsee of note payable to makers' order and transferred to trust company held not to show jurisdiction. Houck v. Bank of Brinkley, 242 F. 881, 155 C. C. A. 469.

Where petition in action by indorsee of promissory note failed to show that federal District Court had jurisdiction, held, that suit should have been dismissed by such court on its own motion. Id.

408. Objections to jurisdiction.—Defendant, in consideration of money advanced to him by a partnership, agreed to assign an interest in his share of an estate. He executed an assignment in the name of the firm which was designated therein as a corporation. At the request of the firm, he executed a second assignment in lieu of the first to one of the partners as an individual. The assignee afterward repaid the money advanced to the firm and brought suit to establish and enforce the assignment. Held, that defendant was in no position to question the assignee's right to maintain the suit in his own name, and that, he and defendant being citizens of different states, a federal court had jurisdiction regardless of the citizenship of the other members of the firm. Stotesbury v. Huber (D. C.) 237 F. 413.

IX. NATURE AND EXTENT OF JURISDICTION IN GENERAL

410. Nature and extent of federal jurisdiction.—The District Court's jurisdiction is the creature of acts of Congress enacted pursuant to Constitution, and, apart from powers inherent in lawfully constituted judicial tribunal, such court has no jurisdiction other than that conferred by statute. Venner v. Pennsylvania Steel Co. of New Jersey (D. C.) 250 F. 292.

410½. Necessity of concurrent jurisdiction of state courts.—Under the Judicial Code, the federal court's jurisdiction at the suit of nonresident stockholders to appoint a receiver for an insurance company is not limited to cases where the state court would have similar jurisdiction. Welch v. Union Casualty Ins. Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 968, decree reversed O'Neil v. Welch (C. C. A.) 245 F. 261.

410¾. Effect of state statutes.—Act Pa. April 23, 1909 (P. L. 167), cannot take away the federal court's jurisdiction under this section, as amended by Act Dec. 21, 1911, 37 Stat. 46, to maintain a receiver in possession of an insurance company's assets at a suit of nonresident stockholders after dissolution of the company by decree of the state court at the instance of the insurance commissioner. Welch v. Union Casualty Ins. Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 968, decree reversed O'Neil v. Welch (C. C. A.) 245 F. 261.

413. Jurisdiction, how obtained.—In every proceeding, criminal or civil, before cause can be determined by court and judgment given against defendant, court must have jurisdiction of subject-matter and defendant's person, so that some process must be resorted to in order to bring defendant into court, which process must be lawful. U. S. v. Simon (D. C.) 248 F. 980.

414. Jurisdiction by consent.—Jurisdiction of a federal court of an action, by a railroad employé to recover for an injury, as one arising under Employers' Liability Act, cannot be conferred by consent, irrespective of the facts. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. Allen, 249 F. 280, 161 C. C. A. 288.

An individual cannot confer upon a court, not otherwise possessing such powers, jurisdiction as it pertains to any particular matter, and the incumbents of the court cannot act as to such matters as a court. In re Bishop's Estate (C. C. A.) 250 F. 145.

While jurisdiction of the person can be given by consent of the defendants; jurisdiction of the subject-matter cannot be conferred on any court, either by assumption of jurisdiction, or consent of the parties, or request of all of the parties. Primos Chemical Co. v. Fulton Steel Corporation (D. C.) 254 F. 454.

418. Jurisdiction of subject-matter or of the person.—Where diversity of citizenship exists, federal courts of equity have jurisdiction to entertain suits for partition of real estate of decedent. Hastings v. Douglass (D. C.) 249 F. 378.

421. —— Enforcement of state laws or judgments.—Action for death under Code Va. 1904, §§ 2902–2904, held maintainable in federal court sitting in New York. Lauria v. E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 687.

429. Retention and scope of jurisdiction once acquired.—Jurisdiction of federal District Court in suit presenting federal question and that of Supreme Court extends to all questions involved in case, including questions of state law, whether it is necessary to decide federal question or not. Greene v. Louisville & I. R. Co., 37 S. Ct. 673, 244 U. S. 499, 61 L. Ed. 1280, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 88.

Federal jurisdiction having been invoked on substantial grounds extends to determination of all questions involved in case. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Greene, 37 S. Ct. 683, 244 U. S. 522, 61 L. Ed. 1291, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 97, modifying decree (D. C.) Same v. Bosworth, 230 F. 191.

Where federal District Court had jurisdiction of subject-matter warranting appointment of receiver of embarrassed corporation, it had authority to decide all questions arising therein, and its rulings could be questioned only by those properly parties. Scattergood v. American Pipe & Construction Co., 249 F. 23, 161 C. C. A. 83, certiorari granted Hitchcock v. Scattergood, 38 S. Ct. 583, 247 U. S. 516, 62 L. Ed. 1244.

In a suit in a federal court for infringement of trade-mark, where there is diversity of citizenship between the parties to give jurisdiction, the court may grant relief against the violation of common-law trade-mark rights, which do not depend on transactions in interstate commerce. Ingersoll v. Doyle (D. C.) 247 F. 620.

Federal court whose receiver has taken possession of railroad company's property held to have exclusive jurisdiction, and to be entitled to retain jurisdiction over property after it has been sold and delivered by receiver. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Concrete Inv. Co. (Tex. Civ. App.) 201 S. W. 718.

430. Ancillary and incidental jurisdiction.—A suit in a federal court for cancellation of instruments purporting to transfer a judgment at law, rendered by such court in favor of complainant, is ancillary in character, and the court has jurisdiction, regardless of the amount in controversy. Lee Line Steamers v. Robinson, 232 F. 417, 146 C. C. A. 411.

Where the court and all parties treated the receivership suit as being also for the benefit of general creditors, who proved their claims therein, such suit by the receiver is ancillary and within the court's jurisdiction without regard to the citizenship of the parties. Vallery v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 236 F. 176.

Neither citizenship of parties nor any other factor that would ordinarily determine jurisdiction has any bearing on the right of the court to entertain jurisdiction of a suit ancillary to a pending suit. McCabe v. Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, 243 F. 845, 156 C. C. A. 357.

In suit to remove cloud, defendant's denial of any claim of title held to defeat jurisdiction; the jurisdiction of claim for trespass being merely incidental to the jurisdiction to remove the cloud. Sloane v. Kramer Bros. & Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 727.

Ancillary jurisdiction of federal courts may be invoked by stranger to original suit. Venner v. Pennsylvania Steel Co. of New Jersey (D. C.) 250 F. 292.

Where bill, seeking to enjoin corporation from selling its assets on ground of violation of anti-trust acts, etc., did not make prospective purchaser party because it was nonresident of district, held that, after consummation of transaction, supplemental bill, seeking same relief, did not invoke ancillary jurisdiction of court, and give it jurisdiction of purchaser. Id.

Ancillary jurisdiction of federal courts to protect property within their control from interference, etc., is dependent on original suit, and is not ousted because new parties are brought in any more than by subsequent change in condition arising pendente lite. Id.

Where the District Court for the Southern District of New York was without jurisdiction of a suit, the District Court for the Northern District cannot rightfully exercise ancillary jurisdiction therein, for that presupposes jurisdiction in the Southern District. Primos Chemical Co. v. Fulton Steel Corporation (D. C.) 254 F. 454.

432. —— Adjudication of claims upon property in the custody of the court.—A trustee in bankruptcy obtained an order enjoining a bank from paying out a deposit in which the bankrupt claimed an interest. Afterward another claimant, which was a nonresident, brought an action at law against the bank, which was a citizen of the district, to recover the deposit. Thereupon the bank filed a bill in the nature of a bill of interpleader in the same court, alleging that it claimed an interest in the fund through an assignment from the bankrupt and that there were also other claimants, who were made defendants. It asked an injunction against the prosecution of actions at law, and that the rights of the respective parties in the fund be determined. Held, that the effect of the bill was to draw in for a single decision the whole controversy, a part only of which was involved in the action at law, and that the bill was ancillary, and within the jurisdiction of the court, regardless of the citizenship of the other defendants. Sherman Nat. Bank of New York v. Shubert Theatrical Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 225.

The ancillary jurisdiction of a court to determine all questions as to rights in property of which it has taken possession, may be exercised by federal courts, though not authorized by statute. Darrough v. First Nat. Bank of Claremore (Okl.) 156 P. 191.

Jurisdiction of federal Circuit Court in receivership proceedings wherein title to land was involved held not limited to discovering then existing state of facts as to title. Samuel v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Tex. Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 246.

434. —— Collection of assets by receiver.—Where a court appointing a receiver had no jurisdiction, it cannot claim jurisdiction over property seized without the jurisdiction; so the fact receivers appointed by the District Court of the Southern District of New York have taken possession of property of the defendant in the Northern District does not give that court jurisdiction, where it exceeded its jurisdiction, etc., in appointing receivers, etc. Primos Chemical Co. v. Fulton Steel Corporation (D. C.) 254 F. 454.

436. —— Cross-bills.—Jurisdiction of a federal court, shown by a bill, does not support or aid its jurisdiction of a counterclaim, which does not merely concern matters already put in litigation by the bill. Cleveland Engineering Co. v. Galion Dynamic Motor Truck Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 405.

438. —— Enforcement of judgments, decrees, or orders.—Suit by bondholders' committee against trustee in mortgage, guarantor of bonds, and the latter's successor, under reorganization plan to enforce deficiency judgment against guarantor, cannot be maintained in federal court, without regard to citizenship, as ancillary to foreclosure proceedings in that court against the guarantor. Hamer v. New York Rys. Co., 37 S. Ct. 511, 244 U. S. 266, 61 L. Ed. 1125.

446. —— Restraint of proceedings.—Suit to enjoin actions in state court to recover overcharges by carrier is not ancillary to suit in federal court to enforce rates fixed by the state and restrain actions for overcharges, where decree granting relief had been reversed with directions to dismiss. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. McKnight, 37 S. Ct. 611, 244 U. S. 368. 61 L. Ed. 1200, affirming decree Bellamy v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co., 220 F. 876, 136 C. C. A. 442.

A suit in a federal court to enjoin prosecution of an action at law in the same court held ancillary to such action and within the jurisdiction of the court, regardless of the citizenship of the parties. Sherman Nat. Bank of New York v. Shubert Theatrical Co., 247 F. 256, 159 C. C. A. 350, affirming order (D. C.) 238 F. 225.

A federal court has jurisdiction, regardless of citizenship of parties or amount involved, of an ancillary suit to prevent relitigation in other courts of issues it has heard and determined in the original suit, and to protect the titles and rights of purchasers under its decree. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. McElvain (D. C.) 253 F. 123.

A dependent suit may be maintained by a party to the original suit, or by one who claims under the adjudication and the decree therein, against one who assails that adjudication or decree in a subsequent suit in a court without appellate jurisdiction, on the ground that it is illegal or ineffectual, although the latter was not a party to the original suit, the adjudication, or decree. Id.

447. —— Restraint of unfair competition in patent and trade mark cases.—In a bill for infringement of a patent, a claim for unfair competition in connection with the sale of the infringing article may properly be joined, regardless of the question of citizenship. Farmers' Handy Wagon Co. v. Beaver Silo & Box Mfg. Co., 236 F. 731, 150 C. C. A. 63, reversing decree (D. C.) 219 F. 234.

Where a patent has been held valid and infringed, the unfair competition feature arising out of the infringement may be included in an accounting for profits and damages, though the parties are citizens of the same state. Detroit Showcase Co. v. Kawneer Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 234.

Where patent was found not to have been infringed, and parties to suit were citizens of same state, federal court is without jurisdiction over a cause of action for unfair competition, arising out of defendant's sale of the alleged infringing articles. Id.

449. —— Necessity of showing jurisdictional facts.—Where a declaration alleges all the facts essential to federal jurisdiction, the burden of proving lack of jurisdiction falls on the defendant. Bjornquist v. Boston & A. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 929.

455. Determination of question of jurisdiction—Necessity of evidence to establish jurisdictional allegations.—Where allegations of declaration, not denied by answer, are sufficient to show jurisdiction of federal court, no proof to establish such jurisdiction is necessary. Fentress Coal & Coke Co. v. Elmore, 240 F. 328, 153 C. C. A. 254.

456. —— Presumption as to jurisdiction.—Marshal's return, not showing that person served with process was agent of foreign corporation for service of process, held not aided by any presumption, as jurisdictional facts must appear affirmatively. Boultbee v. International Paper Co., 229 F. 951, 144 C. C. A. 233.

In determining whether the alleged unconstitutionality of a state statute gives jurisdiction to a federal court, the presumption is that, if the statute is unconstitutional, the state courts will so declare. Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum v. Hobart, 244 F. 385, 157 C. C. A. 11.

457. Objections to jurisdiction.—When want of jurisdiction of the court of the main suit appears, it is the duty of a court asked to exercise ancillary jurisdiction to raise the question itself, and to decline to act if the want of jurisdiction in that court appears. Primos Chemical Co. v. Fulton Steel Corporation (D. C.) 254 F. 454.

459. —— Time of objection.—A plain defect of jurisdiction may be insisted upon at the hearing. Burdell v. Comstock (C. C.) 15 F. 395.

460. —— Waiver of objections.—Objection to the jurisdiction of a federal court is not waived by answering to the merits after a demurrer for the sole purpose of raising such objection has been overruled. In re Atlanta City R. Co., 17 S. Ct. 208, 164 U. S. 633, 41 L. Ed. 579.

That defendant's counsel moved to set aside service on ground that court was without jurisdiction of subject-matter of suit is not an admission of the court's jurisdiction over defendant's person or a consent to the exercise of it. Smith v. Government of Canal Zone, 249 F. 273, 161 C. C. A. 281.

A plea to the jurisdiction is a plea in abatement; and, where the defendant has admitted the jurisdiction or waived it by a plea in bar to the action, he cannot subsequently plead in abatement. Wittemore v. Malcomson (C. C.) 28 F. 605.

Under the rule in Ohio that a plea to the jurisdiction of the court, denying averments of diverse citizenship, must be by special plea of abatement, separately pleaded and tried, any plea to the merits is a waiver of the plea in abatement. Imperial Refining Co. v. Wyman (C. C.) 38 F. 574, 3 L. R. A. 503.

Jurisdictional facts prescribed by statute held absolutely essential to federal court's jurisdiction, regardless of parties' consent, and want thereof may be raised at any stage. United States Envelope Co. v. Transo Paper Co. (D. C.) 229 F. 576.

Where all parties were properly served and appeared, it is immaterial to the jurisdiction of the court that suit was by ancillary bill. Lancaster v. Police Jury, Parish of Avoyelles, State of Louisiana (D. C.) 254 F. 179.

Where a city voluntarily intervened in a suit against a street railway, and a quasi receivership was undertaken upon the city's demand for relief, held, that the city was not in a position to question the jurisdiction of the court to restrain alleged illegal action by the city with respect to fares charged. Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Toledo Rys. & Light Co. (D. C.) 254 F. 597.

(2) Crimes and offenses.

4. Common-law offenses.—Federal courts have no common-law criminal jurisdiction, and it is essential to such jurisdiction that Congress shall have made the act a crime, affixed a punishment, and declared the court that shall have jurisdiction. Oliver v. U. S., 230 F. 971, 145 C. C. A. 165, certiorari denied 36 S. Ct. 721, 241 U. S. 670, 60 L. Ed. 1230.

There are no common-law crimes in the United States as a unit. U. S. v. Miller (D. C.) 236 F. 798.

5. Offenses punishable under state laws.—In so far as disloyal slanders or libels cause or tend to cause breaches of the peace, they are offenses against the state, and can be prosecuted only in the state courts. U. S. v. Hall (D. C.) 248 F. 150.

Courts of this state have no jurisdiction to punish Mexican soldiers killing a United States soldier incidental to a battle in Texas between Mexican and United States troops during a state of war between this country and Mexico. Arce v. State (Tex. Cr. App.) 202 S. W. 951.

10. Offense by accessory.—Where a statute provides that an accessory may be prosecuted and convicted as for a substantive felony, the crime is cognizable in any court having jurisdiction over the principal. Hoss v. U. S., 232 F. 328, 146 C. C. A. 376.

Under Penal Code, §§ 332, 335 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 10506, 10509), one aiding a bank cashier in drawing bills of exchange contrary to Rev. St. § 5209 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9772), is guilty of a felony, and therefore the District Court which had jurisdiction of a prosecution against the principal has jurisdiction of accessory, though at the time of offense he was without the district. Id.

(3) Admiralty causes, seizures, and prizes.

Third. Of all civil causes of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction, saving to suitors in all cases the right of a common-law remedy where the common law is competent to give it, and to claimants the rights and remedies under the workmen's compensation law of any State; of all seizures on land or waters not within admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; of all prizes brought into the United States; and of all proceedings for the condemnation of property taken as prize.

Act March 3, 1911, c. 231, § 24, par. 3, 36 Stat. 1091. Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 97, § 1, 40 Stat. 395.

This paragraph was amended by Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 97, § 1, 40 Stat. 395, cited above by inserting, after the words "where the common law is competent to give it," the words "and to claimants the rights and remedies under the workmen's compensation law of any State."

Notes of Decisions

4. Nature, grounds, and scope of jurisdiction in general.—State legislation affecting general maritime law held invalid, under Const. art. 3, § 2, article 1, § 8, giving Congress power to make all necessary laws, this section, and Judicial Code, § 256 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1233), giving federal District Courts exclusive jurisdiction of civil causes of admiralty jurisdiction. Southern Pac. Co. v. Jensen, 37 S. Ct. 524, 244 U. S. 205, 61 L. Ed. 1086, reversing judgment Jensen v. Southern Pac. Co., 109 N. E. 600, 215 N. Y. 514, L. R. A. 1916A, 403, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 276; Clyde S. S. Co. v. Walker, 37 S. Ct. 545, 244 U. S. 255, 61 L. Ed. 1116, reversing judgment In re Walker, 109 N. E. 604, 215 N. Y. 529, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 87.

Relative to taxation of costs, a controversy with respect to a contract between a proctor and his client for fees cannot be litigated in the admiralty suit. The Johnson Lighterage Co. No. 24, 248 F. 74, 160 C. C. A. 214, modifying decree (D. C.) 240 F. 435.

In view of the protection which a court of admiralty will accord the rights of a minority owner in the event of a dispute as to the employment of the vessel, a court of admiralty has jurisdiction to protect the rights of such an owner, where the majority owners intend to sell the vessel, and may enjoin them from transferring title unless a bond be given that will insure the minority owner will receive his share of the proceeds. The Olga (D. C.) 254 F. 439.

5½. Vessels subject to jurisdiction.—A pontoon wharf being a floating structure, injury thereto by a ship constitutes a maritime tort, of which admiralty has jurisdiction. The Bart Tully (C. C. A.) 251 F. 856.

No jurisdiction will be exercised over a sovereign, whether local or foreign, or over instrumentalities employed by it in the public service, by any proceedings in invitum, regardless of the form or character of the process. The Roseric (D. C.) 254 F. 154.

6½. Agreements ousting jurisdiction.—Under the rule of the American admiralty courts, an arbitration clause in a charter party does not deprive a party of his right to resort to the courts. The Eros (D. C.) 241 F. 186.

9. Saving of common-law remedy.—See notes under Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1, note 78, Comp. St. 1916.

Despite the saving clause, the rights of a seaman injured while in service of the ship must be measured according to rules of the maritime law, and cannot be measured by the common law.

Chelentis v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 38 S. Ct. 501, 247 U. S. 372, 62 L. Ed. 1171, affirming judgment 243 F. 536, 156 C. C. A. 234.

A right of action in personam for a tort given by a state statute held enforceable by an action at law, under this section, although the tort was committed on shipboard. Keithley v. North Pac. S. S. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 255.

Person who has a cause of action of admiralty cognizance has always been entitled to seek his remedy in either common-law courts, where they are competent to give it, or in admiralty courts. The Erie Lighter 108 (D. C.) 250 F. 490.

In view of the saving clause, while state Legislatures cannot in terms enlarge jurisdiction of admiralty, they may create new rights over matters within the jurisdiction of admiralty. North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Acc. Commission of California (Cal.) 163 P. 199.

Touching torts on high seas, state may create new rights or remedies, and enforce those rights in her own courts, without regard to admiralty, under construction of saving clause of Judiciary Act. Id.

If there is implied contract to pay wharfage, common-law action will lie, and action in personam can properly be brought in state court under saving clause of federal Judiciary Act of 1789. Adams v. John R. White & Son (R. I.) 103 A. 230.

Under this section a state common-law court has jurisdiction of action in personam by seaman for personal injuries occurring off Alaskan coast and arising from vessel's unseaworthiness. Larson v. Alaska S. S. Co. (Wash.) 165 P. 880.

9½. Remedy under state Workmen's Compensation Acts.—Prior to the amendment of this subdivision it was held that the New York Workmen's Compensation Act was invalid, as applying to ocean-going steamship, as conflicting with Const. art. 1, § 8, and article 3, § 2, this section, and Judicial Code, § 256 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1233), and inconsistent with Rev. St. §§ 4283–4285 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 8021–8023) and Act June 26, 1884, § 18, 23 Stat. 57, Southern Pac. Co. v. Jensen, 37 S. Ct. 524, 244 U. S. 205, 61 L. Ed. 1086, reversing judgment Jensen v. Southern Pac. Co., 109 N. E. 600, 215 N. Y. 514. L. R. A. 1916A, 403, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 276; Clyde Steamship Co. v. Walker, 37 S. Ct. 545, 244 U. S. 255, 61 L. Ed. 1116, reversing judgment In re Walker, 109 N. E. 604, 215 N. Y. 529, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 87. And that claims for injury on ship in navigable waters of employés of one engaged in repairing and altering them for cargoes were maritime, within jurisdiction of admiralty, to exclusion of State Industrial Commission, having no common-law jurisdiction. Sullivan v. Hudson Nav. Co., 169 N. Y. S. 645, 182 App. Div. 152, order affirmed Doey v. Clarence P. Howland Co., 120 N. E. 53, 224 N. Y. 30, and Anderson v. Johnson Lighterage Co., 120 N. E. 55, and Keator v. Rock Plaster Mfg. Co., 120 N. E. 56, certiorari denied State Industrial Commission of State of New York v. Clarence P. Howland, 39 S. Ct. 11, 63 L. Ed. — and Same v. Johnson Lighterage Co., 39 S. Ct. 11, and Same v. Rock Plaster Mfg. Co., 39 S. Ct. 12, 63 L. Ed. —. It was also held that, in view of this subdivision, a state Workmen's Compensation Act did not cover injuries sustained by member of crew of vessel while in foreign port, though employed on the vessel as a barber. Hartman v. Toyo Kisen Kaisha S. S. Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 567. And that a state Workmen's Compensation Act, which in actions against an employer who has not accepted its terms provides a different measure of compensation from that of the maritime law, does not apply to a seaman injured while employed on a vessel on the navigable waters of the United States. Barrett v. Macomber & Nickerson Co. (D. C.) 253 F. 205. It was further held that where, although federal courts had exclusive jurisdiction over a claim for employé's death occurring in performance of a maritime contract, state Industrial Commission assumed to make award therefor under Workmen's Compensation Law, fact that both employer and insurance carrier acquiesced in award to extent that certain payments were made thereunder, and no appeal was taken therefrom, did not estop them thereafter from questioning commission's jurisdiction. Doey v. Clarence P. Howland Co., 120 N. E. 53, 224 N. Y. 30. Workmen's Compensation Act, as amended, though of optional character, does not apply to injuries received in course of employment to discharge cargo of coal from vessel engaged in interstate commerce and lying in navigable waters; maritime and admiralty jurisdiction being in federal courts. Duart v. Simmons, 121 N. E. 10, 231 Mass. 313. A coal passer on an interstate ferry on the Great Lakes could not have compensation under the Michigan Workmen's Compensation Act for injuries, but his case was within the jurisdiction of the federal District Court under Const. art. 3, § 2, and article 1, § 8, and Judiciary Act Sept. 24, 1789, § 9, as to admiralty jurisdiction; and a proceeding for workmen's compensation to a coal passer on a Great Lakes interstate ferry brought in the state court before amendment of the judiciary act to save to complainants all rights and remedies under the Workmen's Compensation law of any state was subject to the admiralty laws, and jurisdiction was in the federal District Court, since the statute could not be given a retroactive effect. Thornton v. Grand Trunk-Milwaukee Car Ferry Co. (Mich.) 168 N. W. 410.

One authority, however, held that, assuming that Workmen's Compensation Act comes within the scope of a remedy afforded by the common law, it is entitled to respect in admiralty courts under the saving clause of the Judiciary Act and since "common-law remedy," means any remedy with or without action or jury which is a substitute for a suit at law whereby a liability is imposed after due process of law, the Workmen's Compensation Act is within its saving clause. North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Acc. Commission of California (Cal.) 163 P. 199. It was also held that an injured seaman, claiming and receiving in state tribunals amount awarded under California Workmen's Compensation Act, or accepting amount fixed by agreement to be paid thereunder, cannot recover in admiralty. Riegel v. Higgins (D. C.) 241 F. 718.

Since the amendment of the provision by Act Cong. Oct. 6, 1917, c. 97, 40 Stat. 395, it was held that an employé of a stevedore, even if engaged in maritime occupation when injured by falling through hatch of vessel, may recover in the state court compensation under Compensation Act. Veasey v. Peters, 77 So. 948, 142 La. 1012. It was also held that while, when enacted, Workmen's Compensation Law, so far as making it applicable to longshore work in loading and unloading cargoes, was unconstitutional, as an invasion of admiralty jurisdiction, it became effective in that respect, without re-enactment, when by Act Cong. Oct. 6, 1917, § 2, 40 Stat. 395, recourse to rights and remedies under state Workmen's Compensation Law was permitted. Cimmino v. John T. Clark & Son (Sup.) 172 N. Y. S. 478. As to the effect of the amendment it has been held that Workmen's Compensation Act, which withdraws from private controversy all remedy for injuries received in hazardous work, and excludes every other remedy, does not extend to employés on a vessel in navigable waters, and the Industrial Insurance Commission cannot collect from an employer premiums on account of such employés, notwithstanding Act Cong. Oct. 6, 1917, 40 Stat. 395. Puget Sound Bridge & Dredging Co. v. Industrial Ins. Commission (Wash.) 177 P. 788.

Decision of the highest state court, denying relief under New Jersey Workmen's Compensation Act for drowning in navigable waters, holding that Act Oct. 6, 1917, 40 Stat. 395, saving to claimants rights and remedies under the workmen's compensation law of any state, was inapplicable, being passed after the accident, and that the rights of parties depended on the maritime laws, held not one allowing review by the national Supreme Court, on writ of error, under Act Sept. 6, 1916, § 2, 39 Stat. 726 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1214). Coon v. Kennedy, 39 S. Ct. 146, 63 L. Ed. —.

A stevedore, injured while loading a vessel, who was entitled under Judicial Code, § 24, par. 3, as amended by Act Oct. 6, 1917, 40 Stat. 395, to the remedy afforded by the state Workmen's Compensation Act, held not to have elected that remedy by signing at the request of an attorney the notice to his employer contemplated by the Compensation Act, and to be entitled to sue in admiralty, etc. Siebert v. Patapsco Ship Ceiling & Stevedore Co. (D. C.) 253 F. 685.

II. Suits between foreigners and against foreign vessels.—A merchant vessel, requisitioned and employed in the service of a foreign government, but remaining under the control and management of its owner, is not exempt from a suit in rem in a court of the United States for a maritime tort. The Attualita, 238 F. 909, 152 C. C. A. 43.

That a vessel libeled for a tort committed on the high seas sails under a foreign flag, and that the libelant is a subject of another foreign nation, is not sufficient to require a court of admiralty of the United States to decline jurisdiction. Id.

While, under the rule of international comity, a court will not exercise jurisdiction, at suit of an individual, over a vessel which is employed in the public business of a foreign nation, where after the attachment in such a suit of a privately owned foreign vessel, which had been requisitioned for service by its home government, the owners appear and have given bond for its release, the further action of the court can no longer affect the rights of the foreign government, but private rights only, and comity does not require it to discharge the attachment. The Luigi (D. C.) 230 F. 493.

A British libelant cannot maintain a suit in rem in an admiralty court of the United States against a German vessel to recover for repairs and supplies furnished in England, where the laws of both England and Germany are pleaded, and neither gives him a maritime lien, or right to proceed directly against the vessel, although in the absence of a showing of the foreign laws our own law would be applied. The Kaiser Wilhelm II (D. C.) 230 F. 717.

Under St. 3 & 4 Vict. c. 65, § 6, which confers on the English Court of Admiralty authority to arrest or proceed in rem against a foreign ship for necessaries supplied, a court of admiralty of the United States may entertain a suit in rem to enforce a claim for necessaries supplied to a foreign ship in England, even though the English statute does not confer a maritime lien, but merely a right to sue the ship. Id.

Since the commencement of war between England and Germany, and the promulgation by each government of laws or decrees prohibiting its subjects from making any payments to subjects of the other, and while such decrees remain in effect, a court of admiralty of the United States, in a case where its action is discretionary, will refuse to entertain jurisdiction of a suit between subjects of the two countries to enforce payment of a claim which arose in a foreign country. Id.

A suit in rem may be maintained against property of a foreign government, although destined for its public use, to recover for salvage services rendering in saving it while in the possession of a lightering company, which had contracted to transport it from a railroad terminal to a vessel, but had no other connection with the foreign government, and where the property was still in its possession when libeled and seized by the marshal. The Johnson Lighterage Co. No. 24 (D. C.) 231 F. 365.

It is within the discretion of a court of admiralty of the United States to take jurisdiction of a suit for breach of charter between two foreign corporations. Aktieselskabet Korn-Og Foderstof Kompagniet v. Rederiaktiebolaget Atlanten (D. C.) 232 F. 403.

Foreign naval vessel held not subject to libel for damages for collision, though at time of collision carrying a cargo of general merchandise belonging to private persons. The Pampa (D. C.) 245 F. 137.

Under Shipping Act, § 9 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8146) vessel requisitioned by United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, and by United States Shipping Board chartered to French government as carrier of food, held subject to arrest under libel for collision on high seas. The Florence H. (D. C.) 248 F. 1012.

Court of admiralty will not in its discretion dismiss libel on ground that it would involve scrutiny of conduct of seamen or agents of French government, unless suggestion of diplomatic embarrassment be made by officers of government responsible as to those relations. Id.

The rights of an American seaman in the harbor of New York upon a British vessel can properly be adjudicated in a court of the United States according to the admiralty law, when this admiralty law is in exact accord with what his contract rights would be under the British statute. The Vestris (D. C.) 252 F. 201.

A naval transport, owned by a foreign government and in its possession, through a naval captain and crew, although chartered to a private individual to carry a commercial cargo, is not subject to seizure under process of an admiralty court of the United States, in a suit by a shipper for damage to cargo. The Maipo (D. C.) 252 F. 627.

No jurisdiction will be exercised over a sovereign, whether local or foreign, or over instrumentalities employed by it in the public service, by any proceedings in invitum, regardless of the form or character of the process. The Roseric (D. C.) 254 F. 154.

An admiralty court of the United States will not exercise its jurisdiction in rem over a vessel under requisition by the British government, and used by it for purposes of the war in which such government and the United States are cobelligerents against a common enemy, so long as the vessel remains in such service, and the fact that its officers and crew are still in the employment of the owner is immaterial. Id

The immunity from process granted to ship in public service of country by courts of another country is based upon the idea that sovereigns are of equal dignity and independence, and that out of regard for the right of a sovereign to be unhampered in use of such instrumentalities, and to maintain amicable relations between sovereigns, it is tacitly agreed that one sovereign should decline to exercise some of its prerogatives when it would necessarily place another sovereign in a subordinate position. Id.

13. Maritime contracts and services in general.—A contract of employment of a master held maritime, and within the admiralty jurisdiction, notwithstanding a provision incidentally requiring the employé to perform duties on shore.—Union Fish Co. v. Erickson, 235 F. 385, 148 C. C. A. 647.

A contract, enforceable in admiralty, must be wholly maritime. The Ada (C. C. A.) 250 F. 194.

Contract to float vessel, which had been cast on shore five years before and lay on dry land during that time, held not within admiralty jurisdiction. The Frances L. Skinner (D. C.) 248 F. 818.

In determining whether a contract be of maritime nature, locality is not controlling; the true test being the subject-matter of the contract, the nature and character of the work to be done. Doey v. Clarence P. Howland Co., 120 N. E. 53, 224 N. Y. 30.

14. Supplies and repairs, and services performed for vessel.—Admiralty has no jurisdiction over breach of a contract to furnish owners of 19 fishing steamers such coal as the 19 vessels might require during the season; such contract not being maritime in character, in that it did not begin and end in the necessities of a particular vessel for her own voyage. The Walter Adams (C. C. A.) 253 F. 20.

Since Act June 23, 1910 (Comp. St.

1916, § 7783), a contract to have a marine railway in readiness and in such a condition as to promptly place a vessel in a position where repairs could be made, is one of cognizance in admiralty. The Alliance (D. C.) 236 F. 361.

16. Charter parties and contracts of affreightment or transportation.—Admiralty has jurisdiction of a suit by a time charterer of a vessel, who is the owner pro hac vice, to recover possession from the owner, who, having taken possession to make repairs, refuses to return the vessel. The Nellie T., 235 F. 117, 148 C. C. A. 611.

Where a contract for the charter of a vessel gave charterer an option to purchase the same for the sum specified in the charter party as the hire, the contract must be deemed one for the sale of the vessel, and so it was within the jurisdiction of a court of admiralty, and proceeding in rem was not appropriate remedy for breach. The Ada (C. C. A.) 250 F. 194.

18. Salvage.—Where a tug was driven by a violent storm on land above the ordinary high-water mark, contract for its removal held "maritime" one, the service being one of "salvage," so that a suit on contract for removal was within admiralty jurisdiction. The Gulfport (C. C. A.) 250 F. 577.

A tug driven by a violent storm on land above ordinary high-water mark held subject to salvage, and a suit to recover for replacing it in the water within the admiralty jurisdiction. The Gulfport (D. C.) 243 F. 676.

19. Pilotage.—A suit by a vessel against her pilot to charge him with responsibility for her anchorage in an unlawful place is within the admiralty jurisdiction. Strathleven Steamship Co. v. Baulch, 244 F. 412, 157 C. C. A. 38, certiorari denied Baulch v. Strathleven S. S. Co., 38 S. Ct. 61, 245 U. S. 663, 62 L. Ed. 537.

21. Claims for wages.—Claim of carpenter against his employer, altering ship in navigable waters to fit it for cargo of grain, is within jurisdiction of admiralty, to the exclusion of the State Industrial Commission, in view of Const. U. S. art. 3, § 2, and this section. Doey v. Clarence P. Howland Co., 120 N. E. 53, 224 N. Y. 30.

23. Torts in general.—Suit in admiralty may be maintained against municipal corporation for tort, if cause of action is stated under maritime law, although same acts of its servants would not constitute cause of action under local state law. City of Chicago v. White Transp. Co., 243 F. 358, 156 C. C. A. 138, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 60, 245 U. S. 660, 62 L. Ed. 535.

Admiralty has jurisdiction of a suit for damages against a navigating vessel for injury to a submarine cable lying on the bottom of a channel. U. S. v. North German Lloyd (D. C.) 239 F. 587.

Admiralty has jurisdiction of a suit for the negligent injury by a vessel of a marine cable resting on the bottom under navigable waters although the ends of the cable are supported on the shore. The Toledo (D. C.) 242 F. 168.

Where bill of lading falsely recited that shipment was in apparent good condition, held, that admiralty had no jurisdiction whether tort consisted in its issuance or its negotiation. William A. Higgins & Co. v. Anglo-Algerian S. S. Co. (D. C.) 242 F. 568, decree reversed Higgins v. Same (C. C. A.) 248 F. 386.

A libel in admiralty against members of a Delaware county levy court to recover for injuries to a vessel, resulting from negligence in opening and operating a drawbridge across a navigable river, which was under control of levy court, cannot be maintained. The Alex. Y. Hanna (D. C.) 246 F. 157.

In cases of tort admiralty jurisdiction depends solely upon the place where the tort was committed, which must have been upon the high seas or other navigable waters. Doey v. Clarence P. Howland Co., 120 N. E. 53, 224 N. Y. 30.

24. Collisions.—Admiralty jurisdiction embraces a libel in rem to recover for damages inflicted by colliding vessel on unfinished foundation pier intended to support a beacon to be installed by the United States. Latta & Terry Const. Co. v. British Steamship "Raithmoor," 36 S. Ct. 514, 241 U. S. 166, 60 L. Ed. 937, reversing decree The Raithmoor (D. C.) 186 F. 849.

Damages for injury resulting from collision to a drilling platform erected on posts or piles driven in the bottom in navigable water held not recoverable in admiralty, but damages for injury to an attendant scow held within the admiralty jurisdiction. The Senator Rice (D. C.) 234 F. 101.

25. Personal injuries.—A suit against a vessel for negligent injury to workmen making repairs in a dry dock held within the admiralty jurisdiction. The Anglo-Patagonian, 235 F. 92, 148 C. C. A. 586, affirming decree (D. C.) 228 F. 1014.

Though a seaman of a California corporation injured while on one of its vessels recovered judgment against the corporation, held, that on its bankruptcy the federal courts had jurisdiction of a libel in admiralty against the stockholders, who were also primarily liable under the California Constitution. Buttner v. Adams, 236 F. 105, 149 C. C. A. 315.

In seaman's action for personal injuries, whether court had jurisdiction to consider the charge of negligence was governed by laws of place where accident took place. The Vestris (D. C.) 252 F. 201.

Admiralty has jurisdiction of suit in personam by employé of stevedore against employer to recover for injuries sustained through negligence of latter while engaged in loading vessel lying at dock in navigable waters. Veasey v. Peters, 77 So. 948, 142 La. 1012.

The work and injury of plaintiff while discharging cargo of coal from vessel engaged in interstate commerce, while lying in navigable waters, were maritime in their nature. Duart v. Simmons (Mass.) 121 N. E. 10.

A longshoreman while engaged in loading a vessel in navigable waters for his employer having a contract therefor was performing a maritime contract, and Industrial Commission would have no jurisdiction of his claim for compensation for injuries received in such work. Anderson v. Johnson Lighterage Co. (N. Y.) 120 N. E. 55.

Employé of plaster manufacturing company while in performance of his duties in unloading rock from vessel lying alongside a pier in East River was engaged in performance of maritime contract, so that Industrial Commission had no jurisdiction of his claim for injuries received in such work. Keator v. Rock Plaster Mfg. Co. (N. Y.) 120 N. E. 56.

The work of loading and unloading ships is maritime, as regards jurisdiction of claim for personal injury therein. Cimmino v. John T. Clark & Son (Sup.) 172 N. Y. S. 478.

Where servant was injured in hold of ship in navigable waters of Puget Sound, question of compensation was subject to controversy in admiralty in the federal courts, regardless of state law, although he was assisting only in unloading the ship, and not in its navigation. Shaughnessy v. Northland S. S. Co. (Wash.) 162 P. 546.

26. Wrongful death.—That a person injured on a vessel died on shore from the injury does not deprive an admiralty court of jurisdiction of a suit for his death. The Anglo-Patagonian, 235 F. 92, 148 C. C. A. 586, affirming decree (D. C.) 228 F. 1014.

General admiralty law affords no recovery for death occurring on high seas. The Sagamore, 247 F. 743, 159 C. C. A. 601.

(7) Suits under patent, copyright, and trade-mark laws.

11. Suits under patent laws—Royalties.—Paragraph 1 of this section provides, relative to the jurisdiction of District Courts, that the provision therein as to the sum or value of the matter in controversy shall not apply to the cases mentioned in succeeding paragraphs. Section 256, par. 5 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1233), provides that the jurisdiction of United States courts of all cases arising under the patent or copyright laws shall be exclusive of the courts of the several states. A bill and answer were in the ordinary forms employed in patent suits, except that the ultimate issue was whether plaintiffs were entitled to damages in the form of fixed royalties, instead of an indefinite sum in the form of profits, and an injunction was prayed restraining defendant from further using infringing furnaces until it should pay plaintiffs such fixed sum. Held, that the District Court had jurisdiction, though the sum involved was less than $3,000, as the bill showed that plaintiffs invoked the aid of the patent laws, and the suit might be said to have arisen under those laws. Swindell v. Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 438.

15. Suits for infringement of patents—Unfair competition.—A federal court is without jurisdiction of a cause of action for unfair competition, where there is not diversity of citizenship between the parties, although joined with a cause of action for infringement of patent. W. F. Burns Co. v. Automatic Recording Safe Co., 241 F. 472, 154 C. C. A. 304, reversing decrees Automatic Recording Safe Co. v. Bankers' Registering Safe Co. (D. C.) 224 F. 506; Same v. W. F. Burns Co. (D. C.) 224 F. 512, and Same v. Burns Co. (D. C.) 224 F. 513.

Where federal court had jurisdiction because a patent was involved, held, that it could not grant an injunction restraining unfair competition without regard to the infringement of the patent. Shrauger & Johnson v. Phillip Bernard Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 131.

A federal court is not given jurisdiction of a suit for unfair competition between citizens of the same state by the fact that it is joined with a cause of action for infringement of a patent. Unit Const. Co. v. Huskey Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 129.

Where complainant's trade-mark, registered under Act Feb. 20, 1905, c. 592, was valid, and had been infringed, federal court has jurisdiction of suit to enjoin infringement of trade-mark, as well as any unfair competition in connection with the infringement, notwithstanding defendants and complainant were citizens of same state. Stark Bros. Nurseries & Orchards Co. v. Stark (D. C.) 248 F. 154.

(8) Suits for violation of interstate commerce laws.

Interstate commerce in general.—An action to collect a freight bill from the consignor after the carrier failed to collect the full amount from the consignee involves no question under the Elkins Act or any other interstate commerce laws. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Zemurray, 238 F. 789, 151 C. C. A. 639.

District Court held to have original jurisdiction of action by shipper against railroad company to recover excessive freight paid. National Elevator Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 246 F. 588, 158 C. C. A. 558.

Where a bill of lading for an interstate shipment required the owner or consignee to pay the freight, an action by a connecting carrier to recover freight due is governed by the Carmack Amendment (Act June 29, 1906 [Comp. St. 1916, §§ 8604a, 8604aa]); and under this subdivision is within the jurisdiction of the federal District Court, regardless of the amount involved. New York Cent. R. Co. v. Mutual Orange Distributors (C. C. A.) 251 F. 230.

The duty of an interstate telephone company, under Interstate Commerce Act of 1887, as amended in 1889 and 1910 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8563 et seq.), to furnish reasonable facilities for the transaction of their business may be enforced in federal courts. Stephens v. Ohio State Telephone Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 759.

Action for freight charges on interstate shipment held within jurisdiction of District Court, under Judicial Code, § 24, subd. 8, as arising under law regulating commerce. Wells Fargo & Co. v. Cuneo (D. C.) 241 F. 726.

Cited without definite application, Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Van Dusen Harrington Co. (C. C. A.) 245 F. 454.

(9) Penalties and forfeitures.

Penalties in general.—The federal District Court has no jurisdiction in admiralty over proceedings in personam for collection of the penalty prescribed by Harter Act, § 5 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8033), for refusal to give a clean bill of lading, etc., although, under Judicial Code, § 24, subd. 9 (Comp. St. 1916, § 991[9]), a qui tam action would lie to collect the penalty. U. S. v. James W. Elwell & Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 939.

As the federal District Court has jurisdiction of a qui tam action to collect the penalty prescribed by Harter Act, § 5 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8033), for refusal to issue a clear bill of lading, etc., held that, where respondent answered a libel in personam to collect the same, the proceeding may be treated as the analogue of a complaint qui tam at common law, and need not be dismissed for want of jurisdiction. Id.

(14) Suits to redress deprivation of civil rights.

1. Protection of civil rights in general.—This subdivision gives a federal court no jurisdiction over a bill to enjoin a local board and adjutant general from inducting complainant into military service under the Selective Service Act, on the ground that interruption of complainant's employment would deprive him of a property right, for complainant has in no just sense a property right in his employment. Bonifaci v. Thompson (D. C.) 252 F. 878.

(16) Suits against national-banking associations.

14. Suits on liability of officers.—Federal question held involved, giving federal District Court jurisdiction under Rev. St. § 5198 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9759), and Act Aug. 13, 1888, § 4, without regard to citizenship, in action to enforce personal liability of directors in national bank, under Rev. St. § 5239 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9831), for damages by purchaser of capital stock, relying on false reports of the directors. Chesbrough v. Woodworth, 37 S. Ct. 579, 244 U. S. 72, 61 L. Ed. 1000, affirming judgment 221 F. 912, 137 C. C. A. 482.

19. Suits by or against receivers.—A suit by the receiver of a national bank in the course of winding up its affairs held within the jurisdiction of a federal District Court, under this subdivision. Bates v. Dresser (D. C.) 229 F. 772.

(18) Suits against consuls and vice consuls.

Scope and effect of statute.—Under Const. U. S. art. 3, § 2, subds. 1, 2, article 3, § 1, and article 6, subd. 2, and Judicial Code, 1911, § 24, subd. 18, and section 256, subd. 8, New York Supreme Court held to have no jurisdiction of wife's action for separation, under Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 1762, as against husband, consul for republic of Peru, so that service of summons would be vacated and complaint dismissed. Higginson v. Higginson, 158 N. Y. S. 92, 96 Misc. Rep. 457.

(20) Suits against United States.

3. Suits against federal officers or agents.—Action against postmaster to enjoin him from excluding publication from mails pursuant to direction of Postmaster General is not technically one against the sovereign. Masses

Pub. Co. v. Patten, 245 F. 102, 157 C. C. A. 398.

9. Actions of tort.—Action for damages for injuries to mules hired to agent of United States, claimed to have resulted from negligence, is one sounding in tort, and cannot be maintained under 24 Stat. 505. Occidental Const. Co. v. U. S., 245 F. 817, 158 C. C. A. 157.

10. Implied contract in general.—Consent of United States to be sued under this subdivision being limited to claims founded upon contract, express or implied, if riparian proprietor on North branch of Chicago river can recover against government for dredging in front of his property to improve navigation, it must be on implied contract. Tempel v. U. S., 39 S. Ct. 56, 63 L. Ed. —.

Law will imply promise by United States to make compensation required by this subdivision, where property to which government asserts no title, conceding ownership in an individual, is taken pursuant to act of Congress as private property to be applied for public uses. Id.

Where it does not appear that at time of taking property there was any claim by United States of right to invade it without payment of compensation, it must be assumed government intended to make compensation for any property taken, so as to afford basis for implied promise, enforceable by action under this subdivision. Id.

If claim of United States of right to dredge North branch of Chicago river to improve navigation was unfounded, property right of riparian proprietor, whose submerged land was dredged, was violated; but his cause of action, if any, sounds in tort, for which this subdivision affords no remedy. Id.

When implied promise of United States to pay for property taken has once arisen, later denial by government, at time of suit against it under this subdivision or otherwise, of its liability to make compensation, does not destroy injured party's right in contract, and convert act of taking into a tort. Id.

30. Procedure in exercise of jurisdiction.—Judgments of the District Courts, in the exercise of the power conferred on them, concurrently with the Court of Claims, by the Tucker Act of March 3, 1887, 24 Stat. 505, to decide claims against the United States, are reviewable exclusively and directly by the Supreme Court, and this remedy is unaffected by the general distribution of appellate power by Judiciary Act 1891, or by the Judicial Code; implications of repeal being prevented by sections 294, 295, thereof (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1271, 1272), and Tucker Act, § 4 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1574), being excepted from the repealing clause. J. Homer Fritch, Inc., v. U. S., 39 S. Ct. 158, 63 L. Ed. —.

Judicial Code, § 24, par. 20, construed with respect to procedure in the District Court in suits against the United States, and held, that the United States may be brought in by summons served on the district attorney. Mill Creek & Minehill Nav. & R. Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 246 F. 1013.

Cited without definite application, Butterick Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 240 F. 539; E. W. Bliss Co. v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 47.

(24) Suits concerning allotments of land to Indians; decrees; appeal.

Protection of rights under oil and gas lease.—See Sandusky Foundry & Machine Co. v. De Lavaud (D. C.) 251 F. 631.

Issues involved in suit to protect alleged rights under oil and gas lease and set aside conflicting lease are within jurisdiction of federal court, where the first lease was authorized by United States Court of Indian Territory and concerned Indian lands, and because it was asserted that the Secretary of the Interior had no authority to approve or disapprove the lease. Wellsville Oil Co. v. Miller, 37 S. Ct. 362, 243 U. S. 6, 61 L. Ed. 559, affirming judgment 150 P. 186, 48 Okl. 386.

Cited without definite application, McCullough v. Smith (C. C. A.) 243 F. 823; Vitkus v. Clyde S. S. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 288; Ostrom v. Edison (D. C.) 244 F. 228; Brady v. J. B. McCrary Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 602; M. Hohenberg & Co. v. Mobile Liners, Inc. (D. C.) 245 F. 169.

§ 991a. (Act Feb. 22, 1917, c. 113.) Same; bills of interpleader by insurance companies.

The district courts of the United States shall have original cognizance to entertain suits in equity begun by bills of interpleader where the same are filed by any insurance company or fraternal beneficiary society, duly verified, and where it is made to appear by such bill that one or more persons, being bona fide claimants against such company or society, reside within the jurisdiction of said court; that such company or society has made or issued some policy of insurance or certificate of membership providing for the payment of a sum of money of at least $500 as insurance or benefits to a beneficiary or beneficiaries or to the heirs, next of kin, or legal representative of the person insured or member; that two or more adverse claimants, citizens of different States, are claiming or may claim to be entitled to such insurance or benefits and that such company or society deposits the amount of such insurance or benefits with the clerk of said court and abide the judgment of said court. In all such cases the court shall have the power to issue its process for said claimants, returnable at such time as the said court or a judge thereof shall determine, which shall be addressed to and served by the United States marshals for the respective districts wherein said claimants reside or may be found; to hear said bill of interpleader and decide thereon according to the practice in equity; to discharge said complainant from further liability upon the payment of said insurance or benefit as directed by the court, less complainant's actual court costs; and shall have the power to make such orders and decrees as may be suitable and proper and to issue the necessary writs usual and customary in such cases for the purpose of carrying out such orders and decrees: Provided, That in all cases where a beneficiary or beneficiaries are named in the policy of insurance or certificate of membership or where the same has been assigned and written notice thereof shall have been given to the insurance company or fraternal benefit society, the bill of interpleader shall be filed in the district where the beneficiary or beneficiaries may reside. (39 Stat. 929.)

This section was an act entitled "An act authorizing insurance companies and fraternal beneficiary societies to file bills of interpleader," cited above.

Notes of Decisions

District in which suit must be brought.—Under this section, authorizing insurance companies to file bills of interpleader, vesting District Courts of the United States with jurisdiction, and providing that bill "shall be filed in the district where the beneficiary or beneficiaries reside," suit must be brought in the district of the residence of the beneficiary, whether there has been an assignment of the policy or not. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Kennedy (D. C.) 253 F. 287.

Necessity of deposit in court.—Under this section, a deposit of the amount of the insurance in court is a condition precedent to the exercise of the jurisdiction granted. Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Henderson (D. C.) 244 F. 877.

§ 992. (Act Oct. 22, 1913, c. 32.) Commerce Court abolished, etc.

Notes of Decisions

See U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 37 S. Ct. 584, 244 U. S. 82, 61 L. Ed. 1007.

Jurisdiction in general.—This section vested in federal District Courts only same jurisdiction that was formerly vested in Commerce Court by Act June 18, 1910, 36 Stat. 539, hence where Commission while recognizing terminal railway as common carrier and fixing maximum joint rates failed to fix allowances and divisions of rates which might be accorded by trunk lines, District Court is without jurisdiction in first instance to exercise such administrative authority. Manufacturers' Ry. Co. v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 383, 246 U. S. 457, 62 L. Ed. 831.

Jurisdiction of state court.—State court has jurisdiction, notwithstanding Act June 18, 1910, 36 Stat. 539, and this section, of suit to enjoin express companies from putting into effect special tariffs increasing intrastate rates, though answer sets up as justification order of Interstate Commerce Commission. American Exp. Co. v. State of South Dakota ex rel. Caldwell, 37 S. Ct. 656, 244 U. S. 617, 61 L. Ed. 1352, modifying decree State v. American Exp. Co., 161 N. W. 132, 38 S. D. 227.

§ 993. (Jud. Code, § 207.) Same; jurisdiction.

Notes of Decisions

Restraining enforcement of orders of Interstate Commerce Commission.—Equity is without jurisdiction to enjoin enforcement of order of Interstate Commerce Commission refusing to extend time for compliance with Panama Canal Act, § 11, prohibiting after July 1, 1914, ownership by railroad in any common carrier by water when railroad might compete for traffic with the water carrier. Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. U. S., 37 S. Ct. 397, 243 U. S. 412, 61 L. Ed. 819, affirming decree (D. C.) 234 F. 682.

Jurisdiction of federal District Court under Act June 18, 1910, § 1, 36 Stat. 539, and Act Oct. 22, 1913, 38 Stat. 208, of cases brought to enjoin order of Interstate Commerce Commission, does not extend to a suit to set aside an order fixing a future day for hearing of complaints for failure to furnish cattle cars on demand. U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 37 S. Ct. 584, 244 U. S. 82, 61 L. Ed. 1007.

In a suit to set aside an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission, where the evidence before the Commission was conflicting and ample to sustain the findings, they are conclusive. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 141, 245 U. S. 463, 62 L. Ed. 400, affirming decree (D. C.) 225 F. 571.

Suit to enjoin state authorities from interfering with rates raised under order of Interstate Commerce Commission held within jurisdiction of District Court, under Act June 18, 1910, c. 309, § 1, 36 Stat. 539, and this section. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Illinois, 38 S. Ct. 170, 245 U. S. 493, 62 L. Ed. 425.

Costs may be allowed against United States in a suit against it under Judicial Code, § 24 (20), notwithstanding repeal by section 297 of that Code of Act of March 3, 1887, since provision of section 2 of such act conferring on District Courts jurisdiction concurrent with Court of Claims over claims against the United States is carried into section 24 (20) of the Code, but the provision of section 15 of such act is carried in as section 152 of the Code, and while section 24 (20) is a part of chapter 2 of the Code, and section 152 is a part of chapter 7, it is declared by sections 294 and 295 that the laws revised are to be construed as continuations of existing laws. U. S. v. Cress, 37 S. Ct. 380, 243 U. S. 316, 61 L. Ed. 746.

Interstate Commerce Act Feb. 4, 1887, c. 104, § 5, 24 Stat. 380, as amended by Panama Canal Act Aug. 24, 1912, c. 390, § 11, 37 Stat. 566 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 8567, 8568), makes it unlawful for any railroad company subject to the provisions of the act after July 1, 1914, to own, operate, control, or have any interest in any common carrier by water with which its railroad does or may compete for traffic, under penalty of a fine for each day's violation. By a further provision it confers on the Interstate Commerce Commission jurisdiction to determine, on application of any railroad company also owning or controlling a water line, the questions of fact as to competition or possibility of competition between the rail and water lines, and upon certain findings to make an order extending the time during which the water service may be continued after July 1, 1914. In all such cases the order of the commission is made final. Held, that an order of the commission pursuant to the statute dismissing the petition of a carrier for such an extension does not require a dissolution of the connection between the rail and water service, but merely leaves the petitioner subject to the operation of the statute, and that a suit in the District Court to enjoin enforcement of the commission's order is not an appropriate proceeding to review its action. Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 234 F. 682.

Where the old rates had injured a town in Iowa, new rates permitted by Interstate Commerce Commission will not be temporarily enjoined pending a suit against enforcement, though such rates might temporarily injure towns in South Dakota. Brown Drug Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 235 F. 603.

An order of the Interstate Commerce Commission directing the establishment by a railroad company of an increased rate on logs between certain points as a reasonable rate held supported by substantial evidence, and not to involve any error of law which would authorize a court to enjoin its enforcement at the suit of shippers. McLean Lumber Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 237 F. 460.

Jurisdiction of such a suit is not affected by the fact that the order of the Commission has already been complied with by the railroad company by putting the rates into effect. Id.

A suit by shippers to enjoin enforcement of an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission requiring the establishment and maintenance of rates is not open to the objection that it seeks to have the court itself establish rates. Id.

Owners of lumber mills, whose operation is dependent to a large extent upon logs shipped by them over a particular railroad, have such a pecuniary "interest" in the rates charged for the transportation of logs over such road as to entitle them to maintain a suit to enjoin enforcement of an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission fixing such rates, made in a proceeding to which they were parties. Id.

The courts have power, and are required by the statute, to set aside and enjoin the enforcement of an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission, based upon a finding which is unsupported by the evidence. Chestnut Ridge Ry. Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 248 F. 791.

Jurisdiction of state court.—See American Exp. Co. v. State of South Dakota ex rel. Caldwell, 37 S. Ct. 656, 244 U. S. 617, 61 L. Ed. 1352, modifying decree State v. American Exp. Co., 161 N. W. 132, 38 S. D. 227; note under § 992.

Injunction suit by state to compel railway company to obey orders of Railroad Commission not declared void by any court was properly brought in a state court; Judicial Code, §§ 207, 208, not applying. Abilene & S. Ry. Co. v. State (Tex. Civ. App.) 199 S. W. 878.

§ 994. (Act Oct. 22, 1913, c. 32.) Venue of suits.

Notes of Decisions

District in which suit must be brought.—Suit by carriers to restrain state authorities from interfering with rates increased under order of Interstate Commerce Commission held not one required to be brought in the district of the residence of the parties on whose petition the order was made, by Interstate Commerce Act, § 16 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8584), and this section. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Illinois, 38 S. Ct. 170, 245 U. S. 493, 62 L. Ed. 425.

Under Act Oct. 22, 1913, c. 32, and Judicial Code, §§ 208, 211, suit to set aside order of the Interstate Commerce Commission, made on petition of residents of Missouri, held not maintainable in Northern district of Illinois; the United States being suable only where it consents to be sued. Id.

Cross-bill to set aside order of Interstate Commerce Commission held not maintainable in suit in district other than that of the residence of the persons on whose petition the order was made, as the immunity of the United States from suit recognizes no distinction between cross-bills and original bills. Id.

Act Oct. 22, 1913, c. 32, 38 Stat. 219 (Comp. St. 1916, § 994), which provides that "the venue of any suit hereafter brought to enforce, suspend, or set aside * * * any order of the Interstate Commerce Commission shall be in the judicial district wherein is the residence of the party or any of the parties upon whose petition the order was made, * * * except that where the order does not relate either to transportation or to a matter so complained of before the Commission the matter covered by the order shall be deemed to arise in the district where one of the petitioners in court has either its principal office or its principal operating office." Held, that a suit by petitioners before the Commission, to review an order establishing railroad rates, whether such order was made on their petition or not, was within the jurisdiction of the court of the district wherein all the petitioners either reside or have their principal operating office, and that whether or not the railroad company has its principal operating office within the district is immaterial. McLean Lumber Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 237 F. 460.

Jurisdiction of state court.—See American Exp. Co. v. State of South Dakota ex rel. Caldwell, 37 S. Ct. 656, 244 U. S. 617, 61 L. Ed. 1352, modifying decree State v. American Exp. Co., 161 N. W. 132, 38 S. D. 227; note under § 992.

Cited without definite application, Eastern Texas R. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas (D. C.) 242 F. 300.

§ 996. (Jud. Code, § 209.) Jurisdiction of the court, how invoked.

See Brown Drug Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 235 F. 603.

Parties to suit.—The United States or the Interstate Commerce Commission held not necessary parties to suit by carriers to enjoin state authorities from interfering with rates raised, under order of Interstate Commerce Commission. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Illinois, 38 S. Ct. 170, 245 U. S. 493, 62 L. Ed. 425.

New trial.—A new trial granted in an action on an award of damages by the Interstate Commerce Commission, on the ground that the award, which was part of the evidence submitted to the jury, was made on an erroneous basis. Clark Bros. Coal Mining Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 642.

§ 997. (Jud. Code, § 208.) Suits to enjoin, etc.

See Brown Drug Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 235 F. 603.

Dismissal as to United States.—Cross-bill to set aside order of Interstate Commerce Commission held not maintainable against other defendants, after dismissal as to the United States; the United States being a necessary party under Judicial Code, §§ 208, 211. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Illinois, 38 S. Ct. 170, 245 U. S. 493, 62 L. Ed. 425.

Jurisdiction of state court.—An action to enjoin the charging of a schedule of intrastate express rates higher than those set by state railway board pursuant to Laws 1911, c. 152, and without the notice required by Laws 1913, c. 304, though such schedule was prepared in obedience to an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission to make nondiscriminating rates was properly brought in the state court; Act Cong. Oct. 22, 1913, requiring a suit "to enforce, suspend, or set aside any order of interstate commerce commission," to be brought in federal court, not applying. State v. American Express Co. (S. D.) 161 N. W. 132.

Injunction suit by state to compel railway company to obey orders of Railroad Commission not declared void by any court was properly brought in a state court; Judicial Code, §§ 207, 208, not applying. Abilene & S. Ry. Co. v. State (Tex. Civ. App.) 199 S. W. 878.

§ 998. (Act Oct. 22, 1913, c. 32.) Interlocutory injunctions.

Jurisdiction of court composed of three judges.—Where on application for temporary injunction against enforcement of new rates permitted by Interstate Commerce Commission, District Judge calls in two other judges, one of them being a Circuit Judge, the court as constituted is without jurisdiction to dispose of the case on the merits. Brown Drug Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 235 F. 603.

Cited without definite application, McLean Lumber Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 237 F. 460.

§ 1004. (Jud. Code, § 211.) Suits to be against United States.

District in which suit must be brought.—Under Act Oct. 22, 1913, c. 32, and Judicial Code, §§ 208, 211, suit to set aside order of the Interstate Commerce Commission, made on petition of residents of Missouri, held not maintainable in Northern district of Illinois; the United States being suable only where it consents to be sued. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Illinois, 38 S. Ct. 170, 245 U. S. 493, 62 L. Ed. 425.

§ 1005. (Jud. Code, § 212.) Attorney General to control all cases, etc.

See McLean Lumber Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 237 F. 460.

§ 1006. (Jud. Code, § 213.) Complainants may appear, etc.

See McLean Lumber Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 237 F. 460.

CHAPTER THREE—DISTRICT COURTS—REMOVAL OF CAUSES

Sec.
1010. Removal of suits from State to United States district courts.
1011. Procedure for removal.
1012. Suits under grants of land from different States.
1015. Suits and prosecutions against revenue officers, etc.
1016. Removal of suits by aliens.
1019. Suits improperly in district court may be dismissed or remanded.
1020. Proceedings in suits removed.
1021. Time for filing record; return of record, how enforced.

§ 1010. (Jud. Code, § 28, as amended, Act Jan. 20, 1914, c. 11.) Removal of suits from State to United States district courts.

Jurisdiction of federal court in general, see notes under § 991(1) and Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1.

Notes of Decisions

I. VALIDITY AND CONSTRUCTION IN GENERAL

(B) Construction

8. Construction of Judicial Code provisions.—Judicial Code held not to have changed, in respect to removal of causes and venue of federal courts, Judiciary Act of 1887, as amended in 1888, and decisions under that act are as binding as if made under the Judicial Code. Keating v. Pennsylvania Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 155.

(C) State statutes restricting removal

10½. Effect of state laws in general.—Nonresident railroad companies to which Washington railroad company transferred its franchise and right of way, including tunnel, limitations against suit against Washington company, having run, held entitled to remove cause for injuries occasioned by construction and maintenance of tunnel, despite Const. Wash. art. 12, § 8. City of Seattle v. Great Northern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 239 F. 1009.

11½. Effect of state statute prescribing procedure.—A local statute cannot make parties to an action indispensable so as to deprive a federal court of jurisdiction on removal. Webb v. Southern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 578.

The jurisdictional facts for removal of a cause to a federal court, claim of exemption under federal statutes from taxation, existing, removal of the litigation, having its basis in attempted state taxation, cannot be defeated by form of judicial review prescribed by the state. Iowa Loan & Trust Co. v. Fairweather (D. C.) 252 F. 605.

12. Restrictions on foreign corporations.—When the maintenance of an action commenced in a state court is prohibited by a state statute, because of the failure of plaintiff as a foreign corporation to comply with its requirements, plaintiff cannot better its position by removing the cause into a federal court. Utah Const. Co. v. St. Louis Construction & Equipment Co. (D. C.) 254 F. 321.

13. —— Validity.—St. Wis. 1915, § 1770f, providing for revocation of license of any foreign corporation to do business in the state when it applies to remove to a federal court any suit brought against it, held unconstitutional. Donald v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., 36 S. Ct. 563, 241 U. S. 329, 60 L. Ed. 1027, affirming decree Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Frear (D. C.) 216 F. 199.

State Constitution and laws, denying a foreign corporation doing business in the state the right to remove causes against it to the federal court under penalty of being denied the benefit of limitation statutes, are invalid. Quinette v. Pullman Co., 233 F. 980, 147 C. C. A. 654, denying rehearing 229 F. 333, 143 C. C. A. 453.

Civ. Code Ariz. 1913, pars. 2228, 2243, declaring that a foreign corporation doing business in the state shall forfeit its charter by removing an action against it to the federal court, and making continuance of business after the removal a misdemeanor, are invalid, and their operation will be enjoined on behalf of a foreign corporation which removed an action to the federal court. Copper Queen Consol. Mining Co. v. Jones (D. C.) 237 F. 131.

14½. Effect of state statutes regulating practice.—A state statute cannot deprive a party of the right of removal by designating him as plaintiff in a particular class of suits where he is essentially defendant. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Drainage Dist. No. 8 of Shelby County, Iowa (D. C.) 253 F. 491.

II. RIGHT OF REMOVAL IN GENERAL

(A) Source and nature of right

15. Source of right of removal.—Under Judicial Code, c. 3, §§ 28, 39, specifying certain grounds for removal, the right of removal is statutory, and suit commenced in state court must remain there until cause is shown for its transfer under an act of Congress. Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Alexander, 38 S. Ct. 237, 246 U. S. 276, 62 L. Ed. 713, dismissing writ of error Alexander v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 154 P. 914, 51 Mont. 565.

18. Nature of right of removal.—The right to remove a suit from a state into a federal court is purely statutory, and the right must be clear, and, if doubtful, the cause should for that reason alone be remanded. Ostrom v. Edison (D. C.) 244 F. 228.

The rights of a plaintiff to bring and of defendant to remove a suit over which the federal and state courts have concurrent jurisdiction are not reciprocal. Id.

Where it appears on the face of the record, including the petition for removal, that the cause is removable, it is the duty of the state court to proceed no further with the case. E. H. Emery & Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. (Iowa) 170 N. W. 540.

For purposes of one defendant's motion to remove the action to a federal court, the allegations of the complaint, setting out a joint tort committed by both defendants, will be assumed to be true. Powell v. Southern Ry. Co. (S. C.) 96 S. E. 292.

18½. Time of existence of ground of removal.—The right of removal depends upon the case disclosed by the pleadings when the petition for removal is filed. Baillie v. Backus (D. C.) 230 F. 711.

(B) Suits or actions removable

22. Statutory remedies and proceedings in general.—Under a state statute establishing drainage districts, authorizing them to construct drains and assess the cost on property benefited, and giving the property owner a right of appeal from the assessment to the district court, such an appeal is a "suit," in which the appellant is defendant, within the meaning of the Removal Act. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Drainage Dist. No. 8 of Shelby County, Iowa (D. C.) 253 F. 491.

24. Proceedings concerning estates of decedents—Probate of wills.—A nonresident, who filed a caveat to proceedings in the Georgia courts for the probate of a will, is not entitled to remove the cause to the federal court, for the case was a purely probate one, and not a suit inter partes. Meadow v. Nash (D. C.) 250 F. 911.

Probate proceedings are not within the words "suit of civil nature, at law or in equity" in Act Cong. March 3, 1911, §§ 24, 28, and are not removable. Powell v. Watkins (N. C.) 90 S. E. 207.

26. Mandamus proceedings.—Under Rem. & Bal. Code Wash. § 1026, proceeding for writ of mandate to require operation of street cars held not removable, under Judicial Code, § 28, though petition asked for receivers in case of refusal to obey the writ. State of Washington v. Puget Sound Traction, Light & Power Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 748.

29. Tax proceedings.—Under Rev. St. Neb. 1913, §§ 6632, 6634, 6635, and in view of sections 1205 and 1212, and Const. art. 6, §§ 1, 16, a proceeding by a Nebraska county to assess inheritance taxes against real and personal property as the property of a decedent, which another claimed as surviving joint tenant, is, when it reaches the county court, a contest inter partes, and so is a suit, within the removal statutes. Smith v. Douglas County, Neb. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 244.

A proceeding on appeal from a board of review of assessments under Code Supp. Iowa 1907, § 1373, held a "suit," within Judicial Code, § 28, and removable by a nonresident defendant. In re Mississippi River Power Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 194.

37. Condition of the cause.—A case, not removable from a state court when commenced, may afterwards become removable. Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Alexander, 38 S. Ct. 237, 246 U. S. 276, 62 L. Ed. 713, dismissing writ of error Alexander v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 154 P. 914, 51 Mont. 565.

A complainant, who had filed a bill in a state court and obtained a restraining order and order to show cause, held estopped to say that no "suit" was pending within the removal statute (Judicial Code, § 28), although subpœna had not issued. English v. Supreme Conclave, Improved Order of Heptasophs (D. C.) 235 F. 630.

A motion to remove a cause to the federal court because of a separable controversy between plaintiff and the nonresident defendant must be determined as the cause of action is presented before defendant is required to answer, unless thereafter plaintiff by some voluntary action creates a separable controversy. Gurley v. Southern Power Co. (N. C.) 92 S. E. 262.

(C) Courts from and to which causes may be removed

41. Court to which cause may be removed.—Where the only ground of jurisdiction was a diversity of citizenship, an action brought by a Maine corporation against a New Jersey corporation and a West Virginia corporation in a court of Ohio, where both defendants were doing business, and where the cause of action arose, could not be removed by the West Virginia corporation to the District Court for one of the districts of West Virginia, as the "proper district" within section 28 is the district in which the suit is pending, especially as the clerk of the state court would not be within the territorial jurisdiction of any other District Court and could not be reached by its process. New York Coal Co. v. Sunday Creek Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 295.

The "proper district" into the court of which a cause may be removed under Judicial Code, § 28, is limited to the district in whose territory the suit is pending. Ostrom v. Edison (D. C.) 244 F. 228.

Where plaintiff, in action brought in L. county in Western federal district, was citizen of S. county within Western district, and defendant, a Missouri corporation maintaining place of business in S. county, cause could not be removed to federal court for Western district on ground of diversity of citizenship. Central Coal & Coke Co. v. Graham (Ark.) 196 S. W. 940.

(D) Original jurisdiction of United States court

43. Jurisdiction of United States courts in general.—Only cases within the original jurisdiction of the District Court are removable from state courts. Ivanoff v. Mechanical Rubber Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 173.

47. Jurisdiction over particular proceedings.—Jurisdiction of state court, acquired by attachment and publication, held not lost by removal of cause, though federal court could not have acquired original jurisdiction in that way. Missouri Valley Bridge & Iron Co. v. Blake, 231 F. 417, 145 C. C. A. 411.

48. Jurisdiction dependent on citizenship or residence of parties—Citizenship or residence of defendant.—Under Judicial Code, §§ 24, 28, a United States citizen, not a citizen of any state, cannot remove an action brought against him by a citizen of the state. Hough v. Société Electrique Westinghouse de Russie (D. C.) 231 F. 341.

Under statute allowing actions falling within original jurisdiction of District Court to be removed by defendants, nonresidents of state in which it was begun, held, that alien living within state might remove cause begun in the state court to federal court. Best v. Great Northern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 789.

49. —— Citizenship or residence of plaintiff.—A suit in a state not the residence of either plaintiff or defendant is not removable to the federal courts on the ground of diverse citizenship. American Oil & Supply Co. v. Western Gas Const. Co., 239 F. 505, 152 C. C. A. 383; New York Coal Co. v. Sunday Creek Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 295; Jackson v. William Kenefick Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 130; Doherty v. Smith (D. C.) 233 F. 132; O'Neil v. Birdseye (D. C.) 244 F. 254; Peninsula Lumber Co. v. Royal Indemnity Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 297; Stewart v. Cybur Lumber Co. (Miss.) 72 So. 276.

Under Judicial Code, §§ 28, 51, action by nonresident alien against New Jersey corporation pending in Ohio state court held not removable to District Court for Northern District of Ohio. Ivanoff v. Mechanical Rubber Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 173.

Despite Judicial Code, § 34, a suit by an alien against citizens of a foreign state cannot be removed to the federal District Court for the state where the action was begun. Jackson v. William Kenefick Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 130.

Under Judicial Code, §§ 24, 28, 51, held that, where an action in the state court, begun by an alien against a foreign corporation, was removed to the federal court, it cannot, on motion of the alien, be remanded. Keating v. Pennsylvania Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 155.

50. Restrictions as to district in which suit might have been brought.—See note 24 under § 1020, post.

Where jurisdiction of federal court depends upon diversity of citizenship under Judicial Code, § 51, plaintiff in case of removal has right to insist upon or waive his objection to jurisdiction because district is not proper district. Guaranty Trust Co. of New York v. McCabe (C. C. A.) 250 F. 699.

Where jurisdiction depended on fact that case arose under law of the United States, held, that it could not be removed to the District Court for a district other than that of which defendant was an inhabitant. Orr v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. (D. C.) 242 F. 608.

Under Jud. Code, § 57, to sustain jurisdiction on removal of a suit in a district of which neither party is a resident on the ground that it is a local action, the bill must be considered as a whole, and the court must be able to grant full relief in rem. O'Neil v. Birdseye (D. C.) 244 F. 254.

An action between citizens of different states cannot be removed to federal court, under Judicial Code, § 28, unless court to which removal is sought would have had jurisdiction, under section 51, if action had been instituted therein. Keating v. Pennsylvania Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 155.

Where a suit is within the jurisdiction of the federal District Court by reason of diversity of citizenship and the amount in controversy, the right of a nonresident defendant to remove the cause is absolute, under Act March 3, 1911, though plaintiff could not sue in that district. M. Hohenberg & Co. v. Mobile Liners (D. C.) 245 F. 169.

Under Judicial Code, § 28 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1010), providing for removal and sections 24, 51 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 991, 1033), relating to the jurisdiction and venue of suits a suit begun in the state court may be removed where there is diversity of citizenship between the parties though all of the plaintiffs were not residents of the district to which it was removed. James v. Amarillo City Light & Water Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 337.

Under Judicial Code, §§ 28, 51, plaintiff, being resident of Massachusetts district, jurisdiction of United States District Court for such district may be invoked by petition for removal of suit from state court by defendant resident in another state. Dunbar v. Rosenbloom, 119 N. E. 829, 230 Mass. 176.

Under Judicial Code, § 29, regulating the removal of suits from state courts to federal courts a federal court in a district other than the district including the forum where such suit was brought is without jurisdiction on removal. Stewart v. Cybur Lumber Co. (Miss.) 72 So. 276.

Under Act Cong. March 3, 1887, §§ 1, 2, as amended by Act Cong. Aug. 13, 1888, held, that an action brought in the state court outside the federal district of plaintiff's residence was not, over plaintiff's objection, removable for diversity of citizenship to the federal court on petition of a defendant residing in another state. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Hodge (Okl.) 157 P. 60.

Where plaintiff, a resident of the Western federal district of Oklahoma sued in a state district court lying in the Eastern district, defendant, a nonresident, is not entitled to remove the cause to the federal court of the Eastern district on ground of diversity of citizenship. Ft. Smith & W. R. Co. v. Knott (Okl.) 159 P. 847.

Action brought in state court outside of federal court district in which plaintiff resides is not on objection by the plaintiff removable to federal court district in which he does not reside on petition of defendant, where he is a resident of another state. Riter-Conley Mfg. Co. v. O'Donnell (Okl.) 168 P. 49.

(E) Waiver of right to remove

51. Power to waive and mode of waiver.—The provisions of Judicial Code, § 28, that no case arising under the Employers' Liability Act, brought in a state court, shall be removable, may not be waived. Mitchell v. Southern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 819.

52. Particular acts as waiver.—Where court directed verdict for resident defendant without consent of plaintiff, it properly refused nonresident defendant's application for removal to federal court. Craig v. Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co., 197 S. W. 141, 271 Mo. 516.

53. —— Participation by party removing cause in proceedings in state court.—A defendant does not waive his right to insist on the removal of a cause of action by following the case in the state court after that court has denied the right to remove. Nelson v. Black Diamond Mining Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 264.

III. REMOVAL OF CASES ARISING UNDER CONSTITUTION, LAWS OR TREATIES OF THE UNITED STATES

(C) Cases arising under laws of United States

67. Actions against or for acts of United States officers.—Under Judicial Code, §§ 24, 28, held, that suit begun in state court to enjoin postal inspector from delivering to third person property in possession of petitioner, who had been appointed postmaster, may by defendant be removed to federal court. Porter v. Coble, 246 F. 244, 158 C. C. A. 404.

Under Act March 3, 1891, §§ 2, 4, prisoner's action against warden of United States penitentiary for injuries from negligence held to arise under the United States laws, so as to be removable. Steele v. Halligan (D. C.) 229 F. 1011.

Under Const. U. S. art. 1, § 8, subsec. 17, Const. Wash. art. 25, and Rem. & Bal. Code Wash. § 6853, cause of action for negligence arising on territory acquired for United States penitentiary held removable to federal court. Id.

75. Actions by or against United States corporations in general.—An action by a shipbuilding company against the Emergency Fleet Corporation organized under Act March 3, 1901, pursuant to the United States Shipbuilding Act (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 8146a–8146r), upon an alleged contract for the building of ships, which it was not allowed to build, is an action arising under the Constitution and laws of the United States, and is not subject to remand from the federal District Court to the state court. Union Timber Products Co. v. United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation (D. C.) 252 F. 320.

Under Act Cong. Jan. 28, 1915, § 5, the fact that a railroad company was incorporated by congressional act does not entitle it to remove an action from the state to the federal courts. Texas & Pac. Ry. Co. v. Hanson (Tex. Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 289; Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Hughes (Tex. Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1091.

Under Act Cong. Jan. 28, 1915, § 5 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1233a), as to jurisdiction of actions affecting railroad companies incorporated under an act of Congress, a passenger's suit for injuries was not removable to the federal court on the ground that it involved a question of law arising under a federal statute, although the cause of action arose prior to enactment of such statute but the action was not brought until thereafter. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Mercer (Tex. Civ. App.) 195 S. W. 263.

76½. Actions against federal controlled railroad.—Actions against railroad company, instituted in state court after President by proclamation assumed control of railroads under Act Aug. 29, 1916 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1974a), are not actions arising under Constitution or laws of United States, so as to be removable to federal courts, under Judicial Code, § 28; the presidential proclamation not having the force of law. Muir v. Louisville & N. R. Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 888.

85. Cases under laws relating to interstate commerce.—See Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, 38 S. Ct. 130, 245 U. S. 359, 62 L. Ed. 345, dismissing writ of error 233 F. 956, 147 C. C. A. 630.

A suit for injunction held not removable under Judicial Code, § 28, as arising under federal Constitution and laws, though validity of contract alleged might depend upon Interstate Commerce Act. Smith v. Barnett (D. C.) 242 F. 83.

An action for injuries to an interstate shipment of live stock is governed by the various acts regulating commerce, and so is one arising under the Constitution or laws of the United States within this section and section 24 (section 991), giving the District Courts jurisdiction of such causes; that is, the right arising to hear and determine the same. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas (D. C.) 251 F. 332.

Though defendant refrigerator company was not a common carrier, held, that its liability depended on contract with railroad company, and not Interstate Commerce Act; hence though it did not fall within this section, as amended by Act Jan. 20, 1914, c. 11, defendant could not remove from state court a suit against it for less than $3,000 on ground that it was governed by act of Congress. E. H. Emery & Co. v. American Refrigerator Transit Co., 38 S. Ct. 414, 246 U. S. 634, 62 L. Ed. 912.

87. —— Restriction on removal of cases under the employer's liability act.—An action under the federal Employers' Liability Act cannot be removed to the federal court. St. Joseph & G. I. Ry. Co. v. Moore, 37 S. Ct. 278, 243 U. S. 311, 61 L. Ed. 741, affirming judgment Moore v. St. Joseph & G. I. Ry. Co., 186 S. W. 1035, 268 Mo. 31; Southern Ry. Co. v. Puckett, 37 S. Ct. 703, 244 U. S. 571, 61 L. Ed. 1321, affirming judgment 85 S. E. 809, 16 Ga. App. 551; Martin v. New York, N. H. &

H. R. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 696; Givens v. Wight (D. C.) 247 F. 233; Lusk v. Osborne, 191 S. W. 944, 127 Ark. 170; Northern Trust Co. v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co., 207 Ill. App. 11.

Under Act April 5, 1910, prohibiting removal of causes arising under federal Employer's Liability Act, allegation that plaintiff's deceased was employed in interstate commerce when killed brought case within such act, so as to prevent removal, either because of diversity of citizenship or because arising under a federal law. Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Alexander, 38 S. Ct. 237, 246 U. S. 276, 62 L. Ed. 713, dismissing writ of error Alexander v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 154 P. 914, 51 Mont. 565.

Where plaintiff consistently contended that proof supported complaint's allegation that plaintiff's deceased was employed in interstate commerce when killed, defendant railroad could not remove case, although its claim that deceased was not so employed, and that prohibition against removing cases arising under federal Employers' Liability Act did not apply, was upheld by state Supreme Court. Id.

Employers' Liability Act April 22, 1908, as amended by Act April 5, 1910, held to make a case nonremovable, where under the facts alleged such act must control in the case, though there is a count in terms under the state law. Jones v. Southern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 236 F. 584.

Pullman Company is not common carrier by railroad, within federal Employers' Liability Act, and action against it for death may be removed to federal court. Martin v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 696.

In determining whether plaintiff's cause was one arising under Employers' Liability Act, and hence not subject to removal on ground of diversity of citizenship, federal court can look only to plaintiff's petition. Givens v. Wight (D. C.) 247 F. 233.

Where plaintiff in one petition in action in state court in alternative joined action under Employers' Liability Act with one under state statutes, held, that she waived provisions of such Liability Act prohibiting removal of causes thereunder to federal court. Id.

The provisions of Judicial Code, § 28, that no case arising under the Employers' Liability Act, brought in a state court, shall be removable, held a limitation on the jurisdiction of all the federal District Courts as a class. Mitchell v. Southern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 819.

U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8662, prohibiting removal from a state to a federal court of suits under the Employers' Liability Act, forbids the removal of an employé's suit, though defendant is incorporated by act of Congress. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Sherer (Tex. Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 404.

(D) Allegations in pleadings

94. General rules.—Whether case arising under a federal law is removable when it is commenced, no fraudulent attempt to evade removal being claimed, is determined by complaint or petition, and it cannot be made removable by petition for removal or defendant's subsequent pleadings. Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Alexander, 38 S. Ct. 237, 246 U. S. 276, 62 L. Ed. 713, dismissing writ of error Alexander v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 154 P. 914, 51 Mont. 565.

Case arising under federal laws, if nonremovable on complaint when commenced, cannot be made removable by defendant's evidence or order of court upon a contested issue, but only by plaintiff voluntarily amending his pleadings, or by his voluntary dismissal or nonsuit of parties defendant. Id.

Rule that before cause is removable plaintiff's statement of cause of action must show it to be based on federal laws and Constitution held not to apply to reservations and sites to which territorial jurisdiction of federal courts extend. Steele v. Halligan (D. C.) 229 F. 1011.

An action instituted in state court cannot be removed to federal court on ground that question arising under Constitution or laws of United States is involved, unless complaint necessarily shows such questions are involved. Nevada-California Power Co. v. Hamilton (D. C.) 235 F. 317.

Where the complaint sought damages for a conspiracy to injure plaintiff's business, based on a patent monopoly, but no adjudication as to the validity of patents or infringement was sought, the action was not one concerning patents, and, there being no other ground of jurisdiction, the action could not be removed from the state court. Charroin v. Romort Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 236 F. 1011.

To remove from state to federal court action on ground it arose under Constitution and laws of United States, such fact must appear from plaintiff's initial pleading; and, where it did not, cause cannot be removed, though action was against railroad company, and President, under Act Aug. 29, 1916, had taken possession of and assumed control of railroads before initiation of action. Muir v. Louisville & N. R. Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 888.

99. Cases under laws relating to interstate commerce.—A petition seeking to recover for injuries to a shipment of cattle, alleging that the cattle were shipped from one state to another, though making no specific reference to any federal law, states an action arising thereunder, as the various acts regulating commerce govern. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas (D. C.) 251 F. 332.

100. Employers' liability act.—Though allegations that decedent was employé of defendant railroad were not fraudulent in invidious sense, cause held removable on showing that he was employé of defendant Pullman Company. Martin v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 696.

Declaration against interstate carrier for injury to employé does not state cause of action under the federal Employers' Liability Act; so as to preclude removal under amendment of 1910 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8662) unless it alleges that at time of injury the employé was also engaged in interstate commerce. Northern Trust Co. v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 118 N. E. 986, 282 Ill. 565.

Whether cause of action was under federal Employers' Liability Act not removable was to be determined from the pleadings as they stood when petition for removal and bond were filed. Id.

Action against interstate railroad for death of workman, brought by his widow and administratrix for benefit of herself and infant children, is not removable as matter of law because petition does not specifically allege dependency when allegations show that action was brought under federal Employers' Liability Act and not under state law. Griffith v. Midland Valley R. Co., 166 P. 467, 100 Kan. 500, certiorari denied Midland Valley R. Co. v. Griffith, 38 S. Ct. 12, 245 U. S. 653, 62 L. Ed. 532, and writ of error dismissed 38 S. Ct. 133, 245 U. S. 633, 62 L. Ed. 522.

Complaint, in action against interstate and intrastate railroad for death of car repairer, stating that car on which deceased was working was brought in for repairs shortly before accident, "with a view to its being returned and continued in use by said defendant in such interstate and intrastate commerce," sufficiently alleged, as against petition for removal, that deceased was engaged in interstate commerce, and therefore was within the federal Employers' Liability Act. Cook v. Southern Ry. Co. (S. C.) 96 S. E. 148.

IV. REMOVAL OF CAUSES FOR DIVERSITY OF CITIZENSHIP

(A) Diversity of citizenship as ground of removal

102. Diversity of citizenship necessary to give jurisdiction to United States courts.—See notes in § 991 and Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1.

103. Diversity of citizenship of coplaintiffs and codefendants.—Under Code Ala. 1907, § 2490, action in Alabama state court by a resident thereof against a Virginia corporation, to recover for damages resulting from fire, where nominal plaintiff sought to recover for benefit of insurance companies, which had by payment of part of loss been partially subrogated to his rights, must be treated as action by several plaintiffs, residents of different states. Webb v. Southern Ry. Co., 248 F. 618, 160 C. C. A. 518, reversing judgment (D. C.) 235 F. 578, and certiorari denied Southern R. Co. v. Webb, 38 S. Ct. 582, 247 U. S. 518, 62 L. Ed. 1245.

Where it appears that defendant, as to whom diversity of citizenship does not exist as cause for removal, was employé of his codefendant, that his liability is predicated on nonfeasance rather than misfeasance or malfeasance is not material. Sumey v. Craig Mountain Lumber Co. (Idaho) 170 P. 112, certiorari denied Craig Mountain Lumber Co. v. Sumey, 38 S. Ct. 336, 246 U. S. 667, 62 L. Ed. 929.

The residence of persons summoned as trustees, who have no interest in the main controversy, but are merely stakeholders, is immaterial on the question of removal to the federal court. Dunbar v. Rosenbloom, 119 N. E. 829, 230 Mass. 176.

104. Assignees.—Where plaintiff in New York courts sued nonresidents on claim assigned by members of New York firm, citizenship of his assignors will control jurisdiction of federal court on removal of cause. Guaranty Trust Co. of New York v. McCabe (C. C. A.) 250 F. 699.

Assignee of New York firm all members of which were not citizens of Southern district held, under Judicial Code, § 51, not entitled to sue nonresident defendants in that district, and, cause having been removed from New York court under section 28, to Southern district, it should be remanded. Id.

107. Actions by or against states.—An action by the state, under Rev. Laws Nev. §§ 3657–3664, to collect taxes, cannot, though defendant be a foreign corporation, be removed to federal courts on ground of diversity of citizenship. Nevada-California Power Co. v. Hamilton (D. C.) 235 F. 317.

Quo warranto by state, on relation of city, against foreign corporation, for failure to comply with franchise, instituted by Attorney General, under Rev. Laws Nev. §§ 5656–5659, 5663, as to quo warranto, held action by state, and not city, preventing removal for diversity of citizenship. State v. Reno Traction Co. (Nev.) 171 P. 375, L. R. A. 1918D, 847.

109. Time of existence of ground of removal.—The right of removal depends upon the case disclosed by the pleadings when the petition for removal is filed. Baillie v. Backus (D. C.) 230 F. 711.

(B) Improper or collusive joinder of parties

110. Joinder to give jurisdiction or authorize removal.—Where judge of state court on petition for removal for diversity of citizenship, finds that both defendants appear to be jointly liable and proper parties, it should retain jurisdiction, regardless of plaintiff's motive in suing defendant, as to whom diversity of citizenship does not exist. Sumey v. Craig Mountain Lumber Co. (Idaho) 170 P. 112, certiorari denied Craig Mountain Lumber Co. v. Sumey, 38 S. Ct. 336, 246 U. S. 667, 62 L. Ed. 929. See, also, notes under § 1019.

111. Joinder to prevent removal.—To establish fraudulent joinder of defendant to prevent removal of a cause, it must be shown that plaintiff had no reasonable ground to believe he could recover against that defendant. Hough v. Société Electrique Westinghouse de Russie (D. C.) 231 F. 341.

That the state courts could give no judgment against a defendant, alleged to have been joined to prevent removal, except in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment, does not entitle defendant to removal. Id.

A resolution of a foreign corporation held to give reasonable grounds to believe that plaintiff would be in better position with a judgment against the liquidator as well as against the corporation, so that his joinder was not fraudulent. Id.

Where a citizen is fraudulently and collusively joined as codefendant with a foreign corporation with the sole intent to prevent a removal, the foreign corporation is entitled to removal. Nelson v. Black Diamond Mining Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 264.

The right of removal may not be defeated by fraudulent joinder of a resident defendant having no connection with the controversy. Martin v. Matson Nav. Co. (D. C.) 239 F. 188.

In an action under federal Employers' Liability Act, court properly denied a petition for removal to federal court on ground of diversity of citizenship under allegations of fraudulent joinder. Lusk v. Osborne, 191 S. W. 944, 127 Ark. 170.

113. Right to join.—County in Georgia, issuing two series of warrants on same consideration, held proper and necessary party to suit between the holders of the two series, and suit could not be removed from Georgia state court to the federal court. Continental Trust Co. v. Butts County (D. C.) 242 F. 539.

In relation to removal of causes, when party is in lawful assertion of right in bringing action against resident and nonresident defendant, law attaches no importance to motive in pursuing course. Hollifield v. Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. (N. C.) 90 S. E. 996.

119. Joinder of master and servant.—Where relation of master and vice principal was such that tort resulting in injury to a servant was joint, the joinder of vice principal and master in action in court of state of which servant and vice principal were citizens, held not fraudulent, and intended to defeat jurisdiction of federal court. Deutsch v. Alaska Gastineau Mining Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 215.

In an action against steamship company, assistant engineer, and chief engineer, held, that cause was properly removable from state court; chief engineer being only resident party, and his joinder being improper, as liability was distinct from that of steamship company. Martin v. Matson Nav. Co. (D. C.) 239 F. 188.

In an action for death of a servant, where there was evidence that a superior servant was guilty of negligence, the action against the superior servant and the employer, which was a nonresident corporation, could not be removed to the federal court merely because the motive of joining the nonresident defendant with the local defendant was fraudulent, where a joint cause of action against all defendants was properly pleaded, and supported by sufficient evidence to make question of joint liability one for the jury. Buskirk v. Caudill (Ky.) 206 S. W. 867.

Where injured employé sued employing company and foreman jointly, foreman being only resident defendant, fact of his insolvency made no difference in relation to right of employer to remove cause to federal court on ground of fraud in joining defendants. Hollifield v. Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. (N. C.) 90 S. E. 996.

Motive of plaintiff in joining an impecunious employé as codefendant with a nonresident corporation in a negligence suit is not material upon the question of the right of the corporation to remove the cause to a federal court if the defendants are jointly liable under the local laws. Clark v. American Agricultural Chemical Co. (S. C.) 97 S. E. 705.

Complaint of plaintiff employé in action for personal injuries held upon its face to show liability on the part of defendant nonresident employer, and its resident codefendant, and that it did not show fraudulent joinder of parties defendant. Id.

120. Effect of evidence, verdict, or judgment.—Where plaintiff insists on liability of both defendants, but nonsuit is granted one as to whom diversity of citizenship does not exist, other defendant is not thereafter entitled to a removal, as right is not contingent on facts developed at trial. Sumey v. Craig Mountain Lumber Co. (Idaho) 170 P. 112, certiorari denied Craig Mountain Lumber Co. v. Sumey, 38 S. Ct. 336, 246 U. S. 667, 62 L. Ed. 929.

A motion to remove to the federal court an action brought in the state court against a resident and a nonresident corporation charged with liability for the death of plaintiff's decedent, who was an employé of the resident corporation, made upon dismissal of the case as to the latter corporation at the close of plaintiff's case upon its special plea, opposed by plaintiff, that plaintiff's remedy against it was by arbitration under the Illinois Workmen's Compensation Act, held properly denied, where plaintiff's contention, opposing the special plea, was bona fide, and there was no proof of the allegation in the resident corporation's petition in support of the motion of plaintiff's fraud in joining such corporation as a party defendant. Gordon v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 209 Ill. App. 195.

A verdict in favor of a local defendant alleged to have been fraudulently joined with a nonresident defendant is not conclusive of a fraudulent joinder. West Kentucky Coal Co. v. Key, 198 S. W. 724, 178 Ky. 220.

121. Pleading and proof of fraudulent purpose.—See note 73 under § 1011.

(C) Parties entitled to remove

125. Residence of party removing cause.—See Thomas v. South Butte Mining Co., 230 F. 968, 145 C. C. A. 162.

A suit by railway bondholders to determine the interest they acquired in the property by the use of their bonds at a sale under decree of the federal court is not removable under Judicial Code, § 28 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1010), by a defendant incorporated in the state in which the suit was brought. Genesee Valley Trust Co. v. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 524.

127. Removal by one or more co-parties.—When answer of defendant seeking to implead another does not set up cause of action against third person against whom plaintiff has no cause of action and who was not original party, removal of cause to federal court on petition of such third person may be denied. Andrews v. Rice (Tex. Civ. App.) 198 S. W. 666.

(D) Allegations in pleadings

133. General rules.—Where fraudulent joinder of party defendant to defeat removal to federal court is charged, that issue must be determined though purpose of cause of action is what complaint declares it to be. Deutsch v. Alaska Gastineau Mining Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 215.

For the purpose of removal of a cause the issue tendered is what plaintiff makes it in his complaint. Martin v. Matson Nav. Co. (D. C.) 239 F. 188.

Whether cause of action was removable from state to federal court for diversity of citizenship was to be determined from the pleadings as they stood when petition for removal and bond were filed. Northern Trust Co. v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 118 N. E. 986, 282 Ill. 565.

In view of the allegations of the petition for removal for diversity of citizenship under Act Cong. March 3, 1887, §§ 1, 2, as amended by Act Cong. Aug. 13, 1888, held, that the allegations of plaintiff's petition could be considered in determining the question of removability. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Hodge (Okl.) 157 P. 60.

134. Particular allegations.—In action against railroad company for death of nine year old son, petition held to show suit was for only $3,000, and not removable to federal court on ground of diversity of citizenship, despite allegation of damage of $25,000. Barber v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. (Ga. App.) 94 S. E. 280.

V. SEPARABLE CONTROVERSIES

(A) Nature of controversy

136. Single or separable controversy.—Where action was begun in state court by several plaintiffs, only one of whom was a resident of state, against defendant, a nonresident, defendant is not entitled to remove cause to federal court, unless there is a separable controversy between it and that plaintiff who was a resident of state wherein action was begun. Webb v. Southern Ry. Co., 248 F. 618, 160 C. C. A. 518, reversing judgment (D. C.) 235 F. 578, and certiorari denied Southern R. Co. v. Webb, 38 S. Ct. 582, 247 U. S. 518, 62 L. Ed. 1245.

The liability of a corporation for breach of a contract, and of a liquidator subsequently appointed for the corporation, held several and not joint (Judicial Code, § 28). Hough v. Société Electrique Westinghouse de Russie (D. C.) 232 F. 635.

A cause held removable by a nonresident corporation defendant, as involving a separate controversy between complainant and such defendant. English v. Supreme Conclave, Improved Order of Heptasophs (D. C.) 235 F. 630.

Controversy between port district of a city and a railroad company and its tenant held separable with respect to tenant and railroad company, so that railroad company, which was citizen of state other than that of which tenant and port district were citizens, might remove cause to federal courts. Port of Seattle v. Oregon & W. R. Co. (D. C.) 242 F. 986.

Where declaration in action in state court, in which resident and nonresident were joined as defendants, states cause of action, there is no separable controversy which nonresident can remove to federal court. Baker v. Jacksonville Traction Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 718.

To entitle a nonresident defendant to removal of the cause to the federal court under this section, the controversy as to him must be separable from that against the resident codefendants. Parlin & Orendorff Implement Co. v. Frey (Tex. Civ. App.) 200 S. W. 1143.

137. —— Actions involving title to or possession of real property.—Where defendant, a resident of New York, contracted to convey lands located in Kentucky, he cannot, suit having been instituted in the Kentucky state courts, and the holders of incumbrances, who were citizens of that state, made parties defendant, remove the cause to the federal court on the ground of separable controversy, for the incumbrancers were proper parties, and a defendant has no right to say that an action shall be several which a plaintiff elects to make joint. Bryan v. Barriger (D. C.) 251 F. 328.

138. —— Actions involving rights of mortgagors and mortgagees.—Where a petition to condemn land of mortgagor was duly served on mortgagor, and it failed to petition for removal to federal court within time, there is no separable controversy which will entitle the mortgagee to removal of cause to federal court thereafter on ground of diversity of citizenship. In re City of Seattle (D. C.) 237 F. 100.

142. —— Corporations and their officers and stockholders.—Plaintiff, a citizen of Oregon, owned 5 per cent. of the stock of an Oregon mining company, and corporations controlled by B. owned the other 95 per cent. B., the corporations controlled by him, and their other officers had misappropriated surplus funds of the mining company and converted them to their own use and benefit, and plaintiff sued them for an accounting, also naming the mining company as a defendant. The complaint went into minute detail as to the misappropriations, showing that they were sometimes made through B.'s machinations, sometimes through the acts of one or other of his companies, and sometimes by other officers of such companies; but in several parts of the bill defendants were charged jointly with participating in the misappropriations, and from the whole bill it was apparently drawn on the theory that there was a joint participation by the defendants named in a common scheme to withdraw the surplus funds of the mining company, with a view to preventing plaintiff from obtaining his just share of the profits. The defendants other than the mining company were all nonresidents of Oregon. Held, that there was no separable controversy between plaintiff and B., and the suit was not removable, as there was no joinder of separate causes of action, but only a particularization of different items of misappropriation, all entering into and forming elements of the general accounting demanded. Baillie v. Backus (D. C.) 230 F. 711.

A controversy between bondholders of an insolvent railroad who joined in the purchase at the foreclosure sale to determine their interest in the property purchased does not involve a separable controversy against the reorganized corporation which purchased the property so as to authorize removal by it alone. Genesee Valley Trust Co. v. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 524.

There is not a separable controversy between a receiver, suing director for paying dividends contrary to 2 Comp. St. N. J. 1910, p. 1617, § 30, and the nonresident defendants, so as to permit removal of cause under this section. Holcombe v. Ames (N. J. Ch.) 100 A. 609.

143. —— Actions involving the rights and liabilities of principals and sureties.—In an action for breach of a building contract against the contractor and the surety on its bond for performance of the contract, there is but one cause of action, and the controversy is not separable within the meaning of the removal statute. City of Seattle v. Beer's Bldg. Co. (D. C.) 242 F. 988.

158. Determination or dismissal as to some defendants.—Where a judgment against both the resident and nonresident defendants in an action for damages caused by their joint negligence was affirmed as to the resident defendant, but reversed and remanded as to the nonresident defendant, the controversy did not thereby become separable so as to entitle the nonresident to remove. Gurley v. Southern Power Co. (N. C.) 92 S. E. 262.

159. Removal of whole suit.—Where action to quiet title, brought in state court against defendant, a domestic resident railroad, was on the motion of the nonresident codefendant alone removed into the federal court, the cause was severable, and its removal left the cause against the resident railroad in the state court. Stuart v. Colorado Eastern R. Co. (Colo.) 156 P. 152.

(B) Joint or joint and several causes of action

160. General rules.—Where a joint recovery against several defendants is claimed upon a cause of action which justifies a joint recovery, there is no separable controversy, though plaintiff might have elected to present a separable controversy with one of the defendants. Baillie v. Backus (D. C.) 230 F. 711.

Where a joint recovery is claimed upon a cause of action which justifies such recovery, there is no separable controversy, though plaintiff might have presented a separable controversy. Id.

161. Contracts.—To justify a separation of the defendants joined in a suit it is not enough that they may be at the election of the plaintiff proceeded against either jointly or separately, but there must be more than one cause of action. Parlin & Orendorff Implement Co. v. Frey (Tex. Civ. App.) 200 S. W. 1143.

In view of Rev. St. Tex. 1911, art. 587, as to suing indorsers jointly with the principal obligors, and article 1842 as to prerequisites of judgment against indorsers, an action by the payee against the maker, and a guarantor by separate instrument, for delinquent interest and attorney's fees, prior to maturity of the note, is not separable so as to entitle nonresident guarantor to removal of the cause. Id.

162. Torts.—An action against a master and its vice principal for joint tort held to involve no separable controversy, and so the master, though a citizen of a different state from that of which the servant and vice principal were citizens, has no right of removal to the federal court on such ground. Deutsch v. Alaska Gastineau Mining Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 215.

In action against individuals and corporations to enjoin conspiracy to injure railroad company by diverting traffic, held, that there was no separable controversy with the corporations, authorizing removal under Judicial Code, § 28. Smith v. Barnett (D. C.) 242 F. 83.

A suit in equity against a number of defendants charged with having obtained property through a fraudulent conspiracy is not separable, and cannot be removed by one defendant alone. O'Neil v. Birdseye (D. C.) 244 F. 254.

Under Comp. Laws Fla. 1914, §§ 1389, 3148, causes of action against motorman and foreign corporation operating street car system for negligent injuries may be joined, and foreign corporation cannot remove same to federal court for diversity of citizenship; there being no separable controversy. Baker v. Jacksonville Traction Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 718.

Where plaintiff's declaration in action begun in state court after setting forth joint cause of action against his employer, a foreign corporation, and a local corporation, contained further averments disclosing cause of action against his employer, based on relation of master and servant, there was separable controversy, which employer being a foreign corporation, could, under Removal Act (Judicial Code, § 28), remove to federal court. Puckett v. Columbus Power Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 353.

In action by resident administrator for $50,000 damages for death of intestate servant against foreign corporation and its superintendents, resident defendants, held, that, as petition did not state joint cause of action against corporation and resident defendants, corporation's petition for removal to federal court was properly granted. Fogarty's Adm'r v. Bates & Rogers Const. Co., 203 S. W. 720, 180 Ky. 848.

In action for death of servant where there was evidence that deceased's foreman was guilty of gross negligence, the action against the foreman and the employer, which was a nonresident corporation, could not be removed to the federal court merely because no recovery was obtained against the resident defendant. Buskirk v. Caudill, 203 S. W. 864, 181 Ky. 45.

164. Joint operation of railroad—Lessor and lessee.—Nonresident operating railroad joined as defendant with its lessor, a resident railroad, for negligence cannot remove cause to federal court as presenting a separable controversy. McAllister v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 37 S. Ct. 274, 243 U. S. 302, 61 L. Ed. 735.

A nonresident operating a railway company joined as party defendant with its lessor, a resident railway company, in action for tort in operation of road, may not remove the cause to a federal court as presenting a separable controversy. Chicago & A. R. Co. v. McWhirt, 37 S. Ct. 392, 243 U. S. 422, 61 L. Ed. 826, affirming judgment McWhirt v. Chicago & A. R. Co. (Mo.) 187 S. W. 830.

165. —— Master and servant.—An action against a nonresident railway corporation and a resident servant in a state court by a resident is not removable to federal courts on the ground that a separable controversy is involved, where petition states a prima facie case of joint and concurrent liability. Southern Ry. Co. v. Sewell, 90 S. E. 94, 18 Ga. App. 544.

(C) Separate liability or defense

168. Liabilities on different grounds.—Where plaintiff stated right of recovery for injuries in the alternative, alleging in one count employment in interstate commerce and in another omitting such allegation, cause held removable. Bedell v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 788.

A complaint alleging that transaction was one, and that both defendants had concurrent part in it, sets out a joint tort, though defendant railway company is liable under federal Employers' Liability Act, while defendant bridge company is liable under common law. Powell v. Southern Ry. Co. (S. C.) 96 S. E. 292.

170. Separate interests or claims in subject-matter.—Where owner of property destroyed by fire sued in Alabama state court, railroad company, which was Virginia corporation, not only for benefit of himself, but for foreign insurance companies, which had paid part of loss, held that, as recovery of each depended upon railroad company's liability, there was no separable controversy between owner and railroad company, warranting removal to federal court. Webb v. Southern Ry. Co., 248 F. 618, 160 C. C. A. 518, reversing judgment (D. C.) 235 F. 578, and certiorari denied Southern R. Co. v. Webb, 38 S. Ct. 582, 247 U. S. 518, 62 L. Ed. 1245.

(E) Allegations in pleadings

185. General rules.—Whether an action against two defendants is separable, so as to entitle one, who is a nonresident, to remove the cause as to him, must be determined from the allegations of the plaintiff's pleading as construed by the court. Hough v. Société Electrique Westinghouse de Russie (D. C.) 232 F. 635.

Where there is suit against two or more parties, and only one is nonresident, and he seeks to remove cause, question whether there is such separable and distinct controversy as to warrant removal is determined by state of plaintiff's declaration at time cause is removed. Puckett v. Columbus Power Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 353.

VI. REMOVAL ON GROUND OF PREJUDICE AND LOCAL INFLUENCE

(C) Procedure for removal on ground of prejudice and local influence

187. Nature of prejudice or influence.—Const. U. S. art. 3, § 2, and Judicial Code, § 28, authorizing removal of causes were intended to secure for controversies between citizens of different states a tribunal independent of local influences and surroundings. In re Sherwood, 103 A. 42, 259 Pa. 254, L. R. A. 1918D, 447.

Right of removal to federal court on ground of local prejudice is not confined to prejudice which may affect a jury, but extends to those which may influence a judge. Id.

196. Procedure for removal in general.—Statement of attorney for nonresident defendant, on motion to remand cases to court of common pleas after his removal of cases to federal District Court under Judicial Code, § 28, that "the five judges of Luzerne court are so prejudiced that the defendant, could not get a fair trial in our courts," was privileged and his suspension for six months would be reversed. In re Sherwood, 103 A. 42, 259 Pa. 254, L. R. A. 1918D, 447. See, also, notes under § 1011.

VII. AMOUNT IN CONTROVERSY

See, also, notes under § 991.

222. Amount or value claimed or involved.—Where fraudulent reduction of amount of claim to prevent removal to federal court was claimed, plaintiff held not bound by statements of his assignor in a prior action for a larger amount. Harley v. Firemen's Fund Ins. Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 471.

Though plaintiff's pleading shows more than $3,000 due him, he may waive the excess of federal jurisdiction, and sue for a less sum, thereby preventing removal. Id.

Where plaintiff, after filing petition claiming $10,000 damages, filed amended petition reducing claim to $3,000, nonresident defendants' application for removal to federal court was properly denied, although property attached under original petition was appraised at $10,000. Skelton & Wear v. Wolfe (Tex. Civ. App.) 200 S. W. 901.

Where the payee sued on notes and against the guarantor for the interest accrued and attorney's fees, prior to the due date of the notes, the amount in controversy, for purpose of removal to federal court was not the amount of the notes, though the guarantor denied its liability and the judgment might be pleaded as res judicata in any future action against the guarantor. Parlin & Orendorff Implement Co. v. Frey (Tex. Civ. App.) 200 S. W. 1143.

223. Allegations and prayers in pleadings.—In case where original petition prayed $10,000 damages, held, that amended petition asking $3,000 became effective against defendants' right to removal under petition filed thereafter, but before service of notice of amendment; notice of amendment being given within five days required by Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. Tex. 1914, art. 1824. Skelton & Wear v. Wolfe (Tex. Civ. App.) 200 S. W. 901.

224. Increase or reduction by amendment.—Error cannot be assigned on the ground of fraud upon the federal court by permitting amendment increasing damages alleged from $2,999 to $10,000, if, upon such amendment, defendant might have had the cause removed. Martin v. Richmond Cotton Oil Co. (Mo. App.) 184 S. W. 127.

Where action was removed to federal court, and its judgment for plaintiff was reversed by Circuit Court of Appeals, and cause remanded, and federal court on plaintiff's motion dismissed it without prejudice, he may reduce amount of claim, and prevent another removal. Bancroft Drainage Dist. v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co. (Neb.) 167 N. W. 731.

VIII. EFFECT OF REMAND AND REVIEW THEREOF

(A) Effect of remand

226. Proceedings in state court.—Where, before limitations had run on an Illinois contract, complainant, defendant in a previous suit, removed it to the federal court and filed a cross-bill, held that, under section 25 of the Illinois statute, complainant might, within one year after remand to state court, begin new action. Moloney v. Cressler, 236 F. 636, 149 C. C. A. 632.

228. Removal after remand.—After remand of a cause removed on the grounds of separable controversy and fraudulent joinder of a citizen, a second petition for removal for the same grounds, filed while the citizen was still a party, is ineffective. Key v. West Kentucky Coal Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 258.

A second petition for removal cannot be filed, except where, before trial on the merits, the suit is changed by plaintiff's act, so as to be for the first time brought within the removal statute. Id.

A case cannot be removed on a motion made in a state court, particularly after the motion to remand has been sustained by the federal court, but a petition conforming to the statutory requirements at the time must be filed. Nelson v. Black Diamond Mining Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 264.

A petition for removal after remand was properly denied, where it contained nothing more than a mere amplification of allegations of first petition, and stated no facts occurring subsequently which changed the status of the parties. West Kentucky Coal Co. v. Key, 198 S. W. 724, 178 Ky. 220.

Where, after remand, a local defendant's motion for peremptory instruction was properly overruled, nonresident defendant's motion to remove the cause because of insufficiency of evidence as to local defendant's liability was properly denied. Id.

Where a cause was removed to federal court upon first petition therefor, asserting diversity of citizenship, and was remanded to the state court, the state court correctly denied a second petition, which was simply an enlarged edition of the first, in deference to the order of the federal court. Malloy v. Marshall-Wells Hardware Co. (Or.) 176 P. 589.

(B) Review of order remanding cause

231. Prohibition of appeal or writ of error.—An order of a federal District Court remanding a cause to a state court is not reviewable by the federal Supreme Court. Pacific Live Stock Co. v. Lewis, 36 S. Ct. 637, 241 U. S. 440, 60 L. Ed. 1084, affirming decree (D. C.) 217 F. 95.

Where District Court remanded cause to state court because jurisdictional amount was not involved, order of appellate state court affirming judgment denying motion to set aside removal to federal court is not subject to review in federal Supreme Court, being an attempt to review, contrary to Judicial Code, § 28, order of federal court remanding cause. Yankaus v. Feltenstein, 37 S. Ct. 567, 244 U. S. 127, 61 L. Ed. 1036.

232. Review by state court.—Where a cause was removed to the federal court and remanded to the state court under Judicial Code, § 28, the propriety of the remanding order cannot be reviewed by the state courts. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Wade (Ark.) 201 S. W. 787.

CITED WITHOUT DEFINITE APPLICATION

Pacific Live Stock Co. v. Lewis, 36 S. Ct. 637, 60 L. Ed. 1084; Brady v. J. B. McCrary Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 602.

§ 1011. (Jud. Code, § 29.) Procedure for removal.

I. VALIDITY AND CONSTRUCTION IN GENERAL

3. "Proper district" to which cause may be removed.—Judicial Code (Act March 3, 1911, c. 231) § 28, 36 Stat. 1094 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1010), authorizes the removal from state courts of suits of which the United States District Courts are given original jurisdiction. Section 29 (section 1011) provides that the party entitled to remove such a suit, except suits removable on the ground of prejudice or local influence, may file a petition for the removal in the District Court in the district where such suit is pending. Held that, where the only ground of jurisdiction was a diversity of citizenship, an action brought by a Maine corporation against a New Jersey corporation and a West Virginia corporation in a court of Ohio, where both defendants were doing business, and where the cause of action arose, could not be removed by the West Virginia corporation to the District Court for one of the districts of West Virginia, as the "proper district" within section 28 is the district in which the suit is pending, especially as the clerk of the state court would not be within the territorial jurisdiction of any other District Court and could not be reached by its process. New York Coal Co. v. Sunday Creek Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 295.

Under this section a federal court in a district other than the district including the forum where such suit was brought is without jurisdiction on removal. Stewart v. Cybur Lumber Co. (Miss.) 72 So. 276.

II. PROCEEDINGS FOR REMOVAL

(A) Parties

5. Parties to cause for purpose of removal.—Where purported duly appointed executors of nonresident were not made parties by any order of court, and made no showing entitling them to be recognized as parties, they could not ask for removal of cause to federal court. First Nat. Bank v. Pancake (N. C.) 90 S. E. 515.

Denial of petition for removal to federal court of cause by one sought to be impleaded as defendant held not error, where petitioner was not correctly named so as to become defendant. Andrews v. Rice (Tex. Civ. App.) 198 S. W. 666.

6. Parties to petition.—Any motion for removal to a federal court of an action for a joint tort must have been made by both defendants. Powell v. Southern Ry. Co. (S. C.) 96 S. E. 292.

(B) Time for taking proceedings

20. Nature and operation of limitations in general.—It is imperative that the application for removal of a cause from a state court be made within the time fixed by Judicial Code, § 29. Waverly Stone & Gravel Co. v. Waterloo, C. F. & N. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 239 F. 561.

Petition for removal of cause from state to federal court should regularly be filed on return day of writ. Williams v. Miller (D. C.) 249 F. 495.

A petition for removal of a cause from a state to a federal court, on the ground of diversity of citizenship, made after trial, in the absence of fraud, collusion, or inequitable conduct, came too late. Supreme Lodge of the World, Loyal Order of Moose, v. Gustin (Ala.) 80 So. 84.

22. Time for defense in general.—Under Act Cong. March 3, 1887, as amended by Act Aug. 13, 1888, defendant should file his petition for removal at or before the time when he is required to make any defense, whether by plea of abatement or any other form of dilatory plea, or to the merits. Elms v. Crane (Me.) 105 A. 385.

30. Time to plead under statutes or rules of particular states—Massachusetts.—Under Judicial Code, § 29, as to time for filing petition for removal, Superior Court Common-Law Rules 1915, rule 7, as to time for answering, and Rev. Laws Mass. c. 167, § 34, and chapter 170, § 6, providing for service of precept upon nonresident defendant, where no service was made on a nonresident defendant, and he had not appeared voluntarily before filing petition for removal, such petition was not filed too late; it being immaterial whether he had actual knowledge of the suit against him. Dunbar v. Rosenbloom, 119 N. E. 829, 230 Mass. 176.

Pursuant to Judicial Code, § 29, defendant, at his option, might appear at earlier time than that limited for filing answer by common-law rule of superior court 1915, No. 7, to file his petition for removal to federal court. Id.

34½. —— Oklahoma.—A petition for the removal of a cause to the federal court, not made and filed until after expiration of the answer day, was too late to comply with the requirement of federal Judicial Code, § 29. Dickinson v. Foot (Okl.) 173 P. 522.

38½. —— Washington.—In condemnation proceedings under Rem. & Bal. Code Wash. §§ 7768, 7770, 7772, 7774, held in view of section 222, subd. 2, and section 411, subd. 2, that defendant, by failing to file petition for removal within 20 days after summons, lost right to remove cause to federal court under Judicial Code, § 28, on ground of diversity of citizenship. In re City of Seattle (D. C.) 237 F. 100.

39. Effect of entering appearance or filing pleading.—Defendant, which contemporaneously with filing of petition for removal, or subsequently and before removal, filed a cross-complaint, held not entitled to removal, under Judicial Code, § 28. Hansen v. Pacific Coast Asphalt Cement Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 283.

43. Extension of time to answer or plead.—Under this section an order of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, authorized by Rule 217 of that court extending the time for defendant to answer over the 20 days set by rule 76 of that court, did not extend the time within which the cause could be removed to the federal District Court. Pilgrim v. Ætna Life Ins. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 958.

Under Judicial Code, § 29, a petition for removal from the Iowa district court, not filed before the time fixed by Code Iowa 1897, § 3550, for answer, demurrer, or motion, is too late, though filed within the extended time given by the court. Waverly Stone & Gravel Co. v. Waterloo, C. F. & N. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 239 F. 561.

Under this section a stipulation extending defendant's time to answer, but not to demur or otherwise plead, does not extend the time to remove the cause. Solomon v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 231.

Under Code Civ. Proc. Cal. § 585, subd. 1, requiring defendant to answer within the time specified in the summons, "or such further time as may have been granted," an extension may be granted by stipulation of counsel, and at any time within such extension defendant may file a petition for removal. Citizens' Trust & Savings Bank v. Hobbs (D. C.) 253 F. 479.

Where defendant made no objection to order extending time for filing pleadings, petition for removal of cause, not filed until after expiration of time for filing answer had it not been extended, comes too late and should be overruled. Patterson v. Champion Lumber Co. (N. C.) 94 S. E. 692.

Under this section defendant, who acquiesced in order extending time for filing of pleadings, loses his right to remove cause to federal court on ground of diversity of citizenship upon petition filed after expiration of time for filing answer fixed by law, though order was one usually made in such cases without request by parties. Dills v. Champion Fiber Co. (N. C.) 94 S. E. 694.

Under Act Cong. Aug. 13, 1888, the time for filing a petition for removal of a cause to federal court, based on diversity of citizenship, expires on the date defendant is required by law or state court rule to answer, notwithstanding the time to answer may have been extended by stipulation or court order. Malloy v. Marshall-Wells Hardware Co. (Or.) 173 P. 267, judgment affirmed on rehearing 175 P. 659.

47. Effect of amendment of declaration or complaint.—If a petition for removal is filed promptly after the plaintiff by amendment first brings the cause within the removal statute, it is in time. Key v. West Kentucky Coal Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 258.

Where plaintiff, instead of proceeding under Gen. Code Ohio, § 11360, obtained leave to amend and sued out new summons, defendant held entitled to remove any time before the day specified in the new summons. Bedell v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 788.

(C) Effect of delay and objections thereto

51. Effect of delay in general.—It is essential to the removal of a cause that the petition provided for by the statute be filed with the state court within the time fixed by statute, unless the time be in some manner waived. Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, 38 S. Ct. 130, 245 U. S. 359, 62 L. Ed. 345, dismissing writ of error 233 F. 956, 147 C. C. A. 630.

Plaintiff held not estopped from complaining of defendant's delay in not filing his petition to remove the cause until after the answer day, too late to comply with federal Judicial Code, § 29. Dickinson v. Foot (Okl.) 173 P. 522.

55. Waiver of objections to delay.—Though defendant did not actually file his petition for removal at or before the time fixed for answering by the Kentucky Statutes, as required by this section, yet, as plaintiffs' counsel agreed that the petition should be treated as filed, and time for answering had expired, any objection is waived. Bryan v. Barriger (D. C.) 251 F. 328.

(D) Notice

58. Sufficiency of notice.—Notice of intention to file petition and bond for removal of cause from state to federal court is sufficient, though it does not specify time and place when it is to be presented. Hinman v. Barrett (D. C.) 244 F. 621.

(E) Petition

58½. Motion or petition.—A foreign corporation, jointly sued with a citizen of the same state as plaintiff, is not entitled to removal on a motion, instead of a statutory petition, after a trial at which the verdict was in favor of plaintiff against the foreign corporation only. Key v. West Kentucky Coal Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 258.

59. Averments in general.—Petition of foreign corporation for removal to federal court of action against it need not allege its permit to do business in state. Kruegel v. Standard Savings & Loan Ass'n (Tex. Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 283.

State courts are not bound to surrender jurisdiction of cause on petition for removal, unless petition shows on its face right of petitioner to transfer. Andrews v. Rice (Tex. Civ. App.) 198 S. W. 666.

60. —— Grounds for removal.—The right to removal of a cause to the federal court turns upon the allegation of sufficient facts upon which to predicate it. Hollifield v. Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. (N. C.) 90 S. E. 996.

65. Citizenship of parties in general.—Petition for removal of cause for diversity of citizenship which fails to allege that parties are citizens of different states, but alleges plaintiff is a resident of one state, and defendant a resident of another state, in which the action is brought, is defective. Hinman v. Barrett (D. C.) 244 F. 621.

Refusal to transfer cause to federal court, on motion showing that there was no diversity of citizenship and failing to show sufficient reason for removal, was proper. United Brothers of Friendship and Sisters of the Mysterious Ten of Oklahoma v. Delancy (Okl.) 157 P. 1150.

68. —— Citizenship of corporations.—Allegation that defendant corporation was citizen of a state other than that of plaintiff's citizenship, residing in that state, with no allegation that it was organized under laws of that state, is insufficient to sustain the federal court's jurisdiction after removal. Fentress Coal & Coke Co. v. Elmore, 240 F. 328, 153 C. C. A. 254.

73. Fraudulent joinder to prevent removal.—Nonresident defendant, seeking removal of an action in which resident was joined as defendant, must allege facts showing joinder was fraudulent, unless that is apparent on the face of complaint. Martin v. Matson Nav. Co. (D. C.) 239 F. 188.

Denial of removal for diversity of citizenship, where petition alleged fraudulent joinder to prevent removal, held justified by affidavit of plaintiff's counsel fully explaining reason of joinder and showing good faith. J. C. Carland & Co. v. Burke (Ala.) 73 So. 10.

In an action for death of a railroad brakeman, where charge of negligence in complaint stated a cause of action against employés who committed negligent act, a petition for removal to the federal courts held not to state a case of fraudulent misjoinder authorizing removal. Lusk v. Osborne, 191 S. W. 944, 127 Ark. 170.

Pleading showing a joint cause of action, a petition for removal, merely denying allegations upon which liability of resident defendant was rested, accompanied by statement of fraudulent joinder, and not stating facts sufficient to compel such conclusion, was insufficient. West Kentucky Coal Co. v. Key, 198 S. W. 724, 178 Ky. 220.

In action for personal injuries by employé of telephone company against company and its foreman, plaintiff's son, petition for removal to federal court on ground of fraud in joinder of son as resident defendant held insufficient. Hollifield v. Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. (N. C.) 90 S. E. 996.

Mere allegation of conspiracy to prevent removal of cause to federal court by joining resident defendant is of no consequence without statement of matter showing that conspiracy existed. Id.

Petition for removal of cause to federal court on ground of diversity of citizenship, which alleged fraudulent joinder of defendants, is insufficient where essential facts were not stated so that court could see there had been such joinder. Patterson v. Champion Lumber Co. (N. C.) 94 S. E. 692.

On application for removal of cause to federal court, issue of fraudulent joinder of parties is not presented by stating facts showing right to removal, accompanied by general averment of fraud or bad faith, but there must be a complete statement of the facts constituting the fraud. Fore v. Sylva Tanning Co., 96 S. E. 48, 175 N. C. 583.

Where complaint in servant's action for injuries against foreign corporate employer and local superior employé and officers stated duties and connection of latter with the work and the injury and charged their negligence, motion for removal to federal courts, merely denying their negligence and liability and generally alleging their fraudulent joinder, was insufficient to require removal. Id.

75. Amount in controversy.—Where no issue was taken to averment, in petition for removal of action to federal court, that amount in controversy exceeded $3,000, such averment must be considered conceded. Port of Seattle v. Oregon & W. R. Co. (D. C.) 242 F. 986.

79. Verification.—Under Judicial Code, §§ 28, 29, petition for removal from state court of suit by postmaster against post office inspector, verified by one signing as United States attorney, is verification, otherwise being good, sufficient, notwithstanding it was signed by attorney as United States attorney. Porter v. Coble, 246 F. 244, 158 C. C. A. 404.

81. Counter affidavits or reply and proof.—A defendant, seeking removal of an action for diversity of citizenship has the burden of establishing that fact. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Woods, 238 F. 917, 151 C. C. A. 651.

Where there is no denial of the allegations of the petition for removal, they must be taken as true. Nelson v. Black Diamond Mining Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 264.

When fraudulent joinder of parties defendant to prevent removal is relied upon to support petition for removal, the alleged fraud must be clearly proven. J. C. Carland & Co. v. Burke (Ala.) 73 So. 10.

A state court need not surrender its jurisdiction on petition for removal until a case has been made which on its face shows petitioner's right to a removal. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Hodge (Okl.) 157 P. 60.

(F) Bond

83. Form.—A bond for removal held sufficient in the absence of any objection to its validity prior to its approval by the judge of the state court. Brady v. J. B. McCrary Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 602.

84. Condition.—Under this section a removal bond conditioned upon the filing of the record either in the District Court for the district wherein the action was begun or in the District Court for another district is insufficient, and does not authorize removal. Webb v. Southern Ry. Co., 248 F. 618, 160 C. C. A. 518, reversing judgment (D. C.) 235 F. 578, and certiorari denied Southern R. Co. v. Webb, 38 S. Ct. 582, 247 U. S. 518, 62 L. Ed. 1245.

86. Parties and execution.—The fact that a bond for removal executed by a foreign corporation did not show that such corporation had complied with the laws of the state to entitle it to do business therein held not to invalidate it. Brady v. J. B. McCrary Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 602.

(G) Filing petition and bond

90. Filing in state court.—The filing of a sufficient petition and bond for removal removes the cause automatically, and it is immaterial whether the clerk marks the papers filed or whether the judge of the state court acts upon them before a pleading is due from defendant. Brady v. J. B. McCrary Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 602.

Neither petition for removal of cause nor amendment thereof by leave is a general appearance, so as to give the court jurisdiction. Macario v. Alaska Gastineau Mining Co. (Wash.) 165 P. 73.

(H) Order for removal

91. Necessity.—When a sufficient petition for removal is filed in the state court, and the proper bond given and approved, the cause is ipso facto removed, and no order of the state court is necessary. Webb v. Southern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 578; Nelson v. Black Diamond Mining Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 264.

(I) Filing copy of record in United States court

97. Time and place for filing.—A transcript not filed in the United States court within 30 days after filing the petition and bond for removal in the state court, as required by this section is too late, though the state court took no action on the petition at the time it was filed. Waverly Stone & Gravel Co. v. Waterloo, C. F. & N. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 239 F. 561.

(J) Defects in proceedings, objections, amendments and waiver

100½. Mode of objection.—Neither insufficiency of bond for removal of case to federal court, nor insufficiency of verification of bond could be raised by general demurrer to petition, but only by specific objections. Herron's Adm'r v. Bates & Rogers Const. Co., 203 S. W. 719, 180 Ky. 851.

102. Amendment of petition.—Where defendant's petition to remove action by attorney's error alleged diverse residence instead of diverse citizenship of parties, his motion to amend to allege diverse citizenship will be granted, if such granting will not delay trial. Hinman v. Barrett (D. C.) 244 F. 621.

104. Waiver of objections.—The objection that a suit between citizens of different states, neither of whom was a resident of the state, cannot be removed to the United States court, is waived by defendant's petition to remove, and by plaintiff's appearance to contest a motion to set aside service of process. American Oil & Supply Co. v. Western Gas Const. Co., 239 F. 505, 152 C. C. A. 383.

Where plaintiff simply demurred to petition for removal to federal court and made no specific objections pointing out wherein removal bond was defective, any defect in bond will be deemed waived on appeal. Herron's Adm'r v. Bates & Rogers Const. Co., 203 S. W. 719, 180 Ky. 851.

III. DETERMINATION OF RIGHT TO REMOVE AND TRANSFER OF JURISDICTION

(A) Determination of right to remove

105. Jurisdiction of state and United States courts in general.—The question whether a defendant was fraudulently joined to prevent removal is a question for the federal court alone. Hough v. Société Electrique Westinghouse de Russie (D. C.) 231 F. 341.

In determining right of defendant, charged with joint tort, to remove cause to federal court, on ground that joinder with his codefendant was fraudulent, questions of defendant's liability or sufficiency of pleadings to show liability cannot be decided; such matters being for trial court, and not affecting right of removal. Deutsch v. Alaska Gastineau Mining Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 215.

Where petition of foreign railroad corporation for removal of action from state court to United States District Court on ground of diverse citizenship, was deemed by state court to be insufficient because of joinder of resident defendants, that court properly retained jurisdiction. Landers v. Tracy, 188 S. W. 763, 171 Ky. 657.

106. Determination of issues of law.—Questions of law on application to remove causes to federal courts, such as sufficiency of petition, etc., are for decision by state court, while questions of fact are for federal court. Patterson v. Champion Lumber Co. (N. C.) 94 S. E. 692.

107. Determination of issues of fact.—Only question presented on petition for removal is whether, as matter of law, case for removal is made on face of record, and, if any issues of fact are raised, they must be determined in federal, and not in state court. E. H. Emery & Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. (Iowa) 170 N. W. 540; Dunbar v. Rosenbloom, 119 N. E. 829, 230 Mass. 176.

All issues of fact made on a petition for removal must be tried in the federal district court, but the state court may determine for itself whether on the face of the record a removal has been effected. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Hodge (Okl.) 157 P. 60.

On petition to remove cause to federal court for fraud in joinder of resident defendant, state court does not hear proof of fraud, and pass on issue, which is left for other court, but this rule applies only as to such issues of fact as control and determine right of removal. Hollifield v. Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. (N. C.) 90 S. E. 996.

When a verified petition for removal is filed, accompanied by a proper bond, and contains facts sufficient to require a removal jurisdiction of the state court ends and it cannot decide issues of fact so raised, but it may only consider and determine the sufficiency of the petition and the bond. Fore v. Sylva Tanning Co., 96 S. E. 48, 175 N. C. 583.

110. Review by state court.—The finding of a federal court as to whether a cause removed to it from a state court was removable is final, and, if jurisdiction is assumed thereof, is binding on the state court until reversed. E. H. Emery & Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. (Iowa) 170 N. W. 540.

Writ of review to superior court to review order denying relators transfer to United States District Court of trial of question of public necessity for condemning and damages to be paid for appropriation of land for army post denied; remedy by appeal (Laws Wash. 1917, pp. 11, 12) being ample. State v. Superior Court of Pierce County, 167 P. 1089, 98 Wash. 377.

112. Review by United States supreme court.—Under Judicial Code, § 28, as amended by Act Jan. 20, 1914, and sections 29, 128 and 241 where action for damages to interstate shipment was removed on sole ground of diversity of citizenship, judgment of Circuit Court of Appeals held final. Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, 38 S. Ct. 130, 245 U. S. 359, 62 L. Ed. 345, dismissing writ of error 233 F. 956, 147 C. C. A. 630.

(C) Effect of removal

119. Proceedings in state court after removal.—When cause has been removed to federal court that court may restrain further proceedings in the state court, notwithstanding statute prohibiting injunction against proceedings of state courts. McCabe v. Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, 243 F. 845, 156 C. C. A. 357.

Where, pending ancillary suit for injunction to restrain further proceedings in state court, such court granted motion to remove, injunction held properly denied without prejudice. Id.

After defendant filed its petition to remove a cause to the federal court, plaintiff filed his declaration without notice to defendant, and such declaration was included in a copy of the record. Defendant having failed to answer the same, default was entered against it; the same being set aside on the express condition that defendant should file its pleas within five days thereafter. Held, that such consent on the part of defendant was an election to treat the declaration as properly filed, and a waiver of its right to make defense thereto otherwise than by filing pleas as specified. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 712.

Where action pending in state court is removed to a national court, any attempted subsequent action therein by first tribunal is beyond its jurisdiction. Ex parte City Bank & Trust Co. (Ala.) 76 So. 372.

Though the state court, if the cause were removable, had no right to permit amendment of allegation as to value, after petition for removal was filed with bond, its order allowing amendment and denying removal, when not appealed from was conclusive on state courts, and further application for removal was properly denied. Powell v. Watkins (N. C.) 90 S. E. 207.

Under this section when sufficient petition and bond are filed, and bond is approved, state court has no authority further than to enter order of removal. Kruegel v. Standard Savings & Loan Ass'n (Tex. Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 283.

122. Unauthorized or improper removal—Costs.—Judicial Code, § 29, as to bond for paying costs for wrongful or improper removal, does not give, but assumes and recognizes, power in the District Court to award costs in removal cases. Devost v. Twin State Gas & Electric Co., 252 F. 125, 164 C. C. A. 237.

§ 1012. (Jud. Code, § 30.) Suits under grants of land from different states.

Cited without definite application, Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 327.

§ 1015. (Jud. Code, § 33, as amended, Act Aug. 23, 1916, c. 399.) Suits and prosecutions against revenue officers, etc.

14. Petition.—The petition of a United States revenue officer for removal of a prosecution for grand larceny instituted against him in state court held sufficient under this section, as it alleged that petitioner was a revenue officer, and that the prosecution arose out of a transaction in which he was discharging his official duties, though the petitioner denied he was guilty of any larceny, etc. State of Alabama v. Peak (D. C.) 252 F. 306.

Cited without definite application, U. S. v. Gradwell, 37 S. Ct. 407, 61 L. Ed. 857.

§ 1016. (Jud. Code, § 34.) Removal of suits by aliens.

Cited without definite application, Jackson v. William Kenefick Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 130.

§ 1019. (Jud. Code, § 37.) Suits improperly in district court may be dismissed or remanded.

I. THE STATUTE IN GENERAL

1. In general.—Latest decisions of Supreme Court and Circuit Court of Appeals on question of remanding or dismissing suits in federal court pursuant to Act March 3, 1875, § 5 (Judicial Code, § 37), are binding precedents which district court must follow. Jellison v. Krell Piano Co. (D. C.) 246 F. 509.

II. DISMISSAL OF CAUSE

(A) Power and duty to dismiss and grounds for dismissal

3. In general.—See Solomon v. Penn. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 231.

4. Want of jurisdiction.—See Spencer v. Babylon R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 24.

5. —— Amount involved.—As only compensatory damages are collectible, action on constable's bond in federal court for levy of wrongful execution will under Judicial Code, § 37, be dismissed, where property levied on was of value much less than $3,000, the jurisdictional amount in District Court. Sclarenco v. Chicago Bonding Co. (D. C.) 236 F. 592.

6. —— Federal question.—See City of Cincinnati v. Cincinnati & Hamilton Traction Co., 38 S. Ct. 153, 62 L. Ed. 389.

9. Fraudulent or collusive acts to confer jurisdiction.—Judicial Code, § 37, does not deprive a federal court of jurisdiction over a suit against an interstate telephone company to compel it to furnish service, though the parties are friendly antagonists and the company was willing to have the controversy submitted to the federal court. Stephens v. Ohio State Telephone Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 759.

Though complainant had control of stock of Ohio corporation, which manufactured articles for it, held, that suit by complainant, a New Jersey corporation, against Ohio corporation and a union, brought in federal court could not be dismissed under Judicial Code, § 37, on ground that making complainant party was collusive. Niles-Bement-Pond Co. v. Iron Molders' Union, Local No. 68 (D. C.) 246 F. 851.

11. Waiver of right to dismissal.—On appeal from a decree dismissing on the merits a suit over which the District Court had no jurisdiction, the Circuit Court of Appeals should, under Judicial Code, § 37, dismiss it for want of jurisdiction, though the question was not raised by defendant. Weyman-Bruton Co. v. Ladd, 231 F. 898, 146 C. C. A. 94.

Under Bankruptcy Act, § 2, the limitation of jurisdiction to persons residing or having their business in the district, affects the subject-matter, and under Judicial Code, § 37, is not waived by the appearance of the bankrupt. Finn v. Carolina Portland Cement Co., 232 F. 815, 147 C. C. A. 9.

A defendant who removed an action to the federal court and answered, waives objection to the maintenance of the action in the United States court. Roman v. Lehigh Valley Coal Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 595.

A defendant, who removed an action to the federal court and answered, waives objection to the service of process. Id.

Defendant, removing case on allegation that plaintiff was citizen of state in which action was brought, held not entitled, on learning that he was an alien, to object to a trial of the case in that district. Sawickas v. Singer Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 600.

(C) Proceedings for dismissal

13. Objections—Manner of raising.—If, in the absence of a special plea to the jurisdiction, the court can see by the proof that there is a jurisdictional question as to the citizenship of the parties, it must, under the fifth section of the judiciary act of 1875, direct an issue to be made by the pleadings, try that question, and dismiss the suit if there be no jurisdiction; and therefore an application by the defendant to amend his pleadings in order to raise the question will and must be granted, even after the trial has commenced. Imperial Refining Co. v. Wyman (C. C.) 38 F. 574, 3 L. R. A. 503.

15. —— Dismissal by court on its own motion.—See Gaines v. Baltimore & C. S. S. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 786.

Under Judicial Code, § 37, the federal District Court may, when led to believe or suspect that it has not jurisdiction of the action, itself raise question of jurisdiction. Sclarenco v. Chicago Bonding Co. (D. C.) 236 F. 592.

When no real or colorable, but only a fraudulent and fictitious, federal question is stated, the jurisdiction of a federal court does not attach for any purpose, and it is duty of court of its motion to refrain from exercising jurisdiction. Columbus Ry., Power & Light Co. v. City of Columbus, Ohio (D. C.) 253 F. 499.

21. Determination and scope of inquiry.—Under Judicial Code, § 37, the District Court, where led to believe that it has not jurisdiction, may itself find the specific facts relating to the question, or submit the evidence to the jury. Sclarenco v. Chicago Bonding Co. (D. C.) 236 F. 592.

III. REMAND OF CAUSE

(A) Power and duty to remand

25. In general.—That a state court granted a petition for removal of an action for injury to a railroad employé does not affect the duty of the federal court to remand the cause, where it appears that it is one arising under the federal Employers' Liability Act (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 8657–8665), and not removable. Deuel v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. (D. C.) 253 F. 857.

If the United States District Court finds that a cause removed from a state court to it was not removable, it will, in the interest of justice remand the same to the state court. E. H. Emery & Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. (Iowa) 170 N. W. 540.

26. Time of remand.—Under Judicial Code, § 37, the District Court's jurisdiction of a cause removed from a state court may be challenged at any time: Harley v. Firemen's Fund Ins. Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 471.

(B) Grounds for remand

30. Want of jurisdiction or of cause for removal.—See Union Timber Products Co. v. United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation (D. C.) 252 F. 320.

A cause removed from state court will not, eight years later on appeal, be remanded on the ground that the amount in controversy was less than $2,000, unless it is certain that the maximum limit of possible recovery at the date of commencing suit, and under any theory which plaintiff had fairly entertained, was less than the jurisdictional amount. Chesbrough v. Woodworth (C. C. A.) 251 F. 881.

Although, in view of Pierce's Code Wash. 1905, § 1408, proceeding, though nominally one for mandamus, really called for equitable powers of court to compel street railway company to furnish service as required by its franchise, cause would not be remanded, after removal, on ground that federal court had no jurisdiction. State of Washington v. Tacoma Ry. & Power Co. (C. C.) 244 F. 989.

31. —— Diversity of citizenship.—Where defendant has a right to removal, federal court will not remand, though plaintiff in state court in good faith joined as a party defendant one not necessary to disposition of case. City of Seattle v. Great Northern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 239 F. 1009.

34. —— Want of jurisdiction to give relief.—Under Judicial Code, § 37, it is improper, suit to recover $2,900 for services and to secure injunction having been removed to federal court, to remand such suit, the cause of action for injunction having been dismissed, though that left amount in controversy less than $3.000. Jellison v. Krell Piano Co. (D. C.) 246 F. 509.

36. Jurisdiction on removal doubtful.—It is the duty of a federal court, where doubt exists as to jurisdiction, to remand a cause removed from a state court to such state court. In re Mississippi River Power Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 194; Orr v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. (D. C.) 242 F. 608; Hansen v. Pacific Coast Asphalt Cement Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 283; Harley v. Firemen's Fund Ins. Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 471.

37. Defects in proceedings for removal.—Petition for removal, defective because not alleging organization of corporation, may be amended after judgment for plaintiff, and such judgment will be reversed, with directions that it be re-entered, if the plaintiff amends his declaration, so as to cure the defect. Fentress Coal & Coke Co. v. Elmore, 240 F. 328, 153 C. C. A. 254.

The United States court may and should remand to the state court upon its own motion a case which, though removable, was not properly removed. Waverly Stone & Gravel Co. v. Waterloo, C. F. & N. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 239 F. 561.

(D) Waiver of right to remand

43. Waiver by appearance.—Where action between citizens of different states is removed to a federal court, which would not have had jurisdiction, under Judicial Code, § 51, objection to court's want of jurisdiction is waived, whenever party objecting to removal appears for any purpose, except to object to jurisdiction over his person. Keating v. Pennsylvania Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 155.

45. Waiver by conduct, pleading, or obtaining relief.—If general federal jurisdiction exists, the want of local jurisdiction or venue in the particular court to which a cause has been removed may be waived by plaintiff by affirmative acts recognizing such jurisdiction by failing to move for remand. General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160.

Where, after removal of cause to federal court, plaintiff specially appeared and moved to remand, plaintiff's subsequent amendment of complaint, motion to remand having been denied, was not waiver of its rights. Guaranty Trust Co. of New York v. McCabe (C. C. A.) 250 F. 699.

(E) Procedure for remand and review thereof

46. Remand by court on its own motion.—Where, after removal to federal court on ground of diversity of citizenship, a demurrer was sustained to one cause of action, and remaining cause of action was for less than jurisdictional amount, federal court will of its own motion remand case to state courts. Jones v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 301.

As the jurisdiction of the federal District Court is limited, and lack of jurisdiction will defeat an action whenever discovered, the court may, on its own motion, raise the question of jurisdiction and remand the action to the state court whenever it appears it is without jurisdiction.—Charroin v. Romort Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 236 F. 1011.

As the venue in the federal court, on removal from a state court on the ground of diversity of citizenship, is not jurisdictional in the sense that it cannot be waived, the court may not remand the cause of its own motion because neither of the parties is a citizen of the state and district; no objections to the removal having been made. Fitzhugh v. Reid (D. C.) 252 F. 234.

50. Pleading to jurisdiction or in abatement.—Plaintiff may, on a motion filed in the United States court, have a case removed from the state court remanded if the petition does not state a cause for removal, or he may plead to the jurisdiction of the court, and have a hearing on the issues of fact presented. E. H. Emery & Co. v. Chicago. B. & Q. R. Co. (Iowa) 170 N. W. 540.

51. Trial, determination, and scope of inquiry.—Where a cause removed on the grounds of separable controversy and collusive joinder is remanded. the federal court cannot review the testimony presented to the jury in the state court, or act upon it, even if it establishes either of the grounds urged for removal. Key v. West Kentucky Coal Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 258.

52. —— Jurisdiction.—Where a suit, begun in state court and removed to the federal court, is found to be without the jurisdiction of that tribunal, so that it must be remanded, the federal court has no jurisdiction to dispose of motions to quash service of summons. Bryan v. Barriger (D. C.) 251 F. 328.

55. Record, pleadings, and effect thereof on inquiry—Record.—An allegation in the petition for removal of a rule of the state district court allowing defendant to plead or answer 15 days after the time fixed by statute, where no such rule appears in the record, or any showing of authority to adopt it, does not prevent a remand. Waverly Stone & Gravel Co. v. Waterloo, C. F. & N. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 239 F. 561.

56. —— Pleadings.—After removal of servant's action based on common law, held, that evidence showing action was governed by federal Employers' Liability Act was admissible, though facts showing applicability of such statute were not pleaded. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Woods, 238 F. 917, 151 C. C. A. 651.

Where the petition for removal of suits to cancel disclaimers to land alleged that the actual value of the property, exclusive of costs, etc., was in excess of $3,000, and such averments were not challenged, complainants' petition to remand must be denied; the petition for removal furnishing the basis of jurisdiction. Woodall v. Clark (C. C. A.) 254 F. 526.

57. Amendment of record or petition to prevent remand.—Where delay in filing the copy of the record resulted from plaintiff's proceeding in the state court, and the motion to remand was not grounded on the delay, the court will exercise its discretion to permit the transcript to be filed at the hearing of the motion to remand. Nelson v. Black Diamond Mining Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 264.

58. —— Amendment of petition.—Leave to file an amended petition for removal cannot be sustained at the hearing of the motion to remand. Key v. West Kentucky Coal Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 258.

A petition for removal may be allowed to be amended in the federal court to show the citizenship of the plaintiff's assignor where he sues as assignee. Brady v. J. B. McCrary Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 602.

59. Evidence.—Where removal depended on which defendant employed decedent. court held to have duty, on motion to remand, of determining facts from affidavits or evidence. Martin v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 696.

60. —— Affidavits.—In disposing of a motion to remand where its decision depends upon facts not apparent of record, affidavits may be considered. City of Seattle v. Great Northern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 239 F. 1009.

On motion to remand involving disputed fact, defendant held required to serve affidavits, to which plaintiff might serve counter affidavits, and to produce affiants for cross-examination if desired by plaintiff. Martin v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 696.

63. Order on application for remand.—That clerk of United States court, contrary to his custom, did not notify attorney that motion, of which party had notice, to remand case to state court had been granted, did not excuse party's failure to answer or plead in time after remand. Western Coal & Mining Co. v. Green (Okl.) 166 P. 154.

64. Review of order remanding cause.—See notes under § 1010.

67. Costs on remand.—Where plaintiff, in order to get jurisdiction in federal court against citizen of same state, impleaded latter after having brought action in first instance against corporation of another state, Circuit Court of Appeals, in reversing judgment of District Court and dismissing action for lack of jurisdiction, may direct latter court to enter judgment, under Judicial Code, § 37 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1019), for costs of both courts against plaintiff. Devost v. Twin State Gas & Electric Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 125.

Cited without definite application, Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. v. Weldon (D. C.) 246 F. 265.

§ 1020. (Jud. Code, § 38.) Proceedings in suits removed.

II. JURISDICTION ON REMOVAL

4. Process.—On removal of a cause, the sufficiency of the service made under the state law is to be tested by the requirements of service to give jurisdiction, if the suit had been brought in the federal court. Vitkus v. Clyde S. S. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 288.

Where under 1 Comp. St. N. J. 1910, p. 414, §§ 12–18, a chancery court acquired jurisdiction of a suit against a nonresident defendant, the federal District Court will not, on removal, set aside the service because it was not authorized by Judicial Code, § 57, which is limited to federal courts. Hudson Nav. Co. v. Murray (D. C.) 236 F. 419.

Where after substituted service has been made, a cause is removed to the federal court, plaintiff need not obtain another order from the federal court for substituted service. Id.

8. Removal as waiver of jurisdictional objections.—All jurisdictional objections may be made after removal to the federal court of cause begun in state court. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. Sherman, 230 F. 814, 145 C. C. A. 124; General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160; Beach v. Kerr Turbine Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 706; Cleveland & Western Coal Co. v. J. H. Hillman & Sons Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 200; Partola Mfg. Co. v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 250 F. 273.

III. LEGAL AND EQUITABLE REMEDIES AND PROCEEDINGS

9. Remedies in general.—A proceeding for partition, when removed into a federal court, was properly transferred to the equity calendar. Highland Park Mfg. Co. v. Steele, 232 F. 10, 146 C. C. A. 202, affirming decree Steele v. Highland Park Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 212 F. 972, and decree modified on rehearing Highland Park Mfg. Co. v. Steele (C. C. A.) 235 F. 465.

Bill to collect attorney's fees by attachment on the land, originally filed in the state court, held not to show that the remedy at law was inadequate so that it should, after removal, have been transferred to the law side of the court under Judicial Code, § 38, and equity rule 22 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, p. 2502). Edward Hines Lumber Co. v. Bowers, 238 F. 782, 151 C. C. A. 632.

Where suit to cancel deed as cloud on title is removed to federal court, such court is bound to enforce equitable rights conferred by state statute, or to remand cause; but, in absence of statute, it is at full liberty to exercise its judgment, uncontrolled by decisions of state tribunals. Williams v. Provident Life & Trust Co. of Philadelphia, 242 F. 417, 155 C. C. A. 193.

IV. PROCEEDINGS AFTER REMOVAL

12. Rules of procedure.—The conformity statute (Rev. St. § 914 [Comp. St. 1916, § 1537]) cannot be invoked to deprive a federal court of its rightful jurisdiction of a cause on removal. Webb v. Southern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 578.

12½. Parties.—The widow of an alien killed in Pennsylvania, who had a cause of action for the death under the laws of that state, can be substituted as plaintiff in an action begun in a New York court by the administrator, and removed by defendant to the federal court, and which was still pending and unabated. Roman v. Lehigh Valley Coal Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 595.

12¾. Attachment.—In view of Gen. Code Ohio, §§ 11230, 11231, 11279, 11280, held that, where action begun in Ohio state court by attachment was removed to federal court, and attachment vacated for want of sufficient affidavit, attachment could not be perfected by affidavit in federal court. Cleveland & Western Coal Co. v. J. H. Hillman & Sons Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 200.

15. Pleading—Amendments.—The filing of plaintiff's amended petition on the merits after removal of the cause by defendant does not affect the jurisdiction of the federal court. Nelson v. Black Diamond Mining Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 264.

20. Trial.—Question whether plaintiff, who sued in state court of New York for injuries received in Pennsylvania, had acquired residence in New York, which under Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 1780, was condition of maintaining suit therein, held one of fact for jury; case having been removed to federal court. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. Skerman, 247 F. 269, 159 C. C. A. 363.

24. Judgment.—Where action between parties residents of different states was brought in state court, and neither plaintiff nor defendant were residents of such state, a default judgment of the federal District Court to which removal was attempted was void for want of jurisdiction especially where notice was given to appear in the proper district which was in Mississippi, while judgment was rendered by Alabama District Court. Stewart v. Cybur Lumber Co. (Miss.) 72 So. 276.

§ 1021. (Jud. Code, § 39.) Time for filing record; return of record, how enforced.

See New York Coal Co. v. Sunday Creek Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 295.

Necessity of showing of grounds for renewal.—Under Judicial Code, c. 3, §§ 28, 39, specifying certain grounds for removal, the right of removal is statutory, and suit commenced in state court must remain there until cause is shown for its transfer under an act of Congress. Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Alexander, 38 S. Ct. 237, 246 U. S. 276, 62 L. Ed. 713, dismissing writ of error Alexander v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 154 P. 914, 51 Mont. 565.

CHAPTER FOUR—DISTRICT COURTS—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

Sec.
1023. Offenses on the high seas, etc., where triable.
1024. Offenses begun in one district and completed in another.
1025. Suits for penalties and forfeitures, where brought.
1030. Jurisdiction in patent cases.
1031. Proceedings to enjoin Comptroller of the Currency.
1032. When a part of several defendants cannot be served.
1033. Civil suits; where to be brought.
1034. Suits in States containing more than one district.
1035. Districts containing more than one division; where suit to be brought; transfer of criminal cases.
1036. Suits of a local nature, where brought.
1037. When property lies in different districts.
1038. When property lies in different States in same circuit; jurisdiction of receiver.
1039. Absent defendants in suits to enforce liens, remove clouds on titles, etc.
1047. Receivers to manage property according to State laws.
1048. Suits against receiver.

§ 1023. (Jud. Code, § 41.) Offenses on the high seas, etc., where triable.

6. Jurisdiction of courts.—Under Judicial Code, § 41, persons arrested for taking fish from a pound on the high seas off the coast of New Jersey and brought ashore within that state held properly tried in the District Court for New Jersey. Miller v. U. S., 242 F. 907, 155 C. C. A. 495, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 61, 245 U. S. 660, 62 L. Ed. 535.

§ 1024. (Jud. Code, § 42.) Offenses begun in one district and completed in another.

2. Place of bringing prosecution in general.—In view of Act Jan. 22, 1901, establishing the Northern district of West Virginia, where offense was shown to have been committed at Parkersburg, held, that there was sufficient proof that it was committed within that district. Younge v. U. S., 242 F. 788, 156 C. C. A. 376, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 13, 245 U. S. 656, 62 L. Ed. 533.

Venue, like any other fact, may be shown by evidence, direct, indirect, or circumstantial. Wallace v. U. S., 243 F. 300, 156 C. C. A. 80, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 11, 245 U. S. 650, 62 L. Ed. 531.

6. —— Conspiracy to commit any offense against the United States or to defraud the United States.—Drafts given in effecting a conspiracy to defraud the Panama Railroad Company, a government owned corporation, held property of banks presenting them for collection in New York; therefore, under Judicial Code, § 42, no overt act in performance in conspiracy was committed in New York, and District Court for that district is without jurisdiction of prosecution. Salas v. U. S., 234 F. 842, 148 C. C. A. 440, reversing judgment U. S. v. Burke (D. C.) 221 F. 1014.

The District Court for Ohio held to have jurisdiction under Cr. Code, § 37, formerly Rev. St. § 5440 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10201), and Rev. St. § 731, of a prosecution for a conspiracy to use mails to defraud where some of the overt acts occurred in Ohio and others in Michigan. Shea v. United States, 236 F. 97, 149 C. C. A. 307.

Court for federal district wherein a conspiracy was entered into to prepare a military expedition against a country with which the United States was at peace, in violation of Penal Code, § 13 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 10177), has jurisdiction of prosecution, though supplies for expedition were shipped and stored outside district. De Orozco v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 237 F. 1008.

District Court for district within which bankruptcy petition was filed held to have jurisdiction of prosecution for conspiracy to conceal assets, though assets were concealed in a different district. Gretsch v. U. S., 242 F. 897, 155 C. C. A. 485, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 12, 245 U. S. 654, 62 L. Ed. 532.

An indictment found in the Southern District of New York against defendants, who manufactured oleomargarine in Rhode Island, charging them with conspiracy to defraud the federal internal revenue laws, held to charge an offense of which the District Court of New York had jurisdiction, alleging commission of overt acts in the district. Tillinghast v. Richards (D. C.) 233 F. 710.

Where, pursuant to conspiracy to defraud the United States of internal revenue, overt acts were committed within a federal district, the court for that district has jurisdiction, regardless of where the conspiracy was entered into. Id.

It is not necessary in prosecution under Cr. Code, § 37, for conspiracy to commit offense against United States, that overt act should have been done in same jurisdiction in which conspiracy was entered into. U. S. v. Baker (D. C.) 243 F. 741.

8. —— Embezzlement.—Violation of Criminal Code, § 36, by an applicant for enlistment, is committed where the application was made and the subsistence furnished, not at the recruiting depot where his enlistment was rejected. U. S. v. Buchanan (D. C.) 238 F. 877.

11. —— Food and Drugs Act, violations.—In prosecution for conspiring to violate and violating the Harrison Drug Act, evidence held sufficient to establish the venue in the district laid in the indictment. Wallace v. U. S., 243 F. 300, 156 C. C. A. 80, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 11, 245 U. S. 650, 62 L. Ed. 531.

14. —— Importation of aliens for immoral purposes.—Violations of Act June 25, 1910 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 4247), making it a crime for harborer of alien prostitute to fail to file with Commissioner General of Immigration statement concerning such alien, held committed in the District of Columbia where that official has his office, and not justiciable elsewhere on theory that failure to deposit statement in the mail is the beginning of the offense which, under Judicial Code, § 42, may be prosecuted in district where begun or completed. U. S. v. Lombardo, 36 S. Ct. 508, 241 U. S. 73, 60 L. Ed. 897, affirming order (D. C.) 228 F. 980.

15. —— Interstate Commerce Act, violations.—The offense of misrepresenting the weight of interstate shipments of lumber to obtain a lower rate condemned by Act Feb. 4, 1887, § 10, as amended by Act June 18, 1910 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8574), when committed by the consignee, may be prosecuted in the federal district at the place of destination as having been "fully or in part committed." U. S. v. Union Mfg. Co., 36 S. Ct. 420, 240 U. S. 605, 60 L. Ed. 822.

17. —— Larceny.—On trial for entering railroad car and stealing shoes therefrom, evidence, if insufficient to show that entry was within the district, held sufficient to sustain conviction for larceny; the stolen shoes having been brought within such district. Morris v. U. S., 229 F. 516, 143 C. C. A. 584.

19½. —— National banking law.—Under Judicial Code, § 42, prosecution based on unlawful issuance of certificate of deposit held maintainable in Idaho, where certificate was signed in blank, though it was filled in and negotiated outside that state. Simpson v. U. S., 229 F. 940, 144 C. C. A. 222, certiorari denied 36 S. Ct. 552, 241 U. S. 668, 60 L. Ed. 1229.

§ 1025. (Jud. Code, § 43.) Suits for penalties and forfeitures, where brought.

District in which action may or must be brought.—An action to recover the penalty provided by section 5 of the Immigration Act of February 20, 1907 (Comp. St. 1916, § 4250), amended March 26, 1910 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 4244, 4247), is not governed by Judicial Code, § 51, but may, under Rev. St. § 732 (this section), be brought in the district where the imported alien was to perform labor for a foreign corporation. Tomkins v. Paterson (D. C.) 238 F. 879.

§ 1030. (Jud. Code, § 48.) Jurisdiction in patent cases.

2. Applicability of statute to inhabitants and aliens.—Aliens are not inhabitants of any district, and the restrictions in Judicial Code, § 51 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1033), do not apply to them; likewise, in patent cases, the restrictions prescribed by section 48 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1030) do not apply, and aliens may be sued in any district within which process can be served on them. Sandusky Foundry & Machine Co. v. De Lavaud (D. C.) 251 F. 631.

3. Inhabitant within statute.—See Thomas v. South Butte Mining Co., 230 F. 968, 145 C. C. A. 162; Champion Spark Plug Co. v. Champion Ignition Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 200.

7. District in which suit may or must be brought.—A suit arising under the patent laws is transitory, and not local in character, and, except for the limitations of Judicial Code, § 48 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1030), might be brought in any district in which the defendant might be served. Sandusky Foundry & Machine Co. v. De Lavaud (D. C.) 251 F. 631.

12. Waiver of limitations as to jurisdiction—Acts constituting waiver.—Where the bill alleged that defendants infringed within the district where suit was brought and elsewhere in the United States, and defendants by their answer to the merits waived any right to object that suit was brought in a district other than that in which they had a place of business, etc., it is open to plaintiffs to show infringement in any place in the United States. Sandusky Foundry & Machine Co. v. De Lavaud (D. C.) 251 F. 631.

Judicial Code, § 48 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1030), prescribing the districts in which suits for patent infringement may be begun, should have the same construction as section 51 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1033); hence, where defendants appeared and answered to the merits before moving to dismiss a suit for patent infringement on the ground that it was begun in a district other than that of their residence, or in which they did business, those objections are waived. Id.

16. Pleading, requisites of bill to show jurisdiction.—In a bill for infringement of a patent, which alleges that certain defendants are nonresidents of the state, an allegation that they "are now doing business" at a designated place within the district is not a sufficient allegation that they have "a regular and established place of business" within the district, to give the court jurisdiction, under this section. Scheuerle v. Onepiece Bifocal Lens Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 270.

18. Order dismissing cause or vacating service of process as appealable.—Where bill for infringement of patent, brought under Judicial Code, § 48, was dismissed, and preliminary injunction denied, on ground defendant was not an inhabitant and had no regular place of business in district wherein suit was brought, Circuit Court of Appeals is, under section 128, without jurisdiction of appeal from order of dismissal, and question being one primarily involving jurisdiction, appeal must, under section 238, be taken to Supreme Court. American Electric Welding Co. v. Lalance & Grosjean Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 249 F. 968.

§ 1031. (Jud. Code, § 49.) Proceedings to enjoin Comptroller of the Currency.

Cited without definite application, Barrett Co. v. Ewing (C. C. A.) 242 F. 506.

§ 1032. (Jud. Code, § 50.) When a part of several defendants can not be served.

1. Construction of statute in general.—Under Judicial Code, §§ 50, 51, where jurisdiction depends on diversity of citizenship alone, and there is only one defendant, suit must be brought in either district of his residence or that of plaintiff, but where there are several defendants, court has jurisdiction of all if one or more are residents of district and others are found there. Camp v. Gress, 244 F. 121, 156 C. C. A. 549, certiorari granted 38 S. Ct. 14, 245 U. S. 655, 62 L. Ed. 533.

Even if plea in abatement was good as to one of defendants, joint makers of contract, it could not avail others, in view of this section. Id.

By this section, where there are several defendants, and one or more of them are neither inhabitants of nor found within the district in which the suit is brought, and do not voluntarily appear, the court may entertain jurisdiction and proceed to trial as between the parties properly before it; the decree being without prejudice to those not served nor appearing, the rule particularly applying to parties having an interest in the controversy, but whose interest will not be directly affected by decree in their absence. Brown v. Crawford (D. C.) 252 F. 248.

4. Corporation as inhabitant.—See Thomas v. South Butte Mining Co., 230 F. 968, 145 C. C. A. 162.

The provision as to proceeding where certain defendants are neither inhabitants nor "found in the district" held not to give jurisdiction, except in special cases, otherwise provided for, over corporations not inhabitants of the district. Harasimowicz v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 295.

7. Parties not indispensable or necessary—In particular cases.—A suit in a federal court by minority stockholders against the corporation, which is a corporation of the state, having its property and business therein, and the managing director, who is also a citizen and resident of the state, in which the bill alleges transactions by the directors, who are also the principal stockholders, by which the corporation has been defrauded of property for their individual benefit, should not be dismissed on motion because the other directors are not parties, where by reason of their being out of the jurisdiction they cannot be served, and if brought in their joinder would oust the jurisdiction of the court. In such case, such directors, while proper, are not indispensable, parties even though full relief as to all the transactions alleged cannot be granted without their presence and the court having jurisdiction over the corporation and its property, may and should, under equity rule 39 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2513), and this section, proceed without them, and grant such relief as the proofs may warrant and as is within its power Krouse v. Brevard Tannin Co., 249 F. 538, 161 C. C. A. 464.

8. Parties not indispensable or necessary to exercise of jurisdiction in general.—See General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160.

Citizens of another state held to be dispensed with as parties in federal court, if, though necessary parties, the case may be finally decided between the litigants without bringing them before the court. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571, 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 478.

The court may not dispense with persons having rights so closely related to the issues between the parties in court that a final decision cannot be made without affecting their rights. Id.

Where the court can do justice without injuring persons not before it, it will do so, shaping its relief so as to preserve the rights of such absent persons, requiring, if necessary, dismissal of the bill as to them. Grigsby v. Miller (D. C.) 231 F. 521.

9. —— In particular cases.—That agreement collateral to railroad mortgage created equitable lien against property of another company having no property within court's jurisdiction held not to defeat trustee's right to foreclose without making it a party. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571, 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 478.

Plaintiff, suing for libel, held entitled to dismiss as to one defendant, of which the court did not have jurisdiction. Stultz v. Cousins, 242 F. 794, 155 C. C. A. 382.

In suit by a deceased wife's administrator to set aside a deed given by her and her husband, the husband, though a proper and necessary, was not an "indispensable, party," one so necessary that a decree without his presence would prejudice his rights and leave the case contrary to equity and good conscience, a party whose interest in the subject-matter of the suit and the relief sought is so bound up with that of other parties that his legal presence as a party is an absolute necessity to the court's right to proceed, since, though the husband had an inchoate interest in the cause, in that, if plaintiff succeeded, he would be benefited by the litigation to the extent of having his title to the property potentially established, subject to the right of the administrator to subject it to the payment of the wife's debts, plaintiff administrator could proceed without such husband as a party and obtain all the relief to which he was entitled, without affecting the husband's interests or rights. Grigsby v. Miller (D. C.) 231 F. 521.

In suit to foreclose mortgage securing railroad bonds, where appointment of receiver was prayed, held, under this section and equity rule 39 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2513), that nonresident trustee was not indispensable party, and suit might be proceeded with, though it was not joined. Lowenthal v. Georgia Coast & P. R. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 1010.

Under this section and in view of Civ. Code Ga. 1910, §§ 3167, 5596, District Court for Georgia has jurisdiction of suit for breach of partnership contract, though only one of partners resided within district and was served. Calder & Richmond v. E. W. Rosenthal & Co. (D. C.) 250 F. 507.

In a foreclosure suit, if it is apparent that the presence of the owner of the equity of redemption will oust the court of jurisdiction, it may proceed without him, under this section and rule of equity 39 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2513), as to the absence of persons who would be proper parties. Brown v. Crawford (D. C.) 252 F. 248.

§ 1033. (Jud. Code, § 51.) Civil suits; where to be brought.

I. CONSTRUCTION AND OPERATION OF STATUTE

1. Construction in general.—See Ivanoff v. Mechanical Rubber Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 173.

This section prohibits only the institution of original suits, the text of the section implying that suits may be gotten into court by some other method. M. Hohenberg & Co. v. Mobile Liners (D. C.) 245 F. 169.

2. Effect on statutes conferring exclusive jurisdiction on federal courts.—The statutory provisions as to the particular district in which a suit shall be brought do not affect the general jurisdiction of the federal court over the suit. Champion Spark Plug Co. v. Champion Ignition Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 200.

3. Effect on removal of causes.—See, also, notes under § 1010.

Under Judicial Code, §§ 28, 51, action

by nonresident alien against New Jersey corporation pending in Ohio state court held not removable to District Court for Northern District of Ohio. Ivanoff v. Mechanical Rubber Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 173.

Judicial Code held not to have changed, in respect to removal of causes and venue of federal courts, Judiciary Act of 1887, as amended in 1888, and decisions under that act are as binding as if made under the Judicial Code. Keating v. Pennsylvania Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 155.

Under Judicial Code, § 24 (Comp. St. 1916, § 991), giving District Courts jurisdiction of civil suits between citizens of different states, etc., and the provision of this section that, where jurisdiction is founded on diversity of citizenship, suit shall only be brought in the district of the residence of plaintiff or defendant, a District Court has jurisdiction of a suit between citizens of different states on removal from a state court, although all of the plaintiffs were not citizens of such district. James v. Amarillo City Light & Water Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 337.

Under Judicial Code, § 28 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1010), providing for removal and sections 24, 51 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 991, 1033), relating to the jurisdiction and venue of suits, a suit begun in the state court may be removed, where there is diversity of citizenship between the parties, though all of the plaintiffs were not residents of the district to which it was removed. Id.

6. "Civil suit" defined.—Contempt proceeding for violation of injunction held civil in nature, so that under this section District Court for Eastern District of Wisconsin could not issue writ to marshal for district of Massachusetts for arrest of the defendants. Mitchell v. Dexter, 244 F. 926, 157 C. C. A. 276.

7. "Citizen," "inhabitant," or "resident" defined.—In the acts of Congress defining the jurisdiction of the federal courts, the words "inhabitant" and "resident" are synonymous, and an allegation that a complainant corporation is a "resident" of another state is sufficient. Thomas v. South Butte Mining Co., 230 F. 968, 145 C. C. A. 162.

As the official residence of the Commissioner of Patents is in the District of Columbia, suits against him in his official capacity should be commenced in that District. Barrett Co. v. Ewing, 242 F. 506, 155 C. C. A. 282.

A suit against "J. O. B., sheriff of Coahoma county, Miss.," was an action against the individual, and not against the office, so that service obtained while he was out of his own state, where he was not acting as sheriff, would not affect the validity of the service. Tate v. Baugh (D. C.) 252 F. 317.

10. "Original process or proceeding" defined.—A supplemental bill to obtain a personal decree against a nonresident participating in the defense, on the ground that he became bound by the decree, is an original proceeding, not dependent or ancillary, and hence requires original process within the district; mere notice not being sufficient. G. & C. Merriam Co. v. Saalfield, 36 S. Ct. 477, 241 U. S. 22, 60 L. Ed. 868.

Where bill, seeking to enjoin corporation from selling its assets on ground of violation of anti-trust acts, etc., did not make prospective purchaser party because it was nonresident of district, held that, after consummation of transaction, supplemental bill, seeking same relief, did not invoke ancillary jurisdiction of court, and give it jurisdiction of purchaser. Venner v. Pennsylvania Steel Co. of New Jersey (D. C.) 250 F. 292.

II. DISTRICT IN WHICH SUIT MAY OR MUST BE BROUGHT

(A) Venue dependent on diversity of citizenship or federal question in general

14. In general.—Under Judicial Code, §§ 50, 51, where jurisdiction depends on diversity of citizenship alone, and there is only one defendant, suit must be brought in either district of his residence or that of plaintiff, but where there are several defendants, court has jurisdiction of all if one or more are residents of district and others are found there. Camp v. Gress, 244 F. 121, 156 C. C. A. 549, certiorari granted 38 S. Ct. 14, 245 U. S. 655, 62 L. Ed. 533.

The federal District Court is without jurisdiction solely on the ground of diversity of citizenship where neither plaintiffs nor defendants are citizens or residents of the forum. Albert v. Bascom (D. C.) 245 F. 149.

(B) Venue dependent on citizenship, residence or character of parties

15. Local actions in general.—Rem may not be affected by direct operation of decree where it is beyond territorial jurisdiction of court, but court may, acting in personam, coerce action respecting such property. Vineyard Land & Stock Co. v. Twin Falls Salmon River Land & Water Co., 245 F. 9, 157 C. C. A. 305.

A federal court for one district has no jurisdiction beyond the territorial limits of its district over a party not a resident of the district, unless jurisdiction has been extended thereto by acts of Congress. Rakauskas v. Erie R. Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 495.

18. Aliens—Suits by Aliens.—See Keating v. Pennsylvania Co. (D. C.)

245 F. 155. See, also, notes under § 1010.

Where the testimony showed that plaintiff was born in Austria, she would be considered an alien until the contrary was shown. Lehigh Valley Coal Co. v. Washko, 231 F. 42, 145 C. C. A. 230.

Where plaintiff is an alien, the District Court of a district other than that of defendant's residence has no jurisdiction over the action, unless the parties consent. Lehigh Valley Coal Co. v. Washko, 231 F. 42, 145 C. C. A. 230; Yanuszauckas v. Mallory S. S. Co., 232 F. 132, 146 C. C. A. 324.

An action to recover damages for personal injury is not one of a local nature, and, where plaintiff is an alien, can be brought only in the district whereof defendant is an inhabitant. Kuzma v. Witherbee, Sherman & Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 286; Vitkus v. Clyde S. S. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 288.

Action by alien must be brought in district where corporation is incorporated, or has an office, or is doing business, if it waives right to be sued in district of its home office. Lukosewicz v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 292.

A domestic corporation may be sued in the federal courts by an alien in any district where it can be served and where it is doing business, if it does not properly raise the objection against being sued elsewhere than in the district of its residence; the case not being one depending on diversity of citizenship alone. Rakauskas v. Erie R. Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 495.

If alien desires to commence action or bring suit against citizen of United States, he must resort to domicile of defendant to sue; alien not being assumed to reside in the United States, though citizens may sue in either the state of which plaintiff or the defendant is resident. Best v. Great Northern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 789.

20. —— Suits by citizens against aliens.—A British corporation can be sued in a United States court only in a district where it can be validly served. Smithson v. Roneo (D. C.) 231 F. 349.

Aliens are not inhabitants of any district, and the restrictions in this section do not apply to them; likewise, in patent cases the restrictions prescribed by section 48 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1030) do not apply, and aliens may be sued in any district within which process can be served on them. Sandusky Foundry & Machine Co. v. De Lavaud (D. C.) 251 F. 631.

21. Citizens of different states.—On removal from state court, see ante, note 3.

Federal court for Southern district of Ohio held to have jurisdiction of suit by resident of that district against corporation, a citizen and resident of Colorado. Twin Lakes Land & Water Co. v. Dohner, 242 F. 399, 155 C. C. A. 175.

Where federal jurisdiction is invoked, founded only on the fact that the action is between citizens of different states, and the suit is brought in the district of the plaintiff's residence, objection thereto on the ground that the suit should have been brought in the district of the defendant's residence presents a question of venue, rather than of jurisdiction; and if in such case the requisite diversity of citizenship appears the objection is not well taken in view of this section and section 991(1). Tate v. Baugh (D. C.) 252 F. 317.

24. Corporations—Federal corporations as affecting venue.—A suit to enforce liability in equity of a Kansas corporation on bonds of a railway company created by an act of Congress involves a federal question, which under this section may not be brought in any other federal district than that of the residence of the Kansas corporation without its consent. Male v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 36 S. Ct. 351, 240 U. S. 97, 60 L. Ed. 544.

25. —— Domicile of corporations as affecting venue.—Where a corporation, a resident of the district, was duly served in an unfair competition case, officers and agents of the corporation, who were nonresidents, are not essential parties, as a judgment against the corporation will be binding on its officers and agents. Wm. A. Rogers, Limited, v. H. O. Rogers Silver Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 887.

The federal District Court for New York is without jurisdiction over a suit brought by nonresidents on a cause of action arising in Kentucky against a Maryland corporation, which maintained an agent in New York, on whom process was served. Budris v. Consolidation Coal Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 673.

26. —— Transaction of business as affecting venue.—Foreign railway company, whose road lies wholly outside the state of New York, and whose only business is the sale of customary through coupon passenger tickets by local carriers at the latter's ferry terminal, held not doing business in the Southern district of New York, so that process can be served upon it there. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. McKibbin, 37 S. Ct. 280, 243 U. S. 264, 61 L. Ed. 710.

Foreign railway company held not doing business within the state, so as to be amenable to process because so-called subsidiary companies are doing business in the state. Id.

The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company held not to be doing business in Ohio, and not subject to suit in a court of that state.

General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160.

Where foreign corporation was not doing business within state when served, the fact that, after service and removal to federal District Court, property and vessels of corporation came within district and attachment was issued, does not give District Court jurisdiction, though it be material on question of doing business in state. Frontier S. S. Co. v. Franklin, S. S. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 127.

A corporation owning vessel held not to be doing business within the district, so that foreign attachment against its vessel could issue. American Potato Corporation v. Boca Grande S. S. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 542.

Despite Judicial Code, § 53, held, that action against a foreign corporation should, under section 51, be brought in division of district in which plaintiff resided, suit being based on diversity of citizenship, notwithstanding foreign corporation did business in other division of the district. McCullough v. United Grocers'. Corporation (D. C.) 247 F. 880.

Where Virginia railroad company which maintained no lines in New York solicited passenger and freight business in New York, it was not thereby doing business, as solicitors merely sought to obtain business, received no money for freight, and issued no tickets for transportation of passengers. Partola Mfg. Co. v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 250 F. 273.

27. —— Local laws and compliance therewith as affecting venue.—Constructive agreement by corporation to submit to illegal statute as to service of process held not sustainable on anything less than actual knowledge of the statute. King Tonopah Mining Co. v. Lynch (D. C.) 232 F. 485.

Where a foreign corporation is actually doing business in the state, that it has failed to file a certificate required by state laws, showing such fact, does not preclude service of process upon it within such state. Frontier S. S. Co. v. Franklin S. S. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 127.

30. Assignment of cause of action.—Assignee of New York firm all members of which were not citizens of Southern district held, under this section, not entitled to sue nonresident defendants in that district, and, cause having been removed from New York court under section 28 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1010) to Southern district, it should be remanded. Guaranty Trust Co. of New York v. McCabe (C. C. A.) 250 F. 699.

31. Allegations in pleadings.—On allegations that plaintiff was a citizen and a resident of New York City, and that defendant was a Pennsylvania corporation, an action was properly brought in the Southern district of New York. Lehigh Valley Coal Co. v. Washko, 231 F. 42, 145 C. C. A. 230.

(C) Venue dependent on nature of subject matter

31½. Transitory actions in general.—A transitory action follows the person, and may be brought wherever defendant can be found, whether it is an action ex delicto or ex contractu. Mauser v. Union Pac. R. Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 274.

34. Anti-Trust Act.—While bill charging violation of Sherman and Clayton Acts presents federal question, justiciable under Judicial Code, § 24 (a), being Comp. St. 1916, § 991(1), in District Court, regardless of citizenship of parties, yet under this section such suit cannot be brought by original process in any other district than that of which defendant is an inhabitant. Venner v. Pennsylvania Steel Co. of New Jersey (D. C.) 250 F. 292.

Suit to set aside transaction whereby one corporation acquired property of competitor on ground that it was in violation of Sherman and Clayton Acts, must be brought in district wherein defendant is inhabitant, as provided by this section; none of venue provisions of these acts being applicable. Id.

35. Attachment.—Service of process may be had on the owner of a steamship by attachment in any federal district in which the owner's property may be found, though his residence and principal place of business be in another district. American Potato Corp. v. Boca Grande S. S. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 542.

46. Death.—An action under the Virginia statute (Code 1904, § 2902) giving right of action for death resulting from wrongful act, neglect, or default, where, had not death ensued, deceased might have recovered, is transitory; and, statute being remedial, such action can be maintained in federal District Court for district other than that of Virginia. Lauria v. E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 353.

50. Injunction.—Injunction may be granted against subordinates of Secretary of Agriculture for attempting to enforce unlawful orders, though Secretary of Agriculture, not being within district, and not appearing, could not have been enjoined. Brougham v. Blanton Mfg. Co., 243 F. 503, 156 C. C. A. 201.

53. Lien or claim on property.—A suit to establish a lien upon or claim to property brought under Judicial Code, § 57 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1039), may be maintained in federal District Court for state where property is situated, though neither plaintiff nor defendant is a resident thereof. Albert v. Bascom (D. C.) 245 F. 149.

Plaintiffs held not entitled under Judicial Code, § 57, to maintain in federal District Court for state in which was located property suit to subject interest of their trustee in such property to lien; neither plaintiffs nor devisees of trustee being residents of state, and plaintiffs having no lien on any particular property. Id.

Suit against devisees and heirs to subject lands of decedent to payment of debts held one in personam, and hence such suit cannot, under Judicial Code, § 57, be maintained in federal District Court for state in which land was located, where neither plaintiffs nor defendants were residents or citizens. Id.

Suit, which was not one to enforce lien or remove cloud from title, must, where basis of jurisdiction was diversity of citizenship be begun in accordance with Judicial Code, § 51, either in district of residence of complainant or defendant, and cannot be instituted in district wherein property of defendant, transfer of which was attacked, was located. Bank of Commerce & Trust of Richmond, Va., v. McArthur (D. C.) 248 F. 138.

60. Penalties and forfeitures.—An action to recover the penalty provided by section 5 of the Immigration Act of February 20, 1907, amended March 26, 1910 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 4244, 4247, 4250), is not governed by this section, but may, under Rev. St. § 732 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1025), be brought in the district where the imported alien was to perform labor for a foreign corporation. Tomkins v. Paterson (D. C.) 238 F. 879.

61½. Subrogation.—A federal court has jurisdiction of an action at law by sureties to recover the amount they paid under a judgment recovered in the state court of another district. Cooper v. Jewett, 233 F. 618, 147 C. C. A. 426.

Where sureties, having satisfied judgment against their principal in court of foreign state, were subrogated to rights of creditor, a suit in equity to enforce such rights may be maintained in federal District Court of a district not including state where judgment was rendered. Id.

III. WAIVER OF PRIVILEGE TO BE SUED IN PROPER DISTRICT AND OBJECTIONS

See, also, notes under § 1019.

65. Right to waive privilege.—Where jurisdiction of federal court depends upon diversity of citizenship under this section, plaintiff in case of removal has right to insist upon or waive his objection to jurisdiction because district is not proper district. Guaranty Trust Co. of New York v. McCabe (C. C. A.) 250 F. 699.

Under Act March 3, 1887, as amended by Act Aug. 13, 1888, held, that alien's right to object to place of suit or to any defect in service may be waived. Smithson v. Roneo (D. C.) 231 F. 349.

Court of district other than that of defendant's residence held authorized to exercise jurisdiction, where objection is waived and case is within general jurisdiction of federal courts. Tauza v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 294.

Where a foreign corporation is sued in a federal court of a district of which it is not a resident, objection to the jurisdiction may be waived. Rakauskas v. Erie R. Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 495.

In an action in the federal court for the Eastern District of New York, held, that service on ticket agent of defendant, a local corporation not doing business in district, pursuant to Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 432, was not void, but was sufficient as basis for waiver by defendant of objections to jurisdiction. Id.

The statutory provisions as to the particular district in which a suit shall be brought give to defendant a personal privilege as to the venue, which he may insist upon or waive. Champion Spark Plug Co. v. Champion Ignition Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 200.

66. Manner of waiving privilege in general.—Refusal to dismiss when it appears at trial that defendant did not know averments of citizenship and residence were untrue and that action was brought in wrong district held error. Lehigh Valley Coal Co. v. Washko, 231 F. 42, 145 C. C. A. 230.

Defendant, taking no step to stop further prosecution of suit brought in wrong district, held to waive his right. Id.

The objection to the court's want of jurisdiction, because of the fraud by which defendant was brought into the district for service, is not waived by defendant going to trial on the merits, especially when a bill of exceptions was prepared explicitly covering the refusal of the court to set aside the service. Blandin v. Ostrander, 239 F. 700, 152 C. C. A. 534.

In action against corporation, held that, by coupling other objections with an objection to the method of service, it waived defect in service and objection to being brought into the district. Lukosewicz v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 292.

The right of a defendant in a federal court to insist upon its privilege of being sued only in the district of its residence held to have been waived by delay in asserting it. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Swift & Co. (D. C.) 242 F. 92.

68. —— By consent.—Suit in equity to compel issuance of patent under Rev. St. § 4915 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9460), may be brought against the Commissioner of Patents with his consent outside of District of Columbia, when there is no opposing party. Barrett

Co. v. Ewing, 242 F. 506, 155 C. C. A. 282.

69. —— By appearance.—See Keating v. Pennsylvania Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 155.

Right of foreign corporation to challenge jurisdiction held not lost by special appearance to object to jurisdiction by motion to vacate service of summons, nor because of continuance, the order for which directed plaintiff to amend, so as to disclose citizenship. Meisukas v. Greenough Red Ash Coal Co., 37 S. Ct. 593, 244 U. S. 54, 61 L. Ed. 987.

Where defendant appeared specially for the purpose of moving to dismiss, and the notice of appearance so stated, defendant's appearance was special, and did not confer jurisdiction on the court. Yanuszauckas v. Mallory S. S. Co., 232 F. 132, 146 C. C. A. 324.

An application for a general order for extension of time to plead did not give the court jurisdiction, by converting the appearance into a general one. Id.

Averments that plaintiff was a citizen by residence are meaningless, as citizenship can be acquired only by birth and naturalization, so rights of defendant, who was sued in the United States District Court, and appeared specially, are not affected by an amendment wherein plaintiff's alienage was set up. Id.

The right to object to being sued in a district other than that of defendant's or plaintiff's residence is a privilege, which may be waived, and which is waived by a general appearance to contest any matter on the merits. Great Lakes & St. Lawrence Transp. Co. v. Scranton Coal Co., 239 F. 603, 152 C. C. A. 437.

The objection that defendant does not reside in the district in which the suit was brought is one which may be waived by defendant, and is waived by his general appearance and by procuring extensions of time to plead, with the agreement that the issue should be of a day certain. Enright v. Heckscher, 240 F. 863, 153 C. C. A. 549.

Where petition for appointment of receiver of foreign corporation was filed in federal District Court for state wherein it was doing its principal business, corporation's voluntary appearance and filing of answer cured any objections on ground of want of jurisdiction of its person. Scattergood v. American Pipe & Construction Co., 249 F. 23, 161 C. C. A. 83, certiorari granted Hitchcock v. Scattergood, 38 S. Ct. 583, 247 U. S. 516, 62 L. Ed. 1244.

A special appearance to challenge jurisdiction held not converted into a general appearance by obtaining an extension of time to plead by an order reciting that it was without prejudice. Kuzma v. Witherbee, Sherman & Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 286.

Defendants, moving to set aside service and asking for stay until determination of the motion, held not to have waived defect in service. Harasimowicz v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 295.

That a motion for relief in progress of cause was oral does not qualify appearance thus made. Everett Ry., Light & Power Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 236 F. 806.

Appearance, which means coming into court as party in proceeding and asking relief in progress of cause, may be made by a party in person or by his agent. Id.

Waiver by general appearance covers merely right to object to the district in which the case should be heard. Sawickas v. Singer Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 600.

A defendant does not consent to jurisdiction of federal court of particular district by special appearance, even when coupled with an application for extension of time to answer, if the plea be overruled. Budris v. Consolidation Coal Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 673.

A waiver by any act equivalent to a general appearance will confer jurisdiction upon a federal District Court to hear an action brought by an alien against a domestic corporation in a district other than that in which the corporation was organized and of which it was a citizen. Id.

The interposition in a federal District Court of a special appearance to question jurisdiction over the cause of action or of the person of the defendant waives any defect because of the serving a summons of the court in an adjacent district. Id.

A special appearance in federal court for the purpose of securing dismissal of a particular action, because of lack of jurisdiction over defendant, will not be waived by the mere exercise of the jurisdiction with defendant's consent, necessary to hear the motion. Id.

Where defendant appeared specially in federal court, attacking the jurisdiction, a plea in bar on the ground of prior adjudication may also be interposed, as it is not a consent for the exercise of jurisdiction in the particular case, unless interposed before the making of the special plea, or as a waiver thereof, if subsequently made. Id.

That defendant, who appeared specially, objecting to the jurisdiction of the federal court, prayed costs, which the court could not grant, if without jurisdiction, is not a waiver of objections to the jurisdiction. Id.

72. —— By pleading to the merits.—See Sandusky Foundry & Machine Co. v. De Lavaud (D. C.) 251 F. 631.

Objection to jurisdiction that foreign corporation was not doing business within the state held not waived by filing answer to the merits, after motion to vacate service of process had been overruled by federal court, to which cause had been removed. Toledo

Railways & Light Co. v. Hill, 37 S. Ct. 591, 244 U. S. 49, 61 L. Ed. 982.

In action in federal court, defendant, a foreign corporation, by answering to merits and setting up counterclaim, without raising by demurrer question of court's jurisdiction by service on defendant's agent, waived all objections, and cannot thereafter urge them. Moore Filter Co. v. Taugher, 239 F. 105, 151 C. C. A. 279.

In a widow's action to recover for the benefit of herself and her minor children damages provided for by statute for the death of her husband, the defendant appeared generally and answered. Thereafter defendant moved to withdraw its appearance and answer, and file a plea to the jurisdiction on the ground that the District Court, in which suit was had, was without jurisdiction, because defendant resided in another district in a different state and the widow was an alien. Held that, as a plea to the merits waives objections to the jurisdiction, defendant, while entitled to withdraw its answer, could not file a plea to the jurisdiction, and at the same time answer to the merits of the action. Kever v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 814.

74. —— By motion to dismiss.—Defendant held to have waived objection to action by alien in wrong district by moving to dismiss on that ground, and on the further ground that no cause of action had been proved. Lehigh Valley Coal Co. v. Washko, 231 F. 42, 145 C. C. A. 230.

A motion by defendants to dismiss on grounds going to the merits is a waiver of any objection to the venue or jurisdiction of the particular court, where it has general jurisdiction by reason of diversity of citizenship. McLean Lumber Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 237 F. 460.

76. Time to raise objection to avoid waiver.—Defendant, knowing that plaintiff is alien suing in wrong district, may move to dismiss or proceed to trial, but, if not advised of plaintiff's alienage, may raise the point at the trial. Lehigh Valley Coal Co. v. Washko, 231 F. 42, 145 C. C. A. 230.

Where it appears at trial that defendant did not know action was brought in wrong district, right to assign refusal to dismiss as error held not lost by completing the trial. Id.

78. Determination of objections.—See Fitzhugh v. Reid (D. C.) 252 F. 234.

Where facts appear indicating that plaintiff is suing in wrong district, held, that trial may be suspended for production of witnesses on issue of defendant's knowledge thereof when it appeared, joined issue, or went to trial. Lehigh Valley Coal Co. v. Washko, 231 F. 42, 145 C. C. A. 230.

Issue as to defendant's knowledge that action is brought in wrong district, when it appeared, joined issue, or went to trial, held determinable by the judge. Id.

IV. PROCESS

79. District to which process may issue.—In action against corporation, held, that valid judgment could not be rendered unless defendant was served within the district, or voluntarily appeared, and service on designated agent in another district was not valid. Lukosewicz v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 292.

The ordinary monition may issue in any district where a shipowner maintains a statutory agent on whom process can be served. American Potato Corporation v. Boca Grande S. S. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 542.

The federal Circuit Court in controversies cognizable in equity has jurisdiction throughout the limits of the state wherein it sits, and its process runs to any and all federal districts within the state where proper notice and opportunity to be heard was given. Samuel v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Tex. Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 246.

80. Service of process.—Resident director and vice president of a foreign corporation may not be served with process in action against such corporation not doing business in the state. Toledo Railways & Light Co. v. Hill, 37 S. Ct. 591, 244 U. S. 49, 61 L. Ed. 982.

Finding that superintendent of foreign corporation's mill was not agent or attorney for purpose of service of process held not unsupported by the evidence, and not erroneous. Boultbee v. International Paper Co., 229 F. 951, 144 C. C. A. 233.

Authority of alleged agent of foreign corporation to receive service of process held dependent upon his character, the surrounding facts, and proper inferences therefrom. Id.

A sales agent held not to have been managing agent of foreign corporation, on whom process against the corporation could be served, under Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 432, subd. 3. American Oil & Supply Co. v. Western Gas Const. Co., 239 F. 505, 152 C. C. A. 383.

Service upon vice president and general manager of foreign corporation held sufficient, if he was within the district upon corporate business. Twin Lakes Land & Water Co. v. Dohner, 242 F. 399, 155 C. C. A. 175.

In suit against English corporation, which owned stock in New York corporation, service of process on managing director while in the country on pleasure trip, during which he conducted some business negotiations, held not a valid service. Smithson v. Roneo (D. C.) 231 F. 349.

Foreign corporation held not entitled to object to service on officer who, on pleasure trip, exercises official connection with company in conduct of its ordinary business, and is served in such capacity. Id.

Service of process on corporation's designated agent in another district of the same state held to be set aside. Tauza v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 294.

Where corporations had no regular place of business or representative in Eastern district of New York, service on sales agent residing therein, but having office in the Southern district, held insufficient. Harasimowicz v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 295.

Where affidavit to quash service of process on vice president of foreign corporation, while in state and district, did not clearly show vice president was not within district on corporate business or that corporation was not doing business therein, question will be referred to a master. Ryan v. Ohmer (D. C.) 233 F. 165.

Where an agent of a foreign corporation was temporarily within the state and federal district upon private business, service upon him is not a binding service upon the corporation. Id.

Where a foreign corporation files a certificate within a state and designates an agent, the corporation does not thus become an actual resident of a federal district within the state wherein it has no place of business, and service of summons on the agent in another district does not confer jurisdiction upon the District Court of the former district. Rakauskas v. Erie R. Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 495.

Notwithstanding this section, in a suit in a federal court in a district of which defendant is not a resident, the court is without jurisdiction to render a personal judgment without personal service on defendant within the district. Dutton v. First Nat. Bank of Waycross, Ga. (D. C.) 244 F. 236; Albert v. Bascom (D. C.) 245 F. 149.

82. —— Service procured by fraud or force.—On motion to set aside service of summons for fraud, evidence held to show that defendant was induced by a friend of plaintiff to come into district of plaintiff's residence, so that plaintiff might serve him there, by false representations, that the friend desired to meet defendant on business. Blandin v. Ostrander, 239 F. 700, 152 C. C. A. 534.

Where plaintiff expected a friend to give him assistance in procuring service on defendant in the district of plaintiff's residence, he is responsible for the fraud of the friend in procuring defendant's presence, though he did not know that fraud was employed. Id.

Where federal industrial mediator, resident of Colorado, voluntarily went from California to Hot Springs, Ark., to secure treatment for illness, and there was served with process from Arkansas court by plaintiffs, guilty of no fraud in inducing him to go to Arkansas, though all witnesses were residents of Colorado, Wyoming, and California, plaintiff was properly sued in Arkansas, action being transitory, and it was not abuse of process. Fitzhugh v. Reid (D. C.) 252 F. 234.

Party ordinarily has right to institute and maintain transitory action in any court of competent jurisdiction where personal service can be had on defendant whereby court obtains jurisdiction of person; but if, by sham transfers or trickery, to force payment of unjust claim, suit is instituted in court whose jurisdiction could not have been invoked except by fraud, institution constitutes abuse of process. Id.

84. —— Return of service.—An erroneous statement in the return of process cannot prevail against the sworn statement in the petition that defendant surety company is a corporation of Oklahoma, which statement is conclusive on the point against plaintiff. U. S. v. Southern Dredging Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 400.

85. Privileges and exemptions.—Under the rule of the federal courts, a witness within a jurisdiction foreign to him to give testimony is protected from service of process while there, and in coming and going. Central Ry. Signal Co. v. Jackson (D. C.) 238 F. 625.

CITED WITHOUT DEFINITE APPLICATION

Arbetter Felling Mach. Co. v. Lewis Blind Stitch Mach. Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 992; Ostrom v. Edison (D. C.) 244 F. 228; Champion Spark Plug Co. v. Champion Ignition Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 200.

§ 1034. (Jud. Code, § 52.) Suits in States containing more than one district.

See Thomas v. South Butte Mining Co., 230 F. 968, 145 C. C. A. 162.

In general.—The residence and citizenship of one necessary defendant in the judicial district and the appropriate division will, at the suit of a citizen of another state, draw to the federal court there the rights of all concerned, if essential to complete determination. Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 232 F. 921.

Under this section, Judicial Code, § 57 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1039), and equity rule 37 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2512), where some defendants were residents of Southern district of Georgia and were claiming adversely to plaintiffs, appointment of administrators residing in Northern district held not to divest jurisdiction of District Court for Southern district. Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 242 F. 561.

Under this section, suit against several defendants, some of whom resided in Northern and some in Southern district of Florida, though not local, may be maintained in Southern district. Bank of Commerce & Trust of Richmond, Va., v. McArthur (D. C.) 248 F. 138.

District in which suit may or must be brought.—Under Judiciary Act, § 52, suit for negligence and misconduct of national bank directors, living part in one and part in the other of two federal court districts of a state, may be brought in either. Dudley v. Hawkins (D. C.) 239 F. 386.

—— Waiver of privilege to be sued in proper district.—Under this section, if there be but one defendant, he may waive being sued in the wrong district, but where there are two or more defendants residing in different districts, then to reach the defendants not residing in the district, suit must be brought as the statute directs, etc. Primos Chemical Co. v. Fulton Steel Corporation (D. C.) 254 F. 454.

§ 1035. (Jud. Code, § 53.) Districts containing more than one division; where suit to be brought; transfer of criminal cases.

See Thomas v. South Butte Mining Co., 230 F. 968, 145 C. C. A. 162.

Division of district in which suit may be brought.—Despite this section held, that action against a foreign corporation should, under section 51, be brought in division of district in which plaintiff resided, suit being based on diversity of citizenship, notwithstanding foreign corporation did business in other division of the district. McCullough v. United Grocers' Corporation (Ohio) 247 F. 880.

Prosecutions for crimes.—Under this section an indictment cannot be found in a division other than the one in which the offense was committed. U. S. v. Chennault (D. C.) 230 F. 942.

§ 1036. (Jud. Code, § 54.) Suits of a local nature, where brought.

"Inhabitant" and "resident" defined.—See Thomas v. South Butte Mining Co., 230 F. 968, 145 C. C. A. 162.

Jurisdiction and venue in local actions or suits.—Where the United States Circuit Court for the Eastern District of Tennessee had jurisdiction of a suit to quiet plaintiff's title to land alleged to be in Tennessee, and to cancel defendants' grants from North Carolina, its decree for complainant was conclusive of the rights of parties, and available to the complainant and to those claiming under him, against the defendants and those claiming under them. Ferguson v. Babcock Lumber & Land Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 705.

After a decree for complainant in the United States Circuit Court for the Eastern District of Tennessee, in a suit to quiet title to land involving the question of its location in Tennessee or in North Carolina, the Circuit Court's dismissal of a bill of review on the merits, affirmed on appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals, and on certiorari by the United States Supreme Court, all after discovery of a plat showing that the land was in North Carolina, amounted to an affirmation of the validity of the Circuit Court's original decree. Id.

An adjudication of the United States Supreme Court in a suit between the two states that the land was in North Carolina, made pending the bill of review, did not impair the validity of that decree. Id.

—— Creditors' suit for appointment of receiver.—A suit for the appointment of receivers to conserve and protect the assets of a corporation is one of a local nature, within this section, and under section 55 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1037) cannot be maintained in a district wherein the corporation was not domiciled and had no property of a fixed nature. Primos Chemical Co. v. Fulton Steel Corporation (D. C.) 254 F. 454.

Issuance of process.—In a suit of a local nature, where process is served on a defendant residing in a different district in the same state, under this section the summons must issue to the marshal of such district. Kuzma v. Witherbee, Sherman & Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 286; Vitkus v. Clyde S. S. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 288.

§ 1037. (Jud. Code, § 55.) When property lies in different districts.

Suit of local nature.—A suit for the appointment of receivers to conserve and protect the assets of a corporation is one of a local nature, within Judicial Code, § 54 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1036), and under this section cannot be maintained in a district wherein the corporation was not domiciled and had no property of a fixed nature. Primos Chemical Co. v. Fulton Steel Corporation (D. C.) 254 F. 454.

Property of fixed nature or character.—A lease of real estate for a term of years is "personal property," and is not property of a fixed nature or character, within this section. Primos

Chemical Co. v. Fulton Steel Corporation (D. C.) 254 F. 454.

Though a corporation which had its domicile and carried on its business in the Northern District of New York admitted the jurisdiction of the District Court of the Southern District, wherein it had a small bank account, and had leased offices, over a suit for the appointment of a receiver, held, that the District Court of the Southern District was without jurisdiction, under this section; the suit being of a local nature, and no property in that district being of a fixed character or nature. Id.

Money deposited becomes the property of the bank, and the relation between the bank and depositor is simply that of debtor and creditor, so a deposit is not "property of a fixed character," within this section. Id.

§ 1038. (Jud. Code, § 56.) When property lies in different States in same circuit; jurisdiction of receiver.

Disapproval of appointment.—Under this section and Judicial Code, § 129 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1121), Circuit Judge or Circuit Court of Appeals in original proceeding held not authorized to disapprove appointment of receiver, but only assumption of control over property outside the district of his appointment. In re Brown, 242 F. 452. 155 C. C. A. 228.

Original proceeding for disapproval of order of District Court under which receiver appointed by it is exercising control over property outside the district held to be dismissed. when order of disapproval was not obtained within 30 days. Id.

Protection of property in hands of receiver.—A national court, which has jurisdiction of a suit in it to foreclose a mortgage upon the property of a public service corporation which is operating in three states under a receiver of its property in one of the states appointed by a state court, and under the same person appointed a receiver of its property in the two other states by the national court, and directed by that court to operate the business and property of the corporation in the three states as a unit, under the direction of the state court until further orders of the national court, has jurisdiction, on the petition of the receiver, to prevent the public utilities commissions of the states from destroying or irreparably injuring the business or property of the receiver and the corporation by making or enforcing unreasonably low and confiscatory rates for the sale of their product (in this case natural gas) to the purchasers from them in those states. Landon v. Public Utilities Commission of Kansas (D. C.) 234 F. 152.

§ 1039. (Jud. Code, § 57.) Absent defendants in suits to enforce liens, remove clouds on titles, etc.

2. Construction of statute in general.—To sustain jurisdiction the court must be able to grant full relief in rem. O'Neil v. Birdseye (D. C.) 244 F. 254.

3. Application and operation of statute in general.—Where a state chancery court acquired jurisdiction against a nonresident defendant the federal District Court, on removal, will not set aside the service as not authorized by this section as it is limited to federal courts. Hudson Nav. Co. v. Murray (D. C.) 236 F. 419.

Under Judicial Code, §§ 52, 57, and equity rule 37 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2512), where some defendants were residents of Southern district of Georgia and were claiming adversely to plaintiffs, appointment of administrators residing in Northern district held not to divest jurisdiction of District Court for Southern district. Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 242 F. 561.

5. "Property within the district" within the statute.—See Sherman Nat. Bank of New York v. Shubert Theatrical Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 225.

Cerificates of shares of capital stock of joint-stock association or partnership held valuable property, on which legal process may be levied, when they are within state and substituted service may be had against owner, though he be a nonresident and joint-stock company be also nonresident, having no property in state. Beal v. Carpenter, 235 F. 273, 148 C. C. A. 633.

On a bill in the United States Circuit Court for the Eastern District of Tennessee to quiet title to land, etc., a necessary party defendant, resident in North Carolina, who had been legally served and thereby required to meet the allegations that the land was in Tennessee, by his default admitted that the land was in that state, and brought himself within this section, so as to entitle the court to enter judgment against him. Ferguson v. Babcock Lumber & Land Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 705.

In a suit to redeem stock of New York corporation, whose by-laws were not shown to differ from the ordinary by-laws in regard to the transfer of corporate stock, which stock had been sold by the pledgee in violation of the pledgor's rights, a transferee of the stock, not residing in the district in which the suit was brought, to whom the stock had not yet been transferred on the books of the corporation, is a necessary party, and may be joined as defendant, since, under Stock Corporation Law N. Y. (Consol. Laws, c. 59) § 50, providing that the stock of a corporation shall be transferable in the manner prescribed in that law and in the by-laws of the company, it is the transfer on the books that passes the title, and the court therefore has jurisdiction over the stock under this section. Gideon v. Representative Securities Corporation (D. C.) 232 F. 184.

Bill by a New Jersey corporation to have stock issued to nonresident defendant declared invalid cannot be defeated on the theory that the corporation fraudulently brought the certificates into the state; the stock itself having a situs in the state because of location of corporation. Hudson Nav. Co. v. Murray (D. C.) 236 F. 419.

6. "Lien on or claim to property" within the statute.—A railroad company which had leased some of its cars to a Pennsylvania corporation was adjudged an insolvent after having executed a refunding and extensions mortgage to secure an issue of bonds. Default having been made in payment of the bonds after appointment of the receiver, the mortgage was foreclosed and the property of the railroad company bought in by another corporation, which was not a citizen of Pennsylvania. Complainant, a holder of a number of the bonds, though not a citizen of Pennsylvania, attempted, by suit in a Pennsylvania district, against the lessee and the railroad company and the purchaser, to secure an accounting and to enforce application of the amount due on the lease to payment of its bonds. Held, that this section contemplates the enforcement of a lien on some tangible property, and not the mere enforcement of a chose in action. Therefore complainant, particularly as its rights under the bonds were not adjudicated, could not maintain the suit against the railroad company or its receiver; the Pennsylvania court not having jurisdiction. Wabash R. Co. v. West Side Belt R. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 645.

Creditor cannot, where he was given no lien by contract, justify maintenance of suit in district other than that of debtor's residence, on ground that it was to enforce lien on specific personal property in district, and within this section, where such creditor had not acquired any lien by levy of execution. Bank of Commerce & Trust of Richmond, Va., v. McArthur (D. C.) 248 F. 138.

7. "Found within district" within the statute.—A party enticed by false representations by plaintiff, or one acting in his behalf, to enter the district for the purpose of making service upon him, cannot be said to be "found within the district." Blandin v. Ostrander, 239 F. 700, 152 C. C. A. 534.

8½. Residence of plaintiff.—See Thomas v. South Butte Mining Co., 230 F. 968, 145 C. C. A. 162.

A suit to establish a lien upon or claim to property brought under this section, may be maintained in federal District Court for state where property is situated, though neither plaintiff nor defendant is a resident thereof. Albert v. Bascom (D. C.) 245 F. 149.

9. Suit to enforce lien on or claim to property within the statute in general.—Under this section the lien must be a pre-existing one, and not one caused by the institution of the suit itself. Albert v. Bascom (D. C.) 245 F. 149.

Plaintiffs held not entitled under this section to maintain in federal District Court for state in which was located property in suit to subject interest of their trustee in such property to lien; neither plaintiffs nor devisees of trustee being residents of state, and plaintiffs having no lien on any particular property. Id.

A railroad company, against which it was adjudged that dividends paid directly to its stockholders as rental by the lessee of all its property, constituted net income subject to federal corporation tax, brought suit in equity to have such taxes declared an equitable lien upon such dividends in the hands of lessee. Held, that the stockholders were indispensable parties, but that nonresidents could be brought in by publication under this section. Rensselaer & Saratoga R. Co. v. Irwin (D. C.) 252 F. 921.

11. —— Creditors' suit.—Suit against devisees and heirs to subject lands of decedent to payment of debts held one in personam, and hence such suit cannot, under this section, be maintained in federal District Court for state in which land was located, where neither plaintiffs nor defendants were residents or citizens. Albert v. Bascom (D. C.) 245 F. 149.

21. Suit to remove incumbrance, lien or cloud on title—Cancellation of conveyances or instruments.—In a suit to cancel stock certificates on the ground that they were illegally issued and cast a cloud on the title of the plaintiff corporation, it is immaterial, defendant being absent and process being sought under Judicial Code, § 57, whether the certificates are within the district. Hudson Nav. Co. v. Murray (D. C.) 233 F. 466.

Under Judicial Code, § 57, suit cannot be maintained in the district where corporation was organized to set aside illegally issued stock, where the corporation's property was not located in that district. Id.

24. —— Fraudulent conveyances and transfers.—The District Court cannot, under this section, obtain jurisdiction by substituted service over nonresident assignees in a suit by trustee in bankruptcy to set aside as a preference an assignment of a debt owing to bankrupt by a nonresident. Murphy v. Ford Motor Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 134.

Suit, which was not one to enforce lien or remove cloud from title, must, where basis of jurisdiction was diversity of citizenship be begun in accordance with Judicial Code, § 51, either in district of residence of complainant or defendant, and cannot be instituted in district wherein property of defendant, transfer of which was attacked, was located. Bank of Commerce & Trust of Richmond, Va., v. McArthur (D. C.) 248 F. 138.

Under this section, suit to set aside transfers of personalty by debtor, and to have property declared that of debtor and subjected to payment of his debts, is not one to remove cloud from title to property, so as to be maintainable in district wherein property was located, where neither complainant nor debtor resided therein. Id.

38. Person on whom substituted service may be made.—Default judgment rendered by District Court for Eastern District of Tennessee against defendant, upon whom substituted service was made in North Carolina, held binding upon such defendant. Babcock Lumber & Land Co. v. Ferguson (D. C.) 243 F. 623.

Cited without definite application, Sherman Nat. Bank v. Shubert Theatrical Co. (C. C. A.) 247 F. 256; General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160; Dutton v. First Nat. Bank of Waycross, Ga. (D. C.) 244 F. 236.

§ 1047. (Jud. Code, § 65.) Receivers to manage property according to State laws.

I. CONSTRUCTION AND OPERATION OF STATUTE

2. Applicability of state statutes and practice in general.—In view of the power exercised by Pennsylvania state courts, federal District Court for Pennsylvania held to have authority to appoint temporary receiver for New Jersey corporation in financial difficulties, where its principal business was being carried on in Pennsylvania. Scattergood v. American Pipe & Construction Co., 249 F. 23, 161 C. C. A. 83, certiorari granted Hitchcock v. Scattergood, 38 S. Ct. 583, 247 U. S. 516, 62 L. Ed. 1244.

II. NATURE AND GROUNDS OF RECEIVERSHIP

(A) Nature and subjects of remedy

3. Nature and purpose of remedy.—Equity is sedulous to prevent use of preliminary injunction or appointment of receiver to perform function of ejectment. Folk v. U. S., 233 F. 177, 147 C. C. A. 183.

Where appointment is not for specific purpose and there are no controlling state statutes or decisions, appointment of receiver of property by federal court is to protect and preserve all rights and interests therein. Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Great Shoshone & Twin Falls Water Power Co., 245 F. 697, 158 C. C. A. 99, affirming decree (D. C.) 228 F. 516.

Appointing of receiver is ordinarily a harsh remedy, and such relief will only be granted in clear case. U. S. v. Honolulu Consol. Oil Co. (D. C.) 249 F. 167.

7. Discretion of court.—One complaining of the denial of his motion for appointment of a receiver pending suit, in order to prevail, must show a right to the appointment of the receiver as a matter of law, and that the trial court grossly abused its discretion in denying the motion. American Manganese Steel Co. v. Alaska Mines Corp. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 614.

8. Persons entitled to appointment.—A federal court of equity held without jurisdiction to appoint a receiver of the assets of an individual debtor, and to enjoin prosecution of actions against him, at suit of a mere contract creditor without lien or security. Davis v. Hayden, 238 F. 734, 151 C. C. A. 584.

Directors of railroad company, acting in good faith, with approval of majority of stockholders, held to have power to initiate proceedings for receivership through friendly suit by bona fide creditor. Intercontinental Rubber Co. v. Boston & M. R. R. (D. C.) 245 F. 122.

(B) Grounds of appointment of receiver

9½. Grounds in general.—A receiver cannot be appointed by the federal court on the theory that the administration was vacant, because temporary administrators appointed pursuant to Georgia practice had no power to carry on the decedent's business. Smith v. Jennings, 238 F. 48, 151 C. C. A. 124, reversing order Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 232 F. 921.

In action by corporation which had lost its charter for failure to pay tax, held that there was no imperative reason for appointment of receiver. Stark Electric R. Co. v. McGinty Contracting Co., 238 F. 657, 151 C. C. A. 507.

Where defendant was not insolvent, and no irreparable injury could result from refusal, the denial of complainant's motion for appointment of a receiver, to take into custody property which complainant asserted it was entitled to subject to its claim, was not error. American Manganese Steel Co.

v. Alaska Mines Corp. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 614.

In a suit to subject to its claim property in the possession of defendant, etc., the denial of complainant's motion for the appointment of a receiver held proper, on the ground that defendant's assets were considerably in excess of its liabilities, and were not in danger of loss from insolvency, etc. American Manganese Steel Co. v. Alaska Mines Corp. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 614.

A receiver should not be appointed for a corporation, thereby impairing its credit, interfering with its management, and imposing upon the court the onerous duty of corporate management, except in extreme cases. Shera v. Carbon Steel Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 589.

10. Right or interest in property requiring protection.—It is the general rule that a court of equity will not appoint receiver of realty or its proceeds, in possession of defendant holding under regular title during pendency of suit. Folk v. U. S., 233 F. 177, 147 C. C. A. 183.

12. Preservation and protection of property in general.—Where appointment is not for specific purpose and there are no controlling state statutes or decisions, appointment of receiver of property by federal court is to protect and preserve all rights and interests therein. Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Great Shoshone & Twin Falls Water Power Co., 245 F. 697, 158 C. C. A. 99, affirming decree (D. C.) 228 F. 516.

A court of equity may appoint receiver for private corporation discharging public functions to act as caretaker of its assets and allow corporation to gather its resources to discharge obligations and continue operation. Scattergood v. American Pipe & Const. Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 712.

Though New Jersey corporation doing business in Pennsylvania might under New Jersey laws be subject to dissolution on account of insolvency, etc., held, that federal District Court in Pennsylvania might appoint receiver to act as caretaker, purpose of suit being to enable corporation to continue business. Id.

13. Preservation of property pending litigation in general.—To authorize appointment of receiver of realty in possession of defendant under regular title, there must be clear proof of imminent danger that property will be wasted, that plaintiff will suffer irreparable loss, and that there is a strong probability that plaintiff will ultimately recover. Folk v. U. S., 233 F. 177, 147 C. C. A. 183.

In suit by United States and Creek Tribe of Indians to avoid enrollment, allotment, and patent to defendants, where there was no satisfactory evidence of imminent danger of deterioration, irreparable loss to plaintiffs, or probability of plaintiffs' ultimate recovery, appointment of receiver was erroneous. Id.

An intervener, claiming rights under an oil lease adverse to those in controversy between the original parties, held entitled to protection through a receivership pending determination of the suit. Producers' Oil Co. v. U. S., 245 F. 651, 158 C. C. A. 79.

Bill by the United States, alleging that defendants wrongfully entered into and held possession of mineral and oil lands belonging to the United States, setting up fraud in the entry, but failing to show that any proceeding was pending in land office to determine the right of defendants to the lands, was insufficient to warrant appointment of receiver by the court, pending the determination on the application for patent. Devil's Den Consol. Oil Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 548.

The right of a court of chancery, pending outcome of a suit therein, to protect property in issue, as accrued and accruing rents of realty, and preserve its status, by appointment of a receiver, is clear. Ward v. Central Trust Co. of Illinois (C. C. A.) 252 F. 127.

In a suit by the United States as owner to restrain waste on public lands by the extraction and sale of oil therefrom, complainant held entitled to the appointment of a receiver. U. S. v. McCutchen (D. C.) 234 F. 702.

A court may properly appoint a receiver for public oil lands, on application by the government, where oil is being extracted by one in possession under an entry alleged to be fraudulent and unlawful. U. S. v. Devil's Den Consol. Oil Co. (D. C.) 236 F. 973.

14. —— Insolvency or misconduct of party in possession as against claimant.—The appointment of a receiver to hold funds in defendant's possession pending litigation held proper, in view of the charges that he was a trustee ex maleficio, and that in connection with the transaction he had been convicted of using the mails to defraud. Cook v. Flagg, 233 F. 426, 147 C. C. A. 362.

Where railroad corporation is unable to pay currently accruing interest, it is actually insolvent, and its property being insufficient security for mortgage debt, it may be placed in hands of receiver. Lowenthal v. Georgia Coast & P. R. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 1010.

By "insolvency" of railroad company is meant inability to meet its obligations as they mature in the ordinary course of business, and at same time to carry on its business in proper way, and perform its public duties. Intercontinental Rubber Co. v. Boston & M. R. R. (D. C.) 245 F. 122.

15. Security for payment of demand.—Where temporary administrators had given sufficient bond, and a number of them were persons of property, a receiver cannot be appointed by the federal court on the ground of waste or dissipation of assets, though administrators were claimed to have exceeded their authority. Smith v. Jennings, 238 F. 48, 151 C. C. A. 124, reversing order Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 232 F. 921.

Receivership denied in a suit by the United States to recover oil lands, conditioned on the giving of bond by defendants. U. S. v. Dominion Oil Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 425.

17. Defenses and grounds of opposition.—In proceeding against railroad company to foreclose mortgage given to secure bonds, held, that receiver might be appointed, notwithstanding majority of bondholders had agreed that so-called committee should have complete control of railroad as well as right of disposal, etc. Lowenthal v. Georgia Coast & P. R. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 1016, decree affirmed Georgia Coast & P. R. Co. v. Lowenthal (C. C. A.) 238 F. 795.

Where temporary administrators had given adequate bond, and additional temporary administrators qualified to act had been appointed, right of original administrators cannot be questioned in a suit to secure appointment of receiver by federal court on ground that appointment was result of fraud and irregularities. Smith v. Jennings, 238 F. 48, 151 C. C. A. 124, reversing order Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 232 F. 921.

III. APPOINTMENT AND QUALIFICATION

19. Jurisdiction and authority of court or judge.—See United Copper Securities Co. v. Amalgamated Copper Co., 37 S. Ct. 509, 244 U. S. 261, 61 L. Ed. 1119, affirming judgment 223 F. 421, 139 C. C. A. 15; Landon v. Public Utilities Commission of Kansas (D. C.) 234 F. 152; Pacific Coast Pipe Co. v. Conrad City Water Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 673.

Federal court in exercise of its general equity jurisdiction has power to appoint a receiver on a stockholder's bill, determine corporation's solvency, and distribute its assets, and no state statute can impair or destroy that power. O'Neil v. Welch, 245 F. 261, 157 C. C. A. 453, reversing decree Welch v. Union Casualty Ins. Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 968.

Bill seeking appointment of corporate receiver should be dismissed by court on its own motion, when it appears that court is without jurisdiction, regardless of how knowledge of that fact may be acquired. Scattergood v. American Pipe & Construction Co., 249 F. 23, 161 C. C. A. 83, certiorari granted Hitchcock v. Scattergood, 38 S. Ct. 583, 247 U. S. 516, 62 L. Ed. 1244.

21. Appointment on consent of parties.—Consent of directors of a corporation to the appointment of receivers held to have been given in good faith, and not through fraud or collusion. Guaranty Trust Co. of New York v. International Steam Pump Co., 231 F. 594, 145 C. C. A. 480.

Where creditors extended time and were given representation on board of directors, a receiver will not be appointed at suit of dissatisfied creditor, though concurred in by president of corporation, unless there is a threatened injury to creditors or stockholders. Bassett v. Bickford Bros. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 895.

President of corporation, who before it got into difficulties was allowed to conduct its affairs, cannot, after creditors, who extended time for payment, were given representation on board of directors, authorize appointment of receiver to liquidate corporate property. Id.

24. Parties on application.—Where court appointing receiver of financially embarrassed corporation had jurisdiction of subject-matter and corporation, stockholder cannot merely by virtue of his interest as such intervene and attack appointment. Scattergood v. American Pipe & Construction Co., 249 F. 23, 161 C. C. A. 83, certiorari granted Hitchcock v. Scattergood, 38 S. Ct. 583, 247 U. S. 516, 62 L. Ed. 1244.

A majority stockholder held not a necessary party to a suit by a minority stockholder for the appointment of a receiver for stocks of subsidiary companies alleged to be illegally held by the corporation. General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160.

25. Notice of application.—On showing as to danger of irreparable injury, appointment of receiver for fraternal society without notice, subject to be vacated or modified after hearing, held not an abuse of discretion. Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum v. Hobart, 244 F. 385, 157 C. C. A. 11.

31. Conditions on refusing application.—Receivership denied in a suit by the United States to recover oil lands, conditioned on the giving of bond by defendants. U. S. v. Dominion Oil Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 425.

36. Extension of receivership and subsequent appointments in other actions and proceedings.—Where entire railway system was in possession of receiver for benefit of holders of all liens, and all issues involved would have to be decided by same court, it was not abuse of discretion to extend receivership over that part of railway's property covered by another mortgage, and to refuse to appoint separate receiver thereof. Bankers' Trust Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 789.

That railroad receiver had expressed his views to those engaged in formulating a plan of reorganization held not sufficient cause for appointing an additional receiver. Central Trust Co. of New York v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 246 F. 154.

38. Effect of irregular or invalid appointment.—Under Rev. Codes Mont. § 6698, bill held to give court jurisdiction to appoint receiver for water company, and appointment was not subject to collateral attack, though mechanic's lien alleged was trivial or fictitious, and conditions as to company's finances fanciful or grossly exaggerated. Pacific Coast Pipe Co. v. Conrad City Water Co., 245 F. 846, 158 C. C. A. 186, affirming judgment (D. C.) 237 F. 673.

41. Revocation or modification of appointment.—Though under circumstances apopintment of receiver to carry on business of bankrupt corporation formed to manufacture tractors appeared to have been justified, as necessary for preservation of property and for best interests of estate, trial court is entitled to know all the facts in case, and, where appointment was induced by misrepresentations, receivership may be set aside. In re Veler, 249 F. 633, 161 C. C. A. 543.

Where District Judge, after appointing receiver, became suspicious that he had been imposed upon, two courses were open to him: To direct some procedure for framing of issues by which parties charged with misconduct might know charge and have opportunity to try fact, or to satisfy himself by summary inquiry as to whether such proceeding should be instituted; summary determination that courts had been imposed upon, without framing issues, was improper. Id.

43. Duration and termination of receivership in general.—Under Act March 19, 1889 (Acts 21st Leg. c. 59) § 6, a railroad redelivered by receivers appointed by the federal courts held liable in the state courts in an action begun against the receivers for damages caused by the receivers' acts regardless of the terms of the decree or redelivery. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Weaver (Tex. Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 591.

44. Removal.—Fraternal society, which appeared and obtained modifications of decree appointing receiver without notice, held in no position to claim that omission of notice prejudiced its rights. Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum v. Hobart, 244 F. 385, 157 C. C. A. 11.

IV. TITLE TO AND POSSESSION OF PROPERTY

46. Effect of appointment and qualification of receiver.—A receivership does not operate as an attachment or execution, but is no more than a sequestration of property for safe-keeping, leaving the question as to who is entitled thereto for subsequent determination. Johnson v. Garner (D. C.) 233 F. 756.

One securing the appointment of a receiver to take possession of the property of defendant and an injunction against alienation does not for that reason obtain a lien or preference over other interested parties. Id.

47. Property vesting in receiver in general.—Claim for rent falling due after mortgage receiver took possession held to go to him, and not to general creditors, and to pass under his assignment of claims against lessee. Pennsylvania Steel Co. v. New York City Ry. Co., 231 F. 442, 145 C. C. A. 434, 436, modifying decree (D. C.) 225 F. 96.

Such rent held to belong to company, so as to pass to the receivers, and not to its stockholders. Id.

Receivers appointed in foreclosure suit held entitled to custody only of the property subject to the mortgage and involved in the litigation, not including trustee's rights under collateral agreement against third party. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571, 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 478.

Despite Code W. Va. 1906, c. 32, § 136 (Code W. Va. 1913, c. 32, § 136 [sec. 1269]); chapter 53, § 59 (Code W. Va. 1913, c. 53, § 59 [sec. 2891]), held that corporation which lost its charter for failure to pay corporate license tax might sue on contract previously entered into. Stark Electric R. Co. v. McGinty Contracting Co., 238 F. 657, 151 C. C. A. 507.

Where corporation loses its charter for failure to pay corporate license taxes, held, on recovery of assets in suit by corporation, such assets constitute a trust fund, to be distributed by directors. Id.

The appointment of a receiver, who took charge of the property of an Ohio manufacturer, including that which had been delivered under a trust receipt, which was neither verified nor filed as required by Gen. Code Ohio, § 8568, fastens the claims of creditors upon it as effectually as though the creditors had seized the same under attachment or levy of execution. In re Bettman-Johnson Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 657.

Receiver of a railroad company held to succeed to the right of the company to use an improvement fund created under the provisions of a mortgage. Union Trust Co. of New York v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 809.

49. Title or right acquired by receiver in general.—If the receiver of a corporation, substantially benefited by the unauthorized acts of its chief owner and manager in operating the business, prefers still to insist on the enforcement of the legal consequences of such acts, the court can merely administer the law as it is, without regard to considerations beyond its sphere. Wood v. Todd (C. C. A.) 251 F. 530.

53. Protection of possession of receiver in general.—Where receivership for a corporation in difficulties resulted in increased profits, so that indebtedness could be paid and dividends paid on preferred stock, held, that proposed reorganization plan, which would enable preferred stockholders, not entitled to vote, except when dividends were in arrears, to take advantage of the temporary condition and control the corporation, was unfair, so it was proper for the court to stay action at a proposed stockholders' meeting. Graselli Chemical Co. v. Ætna Explosives Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 456.

An order appointing receivers places a corporation in the custody and control of the court, and the court, in addition to restraining the corporation and its officers from exercising any privileges or franchises, may restrain the stockholders from meeting and electing new directors, when such action is for the best interests of all concerned. Id.

54. Interference with possession of receiver and possession thereof.—Consent of federal court having jurisdiction of railroad receivership need not first be had that Public Service Commission of state wherein road is located may promulgate orders to road in exercise of state's police power; Public Service Commission Act Mo. § 2, subsec. 8, including receivers of railroads within the scope of the act. State ex rel. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 197 S. W. 56, 271 Mo. 270.

55. Set-offs and counterclaims against receiver.—Where, when C. Co. became insolvent, it did not own notes of M. Co., delivered to its receiver long afterwards, the receiver could not offset them against claim of M. Co.'s receiver. Pennsylvania Steel Co. v. New York City Ry. Co., 231 F. 440, 145 C. C. A. 434, 436, modifying decree (D. C.) 217 F. 423.

57. Liens on and adverse claims to property.—A receiver of an insolvent corporation takes the property subject to existing liens; the fact of insolvency and the appointment of the receiver not impairing a valid contract lien. Schmidtman v. Atlantic Phosphate & Oil Corp., 230 F. 769, 145 C. C. A. 79.

A traffic contract between two railroad companies to continue for a stated time held to create no lien on the property or income of one of the parties, but to be terminable by its receiver, subject only to a general claim for damages for breach. Baker v. Central Trust Co. of New York, 235 F. 17, 148 C. C. A. 511.

58. Remedies to establish or enforce liens or claims.—In suit by corporation which had lost its charter for failure to pay corporate license taxes, held that it would be presumed that the purpose of the suit was to collect assets for distribution. Stark Electric R. Co. v. McGinty Contracting Co., 238 F. 657, 151 C. C. A. 507.

Jurisdiction of federal Circuit Court in receivership proceedings wherein title to land was involved held not limited to discovering then existing state of facts as to title. Samuel v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Tex. Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 246.

59. Remedies of general creditors as against property.—Where, after receivership pendente lite other creditors of defendant reduced their claims to judgment, held that, on distribution of his estate, the court after his death determining to distribute estate, they are entitled to the priority given by Rev. Laws Nev. § 6052. Johnson v. Garner (D. C.) 233 F. 756.

V. MANAGEMENT AND DISPOSITION OF PROPERTY

(A) Administration in general

61. Representation by receiver of court and parties.—A receiver of a corporation is appointed on behalf of all parties interested, and he represents the stockholders, as well as the creditors. Graselli Chemical Co. v. Ætna Explosives Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 456.

The general rule that a receiver for a corporation can recover only in the right of the corporation is not universally applicable, but the receiver represents, not only the corporation, but its creditors and stockholders, and is also an instrument of the court, and may be used to establish and protect the equitable rights of all parties in interest. Drennen v. Southern States Fire Ins. Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 776.

62. Authority of receiver in general.—Though only small part of corporation stock had been subscribed, held, that there was a de facto corporation and that receiver could collect subscriptions for purpose of paying bona fide creditors. Allen v. Rhodes, 230 F. 321, 144 C. C. A. 463.

64. Custody, use, and care of property.—The real custodian of property in the hands of a receiver is the court appointing him. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Bond Bldg. Co., 47 App. D. C. 253.

66. Incumbrances and charges on property.—Receivers held, under the order appointing them, authorized to execute a redelivery bond in a state court to obtain the release of attached property of the estate. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 239 F. 227, 152 C. C. A. 215.

Where the property of a railroad company was operated by receivers, and the corporation, had it been operating the property, would have been liable for the franchise tax imposed by Laws Ark. 1911, p. 67, the receivers should be directed to pay such taxes accruing during the receivership. Bright v. State of Arkansas (C. C. A.) 249 F. 950.

Where penalty due for nonpayment by railway company of franchise tax imposed by Laws Ark. 1911, p. 67, accrued within less than a month after receivers were appointed, and the state thereafter intervened before the penalty on the tax for the succeeding year had accrued, it is entitled to recover penalties for both years. Id.

Real property of insolvent railway company, taxable under Kirby's Dig. Ark. 6941, 6942, 6945, cannot escape penalties attaching for nonpayment, because entire property of company was in hands of receivers appointed under order of court to take possession of the property for benefit of creditors. Bright v. State of Arkansas (C. C. A.) 249 F. 953.

67. Assumption and performance of obligations.—When a receiver is appointed, he has right to confirm and carry out contracts which are advantageous to the insolvent; hence such contracts continue despite receivership. Texas Co. v. International & G. N. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 742.

An executory contract made by a corporation is not binding on its subsequent receiver, unless he affirmatively assumes it. Dickinson v. Willis (D. C.) 239 F. 171.

Temporary receiver of railroad company directed to make payment claimed under lease, without prejudice to right of any party in interest to further litigate any question involved. Intercontinental Rubber Co. v. Boston & M. R. R. (D. C.) 245 F. 127.

A contract of a corporation is not binding on its receiver, unless affirmatively adopted by him. Landon v. Public Utilities Commission of Kansas (D. C.) 245 F. 950.

68. Acceptance of lease.—On insolvency of corporation and appointment of receiver, latter may reject lease previously entered into by corporation, and protest to receiver is unnecessary to protect lessor's right of action. In re Mullings Clothing Co., 238 F. 58, 151 C. C. A. 134, reversing decree (D. C.) 230 F. 681.

A receiver may take and retain possession of leasehold property for such reasonable time as will enable him to elect intelligently whether the interest of his trust will be best served by adopting the lease or returning the property to the lessor. Fleming v. Noble (C. C. A.) 250 F. 733.

Receiver held liable for the fair rental value of demised premises during the time he occupied them; it not appearing that his failure to sooner vacate premises was due to the fault of the lessor's agent to conclude lease with tenant interested by receiver. Id.

Where amount claimed was more than fair rental of premises and landlord had first asserted such claim as means of compelling corporation to vacate, held, receivers having been appointed, that receivers were chargeable only for sum corresponding to rent reserved in old lease. Atkinson & Co. v. Aldrich-Clisbee Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 134.

Receivers of corporation are at liberty to occupy leased premises until they elect whether to retain or abandon; for if the lease is assignable, it may be sold like other personal property, and if not, the receivers may at their option abandon the same. Primos Chemical Co. v. Fulton Steel Corporation (D. C.) 254 F. 454.

69. Continuance and conduct of business.—In considering the question of appointment of a receiver for a public utility corporation, the court will assume, unless it otherwise appears, that it can be operated so as not at least further to impair the value of assets, and will direct it to be operated, even by the issue of receiver's certificates, until arrangements can be made to meet the exigencies of its stoppage. Central Bank & Trust Corporation v. Cleveland (C. C. A.) 252 F. 530.

In a suit to foreclose a mortgage and sell the property of an insolvent street railroad company, the court will not authorize its receiver to suspend operation of the road where the franchise is still in force. Boisot v. Amarillo St. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 838.

A court cannot authorize its receivers for a street railroad company to charge a higher rate of fare than that fixed as a maximum by the company's franchise. Gas & Electric Securities Co. v. Manhattan & Queens Traction Corporation (D. C.) 253 F. 453.

70. Completion and extension of works.—An order of the court authorizing receivers to extend the railroad along a certain street does not authorize an excavation along that street between the tracks and the abutting property. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Weaver (Tex. Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 591.

71. Contracts of receiver in general.—A corporate receiver, unless authorized by court appointing him, is without authority to make any binding agreement as to modification or abrogation of contract between corporation of which he was receiver and a third person. St. Joseph Gas Co. v. Barker (D. C.) 243 F. 206.

72. Attorneys, agents, and employés of receiver.—The general rule that a receiver should not employ counsel for either party has no application to a case in which a receiver is appointed in accordance with the prayer of the bill to collect assets. McPherson v. U. S., 245 F. 35, 157 C. C. A. 331.

A United States attorney held not ineligible to appointment as counsel for a receiver appointed to collect assets in a suit by the United States. Id.

It is for the court, and not the trustee named in a mortgage, upon whose suit for foreclosure a receiver was appointed, to determine who should be attorney for the receiver, and be compensated under order of court; so the trustee could not select, in place of the attorney appointed, a firm of which the receiver was a member. Empire Trust Co. v. Aubrey (C. C. A.) 254 F. 281.

Merely because it is cheaper, the court, appointing a receiver on mortgage foreclosure, is not required to permit its receiver to employ as his attorney a firm of which he is a member, and which represents one of the parties in the cause, but the court may determine what is for the best interest for all. Id.

The refusal of the court, appointing a receiver on mortgage foreclosure, to grant the request of the trustee under the mortgage that the attorney appointed to represent the receiver be removed, and a firm of which the receiver was a member be substituted, held not an abuse of discretion. Id.

The interests of a federal receiver of a railroad and of the railroad company are not so adverse as to preclude the same person from acting as station agent for the purpose of serving summons upon the railroad company pursuant to the laws while also acting for the receiver. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Hudson (Okl.) 175 P. 743.

75. Expenditures in general.—Though a receiver was appointed on the day the final step in the compromise of a death claim was effected by the representatives of a railroad company, held, that the court might direct the receiver to pay the claim. Harmon v. Blackwell, 232 F. 440, 146 C. C. A. 434.

Under order appointing railroad receivers and authorizing them to pay traffic balances due other railroads, held, that they were authorized to pay compensation received under mail-carrying, contract to another road which did the carrying. Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Wabash R. Co., 244 F. 66, 156 C. C. A. 494.

77. —— Taxes.—The federal court will order its receiver, in possession of property and conducting the business, to pay the personal property taxes which might have been assessed against him under Comp. Laws Mich. § 3837 (6), regardless of whether the state law makes such taxes a lien on the property superior to the lien of the mortgage. Bear River Paper & Bag Co. v. City of Petoskey, 241 F. 53, 154 C. C. A. 53.

The collection fees and interest on delinquent taxes are merged in an order directing the receiver to pay the taxes, which is in effect a judgment, and the interest rates so specified did not extend beyond the day of the order. Id.

A decision by the state court that a receiver appointed by it need not pay personal property taxes assessed against the property does not prevent the federal court from directing its receiver to pay such taxes in recognition of the benefits received. Id.

(B) Supervision and instructions of court

86. Instructions or authority to receiver to act—Subject-matter.—It is the duty of receivers appointed for a corporation in a creditors' suit, on the maturity of interest on a mortgage, a failure to pay which will render the mortgage foreclosable, to apply to the court for instructions. Guaranty Trust Co. of New York v. International Steam Pump Co., 231 F. 594, 145 C. C. A. 480.

Receivers being officers of a court entitled to instructions, they should, if believing tax unlawful, apply for instructions as to whether to pay it. Scott v. Western Pac. R. Co., 246 F. 545, 158 C. C. A. 515, affirming order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 236 F. 813.

Despite Rev. St. § 3224 (Comp. St. 1916, § 5947), prohibiting suit for enjoining assessment or collection of taxes, receivers believing property in their charge or income thereof not to be subject to tax may apply to court appointing them for instructions as to payment. Id.

(C) Receivers' certificates

92. Purpose of issue.—Though operation of South Carolina railroad by receiver had been discontinued as dangerous to passengers and crews, held, in view of Civ. Code S. C. 1912, § 3117, receiver should be directed to issue certificates to obtain funds for repair of roadbed and to resume operations, there being much traffic ready for movement by railroad. Central Bank & Trust Co. v. Greenville & Western R. Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 350.

101. Lien and priorities.—A court held not justified in making receivers' certificates issued to make permanent betterments on railroad property a first lien on the net earnings of the receivership, to the displacement of supply claims. Texas Co. v. International & G. N. Ry. Co., 237 F. 921, 150 C. C. A. 571.

Receiver's certificates, given for operation of business of private industrial corporation, cannot be made to displace prior liens, unless holders of such liens have waived them either expressly or impliedly. Smith v. Shenandoah Valley Nat. Bank of Winchester, Va., 246 F. 379, 158 C. C. A. 443.

Where holders of lien on corporate property consented to receiver's issuance of certificates, held that, on settlement of estate, corporation having been adjudged bankrupt, it was proper to direct that receiver's certificates first be paid out of assets not subject to deed of trust. Id.

In proceeding for settlement of estate of bankrupt corporation, held, that lienholders who waived priority of deed of trust as to certain receiver's certificates did not impliedly waive lien as to other debts incurred by receiver. Id.

Rights of holders of receivers' certificates depend upon priority given in order providing for issuance of certificates. Order continuing receivership held not to make subsequently issued certificates part of receiver's obligations which would have priority or to make claims of lessors for rent subsequently accruing on leasehold belonging to insolvent corporation prior to such certificates. Ball v. Improved Property Holding Co. of New York, 247 F. 645, 159 C. C. A. 547.

Holders of certificates issued by receiver of insolvent corporation to obtain funds to pay taxes, etc., to prevent forfeiture of leasehold in valuable realty, held not entitled to any priority over claims of lessors for rent subsequently accruing. Id.

Expenses of receivership including allowances to receiver's solicitors are taxable as costs and entitled to priority over receivers' certificates, but allowances to mortgage trustee and its solicitors are entitled to no such priority. Id.

Under order providing for issuance of receivers' certificates, held, that amounts apportioned to certificate holders were subject to allowances to solicitors of mortgage trustees, but amounts apportioned to lessors' claims were not subject to such allowances. Id.

A purchaser of corporate bonds secured by mortgage, who failed to make known his ownership of the bonds until after receivers' certificates were issued on the consent of the other bondholders, and made prior to the lien of the mortgage, could not, after the enterprise as conducted by the receivers had proven a failure, assert that he had not consented to the issuance of certificates, and that his original lien under the mortgage was entitled to priority. Lake v. Mudgett (C. C. A.) 252 F. 365.

(D) Sale and conveyance or redelivery of property

109. Time, manner, and terms of sale.—Where receivers were appointed for a consolidated railroad company, and mortgages foreclosed, held, that property, being susceptible of division into several systems, might be divided for sale, if for the benefit of creditors, and a mortgagee holding a mortgage on the property of that constituent company which had been run at a loss cannot complain of the severance. Metropolitan Trust Co. of City of New York v. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 868.

In the separation of a railroad into parcels for sale under the foreclosure of divisional mortgages, a court of equity is not bound by any hard and fast rule to fix the division to correspond absolutely with the several mortgage grants, but the division should be made so as to leave each parcel as nearly as may be in a situation to be operated as a railroad. Id.

The division should be made so that each portion might be operated as a railroad system, and for that purpose the division located in Indiana should be given a line to Chicago, etc. Id.

On division for sale it was proper, other creditors and lienholders being protected, to sell, with one of the constituent parcels, equipment used for the operation of that parcel, though it was not subject to the mortgage on lien. Id.

114. Operation and effect of sale in general.—Sale by trustee in deed of trust, who was also the receiver in the federal District Court of the mortgagor's business and property, made by permission of that court and confirmed by it, under which he executed a trustee's deed, held not a judicial sale, but a sale under the deed of trust. Finger v. Taylor (Miss.) 71 So. 269.

Federal court whose receiver has taken possession of railroad company's property held to have exclusive jurisdiction, and to be entitled to retain jurisdiction over property after it has been sold and delivered by receiver. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Concrete Inv. Co. (Tex. Civ. App.) 201 S. W. 718.

118. Reconveyance and redelivery of property on termination of receivership.—An order directing a receiver to redeliver the property of a corporation, when carried into effect, held to divest the court of jurisdiction to adjudicate upon the validity of taxes thereafter levied upon it. Spencer v. Babylon R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 24.

The holders of railroad bonds loaned to the company to be pledged to secure a debt, which was satisfied during receivership proceedings and the pledged bonds then delivered into court, are entitled to such bonds as they can identify as the identical bonds loaned by them. United States & Mexican Trust Co. v. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 511.

Bondholders cannot in foreclosure proceedings brought by receiver object to the delivery of other bonds of the same issue under a contract entered into before the suit was started. Id.

Construction companies who paid interest on railroad bonds under contract entitling them to bonds for the interest paid held entitled in equity and justice to bonds delivered into court in foreclosure proceedings brought by receiver. Id.

Bondholders who loaned bonds to a railroad company to be pledged by it held entitled to bonds delivered into court in receivership proceedings and not claimed by any one else, though they could not identify the bonds as the particular ones loaned. Id.

Where federal court which appointed receiver for railroad ordered property turned back conditionally on railroad's taking all benefits and assuming all obligations, railroad was bound to pay judgment for damages predicated on tort of servant of railroad while in hands of receiver. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Daniels (Tex. Civ. App.) 204 S. W. 481.

VI. ALLOWANCE AND PAYMENT OF CLAIMS

119. Liabilities of property or funds in hands of receiver.—A lessor held not entitled to prove against the estate of the lessee in the hands of a receiver a claim arising under the provisions of the lease after appointment of the receiver. Wm. Filene's Sons Co. v. Weed, 230 F. 31, 144 C. C. A. 329.

Lessors' claim for rent accruing after appointment of receiver held debts of receiver which might be asserted against him in proceedings for settlement of his accounts. Ball v. Improved Property Holding Co. of New York, 247 F. 645, 159 C. C. A. 547.

Contract to supply railroad company with fuel oil contains no implied condition that it should be canceled in event receiver is appointed for company. Texas Co. v. International & G. N. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 742.

124. Priorities in general.—That bondholders of a railroad company purchased with knowledge of a traffic contract between the mortgagor and another company for their benefit held not to give them an equity which entitled them to priority over subsequent lienholders of the latter company. Baker v. Central Trust Co. of New York, 235 F. 17, 148 C. C. A. 511.

Creditors of an insolvent shipowning corporation, who joined in a suit for a receiver, who sold the property, held to have acquired no right to priority over other lien claimants by subsequently filing libels in admiralty claiming liens. Appeal of James Rees & Sons Co., 237 F. 555, 150 C. C. A. 437.

An order, directing a receiver to sell lumber and pay laborers' wages, held not to preclude a chattel mortgagee of part of the lumber from thereafter intervening and claiming the proceeds of the sale of the lumber covered by the mortgage. Security Trust Co. v. Bank of Bernice, 239 F. 665, 152 C. C. A. 499.

The amount of a mill laborer's lien against lumber covered by a chattel mortgage may be determined between the mortgagee and the mortgagor's receiver by apportioning to that lumber the usual cost of labor in that mill for producing an equal quantity. Id.

Court is not absolutely bound to recognize priorities in receivership case fixed by its order, and that matter is open to equitable readjustment, however conclusive protection order may be to receiver as to payments made under its terms. Ball v. Improved Property Holding Co. of New York, 247 F. 645, 159 C. C. A. 547.

Where holders of receivers' certificates had no priority over claims of lessors for rents becoming due after receivership on property in which insolvent corporation had leasehold interest, general claims and funds for which receiver was to account should be brought into hotchpot and funds distributed pro rata. Id.

Capital stock of a corporation represents the capital on which it is authorized to do business, and it constitutes one of the assets to which all creditors may look for payment of their demands; thus an owner of capital stock cannot share in the assets until all of the debts of the corporation have been paid. Armstrong v. Union Trust & Savings Bank, 248 F. 268, 160 C. C. A. 346.

Preferred stock is merely a particular class of capital stock, being differentiated from the ordinary stock as endowed with some peculiar quality, but as against creditors a holder of preferred stock cannot reach corporate assets. Id.

A bondholder of a corporation, who failed to object to a sale of the property and assets of the corporation, could not object that proceeds of fire insurance policies were applied under orders of court to the obligations of the receivers, instead of towards the payment of the bonds; the loss having occurred after the sale, so that it fell upon the purchaser, and not the seller. Lake v. Mudgett (C. C. A.) 252 F. 365.

A surety on supersedeas bond of public service corporation, having been held liable, is not generally to be deemed a preferred creditor in event of insolvency of corporation. Towle v. Great Shoshone & Twin Falls Water Power Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 733.

Where at time judgment was recovered against it, and a supersedeas bond given, a public service corporation appeared solvent, the surety, which was held liable, is not entitled to be preferred to other creditors, on theory that giving of such bond entitled the corporation to continue as going concern. Id.

125. Taxes.—Payment of taxes by receivers out of the net income of the receivership is not a diversion of earnings as against labor and supply claimants, such payment being for the benefit of all parties interested in the property. Texas Co. v. International & G. N. Ry. Co., 237 F. 921, 150 C. C. A. 571.

Property in hands of receiver is ordinarily bound for payment of taxes, and, in view of paramount lien of taxes it is duty of court to order them paid, no matter how claim may be brought to its attention. Taxes accruing during a receivership are obligations or indebtedness of the receiver. Union Trust Co. v. Great Eastern Lumber Co., 248 F. 46, 160 C. C. A. 186.

A federal court held to have power to determine the validity of taxes claimed against property in the hands of its receiver. Spencer v. Babylon R. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 803.

Claims for taxes against the property of a railroad company in the hands of a receiver held excessive, and allowed against the estate only in a just amount. Id.

Taxes assessed against a corporation prior to appointment of receivers are debts due from corporation and not receivership, and must be postponed to debts incurred by receivers. Atkinson & Co. v. Aldrich-Clisbee Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 134.

126. Expenses of receivership.—Where receivers were appointed who took over property and continued business of corporation, no allowance to counsel for legal services rendered corporation during receivership proceedings can be made until after expenses of receivership have been paid, claim being a charge against funds of corporation instead of against receivership. Atkinson & Co. v. Aldrich-Clisbee Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 134.

129. Priority of unsecured debts incurred before receivership to pre-existing liens, in general—Purpose for which debt was contracted.—Where one whose property was fired by an electric line might, under Const. Idaho, art. 11, § 15, and Rev. Codes Idaho, § 2769, as amended by Laws 1909, p. 163, have proceeded against the original corporate builder held, that surety on supersedeas bond of purchaser was entitled to priority out of income received from property so purchased as against other creditors. Towle v. Great Shoshone & Twin Falls Water Power Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 733.

A surety on the supersedeas bonds of an insolvent corporation is not entitled to preference as against the bondholders to the property in the hands of the receiver, without showing that the bondholders procured or acquiesced in execution of the bond, or that the money thereby realized came into the possession of the receivers. Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Birmingham, E. & B. R. Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 655.

A state Corporation Commission is entitled to a preference over the bondholders of an insolvent railroad for the amounts collected by the railroad in excess of the rates fixed by the Commission pending appeal from the Commission's orders and prior to the appointment of a receiver for the railroad. United States & Mexican Trust Co. v. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 505.

131. —— Labor, supplies, and materials furnished.—Labor Law N. Y., § 9, making claims for wages preferred debts on receivership of partnership or domestic corporation held not to give claims for wages preference over lien of mortgage, and not to apply to receivership in foreclosure suit, though general receivers previously appointed were appointed receivers therein. Schmidtman v. Atlantic Phosphate & Oil Corporation, 230 F. 769, 145 C. C. A. 79.

Where there are net earnings of a railroad receivership instituted at suit of mortgage bondholders, supply claimants who have a preferential equity therein are entitled to have the same applied to their claims, without waiting the final termination of the receivership. Texas Co. v. International & G. N. Ry. Co., 237 F. 921, 150 C. C. A. 571.

Claims for labor or operating supplies furnished within six months prior to the appointment of receivers in foreclosure held entitled to preference of payment from the net income of the receivership. Id.

Rule stated governing the payment by a receiver of claims for supplies furnished to a public service corporation in preference to prior recorded liens. Crane Co. v. Fidelity Trust Co., 238 F. 693, 151 C. C. A. 543.

Claims for articles furnished for extensions to water, gas, or electric light systems, and for additions to or replacement of equipment, held not such as are entitled to preferential payment by a receiver over a prior mortgage debt. Id.

Claim for coal delivered to railroad company before appointment of receivers, and used by receivers in operating railroad under orders of court, should be paid from proceeds of sale in preference to secured bonds, if there are no earnings from which to pay it. United States & Mexican Trust Co. v. Beaty, 240 F. 592, 153 C. C. A. 396, rehearing denied 243 F. 544.

That parties furnishing materials to corporation shortly before receivership expected payment out of current income, held not to entitle them to preference over mortgage creditors. John A. Roebling's Sons Co. of California v. Idaho Ry., Light & Power Co., 243 F. 527, 156 C. C. A. 225.

Debts incurred by a railroad receiver and claims for materials and supplies for operation furnished within six months prior to his appointment are payable out of the earnings of the receivership, or even in a proper case from the corpus of the company's property, in preference to mortgages foreclosed. New York Trust Co. v. Detroit, T. & I. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 514.

One furnishing current supplies to a quasi public corporation, an irrigation company, is entitled to priority over other unsecured creditors in funds in receiver's hands earned before receivership. First Nat. Bank v. Campbell (Tex. Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 197.

132. —— Nature and purpose of labor, supplies, and materials.—As respected right of priority, machinery furnished railway, light, and power company held for enlargement, and not for repair or maintenance of the company's plant. John A. Roebling's Sons Co. of California v. Idaho Ry., Light & Power Co., 243 F. 527, 156 C. C. A. 225.

Claims for materials for new construction and extraordinary improvements within six months before receivership, held not payable as current operating expenses in preference to claims of mortgage bondholders. Id.

133. —— Rentals and traffic and mileage balances.—The holders of bonds secured by a trust deed on railroad property held not to have operated the property during the time that the indebtedness due interline carriers arose, as to give such carriers priority on the ground that the indebtedness was that of the bondholders. First Trust Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 965.

In receivership proceedings a bridge company was not entitled to priority against mortgagees of a railroad company for claims for use of its bridge by the railroad; it appearing that credit was extended upon the strength of the railroad company's general credit and that the debt was not a current income debt. Louisville Bridge Co. v. Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 631.

The bridge company is not entitled to net profits during receivership as against a mortgagee whose lien covered, not only the property of the railroad, but the rents and profits derived therefrom. Id.

Where the contract provided for termination in case of the railroad's default for 30 days in payment, the bridge company is not, as against mortgagees, entitled to priority out of surplus earnings during receivership on claims some of which were more than 6 years old when the receiver was appointed, and all of which arose more than 16 months prior thereto. Id.

A sum due from one railroad company to another for traffic balances, withheld and used by the former in the maintenance of its road, held not recoverable from its receiver as a trust fund. Central Trust Co. of Illinois v. Chicago, A. & N. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 936.

Where bondholders were in possession and operating a railroad when traffic balances due another company were withheld and used in paying operating expenses, a claim therefor against the receiver held entitled to preference over the mortgage debt. Id.

134. —— Diversion of income.—A court should not, as a settled policy, divert net earnings of a railroad receivership under a second mortgage to the payment of interest on first mortgage bonds, where it will postpone payment of supply claims which are entitled to preference. Texas Co. v. International & G. N. Ry. Co., 237 F. 921, 150 C. C. A. 571.

The payment of interest to bondholders of a corporation, who are entitled to such payment in priority to claims of supply creditors, is not a diversion of income. Crane Co. v. Fidelity Trust Co., 238 F. 693, 151 C. C. A. 543.

Claims for coal used by railroad prior to appointment of receivers are not entitled to preference over bonds, where there had been no revenue above operating expenses diverted from payment for supplies to benefit of bondholders. United States & Mexican Trust Co. v. Beaty, 240 F. 592, 153 C. C. A. 396, rehearing denied 243 F. 544.

That transportation of supplies for subsidiary corporation, whose bonds were pledged to secure payment of bonds of parent corporation, if paid for, would have produced revenue sufficient to pay for coal used by parent company, does not give claim for such coal preference over bonds. Id.

Diversion of income to payment of interest of bonds of subsidiary company held not to entitle claims for materials to priority over company's mortgage bondholders. John A. Roebling's Sons Co. of California v. Idaho Ry., Light & Power Co., 243 F. 527, 156 C. C. A. 225.

Payment of interest on bonds when nothing was due on materials furnished shortly before receivership, held not a diversion of earnings entitling the claim for materials to priority over mortgage bondholders. Id.

Where receivers were appointed at suit of second mortgage bondholders, and net income from operation of road by receivers would have been sufficient to have paid supply claimants, with interest, had no payments been made on first mortgage bond and upon equipment, supply claimants are entitled to payment, with interest. Texas Co. v.

International & G. N. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 742.

Where no interest was paid on bonds secured by a trust deed on the property of a railroad company during the period when the claims of interveners based on interline freight, etc., arose, interveners are not entitled to priority under the usual six months' rule; there having been no diversion of income. First Trust Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 965.

135. Time of incurring debt.—A court may in its discretion give preference to a claim for an operating expense against the estate of an insolvent railroad company, although it arose more than six months prior to the receivership. Central Trust Co. of Illinois v. Chicago, A. & N. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 936.

138. Payment.—Where same persons were general receivers and receivers under mortgages, and claim was assigned to them as mortgage receivers, held, that they were entitled to payment without deduction of consideration for the assignment. Pennsylvania Steel Co. v. New York City Ry. Co., 231 F. 442, 145 C. C. A. 434, 436, modifying decree (D. C.) 225 F. 96.

Under the general principles of equity in the administration of the estate of an insolvent corporation through a receivership, where there are claims of different rank the holders are entitled to interest until the time of payment. Spring Coal Co. v. Keech, 239 F. 48, 152 C. C. A. 98, L. R. A. 1917D, 1152.

Where payment by receivers of the principal of a debt is accepted on condition that right to interest shall not be prejudiced, but shall be determined by the court, the creditor's right to recover interest is not barred. New York Trust Co. v. Detroit, T. & I. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 514.

Where the property of an insolvent railroad company was converted into cash to satisfy debts whose equitable priority was recognized, and, when so converted, proceeds of sale were insufficient to pay any part of the mortgage debt, interest on six months and receivership claims will not be allowed subsequent to the appointment of the receivers; there being no diversion of income from payment of current debts, and the mortgagees not having delayed the proceedings. Id.

The general rule, which allows interest on six months claims from their maturity to the appointment of receivers, disallows interest thereon after that date, and also on debts incurred by the receivers, as against a fund arising from the sale of the insolvent's property. Id.

Under the general rule that interest on debts of an insolvent corporation in the hands of a receiver will be calculated only to the date of his appointment, holders of six months claims are entitled to interest down to that time. Id.

VII. ACTIONS

139. Capacity to sue and to be sued.—It is settled doctrine in federal jurisprudence that a chancery receiver has no authority to sue in the courts of a foreign jurisdiction to recover demands or property situated therein; his functions and authority being confined to the jurisdiction of his appointment, and the practice permitting application for ancillary receivership in a foreign jurisdiction where local assets may be recovered, and, if necessary, administered. Sterrett v. Second Nat. Bank of Cincinatti, Ohio, 39 S. Ct. 27, 63 L. Ed. ——.

In view of Code Ala. 1907, §§ 3509, 3511, 3512, 3560, Alabama receiver of a banking corporation held not vested with title to its assets as assignee or statutory successor so as to authorize him to sue for their recovery in a foreign federal jurisdiction. Id.

The contrary rule having become the settled law of the federal courts, if the powers of chancery receivers are to be enlarged to give them authority to sue beyond the jurisdiction of the appointing court, such extension of authority must come from legislation, not from judicial action. Id.

143. Rights of action by receiver.—Receivers of owner of standing timber held entitled to recover, as damages for preventing cutting, expenses of party who was to do the cutting, though they had no direct contract with him. Kirkland v. Knox, 230 F. 806, 145 C. C. A. 116.

A receiver for a corporation held entitled to maintain a bill in the court of his appointment to set aside as fraudulent a judgment recovered against the corporation. Owen v. Clifton, 232 F. 136, 146 C. C. A. 328.

Both under general principles of receiverships and General Corporation Law N. Y. §§ 232, 239, as amended by Laws 1913, c. 766, a receiver may sue for injuries occasioned by the negligence of directors, so a stockholder cannot sue in his own name. Kelly v. Dolan, 233 F. 335, 147 C. C. A. 443, affirming decree (D. C.) 218 F. 966.

A receiver for a railroad company held authorized to maintain a suit to recover property of the company. Vallery v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., 236 F. 176, 149 C. C. A. 366.

A corporation which through stock ownership controlled another held subject to a suit for accounting by the receiver of the latter where fraudulent management was alleged. Id.

One who accepts stock issued to him by a corporation at less than par is liable to a receiver for the benefit of creditors, though the resolution authorizing the issuance was void, because no quorum was present. Enright v. Heckscher, 240 F. 863, 153 C. C. A. 549.

143½. Stockholder's bill.—Where court appointing receiver refused to allow him to sue for injuries occasioned by directors' negligence, a stockholder, though given permission, cannot maintain a stockholder's bill; no assignment of cause of action having been made. Kelly v. Dolan, 233 F. 635, 147 C. C. A. 443, affirming decree (D. C.) 218 F. 966.

144. Rights of action against receivers.—A trustee in a corporation mortgage held justified in declaring the debt due and foreclosing on default in payment of interest, where the mortgagor was in the hands of receivers. Guaranty Trust Co. of New York v. International Steam Pump Co., 231 F. 594, 145 C. C. A. 480.

146. Defenses by receivers.—Court held justified in directing receiver of corporation to facilitate rendition of judgment in favor of creditor seeking to intervene and contest validity of bonds so as to give it the standing of an unsatisfied judgment creditor. Williamson v. Collins, 243 F. 835, 156 C. C. A. 347.

The general rule that receivers succeed to the right of a corporation to plead the defense of limitation does not apply where, owing to the peculiar circumstances of the case, the receivers do not represent the corporation, its stockholders, or creditors. Stokes v. Williams, 249 F. 114, 161 C. C. A. 166.

Receivers held not entitled to set up the defense of limitation to an otherwise valid claim against a corporation, where it would inure only to the benefit of an outside party. Id.

148. Leave of court to sue receiver, necessity.—Where the federal District Court, through its receivers, was in complete possession of all of the property of a railroad company against which a creditors' bill had been filed, that court, after having granted permission to a party to sue in the state court, may, it appearing that such litigation would not be for the benefit of the res, which was in the possession of the federal court, revoke the permission; there being no question of comity. Investment Registry v. Chicago & M. Electric R. Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 510.

Where one claiming to be an unpaid vendor obtained permission from the federal court, in which receivership proceedings against the purchaser corporation were pending, to sue in the state court, held, that revocation of the permission was not an abuse of discretion; it appearing that the alleged unpaid vendor had received bonds from the purchaser and that the validity of such bond was involved in a proceeding consolidated with the receivership. Id.

Rule that action can be brought against receiver only with consent of appointing court held displaced, pro tanto, where surety on bond of public contractor is in receiver's hands, by Act Aug. 13, 1894, as amended by Act Feb. 24, 1905 (Comp. St. 1916, § 6923), providing where action must be brought on bond for benefit of one supplying labor and material. U. S. v. Illinois Surety Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 840.

153. Process and appearance.—See Gursky v. Blair, 112 N. E. 431, 218 N. Y. 41, reversing order (Sup.) 155 N. Y. S. 1111, 170 App. Div. 977.

161. Appeal and error.—Where plans for the reorganization of an insolvent railroad company in the hands of a receiver had been perfected but the receiver had not been discharged and was still prosecuting claims, he has sufficient interest to appeal from the allowance of a claim against the company, as has a trustee for holders of the company's notes whose deficiency judgment on mortgage bonds securing the same was kept alive by the reorganization plans and had been assigned to the company's successor as one of its assets. New York Trust Co. v. Carpenter (C. C. A.) 250 F. 668.

VIII. ACCOUNTING AND COMPENSATION

163. Duty to account.—Where, in creditors' suit, receivers were appointed to take charge of rents and profits of land involved, defendant is, on denial of complainant's claim, entitled in such suit to accounting of rents and profits taken by receivers. Anderson v. Hultberg, 247 F. 273, 159 C. C. A. 367.

164. Charges.—Where landlord, whose premises had been occupied while receivers of corporation continued business, asserted claim for damages, but there was no evidence as to what damage had occurred during receivership and what occurred while premises were in possession of corporation prior thereto, whole item must, as against receivers, be disallowed. Atkinson & Co. v. Aldrich-Clisbee Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 134.

166. Compensation for services.—Receivers are entitled to reasonable compensation, to be fixed by the court appointing them, after considering all the circumstances, and determined on the compensation for similar services in the performance of official duties and the value of the services rendered with reference to that trust. Eames v. H. B. Claflin Co., 231 F. 693, 145 C. C. A. 579.

An allowance by the District Court of $33,000 as compensation to each of two receivers of a large mercantile company held not so small as to show an abuse of discretion. Id.

The compensation allowed a receiver is within the discretion of the trial court. Id.

The discretion of the trial court allowing compensation to a receiver will not be reversed, in absence of abuse of discretion. Id.

Where receivers at unanimous request of corporate creditors conducted business of corporation knowing that it was being conducted at a loss, they cannot, where funds in their hands were insufficient even to discharge all of bills they incurred, be allowed compensation. Atkinson & Co. v. Aldrich-Clisbee Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 134.

168. Allowance and payment or recovery of compensation and expenses.—Where a state court was without authority to administer any of the assets of a bankrupt, it has no authority to allow its receiver compensation for performing part of that labor. State of Missouri v. Angle, 236 F. 644, 149 C. C. A. 640, affirming order In re Sage (D. C.) 224 F. 525.

Orders allowing receivers compensation are purely administrative, subject to disallowance or change with the development of the administration. Hume v. Myers, 242 F. 827, 155 C. C. A. 415.

173. Settlement of account.—Distribution of the funds of an insolvent corporation shown by the final report of a receiver, without preference, held correctly made under the action and stipulation of the claimants. Appeal of James Rees & Sons Co., 237 F. 555, 150 C. C. A. 437.

IX. FOREIGN AND ANCILLARY RECEIVERSHIPS

176. Ancillary appointment.—Where railroad receivers were appointed in Missouri district and also in Michigan on an ancillary bill, held, that claim growing out of operations in Michigan should be presented there, if that court was independently administering the property in its jurisdiction, but otherwise to the Missouri Court. Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Wabash R. Co., 244 F. 66, 156 C. C. A. 494.

An order appointing an ancillary receiver of a corporation, with the usual injunction clause, held not to prevent prosecution of suits theretofore instituted by stockholders against the corporation and others. American Steel Foundries v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 1003.

177. Title to and possession of property.—A receiver's power is only coextensive with that of the court which gave him his character, and cannot be asserted as a matter of right beyond the territorial jurisdiction of such court; so a receiver appointed by the District Court for the Southern District of New York has no power to take possession of property of the defendant in the Northern District, etc. Primos Chemical Co. v. Fulton Steel Corporation (D. C.) 254 F. 454.

180. Actions by and against foreign receivers.—In the absence of a conveyance or statute vesting in a receiver title to the property of the debtor, he cannot sue for its recovery in the courts of a foreign jurisdiction. Sterrett v. Second Nat. Bank of Cincinnati, Ohio, 246 F. 753, 159 C. C. A. 55, certiorari granted 38 S. Ct. 345, 246 U. S. 668, 62 L. Ed. 930.

A receiver for an insolvent corporation under Code Ala. 1907, §§ 3509, 3511, as construed by its Supreme Court, is not vested with title to the property of the corporation and cannot maintain an action to recover assets in a foreign jurisdiction. Id.

A statutory receiver, invested with title to the assets of a dissolved corporation, may sue in the courts of a state foreign to the state of his appointment. Hopkins v. Lancaster (D. C.) 254 F. 190.

An intervener, in a suit by the statutory receiver of a foreign insurance company against the treasurer of a state, can only raise the question whether he is a creditor entitled to share in the distribution of funds deposited with the treasurer, etc. Id.

§ 1048. (Jud. Code, § 66.) Suits against receiver.

1. Construction of statute in general.—This section does not give another court jurisdiction of a suit affecting the possession, control, or management of the property by the receiver or the conduct of his business. Dickinson v. Willis (D. C.) 239 F. 171.

9. Jurisdiction of state courts.—Court was not without jurisdiction to declare a lien against the property of defendant railway company pursuant to Kirby's Dig. §§ 6661, 6662, or to render a judgment for damages, although at the time of the trial and of accrual of cause of action the railway was being operated by a receiver appointed by a United States court where receivership was pending in view of Act Cong. March 3, 1887, § 3, as amended by Act Cong. Aug. 13, 1888, § 3, which is now embraced in this section. Bush v. Southern Grocery Co. (Ark.) 208 S. W. 299.

Under this section where, after appeal from judgment for plaintiff in garnishment against federal court receiver, property was sold pursuant to stipulation, the state court had jurisdiction to order distribution of the fund derived therefrom. Lamb v. Whitman (Ga. App.) 90 S. E. 736.

Where, under Act Cong. Aug. 13, 1888, § 3, state court had jurisdiction of suit against receiver of railroad, brought without leave of federal court appointing receiver, for killing steer on track, subsequent sale of railroad's property and decree therefor did not abate the suit. Hawkins v. St. Louis & San Francisco Ry. Co. (Mo. App.) 202 S. W. 1060.

In a suit to redeem from a sale to pay federal receiver's certificates, in which the mortgagee is not a party, the state court will not determine whether the mortgage will incumber the property after the redemption, but will leave that question to the federal court. Hardin v. Graham (S. D.) 160 N. W. 850, denying rehearing 159 N. W. 895.

17½. Process.—Under this section, and Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 432, in action for personal injuries against receivers of a railroad of state of Michigan appointed by federal district court in such state, service of summons on agent designated for service of process on the road in New York, was not sufficient service on receivers. Gursky v. Blair, 112 N. E. 431, 218 N. Y. 41, reversing order (Sup.) 155 N. Y. S. 1111, 170 App. Div. 977.

23. Judgment—Conclusiveness.—The act of Congress authorizing suits against receivers appointed by federal courts without leave of court makes the judgments therein conclusive, and in a suit against the corporation to subject to such judgment the net earnings of a receivership the corporation is not denied due process of law, in violation of Const. U. S. Amend. 14. § 1, because it cannot defend on the merits. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. McBride (Ark.) 206 S. W. 149.

CHAPTER FIVE—DISTRICT COURTS—DISTRICTS, AND PROVISIONS APPLICABLE TO PARTICULAR STATES

Sec.
1051. Judicial districts.
1056. Arkansas.
1057a. California; quarters for district court of northern district.
1061. Florida.
1088. Oklahoma.
1088a. Same; term of court at Hugo.
1095a. Texas; additional division in northern district.
1095b. Same; additional terms of court for northern district; clerk.
1095bb. Same; terms of court in Amarillo division of northern district.
1102. Virginia.
1104. West Virginia.

§ 1051. (Jud. Code, § 69.) Judicial districts.

Judicial districts in general.—Under Judicial Code, §§ 69–115 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1051–1106) and in view of section 1 (section 968), the jurisdiction of the several District Courts is coextensive with the boundaries of the judicial district, and extends no further, save as Congress has expressly extended it. Primos Chemical Co. v. Fulton Steel Corporation (D. C.) 254 F. 454.

§ 1056. (Jud. Code, § 71.) Arkansas.

Boundaries of district.—In ejectment, held, that the lands in controversy were in Mississippi instead of Arkansas, the old channel of the Mississippi river, which was directly under the Arkansas bank, remaining the boundary between the states, notwithstanding the diversion of the channel into a cut-off; and so the District Court for Arkansas was without jurisdiction. Davis v. Anderson-Tully Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 681.

§ 1057a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 89.) California; quarters for district court of northern district.

That the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States be, and he is hereby, authorized, empowered, and directed to cause to be provided and constructed in the post-office building in the city of Sacramento, California, quarters such as he may deem necessary and proper for the district court of the northern district of California, and its officers, at a cost not to exceed the sum of $60,000. (40 Stat. 1271.)

This section is an act entitled "An act to provide for the fitting up of quarters in the post-office building at the city of Sacramento, California, for the accommodation of the district court of the northern district of California and its officers," cited above.

§ 1061. (Jud. Code, § 76.) Florida.

End of term.—A term of federal District Court, Southern district of Florida, which under Judicial Code, §§ 9–11, 76, must always be open as a court of admiralty and equity, was not brought to an end, so far as criminal business was concerned, so as to prevent granting of new trial, by adjournment in accordance with court rule requiring, pending temporary absence of the judge, the clerk be present for transaction of business under orders of the judge. Abbott v. Brown, 36 S. Ct. 689, 241 U. S. 606, 60 L. Ed. 1199.

§ 1088. (Jud. Code, § 101, as amended, Act Feb. 20, 1917, c. 102, and Act June 13, 1918, c. 98.) Oklahoma.

The State of Oklahoma is divided into two judicial districts, to be known as the eastern and western districts of Oklahoma. The eastern district shall include the territory embraced on the first day of July, nineteen hundred and sixteen, in the counties of Adair, Atoka, Bryan, Craig, Cherokee, Creek, Choctaw, Coal, Carter, Delaware, Garvin, Grady, Haskell, Hughes, Jefferson, Johnston, Latimer, Le Flore, Love, McClain, Mayes, Muskogee, McIntosh, McCurtain, Murray, Marshall, Nowata, Ottawa, Okmulgee, Okfuskee, Pittsburg, Pushmataha, Pontotoc, Rogers, Stephens, Sequoyah, Seminole, Tulsa, Washington, and Wagoner. Terms of the district court for the eastern district shall be held at Muskogee on the first Monday in January, at Vinita on the first Monday in March, at Tulsa on the first Monday in April, at South McAlester on the first Monday in June, at Ardmore on the first Monday in October, and at Chickasha on the first Monday in November of each year. The western district shall include the territory embraced on the first day of July, nineteen hundred and sixteen, in the counties of Alfalfa, Beaver, Beckham, Blaine, Caddo, Canadian, Cimarron, Cleveland, Comanche, Cotton, Custer, Dewey, Ellis, Garfield, Grant, Greer, Harmon, Harper, Jackson, Kay, Kingfisher, Kiowa, Lincoln, Logan, Major, Noble, Oklahoma, Osage, Pawnee, Payne, Pottawatomie, Roger Mills, Texas, Tillman, Washita, Woods, and Woodward. Terms of the district court for the western district shall be held at Oklahoma City on the first Monday in January, at Enid on the first Monday in March, at Guthrie on the first Monday in May, at Lawton on the first Monday in September, and at Woodward on the second Monday in November: Provided, That suitable rooms and accommodations for holding court at Woodward are furnished free of expense to the United States. The clerk of the district court for the eastern district shall keep his office at Muskogee and the clerk for the western district at Guthrie, and shall maintain an office in charge of himself or a deputy at Oklahoma City. (39 Stat. 927, 40 Stat. 604.)

§ 1088a. (Res. Feb. 26, 1919, c. 54.) Same; term of court at Hugo.

One term of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Oklahoma shall be held each year on the second Monday in May at Hugo, in said State and district, and all Acts and parts of Acts not in accordance herewith are hereby modified in accordance with the provisions of this Act: Provided, That suitable quarters for holding said court shall be furnished without expense to the Government. (40 Stat. 1184.)

This section is a resolution entitled a "Joint resolution providing that one term of the United States District Court for the Eastern Judicial District of Oklahoma shall be held annually at Hugo, Oklahoma," cited above.

§ 1095a. (Act Feb. 26, 1917, c. 122, § 1.) Texas; additional division in northern district.

The counties of Archer, Baylor, Clay, Cottle, Foard, Montague, King, Knox, Wichita, Wilbarger, and Young shall constitute a division of the northern judicial district of Texas. (39 Stat. 939.)

This section and the section next following were an act entitled "An act to create a new division of the northern judicial district of Texas, and to provide for terms of court at Wichita Falls, Texas, and for a clerk for said court, and for other purposes," cited above.

§ 1095b. (Act Feb. 26, 1917, c. 122, § 2.) Same; additional terms of court for northern district; clerk.

Terms of the district court of the United States for the said northern district of Texas shall be held twice each year at the city of Wichita Falls, in Wichita County, on the fourth Monday in March and the third Monday in November. The clerk of the court for the northern district of Texas shall maintain an office in charge of himself or a deputy at Wichita Falls, which shall be kept open at all times for the transaction of the business of the court: Provided, That suitable accommodations for holding court at Wichita Falls shall be provided by the county or municipal authorities without expense to the United States. (39 Stat. 939.)

See note to § 1095a, ante.

§ 1095bb. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 87.) Same; terms of court in Amarillo division of northern district.

Hereafter the terms of the district court of the United States in the Amarillo division of the northern district of Texas shall be held at Amarillo, Texas, on the third Monday in April and the second Monday in September of each year. (40 Stat. 1270.)

This section is an act entitled "An act to fix the time of holding court in the Amarillo division of the northern district of Texas," cited above.

§ 1102. (Jud. Code, § 111, as amended, Act June 13, 1918, c. 100.) Virginia.

The State of Virginia is divided into two districts, to be known as the eastern and western districts of Virginia.

The eastern district shall include the territory embraced on the first day of July, nineteen hundred and ten, in the counties of Accomac, Alexandria, Amelia, Brunswick, Caroline, Charles City, Chesterfield, Culpeper, Dinwiddie, Elizabeth City, Essex, Fairfax, Fauquier, Gloucester, Goochland, Greensville, Hanover, Henrico, Isle of Wight, James City, King and Queen, King George, King William, Lancaster, Loudoun, Louisa, Lunenburg, Mathews, Mecklenburg, Middlesex, Nansemond, New Kent, Norfolk, Northampton, Northumberland, Nottoway, Orange, Powhatan, Prince Edward, Prince George, Prince William, Princess Anne, Richmond, Southampton, Spotsylvania, Stafford, Surry, Sussex, Warwick, Westmoreland, and York.

Terms of the district court shall be held at Richmond on the first Mondays in April and October; at Norfolk on the first Mondays in May and November; and at Alexandria on the first Mondays in January and July.

The western district shall include the territory embraced on the first day of July, nineteen hundred and ten, in the counties of Alleghany, Albemarle, Amherst, Appomattox, Augusta, Bath, Bedford, Bland, Botetourt, Buchanan, Buckingham, Campbell, Carroll, Charlotte, Clarke, Craig, Cumberland, Dickenson, Floyd, Fluvanna, Franklin, Frederick, Giles, Grayson, Greene, Halifax, Henry, Highland, Lee, Madison, Montgomery, Nelson, Page, Patrick, Pulaski, Pittsylvania, Rappahannock, Roanoke, Rockbridge, Rockingham, Russell, Scott, Shenandoah, Smyth, Tazewell, Warren, Washington, Wise, and Wythe.

Terms of the district court shall be held at Lynchburg on the second Mondays in January and July; at Roanoke on the second Monday in February and the first Monday in August; at Danville on the second Monday in March and the third Monday in September; at Charlottesville on the second Mondays in April and November; at Harrisonburg on the fourth Mondays in April and November; at Big Stone Gap on the third Monday in May and the second Monday in October; and at Abingdon on the second Mondays in June and December.

The clerk of the court for the western district shall maintain an office in charge of himself or a deputy at Lynchburg, Roanoke, Danville, Charlottesville, Harrisonburg, Big Stone Gap, and Abingdon, which shall be kept open at all times for the transaction of the business of the court. (40 Stat. 605.)

§ 1104. (Jud. Code, § 113, as amended, Act March 23, 1912, c. 63, and Act Aug. 22, 1914, c. 265.) West Virginia.

Commission of offense within district.—In view of Act Jan. 22, 1901, establishing the Northern district of West Virginia where offense was shown to have been committed at Parkersburg, held, that there was sufficient proof that it was committed within that district. Younge v. U. S., 242 F. 788, 156 C. C. A. 376, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 13, 245 U. S. 656, 62 L. Ed. 533.

CHAPTER SIX—CIRCUIT COURTS OF APPEALS

Sec.
1109. Circuit judges.
1114. Seals, forms of process, and rules.
1120. Jurisdiction; when judgment final.
1120a. Judgment final in bankruptcy cases, etc.
1121. Appeals in proceedings for injunctions and receivers.
1122. Appellate and supervisory jurisdiction under the bankrupt act.
1124. Allowance of appeals, etc.
1126a. Writs of error and appeals from supreme courts of Hawaii and Porto Rico.

§ 1109. (Jud. Code, § 118, as amended, Act Jan. 13, 1912, c. 9, and Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, § 2.) Circuit judges.

There shall be in the second, seventh, and eighth circuits, respectively, four circuit judges; in the fourth circuit, two circuit judges; and in each of the other circuits, three circuit judges, to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. All circuit judges shall receive a salary of $8,500 a year each, payable monthly. Each circuit judge shall reside within his circuit. The circuit judges in each circuit shall be judges of the circuit court of appeals in that circuit, and it shall be the duty of each circuit judge in each circuit to sit as one of the judges of the circuit court of appeals in that circuit from time to time according to law: Provided, That nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent any circuit judge holding district court or otherwise, as provided for and authorized in other sections of this Act. (37 Stat. 52, 40 Stat. 1156.)

This section was again amended by Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, § 2, cited above, to read as set forth above. This amendment consisted in increasing the salaries from $7,000 to $8,500 per annum.

Section 7 of said Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, provides that the act shall take effect and be in force on and after the first day of the month next following its approval.

Section 3 of said Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, provides that "the judges of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia shall receive salaries the same as the salaries provided by this Act to be paid to judges of the circuit court of appeals of the United States, and such salaries shall be paid as now provided by law."

§ 1114. (Jud. Code, § 122.) Seals, forms of process, and rules.

RULES OF CIRCUIT COURTS OF APPEALS

[Since the publication of U. S. Comp. St. 1916, the rules of the Circuit Courts of Appeals for all circuits except the Eighth, have been either revised, or amended. The changes made in the several circuits are indicated or set forth below.]

FIRST CIRCUIT

RULE 24. BRIEFS

7. Every brief of more than twenty pages shall contain on its front fly leaves a subject index with page references, the subject index to be supplemented by a list of all cases referred to, alphabetically arranged, together with references to pages where the cases are cited.

This section was added to rule 24 by amendment December 4, 1917.

RULE 37. APPEALS AND WRITS OF ERROR FROM DISTRICT COURT OF PORTO RICO

Appeals and writs of error from and to the District Court of the United States for the District of Porto Rico, and from the Supreme Court of the District of Porto Rico whenever by law they can be taken, shall be taken within six calendar months from the time when the right to such an appeal or writ of error accrues, and not afterwards, by filing a claim for the appeal in the registry of the court appealed from, or by suing out a writ of error from the Court of Appeals, or from the court or judge in Porto Rico, as the case may be. [See 236 F. 719.]

This additional rule was adopted October 19, 1916.

SECOND CIRCUIT

The rules for this circuit were republished October 16, 1918. The changes made thereby are set forth or indicated below.

RULE 5. CLERK

There was added to this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1285, a new section numbered 5, which reads as set forth below.

5. He shall carefully preserve in his office one copy of the printed record in every case submitted to the court for its consideration, and of all printed motions, briefs, and arguments filed therein.

RULE 6. ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELLORS

This rule is the same as former rule 7, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1287.

Former rule 6, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1286, was omitted from the rules as republished, and the subsequent rules renumbered.

RULE 7. PRACTICE

This rule is the same as former rule 8, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1288.

Former rule 7 is now rule 6.

RULE 8. PROCESS

This rule is the same as former rule 9, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1289.

Former rule 8 is now rule 7.

RULE 9. BILL OF EXCEPTIONS

This rule is the same as former rule 10, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1289. Former rule 9 is now rule 8.

RULE 10. ASSIGNMENT OF ERRORS

This rule was the same as former rule 11, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1290, except that, in the first sentence there was substituted, for the clause "with the petition for the writ of error or appeal," the clause "with the writ of error or petition for appeal." Former rule 10 is now rule 9.

RULE 11. OBJECTIONS TO EVIDENCE IN THE RECORD

This rule is the same as former rule 12, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1292. Former rule 11 is now rule 10.

RULE 12. SUPERSEDEAS AND COST BONDS

Section 1 of this rule is the same as section 1 of former rule 13, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1292. Section 2 of this rule reads as set forth below.

2. Bonds for costs shall be in the sum of $250 unless otherwise ordered by the judge approving the same.

Former rule 12 is now rule 11.

RULE 13. WRITS OF ERROR, APPEALS, RETURN AND RECORD

Section 1 of this rule is the same as section 1 of rule 14, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1294, except that there was inserted, between the word "shall" and the words "make a return," the words "on demand of any party and payment of the clerk's fees."

Section 2 of this rule is the same as section 2 of rule 14, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1295, except that there was substituted, for the clause "by writ of error or appeal," the clause "by writ of error, appeal or petition to revise."

Section 3 of this rule is the same as section 3 of rule 14, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1295.

Section 4 of this rule is the same as section 4 of rule 14, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1295, except that the word "presiding," between the words "such" and "judge," was omitted.

Section 5 of this rule is the same as section 5 of rule 14, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1295, except that the clause "whether the return day fall in vacation or in term time" was omitted therefrom.

Section 6 of rule 14, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1295, was omitted from the rules as republished. Former rule 13 is now rule 12.

RULE 14. DOCKETING CASES

Section 1 of this rule corresponds to section 1 of former rule 16, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1303, but was changed to read as set forth below.

1. It shall be the duty of the plaintiff in error or appellant to docket the case and file the record thereof with the clerk of this court by or before the return day. But for good cause shown the justice or any district judge within the district, or any judge of this court, may enlarge the time upon four days' notice of the application served before its expiration on the attorney for the opposite party, the order of enlargement to be filed with the clerk of the District Court and to be transmitted to this court with the transcript of record. If the plaintiff in error or appellant shall fail to comply with this rule, the defendant in error or appellee may have the cause docketed and dismissed by the court during the period covered by the sessions, and by the clerk after the sessions are concluded upon producing a certificate from the clerk of the court wherein the judgment or decree was rendered, stating the case and certifying that such writ of error or appeal has been duly sued out or allowed. And in no case shall the plaintiff in error or appellant be entitled to docket the case and file the record after the same shall have been docketed and dismissed under this rule, unless by order of the court.

Section 2 of this rule is the same as section 2 of former rule 16, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1303. Section 3 of this rule corresponds to no provision of the former rules. It is set forth below.

3. Petitions to revise orders in bankruptcy filed under the provisions of section 24b of the Bankruptcy Act, must be filed and served within ten days after the entry of the order sought to be revised and thereupon docketed, and a transcript of the record of the proceedings in the bankruptcy court of the matter to be revised must be filed within thirty days thereafter, but the judge of the bankruptcy court may for good cause shown enlarge the time for filing and serving the petition or filing the record, the order of enlargement to be made and filed with the clerk of the District Court before the expiration of the times hereby limited for filing and serving the petition and filing the record respectively, and to be transmitted to this court with the transcript of record.

Section 4 of this rule is the same as former section 3 of rule 16, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1303, except that there is omitted therefrom the clause "brought up by writ of error or appeal." Former rule 14 is now rule 13.

RULE 15. DOCKET

This rule is the same as former rule 17, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1305, except that there is substituted for the words "such docket," before the words "shall be called," the word "they."

Former rule 15 has been omitted from these rules as republished.

RULE 16. CERTIORARI

This rule is the same as former rule 18, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1307. Former rule 16 is now rule 14.

RULE 17. DEATH OF A PARTY

This rule is the same as former rule 19, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1308, except that in section 1 thereof, there was inserted between the words "defendant in error" and "shall be entitled," the words "or appellee," and, between the words "shall be plaintiff" and the words "or appellant," the words "in error," and there was omitted from section 3 the words "circuit or" wherever they occurred before the words "district court."

Former rule 17 is now rule 15.

RULE 18. DISMISSING CASES

This rule is the same as former rule 20, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1312, except that there was inserted, between the words "in an appeal" and the words "shall by their attorneys," the words "or the petitioner and respondent on petitions to revise." Former rule 18 is now rule 16.

RULE 19. MOTIONS

Section 1 of this rule is the same as section 1 of former rule 21, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1313, except there is added the sentence, "Four days' notice of the motion shall be given to the adverse party." Section 2 of this rule is the same as section 3 of former rule 21, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1373. Provisions limiting oral argument on motions formerly contained in section 2 of rule 21, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1313, are now in rule 23, § 3, post. Former rule 19 is now rule 17.

RULE 20. PARTIES NOT READY

This rule corresponds to former rule 22, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1314. All of its sections have been changed in wording and now read as set forth below.

1. Where no counsel appears, and no brief has been filed for the party seeking review of the decision below, when the case is called for hearing, the party successful below may have the party seeking review called and the writ of error, appeal or petition to revise dismissed.

2. Where the party successful below fails to appear when the case is called for hearing, the court may proceed to hear an argument on the part of the party seeking review, and to give judgment according to the right of the case.

3. When a case is reached in the regular call of the docket, and there is no appearance for either party, the case shall be dismissed at the cost of the party seeking review.

Former rule 20 is now rule 18.

RULE 21. PRINTING RECORDS

This rule corresponds to former rule 23, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1317. It has been changed in several particulars, so as to read as set forth below.

In cases which fall within the provisions of the act of February 13, 1911 (36 Stat. 901 [Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1656, 1657]), the plaintiff in error or appellant shall print the record and serve copies thereof in accordance with the provisions of said act. In other cases on the filing of the transcript, the clerk shall forthwith cause fifteen copies of the same to be printed, and shall furnish three copies thereof to each party, and shall file nine copies thereof in his office. The parties may stipulate in writing that parts only of the record shall be printed, and the case may be heard on the parts so printed; but the court may direct the printing of other parts of the record. The clerk shall be entitled to demand the cost of printing the record of the party seeking review before ordering the printing to be done or the said cost may be paid by any other party. If such cost of printing be not advanced within ten days of demand the case shall be dismissed unless otherwise ordered by the court. In case of reversal, affirmance, or dismissal, with costs, the amount paid for printing the record shall be taxed against the party against whom costs are given.

Former rule 21 is now rule 19.

RULE 22. DAY CALENDAR AND BRIEFS

This rule corresponds to former rule 24, Comp. St. 1916, p. 1326.
Sections 1–3 have been materially changed, so as to read as set forth below.

1. Cases shall be placed by the clerk on the day calendar for argument in their order of docketing, but (unless it be otherwise specially ordered), not until thirty days after the printed record has been filed by one of the parties, or such record has been served on the parties, if the printing be done by the clerk.

The party seeking review of the action of the court below, shall file with the clerk ten copies of a printed brief, and serve two copies thereof on each opposing counsel, within twenty days after the printed record has been filed or served as above provided. Appellees, respondents and defendants in error shall in like manner file and serve their briefs within thirty days after said filing or serving of the printed record.

If when a cause appears on the day calendar briefs shall not have been filed in accordance with this rule, such disposition of the cause shall be made as the court may order.

2. The brief for plaintiff in error, appellants and petitioners to revise shall contain, in order here stated—

(1) A concise abstract, or statement of the case, presenting, succinctly the questions involved, in the manner in which they are raised.

(2) A specification of the errors relied upon, which, in cases brought up by writ of error, shall set out separately and particularly each error asserted and intended to be urged; and in cases brought up by appeal or petition to revise the specification shall state, as particularly as may be, in what the decree or order is alleged to be erroneous.

(3) A brief of the argument, exhibiting a clear statement of the points of law or facts to be discussed, with a reference to the pages of the record and the authorities relied upon in support of each point. When a statute is cited, so much thereof as may be deemed necessary to the decision of the case shall be printed at length.

3. The brief of defendants in error appellees and respondents shall be of a like character with that required of the party seeking review, except that no specification of errors shall be required, and no statement of the case, unless that presented by the plaintiff in error, or appellant, is controverted.

Section 4 is the same as section 4 of former rule 24.

Section 5 has been materially changed to read as set forth below.

5. Where both parties allege error in the proceedings below, the original plaintiff or petitioner shall be considered appellant for the purposes of this rule.

Former rule 22 is now rule 20.

RULE 23. ORAL ARGUMENTS

Section 1 of this rule is the same as section 1 of former rule 25, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1330, except that there is inserted after the word "appellant" the words "or petitioner."

Section 2 is the same as section 2 of former rule 25, except that there is added thereto the words "except by leave of the court."

Section 3 is the same as section 3 of former rule 25, except that there is inserted, between the first word "upon" and the words "appeals from orders," the words "motions and," and the final sentence authorizing apportionment of time is omitted. Former rule 23 is now rule 21.

RULE 24. FORM OF PRINTED RECORDS, ARGUMENTS, AND BRIEFS

This rule is the same as former rule 26, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1331. Former rule 24 is now rule 22.

RULE 25. OPINIONS OF THE COURT

This rule is the same as former rule 28, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1335. Former rule 25 is now rule 23.

RULE 26. REHEARING

This rule is the same as former rule 29, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1337, except that there is substituted for the word "judgment," the two times it occurs in the first clause, the word "decision."

Former rule 26 is now rule 24.

RULE 27. INTEREST

This rule is the same as former rule 30, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1339, except that there is inserted between the words "equity" and "unless otherwise ordered," in section 3 thereof, the words "and admiralty," and section 4 is omitted. Former rule 27 is omitted from the rules as republished.

RULE 28. COSTS

Sections 1–3 of this rule correspond to sections 1–3 of former rule 31. They have been changed to read as set forth below.

1. In all cases where any suit shall be dismissed in this court, except where the dismissal shall be for want of jurisdiction, costs shall be allowed to the party successful below, unless otherwise agreed by the parties.

2. In all cases of affirmance of any judgment, decree or order in this court, costs shall be allowed to the party successful below, unless otherwise ordered by the court.

3. In cases of reversal of any judgment, decree or order in this court costs shall be allowed to the party seeking review, unless otherwise ordered by the court. The cost of the transcript of the record from the court below shall be taxable in this court as part of such costs, and the clerk of the court below shall send to the clerk of this court with the transcript of record a certificate of the cost of such transcript.

Sections 4–6 of this rule are the same as sections 4–6 of former rule 31.

Former rule 28 is now rule 25.

RULE 29. MANDATE

This rule is the same as former rule 32, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1343. Former rule 29 is now rule 26.

RULE 30. CUSTODY OF PRISONERS ON HABEAS CORPUS

This rule is the same as former rule 33, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1344, except that there is added to section 1 thereof the words "by bail or otherwise."

Former rule 30 is now rule 27.

RULE 31. MODELS, DIAGRAMS AND EXHIBITS OF MATERIAL

This rule is the same as former rule 34, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1345, except that in section 1 there is substituted for the words "at least ten days before the case is heard or submitted," at the end thereof, the words "before argument begun," and in section 3 the first sentence, relating to exhibits in customs cases, and the word "other," in the second sentence, between the first word "all" and the word "models," are omitted.

Former rule 31 is now rule 28.

RULE 32. ALLOWANCE OF APPEALS AND WRITS OF ERROR—BAIL

This rule corresponds to former rule 35, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1347.

Section 1 thereof has been changed to read as set forth below.

1. An appeal or writ of error may be allowed in term time or vacation by the circuit justice or by any circuit judge within the circuit or by any district judge within his district, and the proper security be taken and the citation be signed by him, and he may also grant a supersedeas and stay of execution or of proceedings, pending such writ of error or appeal.

Section 2 of this rule is the same as section 2 of former rule 35.

Former rule 32 is now rule 29.

RULE 33. SECURITY FOR CLERK'S FEES—TAXING COSTS

This rule corresponds to former rule 36, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1350.

Section 1 of this rule is the same as section 1 of the former rule.

Section 2 has been changed to read as set forth below.

2. At the expiration of ten days after a case has been decided or at any earlier time if the Court think justice requires it, the order thereon will be entered by the court, and the clerk will thereupon prepare and tax the bill of costs and issue the mandate. Within said time the parties may file with the clerk their proposed orders and bills of costs with proof of service of the same upon the opposing attorneys.

Former rule 33 is now rule 30.

RULE 34. ADDING CASES TO GENERAL CALENDAR

This rule corresponds to former rule 39, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1354. It has been changed to read as set forth below.

Thirty days after the record in any cause has been printed and filed with the clerk, he shall add the cause to the general calendar. After the first Monday in March in any term, no cause shall be added to the general calendar for that term without a motion therefor being made in open court.

Former rule 34 is now rule 31, former rule 35 is now rule 32, former rule 36 is now rule 33. Former rules 37 and 38 have been omitted from the rules as republished.

THIRD CIRCUIT

RULE 14. WRITS OF ERROR, APPEALS, RETURNS AND RECORDS

8. A petition to revise an order in bankruptcy may be presented for allowance either to the Circuit Court of Appeals or to one of the circuit judges. It must be presented within thirty days after the entry of the order complained of, and may be presented either by counsel in person or by mailing the petition to the clerk of this court. Ten days' notice of the time of presentation, accompanied by a copy of the petition, must be given to opposing counsel; but this notice may be waived. Ordinarily no oral argument will be heard, but if counsel desire they may submit briefs in support of the petition or in opposition thereto. If the petition be allowed, the court or the judge will fix a day for argument on the merits and will also make whatever order may seem desirable in reference to the preparation of the record and of the briefs.

This section was added to rule 14 by amendment.

FOURTH CIRCUIT

The rules for this circuit were republished in 1916. The changes made thereby, and by subsequent amendment, are set forth or indicated below.

RULE 3. TERMS

1. There shall be held in the city of Richmond, Virginia, three regular terms of this court; one on the first Tuesday of January, one on the first Tuesday of April, and one on the first Tuesday of October, in each year; and there shall be held in the city of Asheville, North Carolina, one regular term of this court on the first Tuesday of July, in each year.

This section of rule 3 was amended to read as set forth here; the amendment to be in effect after the May term, 1917.

RULE 7. ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELLORS

This rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1287, was changed by inserting, after the words "District Court of the United States," the words "or in the highest courts of the states to which they respectively belong," and by omitting the words "and on" before the words "subscribing the roll."

RULE 11. ASSIGNMENT OF ERRORS

This rule as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1290, was changed by substituting for the clause, "When this is not done," at the beginning of the last sentence, the clause, "When this rule is not complied with."

RULE 16. DOCKETING CASES

Section 2 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1304, was changed by omitting therefrom the words "whether in term time or vacation," which occurred between the words "producing a certificate" and the words "from the clerk," and by inserting the words "the transcript of" between the word "file" and the words "the record," in the last sentence thereof.

RULE 19. DEATH OF A PARTY

Section 1 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1310, was changed by substituting the word "in" for the word "to," after the words "writ of error or appeal," in the first clause thereof.

RULE 31. COSTS

Section 1 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1341, was changed by substituting for the word "where," before the words "the dismissal shall be for want of jurisdiction," the word "when."

Section 4 was changed by substituting for the word "are," after the words "United States," the word "is."

APPENDIX

The instructions as to taking appeals, suing out writs of error, making up records, etc., as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, pp. 1358–1361, were changed to read as set forth below.

Instructions as to Taking Appeals, Suing Out Writs of Error, Making Up Records, etc.

METHOD OF TAKING APPEALS

Writs of error and citations are no longer made returnable to the term day of the appellate court, but are made returnable not exceeding forty days from the day of signing the citation, whether that day, which is the return day, fall in vacation or in term time; and the record must be filed in the clerk's office of this court on or before the return day, unless the time be enlarged as provided in section 1 of rule 16, and section 6 of rule 23. In that case the order of enlargement must be filed with the clerk of this court.

Rule 11, entitled "Assignment of Errors," requires the plaintiff in error, or appellant, to file with the court below, with his petition for the writ of error or appeal, an assignment of errors. Appeals and writs of error should be prayed for by petition in writing addressed to the court below, or to the judge in vacation, who allows the writ or the appeal, by an order in writing, approves the appeal or supersedeas bond, and signs the citation.

In cases brought up by writ of error from the district court, the clerk of the district court, or the clerk of this court, issues the writ of error, which writ fixes the return day, and the citation should bear the same return day. But in cases of appeal (in admiralty or in equity), the citation alone fixes the return day.

All appeals, therefore, whether by writ of error or appeal, should hereafter be taken in the following manner:

1. Petition in writing for the appeal, or writ of error, addressed to the court below, or the judge thereof in vacation.

2. The petition must be accompanied with an assignment of errors, and a prayer for reversal.

3. Appeal or writ of error bond, approval thereof, and the signing of the citation by the judge allowing the appeal or writ.

4. Order in writing of the judge allowing the writ of error or appeal.

5. Issuing the writ of error by the clerk of the district court, or of this court.

6. In case it is desired to have the writ of error issued by the clerk of this court, a certified copy of the petition and order allowing the writ, under the seal of the court, with a fee of $5 for issuing it, must be transmitted to the clerk of this court, and the writ will be issued and forwarded to the clerk of the court below.

All of the above papers and proceedings should be filed with the clerk of the lower court. The writ of error and the citation, the originals of which, after having been duly served, must be certified up to this court as required by section 7 of rule 14. (For service of writ of error see section 1007, R. S.)

In cases brought up by petitions to superintend and revise in bankruptcy, see rule 36. The petition should be filed in the clerk's office of this court.

Rules of this court, blank writs of error, appeal and supersedeas bonds, citations, and orders of appearance may be had of the clerks of the lower courts or of the clerk of this court upon application.

MAKING UP RECORDS

In making up a transcript of the record, clerks are requested to make a distinct title or heading to each paper or proceeding copied into the record, with the date of filing the same, or the date of such proceeding, and to write upon but one side of the paper in a clear legible hand.

And a complete index of all the papers and proceedings should be made in their chronological order and attached to the record at the beginning of it. Names of witnesses should be written at top of each page of their testimony.

In order to have uniformity, records should be commenced with the style and the term of the court at which the judgment or decree is entered, after the following form:

"The United States of America,
District of ....., to-wit:

"At a District Court of the United States for the ..... District of ....., begun and held at the court-house in the city of ....., on the first Monday of ....., being the ..... day of the same month, in the year of our Lord one thousand, nine hundred and .....

"Present: The Honorable ....., District Judge, for the ..... District of .....

"Among other were the following proceedings, to-wit:

A. B. v. C. D. } In Equity (or) In Admiralty (or) At Law.

"Bill of Complaint (or)
"Libel (or)
"Declaration (or Complaint)
"Filed ....., 191..(date of filing)."

(Copy same with all material indorsements, and any accompanying papers and exhibits, and so on with every paper or proceeding in the case.)

As to the general order of making up a record, the following examples are given:

In Equity.	In Admiralty.	At Law.
1. Style of Court as Above.	1. Style of Court as Above.	1. Style of Court as Above.
2. Bill of Complaint, etc.	2. Libel.	2. Declaration.
3. Process.	3. Process.	3. Process.
4. Marshal's Return.	4. Marshal's Return.	4. Marshal's Return.
5. Answer.	5. Claim.	5. Plea or Demurrer, etc.
6. Replication.	6. Stipulation.	6. Joining of Issue.
7. Testimony and Exhibits for Complainant.	7. Answer.	7. Impaneling Jury.
8. Testimony and Exhibits for Defendant.	8. Testimony and Exhibits for Libellant.	8. Verdict.
9. Testimony and Exhibits in Rebuttal.	9. Testimony and Exhibits for Respondent.	9. Judgment.
10. Opinion.	10. Testimony and Exhibits in Rebuttal.	10. Bill of Exceptions.
11. Decree.	11. Opinion.	11. Assignment of Errors.
12. Assignment of Errors.	12. Decree.	12. Clerk's Certificate.
13. Clerk's Certificate.	13. Assignment of Errors.
	14. Clerk's Certificate.

FORM OF MEMORANDUM TO BE INSERTED IN A COMMON-LAW CASE AS PROVIDED BY SECTION 7 OF RULE 14

(1) Petition for writ of error filed ..... day of ....., 19...
(2) Writ of error granted ..... day of ....., 19...
(3) Writ of error issued ..... day of ....., 19...
(4) Copy of writ of error lodged for adverse party ..... day of ....., 19....
(5) Writ of Error Bond: Dated ..... day of ....., 19...
Penalty $.....
Obligors: .....
.....
.....
Conditioned for costs and damages (or for costs).

(6) Citation. Dated ..... day of ....., 19...

Return, dated ..... day of ....., 19... (or waiver of service, dated ..... day of ....., 19...)

Note: Similar memorandum mutatis mutandis to be used in admiralty and equity cases.

The petition for writ of error or appeal, the order granting writ of error or appeal, the writ of error, the appeal bond, the citation, the return of service or waiver of service should not be copied into the record, but the originals thereof shall be sent up and accompany the transcript of the record.

In transcribing bills of exceptions into the record in cases at law, clerks will carefully inspect such bills of exceptions and wherever the words "here insert" occur, the paper or matter called for should be bodily incorporated into the record at that place.

In making up records in admiralty cases the following should be omitted (see rule 52 of the Supreme Court, in Admiralty):

1. The continuances.

2. All motions, rules, and orders not excepted to which are merely preparatory for trial.

3. The commissions to take depositions, notices therefor, their captions, and certificates of their being sworn to, unless some exception to a deposition in the district court was founded on some one or more of these; in which case, so much of either of them as may be involved in the exception shall be set out. In all other cases it shall be sufficient to give the name of the witness and to copy the interrogatories and answers, and to state the name of the commissioner, and the place where and the date when the deposition was sworn to; and, in copying all depositions taken on interrogatories, the answer shall be inserted immediately following the question.

FORM FOR THE COVER OF A TRANSCRIPT OF THE RECORD

TRANSCRIPT OF THE RECORD

United States Circuit Court of Appeals,
Fourth Circuit.
No. ———

.....

Plaintiff in Error, or Appellant, or Petitioner, versus

.....

Defendant in Error, or Appellee, or Respondent.

In Error to (or Appeal from or on Petition for Review from) the District Court of the United States for the ..... District of ....., at .....

DOCKETING CASES AND PRINTING RECORDS

Upon a record being filed, the case is docketed and is put upon the calendar for argument at the next term, or adjourned term, occurring thereafter, provided the record has been printed and copies thereof are delivered to opposing counsel twenty days before the said term or adjourned term, as provided in section 2, rule 17.

Clerk or counsel transmitting a record to this court must accompany the same with an order of appearance for the appellant or plaintiff in error, and also with a deposit of $25 for account of his costs to accrue in this court, and the names and addresses of the attorneys on both sides.

The clerk of this court will immediately upon a transcript of the record being filed under rule 23, send to the counsel an estimate of the cost of printing, supervising fees, etc., which amount must be deposited, either in cash or by New York exchange, with the clerk within ten days after notice. See rule 23.

It is important that records should be made up and forwarded to this office as promptly as possible after the appeal or writ of error is allowed, and not held until the near approach of the next term.

Defendants in error, appellees, or respondents are required, at the time of entering their appearance by attorney, to make a deposit of $25.00, for account of costs to be incurred by them in this court.

Deposits for costs are required on both sides of a case, and the surplus of such deposits, if any, will be refunded to each side making the deposits when the case is decided and at the time the mandate is transmitted to the lower court. The winning party collects the costs incurred by and adjudged to him, together with his attorney's docket fee, in the lower court upon the mandate and not from this office. The mandate will show the amount the winning party is entitled to so collect.

FIFTH CIRCUIT

The rules for this circuit were republished in 1916. The changes made thereby and by subsequent amendment are set forth or indicated below.

RULE 11. ASSIGNMENT OF ERRORS

This rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1291, was changed to read the same as rule 11 of the First Circuit, set forth in U. S. Comp. St. 1916, p. 1290.

RULE 13. SUPERSEDEAS AND COST BONDS

Section 2 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1292, was changed by substituting for the word "his," before the last word "appeal," the word "the."

RULE 16. DOCKETING CASES

Section 1 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1304, was changed by substituting for the word "the," before the last word "Court," the word "this."

RULE 19. DEATH OF A PARTY

Section 1 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1308, was changed by substituting for the word "to," between the words "appeal" and "this court," the word "in."

Section 3, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1309, was changed by substituting for the word "case," before the words "shall proceed," in the last proviso, the word "suit."

RULE 22. PARTIES NOT READY

Section 1 of this rule, as set forth in U. S. Comp. St. 1916, p. 1314, was changed by substituting for the word "is," between the words "case" and "called for trial," the words "has been."

RULE 24. BRIEFS

Section 1 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1328, was amended April 12, 1918, to read as set forth below.

1. The counsel for the plaintiff in error, appellant, or petitioner, shall file with the clerk of this court at least fifteen (15) days in ordinary cases, and five (5) days in preference cases, before the case is called for argument, twenty (20) copies of a printed brief, one to be signed in handwriting by an attorney of this court who has entered an appearance in the case; one copy of the brief shall, on application, be furnished to each of the counsel engaged on the opposite side.

In cases arising in the Canal Zone, the brief shall be filed twenty-five (25) days, and in preference cases five (5) days, before the case is called for argument.

RULE 26. FORM OF PRINTED ARGUMENTS AND BRIEFS

This rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1332, was changed to read as set forth below.

All records, arguments and briefs printed for the use of the court must be in such form and size that they can be conveniently bound together so as to make an ordinary octavo volume; and, as well as all quotations contained therein, and the covers thereof, must be printed in clear type (never smaller than small pica) and on unglazed paper.

RULE 30. INTEREST

Section 4 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1339, was changed by substituting for the word "in," before the word "admiralty," the word "of."

RULE 34. MODELS, DIAGRAMS, AND EXHIBITS OF MATERIAL

Section 1 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1345, was changed by inserting therein the word "and" before the words "in any case pending."

Section 2, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1345, was changed by omitting the word "the" before the words "inspection of the court."

SIXTH CIRCUIT

The changes in and amendments to the rules of this circuit, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, are set forth or indicated below.

RULE 4. QUORUM

This rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1285, was changed by substituting, for the word "any," the word "the," before the words "day appointed for holding it," and by substituting the words "time to time" for the words "day to day" before the words "until there is a quorum," in the second sentence.

RULE 6. MARSHAL, CRIER AND OTHER OFFICERS

Section 3 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1286, was changed so as to make the last clause read "with the number of bailiffs and messengers which the court may from time to time order."

RULE 11. ASSIGNMENTS OF ERROR

This rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1291, was changed to read as set forth below.

The appellant shall file with the clerk of the District Court at or before the time of filing his petition for the writ of error or appeal, an assignment of errors, which shall set out separately and particularly each error asserted and intended to be urged. No writ of error or appeal shall be allowed until such assignment of errors shall have been filed. When the error alleged is to the admission or to the rejection of evidence, the assignment of errors shall quote the full substance admitted or rejected. When the error alleged is to the charge of the court, the assignment of errors shall set out the part referred to totidem verbis, whether it be in instructions given or in instructions refused. When this is not done, counsel will not be heard, except at the request of the court, and errors not assigned according to this rule will be disregarded; but the court, at its option, may notice a plain error not assigned.

RULE 26. INTEREST AND DAMAGES

Section 1 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1332, was changed by adding at the end thereof the following sentence:

In all cases to which this clause of this rule applies, the mandate shall be taken to direct the allowance of such interest.

RULE 29. MANDATE

This rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1338, was changed by inserting before the words "Such mandate," at the beginning of the second paragraph, the words "Unless otherwise ordered."

SEVENTH CIRCUIT

The rules for this circuit were republished October 31, 1916. The changes made thereby are set forth or indicated below.

RULE 3. TERMS

This rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1283, was changed by substituting for the word "second," before the words "Tuesday in April," the word "last."

RULE 5. CLERK

Section 3 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1285, was changed by substituting for the word "may," before the last word "direct," the word "shall."

RULE 7. ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELLORS

This rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1288, was changed by substituting for the word "shall," before the words "become attorneys and counsellors," the word "may."

RULE 10. BILL OF EXCEPTIONS AND TRANSCRIPT

Section 1 of this rule as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1290, was changed by inserting the word "and" between the words "common law" and the words "upon any general exception," by substituting for the word "such" in the last clause of the first sentence the word "said," and by substituting for the word "such," before the words "charge to which he excepts," the word "the."

RULE 11. ASSIGNMENT OF ERRORS

This rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1290, was changed to read the same as rule 11 for the Sixth Circuit, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1291.

RULE 13. SUPERSEDEAS AND COST BONDS

Section 1 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1293, was changed by substituting for the word "shall," before the words "prosecute his writ or appeal to effect," in the first sentence, the word "will," and by omitting the word "just," before the word "damages," in the last clause of the section.

RULE 16. DOCKETING CASES

Section 1 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1305, was changed by omitting the word "time," between the words "term" and "or vacation," in the third sentence, and by substituting for the word "has," between the words "appeal" and "been duly sued out," the word "had."

RULE 19. DEATH OF A PARTY

Section 1 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1311, was changed by substituting for the word "to," between the words "appeal" and "this court," the word "in," by omitting the word "in" between the words "determined" and "other cases," and by substituting in the proviso for the word "said," before the word "representatives," the word "such."

Section 2 was changed by substituting for the word "are," before the words "taken by the opposite party," the words "shall have been."

Section 3 was changed by omitting the word "in" before the last two words, "other cases."

RULE 21. MOTIONS

Section 1 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1314, was changed by substituting for the word "objects," before the last three words, "of the motion," the words "the object."

NINTH CIRCUIT

The rules for this circuit were republished as amended December 2, 1918. The changes made thereby are set forth or indicated below.

RULE 10. BILL OF EXCEPTIONS

This rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1289, was changed by omitting the words "circuit and," before the words "district courts," in the first sentence thereof.

RULE 14. WRITS OF ERROR, APPEALS, RETURN AND RECORD

Section 1 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1298, was changed by inserting the words "of the court" after the words "opinion or opinions."

Section 2 was changed by inserting the words "in detail" between the words "stating" and "the cost of the record."

RULE 19. DEATH OF A PARTY

This rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1312, was changed by substituting for the word "to," between the words "appeal" and "this court," the word "in."

RULE 20. DISMISSING CASES BY AGREEMENT

The title of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1312, was changed by adding thereto the words "by agreement."

RULE 23. PRINTING RECORDS

Section 2 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. p. 1324, was changed by substituting for the word "sixty," before the words "copies of the record," the word "eighty."

RULE 25. ORAL ARGUMENTS

Section 3 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1331, was changed to read as follows:

3. Upon appeals from orders granting or refusing a preliminary injunction or appointing a receiver, and upon appeals in habeas corpus matters and upon appeals and petitions to revise in bankruptcy, one-half hour on each side; upon writs of error three-quarters of an hour on each side, and in other cases one hour on each side will be allowed. No more time than above specified will be allowed without special leave of the court granted before the argument begins. The time thus allowed may be apportioned between the counsel on the same side at their discretion, provided always that a fair opening of the case shall be made by the party having the opening and closing argument.

RULE 36. TERMS AND SESSIONS OF THE COURT

Section 3 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, was changed by substituting for the word "second," before the words "Monday in September," in the second sentence thereof, the word "third," by substituting for the clause "beginning upon the third Monday in September," after the words "term at Portland shall be held," the clause "following the adjournment thereof," by substituting for the word "court," before the words "of Alaska," the word "courts," and by adding thereto the following sentence:

All cases assigned for hearing at Seattle and at Portland shall be placed upon a calendar by the clerk to be called on the opening day of the term at Seattle and set for hearing during the Seattle and Portland terms, respectively.

Notes of decisions on rules of Circuit Courts of Appeal

II. APPLICATION AND CONSTRUCTION OF RULES

(A) Assignment of errors

See, also, notes under § 1653, post.

3. First circuit.—Under court rule 11, declaring that plaintiff in error shall file with his petition for writ of error an assignment of errors which shall set out separately and particularly each error asserted, several errors should not be grouped in one assignment. Henna v. Sauri & Subira, 237 F. 145, 150 C. C. A. 291.

Under the express provisions of rule 11, and of rule 24, par. 4, of the Rules for the First Circuit, the court may, at its option, notice plain errors, though not assigned. Jones v. Pettingill, 245 F. 269, 157 C. C. A. 461, certiorari denied Pettingill v. Jones, 38 S. Ct. 61, 245 U. S. 663, 62 L. Ed. 536.

4. Second circuit.—Under Circuit Court of Appeals, Second Circuit, rule 11, error in excluding from jury's consideration a statement of plaintiff's agent, unless it was known to plaintiff, can be noticed without assignment. Swiss Bankverein v. Zimmermann, 240 F. 87, 153 C. C. A. 123.

Claim that charge amounted to a summing up on behalf of the government may be considered under rule 11 of the Second circuit, though no objection or exception was taken. Oppenheim v. U. S., 241 F. 625, 154 C. C. A. 383, reversing judgment U. S. v. Oppenheim (D. C.) 228 F. 220.

5. Third circuit.—Under court rule 11 for Circuit Court of Appeals for Third Circuit, plain error may be reviewed by Circuit Court of Appeals on its own motion, without regard to regularity or irregularity of proceeding by which it was brought before court. Letterman v. U. S., 246 F. 940, 159 C. C. A. 212.

6. Fourth circuit.—Under rule 11 for Circuit Courts of Appeals, assignments of error to admission of evidence, which point out questions that were propounded, but fail to state several answers sought to be obtained, are insufficient.—R. D. Cole Mfg. Co. v. Mendenhall, 240 F. 641, 153 C. C. A. 439.

An assignment of error complaining of admission of evidence, which does not quote the full substance of the evidence admitted, is insufficient, under rule 11 for Circuit Court of Appeals. City of Grafton v. Gentry Bros.' Shows, 240 F. 646, 153 C. C. A. 444.

7. Fifth circuit.—See Bernal v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 241 F. 339.

8. Sixth circuit.—See Kalloch v. Hoagland (C. C. A.) 239 F. 252; Eberhard v. Northwestern Mut. Life Ins. Co. (C. C. A.) 241 F. 353.

Error in adjudging party bankrupt on petition of creditors who were estopped to set up act of bankruptcy relied on held to be noticed, though not properly assigned, under rule 11. Ohio Motor Car Co. v. Eiseman Magneto Co., 230 F. 370, 144 C. C. A. 512, certiorari denied National Carbon Co. v. Ohio Motor Car Co., 36 S. Ct. 724, 241 U. S. 673, 60 L. Ed. 1231.

Error not assigned on appeal from an order confirming a sale on mortgage foreclosure, cannot be considered, where the error, if any, did not appear on the record so plainly as to warrant consideration under rule 11. Painter v. Union Trust Co., 246 F. 240, 158 C. C. A. 400.

Where, in action by purchaser for damages on account of vendor's inability to convey title as agreed, there was error in favor of purchaser in assessment of damages, such error, not having been assigned, will not be considered, under rule 11. Crocker v. Ingersoll Engineering & Constructing Co., 249 F. 31, 161 C. C. A. 91.

10. Eighth circuit.—Though there was no finding that bankrupt intended to give a preference, held, that court would not exercise option, under rule 11, as to considering errors not assigned, as the omission was evidently an oversight. Wm. Edwards Co. v. La Dow, 230 F. 378, 144 C. C. A. 520, modifying judgment In re Miller (D. C.) 221 F. 471.

Where the portion of the charge alleged to have been erroneous was not set out totidem verbis, as required by rule 11, and no exception was taken to the charge as given, the judgment will not be reversed on an assignment of error to the charge. Fisher Mach. Works Co. v. Dougherty, 231 F. 910, 146 C. C. A. 106.

Under rule 11, Circuit Court of Appeals, Eighth Circuit, an appeal should be dismissed, where the assignment of errors was not filed at the time of the granting of the appeal or the filing of a supersedeas bond, but came nearly a month later. Reed v. Anderson, 236 F. 345, 149 C. C. A. 477.

Assignments of error, framed in disregard of rules of Circuit Court of Appeals, may be disregarded. Bandy v. U. S., 245 F. 98, 157 C. C. A. 394.

Where information charging contempt was not attacked in court below, and there was no assignment of error that it did not state facts sufficient to constitute a contempt, objections to information, which are not plain, but are of a technical character, cannot be considered under rule 11, allowing Circuit Court of Appeals to consider a plain error not assigned. Couts v. U. S., 249 F. 595, 161 C. C. A. 521.

In a suit to set aside deeds because the grantors were incompetent and the grantees exerted undue influence, where the court sustained exceptions to a master's report in favor of defendants and entered a decree for plaintiff reciting that exceptions were sustained and the deeds set aside, etc., defendants' general assignment of error that the court found upon the issues for plaintiff, that it found the deeds were procured by undue influence, and that the grantors were incompetent, held sufficient under rule 11 of the Circuit Court of Appeals. Ludwig v. Bressler (C. C. A.) 253 F. 8.

An assignment of error complaining of the overruling of objections to testimony, which failed to set out the testimony or its substance as required by ccurt rule 11, will be treated as abandoned; it not being discussed in the brief. Kreuzer v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 34.

In an action by a trustee in bankruptcy to recover alleged preferential payments made prior to the amendment of 1910, the judgment contained a finding that the bankrupt was hopelessly insolvent at the time of the preferential payments, and the opinion of the District Court stated that the evidence left little doubt but that the transaction was on the part of the bankrupt in conscious fraud of his creditors, and that it operated as a great fraud on other creditors, as well as a preference for the defendants. Held that, though there was no express finding that the bankrupt intended to give a preference, the court would not exercise its option as to considering a plain error not assigned, as such express finding would naturally and presumably have been made, had attention been called to the fact that the alleged preference antedated the amendment of 1910. Wm. Edwards Co. v. La Dow (C. C. A.) 230 F. 378.

11. Ninth circuit.—Under rules 11 and 24, a writ of error will be dismissed, where no assignment of errors was filed in time and no obvious error appeared on the face of the record, though the court may, to prevent miscarriage of justice, notice an obvious error. Willamette & Columbia River Towing Co. v. Hutchison, 236 F. 908, 150 C. C. A. 170.

Rules 11 and 24 for Circuit Courts of Appeals apply to assignment of errors in Circuit Court of Appeals, and do not warrant review in action tried to court of matters not reviewable under Rev. St. § 700 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1668), because not presented below. Maryland Casualty Co. of Baltimore, Md., v. Orchard Land & Timber Co., 240 F. 364, 153 C. C. A. 290.

Under rule 11 of the Circuit Court of Appeals, that court is not required to consider a defense which was not pleaded, nor brought to the attention of the trial court, nor made the subject of any assignment of error. Hart v. Adair, 244 F. 897, 157 C. C. A. 247.

While in equity case specifications of error should state as particularly as may be in what respect decree is alleged to be erroneous, rule should be relaxed in favor of plaintiff, prosecuting appeal in personam pursuant to order allowing him to appeal in forma pauperis. Edwards v. Bodkin, 249 F. 562, 161 C. C. A. 488.

(B) Bail and custody of prisoners

15. Admission to bail.—Term of imprisonment of a convict held not to commence to run at time of his arrest or imprisonment under sentence by another court, at which time error proceedings were pending to reverse his first conviction. Ex parte Lyman (D. C.) 247 F. 611.

Where petitioners, pending appeal in habeas corpus proceedings, were on their own application released, though they failed to enter into recognizance required by court rule 33, subd. 3, such period cannot be counted as part of period of imprisonment, on theory that, as they failed to give recognizance, they were subject to arrest at any time. Morgan v. Ward, 248 F. 691, 160 C. C. A. 591, certiorari denied Ward v. Morgan, 38 S. Ct. 582, 247 U. S. 521, 62 L. Ed. 1246. See notes under §§ 1014–1017, 1674, 1679–1681.

(C) Bill of exceptions

See, also, notes under § 1590, post.

16. First circuit.—An exception to action of court "in giving all instructions requested by plaintiff" is too general to point any error of an instruction on damages in duplicating elements, so as to allow of review. Guerini Stone Co. v. P. J. Carlin Const. C., 39 S. Ct. 102.

16½. Second circuit.—Claim that charge amounted to a summing up on behalf of the government may be considered under rule 11 of the Second circuit, though no objection or exception was taken. Oppenheim v. U. S., 241 F. 625, 154 C. C. A. 383, reversing judgment U. S. v. Oppenheim (D. C.) 228 F. 220.

A general exception to a portion of the court's charge, which did not specifically point out the error relied on, is insufficient to warrant an appellate court in reviewing the same on error. Morse v. Tillotson & Wolcott Co. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 340.

17. Third circuit.—Comp. St. 1916, § 1537, does not make Act Pa. May 11, 1911 (P. L. 279), applicable in the federal courts, notwithstanding rule 10, § 2, of District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, and rule 10, § 1, of Circuit Court of Appeals, Third Circuit, forbidding general exceptions to the charge. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. Marland, 239 F. 1, 152 C. C. A. 51.

Error in charge allowing recovery for loss of companionship under the Employers' Liability Act is a plain error, which the court will notice under rule 11 of Circuit Court of Appeals, Third Circuit, though not specially excepted to. Id.

An error in the charge assigned stands as though unassigned, within rule 11 of Circuit Court of Appeals, Third Circuit, where it was improperly assigned because of the lack of specific exception. Id.

Under rule 10, § 2, of Rules of District Court of United States for Eastern District of Pennsylvania, and rule 10, § 1, of Rules of United States Circuit Court of Appeals for Third Circuit, mere general exception to whole charge will not support specifications of error with reference to specific instructions given and omitted. Letterman v. U. S., 246 F. 940, 159 C. C. A. 212.

In view of rule 10, failure of trial court in defining preferential transfer in suit to set transfer aside under Bankruptcy Act July 1, 1898, § 60b, as amended by Act June 25, 1910, § 11 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9644), to use the word "reasonable," as used in statute, held no ground for objection on appeal; objection to instruction not specifically pointing out defect. Campbell v. Krauss, 249 F. 670, 161 C. C. A. 580.

In view of Circuit Court of Appeals rule 10, § 1, and District Court rule 10, § 2, assignments based on a general exception to the whole charge will not be considered on writ of error. Graboyes v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 793.

18. Fourth circuit.—In detinue, assignments of error relating to rulings as to ownership cannot be reviewed, where not based upon a bill of exceptions, as required by the court rules. Mound Coal Co. v. Jeffrey Mfg. Co., 233 F. 913, 147 C. C. A. 587, affirming judgment Jeffrey Mfg. Co. v. Mound Coal Co. (D. C.) 215 F. 222. Rehearing granted Mound Coal Co. v. Jeffrey Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 240 F. 129, and judgment affirmed on rehearing Id. 412.

An exception, and a bill of exceptions based thereon, containing evidence in narrative form, duly submitted to the trial court before expiration of the term, are necessary to secure review of rulings of the trial court. Id.

Admission of evidence cannot under the rules of the court be reviewed, there having been no objection and saving of that question by bill of exceptions. Vance v. Clark (C. C. A.) 252 F. 495.

19. Fifth circuit.—Errors in charge are not available in reviewing court, where court's attention was not directed thereto before jury's retirement. Hunnicutt v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 556.

20. Sixth circuit.—See Buckeye Cotton Oil Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 712.

Refusal to instruct for defendant on certain counts held not reviewable, without exception at the time, or at the trial in open court.—Stultz v. Cousins, 242 F. 794, 155 C. C. A. 382.

22. Eighth circuit.—An exception "to the charge to the jury separately and as a whole, to each and every charge to the jury, and also to them in toto," was too general, and could not be considered, where any part of the charge was good; the court's attention not being called to any specific errors alleged to have been committed, so as to give it an opportunity to correct them. McClendon v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 229 F. 523.

An exception to the action and ruling of the court "in giving said instructions and each of them" was no exception at all, as the court's attention was not drawn to any portion of the charge, so that it might be corrected, if necessary. Gardner v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 575.

Where the portion of the charge alleged to have been erroneous was not set out totidem verbis, as required by rule 11, and no exception was taken to the charge as given, the judgment will not be reversed on an assignment of error to the charge. Fisher Mach. Works Co. v. Dougherty, 231 F. 910, 146 C. C. A. 106.

An exception to a charge, which is general, and fails to specify the particular part claimed to be erroneous, is insufficient, though where the excerpt quoted showed the contention made, and it was raised by motions for an instructed verdict, it will be considered. Cisco v. Looper, 236 F. 336, 149 C. C. A. 468.

23. Ninth circuit.—See Simpson v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 245 F. 278.

Where part of a charge is correct, a general exception to the whole will not bring up for review those portions which are erroneous. Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, 233 F. 956, 147 C. C. A. 630.

Exceptions to the charge of the court in a criminal case held sufficiently specific to direct the court's attention to the particular point objected to, when taken in connection with an instruction requested by defendants and refused. Sam Yick v. U. S., 240 F. 60, 153 C. C. A. 96.

Where exceptions to each and every instruction offered on behalf of the prosecution did not show what instructions were given, and if deemed to apply to those given failed to draw the attention of the court to the particular portions objected to, such exceptions raised no question for review. Beyer v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 39.

(D) Briefs and oral arguments

See, also, notes under § 1653.

25½. Second circuit.—Counsel, desiring an examination of cases referred to, should comply with rule 37, requiring citations of Federal Cases to be accompanied by the citation of the original report, and, where citation is made from American Bankruptcy Reports, that citation in the Federal Reporter or in the United States Supreme Court Reports should be given. In re Kerner (C. C. A.) 250 F. 993.

29. Sixth circuit.—Errors assigned, but not insisted upon nor argued as required by court rule 20, are treated as waived. Saalfield Pub. Co. v. G. & C. Merriam Co., 238 F. 1, 151 C. C. A. 77.

31. Eighth circuit.—See St. Louis Merchants' Bridge Terminal Ry. Co. v. Schuerman (C. C. A.) 237 F. 1; Sanford v. First Nat. Bank of Marysville, Kan. (C. C. A.) 238 F. 298; Cropper v. Davis, 243 F. 310, 156 C. C. A. 90;

Coca-Cola Co. v. Moore (C. C. A.) 246 F. 942.

Assignments of error, not set out in plaintiff in error's brief as required by rule 24, cannot be considered. City of Goldfield, Colo., v. Roger, 249 F. 39, 161 C. C. A. 99; Harris v. U. S., 249 F. 41, 161 C. C. A. 101, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 425, 246 U. S. 675, 62 L. Ed. 933.

When a plaintiff in error fails to point out in the argument the page of the transcript on which an error appears, such error will not ordinarily be considered by the appellate court. Colorado Yule Marble Co. v. Collins, 230 F. 78, 144 C. C. A. 376.

Error in permitting accused to be cross-examined beyond the scope of his admission in chief, not specified in the brief as required by Circuit Court of Appeals Rules for the Eighth Circuit, rule 24, will not be reviewed, where defendant's guilt was clear. Kinser v. U. S., 231 F. 856, 146 C. C. A. 52.

Assignments of error complaining of the admission or exclusion of evidence, but not quoting the evidence as required by rule 24, and unsupported by argument or reasons in the brief, will not be considered. Cisco v. Looper, 236 F. 336, 149 C. C. A. 468.

Where neither assignment of errors nor brief of appellants referred to any pleadings or proof in the record which would have sustained the decree they contended should have been rendered, the contention must be overruled on appeal. Broatch v. Boysen, 236 F. 516, 149 C. C. A. 568.

A Circuit Court of Appeals will not review rulings on the admission or rejection of evidence, where the brief of appellant does not, in compliance with its rules, set out the evidence admitted or excluded, nor specify the objections to such rulings. Weiland v. Pioneer Irr. Co., 238 F. 519, 151 C. C. A. 455.

Disregard of rule 24 of the Eighth Circuit, requiring the brief of plaintiff in error to set out the specifications of error relied upon separately, warrant an affirmance of the judgment. Lohman v. Stockyards Loan Co., 243 F. 517, 156 C. C. A. 215, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 134, 245 U. S. 668, 62 L. Ed. 539.

Where appellant's brief complied with rule 24 for the Circuit Court of Appeals, save in so far as it failed to set forth the pages of the record where the evidence in support of the argument could be found, the appeal will not be dismissed or the judgment affirmed, as it was necessary for the appellate court to read all of the evidence on the important issues raised in order to decide them. Ludwig v. Bressler (C. C. A.) 253 F. 8.

Brief for plaintiffs in error not containing a specification of errors on which they rely, as required by Circuit Court of Appeals rule 24, judgment must be affirmed. Daly-West Mining Co. v. Savage (C. C. A.) 253 F. 548.

32. Ninth circuit.—See Chan Pong v. U. S., 230 F. 1021, 144 C. C. A. 663; Valentine v. City of Juneau, 232 F. 1023, 146 C. C. A. 668.

Where plaintiff prosecuted appeal in forma pauperis under permission of order of Circuit Court of Appeals, relaxing rules 23 and 24, appeal cannot be dismissed because no printed brief containing concise abstract or statement of case had been filed or served as required by such rules. Edwards v. Bodkin, 249 F. 562, 161 C. C. A. 488.

(F) Docketing cases

37. Fourth circuit.—Under rule 16 for Circuit Court of Appeals, where no assignment of errors accompanied petition in error, and, after notice of motion to dismiss was filed, counsel for plaintiff in error filed certificate of clerk of District Court that assignment of errors was omitted through inadvertence, but suggested no diminution of record, writ will be dismissed. City of Grafton v. Gentry Bros.' Shows, 240 F. 646, 153 C. C. A. 444.

38. Fifth Circuit.—Appeal will not be dismissed, under rule 16, though not returned within time prescribed by original citation, where appellee participated in settlement of record thereafter, and the signing of statement of the evidence was delayed by trial judge. Grafton v. Meikleham, 246 F. 737, 159 C. C. A. 39, reversing decree In re Meikleham (D. C.) 236 F. 401. Certiorari denied Meikleham v. Grafton, 38 S. Ct. 334, 246 U. S. 665, 62 L. Ed. 929.

40. Eighth circuit.—For dismissal of appeal or writ of error for want of prosecution, pursuant to rule 16, see Dwyer v. U. S., 232 F. 1020, 146 C. C. A. 665; Neff v. National Investment & Securities Co., 232 F. 1022, 146 C. C. A. 667.

41. Ninth circuit.—For dismissal of writ of error for noncompliance with rule 16, subd. 1, see Osterman v. Anaconda Copper Mining Co., 230 F. 1023, 144 C. C. A. 664.

(G) Interest, costs, and damages

42½. First circuit.—Rule 30 for Circuit Court of Appeals for First Circuit applies only to decrees which are affirmed, and not to substantially modified, decrees; therefore, where decree in favor of receiver of national bank against president, on account of latter's negligence in failing to guard against peculations of bookkeeper, was substantially reduced on appeal, interest was properly denied. Dresser v. Bates (C. C. A.) 250 F. 525.

43. Second circuit.—A prevailing party in an appeal, which itself prepared a part of the record, held, under court rule 23, entitled to tax only the actual expense of the work, without any addition for overhead or shop charges. Steffens v. Steiner, 232 F. 862, 147 C. C. A. 56.

Under rule 30 of the Circuit Court of Appeals, judgments and decrees entered upon mandates from that court do not bear interest, unless so directed in the mandate. Consolidated Rubber Tire Co. v. Diamond Rubber Co. of New York (D. C.) 232 F. 508.

44. Third circuit.—Under rule 29, par. 3, and rule 23, par. 7, of the Circuit Court of Appeals, when a judgment is reversed, with costs, plaintiff is entitled to costs of the appeal, including actual cost of printing the record, but not including cost of printing briefs, nor cost of transcript, which must be taxed in the District Court as costs in the case. Bailey v. Mississippi Home Telephone Co. (D. C.) 254 F. 358.

46. Sixth circuit.—Where the only excuse offered to defeat an action for the death of one run down by defendant's train was obviously insufficient, a penalty of 5 per cent. is properly imposed under rule 26, clause 2, upon affirmance of the judgment on error. Southern Ry. Co. v. Cooper, 245 F. 857, 158 C. C. A. 197.

As court rule 10 provides that evidence in bill of exceptions shall be stated in narrative form, all parts not essential being omitted, defendant, though successful on writ of error, should be allowed only one-half of costs of printing transcript, where bill of exceptions set forth the entire evidence as questions and answers and included much that was redundant. Buckeye Cotton Oil Mill v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 712.

(I) Printing record

57. Ninth circuit.—For dismissal of appeal for failure to print record under rule 23, and file printed brief under rule 24, see Chan Pong v. U. S., 230 F. 1021, 144 C. C. A. 663; Valentine v. City of Juneau, 232 F. 1023, 146 C. C. A. 668.

(K) Supersedeas and cost bonds

See, also, notes under §§ 1660, 1666.

65½. Second circuit.—Under Rev. St. § 1000 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1660), writ of error, but for Supreme Court rule 29 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1833), of which rule 13 for Circuit Courts of Appeals is a copy, can be perfected and cause heard without any security at all, except for costs. Rederiaktiebolaget Amie v. Universal Transp. Co., 245 F. 282, 157 C. C. A. 474.

Though no supersedeas bond was given when writ of error was taken, it is, under Rev. St. § 1000 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1660), mere irregularity, and any Circuit Judge or judge of Circuit Court of Appeals may, after expiration of 60-day period prescribed by section 1007 (section 1666), fix amount of supersedeas bond. Id.

In action begun by attachment, where defendant's interest in ship was attached, and same was freed from attachment, and maritime lien by instrument securing plaintiff and lienholder, held, that plaintiff might, on recovery of judgment, issue execution, and supersedeas bond was necessary, under Circuit Court of Appeals rule 13, where defendant sued out writ of error. Id.

72. Ninth circuit.—In view of Supreme Court rule 29 (Comp. St. 1916 p. 1833) and Circuit Court of Appeals rule 13, a supersedeas bond covers any money not otherwise secured, awarded by the judgment or decree appealed from, as well as costs or damages on appeal, and so includes costs in the lower court. Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Harvey (C. C. A.) 250 F. 952.

(L) Writs of error, appeals, return, record, and mandate

74. First circuit.—Under Judicial Code, § 244, and Act Jan. 28, 1915, attaching Porto Rico to First circuit, time for perfecting appeals to Circuit Court of Appeals, not being provided for, is to be determined by rule or order of court, and appeal will not be dismissed for more than two years' delay, where there was no rule to contrary. Graham v. O'Ferral, 236 F. 717, 150 C. C. A. 49.

Deposition of one of crew of sailing vessel run down by steamer libeled as to his discovery of presence of steamer held not cumulative within rule 14, par. 7, for Circuit Court of Appeals for First Circuit, though another witness testified to facts deposed. The Sagamore, 247 F. 743, 159 C. C. A. 601.

In view of previous practice in admiralty appeals from District to Circuit Court, and rule 14, pars. 6–10, relating to the record in admiralty causes, Circuit Court of Appeals hears appeal in admiralty case de novo and may increase decree for libelant, though respondent alone appealed. Consolidated Coastwise Co. v. Conley (C. C. A.) 250 F. 679.

75½. Third circuit.—Rev. St. § 828 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1383), prescribing the fees of clerks of Circuit and District Courts, prescribes a fee of 15 cents a folio for entering any rule, etc., or making any record, certificate, return, or report, and a fee of 10 cents a folio for making a copy of any entry or record or any paper on file. Rule 14, par. 2, of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit, requires the clerk of the court to which any writ of error may be directed or from which an appeal may be taken, upon payment or tender of the fees therefor, to make a return thereof by transmitting a true copy of the record, bill of exceptions, etc. Held, that the proper fee for a certified transcript of the record on appeal or writ of error is 10 cents a folio, since the acts for which the higher fee is prescribed are original acts, deriving their origin from no previous record, and requiring original thought and judgment to make it conform precisely to the things done or ordered, while the originality, discretion, or judgment connected with the making of a certified transcript of the record is restricted to the selection of the parts of the record required by the rules to be transcribed, and responsibility in copying such parts is limited to accuracy, and, while the rule designates the transcript a "return," the return is to be made by transmitting a true copy of the record. U. S. v. Oliphant (C. C. A.) 230 F. 1.

81. Ninth circuit.—For dismissal of appeal under rule 20, see Woo Wah Chuck v. U. S., 230 F. 1023, 144 C. C. A. 665.

(M) Revision in bankruptcy

84. Second circuit.—A petition to revise an order of the District Court sitting in bankruptcy, not filed within the ten days prescribed by rule 38, will be dismissed. In re Vanoscope Co., 233 F. 53, 147 C. C. A. 123.

Under rule 38, Second Circuit, petition to revise order in bankruptcy must be filed within 10 days after order sought to be reviewed is entered, and petition thereafter filed will be dismissed. In re Armann, 247 F. 483, 159 C. C. A. 537.

Where an extension of time for filing a petition to revise was obtained, such petition may be considered, though not filed within the 10-day period prescribed by court rule 38. In re Armann, 247 F. 954, 160 C. C. A. 618.

86. Fourth circuit.—A "petition for review," filed in a District Court in a bankruptcy proceeding, is ineffectual to remove the case for any purpose into the Circuit Court of Appeals. Bridgeton Nat. Bank v. Way (C. C. A.) 253 F. 41.

88. Sixth circuit.—Trustee in bankruptcy, under petition to revise, in matters of law only, order of District Court, cannot complain of absence of formal findings of fact by District Judge, contemplated by C. C. A. rule 34, subd. 2, not having asked therefor, or asserted absence of evidence supporting conclusion of fact in judge's opinion. In re Wood, 248 F. 246, 160 C. C. A. 324, certiorari denied Wood v. Kirk Bros., 38 S. Ct. 579, 247 U. S. 512, 62 L. Ed. 1243.

§ 1120. (Jud. Code, § 128, as amended, Act Jan. 28, 1915, c. 22, § 2.) Jurisdiction; when judgment final.

I. JURISDICTION AND POWERS OF CIRCUIT COURTS OF APPEALS IN GENERAL

6. Power to issue writs—Mandamus.—See notes under § 1239.

8. Power to certify questions to supreme court.—See U. S. ex rel. Arant v. Lane, 38 S. Ct. 94. And see notes under § 1216.

13. Appellate jurisdiction in general—Cases involving jurisdiction of lower court.—A decree of a District Court, releasing a vessel from arrest under a libel in rem on the ground that the vessel was employed in the service of a foreign nation and for reasons of comity, does not involve a question of the jurisdiction of the court, and an appeal lies to the Circuit Court of Appeals. The Attualita (C. C. A.) 238 F. 909.

Though question of District Court's jurisdiction was raised, held, that defendant might appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals from the judgment against it on the merits and have the question certified by that court. Kawin & Co. v. American Colortype Co., 243 F. 317, 156 C. C. A. 97.

Where demurrer was sustained to plaintiff's petition on ground that amount in controversy was below jurisdictional amount for federal courts, Circuit Court of Appeals has no jurisdiction to review question on writ of error. Knisely v. Burt, 248 F. 493, 160 C. C. A. 503.

Where bill for infringement of patent, brought under Judicial Code, § 48, was dismissed, and preliminary injunction denied, on ground defendant was not an inhabitant and had no regular place of business in district wherein suit was brought, Circuit Court of Appeals is, under section 128, without jurisdiction of appeal from order of dismissal, and question being one primarily involving jurisdiction, appeal must, under section 238, be taken to Supreme Court. American Electric Welding Co. v. Lalance & Grosjean Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 249 F. 968.

Where suit was dismissed by federal District Court solely on ground of want of jurisdiction over subject-matter, Circuit Court of Appeals is without jurisdiction to review such decree. Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Blaine County, Neb. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 548.

The Circuit Court of Appeals has jurisdiction to review a judgment of the District Court dismissing an action in ejectment on objection that the lands in controversy were not within the territorial jurisdiction of the District Court, as such an objection does not challenge federal jurisdiction. Davis v. Anderson-Tully Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 681.

15. —— Cases involving constitutional questions in general.—A federal Circuit Court of Appeals has no appellate jurisdiction where the jurisdiction of the District Court was invoked upon the sole ground that the application of the federal constitution was involved. Carolina Glass Co. v. State of South Carolina, 36 S. Ct. 293, 240 U. S. 305, 60 L. Ed. 658, affirming judgments 69 S. E. 391, 87 S. C. 270, and Same v. Murray (D. C.) 197 F. 392, reversing judgment 206 F. 635, 124 C. C. A. 423.

Contention in suit between citizens of different states that orders of state court on which defendant relied as justifying custody of plaintiff's property were entered without due process of law gives federal Supreme Court jurisdiction to review whole case. Chaloner v. Sherman, 37 S. Ct. 136, 242 U. S. 455, 61 L. Ed. 427, affirming judgment 215 F. 867, 132 C. C. A. 96.

Where the jurisdiction of the federal court rests, not solely upon the constitutionality of an act, but also upon diversity of citizenship, the Circuit Court of Appeals has jurisdiction. Crescent Mfg. Co. v. Wilson, 242 F. 462, 155 C. C. A. 238, dismissing appeal (D. C.) 233 F. 282.

In appeals from final decrees, under this section and section 238 of the Judicial Code (Comp. St. 1916, § 1215), where the jurisdiction of the District Court as set out in the bill is based solely on a constitutional question, the appeal lies to the Supreme Court, and cannot be taken to a Court of Appeals. Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum v. Hobart (C. C. A.) 244 F. 385.

23. —— Habeas corpus cases.—Under Judicial Code, §§ 128, 129, and in view of failure of any statute to confer on Circuit Court of Appeals jurisdiction similar to that conferred on Circuit Court by Rev. St. § 763 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2144), held, that Circuit Court of Appeals is without jurisdiction of appeal from order of District Judge in vacation on habeas corpus. Hoskins v. Funk, 239 F. 278, 152 C. C. A. 266.

30½. Security for costs.—See American Surety Co. v. U. S., 239 F. 680, 152 C. C. A. 514.

II. NATURE AND FORM OF REMEDY BY APPEAL OR WRIT OF ERROR

31. Right of review by appeal or writ of error.—The right to an appellate review of a conviction in a criminal case does not exist, except by virtue of a statute conferring it, and the exercise of the right is dependent on the compliance with the statutory requirements prescribed therefor. American Surety Co. v. U. S., 239 F. 680, 152 C. C. A. 514. See, also, notes under § 1124.

33. Mode of review—Appeal.—Appeal of a defendant in a water rights suit, from a decree finding him guilty of contempt in violating the injunction of a prior final decree of the District Court in such suit, can be reviewed in the Circuit Court of Appeals by appeal. Hanley v. Pacific Live Stock Co., 234 F. 522, 148 C. C. A. 288.

An order entered in a suit in equity brought by a receiver, vacating a previous order made on settlement of a compromise decree allowing fees to counsel for the receiver, held properly reviewable by appeal. McPherson v. U. S., 245 F. 35, 157 C. C. A. 331.

34. —— Writ of error.—Actions by a trustee in bankruptcy to recover alleged preferential payments were actions at law, and properly so brought, and review could be had only upon writ of error, and not by appeal. Wm. Edwards Co. v. La Dow (C. C. A.) 230 F. 378.

In an action at law, known as claim and delivery, under the Code of North Carolina (Revisal 1905, §§ 790–802), judgment having gone against defendant, the Circuit Court of Appeals is without jurisdiction, notwithstanding Rev. St. § 914 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1537), declaring that the pleadings and proceedings, other than in equity and admiralty cases, shall conform to the state practice, of an appeal by defendant, though bond was given and citation issued to plaintiff, for, the action being one at law, the judgment can be reviewed in the federal courts only on writ of error. Smith v. Currie, 230 F. 803, 145 C. C. A. 113.

The decision of the trial tribunal on the facts in a proceeding for contempt is not reviewable on a writ of error. In re Independent Pub. Co., 240 F. 849, 153 C. C. A. 535, affirming judgment (D. C.) 228 F. 787.

Appeal held appropriate procedure to review judgment of Supreme Court of Porto Rico, enjoining operation of railroad and directing removal of same from plaintiffs' land; hence writ of error to judgment will be dismissed. Plazuela Sugar Co. v. Pastoriza, 245 F. 115, 157 C. C. A. 411.

Where, after entry, plaintiff filed motion to reconsider and enlarge the judgment, and such motion was denied, and exceptions taken, the motion, being practically a motion for new trial, cannot be reviewed on writ of error. City of Goldfield, Colo., v. Roger, 249 F. 39, 161 C. C. A. 99.

36. Right to different remedies in same case.—Circuit Court of Appeals may not require plaintiff in error to elect under penalty of dismissal which of two writs of error to review conviction, one sued out from the Supreme Court and the other out of the Circuit Court of Appeals, he would pursue. Lamar v. U. S., 36 S. Ct. 535, 241 U.

S. 103, 60 L. Ed. 912, affirming judgment 227 F. 1019, 141 C. C. A. 668.

III. DECISIONS REVIEWABLE

(A) Finality of determination

37. Necessity of final determination.—The Circuit Court of Appeals can only review final judgments other than injunction orders. Crooker v. Knudsen, 232 F. 857, 147 C. C. A. 51.

39. Final decisions, judgments, decrees, or orders in general.—Failure of a District Judge to follow the prior rulings of another judge, who sat in the same case, does not affect the power of the appellate court to review the final judgment. Friederichsen v. Renard, 231 F. 882, 146 C. C. A. 78.

40. —— Nature of action.—A proceeding to set aside default judgment on the theory that no jurisdiction was acquired over corporate defendant by service of process as amended by the court's order is in effect an independent action and the judgment final and reviewable in the Court of Appeals. Stevirmac Oil & Gas Co. v. Dittman, 38 S. Ct. 116, 245 U. S. 210, 62 L. Ed. 248.

41. —— Nature of decision.—In a suit to restrain infringement of two copyrights, a decree dismissing the bill as to one is final as to that matter, and an appeal may be taken at any time within six months. Historical Pub. Co. v. Jones Bros. Pub. Co., 231 F. 784, 145 C. C. A. 655, dismissing motion for reargument 231 F. 638, 145 C. C. A. 524.

A decree of a federal court, directing its receiver in a foreclosure suit against a corporation to turn over the mortgaged property to a receiver of a state court, made on application of the latter, is final and appealable. Empire Trust Co. v. Brooks, 232 F. 641, 146 C. C. A. 567.

An order denying a motion to vacate an order of arrest is not a final judgment disposing of the case on the merits, and cannot be reviewed on writ of error. Crooker v. Knudsen, 232 F. 857, 147 C. C. A. 51.

In suit to set aside transfer of stock of another company by corporation, interlocutory decree declaring transfer fraudulent and providing for an accounting held in no sense final, so that appeal therefrom must be dismissed. Cutting v. Woodward, 234 F. 307, 148 C. C. A. 209.

An order permitting a defendant to amend the answer, by dismissing without prejudice a counterclaim pleaded therein, is interlocutory, and not appealable. Economy Fuse & Mfg. Co. v. Killark Electric Mfg. Co., 235 F. 120, 148 C. C. A. 614.

Orders authorizing the issuance of receivers' certificates, and making them a first lien on earnings to the displacement of supply claims, held appealable, as final orders. Texas Co. v. International & G. N. Ry. Co., 237 F. 921, 150 C. C. A. 571.

Order sustaining demurrer to plea in recoupment, where issues raised by a plea denying plaintiff's claim were not disposed of, is not a final judgment, within Judicial Code, § 128, and a writ of error to review same will be dismissed. Treadwell v. Corker & Smith, 245 F. 348, 157 C. C. A. 540.

Appeal from order suspending interlocutory injunction decree pending appeal should be dismissed, order not being final. H. Ward Leonard, Inc., v. Maxwell Motor Sales Co., 246 F. 945, 159 C. C. A. 217.

Judgment of nonsuit entered over protest of defendant is a final one, reviewable at instance of defendant, though not adjudication of merits of controversy. Cybur Lumber Co. v. Erkhart, 247 F. 284, 159 C. C. A. 378.

Decree in admiralty in favor of libelant and against charterer of vessel, but in favor of impleaded respondent, who executed charter party as managing owner, held final decree, from which charterer might appeal. Cuneo Importing Co. v. American Importing & Transportation Co., 247 F. 413, 159 C. C. A. 467, affirming decree (D. C.) 241 F. 421.

In view of Act Jan. 28, 1915, § 2, and Rev. St. & Codes Porto Rico, § 5350, a judgment of the Supreme Court of Porto Rico, reversing a judgment of the court below and remanding the cause for a new trial, held not a "final judgment," reviewable on writ of error by the Circuit Court of Appeals. Caballero v. Succession of Criado (C. C. A.) 250 F. 345.

That portion of court's order adjudging that acceptance of benefit of consolidation or extension of receivership should be deemed a consent to all administrative orders theretofore made in consolidated causes would completely deprive appellant, whose mortgage foreclosure suit was consolidated, of substantial right, and was therefore a "final decision" from which appeal would lie under this section. Bankers' Trust Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 789.

42. —— Finality as to parties.—Judgment adjudging persons not parties to equity suit to be in contempt for violating injunction held final as to them, so that they could procure review by appeal or error. Shuler v. Raton Waterworks Co., 247 F. 634, 160 C. C. A. 44.

Where the owner of a vessel, which had capsized and sunk after contracting with appellant to raise the same, filed a petition for limitation of liability, and appellant's petition therein for a preferred lien was denied, held, that the decree was final as to appellant, and appealable. Great Lakes Towing Co. v. St. Joseph-Chicago S. S. Co. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 635.

43. —— Adjudication of controversy.—A decree in a suit in rem, which releases the vessel, leaving nothing upon which the court can take further action, is in effect a final decree, and appealable. The Attualita, 238 F. 909, 152 C. C. A. 43.

An order denying a motion to dismiss plaintiff's petition, not followed by decree disposing of the case, is not appealable. Oklahoma, K. & M. I. Ry. Co. v. Bowling, 249 F. 592, 161 C. C. A. 518.

44. Orders after judgment.—In action for partnership settlement, held, that it was doubtful whether decree determining main controversy was final for purposes of appeal, and hence appeal from subsequent decree after sale of property, etc., would not be dismissed. Halfpenny v. Miller, 232 F. 113, 146 C. C. A. 305.

Order of trial court, declining to modify a decree according to stipulation presented by the government in a suit to cancel a patent for coal lands, and by the purchasers under a deed of trust entitled to a deed, held appealable. U. S. v. Trogler, 237 F. 181, 150 C. C. A. 327.

In view of citation and petition for appeal, held, that appeal in a proceeding for foreclosure of a mortgage could not be dismissed, on theory that it was taken from order overruling appellant's application to set aside a former decree of sale, and order confirming same; but appeal should be considered as taken from decree of sale and order confirming same. Painter v. Union Trust Co., 246 F. 240, 158 C. C. A. 400.

An appeal from order overruling application to set aside a former decree of foreclosure sale, and order confirming same, which was not an appeal in any sense, either from decree of sale, or from order confirming sale, must be dismissed. Id.

46. Interlocutory and intermediate decisions.—Orders sustaining demurrers to complaint, which necessitated plaintiff's pleading anew, will be reviewed on writ of error after judgment dismissing the complaint. United Copper Securities Co. v. Amalgamated Copper Co., 232 F. 574, 146 C. C. A. 532.

(B) Nature, scope, and effect of decision

48. Discretionary action.—Scope of review of discretionary action, see notes under § 1670.

A final disposition of a discretionary matter is appealable, where an abuse of discretion is charged. Central Trust Co. of New York v. United States Light & Heating Co., 233 F. 420, 147 C. C. A. 356.

49. Decisions relating to parties or process.—Where a petitioner claims a lien upon or interest in specific property, subject to the exclusive disposition of a court, his right to intervene in the proceeding is absolute, and its denial is subject to review. Swift v. Black Panther Oil & Gas Co., 244 F. 20, 156 C. C. A. 448.

53. On motion for new trial.—In the federal courts, the ruling on a motion for new trial is not reviewable. Chautauqua Institution v. Zimmerman. 233 F. 371, 147 C. C. A. 307; Fisher Mach. Works Co. v. Dougherty, 231 F. 910, 146 C. C. A. 106; Lohman v. Stockyards Loan Co., 243 F. 517, 156 C. C. A. 215, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 134, 245 U. S. 668, 62 L. Ed. 539; Mutual Coal Co. v. Angelo, 246 F. 124, 158 C. C. A. 350.

Denial of motion for new trial and overruling of motion in arrest cannot be assigned as error. Northern Central Coal Co. v. Barrowman, 246 F. 906, 159 C. C. A. 178; Clark v. U. S., 245 F. 112, 157 C. C. A. 408; Hughes v. U. S., 231 F. 50, 145 C. C. A. 238; Cordingly v. Kennedy, 239 F. 645, 152 C. C. A. 479; Wolf v. Edmunson, 240 F. 53, 153 C. C. A. 89; Cooper v. U. S., 247 F. 45, 159 C. C. A. 263; Le More v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 887; American Trading Co. v. North Alaska Salmon Co., 248 F. 665, 160 C. C. A. 565, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 581, 247 U. S. 518, 62 L. Ed. 1245.

In prosecution for conspiring to violate law of United States by returning another to condition of peonage, held that Circuit Court of Appeals, error determinative of questions involved being apparent on face of record, will consider same on error though trial court refused to grant new trial. Taylor v. U. S., 244 F. 321, 156 C. C. A. 607.

Where defendant insisted, on motion for new trial, that he did not have a fair trial, and that one of the jurors had knowledge of the facts of the case before he was chosen, and the trial court, in disposing of the motion, heard affidavits, etc., the denial of the motion cannot be reviewed on error. Linn v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 476.

56. Costs.—In a creditors' suit, an order finally adjudicating the right of complainant's counsel to allowance of fees and payment of disbursements is appealable, though the principal action may not have proceeded to final decree. Central Trust Co. of New York v. United States Light & Heating Co., 233 F. 420, 147 C. C. A. 356.

While an appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals does not lie from the taxation of costs by the clerk of a District Court, a decree permitting a complainant to dismiss at the costs of the defendant involves a broader question and is appealable. Pomona Fruit Growers' Exch. v. Stebler, 241 F. 123, 154 C. C. A. 123.

A decree in equity relating to costs alone is not ordinarily reviewable, but may be reviewed by an appellate court where it involves the construction of a statute or questions arising in carrying out a decree and mandate of the appellate court. Stallo v. Wagner, 245 F. 636, 158 C. C. A. 64.

IV. CONCLUSIVENESS OF DECISIONS OF CIRCUIT COURTS OF APPEALS AND REVIEW BY SUPREME COURT

See, also, notes under § 1218, post.

58. Jurisdiction dependent on diverse citizenship.—Where federal jurisdiction was invoked solely upon the ground of diversity of citizenship, a judgment of the Circuit Court of Appeals was not reviewable by appeal. Eagle Glass & Mfg. Co. v. Rowe, 38 S. Ct. 80, 245 U. S. 275, 62 L. Ed. 286, reversing decree Hill v. Eagle Glass & Mfg. Co., 219 F. 719, 135 C. C. A. 417.

Under Judicial Code, § 28, as amended by Act Jan. 20, 1914, and sections 29, 128 and 241, where action for damages to interstate shipment was removed on sole ground of diversity of citizenship, judgment of Circuit Court of Appeals held final. Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, 38 S. Ct. 130, 245 U. S. 359, 62 L. Ed. 345, dismissing writ of error 233 F. 956, 147 C. C. A. 630.

59. —— Ancillary or supplemental suit.—Where, though bill showed diversity of citizenship, jurisdiction was invoked as dependent and ancillary to pending actions under a law of the United States, judgment of Circuit Court of Appeals held reviewable, under Judicial Code, §§ 128, 241. Eichel v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 38 S. Ct. 47, 245 U. S. 102, 62 L. Ed. 177, affirming decree United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Eichel, 241 F. 357, 154 C. C. A. 237.

76. Review by supreme court.—Under this section, as amended by Act Jan. 28, 1915, § 2, where plaintiff in trademark infringement suit was allowed appeal from. decree of Circuit Court of Appeals, and brought certiorari, and, pursuant to stipulation, transcript of record filed for purposes of appeal was treated as return to writ, appeal must be dismissed, and cause will be determined on writ of certiorari. United Drug Co. v. Theodore Rectanus Co., 39 S. Ct. 48, 63 L. Ed. —.

CITED WITHOUT DEFINITE APPLICATION

Glasgow Nav. Co. v. Munson S. S. Line, 38 S. Ct. 315. 62 L. Ed. 919; Deschutes R. Co. v. Eastern Oregon Land Co., 39 S. Ct. 18; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 39 S. Ct. 18, 63 L. Ed. —; Ferguson v. Babcock Lumber & Land Co., 39 S. Ct. 132, 63 L. Ed. —; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co., 39 S. Ct. 134, 63 L. Ed. —.

§ 1120a. (Act Jan. 28, 1915, c. 22, § 4, as amended, Act Sept. 6, 1916, c. 448, § 3.) Judgment final in bankruptcy cases, etc.

Operation in general.—No appeal lies from Circuit Court of Appeals to Supreme Court in suit by trustee in bankruptcy under the Bankr. Act, § 60b (Comp. St. 1916, § 9644), to set aside a fraudulent conveyance, since passage of this section. William R. Staats Co. v. Security Trust & Savings Bank, 37 S. Ct. 336, 243 U. S. 121, 61 L. Ed. 632, dismissing appeal Security Trust & Savings Bank v. Wm. R. Staats Co., 233 F. 514, 147 C. C. A. 400.

Cited without definite application, Schmitt v. Shadrach, 39 S. Ct. 67, 63 L. Ed. —.

§ 1121. (Jud. Code, § 129.) Appeals in proceedings for injunctions and receivers.

See Wagner v. Meccano (C. C. A.) 239 F. 901.

2½. Effect of calling in other judges.—Under Judicial Code, § 266, held, that a litigant denied temporary injunction by the court, where the District Judge had called to his assistance a Circuit Judge and another District Judge, must appeal to the Supreme Court, and cannot, under section 129, appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals. Jackson v. Cravens, 238 F. 117, 151 C. C. A. 193, dismissing appeal (D. C.) 235 F. 212.

4. "Interlocutory order or decree" within statute.—Under this section complainant in a suit to restrain the infringement of two copyrights can appeal from a dismissal of his bill as to one copyright. Historical Pub. Co. v. Jones Bros. Pub. Co., 231 F. 638, 145 C. C. A. 524, motion for reargument dismissed 231 F. 784, 145 C. C. A. 655.

A decree in a suit for unfair competition, ordering a reference for accounting, held interlocutory, so that an appeal could not be taken therefrom more than 30 days after it was entered. Puritan Cordage Mills v. Sampson Cordage Works, 232 F. 138, 146 C. C. A. 330.

5. Orders granting injunctions.—While a temporary restraining order, granted without a hearing, is not ordinarily appealable, where, after a subsequent hearing on a motion for a preliminary injunction and counter motions to vacate and dismiss, an order is entered refusing to dissolve and in terms continuing the restraining order in force, such order is in effect one granting a preliminary injunction, and is appealable. Davis v. Hayden (C. C. A.) 238 F. 734.

8. Orders appointing receivers.—Order denying motion to vacate appointment of receiver, and to dissolve injunctions and mandatory orders in connection with that appointment, is not appealable, where there is appeal pending from order appointing receiver, which latter order is appealable. Guardian Trust Co. v. Shedd, 240 F. 689, 153 C. C. A. 487.

12. Supersedeas.—Pending appeal from interlocutory decree ordering assignment of patents and enjoining use of inventions, injunction held not to be stayed. Chadeloid Chemical Co. v. H. B. Chalmers Co., 242 F. 71, 155 C. C. A. 15.

Under this section, judge of Circuit Court of Appeals may, on appeal from order granting injunction pendente lite, stay operation of same. Masses Pub. Co. v. Patten, 245 F. 102, 157 C. C. A. 398.

On appeal from order granting temporary injunction against enforcement of order of Post Office Department excluding plaintiff's publication from mails, held, that judge of Circuit Court of Appeals should, during pendency of appeal, stay operation of injunction. Id.

Plaintiff's publication held so close to being a violation of Act June 15, 1917 (post, § 10212c), that injunction restraining postmaster from giving effect to order excluding it from mails should be stayed on appeal. Id.

14. Time for hearing of appeal.—Original proceeding for disapproval of order of District Court under which receiver appointed by it is exercising control over property outside the district held to be dismissed, when order of disapproval was not obtained within 30 days. In re Brown, 242 F. 452, 155 C. C. A. 228.

15. Scope and extent of review in general.—Under the provision of this section authorizing an appeal from an interlocutory decree granting or refusing an injunction the complainant in an infringement suit in which an injunction is prayed for may appeal from an interlocutory decree, which dismisses the bill as to certain of the claims sued on, either on the ground of invalidity or noninfringement; but such appeal brings up for review only that part of the decree relating to such claims and specified as error, and defendant can have the other parts of the decree reviewed only by a cross-appeal. Ward Baking Co. v. Weber Bros. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 142.

On appeal under this section from interlocutory decree granting an injunction and directing an accounting, held that the propriety of ordering an accounting could not be reviewed. Chadeloid Chemical Co. v. H. B. Chalmers Co., 243 F. 606, 156 C. C. A. 304.

On appeal from an interlocutory order or decree granting or continuing injunction, appointing receiver, etc., under this section, the Circuit Court of Appeals may pass upon the jurisdiction of the District Court. Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum v. Hobart, 244 F. 385, 157 C. C. A. 11.

The appeal being from an interlocutory decree under this section the Circuit Court of Appeals is authorized to determine whether the District Court had jurisdiction. Soler v. Scoville (C. C. A.) 253 F. 932.

17. —— Causes not reviewable on the merits.—Circuit Court of Appeals held without power to determine the merits on appeal from order on application for temporary injunction, unless on the face of the bill there was no ground for equitable relief. Eagle Glass & Mfg. Co. v. Rowe, 38 S. Ct. 80, 245 U. S. 275, 62 L. Ed. 286, reversing decree Hill v. Eagle Glass & Mfg. Co., 219 F. 719, 135 C. C. A. 417.

18. —— Discretion of lower court.—Where trial court has not departed from principles and rules of equity, its order appointing receivers and issuing injunctions will not be reversed, in absence of abuse of discretion; but where court had departed from principles of equity, such order may be reviewable, without proof of abuse of discretion. Folk v. U. S., 233 F. 177, 147 C. C. A. 183.

Interlocutory decree ordering issuance of preliminary injunction will not be disturbed, where no abuse of discretion was shown, and it did not appear injunction would cause any substantial injury to defendant, though complainant failed to prevail in suit on the merits. City Council of Augusta v. Postal Telegraph-Cable Co., 246 F. 440, 158 C. C. A. 504, affirming decree Postal Telegraph Cable Co. v. City Council of Augusta (D. C.) 242 F. 538.

Order of trial court, on a bill to foreclose a mortgage, directing appointment of recover and the operation of property, will not be disturbed on appeal, unless so improvident and improper as to be an abuse of power. First Nat. Bank of San Francisco v. Detroit Trust Co., 248 F. 16, 160 C. C. A. 156, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 579, 247 U. S. 513, 62 L. Ed. 1243.

A pendente lite injunctional order will not be reversed, unless there is an abuse of discretion, which can only appear from an obvious misunderstanding of the facts, or the probable misapplication of well-settled rules of law by the trial judge. City of Chicago v. Fox Film Corporation (C. C. A.) 251 F. 883.

The appellate court will overrule or reverse an order granting a preliminary injunction only when satisfied that there was error of law in the action of the trial court, or that upon the facts there was no reasonable field for discretionary action. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 252 F. 29.

Action of chancery court, in appointing receiver to protect property pending suit, involves its discretion, and its action will not be disturbed, unless the discretion is abused. Ward v. Central Trust Co. of Illinois (C. C. A.) 252 F. 127.

Discretion of court in granting temporary injunction pending final hearing will not be reviewed, unless abuse is shown. Thompson v. Balke, 245 F. 841, 158 C. C. A. 181; City of Amarillo v. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 638.

19. —— Presumptions.—The burden held on one appealing more than 30 days after the decree was entered to show respect in which the decree was final. Puritan Cordage Mills v. Sampson Cordage Works, 232 F. 138, 146 C. C. A. 330.

20. Disposition of cause on appeal.—On the general affirmance on appeal of an interlocutory decree in a patent case, sustaining the patent, finding infringement, and awarding an injunction, such issues were conclusively settled; but so much of decree as relates to the accounting remains purely interlocutory, and subject to modification by the District Court until final decree. Racine Engine & Machinery Co. v. Confectioners' Machinery & Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 234 F. 876.

Under Judicial Code, §§ 56, 129, Circuit Judge or Circuit Court of Appeals in original proceeding held not authorized to disapprove appointment of receiver, but only to disapprove his assumption of control over property outside the district of his appointment. In re Brown, 242 F. 452, 155 C. C. A. 228.

Where, pending appeal from order enjoining sale of land under statutory foreclosure proceeding in state court, purchaser from mortgagor and his grantee contracted for extension with mortgagees, who recognized such purchaser as obligor in entire transaction, appeal will be dismissed; all questions other than costs having become moot. Clark v. Fairbanks, 249 F. 431, 161 C. C. A. 405.

Where by reason of settlement questions involved in appeal from injunction order have become moot, costs must be assessed against appellant in sustaining motion to dismiss. Id.

Where, pending appeal from order enjoining sale under statutory foreclosure proceedings in state court, settlement was effected, question of costs in state court will be left for that tribunal on dismissal of the appeal. Id.

An order granting a preliminary injunction, and appointing receivers in connection with the proceedings for reorganization of an insolvent corporation, affirmed as modified. Federal Coal Co. v. Ballard (C. C. A.) 250 F. 233.

An appellate court, on an appeal from an order granting a preliminary injunction, cannot enter a decree for complainant on the merits, unless it can see that the whole issues can be disposed of at once, without injustice to the parties. Meccano, Limited, v. John Wanamaker, New York (C. C. A.) 250 F. 250.

20½. Permanent injunction.—Plaintiff held entitled to permanent injunction, where evidence was largely the same as evidence on which Circuit Court of Appeals held it entitled to a temporary injunction. Puritan Cordage Mills v. Sampson Cordage Works, 241 F. 671, 154 C. C. A. 429.

21. Review by supreme court.—Supreme Court has no jurisdiction to entertain appeal from decree of Circuit Court of Appeals affirming an interlocutory order denying temporary injunction. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Board of Com'rs of Weld County, Colo., 38 S. Ct. 510, 247 U. S. 282, 62 L. Ed. 1110, reversing decree 222 F. 651, 138 C. C. A. 175, which denies rehearing 217 F. 540, 133 C. C. A. 392.

Cited without definite application, Hoskins v. Funk, 239 F. 278, 152 C. C. A. 266; Virginia-Carolina Peanut Picker Co. v. Benthall Mach. Co. (C. C. A.) 241 F. 89; Debnam v. Benthall Mach. Co. (C. C. A.) 241 F. 103; Camden Iron Works Co. v. City of Cincinnati (C. C. A.) 241 F. 846.

§ 1122. (Jud. Code, § 130.) Appellate and supervisory jurisdiction under the bankrupt act.

See Horton v. Mendelsohn (C. C. A.) 249 F. 185.

Jurisdiction and power of court.—A proceeding on petition by trustee to sell lands, on theory that warranty deed evidenced equitable mortgage, opposed by grantee, is controversy arising in bankruptcy proceeding, instead of proceeding in bankruptcy, and hence appeal to review judgment therein lies under general appellate jurisdiction of Circuit Court of Appeals; case not being one in which Bankruptcy Act specifically provides for an appeal. Sauve v. M. L. More Inv. Co., 248 F. 642, 160 C. C. A. 542. See, also, notes under § 9608.

§ 1124. (Jud. Code, § 132.) Allowance of appeals, etc.

7. Allowance of appeal or writ of error.—Assignments of error presented for allowance will not be passed upon, where defendant has escaped from custody, until he surrenders himself. U. S. v. Billingsley (D. C.) 242 F. 330.

11. Vacating allowance or dismissal of appeal or writ of error.—See Lamar v. U. S., 36 S. Ct. 535, 241 U. S. 103, 60 L. Ed. 912, affirming judgment 227 F. 1019, 141 C. C. A. 668.

§ 1126a. (Act Jan. 28, 1915, c. 22, § 2.) Writs of error and appeals from supreme courts of Hawaii and Porto Rico.

Mode of review.—In view of Judicial Code, § 274a, added by Act March 3, 1915 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1251a), an appeal from the Supreme Court of Porto Rico in a case turning upon questions of law only, will not be dismissed because review should have been sought by writ of error. Sola v. Cintron & Aboy, 237 F. 61, 150 C. C. A. 263.

Scope of review.—As in case of states, decisions of the Supreme Court of Porto Rico, construing local statutes and concessions will be treated by the federal courts as controlling where they involve no infraction of rights secured by the federal Constitution or laws. Trujillo & Mercado v. Succession of Rodriguez, 233 F. 208, 147 C. C. A. 214.

The decision of the Porto Rico Supreme Court as to matter of local law will not be disturbed by federal Circuit Court of Appeals for First Circuit, unless clearly erroneous. Richardson v. Fajardo Sugar Co., 237 F. 195, 150 C. C. A. 341; Graham v. O'Ferral, 248 F. 10, 160 C. C. A. 150.

Determination by Porto Rico Supreme Court that there was such compliance with provisions of the Porto Rico Mortgage Law of 1893 relating to notice of foreclosure sale that proceedings should not be set aside cannot, because relating to question of local law, be disturbed by the Circuit Court of Appeals for the First Circuit, unless clearly erroneous. Henna v. Sauri & Subira, 237 F. 145, 150 C. C. A. 291.

Determination that plaintiff's action begun in 1908 was barred by prescription under Civ. Code Porto Rico, § 317, held not so clearly erroneous as to warrant disturbance by Circuit Court of Appeals for First Circuit; plaintiffs being over 21, when that age was in 1899 prescribed as age of majority by military government. Graham v. O'Ferral, 248 F. 10, 160 C. C. A. 150.

Determination by Porto Rico Supreme Court that one given power of attorney had authority to represent widow in settlement of her deceased husband's estate, either judicially or extrajudicially, held not clearly erroneous. Id.

Where determination of Supreme Court of Porto Rico, affirming judgment of district court in favor of defendants, was affirmed on merits, question whether appeal should be dismissed, because one of defendants was not made party to appeal, need not be disposed of. Id.

CHAPTER SEVEN—THE COURT OF CLAIMS

Sec.
1127. Judges.
1136. Jurisdiction.
Par. 1. Claims against the United States.
1136a. Jurisdiction not to extend to certain civil war claims, nor to claims barred by law.
1139. Claims referred by departments.
1140. Procedure in cases transmitted by departments.
1141. Judgments in cases transmitted by departments; how paid.
1142. Either House of Congress may refer certain claims to court.
1143. Costs to prevailing party.
1144. Claims growing out of treaties.
1147. All claims to be filed within six years; exceptions.
1148. Rules of practice; contempts.
1150. Petitions and verification.
1153. Claims for proceeds arising from sales of abandoned property.
1154. Commissioners to take testimony.
1155. Power to call upon departments for information.
1156. When testimony not to be taken.
1157. Examination of claimant.
1159. Witnesses before commissioners.
1163. Claims forfeited for fraud.
1168. No interest on claims.
1169. Effect of payment of judgment.

§ 1127. (Jud. Code, § 136, as amended, Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, § 4.) Judges.

The Court of Claims established by Act of February twenty-fourth, eighteen hundred and fifty-five, shall be continued. It shall consist of a Chief Justice and four judges, who shall be appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and hold their offices during good behavior. Each of them shall take an oath to support the Constitution of the United States and to discharge faithfully the duties of his office. The Chief Justice shall be entitled to receive an annual salary of $8,000, and each of the other judges an annual salary of $7,500, payable monthly from the Treasury. (40 Stat. 1157.)

This section was amended by Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, § 4, cited above, to read as set forth above. This amendment consisted in increasing the salary of the Chief Justice from $6,500 to $8,000, and the salaries of the judges from $6,000 to $7,500.

Section 7 of said Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, provides that the act shall take effect and be in force on and after the first day of the month next following its approval.

§ 1136. (Jud. Code, § 145.) Jurisdiction.

(1) Claims against the United States.

3. Construction and operation of statute in general.—When a claim or matter pending in a department is included within the numerous subjects of jurisdiction conferred by this section, or the later act relative to patents, to which the United States are a party, it may be transmitted to the court by the head of the department whether barred by the statute of limitations obtaining in this court or not. In re Wright, 50 Ct. Cl. 19.

6. Jurisdiction in general.—Where the head of a department refers, either with or without the consent of the claimant, a claim or matter to the court under section 148 of the Judicial Code, and it appears that it is not against the United States, the court is without jurisdiction in the premises under either section 145 or the proviso to section 148 of the Judicial Code. In re Wright, 50 Ct. Cl. 19.

The original act providing for the Interstate Commerce Commission and amendments thereof provide the course which parties may pursue who feel themselves aggrieved by the decision of the commission, but that course does not lead through the Court of Claims, and this court cannot review the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission directly or indirectly. Denver & Rio Grande R. Co. v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 382.

12. —— Action by congress, officers, or other courts as affecting jurisdiction.—Injunction compelling bridge company's compliance with Act March 3, 1899, § 18 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9970), as to changes in bridge over navigable stream, will not be denied on claim that acts under which bridge was built constituted a contract, or that company was entitled to compensation, for those matters should be presented to Court of Claims, under Judicial Code, § 145, or to Congress. U. S. v. Louisville Bridge Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 270.

14. Claims founded on any law of congress.—Act March 2, 1895, relating to certain losses by persons in the naval service, does not authorize suit for such losses in the Court of Claims. Harllee v. U. S., 51 Ct. Cl. 342.

The Marine Corps is regarded as an adjunct of the Navy, and not a part of the Army, as to claims under Act March 3, 1885. Id.

Act March 2, 1895, does not provide for the payment of claims arising after its enactment, but does provide for a report of losses as ascertained by the accounting officers to the "Speaker of the House" and contemplates further action by Congress. The act does not confer jurisdiction on the Court of Claims; nor has it jurisdiction by virtue of that act under the general grant of jurisdiction of claims "founded upon any law of Congress." Id.

The Court of Claims by virtue of its general jurisdiction of claims "founded upon any law of Congress" has jurisdiction of claims arising under Act March 3, 1885, where (1) the facts are undisputed and the accounting officers misapply the law, or (2) they refuse to act on claims properly presented, or (3) payment by the treasury of their award is refused. Newcomber v. U. S., 51 Ct. Cl. 408.

25. Claims founded on contracts in general.—Whatever jurisdiction the Court of Claims has in the matter of a claim for demurrage by a railroad company against the United States must rest in the provisions of this section. Denver & Rio Grande R. Co. v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 382.

27. —— Implied contracts in general.—Congress having authority to charge the Indian lands involved with the payment for services rendered or expenses incurred in securing their rights, the court can render a judgment upon the principle quantum meruit if from the record there is found the existence of a legal relationship warranting it. Winton v. Amos, 51 Ct. Cl. 284.

A judgment upon the principle quantum meruit presupposes a situation of the parties whereby the court may infer from the circumstances that the defendants as a whole knew of the efforts in their behalf, acquiesced therein, and accepted the benefits of such services, and thereby impliedly promised to pay therefor, but cannot extend to a large number of persons who were innocent of any work or labor being done for them. Id.

28. —— Contracts arising from appropriation or destruction of or injury to property.—Where the United States seized a vessel as being employed in insurrection and subsequently used the vessel in the service of the United States, there being no implied contract, claimant cannot waive the tort and sue in assumpsit. Castelo v. U. S., 51 Ct. Cl. 221.

29. —— Contracts arising from use of patented articles.—An undertaking on the part of the United States to pay the patentee of an improvement for use of his invention can be implied so as to bring the claim within the cognizance of the Court of Claims where the government expressly disclaimed any use of the patented device. Farnham v. U. S., 36 S. Ct. 427, 240 U. S. 537, 60 L. Ed. 786, modifying judgment 49 Ct. Cl. 19.

30. Claims for damages in cases not sounding in tort.—This section does not confer jurisdiction to hear and determine actions for damages sounding in tort, but only where the damages do not sound in tort. Thierman & Frost v. U. S., 51 Ct. Cl. 35.

Money judgments against the United States will not be entered on estimated damages. Maryland Casualty Co. v. United States, 53 Ct. Cl. 81.

32. —— Acts of military authorities.—Where a vessel is seized during pendency of insurrection and the vessel is subsequently used by the United States, and where nothing is said or done by the officers of the defendant from which the court can imply an obligation to pay for the property so taken, the transaction assumes the status of a tort and the court is without jurisdiction. Castelo v. U. S., 51 Ct. Cl. 221.

38. —— Patents, infringement of.—Where jurisdiction rests upon contract, plaintiff cannot waive the tort and sue on implied contract. Curved Electrotype Plate Co. of N. Y. v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 258.

41. Time of accrual of cause of action.—A plaintiff must have a cause of action when the suit is brought and cannot supply the want of a valid claim at the commencement of the action by the acquisition of one during the pendency of the action. County Court of Marion County, W. Va., v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 120.

Cited without definite application, E. W. Bliss Co. v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 47; 30 Op. Atty. Gen. 35.

§ 1136a. (Act March 4, 1915, c. 140, § 5.) Jurisdiction not to extend to certain civil war claims, nor to claims barred by law.

See Newman v. Moyers, 47 App. D. C. 102.

Construction and operation in general.—When a claim or matter pending in a department is included within the numerous subjects of jurisdiction conferred by section 145 of the Judicial Code or the later act relative to patents to which the United States are a party, it may be transmitted to the court by the head of the department whether barred by the statute of limitations obtaining in this court or not. In re Wright, 50 Ct. Cl. 19.

The concluding clause of section 5 of the Omnibus Claims Bill bars the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims in any claim referred which at the time of the reference was barred by the statute of limitations applicable to the Court of Claims where suit could have been maintained upon such claim in the court if brought within the time allowed by law. Chase v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 293.

Repeal.—This section repeals pro tanto section 151 of the Judicial Code, which was a substantial re-enactment of the fourteenth section of the Tucker Act, conferring jurisdiction upon the Court of Claims to investigate claims referred by either House of Congress and make report thereon. Chase v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 293.

Claims referred by house of congress.—Section 5 of the Omnibus Claims Bill takes away the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims to investigate and determine facts and report thereon in claims referred by one or the other house of Congress in the classes of claims contemplated by said section 5, and deprives the court of jurisdiction to consider pending cases coming within the purview of said section 5. Chase v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 293.

§ 1139. (Jud. Code, § 148.) Claims referred by departments.

1. Construction and operation in general.—A claim or matter pending in a department which involves any controverted questions of fact or law, in order to be transmitted to this court under this section, must be one for the "guidance and action" of said department, and not one that is to be merely advisory. In re Proposed Reference by the Secretary of the Navy, 53 Ct. Cl. 370.

2. Claims within statute.—Sections 148 and 149 of the Judicial Code contemplate the reference by a head of a department of a matter in which there is a claimant, to which the United States are defendants, and in which there is a money demand. In re Proposed Reference by the Secretary of Navy, 53 Ct. Cl. 370.

Where plaintiffs entered into a contract with the United States for the construction of certain sections of a sea wall, which contract was wrongfully abrogated by the Secretary of the Navy, the government, in a proceeding for compensation under this section, is liable for damages for unreasonable delays in the work, due to investigations, during which the work was retarded or wholly stopped. P. J. Carlin & Co. v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 376.

7. Authority to refer claims in general—Manner of making reference.—References to the court by the heads of departments under section 148 of the Judicial Code must be for the guidance and action of the departments, and therefore binding upon the latter and not for an advisory opinion. In re Wright, 50 Ct. Cl. 19.

9. Limitations.—When a claim or matter pending in a department is included within the numerous subjects of jurisdiction conferred by section 145 of the Judicial Code or the later act relative to patents to which the United States are a party, it may be transmitted to the court by the head of the department whether barred by the statute of limitations obtaining in this court or not. In re Wright, 50 Ct. Cl. 19.

10. Jurisdiction and power of court.—Where the head of a department refers, either with or without the consent of the claimant, a claim or matter to the court under section 148 of the Judicial Code, and it appears that it is not against the United States, the court is without jurisdiction in the premises, under either section 145 or the proviso to section 148 of the Judicial Code. In re Wright, 50 Ct. Cl. 19.

Under jurisdictional act of April 4. 1910 (36 Stat. 269, 294), requiring the Court of Claims to report a "finding of fact" as between the United States and the plaintiff as to the interest, title, ownership, and right of possession of a tribe of Indians in and to certain described lands where the question of title to lands is entirely one of law, to be determined from the facts as found, the court is without jurisdiction to report on the question. and the report must be limited to the facts as they appear. The Yankton Sioux v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 67.

12. Judgments.—Where a reference is made by the head of a department with the consent of the claimant the proviso to section 148 of the Judicial Code contemplates that the court shall proceed to judgment if under the law it has jurisdiction to do so. In re Wright, 50 Ct. Cl. 19.

Where a claim has been finally disposed of by this court under its general jurisdiction, the same cannot be reopened upon the application of the claimant, nor indirectly presented again for consideration upon the application of some one else. The matter is res judicata. In re Proposed Reference by the Secretary of Navy, 53 Ct. Cl. 370.

13. —— Review.—See Mills v. U. S., 52 Ct. Cl. 452.

§ 1140. (Jud. Code, § 149.) Procedure in cases transmitted by departments.

Nature of claim.—Sections 148 and 149 of the Judicial Code contemplate the reference by a head of a department of a matter in which there is a claimant, to which the United States are defendants, and in which there is a money demand. In re Proposed Reference by the Secretary of Navy, 53 Ct. Cl. 370.

Cited without definite application, In re Wright, 50 Ct. Cl. 19.

§ 1141. (Jud. Code, § 150.) Judgments in cases transmitted by departments; how paid.

See In re Wright, 50 Ct. Cl. 19.

§ 1142. (Jud. Code, § 151.) Either House of Congress may refer certain claims to court.

1. Construction and operation in general.—Act May 29, 1908, § 26, authorizing the Court of Claims to consider, adjudicate, and render judgment as law and equity may require in the matter of a certain claim against the Creek Nation, creates no substantive right against and imposes no liability on, such government. Turner v. U. S. 39 S. Ct. 109, 63 L. Ed. —.

Section 5 of the Omnibus Claims Bill (Comp. St. 1916, § 1136a) repeals pro tanto section 151 of the Judicial Code, which was a substantial re-enactment of the fourteenth section of the Tucker Act, conferring jurisdiction upon the Court of Claims to investigate claims referred by either House of Congress and make report thereon, and takes away the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims to investigate and determine facts and report on such claims, and deprives the court of jurisdiction to consider pending cases coming within the purview of said section 5. Chase v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 293.

6. Jurisdiction and power of court.—Where a proceeding is pending in the court under a congressional reference for findings and conclusions advisory to Congress, the court will not confine the hearing alone to questions raised by special plea or "cross-bill," but will proceed to hear the issues raised in the record. Atlantic Works v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 16.

Where a special act gave Court of Claims jurisdiction of claims for unlawful seizures by revenue officers and reserved the right to any defense legal or equitable except jurisdiction and limitations, the liability of the government should be determined by the settled principles of law. Thierman v. U. S., 51 Ct. Cl. 35.

The jurisdictional acts having directed adjudication of the claims of plaintiffs for services rendered in "the claim of the Mississippi Choctaws to citizenship in the Choctaw Nation," it was contemplated thereby that the services be to the Mississippi Choctaw Indians as a class and not to certain Indians as individuals. The absence of any provisions for individual defense and representation upon the part of the Indian in the cause manifests an intention on the part of Congress to limit the jurisdiction of the court to the ascertainment of the value of services rendered accruing to the Indians as a band. Winton v. Amos, 51 Ct. Cl. 284.

The term "associates" in the jurisdictional acts must be read in connection with the principle upon which the court is directed to render judgment and cannot be held to cover the services of those employed by the persons who had contracts with the individual Indians. Id.

7. —— Procedure.—Where an act of Congress authorizes suit against an Indian nation and fails to prescribe the method of service of process, it is doubtful whether the Court of Claims can direct the necessary or proper service to bring the defendants before the court. Turner v. U. S., 51 Ct. Cl. 125.

13. Report of court and return of documents and evidence.—Where the record fails to show the value to the government of the property taken and used, the court will so find and report to Congress. Love v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 65.

14. —— Effect of report.—Finding of Court of Claims approving defendant's claim under Omnibus Claims Act, approved March 4, 1915, for property taken by federal forces during Civil War though authorized by this section, was not a judgment, and created no vested rights. Calhoun v. Massie (Va.) 97 S. E. 576.

Cited without definite application, The Yankton Sioux v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 67.

§ 1143. (Jud. Code, § 152.) Costs to prevailing party.

Allowance of costs.—Costs on appeal to federal Supreme Court, in case in which United States is party, should not on reversal be granted to United States because of Supreme Court rule 24, giving costs to prevailing party; it not applying where United States is party. Oregon & C. R. Co. v. U. S., 37 S. Ct. 443, 243 U. S. 549, 61 L. Ed. 890.

Costs may be allowed against United States in a suit against it under Judicial Code, § 24 (20), notwithstanding repeal by section 297 of that Code of Act of March 3, 1887, since provision of section 2 of such act conferring on District Courts jurisdiction concurrent with Court of Claims over claims against the United States is carried into section 24 (20) of the Code, but the provision of section 15 of such act is carried in as section 152 of the Code, and while section 24 (20) is a part of chapter 2 of the Code, and section 152 is a part of chapter 7, it is declared by sections 294 and 295 that the laws revised are to be construed as continuations of existing laws. U. S. v. Cress, 37 S. Ct. 380, 243 U. S. 316, 61 L. Ed. 746.

§ 1144. (Jud. Code, § 153.) Claims growing out of treaties.

The Court of Claims is vested with jurisdiction to hear and determine claims of the Cherokee Nation against the United States for interest alleged to be owing from the United States to said Nation on funds arising from the judgment of said Court of May 18, 1905 (40 Ct. Claims Rep. 252), in favor of said Nation, and in such determination to examine all laws, treaties, or agreements between the United States and said Nation, by Act March 3, 1919, c. 103, 40 Stat. 1316.

Notes of Decisions

Claims growing out of or dependent on treaty stipulations.—Act June 22, 1910, c. 313, does not give the court jurisdiction to inquire into the inequity or impropriety of treaties between the Indians and the United States and does not authorize the court to relieve plaintiffs of the terms of the treaties. Otoe and Missouri Tribes of Indians v. U. S., 52 Ct. Cl. 424.

§ 1147. (Jud. Code, § 156.) All claims to be filed within six years; exceptions.

1. Construction and operation in general.—The concluding clause of section 5 of the Omnibus Claims Bill bars the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims in any claim referred which at the time of the reference was barred by the statute of limitations applicable to the Court of Claims where suit could have been maintained upon such claim in the court if brought within the time allowed by law. Chase v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 293.

9. Accrual of right of action in general.—A cause of action for the value of private property, alleged to have been taken within the scope of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution by reason of the construction of a dam in aid of navigation, accrues when the dam was completed and put in operation by the filling of the pool. County Court of Marion County, W. Va., v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 120.

16. —— Claims founded on statutory grants or rights.—To authorize suit upon a claim arising under Act March 3, 1885, it must first be presented to the accounting officers within two years from the date of the alleged loss. Newcomber v. U. S., 51 Ct. Cl. 408.

26. Commencement of action in general.—See Mill Creek & Minehill Nav. & R. Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 246 F. 1013.

Cited without definite application, American R. Co. of Porto Rico v. Coronas (C. C. A.) 230 F. 545.

§ 1148. (Jud. Code, § 157.) Rules of practice; contempts.

2. Rules of practice—Attorneys.—An admission by government counsel of the government's liability is not controlling on the Court of Claims. Hooper v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 90.

4. —— New trial.—The exception in court rule 90 is not intended to permit the filing of innumerable motions, but is solely designed for the purpose of enabling litigants to point out some obvious error or omission which it is believed would affect the decision of the court. Winton's Estate v. Amos, 52 Ct. Cl. 90.

6. Procedure in general.—The rule long obtaining in this court is that where a case has been dismissed for want of prosecution it passes out of the jurisdiction of the court at the end of the term during which the dismissal is made unless a motion be made during that term for its reinstatement. In re Reinstatement of Indian Depredation Cases, 50 Ct. Cl. 395.

7. —— Pleadings.—The Court of Claims is not bound by special rules of pleading, and will take notice of an assignment or transfer of a claim sued upon, whether brought to its attention by a plea in abatement or under the general issue. Seaboard Air Line Ry. v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 107.

7½. —— Evidence.—The possibilities as to additional cost of performance arising from delay attending one transaction are far too contingent and uncertain to compare with accuracy a transaction, although substantially similar, occurring from four to six years later, especially so where a judgment of large amount is made entirely dependent thereon. William Cramp & Sons Ship & Engine Bldg. Co. v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 179.

Where the plaintiff produces the best proof of which the case is susceptible, and it is sufficiently certain to warrant a judgment, the plaintiff is entitled to recover. Id.

Where contracts secured by plaintiffs from individual Indians were invalidated by act of Congress, they cannot be made the basis of a suit wherein a judgment rendered could become enforceable against the Indian property, but the contracts are admissible in evidence to establish knowledge upon the part of the defendants and as evidence of what might constitute a reasonable award for the work performed. Winton v. Amos, 51 Ct. Cl. 284.

Where a claim is made for the value of services in securing legislation beneficial to Indians, the court cannot segregate the services performed by attorneys and the influence exerted by the department in moving Congress to a recognition of the Indians' rights in the absence of some specific showing of the value thereof. Id.

The rules of evidence deduced from the common law govern in the Court of Claims, and where the evidence adduced is merely comparative, it cannot be regarded as competent or of any probative value. Globe Works v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 532.

Cited without definite application, Creekmore v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 237 F. 743.

§ 1150. (Jud. Code, § 159.) Petitions and verification.

Pleadings and procedure in general.—An amendment radically changing the party plaintiff by substituting another is not allowable under the well-settled rule that a new and sole party plaintiff cannot be substituted for the original plaintiff and thereby make a complete change of parties. Askins v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 361.

The rules of the Court of Claims are sufficiently liberal not to require the strict rules of pleading, and all that is necessary in setting out a claim is to so state it that the court is properly advised as to what it is. Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 155.

A petition seeking to have a suspension by Secretary of the Interior of a contract for the construction of a dam held fraudulent need not be amended to enable plaintiff contractor to question the propriety of charges against his account for work and materials used by defendants in completing the contract. S. R. H. Robinson & Son Con. Co. v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 536.

§ 1153. (Jud. Code, § 162.) Claims for proceeds arising from sales of abandoned property.

1. Construction and operation in general.—The effect of section 162 of the Judicial Code is to revive the abandoned or captured property act so far as the remedies it provided are concerned, and to again provide a forum for the enforcement declared therein. Lincoln v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 70.

The taking possession of one-fourth value of said cotton by the purchasing agent was by authority of section 8, Act July 2, 1864, and it was not "taken" as contemplated by Act March 3, 1863, and does not come within either the letter or spirit of section 162, Judicial Code. O'Pry v. U. S., 51 Ct. Cl. 111.

Section 8, Act July 2, 1864, was in reality supplementary to the captured and abandoned property act of March 3, 1863, and was for the purpose of enabling citizens in insurrectionary territory to dispose of their cotton to the government and thus not be compelled to submit to its seizure. Id.

3. "Owners" within statute—Proof of ownership.—Treasury agents' reports concerning ownership of cotton seized are not conclusive against the claim of others that they are the real owners. Basch v. U. S., 52 Ct. Cl. 134.

4. Jurisdiction.—Under this section Court of Claims has no jurisdiction to award to claimant proceeds of cotton seized under Act March 3, 1863, where cotton had been sold to Confederate States of America and payment had been made in bonds, though seller retained possession of cotton until seizure, and at that time bonds had become worthless, because of fall of Confederacy. Thompson v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 349, 246 U. S. 547, 62 L. Ed. 876, affirming judgment 51 Ct. Cl. 510.

This section cannot be deemed to give the Court of Claims jurisdiction to award the proceeds of cotton seized under the Abandoned Property Act, where cotton had been sold to Confederacy and payment in bonds received, on theory that, if not so construed, section would have no effect. Id.

7. Pleadings and proof.—Requisites of petitions in suits under this section for proceeds of captured or abandoned property stated. Basch v. U. S., 52 Ct. Cl. 134.

Proof of incorporation of plaintiff corporation in a suit under this section for the proceeds of captured or abandoned property is unnecessary, in the absence of a plea of nul tiel corporation. Id.

Where corporate books were seized and have been in the custody of the United States for over 50 years, they are admissible as ancient documents as a link in the chain proof of ownership in a suit under this section. Id.

8. Loyalty.—To sustain a suit under this section for proceeds of captured or abandoned property, brought by an importing company's receiver it is sufficient that the company be one of "those whose cotton was taken," though it may have been a "blockade-running company," but plaintiff must prove ownership at the time of seizure. Basch v. U. S., 52 Ct. Cl. 134.

9. Relief awarded.—The net proceeds in the treasury of the sales of cotton must be the limit of recovery, regardless of the number of bales that may have been seized. Basch v. U. S., 52 Ct. Cl. 134.

§ 1154. (Jud. Code, § 163.) Commissioners to take testimony.

See The Pile Driver No. 2 (C. C. A.) 239 F. 489.

§ 1155. (Jud. Code, § 164.) Power to call upon departments for information.

See The Pile Driver No. 2 (C. C. A.) 239 F. 489.

Authority and duty of departmental heads.—Where the official files of a department of the government will throw light on the actions, conduct, and requirements of government agents in their dealings with a government contractor, the documentary evidence ought to be supplied, in order that the court may do justice between the contractor and the government. Robinson v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 159.

It appears throughout the entire existence of this court that it has been deemed necessary by Congress that the court should have power to obtain the essential information from the various departments of the government to enable it intelligently to adjudicate the matters coming before it, and, if the exercise of this power by the court be essential to the proper adjudication of the cases, no less is it important for the various departments to comply with the calls so made. Id.

Experimenting upon the court by withholding evidence called for at the instance of the opposite party, and later produce it when it would be to the advantage of the party out of whose possession it comes, would have results never contemplated when Congress provided that calls should be made upon the department for matter contained in its official records. Id.

Evidence.—Where a party without just reason, after notice to produce papers given by an opposite party, refuses to produce the necessary documents, secondary evidence of their contents becomes admissible, and it would be the court's duty, under the rules of evidence, to admit secondary evidence upon refusal of officers of the government to furnish original and competent evidence in its possession. Robinson v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 159.

When it was agreed by the respective attorneys that certain papers selected by them from a departmental file should be filed in court, the objection that the papers so filed and printed were not certified under the seal of the Interior Department comes too late after said action in the absence of any question as to their genuineness or any showing that they were filed through improvidence, mistake, or fraud. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 316.

§ 1156. (Jud. Code, § 165.) When testimony not to be taken.

Cited without definite application,
E. W. Bliss Co. v. U. S., 53 Ct. Cl. 47.

§ 1157. (Jud. Code, § 166.) Examination of claimant.

Construction and operation in general.—In congressional reference proceeding, regardless of whether the court may, under this section, order examination of parties on its own motion, such section confers a privilege upon the United States, which may be availed of by them. Atlantic Works v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 16.

§ 1159. (Jud. Code, § 168.) Witnesses before commissioners.

Report as to witnesses refusing to answer.—Where a witness refuses to answer a question, unless it comes within the exception of which he may avail himself, the commissioner should report the facts, with the style of the cause and the name and address of the witness, to the court for such action as it may deem appropriate. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 316.

§ 1163. (Jud. Code, § 172.) Claims forfeited for fraud.

Cited without definite application,
Atlantic Works v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 16.

§ 1168. (Jud. Code, § 177.) No interest on claims.

Time for and manner of computation of interest.—Under Act June 16, 1880, §§ 1, 5, 6, amendatory Act March 3, 1881, and in view of Rev. St. § 1091 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1168), held that where bonds provided for by Act June 20, 1874, and devoted to satisfaction of claim against District of Columbia were insufficient to fully satisfy judgment, and claim was not based on contract providing for interest, Court of Claims properly directed payment of interest only from rendition of judgment. Sheckels v. District of Columbia, 38 S. Ct. 322, 246 U. S. 338, 62 L. Ed. 761.

§ 1169. (Jud. Code, § 178.) Effect of payment of judgment.

Additional allowance.—Where a claim presented for less than the amount thereof is allowed and accepted, plaintiff cannot thereafter secure an additional allowance, unless there be a valid excuse for not presenting the whole account, as in case of fraud or mistake, or want of jurisdiction in the accounting officers. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. U. S., 52 Ct. Cl. 468.

Waiving former contention.—Where a railroad originally bases its claim on the contention that the United States was not entitled to a party rate because it did not pay cash, it cannot subsequently waive this contention and sue on the basis of an adjustment rate, nor can an error of counsel as to the issue presented furnish ground for a new trial. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. U. S., 52 Ct. Cl. 299.

CHAPTER EIGHT—THE COURT OF CUSTOMS APPEALS

§ 1179a. (Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, § 5.) Court; judges; salaries. The judges of the United States Court of Customs Appeal shall receive salaries equal in amount to the salaries provided by this Act to be paid judges of the Circuit Court of Appeals of the United States, payable monthly from the Treasury. (40 Stat. 1157.)

This section is § 5 of an act entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to codify, revise, and amend the laws relating to the judiciary,' approved March third, nineteen hundred and eleven," cited above. Section 7 of said Act provides that the act shall take effect and be in force on and after the first day of the month next following its approval.

For salaries of judges of Circuit Court of Appeals, see ante, § 1109.

§ 1189. (Jud. Code, § 198.) Appeals from Board, etc.

6½. Presentation of questions before board of appraisers.—When originating in this court, an objection to the sufficiency of a protest comes too late. U. S. v. Tappenbeck, 7 Ct. Cust. App. 17.

A claim for classification originating in appellant's brief in this court, not specified in the exceptions, and not raised before and presented to the Board of United States General Appraisers, is not entitled to the consideration of this court. U. S. v. McGibbon & Co., 7 Ct. Cust. App. 290.

9. "Competent evidence" within statute.—A British tariff regulation, quoted and referred to in brief of counsel, but not offered or received in evidence, cannot be considered as evidence. U. S. v. Monsanto Chemical Co., 7 Ct. Cust. App. 340.

10. Jurisdiction and power of court in general.—The Court of Customs Appeals has no jurisdiction to review the action of the Board of General Appraisers in dismissing an appeal to reappraisement on the ground that the appeal was not signed. U. S. v. Loeb & Schoenfeld Co., 7 Ct. Cust. App. 380.

12. Conclusiveness of decisions of board of general appraisers and review thereof.—In order to warrant a reversal of a decision of the Board of United States General Appraisers this court must be satisfied that its finding is wholly without evidence to support it or that it was clearly contrary to the weight of the evidence. U. S. v. Mills & Gibb, 7 Ct. Cust. App. 388.

Mandamus to Court of Customs Appeals.—Supreme Court's authority to issue writ of mandamus to Court of Customs Appeals held not broadened by fact that the law made the decision of the Court of Customs Appeals final. Ex parte Park & Tilford, 38 S. Ct. 15, 245 U. S. 82, 62 L. Ed. 164.

Where Court of Customs Appeals had already decided appeal on ground that discretion of Secretary of Treasury under Act Oct. 3, 1913, c. 16, § 3, par. I, could not be reviewed, held, that mandamus would not lie to compel a decision on the merits. Id.

CHAPTER TEN—THE SUPREME COURT

Sec.
1207. Terms.
1210. Original jurisdiction.
1211. Writs of prohibition and mandamus.
1213. Appellate jurisdiction.
1214. Writs of error from judgments and decrees of State courts; certiorari, etc.
1215. Appeals and writs of error from United States district courts.
1216. Circuit court of appeals may certify questions to Supreme Court for instructions.
1217. Certiorari to circuit court of appeals.
1218. Appeals and writs of error in other cases.
1219. Appeals from Court of Claims.
1220. Time and manner of appeals from the Court of Claims.
1221. (Jud. Code, § 244. Repealed.)
1222. Writs of error and appeals from the Supreme Courts of Arizona and New Mexico.
1223. Writs of error and appeals from the Supreme Court of Hawaii and the Supreme Court of Porto Rico.
1225a. Appeals and writs of error from the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands.
1227. Appeals and writs of error from the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.
1228. Certiorari to Court of Appeals, District of Columbia.
1228a. Appellate jurisdiction; time for application.
1229. Appellate jurisdiction under the bankruptcy act.

§ 1207. (Jud. Code, § 230, as amended, Act Sept. 6, 1916, c. 448, § 1.) Terms.

Cited without definite application, Southern Pacific Co. v. Jensen, 37 S. Ct. 524, 61 L. Ed. 1086, L. R. A. 1918C, 451, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 900.

§ 1210. (Jud. Code, § 233.) Original jurisdiction.

7. Actions by or against states.—Elementary rule that judicial power essentially involves right to enforce results of its exertion applies to judgments rendered in suits between states, of which Supreme Court has original jurisdiction. Commonwealth of Virginia v. State of West Virginia, 38 S. Ct. 400, 246 U. S. 565, 62 L. Ed. 883.

On proceedings by commonwealth of Virginia for enforcement against state of West Virginia of judgment requiring payment of money rendered by Supreme Court, authority of court to render judgment is concluded, and cannot be reopened. Id.

Where commonwealth of Virginia, having recovered judgment for money against state of West Virginia, which was unsatisfied, sought its enforcement, Supreme Court, in view of character of parties, having announced its authority to enforce judgment, will not determine appropriate remedy, but will reserve that question. Id.

Leave will be denied a state to file an original bill in the Supreme Court of the United States against another state and others; it not being entitled to the only effective relief sought, to enjoin further administration by the courts of defendant state of the estate of a decedent resident of plaintiff, who died leaving personal property in defendant state, which under its statutes are there subject to probate proceedings and inheritance taxes. State of Iowa v. Slimmer, 39 S. Ct. 33, 63 L. Ed. —.

8. —— Boundaries between states.—Cases involving the location of a boundary between two states had no effect as judicial determinations of the boundary line as against one of the states which was a stranger to the record in both cases. State of Arkansas v. State of Tennessee, 38 S. Ct. 301, 246 U. S. 158, 62 L. Ed. 638, L. R. A. 1918D, 258.

12. Equity jurisdiction — Costs.—See Oregon & C. R. Co. v. U. S., 37 S. Ct. 443, 243 U. S. 549, 61 L. Ed. 890.

§ 1211. (Jud. Code, § 234.) Writs of prohibition and mandamus.

See notes under § 1239.

I. PROHIBITION

10½. Parties.—Parties becoming colibelants in admiralty case pending, by an order beyond the jurisdiction of the judge to make, may not, on failure of judge to make return to rule to show cause why prohibition should not issue, be treated as respondents and permitted to file return. In re Indiana Transp. Co., 37 S. Ct. 126, 242 U. S. 281, 61 L. Ed. 301.

II. MANDAMUS

(A) Jurisdiction to issue writ and nature and grounds in general

13. Jurisdiction and authority to issue writ.—Supreme Court's authority to issue writ of mandamus to Court of Customs Appeals held not broadened by fact that the law made the decision of the Court of Customs Appeals final. —Ex parte Park & Tilford, 38 S. Ct. 15, 245 U. S. 82, 62 L. Ed. 164.

14. Discretion of court in granting writ.—Mandamus is an extraordinary remedial process which is not awarded as a matter of right, but in the exercise of a sound judicial discretion. Duncan Townsite Co. v. Lane, 38 S. Ct. 99, 245 U. S. 308, 62 L. Ed. 309, affirming judgment Lane v. Duncan Townsite Co., 44 App. D. C. 63.

16. Existence and adequacy of other remedy.—Refunding Act of 1878, as to levy and collection of taxes by circuit court or judge when county court fails in its duty, having been held void by Kentucky decisions, it does not afford a remedy which will prevent mandamus to compel levy by county court. Hendrickson v. Apperson, 38 S. Ct. 44, 245 U. S. 105, 62 L. Ed. 178, affirming judgment 238 F. 473, 151 C. C. A. 409; Same v. Creager, 38 S. Ct. 46, 245 U. S. 115, 62 L. Ed. 185, affirming judgment Same v. Apperson, 238 F. 473, 151 C. C. A. 409.

Where a suit is one which may be revived, revivor in the name of the proper party on the death of one of the original parties is a matter of right, and if it be denied, denial may be reviewed and corrected on appeal, so that mandamus will not lie. Ex parte Slater, 38 S. Ct. 265, 246 U. S. 128, 62 L. Ed. 621.

(B) Acts and proceedings of federal courts and judges

17. Exercise of judicial powers in general.—Mandamus is proper remedy where federal district court has exceeded its power by suspending sentence to imprisonment indefinitely during good behavior. Ex parte U. S., 37 S. Ct. 72, 242 U. S. 27, 61 L. Ed. 129, L. R. A. 1917E, 1178, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 355.

Where on conflicting motions for revivor in case in which one of original parties had died, court, after full hearing in regular course, granted one and denied the other, there was an exercise of jurisdiction, and the defeated applicant is not entitled to mandamus to review the same. Ex parte Slater, 38 S. Ct. 265, 246 U. S. 128, 62 L. Ed. 621.

19. Entertaining and proceeding with cause.—As an order transferring to the equity side of the District Court a count in a complaint seeking damages for breach of a contract to bequeath a sum certain may be regarded as a denial of the court's jurisdiction over the cause of action, mandamus is a proper remedy to require the court to proceed and give plaintiff her right to a trial at common law. In re Simons, 38 S. Ct. 497, 247 U. S. 231, 62 L. Ed. 1094.

23. Removal of causes.—Refusal of federal District Court in New York to remand cause removed to that court from state court of New Hampshire may not be reviewed by mandamus. Ex parte Park Square Automobile Station, 37 S. Ct. 732, 244 U. S. 412, 61 L. Ed. 1231.

25. Making up records and entering judgments.—Where Court of Customs Appeals had already decided appeal on ground that discretion of Secretary of Treasury under Act Oct. 3, 1913, c. 16, § 3, par. I, could not be reviewed, held, that mandamus would not lie to compel a decision on the merits. Ex parte Park & Tilford, 38 S. Ct. 15, 245 U. S. 82, 62 L. Ed. 164.

(E) Procedure

32. Parties.—Where, in obedience to direction of court clerk of Circuit Court of Appeals declined, without deposit to secure costs as required, to file record of appeal by seamen from a decree dismissing their libel to enforce payment of wages, and such seamen applied to the Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus against clerk, that tribunal may disregard fact that clerk only was a technical party, and in the exercise of a sound discretion determine propriety of order. In re Abdu, 38 S. Ct. 447, 247 U. S. 27, 62 L. Ed. 966.

§ 1213. (Jud. Code, § 236.) Appellate jurisdiction.

Mode of review.—Appeal, not writ of error, is proper mode in reviewing in federal Supreme Court decree of Supreme Court of Philippine Islands in a suit by a wife for divorce, alimony, and division of property. De La Rama v. De La Rama, 36 S. Ct. 518, 241 U. S. 154, 60 L. Ed. 932.

Appeal is a proper method of reviewing, in federal Supreme Court, under Act July 1, 1902, § 10, a decree of the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands in equity suit. Montelibano v. La Compania General De Tabacos De Filipinas, 36 S. Ct. 617, 241 U. S. 455, 60 L. Ed. 1099.

§ 1214. (Jud. Code, § 237, as amended, Act Dec. 23, 1914, c. 2, and Act Sept. 6, 1916, c. 448, § 2.) Writs of error from judgments and decrees of State courts; certiorari, etc.

I. CONSTITUTIONALITY AND CONSTRUCTION AND OPERATION IN GENERAL

8. Constitution or laws of the United States—"Highest court of a state" defined.—Writ of error to superior court of Ohio will be dismissed, where judgment of such court has been affirmed by the Court of Appeals of that state, with order that the superior court shall carry this judgment into execution, as a writ should have been directed to the Court of Appeals where state Supreme Court has refused to require Court of Appeals to certify record to it for review. Second Nat. Bank of Cincinnati, Ohio, v. First Nat. Bank of Okeana, Ohio, 37 S. Ct. 236, 242 U. S. 600, 61 L. Ed. 518.

Court of Appeals of Ohio held the highest court of the state within which decision could be had within Judicial Code, § 237, governing writs of error to state courts, where it denied application to direct Court of Appeals to certify the record for review. Cuyahoga River Power Co. v. Northern Realty Co., 37 S. Ct. 643, 244 U. S. 300, 61 L. Ed. 1153.

A judgment of a state trial court within a class as to which power of national Supreme Court to review by writ of error was taken away, and authority to review on certiorari was substituted, by Act Sept. 6, 1916, § 2, was not within the exception of a judgment rendered before the act became operative; it not being till thereafter that the state Court of Appeals refused to exercise its discretionary power of review, rendering the trial court's judgment a final judgment of the court of last resort of the state, which alone can be reviewed. Andrews v. Virginian Ry. Co., 39 S. Ct. 101, 63 L. Ed. —.

Where federal statutes under which recovery was sought were not alleged to be invalid, Springfield Court of Appeals had jurisdiction, in view of Const. Mo. 1875, art. 6, § 12, and Amendment 1884, § 5, since Court of Appeals was highest court where decisions could have been had and its judgment was reviewable by the United States Supreme Court under this section. Mitchell v. Joplin Nat. Bank (Mo.) 201 S. W. 903.

II. CHARACTER OF DECISIONS AND QUESTIONS REVIEWABLE

14. Final judgments or decrees.—See George A. Fuller Co. v. Otis Elevator Co., 38 S. Ct. 180, 62 L. Ed. 422.

The judgment of a state court, awarding mandamus to enforce an order of the state railway commission directing it to relay rails removed from a logging spur and to resume service thereon on execution of an indemnity bond in case the order should be vacated in a pending suit in equity, is final under Judicial Code, § 237. Detroit & M. Ry. Co. v. Michigan R. R. Commission, 36 S. Ct. 424, 240 U. S. 564, 60 L. Ed. 802, affirming judgment Michigan R. Commission v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 144 N. W. 696, 178 Mich. 230.

Re-enactment in Act Sept. 6, 1916, respecting review of judgments of state courts, of requirements of finality, held an adoption of the construction previously prevailing. Bruce v. Tobin, 38 S. Ct. 7, 245 U. S. 18, 62 L. Ed. 123, denying certiorari Tobin v. Bruce (S. D.) 162 N. W. 933.

34. Determination of controversy—Remanding on reversal or affirmance or dismissal of appeal.—Judgment of highest state court, affirming on certiorari judgment that petitioner was entitled under Const. Wash. art. 1, § 16, and Laws 1913, c. 133, to condemn land for private way, is not final as to review by federal Supreme Court, where it remanded cause for assessment of damages. State of Washington ex rel. Grays Harbor Logging Co. v. Coats-Fordney Logging Co., 37 S. Ct. 295, 243 U. S. 251, 61 L. Ed. 702, dismissing writ of error State v. Superior Court of Chehalis County, 144 P. 722, 82 Wash. 503.

Under Act Sept. 6, 1916, judgment of state Supreme Court, reversing judgment of trial court and directing a new trial, held not reviewable by certiorari, though state Supreme Court determined the ultimate rights of the parties. Bruce v. Tobin, 38 S. Ct. 7, 245 U. S. 18, 62 L. Ed. 123, denying certiorari Tobin v. Bruce (S. D.) 162 N. W. 933.

35. Real or frivolous federal questions.—Contention that municipal ordinance subjecting business of private detective to police supervision offends due process of law clause of Const. U. S. Amend. 14, is not so frivolous as not to serve as basis of writ of error to a state court. Lehon v. City of Atlanta, 37 S. Ct. 70, 242 U. S. 53, 61 L. Ed. 145, affirming judgment 84 S. E. 608, 16 Ga. App. 64.

Contention that owner of shipment or his authorized agent may act so that judgment in action against carrier is res judicata is meant by words "lawful holder" in provisions of Carmack Amendment of June 29, 1906, § 7, pars. 11 and 12, to Act Feb. 4, 1887, § 20 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8604a), providing that common carrier shall be liable to lawful holder of bill of lading for injury to freight, is not frivolous. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Olivit Bros., 37 S. Ct. 468, 243 U. S. 574, 61 L. Ed. 908, affirming judgment Olivit Bros. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 96 A. 589, 88 N. J Law, 376.

36. Decision of federal question presented.—Federal questions not presented in state court and not necessary to determination of cause will not be reviewed by United States Supreme Court. In re Thompson, 102 A. 303, 116 Me. 473.

37. Nature of decisions reviewable in general.—Writ of error lies to federal Supreme Court from the highest state court where decree of a federal court was an element in the decision against plaintiff in error. Donohue v. Vosper, 37 S. Ct. 350, 243 U. S. 59, 61 L. Ed. 592, affirming decree (Mich.) 155 N. W. 407.

38. Decisions founded on federal or nonfederal grounds.—Order of Supreme Court dismissing for want of jurisdiction writ of error to Court of Appeals, declaring that there was no question under the state or federal Constitution involved, held broad enough to sustain the judgment irrespective of the merits of the federal question involved. Cuyahoga River Power Co. v. Northern Realty Co., 37 S. Ct. 643, 244 U. S. 300, 61 L. Ed. 1153.

39. —— Decisions reviewable because not sustained on nonfederal ground.—A decision of the state court upholding a paving assessment levied on a street railway company is reviewable in the federal Supreme Court on the ground that the ordinance fixing the obligation impaired contract rights, though the state court's opinion may be construed as asserting that the duty to pave was imposed by the railway company's franchise alone. Southern Wisconsin Ry. Co. v. City of Madison, 36 S. Ct. 400, 240 U. S. 457, 60 L. Ed. 739, affirming judgment City of Madison v. Southern Wisconsin Ry. Co., 146 N. W. 492, 156 Wis. 352.

40. —— Decisions sustained on nonfederal ground and not reviewable.—Decision of Supreme Court of state adverse to contention that under due process of law and equal protection of law clauses of Const. U. S. Amend. 14, adjudication of state board of irrigation as to diversion through a canal of water from stream was not binding on those claiming under other appropriations, held not reviewable on writ of error, where court also decided that canal company was entitled to prevail on the ground of estoppel. Enterprise Irr. Dist. v. Farmers' Mut. Canal Co., 37 S. Ct. 318, 243 U. S. 157, 61 L. Ed. 644, dismissing writ of error Same v. Tri-State Land Co., 138 N. W. 171, 92 Neb. 121.

In suit on tax bill against property which city had condemned, decision of state Supreme Court that city was not liable on the tax bill or in tort to an assignee of the tax bill held not reviewable, as it rested upon general law adequate to support it independent of decision under Const. Amend. 14. Municipal Securities Corp. v. Kansas City, 38 S. Ct. 224, 246 U. S. 63, 62 L. Ed. 579, dismissing writ of error 177 S. W. 856, 265 Mo. 252.

Where Supreme Court of Oklahoma, in affirming judgment denying probate to alleged will of full-blood Creek Indian, based its determination on nonfederal ground sufficient to support it, Supreme Court of United States will not review judgment on writ of error, on ground that validity of will was governed by laws of United States. Bilby v. Stewart, 38 S. Ct. 264, 246 U. S. 255, 62 L. Ed. 701, dismissing writ of error (Okl.) 153 P. 1173.

Writ of error to state court, based on a federal question being involved, because of a contract authorizing sale of land belonging to the United States covered by an inchoate homestead entry, will be dismissed; the state court, on sufficient evidence, expressly finding that such land was not included in the contract. King v. Putnam Inv. Co., 39 S. Ct. 15.

Even if the state Supreme Court decided a federal question adversely to plaintiffs in error, it will not be considered, but writ of error to that court will be dismissed; it having also decided against them on an independent ground broad enough to support the judgment, and based wholly on state statutes and procedure, that the cross-complaint presenting the federal question was premature, and immaterial to the question presented by the petition, and should have been stricken. Petrie v. Nampa & Meridian Irr. Dist., 39 S. Ct. 25, 63 L. Ed. —.

41. Construction of United States statutes and denial of rights thereunder.—Federal Supreme Court has jurisdiction of writ of error to a state court in a suit turning on construction of an act of Congress incorporating defendant and under which it justifies. Supreme Lodge, K. of P. v. Mims, 36 S. Ct. 702, 241 U. S. 574, 60 L. Ed. 1179, reversing judgment (Tex. Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 835.

Decision of the highest state court, denying relief under New Jersey workmen's compensation act for drowning in navigable waters, holding that Act Oct. 6, 1917, § 1 (ante, § 991 [3]), saving to claimants rights and remedies under the workmen's compensation law of any state, was inapplicable, being passed after the accident, and that the rights of parties depended on the maritime laws, held not one allowing review by the national Supreme Court, on writ of error, under this section. Coon v. Kennedy, 39 S. Ct. 146, 63 L. Ed. —.

42. Validity of treaties and denial of rights thereunder.—Validity of treaty is not drawn in question, so as to allow, under this section, review of decision of state court by writ of error, but the remedy is by certiorari, decision being merely as to special construction of treaty as giving a consul certain power, under which a right is claimed. Erie R. Co. v. Hamilton, 39 S. Ct. 95, 63 L. Ed. —.

43. Decisions in favor of or against authority exercised under United States or officers thereof.—A right under a federal statute was claimed and decided against within this section, in action against initial carrier of interstate shipment to recover for negligence of connecting carrier and itself, brought since the Carmack Amendment (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8604a), where defendant carrier pleaded breach of obligation in bill of lading to report claims to terminal carrier within a certain time after notice of arrival, and the state court deciding that a bill of lading would be controlling in the absence of special facts found as to verbal notice to terminal carrier. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Starbird, 37 S. Ct. 462, 243 U. S. 592, 61 L. Ed. 917, modifying judgment 177 S. W. 912, 118 Ark. 485.

Refusal of the highest court of the state to pass on question whether Employers' Liability Act April 22, 1908 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8604a), should not have been applied to the action, held not reviewable in federal Supreme Court. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co. v. Taber, 37 S. Ct. 522, 244 U. S. 200, 61 L. Ed. 1082, dismissing writ of error Taber v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co. (Mo.) 186 S. W. 688.

Refusal of highest state court to interfere with discretion of trial court in refusing to permit answer to be amended, so as to show that no tariff rate for special trains had been filed, is not a denial of a federal right which federal Supreme Court can review on writ of error, where the cause had been pending some months. Nevada-California-Oregon Ry. v. Burrus, 37 S. Ct. 576, 244 U. S. 103, 61 L. Ed. 1019, dismissing writ of error Burrus v. Nevada-California-Oregon Ry., 145 P. 926, 38 Nev. 156.

44. Construction or validity of state constitutions and statutes in general.—Whether state, so far as it had the power, had by amendment vested part of the legislative power in the people by reserving a right to approve or disapprove laws enacted by the General Assembly, is a question of state law not determinable by federal Supreme Court on writ of error. State of Ohio ex rel. Davis v. Hildebrant, 36 S. Ct. 708, 241 U. S. 565, 60 L. Ed. 1172.

On writ of error to a state court, the validity of a state statute, under the state Constitution, is not open to consideration in the federal Supreme Court. Crane v. Campbell, 38 S. Ct. 98, 245 U. S. 304, 62 L. Ed. 304, affirming judgment Ex parte Crane, 151 P. 1006, 27 Idaho, 671.

III. PARTICULAR CLASSES OF DECISIONS REVIEWABLE AS INVOLVING FEDERAL QUESTIONS

48½. Boundaries between states.—Where state Supreme Court's decision turned upon various treaties and acts of Congress establishing interstate boundary line, federal question is involved, conferring jurisdiction on federal Supreme Court to review decision. Cissna v. State of Tennessee, 38 S. Ct. 306, 246 U. S. 289, 62 L. Ed. 720, reversing judgment State v. Muncie Pulp Co., 104 S. W. 437, 119 Tenn. 47.

Whether two states, by long acquiescence in practical location of their common boundary, or by other agreement, had definitely fixed or changed boundary fixed by federal treaties or statutes, is federal question. Id.

50. Common law.—Whether cancellation of land contract is governed by the law of the situs, or the place of making and performance, is a question of local common law, not reviewable on writ of error to a state court. Kryger v. Wilson, 37 S. Ct. 34, 242 U. S. 171, 61 L. Ed. 229, affirming judgment Wilson v. Kryger, 149 N. W. 721, 29 N. D. 28.

55. Denying faith and credit to constitution or statute of another state or territory.—Where it was claimed that full faith and credit was denied a foreign judgment by permitting recovery on insurance certificate, if unpaid assessment was excessive, court's reference to fact that directors did not levy assessment, as a makeweight, held to add nothing to the substantial basis of the decision. Hartford Life Ins. Co. v. Barber, 38 S. Ct. 54, 245 U. S. 146, 62 L. Ed. 208, reversing judgments Barber v. Hartford Life Ins. Co., 187 S. W. 867, 269 Mo. 21, and 187 S. W. 874.

58. Denying faith and credit to records, judgments, and proceedings of other states and territories.—Something more than mere error in construing statutes of a sister state is necessary to sustain claim that there has been denial of full faith and credit required under Const. art. 4, § 1. Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co. of Philadelphia v. Gold Issue Min. & Mill. Co., 37 S. Ct. 344, 243 U. S. 93, 61 L. Ed. 610, affirming judgment Gold Issue Min. & Mill. Co. v. Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co. of Philadelphia, 184 S. W. 999, 267 Mo. 524.

Where decision of state court is challenged as not giving proper credit to decree of another state, motion to dismiss held not to lie on ground that decree was given value given it by the statutes of the state in which it was rendered; this being the question in controversy. Bates v. Bodie, 38 S. Ct. 182, 245 U. S. 520, 62 L. Ed. 444, L. R. A. 1918C, 355, reversing judgment Bodie v. Bates, 156 N. W. 8, 99 Neb. 253.

61. Due process of law and equal protection of laws.—Const. Amend. 14, guaranteeing due process of law and equal protection of the laws, does not convert an issue as to jurisdiction of a state court into anything other than a question of state law, the decision of which is binding on the federal Supreme Court. Gasquet v. Lapeyre, 37 S. Ct. 165, 242 U. S. 367, 61 L. Ed. 367, dismissing writ of error Interdiction of Gasquet, 68 So. 89, 136 La. 957.

Contention that state Supreme Court misconceived the statute and common law of state, infringing due process of law and equal protection of the law clauses of Const. U. S. Amend. 14, presents no federal question. Enterprise Irr. Dist. v. Farmers' Mut. Canal Co., 37 S. Ct. 318, 243 U. S. 157, 61 L. Ed. 644, dismissing writ of error Same v. Tri-State Land Co., 138 N. W. 171, 92 Neb. 121.

Decision of highest state court sustaining condemnation proceeding, where owners asserted that it would be taking of property without due process of law contrary to Const. Amend. 14, is reviewable in federal Supreme Court. Hendersonville Light & Power Co. v. Blue Ridge Interurban Ry. Co., 37 S. Ct. 440, 243 U. S. 563, 61 L. Ed. 900, affirming judgment Blue Ridge Interurban Ry. Co. v. Hendersonville Light & Power Co., 88 S. E. 245, 171 N. C. 314.

Judgment of Oregon court of last resort, holding that order of county court directing sale of lands of decedent to pay debts, made under L. O. L. §§ 1252–1270, was not subject to collateral attack by nonresident heirs, though statutory requirement as to time of hearing was not observed, and heirs asserted that to sustain validity of sale would deprive them of their property without due process, in violation of Const. U. S. Amend. 14, does not involve validity of treaty or statute of United States, or statute of or authority exercised under state; hence writ of error to review such judgment will not lie, under this section as amended. Stadelman v. Miner, 38 S. Ct. 359, 246 U. S. 544, 62 L. Ed. 875, dismissing writ of error 163 P. 983, 83 Or. 348, which affirmed on second rehearing 163 P. 585, 83 Or. 348, which reversed on rehearing 155 P. 708, 83 Or. 348.

Where property owner contended that judgment of state court allowing benefits to be set off against his claim for damages to realty resulting from construction and operation of an elevated railroad deprived him of his property without due process of law in violation of Fourteenth Amendment, question for national Supreme Court is not whether rule adopted by the state was best supported by reason, but whether a fundamental right was denied. McCoy v. Union Elevated R. Co., 38 S. Ct. 504, 247 U. S. 354, 62 L. Ed. 1156, affirming judgment 111 N. E. 517, 271 Ill. 490 and leave to file petition for rehearing granted 38 S. Ct. 581.

63. Habeas corpus.—A contention based on Const. art. 1, § 9, forbidding suspension of writ of habeas corpus, presents no federal question, since it is not restrictive of state, but only of federal, action. Gasquet v. Lapeyre, 37 S. Ct. 165, 242 U. S. 367, 61 L. Ed. 367, dismissing writ of error Interdiction of Gasquet, 68 So. 89, 136 La. 957.

64. Impairment of obligations of contracts.—Whether a municipal ordinance may be upheld without impairing an admitted contract is a federal question which will support the appellate jurisdiction of the Supreme Court over a state court, though a construction of the contract is necessary. Southern Wisconsin Ry. Co. v. City of Madison, 36 S. Ct. 400, 240 U. S. 457, 60 L. Ed. 739, affirming judgment City of Madison v. Southern Wisconsin Ry. Co., 146 N. W. 492, 156 Wis. 352.

Impairment of a contract by judicial decision does not raise a federal question, which can be reviewed by the federal Supreme Court on writ of error to a state court. Kryger v. Wilson, 37 S. Ct. 34, 242 U. S. 171, 61 L. Ed. 229, affirming judgment Wilson v. Kryger, 149 N. W. 721, 29 N. D. 28.

Decision of highest court of state refusing to recognize any property rights of the Long Sault Development Company in St. Lawrence river granted by Laws N. Y. 1907, c. 355, is not reviewable in federal Supreme Court on theory that contract obligations were impaired by effect given by state court to Laws N. Y. 1913, c. 452, where decision held the original grant unconstitutional. Long Sault Development Co. v. Call, 37 S. Ct. 79, 242 U. S. 272, 61 L. Ed. 294, dismissing writ of error Same v. Kennedy, 105 N. E. 849, 212 N. Y. 1, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 56.

Decision of the highest court of the state that reduced street railway fares must be given in territory annexed to Detroit by Acts Mich. June 16, 1905 (Loc. Acts 1905, No. 655), June 19, 1907 (Loc. Acts 1907, No. 665) and Oct. 24, 1907 (Acts [Ex. Sess.] No. 1), on lines operated under franchise theretofore acquired by railroad under Comp. Laws Mich. 1897, § 6448, held to sustain writ of error on ground that such franchises were protected by the contract clause of the federal Constitution so as to authorize a higher fare. Detroit United Ry. v. People of State of Michigan, 37 S. Ct. 87, 242 U. S. 238, 61 L. Ed. 268, reversing judgments People v. Detroit United Ry., 125 N. W. 700, 162 Mich. 460, 139 Am. St. Rep. 582 and City of Detroit v. Same, 139 N. W. 56, 173 Mich. 314.

Contention that opening of street through hospital grounds violated contract clause of federal Constitution held so devoid of merit as to justify dismissal for want of jurisdiction of writ of error to state court. Contributors to Pennsylvania Hospital v. City of Philadelphia, 38 S. Ct. 35, 245 U. S. 20, 62 L. Ed. 124, affirming decree 98 A. 1077, 254 Pa. 392.

Decision of state court that mandamus would not lie against county treasurer to enforce contract claim, but that remedy was by proceedings against different officers or the county, does not impair contract rights, so as to allow review by national court. Farson, Son & Co. v. Bird, 39 S. Ct. 111, 63 L. Ed.. —.

66. Indian tribes, actions by or against.—A ruling of the highest state court adverse to contention that deed from heir of a Chickasaw allottee was champertous is not reviewable in federal Supreme Court on writ of error. Gannon v. Johnston, 37 S. Ct. 330, 243 U. S. 108, 61 L. Ed. 622, affirming judgment 140 P. 430, 40 Okl. 695, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 522.

Holding of state court that purchaser had burden of showing that Indian allottee had heirs other than those executing deed under which vendor claimed, and that mere suggestion that there might be other heirs did not make title unmerchantable, held a matter of state law, with which the Supreme Court had no concern. Egan v. McDonald, 38 S. Ct. 223, 246 U. S. 227, 62 L. Ed. 680, affirming judgment 153 N. W. 915, 36 S. D. 92.

68. Interstate commerce.—Whether the liability of an interstate carrier under Act Feb. 4, 1887, as amended by Act June 29, 1906 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8604a), was changed to that of a warehouseman under a local law, casting the burden of proof upon a warehouseman in case of loss by fire, held a federal question supporting the appellate jurisdiction of the federal Supreme Court over a state court. Southern Ry. Co. v. Prescott, 36 S. Ct. 469, 240 U. S. 632, 60 L. Ed. 836, reversing judgment Prescott v. Southern Ry. Co., 83 S. E. 781, 99 S. C. 422.

Federal question sustaining writ of error from federal Supreme Court to a state court held involved by decision of latter court that an embargo, by which railroad at request of paper company refused to furnish cars to shippers to such paper company which it was bound to receive, violates Hepburn Act. Menasha Paper Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 36 S. Ct. 501, 241 U. S. 55, 60 L. Ed. 885, affirming judgment Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Menasha Paper Co., 149 N. W. 751, 159 Wis. 508.

Construction of bill of lading for an interstate shipment under Carmack Amendment (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8604a), is a federal question. Georgia, F. & A. Ry. Co. v. Blish Milling Co., 36 S. Ct. 541, 241 U. S. 190, 60 L. Ed. 948, affirming judgment 82 S. E. 784, 15 Ga. App. 142.

A holding, that facts controlling in a suit for delay in delivery of interstate shipment in which carrier relied on interstate bill of lading as a defense must not be considered because bill of lading gives innocent purchaser greater rights than those enjoyed by the shipper, is a decision of a federal question. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Harold, 36 S. Ct. 665, 241 U. S. 371, 60 L. Ed. 1050, reversing judgment Harold v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 144 P. 823, 93 Kan. 456.

Whether Congress has covered subject of headlights by amendment of March 4, 1915, to Boiler Inspection Act Feb. 17, 1911 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, §§ 8639a–8639d), so as to invalidate order of state railroad commission when applied to interstate commerce as to headlights of engines, is not open to review, where the judgment refusing to enjoin enforcement of order was entered before passage of amendment. Vandalia R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Indiana, 37 S. Ct. 93, 242 U. S. 255, 61 L. Ed. 276, affirming judgment Same v. Railroad Commission of Indiana, 101 N. E. 85, 182 Ind. 382.

Where defeated party insisted in highest state court on its rights under Interstate Commerce Act, § 8 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8572), an appeal lies on adverse decision to federal Supreme Court. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Ohio Valley Tie Co., 37 S. Ct. 120, 242 U. S. 288, 61 L. Ed. 305, reversing judgment 170 S. W. 633, 161 Ky. 212.

The federal Supreme Court has jurisdiction of writ of error to state court to review decision adverse to contention that local freight rate between stations in the state is so related to through rates to place of shipment from districts outside the state as to exclude regulation by Illinois Public Utilities Commission. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission of Illinois, 37 S. Ct. 173, 242 U. S. 333, 61 L. Ed. 341, affirming judgment 108 N. E. 729, 268 Ill. 49.

Judgment of highest court on ground of validity of stipulation in interstate through bill of lading may be reviewed in federal court on cross writ of error, where consignee asserts that Carmack amendment was violated by such stipulation. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Starbird, 37 S. Ct. 462, 243 U. S. 592, 61 L. Ed. 917, modifying judgment 177 S. W. 912, 118 Ark. 485.

Case involving rights under interstate bills of lading issued under Carmack Amendment (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8604a), is reviewable in federal Supreme Court on writ of error to state court. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Texas Packing Co., 37 S. Ct. 487, 244 U. S. 31, 61 L. Ed. 970, affirming judgment (Tex. Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 195.

The contention that a steamship company engaged in interstate commerce could not be subjected to Workmen's Compensation Act Ohio, May 31, 1911, without burdening such commerce, contrary to Const. art. 1, § 8, will not serve as basis of writ of error from federal Supreme Court. Valley S. S. Co. v. Wattawa, 37 S. Ct. 523, 244 U. S. 202, 61 L. Ed. 1084.

71. National banks.—Contention that, under National Bank Act, rules of directors of national bank did not empower cashier to sell shares of stock belonging to the bank, presents no federal question supporting appellate jurisdiction of federal Supreme Court. Union Nat. Bank v. McBoyle, 37 S. Ct. 370, 243 U. S. 26, 61 L. Ed. 570, dismissing writ of error McBoyle v. Union Nat. Bank, 142 P. 837, 168 Cal. 263.

80. Pleading and practice.—See Nevada-California-Oregon Ry. v. Burrus, 37 S. Ct. 576, 244 U. S. 103, 61 L. Ed. 1019, dismissing writ of error Burrus v. Nevada-California-Oregon Ry., 145 P. 926, 38 Nev. 156.

Whether a declaration, in an action against a railway company for death of an employé, permitted recovery at common law is a question of local law, in the absence of a showing that the injury came within the federal Employers' Liability Act (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8657 et seq.) and is therefore not reviewable on error to a state court from the federal Supreme Court. Osborne v. Gray, 36 S. Ct. 486, 241 U. S. 16, 60 L. Ed. 865.

Whether two years' limitation prescribed by Employers' Liability Act was disregarded by permitting amendment to the complaint is a federal question subject to re-examination by writ of error. Seaboard Air Line Ry. v. Renn, 36 S. Ct. 567, 241 U. S. 290, 60 L. Ed. 1006, affirming judgment Renn v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 86 S. E. 964, 170 N. C. 128.

Objection that copy of document sued on should have been filed with the declaration in a state court is not reviewable in federal Supreme Court on writ of error. Chicago Life Ins. Co. v. Cherry, 37 S. Ct. 492, 244 U. S. 25, 61 L. Ed. 966, affirming judgment Cherry v. Chicago Life Ins. Co., 190 Ill. App. 70.

Whether state Supreme Court should take judicial notice that principal river of the state is navigable at the state capital held a question of state law, and federal Supreme Court could not pronounce its action erroneous. Wear v. State of Kansas ex rel. Brewster, 38 S. Ct. 55, 245 U. S. 154, 62 L. Ed. 214, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 586, affirming judgment State ex rel. Dawson v. Akers.

140 P. 637, 92 Kan. 169, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 543.

Where action under federal Employers' Liability Act is tried in state court, questions purely of local practice are not reviewable by Supreme Court of United States on writ of error to highest state court. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Holloway, 38 S. Ct. 379, 246 U. S. 525, 62 L. Ed. 867, affirming judgment Same v. Holloway's Adm'r, 181 S. W. 1126, 168 Ky. 262.

Where railroad company which had been notified of Missouri attorney's lien on his client's cause of action satisfied judgment in favor of client rendered in federal court in action brought by second attorney, enforcement of lien of first attorney given by Rev. St. Mo. 1909, §§ 964, 965, by action in state court against railroad company did not deprive it of any right guaranteed by United States Constitution or Statutes, so as to warrant review by National Supreme Court of state court's judgment on writ of error under this section as amended. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Laughlin, 38 S. Ct. 436, 247 U. S. 204, 62 L. Ed. 1073, dismissing writ of error Laughlin v. Union Pac. Ry. Co., 196 S. W. 398, 196 Mo. App. 541.

82. Public lands, entries thereon, and titles derived from state or United States.—Whether a person has acquired title by adverse possession to lands conveyed by United States to state in aid of railroad construction is a local question not open to review on writ of error to a state court. Donohue v. Vosper, 37 S. Ct. 350, 243 U. S. 59, 61 L. Ed. 592, affirming decree (Mich.) 155 N. W. 407.

A judgment of a state court holding certain school lands within a forest reservation subject to condemnation by a water company is reviewable in the federal Supreme Court, where opinion of state court shows that Rev. St. §§ 2275, 2276 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, §§ 4860, 4861), giving right to select other lands in lieu of school sections, were basis for decision. State of California v. Deseret Water, Oil & Irrigation Co., 37 S. Ct. 394, 243 U. S. 415, 61 L. Ed. 821, reversing judgment Deseret Water Oil & Irr. Co. v. State, 138 P. 981, 167 Cal. 147.

83. Removal of causes to federal court.—Where District Court remanded cause to state court because jurisdictional amount was not involved, order of appellate state court affirming judgment denying motion to set aside removal to federal court is not subject to review in federal Supreme Court, being an attempt to review, contrary to Judicial Code, § 28 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 1010), order of federal court remanding cause. Yankaus v. Feltenstein, 37 S. Ct. 567, 244 U. S. 127, 61 L. Ed. 1036.

84. Questions of fact.—On writ of error to state court the Supreme Court must examine the evidence to determine the validity of the claim that there was no substantial evidence that a defect in a power brake contributed to the death of an employé, as this presents a federal question of law. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Huxoll, 38 S. Ct. 187, 245 U. S. 535, 62 L. Ed. 455, affirming judgment Huxoll v. Union Pac. R. Co., 155 N. W. 900, 99 Neb. 170.

In action under federal Employers' Liability Act, tried in state court where judgment for plaintiff was affirmed by highest state tribunal, question of excessiveness of damages cannot be reviewed in federal Supreme Court on writ of error. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Holloway, 38 S. Ct. 379, 246 U. S. 525, 62 L. Ed. 867, affirming judgment Same v. Holloway's Adm'r, 181 S. W. 1126, 168 Ky. 262.

86. Taxation and assessments.—Extent of authority of a city under its charter, the validity of its ordinances, and the rights of parties under assessment proceedings, are all state questions as to which decision of state court is controlling on federal Supreme Court. St. Louis & Kansas City Land Co. v. Kansas City, 36 S. Ct. 647, 241 U. S. 419, 60 L. Ed. 1072, affirming judgment Kansas City v. St. Louis & Kansas City Land Co., 169 S. W. 62, 260 Mo. 395.

Whether assessment of benefits in street widening proceedings on portion of one's property is an adjudication that the other portions were not benefited is a question of state law not reviewable on writ of error to a state court. Id.

Ruling of state court as to effect, as to curative proceeding to assess benefits, of a decree in a state court holding assessment void, does not present a federal question. Id.

Federal Supreme Court held to have nothing to do with consistency or inconsistency of state courts' decisions as to taxability of bank deposits in another state. Fidelity & Columbia Trust Co. v. City of Louisville, Ky., 38 S. Ct. 40, 245 U. S. 54, 62 L. Ed. 145, L. R. A. 1918C, 124, affirming judgments Ewald's Ex'r v. Same, 181 S. W. 1095, 168 Ky. 71, 188 S. W. 652, 171 Ky. 509, and 189 S. W. 438, 172 Ky. 451.

IV. PROCEDURE, RECORD, AND REVIEW

(A) Presentation of federal question

88. Necessity of raising federal question.—Federal questions not presented in state court and not necessary to determination of cause will not be reviewed by United States Supreme Court. In re Thompson, 102 A. 303, 116 Me. 473.

89. Manner and time of presenting federal question in general.—To become basis of proceeding in error from United States Supreme Court to any state Supreme Court, "a right, privilege or immunity" claimed under a federal statute must have been "especially set up and claimed" and must have been denied, in view of Comp. St. 1916, § 1214. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Mims, 37 S. Ct. 188, 242 U. S. 532, 61 L. Ed. 476. See, also, Mo. Pac. Ry. Co. v. Taber, 37 S. Ct. 522, 244 U. S. 200, 61 L. Ed. 1082.

90. —— Federal question raised.—Plaintiffs suing directors of a national bank to recover deposits on the ground of false representations as to bank's financial condition held entitled to appeal to the federal Supreme Court from a judgment of the highest state court reversing the judgment in their favor in the trial court, though they did not base their action on Rev. St. § 5239 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9831), and the application of such statute was suggested by defendants' answer. Jones Nat. Bank v. Yates, 36 S. Ct. 429, 240 U. S. 541, 60 L. Ed. 788, reversing judgment 139 N. W. 844, 1135, 93 Neb. 121.

The question whether proper effect was given to Interstate Commerce Act, and its amendments, in interpreting bill of lading for interstate shipment, requiring notice of claims to be given to carrier's officers as excluding officers of connecting carriers, held fairly presented so as to sustain writ of error from federal Supreme Court. Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Wall, 36 S. Ct. 493, 241 U. S. 87, 60 L. Ed. 905, reversing judgment Wall v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 145 P. 291, 50 Mont. 122.

Where state Supreme Court treats federal questions as necessarily involved, decides them against plaintiff in error, and could not otherwise have reached same result, it is immaterial how questions were raised, in so far as Supreme Court's jurisdiction to review decision is concerned. Cissna v. State of Tennessee, 38 S. Ct. 306, 246 U. S. 289, 62 L. Ed. 720, reversing judgment State v. Muncie Pulp Co., 104 S. W. 437, 119 Tenn. 47.

91. —— Federal question not raised.—Refusal of state court, upheld by highest court of state, to admit testimony in support of claim under federal Employers' Liability Act April 22, 1908 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8657 et seq.), held not a denial of a federal right which the federal Supreme Court can review, where such claim was not asserted so as to call for its consideration by the highest state court. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Mims, 37 S. Ct. 188, 242 U. S. 532, 61 L. Ed. 476, dismissing writ of error Mims v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 85 S. E. 372, 100 S. C. 375.

92. —— Appellate court.—Carrier which has abandoned application for modification of order of state railroad commission requiring headlights on locomotives cannot urge on writ of error to a state court that the order is so uncertain as to be a denial of due process of law. Vandalia R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Indiana 37 S. Ct. 93, 242 U. S. 255, 61 L. Ed. 276, affirming judgment Same v. Railroad Commission of Indiana, 101 N. E. 85, 182 Ind. 382.

The claim that a state court denied a judgment of a sister state the credit to which it was entitled under Const. art. 4, § 1, and Rev. St. § 905 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1519), held not to serve as basis for writ of error to state court, where the effect of the judgment in the courts of the state where rendered was not raised below. Gasquet v. Lapeyre, 37 S. Ct. 165, 242 U. S. 367, 61 L. Ed. 367, dismissing writ of error Interdiction of Gasquet, 68 So. 89, 136 La. 957.

Objections that, in advance of determination by Interstate Commerce Commission as to whether routing was reasonable, state courts assumed jurisdiction of action to recover amount equal to that by which freight for shipments carried on interstate route between intrastate points exceeded intrastate rate, are available in Supreme Court, though first urged in state Supreme Court, where they were considered and overruled. Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Solum, 38 S. Ct. 550, 247 U. S. 477, 62 L. Ed. 1221, reversing judgments Solum v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 157 N. W. 996, 133 Minn. 93, and Monarch Elevator Co. v. Same, 157 N. W. 998, 133 Minn. 461, and dismissing writ of error Duluth Elevator Co. v. Same, 162 N. W. 1087, 136 Minn. 468.

93. —— After decision on appeal.—Claim that the case is governed by federal law, raised after the case had twice been passed on by state Supreme Court, is too late to allow of error to such court. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Sealy, 39 S. Ct. 97, 63 L. Ed. ——.

Petition for writ of error on ground that federal question sought to be raised did not exist until after filing of the court's opinion would be denied where opinion was within agreed statement of facts on which the case was tried, on a matter not material to decision. Wren v. Dixon (Nev.) 167 P. 324, denying petition for writ of error to the United States Supreme Court 161 P. 722.

94. —— On rehearing.—Objection that intervener holding bonds in suit to enjoin collection of drainage tax was not given opportunity to defend in violation of Const. U. S. Amend. 14, held raised in time to serve as basis of writ of error from the federal Supreme Court when first made in assignment of errors filed in state Supreme Court on refusal to consider application for rehearing. Saunders v. Shaw, 37 S. Ct. 638, 244 U. S. 317, 61 L. Ed. 1163, reversing judgment Shaw v. Board of Com'rs of Bayou Terre-Aux-Boeufs Drainage Dist., 70 So. 910, 138 La. 917.

Where plaintiffs in error did not raise any federal question until their second petition for rehearing, after state Supreme Court had affirmed judgment on adequate nonfederal ground, question was raised too late for consideration on writ of error sued out from United States Supreme Court. Bilby v. Stewart. 38 S. Ct. 264, 246 U. S. 255, 62 L. Ed. 701, dismissing writ of error (Okl.) 153 P. 1173.

To suggest or set up a federal question for the first time in a petition for rehearing in the highest court of the state is not in time. Wren v. Dixon (Nev.) 167 P. 324, denying petition for writ of error to the United States Supreme Court 161 P. 722.

95. Sufficiency of presentation of federal question in general.—Objection to application to steamship company of the Workmen's Compensation Act Ohio, May 31, 1911, because Const. art. 3, § 2, gave federal courts jurisdiction of all cases of admiralty, is not ground for writ of error, where it was not presented to the trial court, nor clearly pointed out to Court of Appeals of state. Valley S. S. Co. v. Wattawa, 37 S. Ct. 523, 244 U. S. 202, 61 L. Ed. 1084.

Where Minnesota statute giving attorneys lien on cause of action was held applicable to action based on federal Employers' Liability Act, and pleadings showed that action was one for injuries received in interstate commerce, and question of applicability of statute was discussed in state court, constitutional question was sufficiently raised to authorize writ of error. Dickinson v. Stiles, 38 S. Ct. 415, 246 U. S. 631, 62 L. Ed. 908, affirming judgment Holloway v. Dickinson, 163 N. W. 791, 137 Minn. 410.

Where, in action to quiet title, plaintiff, grantee of father of deceased Chickasaw Indian allottee, claimed deceased was legitimate child and hence his father was his heir, and defendant claimed as heir of deceased as being illegitimate, refusal of requests by defendant for ruling, in effect, that a marriage of Chickasaws, although in accord with their customs, was invalid under Chickasaw Act Oct. 12, 1876, unless solemnized by a judge or preacher, and hence not validated by Act May 2, 1890, § 38, validating previous marriages "contracted under the laws or tribal customs of any Indian nation," opened, although somewhat remotely, a federal question, as to proper construction of the 1890 act. Carney v. Chapman, 38 S. Ct. 449, 247 U. S. 102, 62 L. Ed. 1005, affirming judgment (Okl.) 158 P. 1125.

(B) Right of review and parties entitled thereto

102. Parties entitled to a review.—The constitutionality of the compulsory insurance provisions of Iowa elective Workmen's Compensation Act, § 42, will not be considered by the federal Supreme Court at the instance of an employer not accepting the act, where the highest state court has held that an employer not accepting is not compelled to insure. Hawkins v. Bleakly, 37 S. Ct. 255, 243 U. S. 210, 61 L. Ed. 678, affirming decree Same v. Bleakley (D. C.) 220 F. 378.

(C) Writ of error or certiorari and procedure thereon

106. Form of remedy for review.—See Chicago Life Ins. Co. v. Cherry, 37 S. Ct. 492, 244 U. S. 25, 61 L. Ed. 966, affirming judgment Cherry v. Chicago Life Ins. Co., 190 Ill. App. 70.

A writ of error directed to the superior court of Cincinnati, Ohio, must be dismissed where the judgment of that court in the case had been affirmed by the appropriate Court of Appeals of that state, and the latter court, after a general judgment of affirmance, had ordered "that a special mandate be sent to the superior court of Cincinnati to carry this judgment into execution." The writ should have been directed to the Court of Appeals, as the highest court in which a judgment could be rendered in the case, in view of the refusal of the Supreme Court of the state to grant a motion to require the Court of Appeals to certify its record to the Supreme Court for review. Second Nat. Bank of Cincinnati, Ohio, v. First Nat. Bank of Okeana, Ohio, 37 S. Ct. 236, 61 L. Ed. 518.

A writ of certiorari to review a decision of a state court is granted or refused in the exercise of a sound discretion. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. v. Gilbert, 38 S. Ct. 58, 245 U. S. 162, 62 L. Ed. 221, dismissing writ of error Gilbert v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., 162 N. Y. S. 1121, 176 App. Div. 889.

Under this section, as amended by Act Sept. 6, 1916, where foreign corporation moved to set aside service as an invasion of its rights under Const. Amend. 14, § 1, certiorari, and not writ of error, held the proper mode of review. Id.

Difference in remedies of writ of error and certiorari provided for by this section, as amended by Act Sept. 6, 1916, c. 448, to review decisions of state courts involving federal questions, is that writ of error is allowed as of right, where upon examination it appears that the case is of class designated, but in certiorari cases issuance of writ rests in discretion of Supreme Court. Ireland v. Woods, 38 S. Ct. 319, 246 U. S. 323, 62 L. Ed.

745, dismissing writ of error People ex rel. Ireland v. Same, 117 N. E. 1081, 221 N. Y. 600, which affirmed judgment 163 N. Y. S. 991, 177 App. Div. 1.

Denial of habeas corpus to obtain release from arrest for interstate rendition under warrant issued by New York Governor under Code Cr. Proc. N. Y. § 827, on ground that petitioner, not being fugitive from justice, was restrained in violation of Const. art. 4, § 2, cl. 2, and Rev. St. § 5278 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10126), held not a denial of national powers so as to warrant review on writ of error under this section as amended by Act Sept. 6, 1916, c. 448, but to fall within class of cases reviewable by certiorari. Id.

Where it was urged that state court erred in holding that action to recover money paid as freight was not affected by federal Interstate Commerce Acts, and that state court erred in assuming jurisdiction prior to determination of questions of railroad routing by Interstate Commerce Commission, the judgment might, before Act Sept. 6, 1916, amending this section, be reviewed on writ of error, but, after that act went into effect, writ of error was not available. Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Solum, 38 S. Ct. 550, 247 U. S. 477, 62 L. Ed. 1221, reversing judgments Solum v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 157 N. W. 996, 133 Minn. 93, and Monarch Elevator Co. v. Same, 157 N. W. 998, 133 Minn. 461, and dismissing writ of error Duluth Elevator Co. v. Same, 162 N. W. 1087, 136 Minn. 468.

Under this section as amended by Act Sept. 6, 1916, an application to United States Supreme Court for certiorari to review final judgment of higher court of state will be granted only on sufficient cause shown for failure to apply for writ of error within time allowed by law, or, where such writ would not lie, as a substitute for error in discretion of Supreme Court. Seaboard Air-Line Ry. Co. v. Horton (N. C.) 96 S. E. 954.

107. Allowance of writ.—Writ of error to review decision of state court in cases specified in the statute is granted as of right. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. v. Gilbert, 38 S. Ct. 58, 245 U. S. 162, 62 L. Ed. 221, dismissing writ of error Gilbert v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., 162 N. Y. S. 1121, 176 App. Div. 889.

Where a cause was appealed to the Supreme Court, which transferred it to a District Court of Appeal, and thereafter the Supreme Court refused to vacate the decision of the District Court of Appeal and hear the case, the Supreme Court has no authority to allow a writ of error from the United States Supreme Court. Terry v. Southern Pac. Co. (Cal.) 169 P. 354.

Petition for writ of error on ground that federal question sought to be raised did not exist until after filing of the court's opinion would be denied where opinion was within agreed statement of facts on which the case was tried, on a matter not material to decision. Wren v. Dixon (Nev.) 167 P. 324, denying petition for writ of error to the United States Supreme Court 161 P. 722.

An application for a writ of error to the Supreme Court of the United States must be made, not to the Supreme Court of North Carolina, but to its presiding officer, and if allowed, ancillary supersedeas will be granted by him. Seaboard Air-Line Ry. Co. v. Horton (N. C.) 96 S. E. 954.

The North Carolina Supreme Court, after affirming the judgment below, has no authority to grant certiorari to remove the case from the courts of the state to the United States Supreme Court. Id.

Writ of error allowed to the United States Supreme Court will be revoked; the parties having since its issuance settled their differences and ended the litigation. Southern Life & Trust Co. v. Guimarin (S. C.) 90 S. E. 326.

109. —— Jurisdiction of lower federal court.—Where, from judgment rendered against it by state court, complainant appealed to state Supreme Court, and on affirmance took a writ of error to United States Supreme Court, complainant could not secure relief against judgment by independent suit in federal District Court. American Surety Co. of New York v. Mills, 232 F. 841, 147 C. C. A. 35.

110½. Cross-writ of error.—See St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Starbird, 37 S. Ct. 462, 243 U. S. 592, 61 L. Ed. 917, modifying judgment 177 S. W. 912, 118 Ark. 485.

110¾. Abatement and revival.—Rev. St. Tex. 1911, art. 1206, held to prevent abatement of suit pending against a corporation on appeal when such corporation was dissolved. Pease v. Rathbun-Jones Engineering Co., 37 S. Ct. 283, 243 U. S. 273, 61 L. Ed. 715, affirming decree 228 F. 273, 142 C. C. A. 565.

Expiration of term of office of state comptroller requires the dismissal for want of proper defendant to stand in judgment of writ of error to state court dismissing bill to enjoin such official from assessing the tax on the ground that the state law authorizing it was void. Pullman Co. v. Knott, 37 S. Ct. 428, 243 U. S. 447, 61 L. Ed. 841, dismissing writ of error 69 So. 703, 70 Fla. 9.

111. Security to prosecute writ, supersedeas, and stay of proceedings.—Supersedeas should be issued by the United States Supreme Court if it should grant a certiorari to remove the cause from the courts of North Carolina to the Supreme Court. Seaboard Air-Line Ry. Co. v. Horton (N. C.) 96 S. E. 954.

(D) Record

122. Necessity and sufficiency of showing of federal question—Opinion of state court as part of record.—Federal Supreme Court will not take jurisdiction of writ of error to state court where absence of opinion by the court below makes it impossible to say whether its judgment could be sustained independent of the federal question. Cuyahoga River Power Co. v. Northern Realty Co., 37 S. Ct. 643, 244 U. S. 300, 61 L. Ed. 1153.

(E) Scope and extent of review

125. Authority of court in general.—The federal Supreme Court, reviewing a refusal of a state court to discharge on habeas corpus a person whose extradition is sought by another state, held entitled to assume that the accused was a fugitive from the justice of the demanding state. Innes v. Tobin, 36 S. Ct. 290, 240 U. S. 127, 60 L. Ed. 562, affirming judgment Ex parte Innes (Tex. Cr. App.) 173 S. W. 291, L. R. A. 1916C, 1251.

On review of judgment upholding order of State Public Service Commission, requiring gas company to extend pipes, Supreme Court will not substitute its judgment for that of the commission, but will determine whether there was a want of a hearing or such arbitrary or capricious action as denied due process of law. People of State of New York ex rel. New York & Queens Gas Co. v. McCall, 38 S. Ct. 122, 245 U. S. 345, 62 L. Ed. 337, affirming order People ex rel. New York & Queens Gas Co. v. McCall, 113 N. E. 795, 219 N. Y. 84, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 1042, which reversed 157 N. Y. S. 707, 171 App. Div. 580.

Where a case was submitted and decided on the pleadings, every uncontradicted allegation of fact by the unsuccessful party must be taken as true. Postal Telegraph Cable Co. v. City of Newport, Ky., 38 S. Ct. 566, 247 U. S. 464, 62 L. Ed. 1215, reversing judgment 169 S. W. 700, 160 Ky. 244.

127. Immaterial questions.—On writ of error to review final judgment recognizing street railway franchise as existing, but declaring it ended by resolution of county commissioners, consideration of question whether the franchise has since expired by limitation held unnecessary. Northern Ohio Traction & Light Co. v. State of Ohio ex rel. Pontius, 38 S. Ct. 196, 245 U. S. 574, 62 L. Ed. 481, reversing judgment State v. Northern Ohio Traction & Light Co., 114 N. E. 53, 93 Ohio St. 466.

128. Questions not raised or decided.—Errors not assigned on appeal to the highest state court will not be considered by the federal Supreme Court on error. Bullen v. State of Wisconsin, 36 S. Ct. 473, 240 U. S. 625, 60 L. Ed. 830, affirming judgment In re Bullen's Estate, 128 N. W. 109, 143 Wis. 512, 139 Am. St. Rep. 1114.

Objection that an instruction under Employers' Liability Act (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8657 et seq.) did not state as an element appreciation by the employé of the dangers of the situation held not available, where objection made at trial was general one that instruction did not correctly state the common-law doctrine of assumption of risk. Jacobs v. Southern Ry. Co., 36 S. Ct. 588, 241 U. S. 229, 60 L. Ed. 970.

Charging the jury, in an action under Employers' Liability Act (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8657 et seq.), that on finding plaintiff guilty of contributory negligence they should reduce his damages proportionally, held not reversible error where no correction was asked. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Brown, 36 S. Ct. 602, 241 U. S. 223, 60 L. Ed. 966, affirming judgment 144 P. 1075, 45 Okl. 143.

Judgment against railroad in action for the death of a fireman will not be reversed because of assumption that he was not engaged in interstate commerce though there can be no recovery if he was so engaged where the railroad did not ask to go to the jury on the question. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Parker, 37 S. Ct. 4, 242 U. S. 13, 61 L. Ed. 119, affirming judgment 177 S. W. 465, 165 Ky. 658.

131. Validity of state statutes when tested by federal constitution.—Federal Supreme Court in deciding whether state legislation impairs obligation of contract must determine whether there was a contract, the obligation arising thereunder, and question of its impairment. Detroit United Ry. v. People of State of Michigan, 37 S. Ct. 87, 242 U. S. 238, 61 L. Ed. 268, reversing judgments People v. Detroit United Ry., 125 N. W. 700, 162 Mich. 460, 139 Am. St. Rep. 582, and City of Detroit v. Same, 139 N. W. 56, 173 Mich. 314.

131½. Stipulations.—Stipulation in suit to recover demurrage charges that track was a private track is a nullity, where facts set forth in petition and exhibits admitted by demurrer show that track was owned by carrier. Swift & Co. v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., 37 S. Ct. 287, 243 U. S. 281, 61 L. Ed. 722, affirming judgment 112 N. E. 212, 93 Ohio St. 143.

133. Questions of fact.—A judgment of a state court in an action brought under the Employers' Liability Act (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8657 et seq.) will not be disturbed on writ of error by the federal Supreme Court, where nothing but questions of fact are involved and the statute is not construed, or any legal principles in its application declared. Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Knapp, 36 S. Ct. 399, 240 U. S. 464, 60 L. Ed. 745, affirming judgment Knapp v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 153 N. W. 848, 130 Minn. 405.

The federal Supreme Court reviewing on error a judgment of the state appellate court reversing a judgment holding directors of a national bank liable under Rev. St. § 5239 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9831), for deposits received under false representations as to the bank's financial condition, will inquire into the facts to determine whether there is substantial evidence to support the findings. Jones Nat. Bank v. Yates, 36 S. Ct. 429, 240 U. S. 541, 60 L. Ed. 788, reversing judgment 139 N. W. 844, 1135, 93 Neb. 121.

In absence of clear error, the federal Supreme Court will not reverse a finding of the state trial and appellate courts that the "next of kin," entitled to sue under Act April 22, 1908, as amended by Act April 5, 1910 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8665), were so dependent on deceased as to justify recovery under the federal statute. Seaboard Air Line Ry. v. Kenney, 36 S. Ct. 458, 240 U. S. 489, 60 L. Ed. 762, affirming judgment Kenney v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 82 S. E. 968, 167 N. C. 14.

Refusal of state court, sustained by a court of last resort, to take from the jury an action under the Employers' Liability Act by directing verdict for defendant, will not be disturbed on writ of error by federal Supreme Court unless clearly erroneous. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Stewart, 36 S. Ct. 586, 241 U. S. 261, 60 L. Ed. 989, affirming judgment Same v. Stewart's Adm'x, 174 S. W. 744, 163 Ky. 823.

Concurrent determination of state trial and appellate courts that deceased railway employé assumed risk of danger causing death will not be disturbed on writ of error in the federal Supreme Court unless clearly erroneous. Baugham v. New York, P. & N. R. Co., 36 S. Ct. 592, 241 U. S. 237, 60 L. Ed. 977.

Unanimous ruling of highest state court that suit under Employers' Liability Act (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8657 et seq.) was properly left to the jury will not be disturbed on writ of error, except for clear and palpable error. Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Whitacre, 37 S. Ct. 33, 242 U. S. 169, 61 L. Ed. 228, affirming judgment 92 A. 1060, 124 Md. 411.

Decision of state court that evidence did not require submission to jury of question whether conductor on interstate railway was, when injured, employed in interstate commerce, held not to show error requiring reversal. Erie R. Co. v. Welsh, 37 S. Ct. 116, 242 U. S. 303, 61 L. Ed. 319, affirming judgment 105 N. E. 189, 89 Ohio St. 81.

Ruling of highest state court that trial court had properly left to jury case brought under federal Employers' Liability Act April 22, 1908 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8657 et seq.), will not be disturbed on writ of error unless clear error is shown. Seaboard Air Line Ry. v. Lorick, 37 S. Ct. 440, 243 U. S. 572, 61 L. Ed. 907.

Federal Supreme Court will not lightly disturb concurrent conclusions, of two state courts in action under Employers' Liability Act, as amended by Act April 5, 1910 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, §§ 8662, 8665), that there was sufficient ground for attributing negligence to railway carrier causing injury to employé. Southern Ry. Co. v. Puckett, 37 S. Ct. 703, 244 U. S. 571, 61 L. Ed. 1321, affirming judgment 85 S. E. 809, 16 Ga. App. 551.

On writ of error to a state court, it is not the province of the federal Supreme Court to weigh conflicting evidence, where the record shows testimony supporting the verdict. Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Donaldson, 38 S. Ct. 230, 246 U. S. 121, 62 L. Ed. 616, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 581, affirming judgment Donaldson v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 154 P. 133, 89 Wash. 161.

Where the state court denied asserted federal rights on a basis of fact having no support in the record, a finding of fact by the state court is not conclusive on the national Supreme Court, and it should review and correct the error. Postal Telegraph Cable Co. v. City of Newport, Ky., 38 S. Ct. 566, 247 U. S. 464, 62 L. Ed. 1215, reversing judgment 169 S. W. 700, 160 Ky. 244.

It is the duty of the Supreme Court of the United States to examine for itself whether there is any basis in the admitted facts, or in the evidence, when the facts are in dispute, for finding that the federal right involved has been waived by the party complaining of the judgment of a state court. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Missouri, 39 S. Ct. 24.

In suit attacking constitutionality of state statute whereunder fees for inspection of oils and gasoline were exacted, claim being that act was revenue measure and burden on interstate commerce, finding of fact by trial court of state, approved by its Supreme Court, is accepted as conclusive by Supreme Court of United States. Pure Oil Co. v. State of Minnesota, 39 S. Ct. 35.

(F) Determination and disposition of cause

134. Authority in general.—A verdict on first trial of action for death under Employers' Liability Act (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8657 et seq.) cannot be reinstated by federal Supreme Court on cross-writ of error to a state court which, having set aside verdict for plaintiff on first trial, affirmed, on second appeal, judgment for plaintiff in a lesser amount, on second trial. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Stewart, 36 S. Ct.

586, 241 U. S. 261, 60 L. Ed. 989, affirming judgment Same v. Stewart's Adm'x, 174 S. W. 744, 163 Ky. 823.

137. Authority to dismiss cause.—Where writ of error was not available, under this section, as amended by Act Sept. 6, 1916, to review judgment of state court, it must be dismissed, though defendant in error does not raise jurisdictional question. Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Solum, 38 S. Ct. 550, 247 U. S. 477, 62 L. Ed. 1221, reversing judgments Solum v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 157 N. W. 996, 133 Minn. 93, and Monarch Elevator Co. v. Same, 157 N. W. 998, 133 Minn. 461, and dismissing writ of error Duluth Elevator Co. v. Same, 162 N. W. 1087, 136 Minn. 468.

No federal question being presented by the record, writ of error to state court will be dismissed by the court sua sponte. Palmer v. State of Ohio, 39 S. Ct. 16.

138. Authority to affirm.—Judgment for plaintiff in action under federal Employers' Liability Act April 22, 1908 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8657 et seq.), will not be disturbed on writ of error to state court, where no errors are shown and evidence justifies submission to jury. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. Tonsellito, 37 S. Ct. 620, 244 U. S. 360, 61 L. Ed. 1194, modifying judgment Tonsellito v. New York Cent. & H R. R. Co., 94 A. 804, 87 N. J. Law, 651.

142. Mandate and proceedings in state court.—Where special paving assessments based on front-foot rule and also on area rule were on error to the United States Supreme Court declared void as to the area rule, the state Supreme Court on remand could order reversal and direct judgment sustaining assessment as to the other rule without requiring a new assessment. Schneider Granite Co. v. Gast Realty & Investment Co., 38 S. Ct. 125, 245 U. S. 288, 62 L. Ed. 292, affirming judgment 191 S. W. 689, 269 Mo. 561.

(G) Instructions as to applications for writs of certiorari

See note under § 1217.

CITED WITHOUT DEFINITE APPLICATION

Central Trust Co. of Illinois v. Chicago Auditorium Ass'n, 36 S. Ct. 412, 60 L. Ed. 811, L. R. A. 1917B, 580; Southern Pacific Co. v. Jensen, 37 S. Ct. 524, 61 L. Ed. 1086, L. R. A. 1918C, 451. Ann. Cas. 1917E, 900; Zanesville & Western R. Co. v. Williams, 39 S. Ct. 18; Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Stoddard Lumber Co., 39 S. Ct. 20; Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. U. S., 39 S. Ct. 133; Georgia State Board of Examiners of Optometry v. Mott, 39 S. Ct. 134; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Anderson, 39 S. Ct. 135; Magnolia Bank v. Board of Supervisors of Pine County, Miss., 39 S. Ct. 135; Robinson v. Steele, 39 S. Ct. 135; American Packing Co. v. Luketa, 39 S. Ct. 136.

§ 1215. (Jud. Code, § 238, as amended, Act Jan. 28, 1915, c. 22, § 2.) Appeals and writs of error from United States district courts.

II. JUDGMENTS AND DECREES REVIEWABLE IN GENERAL

18. Real, frivolous, or moot questions.—An appeal from a decree presenting the question whether Anti-Trust Act July 2, 1890 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8820 et seq.), was violated by combination of steamship companies to monopolize ocean carriage, presents a moot question by reason of European War. U. S. v. American-Asiatic S. S. Co., 37 S. Ct. 233, 242 U. S. 537, 61 L. Ed. 479, reversing decree Same v. Prince Line (D. C.) 220 F. 230.

19. Nature and finality of judgment.—Order remanding a cause is not reviewable. Pacific Live Stock Co. v. Lewis, 36 S. Ct. 637, 241 U. S. 440, 60 L. Ed. 1084, affirming decree (D. C.) 217 F. 95.

Order denying petition to restrain United States attorney from taking possession of exhibits impounded by order of federal district court held final, so that writ of error to review same would lie, though it be treated as part of criminal proceedings against petitioner, who was alleged to have committed perjury in suit in which exhibits were impounded. Perlman v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 417, 247 U. S. 7, 62 L. Ed. 950.

III. FEDERAL QUESTIONS REVIEWABLE

(A) Cases in which jurisdiction of the court is in issue

20. Nature of issue of jurisdiction—Causes in which direct appeal or writ of error may be taken.—A case cannot be brought to the United States Supreme Court on writ of error to a district court under section 5 of Court of Appeals Act of 1891, now section 238 of Judicial Code, as one involving jurisdiction where jurisdiction challenged is not that of the court rendering the judgment, from which appeal is taken, but is that of the court rendering the judgment sought to be set aside. Stevirmac Oil & Gas Co. v. Dittman, 38 S. Ct. 116, 245 U. S. 210, 62 L. Ed. 248.

Judgments of the District Courts, in the exercise of the power conferred on them, concurrently with the Court of Claims, by the Tucker Act of March 3, 1887, to decide claims against the United States, are reviewable exclusively and directly by the Supreme Court, and this remedy is unaffected by the general distribution of appellate power by Judiciary Act 1891, or by the Judicial Code; implications of repeal being prevented by sections 294, 295 thereof (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1271, 1272), and Tucker Act, § 4 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1574), being excepted from the repealing clause. J. Homer Fritch, Inc., v. U. S., 39 S. Ct. 158.

21. —— Jurisdiction over defendant or service of process.—The jurisdiction of a federal District Court is involved so as to sustain a direct appeal to the federal Supreme Court under Judicial Code, § 238, where orders are made quashing substituted service of process against the representative of a nonresident within the district, and setting aside all proceedings based thereon. G. & C. Merriam Co. v. Saalfield, 36 S. Ct. 477, 241 U. S. 22, 60 L. Ed. 868.

Under Judicial Code, § 238, direct writ of error lies to review order of federal District Court quashing summons because served on a nonresident while returning from the courtroom after testifying in a case in which he was a party. Stewart v. Ramsay, 37 S. Ct. 44, 242 U. S. 128, 61 L. Ed. 192.

Where bill for infringement of patent, brought under Judicial Code, § 48, was dismissed, and preliminary injunction denied, on ground defendant was not an inhabitant and had no regular place of business in district wherein suit was brought, Circuit Court of Appeals is, under section 128, without jurisdiction of appeal from order of dismissal, and question being one primarily involving jurisdiction, appeal must, under section 238, be taken to Supreme Court. American Electric Welding Co. v. Lalance & Grosjean Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 249 F. 968.

22. —— Dismissal of cause.—See Patterson v. Delaware & Hudson Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 255.

An appeal from a federal District Court to the Supreme Court on a question of jurisdiction will not be dismissed as moot because, pending the appeal, a state court has dismissed upon the merits a suit between the same parties involving the same subject-matter. Male v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 36 S. Ct. 351, 240 U. S. 97, 60 L. Ed. 544.

24. —— Diversity of citizenship.—Questions of jurisdiction of the federal District Court, depending on the district of residence, are, when decided below, questions of federal jurisdiction, which may be brought to the Supreme Court under Judicial Code, § 238, by direct appeal. Male v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 36 S. Ct. 351, 240 U. S. 97, 60 L. Ed. 544.

While an appeal from a decree dismissing a bill for want of jurisdiction, because of lack of diversity of citizenship between all of the parties defendant and plaintiff, should, under this section, be taken directly to the Supreme Court, yet where the bill, as originally filed, showed diversity of citizenship between all of the parties, the Circuit Court of Appeals, no objection having been made, will dispose of an appeal from a decree dismissing the bill after one whose citizenship was the same as that of complainants was made a party defendant by amendment. Patterson v. Delaware & Hudson Co., (C. C. A.) 251 F. 255.

30. Causes in which direct appeal or writ of error may not be taken.—Suit to try title to land in Texas between present and former bed of Rio Grande, District Court's jurisdiction of which was based on diversity of citizenship, held, notwithstanding allegation in answer as to treaties contracting for boundary commission with exclusive jurisdiction, not to involve construction or validity of treaty, so as to allow it to be brought directly to Supreme Court for review.—Cordova v. Grant, 39 S. Ct. 138.

36. Certification of federal questions —Requisites and sufficiency of certificate.—Order of federal District Judge allowing writ of error from federal Supreme Court held to take place of certificate required by this section. McAllister v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 37 S. Ct. 274, 243 U. S. 302, 61 L. Ed. 735.

(C) Cases involving construction or application of federal constitution

40. Jurisdiction of supreme court in general.—A federal Circuit Court of Appeals has no appellate jurisdiction where the jurisdiction of the District Court was invoked upon the sole ground that the application of the federal Constitution was involved. Carolina Glass Co. v. State of South Carolina, 36 S. Ct. 293, 240 U. S. 305, 60 L. Ed. 658, affirming judgments 69 S. E. 391, 87 S. C. 270, and Same v. Murray (D. C.) 197 F. 392, reversing judgment 206 F. 635, 124 C. C. A. 423.

Constitutionality of statute imposing income tax held involved so as to authorize plaintiff to take a direct writ of error to the Supreme Court, though the statute and the constitutional amendment both use the word "income." Towne v. Eisner, 38 S. Ct. 158, 245 U. S. 418, 62 L. Ed. 372, reversing judgment (D. C.) 242 F. 702.

Suit by person committed to insane asylum for restoration of writings, letters, documents, and papers and to set aside the pretended inquisition, held not to involve construction or application of federal Constitution, so as to authorize direct appeal to the Supreme Court under this section.

Ketcham v. Burr, 38 S. Ct. 179, 245 U. S. 510, 62 L. Ed. 439.

Claim that attempt to exempt land purchased with released Indian trust funds from state taxation exceeded powers of Congress, as limited by article 4, § 3, and Ninth and Tenth Amendments of federal Constitution, raised substantial constitutional question, authorizing direct appeal to Supreme Court, under this section. McCurdy v. United States, 38 S. Ct. 289, 246 U. S. 263, 62 L. Ed. 706.

(D) Cases in which the constitutionality of federal laws are drawn in question

42. Causes in which direct appeal or writ of error may be taken.—In appeals from final decrees, under sections 128 and 238 of the Judicial Code, where the jurisdiction of the District Court as set out in the bill is based solely on a constitutional question, the appeal lies to the Supreme Court, and cannot be taken to a Court of Appeals. Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum v. Hobart (C. C. A.) 244 F. 385.

(E) Cases in which the validity or construction of any treaty is drawn in question

45. Jurisdiction of supreme court.—The contention on habeas corpus that immigration officers, in denying admission to a Chinaman as a returning merchant, superadded qualifications to Act Nov. 3, 1893, § 2 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 4324), and hence infringed the treaty of November 17, 1880, does not involve the construction of a treaty within this section. Chin Fong v. Backus, 36 S. Ct. 490, 241 U. S. 1, 60 L. Ed. 859, dismissing appeal Ex parte Chin Fong (D. C.) 213 F. 288.

IV. PROCEDURE AND REVIEW

50. Presentation of federal question.—The United States Supreme Court looks after its own jurisdiction whether the point is raised by counsel or not. Stevirmac Oil & Gas Co. v. Dittman, 38 S. Ct. 116, 245 U. S. 210, 62 L. Ed. 248.

51. Right to and mode of review.—Payment by surety on appeal bond of deficiency execution issued on affirmance of decree relieves court on appeal from deciding whether judgment against sureties for deficiency was erroneous.—Pease v. Rathbun-Jones Engineering Co., 37 S. Ct. 283, 243 U. S. 273, 61 L. Ed. 715, affirming decree 228 F. 273, 142 C. C. A. 565.

Petitioner held to have such interest that he could appeal from order denying his petition to enjoin United States attorney from taking possession for use in criminal prosecution of exhibits which were property of petitioner and had been impounded in suit by corporation of which petitioner was president. Perlman v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 417, 247 U. S. 7, 62 L. Ed. 950.

In the absence of a rule of court to the contrary, an action at law in which an equitable defense is pleaded, under Judicial Code, § 274b (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 1251b), may be reviewed either by error or appeal.—Maine Northwestern Development Co. v. Northwestern Commercial Co., 240 F. 583, 153 C. C. A. 387.

52. —— Cross-appeal or writ of error.—A party, who escaped reversal of the judgment and remand by permission to file a remission of excessive amount, may not maintain cross-writ of error from federal Supreme Court. Woodworth v. Chesbrough, 37 S. Ct. 583, 244 U. S. 79, 61 L. Ed. 1005, dismissing writ of error Chesbrough v. Woodworth, 221 F. 912, 137 C. C. A. 482.

54. Scope of review.—See Ana Maria Sugar Co. v. Quinones (C. C. A.) 251 F. 499.

The federal Supreme Court, on appeal from District Court to review denial, on hearing before three judges, of interlocutory injunction to restrain enforcement of order of State Public Service Commission as repugnant to federal Constitution, has jurisdiction to review entire case. Van Dyke v. Geary, 37 S. Ct. 483, 244 U. S. 39, 61 L. Ed. 973, affirming order (D. C.) 218 F. 111.

Under the provision for direct appeals and writs of error, where jurisdiction of District Court is in issue, the merits of the controversy are not brought up for decision, but merely question of jurisdiction. Stevirmac Oil & Gas Co. v. Dittman, 38 S. Ct. 116, 245 U. S. 210, 62 L. Ed. 248.

On writ of error to review a decision of the District Court on the ground that the constitutionality of a statute is involved, the construction of the statute as well as its constitutionality are open to consideration in the Supreme Court. Towne v. Eisner, 38 S. Ct. 158, 245 U. S. 418, 62 L. Ed. 372, reversing judgment (D. C.) 242 F. 702.

Though on direct writ of error to review conviction in District Court constitutional questions are disposed of adversely to plaintiffs in error, the other questions involved must be considered. Goldman v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 166, 245 U. S. 474, 62 L. Ed. 410; Kramer v. Same, 38 S. Ct. 168, 245 U. S. 478, 62 L. Ed. 413.

Where constitutional question conferred appellate jurisdiction upon Supreme Court to review federal District Court's decision, all questions involved are open for review. McCurdy v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 289, 246 U. S. 263, 62 L. Ed. 706.

56. —— Rehearing.—Dismissal of writ of error will be set aside, rehearing granted, and cause restored to the docket where it is shown that assumption that removal was on sole ground of diversity of citizenship was incorrect, and the fact that cause of action arose under Interstate Commerce Act was also a ground of removal. Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, 38 S. Ct. 203, 245 U. S. 562, 62 L. Ed. 472, granting rehearing 38 S. Ct. 130, 245 U. S. 359, 62 L. Ed. 345.

57. Determination and disposition of cause and effect thereof.—On appeal from decree in suit to restrain enforcement of ordinance as in violation of federal Constitution, cause held reviewable upon both the law and the facts, and relief proper under the circumstances disclosed when case is decided will be granted. City of Cincinnati v. Cincinnati & Hamilton Traction Co., 38 S. Ct. 153, 245 U. S. 446, 62 L. Ed. 389.

CITED WITHOUT DEFINITE APPLICATION

Badders v. U. S., 36 S. Ct. 367, 60 L. Ed. 706; Pinel v. Pinel, 36 S. Ct. 416, 60 L. Ed. 817; Bankers' Trust Co. v. Texas & P. R. Co., 36 S. Ct. 569, 60 L. Ed. 1010; Guerini Stone Co. v. P. J. Carlin Const. Co., 39 S. Ct. 102.

§ 1216. (Jud. Code, § 239.) Circuit court of appeals may certify questions to Supreme Court for instructions.

6. Finality of decision as condition precedent to certifying questions.—Under Judicial Code, § 251, Court of Appeals of District of Columbia cannot certify questions to Supreme Court in cases in which its judgments or decrees are not final under section 250, especially in view of section 239. United States ex rel. Arant v. Lane, 38 S. Ct. 94, 245 U. S. 166, 62 L. Ed. 223.

9. Nature and character of questions which may be certified in general.—Where decisions of several Circuit Courts of Appeals concerning right of Secretary of Labor to deport Chinese persons, on ground that they were found in United States in violation of Chinese Exclusion Act, are conflicting, and the question has not been presented to Supreme Court, the matter is one which another Circuit Court of Appeals may properly certify to Supreme Court for instructions. U. S. v. Woo Jan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 595.

15. Form, requisites, and sufficiency of certificate.—Under this section and Supreme Court rule 37, providing that the certificate shall contain a proper statement of the facts on which the certified questions arise, the certificate by itself, and without reference to transcript, must state the pertinent facts necessary for answering the questions. Dillon v. Strathearn S. S. Co., 39 S. Ct. 83.

The certificate on certification of questions from Circuit Court of Appeals for instructions may not so blend facts with questions of law as to require separation for a conclusion as to either. Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. v. Arctic Iron Co., 39 S. Ct. 91.

Recitals of certificate on certification of questions from Circuit Court of Appeals must distinguish between merely evidential facts and those which are ultimate, and so could furnish support for the legal propositions as to which instructions are asked. Id.

18. Jurisdiction and authority of Supreme Court.—Exercise of the discretion which this section gives the Supreme Court, when questions are certified from Circuit Court of Appeals, to direct the sending up of the whole record, is not called for where the certificate is of such character as not to be embraced by the statute. Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. v. Arctic Iron Co. (Sup.) 39 S. Ct. 91.

20. Dismissing or remanding cause.—The certificate, on certification of questions under this section, not sufficiently stating the pertinent facts, will be dismissed. Dillon v. Strathearn S. S. Co. (Sup.) 39 S. Ct. 83.

§ 1217. (Jud. Code, § 240.) Certiorari to circuit court of appeals.

See George A. Fuller Co. v. Otis Elevator Co., 38 S. Ct. 180, 62 L. Ed. 422.

3. Nature and character of causes or decisions reviewable on certiorari in general.—Refusal to submit questions to jury on ground that evidence was not sufficient to warrant a finding thereon, when approved by the Circuit Court of Appeals, held not reviewable on certiorari. Houston Oil Co. of Texas v. Goodrich, 38 S. Ct. 140, 245 U. S. 440, 62 L. Ed. 385, dismissing certiorari 226 F. 434, 141 C. C. A. 264.

Where application for temporary injunction was denied on ground there was an adequate remedy at law, but the bill was not dismissed and complainant appealed from a decree of affirmance rendered by Circuit Court of Appeals, Supreme Court may grant petition for certiorari, and, though without jurisdiction to entertain the appeal, treat record on appeal as a return to writ. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Board of Com'rs of Weld County, 38 S. Ct. 510, 247 U. S. 282, 62 L. Ed. 1110, reversing decree 222 F. 651, 138 C. C. A. 175, which denies rehearing 217 F. 540, 133 C. C. A. 392.

A conviction for a criminal, although a summary, contempt, is not reviewable on error; but the matter may be reviewed on certiorari, issuable in the discretion of the court. Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 560, 247 U. S. 402, 62 L. Ed. 1186, affirming judgment 237 F. 986, 150 C. C. A. 636, which affirmed United States v. Toledo Newspaper Co., 220 F. 458, and leave to file petition for rehearing granted 38 S. Ct. 581.

5. Nature and character of questions reviewable on certiorari.—Where, in action to recover 1 per cent. of item alleged to have been wrongfully omitted from corporation's return of net income, required by Corporation Tax Act of 1909, United States took no writ of error as to ruling of District Court allowing part of item as proper deduction, propriety of partial deduction cannot be considered by Supreme Court, on certiorari to review judgment of Circuit Court of Appeals allowing the whole item as a proper deduction. U. S. v. Biwabik Mining Co., 38 S. Ct. 462, 247 U. S. 116, 62 L. Ed. 1017, reversing judgment Biwabik Mining Co. v. U. S., 242 F. 9, 154 C. C. A. 601.

9. Application for certiorari and proceedings thereon and record.—Under Judicial Code, § 128, as amended by Act Jan. 28, 1915, § 2 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1120), where plaintiff in trademark infringement suit was allowed appeal from decree of Circuit Court of Appeals, and brought certiorari, and, pursuant to stipulation, transcript of record filed for purposes of appeal was treated as return to writ, appeal must be dismissed, and cause will be determined on writ of certiorari. United Drug Co. v. Theodore Rectanus Co., 39 S. Ct. 48.

11. Scope of review and determination of cause.—Federal Supreme Court, having corrected on certiorari error of Circuit Court of Appeals dismissing writ of error to review conviction on refusal of plaintiff in error to elect whether to pursue that writ or one sued out in the Supreme Court, will dispose of the case on the merits, because of doubt arising from certificate as to jurisdiction of question as to which there was no foundation. Lamar v. U. S., 36 S. Ct. 535, 241 U. S. 103, 60 L. Ed. 912, affirming judgment 227 F. 1019, 141 C. C. A. 668.

Petitions for certiorari to the Circuit Court of Appeals will be dismissed, when in progress of case facts are shown which, if disclosed on application, would have led to a refusal. Furness, Withy & Co. v. Yang-Tsze Ins. Ass'n, 37 S. Ct. 141, 242 U. S. 430, 61 L. Ed. 409, dismissing certiorari Yang-Tsze Ins. Ass'n v. Furness, Withy & Co., 215 F. 859, 132 C. C. A. 201.

Certiorari to the Circuit Court of Appeals to review judgment in proceeding to recover damages on sinking of ship will be dismissed, where a later final decree in proceedings for limitation of liability was based on express compromise. Id.

On certiorari to review a decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals, matters not relied upon as basis for the petition will not be considered. Alice State Bank v. Houston Pasture Co., 38 S. Ct. 496, 247 U. S. 240, 62 L. Ed. 1096, reversing judgment 227 F. 1015, 141 C. C. A. 662.

12. Instructions as to applications for writs of certiorari under Acts of March 3, 1891, and September 6, 1916.

The following are the requirements on applications for writs of certiorari:

Petitions are docketed in this court, as ——, Petitioner, v. ——, Respondent.

Before the petition will be docketed there must be furnished this office:

(1) An original petition with written signature of counsel.

(2) A certified copy of the transcript of the record, including all proceedings in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals or other appellate court.

(3) An order for appearance of counsel for petitioner, signed by a member of the bar of this court.

(4) A deposit of twenty-five ($25) on account of costs.

Before submission of the petition there must be furnished:

(1) Proof of service of notice of date fixed for submission and copies of petition and brief upon counsel for the respondent. Notice of the date of submission of the petition, together with a copy of the petition and brief, if any, in support of the same must be served on counsel for the respondent at least two weeks before such date except where the counsel to be notified resides west of the Rocky Mountains, in which case the time shall be at least three weeks.

(2) Thirty (30) printed copies of the petition and brief in support of petition, if any such brief is to be filed under one cover.

(3) At least nine (9) uncertified copies of the record, which must contain all of the proceedings in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals or other appellate court as well as those in the trial court. These copies may be made up by using copies of the record as printed for the appellate court and adding thereto printed copies of the proceedings in that court. If a sufficient number of records thus made up cannot be obtained, making it necessary to reprint the record for use on the hearing of the petition, fifty (50) copies must be printed under my supervision in order that, should the petition be granted, there may be a sufficient number for use on the final hearing.

Monday being motion day, some Monday must be fixed upon by counsel for petitioner for the submission of the petition. No oral argument is permitted on such petitions but they may be called up and submitted in open court by counsel for petitioner, or by some attorney in his behalf or on request of counsel for the petitioner, after due notice to opposing counsel and filing of such notice, the clerk may submit such petition.

If a respondent desires to oppose a petition, thirty (30) copies of a brief for such respondent must be filed. These briefs must bear the name of a member of the bar of this court who should also enter an appearance for the respondent. It is not necessary, however, for such counsel to be present in court when the petition is submitted.

All papers in the case must be filed not later than the Saturday preceding the Monday fixed for the submission of the petition.

James D. Maher,
Clerk Supreme Court of the United States.

§ 1218. (Jud. Code, § 241.) Appeals and writs of error in other cases.

See Eichel v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 38 S. Ct. 47, 245 U. S. 102, 62 L. Ed. 177, affirming decree United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Eichel, 241 F. 357, 154 C. C. A. 237; Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, 38 S. Ct. 130, 245 U. S. 359, 62 L. Ed. 345, dismissing writ of error 233 F. 956, 147 C. C. A. 630.

I. JURISDICTION DEPENDENT ON CONSTRUCTION AND OPERATION OF STATUTE AND NATURE AND CHARACTER OF DECISIONS

2. Jurisdiction in general.—Act Jan. 28, 1915, amending Jud. Code, § 246, governing appeals from Hawaiian Supreme Court takes away from the United States Supreme Court authority given by this section to review decision of Circuit Court of Appeals on error to Hawaiian Supreme Court, where there was no federal question and no diversity of citizenship. Inter-Island Steam Nav. Co. v. Ward, 37 S. Ct. 1, 242 U. S. 1, 61 L. Ed. 113, dismissing writ of error 232 F. 809, 147 C. C. A. 3.

5. Judgments or decrees reviewable in general.—See Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Guardian Trust Co., 36 S. Ct. 334, 240 U. S. 166, 60 L. Ed. 579, affirming decrees Central Imp. Co. v. Cambria Steel Co., 201 F. 811, 120 C. C. A. 121, and 210 F. 696, 127 C. C. A. 184.

Judgments or decrees made final, see ante, § 1120, and notes thereunder.

Contention in suit between citizens of different states that orders of state court on which defendant relied as justifying custody of plaintiff's property were entered without due process of law gives federal Supreme Court jurisdiction to review whole case. Chaloner v. Sherman, 37 S. Ct. 136, 242 U. S. 455, 61 L. Ed. 427, affirming judgment 215 F. 867, 132 C. C. A. 96.

II. AMOUNT IN CONTROVERSY

(A) Necessity and requisites of jurisdictional amount in general

6. Necessity of jurisdictional amount.—Under this section a writ of error seeking to have reviewed only so much of a judgment of the Circuit Court of Appeals as affirmed the recovery of six penalties of $150 each for as many separate violations of the Hours of Service Act must be dismissed. San Pedro, L. A. & S. L. R. Co. v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 498, 247 U. S. 307, 62 L. Ed. 1129, dismissing writ of error and denying certiorari 220 F. 737, 136 C. C. A. 343.

(C) Causes of action as affecting amount in controversy

34. Habeas corpus.—Question as to jurisdictional amount necessary under Judicial Code, § 241, to sustain appeal to Supreme Court, does not arise in habeas corpus. Horn v. Mitchell, 37 S. Ct. 293, 243 U. S. 247, 61 L. Ed. 700, dismissing appeal 232 F. 819, 147 C. C. A. 13.

V. SCOPE AND EXTENT OF REVIEW AND DISPOSITION OF CAUSE

56. Question of fact.—Concurrent findings by master and two lower courts, as to entryman's agreement that title should inure to the benefit of another, held, not to be disturbed unless plainly erroneous. Causey v. U. S., 36 S. Ct. 365, 240 U. S. 399, 60 L. Ed. 711, affirming decree 203 F. 1022, 121 C. C. A. 663.

A decree of the Circuit Court of Appeals will be affirmed where the essential question is one of fact and the evidence, though sharply conflicting, sustains the conclusion reached. Varner v. New Hampshire Sav. Bank, 36 S. Ct. 409, 240 U. S. 617, 60 L. Ed. 828, affirming judgment New Hampshire Savings Bank v. Varnér, 216 F. 721, 132 C. C. A. 631.

Facts are not in controversy on writ of error to Circuit Court of Appeals to review judgment which reversed with instructions to dismiss a judgment for plaintiffs in an action for treble damages as result of combination to restrain trade in violation of Act July 2, 1890 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8829), where case was decided on theory that combination was not such unreasonable restraint as was necessary to make it illegal. Thomsen v. Cayser, 37 S. Ct. 353, 243 U. S. 66, 61 L. Ed. 597, reversing judgment

Union Castle Mail S. S. Co. v. Thomsen, 190 F. 536, 111 C. C. A. 368 and Id., 190 F. 1022, 111 C. C. A. 674.

Judgment based on facts will not be reversed, where there is substantial evidence to support conclusion twice reached by the Circuit Court of Appeals that the verdict was sustained by sufficient evidence. Chesbrough v. Woodworth, 37 S. Ct. 579, 244 U. S. 72, 61 L. Ed. 1000, affirming judgment 221 F. 912, 137 C. C. A. 482.

§ 1219. (Jud. Code, § 242.) Appeals from Court of Claims.

1. Construction and operation in general.—Judgments of the District Courts, in the exercise of the power conferred on them, concurrently with the Court of Claims, by the Tucker Act of March 3, 1887, to decide claims against the United States, are reviewable exclusively and directly by the Supreme Court, and this remedy is unaffected by the general distribution of appellate power by Judiciary Act 1891, or by the Judicial Code; implications of repeal being prevented by sections 294, 295, thereof (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1271, 1272), and Tucker Act, § 4 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1574), being excepted from the repealing clause. J. Homer Fritch, Inc., v. U. S., 39 S. Ct. 158.

10. Scope and extent of review in general.—A fact which the Court of Claims states that it does not find stands unproved in the federal Supreme Court on appeal. Ackerlind v. U. S., 36 S. Ct. 438, 240 U. S. 531, 60 L. Ed. 783, reversing judgment 49 Ct. Cl. 635.

Findings of fact by Court of Claims on claim arising out of contract for manufacture of rapid fire guns are conclusive on Supreme Court. Saalfield v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 397, 246 U. S. 610, 62 L. Ed. 895, affirming judgment Brown v. Same, 51 Ct. Cl. 22.

§ 1220. (Jud. Code, § 243.) Time and manner of appeals from the Court of Claims.

10. Disposition of appeal or cause.—Failure of the Court of Claims to find certain facts which it had assumed in its decision does not require a sending back of the case where the facts not found are not controverted. Ackerlind v. U. S., 36 S. Ct. 438, 240 U. S. 531, 60 L. Ed. 783, reversing judgment 49 Ct. Cl. 635.

A judgment of the Court of Claims for damages for destruction of plantation by building of dike across it by the government will be reversed for more particular findings, where those rendered do not fairly distinguish between injuries caused by the United States and those caused by the state. U. S. v. Archer, 36 S. Ct. 521, 241 U. S. 119, 60 L. Ed. 918, reversing judgment Archer v. U. S., 47 Ct. Cl. 248.

§ 1221. (Jud. Code, § 244. Repealed.)

See Graham v. O'Ferral, 236 F. 717, 150 C. C. A. 49.

Cited without definite application, Guerini Stone Co. v. P. J. Carlin Const. Co., 36 S. Ct. 300, 60 L. Ed. 636.

§ 1222. (Jud. Code, § 245.) Writs of error and appeals from the Supreme Courts of Arizona and New Mexico.

Appellate jurisdiction.—Denial of rights under Const. U. S. Amends. 5, 6, presents questions within jurisdiction of federal Supreme Court over Supreme Court of state of New Mexico in a case appealed to the territorial Supreme Court. Lovato v. State of New Mexico, 37 S. Ct. 107, 242 U. S. 199, 61 L. Ed. 244, affirming judgment Territory v. Lobato, 134 P. 222, 17 N. M. 666.

§ 1223. (Jud. Code, § 246, as amended, Act Jan. 28, 1915, c. 22, § 2.) Writs of error and appeals from the Supreme Court of Hawaii and the Supreme Court of Porto Rico.

See Henna v. Sauri & Subira, 237 F. 145, 150 C. C. A. 291; Richardson v. Fajardo Sugar Co., 237 F. 195, 150 C. C. A. 341.

Allowance of appeal.—An appeal to the federal Supreme Court from the Supreme Court of Porto Rico, which was prayed within the statutory time, will not be dismissed because not allowed by the court within that time. Cardona v. Quinones, 36 S. Ct. 346, 240 U. S. 83, 60 L. Ed. 538.

Decisions reviewable.—Act Jan. 28, 1915, amending Jud. Code, § 246, governing appeals from Hawaiian Supreme Court, takes away from the United States Supreme Court authority given by Jud. Code, § 241, to review decision of Circuit Court of Appeals on error to Hawaiian Supreme Court, where there was no federal question and no diversity of citizenship. Inter-Island Steam Nav. Co. v. Ward, 37 S. Ct. 1, 242 U. S. 1, 61 L. Ed. 113, dismissing writ of error 232 F. 809, 147 C. C. A. 3.

Record.—The facts cannot be reviewed by the federal Supreme Court on appeal from the Porto Rico Supreme Court, where the evidence is not in the record, except as shown in the opinion of the court below or in a statement of facts prepared by that court for the purposes of the appeal. Cardona v. Quinones, 36 S. Ct. 346, 240 U. S. 83, 60 L. Ed. 538.

Legal propositions, ignoring or disputing the findings of fact on which the conclusions of the court below are based, cannot be urged in the federal Supreme Court as grounds for reversal of a decree of the Porto Rico Supreme Court, where the record is such that the facts cannot be reviewed. Id.

Scope of review and disposition of cause.—The action of the Supreme Court of Porto Rico as to matters of local law in respect to procedure will not be disturbed by the federal Supreme Court, unless error clearly appears. Cardona v. Quinones, 36 S. Ct. 346, 240 U. S. 83, 60 L. Ed. 538.

A decision of the Porto Rico Supreme Court that under its Civil Code (sections 1110–1112) one who signs a note as a principal debtor is governed by the form, and cannot show himself to be a surety, relating to a matter of the local law, will not be disturbed by a reviewing court, unless clearly erroneous. Sola v. Cintron & Aboy, 237 F. 61, 150 C. C. A. 263.

§ 1225a. (Act Aug. 29, 1916, c. 416, § 27.) Appeals and writs of error from the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands.

Mode of review.—Appeal, not writ of error, is proper mode in reviewing in federal Supreme Court decree of Supreme Court of Philippine Islands in a suit by a wife for divorce, alimony, and division of property. De La Rama v. De La Rama, 36 S. Ct. 518, 241 U. S. 154, 60 L. Ed. 932.

Appeal is a proper method of reviewing, in federal Supreme Court, under Act July 1, 1902, § 10, a decree of the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands in equity suit. Montelibano v. La Compania General De Tabacos De Filipinas, 36 S. Ct. 617, 241 U. S. 455, 60 L. Ed. 1099.

A writ of error and not an appeal was the proper method by which to review a judgment of the Supreme Court of the Philippines in a proceeding to register title to land. Gauzon v. Compania General De Tobacos de Filipinas, 38 S. Ct. 46, 245 U. S. 86, 62 L. Ed. 165.

Where the answer to an action at law on a contract was in effect a bill in equity, seeking reformation and incidentally to enjoin the action at law, the proceeding was converted into an equitable one, and hence appeal, instead of writ of error, was the appropriate method for review. Philippine Sugar Estates Development Co. v. Government of Philippine Islands, 38 S. Ct. 513, 247 U. S. 385, 62 L. Ed. 1177.

Scope and extent of review and disposition of cause.—Federal Supreme Court will not reverse decree of Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands, where objection is not presented to the court below nor assigned as error on appeal. De La Rama v. De La Rama, 36 S. Ct. 518, 241 U. S. 154, 60 L. Ed. 932.

Taking date of divorce decree as date for liquidating wife's claim for division of conjugal property held not erroneous on appeal from decree of the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands, because there was no formal decree of property, and no inventory filed. De La Rama v. De La Rama, 36 S. Ct. 518, 241 U. S. 154, 60 L. Ed. 932.

Concurrent views of two lower courts that certain contracts created an agency will not be disturbed by federal Supreme Court on appeal from Supreme Court of Philippine Islands unless clearly erroneous. Montelibano v. La Compania General De Tabaços De Filipinas, 36 S. Ct. 617, 241 U. S. 455, 60 L. Ed. 1099.

Conclusions of fact by Supreme Court of Philippine Islands in proceeding to register title to land held not reviewable when supported by the record. Gauzon v. Compania General De Tobacos de Filipinas, 38 S. Ct. 46, 245 U. S. 86, 62 L. Ed. 165.

On appeal from the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands, the judgment of that tribunal, based on a construction of the local laws, will be deferred to. Ibanez v. Hongkong & Shanghai Banking Corporation, 38 S. Ct. 410, 246 U. S. 621, 62 L. Ed. 903.

The Supreme Court will defer to declaration of local law by courts of Philippine Islands, particularly when their decision is in accordance with rule obtaining in other jurisdictions. Ibanez v. Hongkong & Shanghai Banking Corporation, 38 S. Ct. 413, 246 U. S. 627, 62 L. Ed. 907.

While Supreme Court is always disposed to accept the construction which the highest court of a territory or possession has placed upon a local statute, the construction will not be deferred to, where clearly erroneous. Philippine Sugar Estates Development Co. v. Government of Philippine Islands, 38 S. Ct. 513, 247 U. S. 385, 62 L. Ed. 1177.

Where the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands reversed a judgment on a question of law, but did not dispose of the contention made under Code Civ. Proc. Philippine Islands, § 497, par. 2, that the denial of a new trial prayed on the ground of the insufficiency of the evidence to support the findings was error, the Supreme Court of the United States, on appeal, may review evidence and finally dispose of case. Id.

§ 1227. (Jud. Code, § 250.) Appeals and writs of error from the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

10. Construction of any law of the United States drawn in question.—Federal Supreme Court has jurisdiction of writ of error to Court of Appeals of District of Columbia, where construction of Employers' Liability Act, as amended by Act April 5, 1910 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, §§ 8662, 8665), is questioned. Washington Ry. & Electric Co. v. Scala, 37 S. Ct. 654, 244 U. S. 630, 61 L. Ed. 1360, affirming judgment 45 App. D. C. 484.

Under this section the Supreme Court has no jurisdiction to review on writ of error a judgment of the Court of Appeals of District of Columbia, which was not final and was rendered in a case arising under the criminal laws, though the construction of a federal law was drawn in question, as was the jurisdiction of the court wherein the proceedings were begun. Hartranft v. Mullowny, 38 S. Ct. 518, 247 U. S. 295, 62 L. Ed. 1123, dismissing writ of error, 43 App. D. C. 44.

11. Judgments and decrees made final.—Under Judicial Code, § 251, Court of Appeals of District of Columbia cannot certify questions to Supreme Court in cases in which its judgments or decrees are not final under this section, especially in view of section 239. United States ex rel. Arant v. Lane, 38 S. Ct. 94, 245 U. S. 166, 62 L. Ed. 223.

Judgments or decrees of Court of Appeals of District Columbia held not final in cases involving interpretation of act general in character or general duty or power of officer under law of the United States as distinguished from local authority. Id.

Judgment of Court of Appeals of District of Columbia, affirming judgment quashing certiorari directed to police court, wherein criminal prosecution was begun, held not to be final judgment, reviewable by United States Supreme Court on writ of error, under this section, despite authority of Court of Appeals, under Code of Law D. C. 1901, § 226, to review interlocutory orders. Hartranft v. Mullowny, 38 S. Ct. 518, 247 U. S. 295, 62 L. Ed. 1123, dismissing writ of error 43 App. D. C. 44.

12. Mode of review.—Certiorari directed to judge of police court of District of Columbia, wherein prosecution under Food and Drug Act had been begun, held part of original prosecution; hence judgment of Court of Appeals of District of Columbia, affirming order quashing writ, could not, under this section be reviewed by United States Supreme Court on writ of error. Hartranft v. Mullowny, 38 S. Ct. 518, 247 U. S. 295, 62 L. Ed. 1123, dismissing writ of error 43 App. D. C. 44.

§ 1228. (Jud. Code, § 251.) Certiorari to Court of Appeals, District of Columbia.

Judicial precedent.—Cases in which controversies were determined on certificates of Court of Appeals of District of Columbia, where no question was raised concerning the power to certify, held not authoritative on the question as to the power to certify. United States ex rel. Arant v. Lane, 38 S. Ct. 94, 245 U. S. 166, 62 L. Ed. 223.

Finality of judgment.—Under Judicial Code, § 251, Court of Appeals of District of Columbia cannot certify questions to Supreme Court in cases in which its judgments or decrees are not final under section 250, especially in view of section 239. United States ex rel. Arant v. Lane, 38 S. Ct. 94, 245 U. S. 166, 62 L. Ed. 223.

Under this section, writ of certiorari to review judgments of Court of Appeals of District of Columbia held not limited to cases in which final judgment has been entered, but only to cases in which the judgment when entered is final. George A. Fuller Co. v. Otis Elevator Co., 38 S. Ct. 180, 245 U. S. 489, 62 L. Ed. 422, reversing judgment Otis Elevator Co. v. George A. Fuller Co., 44 App. D. C. 287.

Presentation of question in court below.—Certiorari to Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia will be dismissed, where question on which certiorari was prayed was not before the court below and no exception was taken as to ruling of the court on such exception. Tyrrell v. District of Columbia, 37 S. Ct. 361, 243 U. S. 1, 61 L. Ed. 557, denying certiorari District of Columbia v. Tyrrell, 41 App. D. C. 463.

§ 1228a. (Act Sept. 6, 1916, c. 448, § 6.) Appellate jurisdiction; time for application.

This section, which provides that "no writ of error, appeal, or writ of certiorari intended to bring up any cause for review by the Supreme Court shall be allowed or entertained unless duly applied for within three months after entry of the judgment or decree complained of," may be regarded as having superseded the provisions of U. S. Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1648, 1649 (Act March 3, 1891, c. 517, § 6, and R. S. 1008), as to the time for taking appeals or writs of error to the Supreme Court, from and after thirty days after its approval, except that the right of review under existing laws in respect of judgments and decrees entered before this section took effect was to remain unaffected for the period of six months thereafter, but such right was to cease thereafter (see § 7 of said Act Sept. 6, 1916, c. 448, 39 Stat. 728).

Cited without definite application,
Glasgow Nav. Co. v. Munson S. S. Line, 38 S. Ct. 315, 62 L. Ed. 919.

§ 1229. (Jud. Code, § 252.) Appellate jurisdiction under the bankruptcy act.

Cited without definite application,
Swift & Co. v. Hoover, 37 S. Ct. 56, 61 L. Ed. 175.

RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

These rules were republished March 1, 1918. Any changes made thereby in the rules as published in Comp. St. 1916, pp. 1807–1840 are set forth or indicated below in the notes to the respective rules.

Notes of Decisions

Construction of rules in general.—It is not within the province of an inferior court to question the validity of a rule of the Supreme Court, its function being only to construe the rule; and such a construction of the rules of the Supreme Court as will apparently make them valid should be adopted. Audiffren Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 783.

RULE 2

Disbarment of attorneys.—On proceeding to disbar a member of the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States on ground of disbarment by state court, opportunity should be given to point out any ground which would prevent Supreme Court from giving effect to finding of state court establishing want of fair private and professional character. Selling v. Radford, 37 S. Ct. 377, 243 U. S. 46, 61 L. Ed. 585.

Loss by member of the bar of the Supreme Court of his fair private and professional character held adequate reason for taking away his right to continue to be a member of such bar. Id.

Want of fair private and professional character in member of the bar of the Supreme Court of the United States arising from the act of the highest court of the state, disbarring him from practice for professional misconduct, will be recognized by federal Supreme Court unless the state procedure was wanting in due process of law, or the proof was insufficient. Id

RULE 8

4. Contents of record or transcript.—The federal Supreme Court will look only to certified transcript to ascertain what rulings on evidence were made by the trial court. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Wagner, 36 S. Ct. 626, 241 U. S. 476, 60 L. Ed. 1110, affirming judgment (Tex. Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 24.

The rules of the Supreme Court do not require the Court of Claims to incorporate in its record anything more than the ultimate facts established by the record, and the appellate court is to determine whether any omitted question of fact is one so necessary to the decision that it will remand the cause for that purpose. Winton's Estate v. Amos, 52 Ct. Cl. 90.

RULE 9

3. Extension of time.—Federal Supreme Court will extend the time for filing the record in order that an opportunity may be given to conform to the court's views as to what the record should be. U. S. v. United States Steel Corporation, 36 S. Ct. 408, 240 U. S. 442, 60 L. Ed. 731.

RULE 10. PRINTING RECORDS

Section 9 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1819, was changed by substituting for the word "errors," in the third sentence thereof, before the words "so stated," the word "points."

RULE 21

Section 8 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1825, was changed by inserting before the last three words, "cases are cited," the word "the."

Notes of Decisions

Omission of specification of errors.—Failure to plead or prove that plaintiff, in an action under Safety Appliance Acts and the Employers' Liability Act, was employed in interstate commerce when injured, is not a "plain error" which the federal Supreme Court will notice on writ of error under rule 21, par. 4, although not assigned. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Wagner, 36 S. Ct. 626, 241 U. S. 476, 60 L. Ed. 1110, affirming judgment (Tex. Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 24.

RULE 23

Allowance of interest.—Allowance of interest, on decree for division of property from date of divorce decree is within discretion of the court notwithstanding success of the husband in reducing on appeal the amount which was allowed the wife. De La Rama v. De La Rama, 36 S. Ct. 518, 241 U. S. 154, 60 L. Ed. 932.

Interest may be allowed by state court on a judgment for plaintiff under Employers' Liability Act from the time it was rendered, if judgment is affirmed on appeal. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Stewart, 36 S. Ct. 586, 241 U. S. 261, 60 L. Ed. 989, affirming judgment Same v. Stewart's Adm'x, 174 S. W. 744, 163 Ky. 823.

Grounds for award of damages.—Though it was an abuse of discretion by auditor of the Canal Zone to prosecute a writ of error from Supreme Court to review a judgment issuing writ of mandamus against him to compel payment without deduction of salary of judge of the district court of the Canal Zone as fixed by Act Aug. 24, 1912, c. 390, held that, as matter did not involve a money judgment, rule 23 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1827) as to damages will not be enforced. Smith v. Jackson, 38 S. Ct. 353, 246 U. S. 388, 62 L. Ed. 788, affirming judgment 241 F. 747, 154 C. C. A. 449.

Cited without definite application, Consolidated Rubber Tire Co. v. Diamond Rubber Co. of New York (D. C.) 232 F. 508.

RULE 24

Costs to or against United States.—Costs on appeal to federal Supreme Court, in case in which United States is party, should not on reversal be granted to United States because of Supreme Court rule 24, giving costs to prevailing party; it not applying where United States is party. Oregon & C. R. Co. v. U. S., 37 S. Ct. 443, 243 U. S. 549, 61 L. Ed. 890.

RULE 26

Reassignment of causes.—Case in federal Supreme Court on writ of error to state court which cannot be decided on the merits without involving decision in boundary suit pending, will be reassigned for hearing at the same time as the hearing on the boundary suit. Cissna v. State of Tennessee, 37 S. Ct. 108, 242 U. S. 195, 61 L. Ed. 243.

RULE 29

Necessity of bond.—Under Rev. St. § 1000 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1660), writ of error, but for Supreme Court rule 29 of which rule 13 for Circuit Courts of Appeals (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1292) is a copy, can be perfected and cause heard without any security at all, except for costs. Rederiaktiebolaget Amie v. Universal Transp. Co., 245 F. 282, 157 C. C. A. 474.

Amount of bond.—Under Supreme Court rule 29, of which rule 13 for Circuit Courts of Appeals is a copy, held that, though no supersedeas bond was given when writ of error was taken, it is, under Rev. St. § 1000 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1660), mere irregularity, and any circuit judge or judge of Circuit Court of Appeals may, after expiration of 60-day period prescribed by section 1007 (section 1666), fix amount of supersedeas bond. Rederiaktiebolaget Amie v. Universal Transp. Co., 245 F. 282, 157 C. C. A. 474.

Liability on bond.—In view of Supreme Court rule 29 and Circuit Court of Appeals rule 13, a supersedeas bond covers any money not otherwise secured, awarded by the judgment or decree appealed from, as well as costs or damages on appeal, and so includes costs in the lower court. Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Harvey (C. C. A.) 250 F. 952.

Enforcement of bond.—In view of Supreme Court rule 29, enforcement of a supersedeas bond given on appeal from a decree of the Circuit Court of Appeals, reversing a decree of the District Court, cannot be denied on the theory that such intermediate decree could embrace nothing to be superseded, where it awarded costs in favor of the successful party and was affirmed by the Supreme Court. Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Harvey (C. C. A.) 250 F. 952.

RULE 31

Narrative form.—Though record conformed to Act Cong. Feb. 13, 1911, and Supreme Court rule 31, held, that transcript without statement in narrative form, required by equity rule 75 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2527), could not be approved. U. S. v. Motion Picture Patents Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 541.

RULE 37

The heading of this rule was changed from that set forth in U. S. Comp. St. 1916, p. 1839, to read as follows: "Cases Certified and Petitions for Writs of Certiorari."

Section 4 of this rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 1841, was changed to read as set forth below.

4. An application for a writ of certiorari will be deemed in time when the petition therefor, accompanied by the printed record and brief, is filed within the period prescribed by law, provided this is followed by submitting the petition in open court on some motion day not later than the first one which follows a period of four weeks after such filing. Notice of the date of submission and copies of the petition and brief must be served as required by section 3 of this rule.

Notes of Decisions

Statement of facts in certificate.—Certificate from Circuit Court of Appeals, not stating the facts, but merely that there was evidence tending to establish the facts as claimed by each party, and assuming facts as a basis of questions, held not in proper form, under Supreme Court rule 37 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1839). Ricaud v. American Metal Co., 38 S. Ct. 312, 246 U. S. 304, 62 L. Ed. 733.

Under Judicial Code, § 239 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1216) providing for certification of questions of law from Circuit Court of Appeals, and that Supreme Court may give instruction on the questions certified, or order whole record sent up for consideration and decision, and Supreme Court Rule 37, providing that the certificate shall contain a proper statement of the facts on which the certified questions arise, the certificate by itself, and without reference to transcript, must state the pertinent facts necessary for answering the questions. Dillon v. Strathearn S. S. Co., 39 S. Ct. 83.

Defects in specification of questions.—Though a certificate from Circuit Court of Appeals was deficient in specification and somewhat wanting in precision, the court considers it its duty to answer the questions, where the matters not specified were not in dispute and the want of precision not so fundamental as to mislead or confuse. Boston Store of Chicago v. American Graphophone Co., 38 S. Ct. 257, 246 U. S. 8, 62 L. Ed. 551, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 447.

Cited without definite application, Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. v. Arctic Iron Co., 39 S. Ct. 91.

In addition to the rules set forth in Comp. St. 1916, pp. 1807–1841, the republished rules contain the following:

RULES IN REFERENCE TO APPEALS FROM THE COURT OF CLAIMS

REGULATIONS PRESCRIBED BY THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES UNDER WHICH APPEALS MAY BE TAKEN FROM THE COURT OF CLAIMS TO SAID SUPREME COURT

RULE 1

In all cases hereafter decided in the Court of Claims in which, by the act of Congress, such appeals are allowable, they shall be heard in the Supreme Court upon the following record, and none other:

1. A transcript of the pleadings in the case, of the final judgment or decree of the court, and of such interlocutory orders, rulings, judgments, and decrees as may be necessary to a proper review of the case.

2. A finding by the Court of Claims of the facts in the case established by the evidence in the nature of a special verdict, but not the evidence establishing them; and a separate statement of the conclusions of law upon said facts, upon which the court founds its judgment or decree. The finding of facts and conclusions of law to be certified to this court as a part of the record.

OCTOBER TERM, 1882

Ordered, that rule 1, in reference to appeals from the Court of Claims, be, and the same is hereby, made applicable to appeals in all cases heretofore or hereafter decided by that court under the jurisdiction conferred by the act of June 16, 1880, c. 243, "to provide for the settlement of all outstanding claims against the District of Columbia, and conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Claims to hear the same, and for other purposes."

RULE 2

In all cases in which judgments or decrees have heretofore been rendered, where either party is by law entitled to an appeal, the party desiring it shall make application to the Court of Claims by petition for the allowance of such appeal. Said petition shall contain a distinct specification of the errors alleged to have been committed by said court in its rulings, judgment, or decree in the case. The court shall, if the specification of the alleged error be correctly and accurately stated, certify the same, or may certify such alternations and modifications of the points decided and alleged for error as, in the judgment of said court, shall distinctly, fully, and fairly present the points decided by the court. This, with the transcript mentioned in rule 1 (except the statement of facts and law therein mentioned), shall constitute the record on which those cases shall be heard in the Supreme Court.

RULE 3

In all cases an order of allowance of appeal by the Court of Claims, or the Chief Justice thereof in vacation, is essential, and the limitation of time for granting such appeal shall cease to run from the time an application is made for the allowance of appeal.

RULE 4

In all cases in which either party is entitled to appeal to the Supreme Court, the Court of Claims shall make and file their finding of facts, and their conclusions of law therein, in open court, before or at the time they enter their judgment in the case.

RULE 5

In every such case each party at such time before trial and in such form as the court may prescribe, shall submit to it a request to find all the facts which the party considers proven and deems material to the due presentation of the case in the finding of facts.

For instructions by the clerk of the Supreme Court as to applications for writs of certiorari, see note to § 1214, ante.

For rules for practice and procedure under the Copyright Act of 1909, see note to § 9546, post.

CHAPTER ELEVEN—PROVISIONS COMMON TO MORE THAN ONE COURT

Sec.
1233. Exclusive jurisdiction of United States courts.
1233a. United States courts not to have jurisdiction on ground of incorporation of railroad company by Act of Congress.
1237. Salary of judges after resignation.
1239. Power to issue writs.
1241. Injunctions; in what cases granted.
1242. Injunctions to stay proceedings in State courts.
1243. Injunctions based upon alleged unconstitutionality of State statutes.
1243a. Preliminary injunctions and temporary restraining orders.
1243b. Security upon issue of restraining order or interlocutory order of injunction.
1243c. Requisites and effect of injunction or restraining order.
1243d. Restraining orders or injunctions in cases between employers and employés.
Sec.
1244. When suits in equity may be maintained.
1245. Power to administer oaths and punish contempts.
1245a. Contempt constituting also criminal offense.
1245b. Proceedings to punish contempt.
1245d. Provisions limited to contempts specifically embraced therein.
1246. New trials.
1249. Parties may manage their causes personally or by counsel.
1251a. Amendments to pleadings in suits at law which should have been brought in equity, or vice versa.
1251b. Equitable defenses and equitable relief in actions at law; review of judgments or decrees in such cases.
1251c. Amendments to show jurisdiction based on diverse citizenship of parties.

§ 1233. (Jud. Code, § 256, as amended, Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 97, § 2.) Exclusive jurisdiction of United States courts.

Third. Of all civil causes of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction, saving to suitors in all cases the right of a common-law remedy where the common law is competent to give it, and to claimants the rights and remedies under the workmen's compensation law of any State. (40 Stat. 395.)

This paragraph was amended by Act Oct. 6, 1917, c. 97, § 2, cited above, by inserting therein the words "and to claimants the rights and remedies under the workmen's compensation law of any State."

Notes of Decisions

I. JURISDICTION OF OFFENSES COGNIZABLE UNDER AUTHORITY OF UNITED STATES

4. Jurisdiction of state courts in general.—Jurisdiction of federal courts over prosecution against one charged with unlawful possession of smoking opium is not exclusive, and, where he appeared to have obtained it from source having no apparent connection with direct importation, United States district attorney may allow offense to be dealt with under state health statutes. United States v. Ah Hung (D. C.) 243 F. 762.

In so far as disloyal slanders or libels cause or tend to cause breaches of the peace, they are offenses against the state, and can be prosecuted only in the state courts. U. S. v. Hall (D. C.) 248 F. 150.

Courts of this state have no jurisdiction to punish Mexican soldiers killing a United States soldier incidental to a battle in Texas between Mexican and United States troops during a state of war between this country and Mexico. Arce v. State (Tex. Cr. App.) 202 S. W. 951.

III. ADMIRALTY AND MARITIME JURISDICTION

See notes under Const. art. 3, §§ 1, 2.

29. Exclusive, concurrent, and conflicting jurisdiction in general.—State legislation affecting general maritime law held invalid, under Const. art. 3, § 2, article 1, § 8, giving Congress power to make all necessary laws, and Judicial Code, §§ 24, 256, giving federal District Courts exclusive jurisdiction of civil causes of admiralty jurisdiction. Southern Pac. Co. v. Jensen, 37 S. Ct. 524, 244 U. S. 205, 61 L. Ed. 1086, reversing judgment Jensen v. Southern Pac. Co., 109 N. E. 600, 215 N. Y. 514, L. R. A. 1916A, 403, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 276; Clyde S. S. Co. v. Walker, 37 S. Ct. 545, 244 U. S.

255, 61 L. Ed. 1116, reversing judgment In re Walker, 109 N. E. 604, 215 N. Y. 529, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 87.

Jurisdiction of an action for accounting, as such, is in state courts, and not in admiralty; but admiralty will take an accounting which is a necessary incident to the main relief asked, that being within its jurisdiction. Fischer v. Carey, 159 P. 577, L. R. A. 1917A, 1100.

Where defendant vessel lay to in front of complainant's wharf for 37 days, waiting her turn to unload, she continued to be carrier, rendering complainant's action to enforce lien for wharfage one against vessel in maritime service, cognizable only by United States admiralty courts. McMorran v. The Millinokett (Mich.) 157 N. W. 421.

30. Saving of common-law or statutory remedy.—See, also, notes under § 991(3) and Const. art. 3, §§ 1, 2.

Prior to the amendment of October 6, 1917, it was held that the New York Workmen's Compensation Act was invalid, as applying to ocean-going steamship, as conflicting with Const. art. 1, § 8, and article 3, § 2, and Judicial Code, §§ 24, 256, and inconsistent with Rev. St. §§ 4283–4285 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 8021–8023) and Act June 26, 1884, § 18. Southern Pac. Co. v. Jensen, 37 S. Ct. 524, 244 U. S. 205, 61 L. Ed. 1086, reversing judgment Jensen v. Southern Pac. Co., 109 N. E. 600, 215 N. Y. 514, L. R. A. 1916A, 403, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 276; Clyde Steamship Co. v. Walker, 37 S. Ct. 545, 244 U. S. 255, 61 L. Ed. 1116, reversing judgment In re Walker, 109 N. E. 604, 215 N. Y. 529, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 87. It was further held that a state Workmen's Compensation Act did not cover injuries sustained by member of crew of vessel while in foreign port, though employed on the vessel as a barber. Hartman v. Toyo Kisen Kaisha S. S. Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 567. And that a Compensation Act, though of optional character, does not apply to injuries received in course of employment to discharge cargo of coal from vessel engaged in interstate commerce and lying in navigable waters; maritime and admiralty jurisdiction being in federal courts under Const. U. S. art. 3, § 2, and Judicial Code, U. S. § 256, cl. 3. Duart v. Simmons, 121 N. E. 10, 231 Mass. 313. But in another case it was held that, since "common-law remedy," as employed in Judiciary Act, means any remedy with or without action or jury which is a substitute for a suit at law whereby a liability is imposed after due process of law, the Workmen's Compensation Act is within its saving clause, and is entitled to respect in admiralty courts; a state having power to create new rights or remedies, and enforce those rights in her own courts, without regard to admiralty. North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Acc. Commission of California (Cal.) 163 P. 199.

Since the amendment of October 6, 1917, it has been held that while, when enacted, a Workmen's Compensation Law, so far as making it applicable to longshore work in loading and unloading cargoes, was unconstitutional, as an invasion of admiralty jurisdiction, it became effective in that respect, without re-enactment, when by Act Cong. Oct. 6, 1917, § 2, recourse to rights and remedies under state Workmen's Compensation Law was permitted. Cimmino v. John T. Clark & Son (Sup.) 172 N. Y. S. 478. And that a Workmen's Compensation Act, which withdraws from private controversy all remedy for injuries received in hazardous work, and excludes every other remedy, does not extend to employés on a vessel in navigable waters, and the Industrial Insurance Commission cannot collect from an employer premiums on account of such employés, notwithstanding Act Cong. Oct. 6, 1917, amending this section by saving to suitors in admiralty any common law remedy, and rights and remedies under the Workmen's Compensation Act. Puget Sound Bridge & Dredging Co. v. Industrial Ins. Commission (Wash.) 177 P. 788.

Despite Judiciary Act, § 9 (Jud. Code, §§ 24, 256), giving district courts exclusive original cognizance of all civil causes of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction, saving to suitors the right of common-law remedy, where the common law is competent to give it, the rights of a seaman injured while in service of the ship must be measured according to rules of the maritime law, and cannot be measured by the common law. Chelentis v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 38 S. Ct. 501, 247 U. S. 372, 62 L. Ed. 1171, affirming judgment 243 F. 536, 156 C. C. A. 234.

A person who has a cause of action of admiralty cognizance has always been entitled to seek his remedy in either the common-law courts, where they are competent to give it, or in the admiralty courts. The Erie Lighter 108 (D. C.) 250 F. 490.

In view of the federal Judiciary Act of 1789, granting admiralty jurisdiction to the federal District Court and saving to suitors common-law remedies, while state Legislatures cannot in terms enlarge jurisdiction of admiralty, they may create new rights over matters within the jurisdiction of admiralty. North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Acc. Commission of California (Cal.) 163 P. 199.

Under Act March 3, 1911, c. 231, § 24, 36 Stat. 1091 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 991[3]), giving federal district courts original jurisdiction of admiralty causes, but saving to suitors right to a common-law remedy, where common law is competent to give it, a state common-law court has jurisdiction of action in personam by seaman for personal injuries occurring off Alaskan coast and arising from vessel's unseaworthiness. Larson v. Alaska S. S. Co. (Wash.) 165 P. 880.

44. Personal injuries.—The circuit court, and not the federal courts of admiralty, had jurisdiction of an action for personal injuries received by plaintiff in jumping from defendant's launch to a pier at command of the "master" in charge of the launch. Gordon v. Drake (Mich.) 159 N. W. 340.

A ship need not be in interstate or foreign commerce to make contract of employment relative thereto maritime, and claim of employé for injury within jurisdiction of admiralty, to exclusion of State Industrial Commission. Sullivan v. Hudson Nav. Co., 169 N. Y. S. 654, 182 App. Div. 152, order affirmed Doey v. Clarence P. Howland Co., 120 N. E. 53, 224 N. Y. 30, and Anderson v. Johnson Lighterage Co., 120 N. E. 55, 224 N. Y. 539, and Keator v. Rock Plaster Mfg. Co., 120 N. E. 56, 224 N. Y. 540, certiorari denied State Industrial Commission of State of New York v. Clarence P. Howland, 39 S. Ct. 11, 248 U. S. 574, 63 L. Ed. —, and Same v. Johnson Lighterage Co., 39 S. Ct. 11, 248 U. S. 574, 63 L. Ed. —, and Same v. Rock Plaster Mfg. Co., 39 S. Ct. 12, 248 U. S. 574, 63 L. Ed. —.

45. Causing death.—An action for death occurring on the high seas on a vessel owned in Massachusetts may be maintained in the Massachusetts courts. Souden v. Fore River Shipbuilding Co., 112 N. E. 82, 223 Mass. 509.

46. Liens.—The furnishing of materials for the building of a vessel is not a "maritime contract," and the foreclosure of a lien for such materials was properly brought in the state court. Siler Mill Co. v. Charles Nelson Co. (Wash.) 162 P. 590.

48. Claims for wages.—Claim of carpenter against his employer, altering ship in navigable waters to fit it for cargo of grain, is within jurisdiction of admiralty, to the exclusion of the State Industrial Commission, in view of Const. U. S. art. 3, § 2, and Judiciary Act Sept. 24, 1789, § 9, continued in Judicial Code, §§ 24 and 256 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, §§ 991, 1233). Doey v. Clarence P. Howland Co., 120 N. E. 53, 224 N. Y. 30.

51. Partition and sale of vessel.—Admiralty has exclusive jurisdiction to appoint a receiver for and decree sale of a ship, because of differences between the owners as to management, though it may not decree a sale because of the paramount principle in admiralty of right of control in the majority. Fischer v. Carey, 159 P. 577, 173 Cal. 185, L. R. A. 1917A, 1100.

V. CASES ARISING UNDER PATENT OR COPYRIGHT LAWS

(A) Patent laws

See, also, notes under §§ 991, 9464, et seq., and Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1.

57. Jurisdiction of state courts in general.—Const. U. S. art. 1, § 8, and Judicial Code, § 256, held not to deprive state court of jurisdiction of action based on unlawful use of plaintiffs' trade secrets and injury to plaintiffs' business, by threatening their customers with infringement suits, where defendants had not secured any patent. Aronson v. Orlov, 116 N. E. 951, 228 Mass. 1, certiorari denied Orlov v. Aronson, 38 S. Ct. 61, 62 L. Ed. 536.

60. Infringements.—A bill and answer were in the ordinary forms employed in patent suits, except that the ultimate issue was whether plaintiffs were entitled to damages in the form of fixed royalties, instead of an indefinite sum in the form of profits, and an injunction was prayed restraining defendant from further using infringing furnaces until it should pay plaintiffs such fixed sum. Held, in view of subdivision 5 of this section and section 991, that the District Court had jurisdiction, though the sum involved was less than $3,000, as the bill showed that plaintiffs invoked the aid of the patent laws, and the suit might be said to have arisen under those laws. Swindell v. Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 438.

(B) Copyright laws

66. Infringements.—The state courts will refuse damages for the infringement of an unpublished play by motion pictures subsequent to the copyright of other motion pictures, where the federal courts have not determined the portion of damages due to infringement of the copyrighted scenes. O'Neill v. General Film Co., 157 N. Y. S. 1028, 171 App. Div. 854, modifying judgment (Sup.) 152 N. Y. S. 599.

Equity has no jurisdiction to issue a permanent injunction against infringement of copyright, over which federal courts have exclusive jurisdiction. Bobbs-Merrill Co. v. Universal Film Mfg. Co. (Sup.) 160 N. Y. S. 37.

VI. BANKRUPTCY PROCEEDINGS

See notes under §§ 991, 9585, 9586, et seq., and Const. art. 3, § 2, cl. 1.

VIII. SUITS AGAINST AMBASSADORS OR OTHER PUBLIC MINISTERS

See, also, notes under Const. art. 3, § 2, cls. 1, 2.

85. Jurisdiction of state courts.—Under Const. U. S. art. 3, § 2, subds. 1, 2, article 3, § 1, and article 6, subd. 2, and Judicial Code, 1911, § 24, subd. 18, and section 256, subd. 8, New York Supreme Court held to have no jurisdiction of wife's action for separation, under Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 1762, as against husband, consul for republic of Peru, so that service of summons would be vacated and complaint dismissed. Higginson v. Higginson (Sup.) 158 N. Y. S. 92, 96 Misc. Rep. 457.

§ 1233a. (Act Jan. 28, 1915, c. 22, § 5.) United States courts not to have jurisdiction on ground of incorporation of railroad company by Act of Congress.

Suits arising under laws of the United States.—Since enactment of this section, suit by or against railroad incorporated under act of Congress is one arising under the laws of the United States, unless there was reason therefor other than that the company was thus incorporated. Bankers' Trust Co. v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., 36 S. Ct. 569, 241 U. S. 295, 60 L. Ed. 1010.

A suit to foreclose mortgage of railroad incorporated under federal laws does not arise under laws of the United States so as to be within jurisdiction of federal court, since the enactment of this section. Id.

Removal from state courts.—Under this section the fact that a railroad company was incorporated by congressional act does not entitle it to remove an action from the state to the federal courts. Texas & Pac. Ry. Co. v. Hanson (Tex. Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 289.

Under this section a passenger's suit for injuries was not removable to the federal court on the ground that it involved a question of law arising under a federal statute, although the cause of action arose prior to enactment of such statute but the action was not brought until thereafter. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Mercer (Tex. Civ. App.) 195 S. W. 263.

§ 1237. (Jud. Code, § 260, as amended, Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, § 6.) Salary of judges after resignation.

When any judge of any court of the United States, appointed to hold his office during good behavior, resigns his office after having held a commission or commissions as judge of any such court or courts at least ten years continuously, and having attained the age of seventy years, he shall, during the residue of his natural life receive the salary which is payable at the time of his resignation for the office that he held at the time of his resignation. But, instead of resigning, any judge other than a justice of the Supreme Court, who is qualified to resign under the foregoing provisions, may retire, upon the salary of which he is then in receipt, from regular active service on the bench, and the President shall thereupon be authorized to appoint a successor; but a judge so retiring may nevertheless be called upon by the senior circuit judge of that circuit and be by him authorized to perform such judicial duties in such circuit as such retired judge may be willing to undertake, or he may be called upon by the Chief Justice and be by him authorized to perform such judicial duties in any other circuit as such retired judge may be willing to undertake, or he may be called upon either by the presiding judge or senior judge of any other such court and be by him authorized to perform such judicial duties in such court as such retired judge may be willing to undertake.

In the event any circuit judge, or district judge, having so held a commission or commissions at least ten years continuously, and having attained the age of seventy years as aforesaid, shall nevertheless remain in office, and not resign or retire as aforesaid, the President, if he finds that any such judge is unable to discharge efficiently all the duties of his office by reason of mental or physical disability of permanent character, may, when necessary for the efficient dispatch of business, appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate an additional circuit judge of the circuit or district judge of the district to which such disabled judge belongs. And the judge so retiring voluntarily, or whose mental or physical condition caused the President to appoint an additional judge, shall be held and treated as if junior in commission to the remaining judges of said court, who shall, in the order of the seniority of their respective commissions, exercise such powers and perform such duties as by law may be incident to seniority. In districts where there may be more than one district judge, if the judges or a majority of them can not agree upon the appointment of officials of the court, to be appointed by such judges, then the senior judge shall have the power to make such appointments.

Upon the death, resignation, or retirement of any circuit or district judge, so entitled to resign, following the appointment of any additional judge as provided in this section, the vacancy caused by such death, resignation, or retirement of the said judge so entitled to resign shall not be filled. (40 Stat. 1157.)

This section was amended by Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, § 6, cited above, to read as set forth above. This amendment consisted in adding to the section all that part following the first sentence thereof, as set forth above.

Section 7 of said Act Feb. 25, 1919, c. 29, provides that the act shall take effect and be in force on and after the first day of the month next following its approval.

§ 1239. (Jud. Code, § 262.) Power to issue writs.

See notes under § 1211.

I. CONSTRUCTION OF PROVISION

1. Authority and power to issue writs.—In view of this section a District Court has jurisdiction to issue a writ of venire facias against a defendant. U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 292.

A writ of venire facias is in its very nature an ad respondendum proceeding, giving defendant who is indicted his day in court, in order that his defense may be heard, and the writ will not be quashed, because it called for an answer, instead of a plea. Id.

In absence of rule of federal court, a common-law writ will proceed in accordance with the settled practice at common law. Universal Transp. Co. v. National Surety Co. (D. C.) 252 F. 293.

II. SCIRE FACIAS

4. To revive judgment.—A writ of fieri facias may be taken out at the pleasure of the party recovering a judgment at any time within 10 years after rendition. Roger v. J. B. Levert Co., 237 F. 737, 150 C. C. A. 491.

6½. Abolition of writ by state statute.—Under Judicial Code, § 262 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1239), empowering District Courts to issue writs of scire facias, they may do so in a state which has abolished the writ. Universal Transp. Co. v. National Surety Co. (D. C.) 252 F. 293.

7. Procedure and practice.—In view of this section and section 1591, providing for the amendment of writs for any defect or want of form, a scire facias issued out of the federal District Court for Tennessee to recover on a bail bond may be amended to show the missing jurisdictional fact that the court admitted the offender to bail. Ewing v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 240 F. 241.

III. MANDAMUS

See notes under § 1211.

9. Correction of errors of lower courts.—Mandamus does not lie to correct errors in rulings which are reviewable on appeal. In re John J. Gibson Co., 233 F. 751, 147 C. C. A. 517.

A writ of mandamus will not be granted to require a District Judge to correct alleged errors occurring on the trial of a cause, where they can be brought up for review by appeal. In re Duncan, 249 F. 155, 161 C. C. A. 207, certiorari denied Ex parte Duncan, 38 S. Ct. 427, 247 U. S. 508, 62 L. Ed. 1241.

11. Issuance in aid or exercise of jurisdiction—In aid of appellate jurisdiction.—Where clerk of Circuit Court of Appeals declined, without required deposit to secure costs, to file record on appeal by seamen from a decree dismissing their libel to enforce payment of wages, Supreme Court, in view of its ultimate power to review the cause on merits and the effect of the refusal, may issue a writ of mandamus to compel filing of record without deposit. In re Abdu, 38 S. Ct. 447, 247 U. S. 27, 62 L. Ed. 966.

The Circuit Courts of Appeals have no power to issue writs of mandamus or prohibition by virtue of the fact alone that they have appellate jurisdiction to review judgments and decrees of the District Courts; but the exercise of that jurisdiction rests upon the fact that the issuance thereof is auxiliary to and is necessary for the protection of the appellate jurisdiction of the court issuing the same, which might otherwise be defeated by the unauthorized action of the court below. Hammond Lumber Co. v. United States Dist. Court for District of Columbia (C. C. A.) 240 F. 924.

11½. —— Settlement of bill of exceptions.—A trial judge cannot be compelled by mandamus to sign a bill of exceptions, purporting to contain a summary of the testimony in narrative form, unless it contains the substance of all the material testimony given on the trial and his return that it does not do so is conclusive; but he may be required to settle such portion of the proposed bill, aside from the testimony, as correctly sets forth the proceedings. Black v. Youmans, 245 F. 460, 157 C. C. A. 622.

Where bill of exceptions was presented during term, and no unjustifiable delay on part of moving party appeared, and only objection to settlement was that bill was not timely presented, moving party is entitled to writ of mandamus directing signing of bill. In re Federal Life Ins. Co., 248 F. 908, 161 C. C. A. 26.

12. —— Payment and enforcement of judgments in general.—The officials of the Treasury Department are charged with a ministerial duty in paying out money appropriated to satisfy a judgment of the Court of Claims, and may be compelled to make payment by mandamus. McAdoo v. Ormes, 47 App. D. C. 364.

13. —— Enforcement of judgments against municipal corporations.—Holders of bonds of irrigation district held entitled to mandamus to compel levy of assessment against lands of district to raise money to pay judgment on interest coupons. Norris v. Montezuma Valley Irr. Dist., 248 F. 369, 160 C. C. A. 379, reversing judgment (D. C.) 240 F. 825, and certiorari denied Montezuma Valley Irr. Dist. v. Norris, 39 S. Ct. 10, 63 L. Ed. —.

Under a statute requiring the proper officers of a city to issue warrants in payment of judgments recovered against the city on presentation of the record of the judgment and its satisfaction, it is no defense to an action in mandamus to compel the issuance of such warrants that the city is without funds to pay them. Symons v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 109.

14. —— Enforcement of judgments against counties.—Proceedings for the enforcement of a judgment against a county, although erroneous in form, held sufficient to authorize the court to issue a writ of mandamus, which was the proper procedure. Clearwater County v. Pfeffer, 236 F. 183, 149 C. C. A. 373.

16. —— Execution of mandate and trial after remand.—Writ of mandamus, asked for in connection with appeal and writ of prohibition, held to be denied as presumptively District Court, on being advised of appellate court's views, would give proper relief. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571, 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 478.

On application for mandamus to prevent a lower court after remand from exercising jurisdiction, neither merits of main case nor whether action of trial court is equitable, is involved, but the sole inquiry is whether that court is without jurisdiction. In re Griggs, 233 F. 243, 147 C. C. A. 249, denying rehearing 227 F. 795, 142 C. C. A. 319.

Petition held to state no ground for writ of mandamus to compel District Judge to comply with mandate of Circuit Court of Appeals. Spann v. Smith, 245 F. 858, 158 C. C. A. 198.

20. Compelling performance of acts by public officers—Particular official acts and duties.—Order of Secretary of Interior recognizing the adopted children of deceased Indian allottee as his heirs, though made final and conclusive by Act June 25, 1910, did not exhaust his power so as to permit mandamus to interfere with his action in reopening the matter for further consideration. Lane v. United States ex rel. Mickadiet, 36 S. Ct. 599, 241 U. S. 201, 60 L. Ed. 956, reversing judgment United States of America ex rel. Mickadiet v. Lane, 43 App. D. C. 414.

Bona fide purchaser of certificates issued under Choctaw-Chickasaw Agreement confirmed by Act July 1, 1902, and held for cancellation for fraud, held not entitled to writ of mandamus to compel the issuance of a patent. Duncan Townsite Co. v. Lane, 38 S. Ct. 99, 245 U. S. 308, 62 L. Ed. 309, affirming judgment Lane v. Duncan Townsite Co., 44 App. D. C. 63.

Under Act Oct. 22, 1913, c. 32, mandamus will not issue for reinstatement of deputy marshal not required to give a bond, as the marshal could avoid the writ by demanding bond and then revoking the appointment. U. S. v. Lapp, 244 F. 377, 157 C. C. A. 3.

Mandamus will not issue to control discretion of United States marshal in removing deputy marshal under Act Oct. 22, 1913, c. 32. Id.

Mandamus to the Secretary of the Interior to compel him to issue a patent based on a fraudulent registration in the roll of members of the Chickasaw Nation of Indians held not to lie. Lane v. Duncan Townsite Co., 44 App. D. C. 63.

Under Act Cong. March 3, 1891, § 7, where nothing is required of the Secretary of the Interior except to issue a patent mandamus will lie to compel action. Hoglund v. Lane, 44 App. D. C. 310.

Where the Commissioner of Patents rules in an interference proceeding that the issue is not patentable to one of the parties because he has shown no invention over the disclosure of prior patents granted to him, and accordingly dissolves the interference, but refuses to award priority of invention to the other party, the question involved is one calling for the exercise of judgment and discretion by the Commissioner, and his action cannot be reviewed or controlled by mandamus. Aufiero v. Ewing, 44 App. D. C. 328.

Mandamus to compel the Commissioner of Patents to vacate an order declaring an interference cannot be granted on the ground that the discontinuance of a prior interference is res judicata as to the present interference, but that defense can be raised and preserved at all stages of the interference proceeding. United States ex rel. International Money Machine Co. v. Newton, 47 App. D. C. 449.

21. Performance of acts by corporations.—Federal court is without jurisdiction to issue writ of mandamus against corporation to compel compliance with franchise obligations. State of Washington v. Tacoma Ry. & Power Co. (C. C.) 244 F. 989.

Mandamus held a proper remedy for failure and refusal of street car company to operate cars on tracks maintained under franchises. State of Washington v. Puget Sound Traction, Light & Power Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 748.

22. Compelling exercise of judicial powers and functions.—Where after argument judge transferred case to equity side of court, held, mandamus would not lie to compel him to grant jury trial. Ex parte Mason, 244 F. 154, 156 C. C. A. 582.

A court can be compelled to act one way or the other in matters properly before it, for that is its duty; but it cannot be compelled to make a particular decision, when it has power or discretion to act otherwise. Primos Chemical Co. v. Fulton Steel Corporation (D. C.) 254 F. 454.

23. Procedure and questions of practice.—Rule to show cause why mandamus should not issue where federal District Court has exceeded its power by suspending indefinitely sentence to imprisonment is properly directed to judge to compel vacation of order, rather than to clerk of court to compel issue of commitment. Ex parte U. S., 37 S. Ct. 72, 242 U. S. 27, 61 L. Ed. 129, L. R. A. 1917E, 1178, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 355.

Owner of judgment against a county was guilty of no culpable laches or breach of duty, for which the court in its discretion should refuse mandamus to compel payment, though for 30 years after original judgment, during which the county amassed other large indebtedness, he did nothing except to obtain renewal judgments; application for mandamus being a year after the last judgment, and limitations for issue of execution being 10 years. Bunch v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 673.

One writ of mandamus against all officers of a county charged with any duty in the co-operative or separate steps of levying, collecting, and paying a tax to satisfy a judgment against the county is proper, being in reality a proceeding against the county. Id.

IV. CERTIORARI

24. Authority to issue.—See notes under § 1120 in original annotated edition.

Law courts have general superintending control over inferior tribunals by certiorari, which is not entirely taken away by statutory declaration that judgment shall be final. Angelus v. Sullivan, 246 F. 54, 158 C. C. A. 280.

The writ of certiorari may be used to bring up the record, where basis for a writ of habeas corpus is shown; but the law courts have no power to issue such writ to an executive or administrative board, for the sole purpose of reviewing the correctness of its decision. Ex parte Platt (D. C.) 253 F. 413.

25. Review of particular proceedings.—Certiorari will not issue to review the action of local and district draft boards in making determination as to deferred classification under executive regulations promulgated under the Selective Service Act, for the act creates a system for executive enforcement, and proceedings of the draft boards, as to those within scope of the act, are not in the same category as those of quasi judicial tribunals. In re Kitzerow (D. C.) 252 F. 865.

Certiorari, which, under this section, a federal court may issue wherever appropriate, will not be issued to review classification by a local board under the Selective Service Act, because it is an executive body, because there is no power in the court to substitute its opinion on a question of fact for that of the board, and because there is remedy by habeas corpus, which is not a discretionary writ, as is certiorari. U. S. v. Rauch (D. C.) 253 F. 814

VI. INJUNCTION

Injunction in general, see notes under § 1241 et seq.

29. Issuance in aid of jurisdiction.—See Landon v. Public Utilities Commission of Kansas (D. C.) 234 F. 152.

Court in which suit to foreclose railroad mortgage was brought held not authorized to prevent trustee from bringing suit in another jurisdiction against the mortgagor and another company to enforce a collateral agreement. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571, 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 478.

Though an injunction was denied, the court has jurisdiction to preserve the status quo, pending appeal or final determination, though dismissing the bill. Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., 237 F. 986, 150 C. C. A. 636, affirming judgment U. S. v. Toledo Newspaper Co. (D. C.) 220 F. 458.

In suit to compel assignment of patents pursuant to agreement to assign future inventions, injunction against use of the patents or inventions held proper. Chadeloid Chemical Co. v. H. B. Chalmers Co., 243 F. 606, 156 C. C. A. 304.

An order of a court of equity for the protection of its prior jurisdiction of the subject-matter of a suit, restraining parties from prosecuting an action in another court, is not an interference with the jurisdiction of the latter tribunal. Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 478, order reversed Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571, 145 C. C. A. 457.

Whether the federal court, which appointed a receiver of a railroad company, will enjoin a suit against the company in the state court, must be determined by the federal court alone, subject to review by the appellate federal tribunals. Jackson v. Parkersburg & O. V. Electric Ry. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 784.

Where federal court first took possession of property of railroad company by its receiver, sale of company's property in an earlier suit begun in the state court, in which possession was not taken, may be enjoined. Id.

Where a creditor, suing in the state court, delayed for over two years after a federal court took possession of the property of a railroad company in seeking to sell the company's property to satisfy his lien, he was guilty of laches, warranting injunction against his proceeding further. Id.

VII. SEIZURE

31. Authority to issue writ of seizure.—While it would seem that power to do so ought to exist, no authority resides in or has been conferred upon a District Judge to issue a search warrant for the seizure of letters, writings, etc., used or intended to be used in a scheme to defraud through the mails. U. S. v. Jones (D. C.) 230 F. 262.

IX. PROHIBITION

35. Power to issue writ.—See notes under § 1120 in original annotated edition.

Prohibition will not issue by the Supreme Court against proceedings in an action in a District Court on the ground that claims asserted therein were barred by the statute of limitations. Ex parte Southwestern Surety Ins. Co., 38 S. Ct. 430, 247 U. S. 19, 62 L. Ed. 961.

Court in which suit to foreclose railroad mortgage was brought held not authorized to prevent trustee from bringing suit in another jurisdiction against the mortgagor and another company to enforce a collateral agreement. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571, 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 478.

Where an order in a foreclosure suit requiring certain parties to become parties and interplead was in excess of the court's jurisdiction, the writ of prohibition was properly invoked. Id.

On application for writ of prohibition to prevent a lower court from exercising jurisdiction, neither merits of main case nor whether action of trial court is equitable is involved, but the sole inquiry is whether that court is without jurisdiction. In re Griggs, 233 F. 243, 147 C. C. A. 249, denying rehearing 227 F. 795, 142 C. C. A. 319.

A writ of prohibition to an inferior court will not issue, unless it is clearly shown that petitioner is without other remedy, and that such court is about to exceed its jurisdiction. Hammond Lumber Co. v. United States District Court for District of Oregon, 240 F. 924, 153 C. C. A. 610.

The Circuit Courts of Appeals have no power to issue writs of mandamus or prohibition by virtue of the fact alone that they have appellate jurisdiction to review judgments and decrees of the District Courts; but the exercise of that jurisdiction rests upon the fact that the issuance thereof is auxiliary to and is necessary for the protection of the appellate jurisdiction of the court issuing the same, which might otherwise be defeated by the unauthorized action of the court below. Id.

A Circuit Court of Appeals is without power to issue a writ of prohibition to a District Court, where the alleged want of jurisdiction of the latter is over the subject-matter alone. Id.

XV. WARRANT OF ARREST

42. Warrant outside district.—District Court held not authorized to issue warrant for arrest of defendant in another state, under this section, even though the contempt proceeding under which writ was issued was a criminal one. Mitchell v. Dexter, 244 F. 926, 157 C. C. A. 276.

§ 1241. (Jud. Code, § 264.) Injunctions; in what cases granted.

Issuance in aid of jurisdiction, see notes under § 1239.

Notes of Decisions

I. NATURE OF INJUNCTION AND FORM OF REMEDY

5. As preventive remedy.—Injunctions are granted to prevent, not to redress, injuries. National Circle, Daughters of Isabella, v. National Order of Daughters of Isabella (D. C.) 252 F. 815.

7. Injunction in aid of actions or proceedings.—See notes under § 1239, ante.

8. Mandatory injunctions.—A mandatory injunction will not ordinarily be issued to require defendant to perform some act exposing it to prosecution for violation of criminal laws; such injunctions usually being issued only to compel defendant to do some act restoring status quo. Gaines v. Baltimore & C. S. S. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 786.

Equity has power to grant a mandatory injunction to compel the removal of a party wall, constructed in violation of the rights and against the known opposition of the adjoining owner, so far as it encroaches upon his land. Mann v. Boyts, 47 App. D. C. 356.

The officials of the Treasury Department are charged with a ministerial duty in making payment to one in whose favor an appropriation has been made to satisfy a judgment of the Court of Claims, and a court of equity, with jurisdiction to appoint a receiver of the fund, may compel its delivery through a mandatory injunction. McAdoo v. Ormes, 47 App. D. C. 364.

II. GROUNDS OF RELIEF IN GENERAL

9½. In general.—Granting of injunction is ordinarily a harsh remedy, and such relief will only be granted in clear case. U. S. v. Honolulu Consol. Oil Co. (D. C.) 249 F. 167.

10. Nature and existence of rights requiring protection.—To justify a perpetual injunction in respect to the use of the waters of a public river, the right must be clearly proven and definitely established. Trujillo & Mercado v. Succession of Rodriguez, 233 F. 208, 147 C. C. A. 214.

11. Actual or anticipated violation of rights.—Right to injunction against activities of one attempting to secure support of employés to enable those whom he represented to close the employer's mine unless he would make it a union mine held not dependent on whether such person had power or authority to shut down the mine. Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell, 38 Sup. Ct. 65, 245 U. S. 229, 62 L. Ed. 260, L. R. A. 1918C, 497, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 461, reversing decree Mitchell v. Hitchman Coal & Coke Co., 214 F. 685, 131 C. C. A. 425, which reversed decree Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell (D. C.) 202 F. 512. Mandate stayed 38 S. Ct. 190.

Injunction in stockholder's suit to restrain turning over of assets to another corporation will be denied, where the plan has been abandoned. Shera v. Carbon Steel Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 589.

14. Irreparable injuries.—Preliminary injunction against proceedings by regents of state university to condemn land, on the ground of state law authorizing taking without due process and denying equal protection of laws, held properly denied, in the exercise of wise discretion; allegation of irreparable loss and damage appearing fanciful, in view of detailed circumstances. Cavanaugh v. Looney, 39 S. Ct. 142, 63 L. Ed. —.

15. Inadequacy of remedy at law.—See, also, notes under § 1244.

16. Prevention of multiplicity of suits.—Generally, in order to make multiplicity of suits a ground for interposition of equity, more than one suit must have been commenced, or at least about to be begun, and such interposition must be necessary as protection from continued and vexatious litigation. General Film Co. v. Sampliner (C. C. A.) 252 F. 443.

Where complainant asserted rights under many different deeds, and no single action at law would determine controversies between parties, held that, pending disposition of suit in equity, maintenance of actions at law, other than single action of trespass already begun, should be enjoined, to avoid multiciplicity of suits. United Timber Corporation v. Bivens (D. C.) 248 F. 554.

A court of equity will not entertain a bill by complainant against a large number of parties, to whom he had sold corporate stock, and who had begun separate actions to recover for fraud on the theory equity will restrain a multiplicity of suits, where proof as to nonreliance on the misrepresentations, etc., would not be binding on all the various parties. Robinson v. Wemmer (D. C.) 253 F. 790.

17. Objections to relief in general.—Unlawful practices of sugar refiner in its business cannot defeat its right to restrain enforcement of Act La. No. 10 of 1915, regulating its business, which, it asserts, violates its rights under federal Constitution. McFarland v. American Sugar Refining Co., 36 S. Ct. 498, 241 U. S. 79, 60 L. Ed. 899, affirming decree American Sugar Refining Co. v. McFarland (D. C.) 229 F. 284.

Party engaged in collecting and rating business held not guilty of false and fraudulent representations, so as to defeat injunctive relief, on theory that he did not come into court with clean hands. Cropper v. Davis, 243 F. 310, 156 C. C. A. 90.

Injunction against corporation's payment of bonuses to officers will not be denied merely because president filed disclaimer, not signed by other officers. Shera v. Carbon Steel Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 589.

III. SUBJECTS OF PROTECTION AND RELIEF BY INJUNCTION

(A) Restraining actions or legal proceedings

21. Commencement or prosecution of civil actions or proceedings.—See Sanitary Street Flushing Mach. Co. v. Studebaker Corporation (D. C.) 229 F. 591.

An action of ejectment would not be enjoined, and the litigation taken over by a court of equity, on the ground that, if an accounting should be decreed, a court of law would be without jurisdiction, where the defendant in the ejectment action, seeking the injunction, did not concede that there ever would be an accounting, especially where the account was short, and no reason was apparent why it could not be adjusted by a jury. Weber v. Hertzell (C. C. A.) 230 F. 965.

Suit on assigned cause of action will not be enjoined on the ground it is in bad faith, vexatious, and an abuse of court's process, because of judgment for defendants in former action on same assignment, to which action defendant was not a party, unless such judgment clearly and conclusively estopped subsequent action; so held in a case where time for seeking review of such judgment had not expired. General Film Co. v. Sampliner (C. C. A.) 252 F. 443.

Where a party has a good defense at law to a purely legal demand, he must be left to that means of defense, unless he alleges and proves special circumstances showing that he may suffer irreparable damage, if he is denied a preventive remedy. Id.

Where landowner, admitting that grantee in timber deeds had right of way over premises, but asserting that right to enter and remove timber had expired, began action at law for damages on account of alleged trespass by grantee in entering and cutting timber on lands not embraced in right of way, maintenance thereof will not be enjoined, for proof of grantee's title to timber and right of entry would be complete defense available as well at law as in equity. United Timber Corporation v. Bivens (D. C.) 248 F. 554.

Upon broad principles of equity, a chancery court should decline to entertain a suit to nullify, or which in its effect would nullify, an order of an independent court of concurrent jurisdiction, involving the same parties and subject-matter. Amusement Syndicate Co. v. El Paso Land Improvement Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 345.

24. Actions or proceedings in other courts.—It is the general rule that one will not be restrained by injunction from proceeding with a pending suit in equity in state courts, unless it clearly appears that complete relief cannot be obtained in such pending suit. American Seeding Mach. Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co., 241 F. 875, 154 C. C. A. 577.

26. Collection or enforcement of judgments.—Party seeking to enjoin sale under decree establishing mechanic's lien because lienor held collateral security held bound to show payment or tender and demand for return of the security. McGraw v. Walsh, 232 F. 122, 146 C. C. A. 314.

Where creditor's judgment against surety might be reversed on decision of writ of error pending in United States Supreme Court, and claims exceeded penalty of bond, enforcement of judgment will be enjoined pending determination of percentage, if any, to which creditor was entitled. American Surety Co. of New York v. Mills, 232 F. 841, 147 C. C. A. 35.

Where, after judgment against a defendant for breach of a covenant of seisin, title of plaintiff was made good by the running of limitations, defendant held entitled to maintain a suit in equity to enjoin enforcement of the judgment. Mather v. Stokely, 236 F. 124, 149 C. C. A. 334.

A debtor, released from his debts by the judgment of a court having jurisdiction, to avail himself of the judgment when sued upon a prior debt, may plead it as a defense, and it affords no basis for an injunction to stay the action. Pell v. McCabe (D. C.) 254 F. 356.

27. Restraining execution levy or sale.—A promise to dismiss a pending criminal prosecution is against public policy and void, and therefore equity will enjoin the execution of a judgment rendered on a confession of judgment executed by the judgment debtor in consideration of the dismissal of a pending criminal prosecution against her brother. Chambers v. Buroughs, 44 App. D. C. 168, certiorari denied Burroughs v. Chambers, 36 S. Ct. 284, 239 U. S. 649, 60 L. Ed. 485.

A court of equity will not, at the instance of the defendant in an action at law, enjoin the execution of a judgment against him in that action, from which judgment he took an appeal, which he afterwards abandoned, on the ground that error was committed in the exclusion of evidence on the trial of such action. Harlan v. Morgan, 44 App. D. C. 332.

(B) Protection of property and rights therein by injunction

34. Transfer of securities or instruments for payment of money.—Under Civ. Code Cal. § 309, prohibiting a corporation from buying in its own stock, defendant, which received notes for purchase price of stock of complainant, a California corporation, will be enjoined from disposing of them pending trial. First Nat. Bank of Portland, Or., v. E. J. Dodge Co., 233 F. 74, 147 C. C. A. 144.

37. Restraining fraudulent conveyances or transactions.—Could decree of state court against executor for devastavit be deemed as giving complainant right to appropriation of sureties' property, it would carry with it superior right to satisfaction out of property, and hence suit in federal court to enjoin disposition could not be maintained; complainant already having adequate remedy. Gillispie v. Riggs (D. C.) 248 F. 843.

Equity is without jurisdiction to restrain, at the instance of the plaintiff in a pending action of tort, the conveyance by the defendant in that action of his property for the alleged purpose of defeating the collection of a possible recovery in the tort action. Friedling v. Freedman, 44 App. D. C. 191.

38. Trespass or injuries to real property in general.—Injunctive relief, restraining railroad company from disturbing telegraph company's possession of easement for its line pending condemnation, held not warranted. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 198.

A court of equity, at the instance of proper parties, has power to restrain the threatened wrongful destruction or removal of tombs, vaults, monuments, or bodies from a cemetery, or wrongful injury thereto or to the burial premises. Chew v. First Presbyterian Church of Wilmington, Del. (D. C.) 237 F. 219.

39. Repeated or continuing trespasses on real property.—Where defendant repeatedly trespassed on island in which plaintiff had leasehold interest, and which he used for propagation of foxes, and damages for subsequently threatened trespasses would be difficult of ascertainment, plaintiff is entitled to injunction, although not to damages, as defendant previously merely removed his own foxes from the island. Whelpley v. Grosvold (C. C. A.) 249 F. 812.

40. Trespass or unlawful interference with mines or minerals.—A court of equity has jurisdiction of a suit by the United States to enjoin the taking of petroleum from land which it claims to own, and which constitutes its chief value, and where complainant also owns adjoining oil lands. El Dora Oil Co. v. U. S., 229 F. 946, 144 C. C. A. 228.

Equity held without jurisdiction of a suit against purchasers in the usual course of business of oil unlawfully extracted by others from public lands, the remedy being at law. U. S. v. Midway Northern Oil Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 619.

44. Cutting or removal of timber.—Standing timber, purchased from owner of land, with license to cut and remove it, so far partakes of nature of real property that right of removal will be protected by injunction where the landowner's continuous interference might prevent removal within time limited, for action for damages for trespass would be inadequate. United Timber Corporation v. Bivens (D. C.) 248 F. 554.

46. Injuries to trade or business.—Complainant held entitled to an injunction restraining defendant, a competing manufacturer, from using a secret process of complainant, disclosed to him by a former employé of complainant in violation of his contract of employment. Nulomoline Co. v. Stromeyer, 249 F. 597, 161 C. C. A. 523, reversing decree (D. C.) 245 F. 195.

(C) Protection of contracts and rights thereunder

47. Disclosure or use of trade secrets.—Defendant will not be enjoined from selling sugar as made by him to persons in the trade, because of disclosure to him by a former employé of plaintiff of its process of manufacture and its customers, and sale to them by him as broker of defendant's sugar; there being nothing more to connect defendant with the disclosure or use of the information. Nulomoline Co. v. Stromeyer (D. C.) 245 F. 195.

49. Negative or restrictive covenants or stipulations.—Merchant's contract containing negative covenant, not to sell on his premises during the term of the contract any other make of patterns than plaintiff's, held not so clear as to permit of enforcement by injunction; the term being indefinite. Standard Fashion Co. v. Magrane Houston Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 559.

Provision in contract by writer that publisher should have option on future work held not restrictive covenant, warranting restraining author from disposing of subsequent work to another publisher. Kennerley v. Simonds (D. C.) 247 F. 822.

Court of equity will infer negative covenant in contract of employment, where equity and justice require; but such covenant, to be interfered with by injunction, must be clearly implied and understood by all parties, and should not be implied unless indispensable to carry out their intention. Id.

50. Breaches of contracts which may be restrained.—Where a contract between the United States and defendant for manufacture of torpedoes provided that defendant would not make use of any device the design for which was furnished to it by the United States in any torpedo constructed for any person or other governments, and would not exhibit such device, the United States could restrain exhibition of a balanced turbine torpedo, whether or not patentable or within the prior art, or known to defendant, plans for which the government furnished defendant; "furnish" meaning to supply, while "invent" means to create. E. W. Bliss Co. v. U. S., 39 S. Ct. 42, 63 L. Ed. —.

Where defendant, contracting to manufacture torpedoes for the United States, engaged not to exhibit any device for which the design was furnished to it by the United States, the latter could restrain it from exhibiting a device incorporated in a torpedo which was first communicated or suggested verbally, and then by letter, unaccompanied by blueprints of design. Id.

51. Contracts for personal services.—It is not ground for an injunction that an employer, in the legitimate interest of his business and by fair means, induced an employé of another to enter his own service, where the employé violated no contract in doing so. Triangle Film Corporation v. Artcraft Pictures Corporation (C. C. A.) 250 F. 981.

53. Covenants as to use of premises.—Injunction is an appropriate remedy to enforce a restrictive covenant imposed on lands by common grantor for benefit of his several grantees. Crocker v. Ingersoll Engineering & Constructing Co., 249 F. 31, 161 C. C. A. 91.

Where the owner of land, who had granted the timber, together with rights of way for removal, denied the grantee access to the lands, asserting the period for removal had expired without extension, held that, as the grantee's rights had not been determined, equity had jurisdiction to enjoin the owner from denying access, etc., there being no adequate remedy at law. United Timber Co. v. Bivens (D. C.) 253 F. 968.

54. Inducing breach of contract.—A press association held entitled to an injunction against acts of a competitor in inducing its members to violate their contracts of membership. Associated Press v. International News Service, 245 F. 244, 157 C. C. A. 436, modifying order (D. C.) 240 F. 983. Certiorari granted International News Service v. Associated Press, 38 S. Ct. 10, 245 U. S. 644, 62 L. Ed. 528.

(D) Protection of corporate property and interests therein

55. Infringement of corporate franchise.—Where a telegraph company, which maintained interstate lines on a railroad right of way, terminated its agreement with the railroad company, and after the Alabama courts have adjudged that the telegraph company had no right to condemn an easement on that part of the railroad right of way located in Alabama, the federal courts for Kentucky will not, on the theory that the telegraph system was unitary and that the company had an easement over part of the right of way in Alabama, enjoin interference with the lines covered by the Alabama decision. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 29.

57. Management of corporate affairs or business.—The rule is imperative that the operation of state statutes governing railroad passenger rates should not be enjoined, unless the confiscatory character of the rate is clear; and this rule is especially applicable to injunctions before final hearing. Winthrop v. Fellows (D. C.) 230 F. 702.

The showing made on application by the trustee in a railroad mortgage, which was in process of foreclosure, for a preliminary injunction restraining the enforcement of a passenger rate statute, considered, in connection with the report of the receivers of the earnings of the road under the statute for the preceding year, and held insufficient to establish the fact that the road operating under the statute would not earn a fair return upon an investment representing the sum necessary to be realized at the sale of the property to cover complainant's mortgage debt and precedent liens, and therefore not to warrant the granting of an injunction on the ground of threatened confiscation in whole or in part of the mortgage bond investment in question. Id.

58. Disposition of corporate funds or property.—Courts of equity will interfere at the suit of a minority stockholder, where the directors of a corporation have voted themselves as officers salaries which are excessive. Wight v. Heublein, 238 F. 321, 151 C. C. A. 337, affirming decree Heublein v. Wight (D. C.) 227 F. 667.

Equity can enjoin the payment of salaries voted by directors of a corporation to themselves as officers for so long as such salaries are excessive in view of the services rendered and the condition of the business. Id.

(E) Restraining acts of public officers, boards and municipalities

59. Official acts which may be restrained in general.—Remedy for review and correction of errors of public officers constituting inferior quasi judicial tribunals on matters pertaining to their jurisdiction, held at law by certiorari and not by injunction. Angelus v. Sullivan, 246 F. 54, 158 C. C. A. 280.

Where refusal of municipal officer to grant permit, required as prerequisite for exhibition of moving picture, amounts in law to abuse of discretion, whereby property rights are or will be injuriously affected, court of equity has jurisdiction to enjoin such officer from refusing permit. Fox Film Corporation v. City of Chicago (D. C.) 247 F. 231, order affirmed City of Chicago v. Fox Film Corporation (C. C. A.) 251 F. 883.

60. State boards and officers.—See Landon v. Public Utilities Commission of Kansas (D. C.) 234 F. 152.

Federal District Court has jurisdiction to enjoin enforcement by state of provisions of Laws S. D. 1915, c. 275, prohibiting dealing in corporate stock without state sanction, which act is assailed as repugnant to federal Constitution. Caldwell v. Sioux Falls Stockyards Co., 37 S. Ct. 224, 242 U. S. 559, 61 L. Ed. 493.

State officers enforcing tax laws may be enjoined by federal court from enforcing state taxes on intangible property of public service corporation in violation of the federal Constitution because of discrimination in value of property on which taxes are based. Greene v. Louisville & I. R. Co., 37 S. Ct. 673, 244 U. S. 499, 61 L. Ed. 1280, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 88; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Greene, 37 S. Ct. 683, 244 U. S. 522, 61 L. Ed. 1291, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 97, modifying decree Same v. Bosworth (D. C.) 230 F. 191; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Greene, 37 S. Ct. 697, 244 U. S. 555, 61 L. Ed. 1309, affirming decree Same v. Bosworth (D. C.) 209 F. 465.

Where members of a state public service commission were without authority proceeding to regulate rates of private corporation, members as individuals could be enjoined from so proceeding. De Pauw University v. Public Service Commission of Oregon (D. C.) 247 F. 183.

61. National officers or bureaus.—Giving effect to unauthorized demand by Secretary of the Interior under Act June 25, 1910, that grantee in railway land grant should make advance deposit of cost of surveying township within grant may be enjoined, where statute contemplates that when demand is not complied with rights in granted land shall cease, where there are millions of acres of unsurveyed lands within primary limits of such grants. Santa Fé Pac. R. Co. v. Lane, 37 S. Ct. 714, 244 U. S. 492, 61 L. Ed. 1275, reversing decree 43 App. D. C. 497.

Board of Tea Appeals, appointed under Act March 2, 1897, as amended by Act May 16, 1908 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8786), may be enjoined from applying illegal tests to tea imported by complainants. Waite v. Macy, 38 S. Ct. 395, 246 U. S. 606, 62 L. Ed. 892, affirming decree Macy v. Browne, 224 F. 359, 140 C. C. A. 45, which reversed (D. C.) 215 F. 456.

Though action against postmaster to enjoin him from excluding publication from mails pursuant to direction of Postmaster General is not technically one against the sovereign, courts will not by injunction interfere, except in clearest cases, with action of great executive departments of government in interpreting laws affecting government. Masses Pub. Co. v. Patten, 245 F. 102, 157 C. C. A. 398.

Equity has jurisdiction to grant injunction against order of Postmaster General excluding publication from mails solely to prevent irreparable pecuniary damage. Id.

Person denied fair hearing on claim of exemption under Conscription Act is not entitled to an injunction, there being a full and adequate remedy at law for the enforcement of personal rights. Angelus v. Sullivan, 246 F. 54, 158 C. C. A. 280.

As a local board provided for by the Selective Service Act is a public body, exercising quasi judicial functions in passing on the right of exemption, a court of chancery has no jurisdiction to interfere with such a board's exercise of its function. Bonifaci v. Thompson (D. C.) 252 F. 878.

The Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of the General Land Office will not be enjoined, in a suit in equity by the locator of an unpatented mining claim who states that he is satisfied and does not and may never desire a patent, from proceeding to determine the character of the claim (construing sections 2318 to 2348, Rev. St. [Comp. Stat. 1916. §§ 4613–4616, 4618–4620, 4622, 4623, 4626–4632, 4642–4653, 4658–4660]). Lane v. Cameron, 45 App. D. C. 404.

A decision of the Secretary of the Interior construing the provision of Act April 27, 1904, § 5, for the disposal of lands ceded by the Crow Indians, to the effect that the provisions of the homestead laws as to residence and cultivation are applicable to an entry of such lands, is within his discretionary powers, and a cancellation of the entry in accordance therewith will not be enjoined. Keusch v. Lane. 47 App. D. C. 577.

(F) Protection of public in general and use of navigable waters and public places or property

75. Enforcement of municipal ordinances.—The proof of the inadequacy of a street car fare rate proposed by a city may be so clear and convincing that the courts are warranted in enjoining its imposition in advance of putting it in operation. Henry L. Doherty & Co. v. Toledo Rys. & Light Co. (D. C.) 254 F. 597.

Where the authorities of the city of Toledo proposed to take action to compel the Toledo Railways & Light Company, which was operating without a franchise, to sell 11 tickets for 50 cents, held, that such action, under the circumstances, would work a confiscation of the company's property, and so would be enjoined in advance; the company being entitled to charge for its service a sum which would give a fair return. Id.

76. Enforcement of statutes.—The violation by a railroad company of a statute of Porto Rico regulating rates affords ground for injunctive relief, and the federal District Court for Porto Rico, where it has jurisdiction of the parties, has power to grant such relief. People of Porto Rico v. American R. Co. of Porto Rico (C. C. A.) 254 F. 369.

Enforcement of Laws Kan. 1917, c. 166, §§ 1, 2, denouncing sale of cigarettes and advertisement of same, may be enjoined in so far as it applies to interstate commerce in newspapers published without state advertising cigarettes. Post Printing & Publishing Co. v. Brewster (D. C.) 246 F. 321.

Where act declared unlawful sale and advertisement of cigarettes, state officials will not be enjoined from enforcement of law, if valid, merely because its provisions did not apply to a particular newspaper company or its employés, for that matter could be presented in defense to criminal prosecution. Id.

(G) Protection of personal rights and restraining boycotts and combinations

78. Publication of libel.—Equity will not restrain by injunction the publication in the public press of a libel, even though its effect will be to injure complainant in reputation, property, or business. Willis v. O'Connell (D. C.) 231 F. 1004.

81. Interference with occupation or right to engage in business.—Operator of nonunion mine held entitled to enjoin the unionizing of the miners, as well as the unionizing of the mine, assuming that there was a distinction between the two; and it was immaterial that employment was at will and terminable by either party at any time. Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell, 38 S. Ct. 65, 245 U. S. 229, 62 L. Ed. 260, L. R. A. 1918C, 497, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 461, reversing decree Mitchell v. Hitchman Coal & Coke Co., 214 F. 685, 131 C. C. A. 425, which reversed decree Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell (D. C.) 202 F. 512, mandate stayed, 38 S. Ct. 190.

That employés were at liberty to quit the employment at pleasure did not deprive the employer of its right to injunctive relief against interference with its employés by third persons seeking to unionize them; and defendants' efforts to induce plaintiff's employés to join the union, so that by threats of a strike they could compel the unionization of the plant, held not lawful methods of inducing parties to join the union, but to give plaintiff a right to an injunction. Eagle Glass & Mfg. Co. v. Rowe, 38 S. Ct. 80, 245 U. S. 275, 62 L. Ed. 286, reversing decree Hill v. Eagle Glass & Mfg. Co., 219 F. 719, 135 C. C. A. 417.

(H) Restraining criminal acts and prosecutions

84. Criminal acts in general.—As, under Webb-Kenyon Act (Comp. St. 1916, § 8739), Act S. C. Feb. 20, 1915 (29 St. at Large, p. 140), regulating shipments of intoxicating liquors into state, is invalid only if interfering with some essential constitutional right, a carrier will not by mandatory injunction be required to deliver interstate shipment of liquor in violation of act; its constitutionality being at least doubtful. Gaines v. Baltimore & C. S. S. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 786.

85. Criminal prosecutions.—A court of equity may enjoin the enforcement of an unconstitutional statute or ordinance, which will involve a direct invasion of property rights, although such enforcement is through a criminal prosecution. Yee Gee v. City and County of San Francisco (D. C.) 235 F. 757. And see Weyman-Bruton Co. v. Ladd, 231 F. 898, 146 C. C. A. 94.

IV. ACTIONS AND PROCEEDINGS FOR INJUNCTIONS

90. Parties to proceedings.—The grantee of a prior grantee of standing timber held entitled to maintain a suit in equity to enjoin the cutting of the same by another. Crown Orchard Co. v. Dennis, 229 F. 652, 144 C. C. A. 62, reversing decree (D. C.) 220 F. 516.

A stockholder in a corporation is an indispensable party to a suit to enjoin him from voting his stock at a stockholders' meeting. General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160.

To a suit by a stockholder to enjoin the corporation from entering into an illegal merger with another corporation the latter held not a necessary party. Id.

Saloon keeper, closing saloon at 10 p. m. as provided in order of Minnesota Public Safety Commission, held not entitled to enjoin enforcement of the order, as the order was directed only against city councils and other governing bodies. Cook v. Burnquist (D. C.) 242 F. 321.

Under Laws Wash. 1913, p. 584, the state has no interest in tidelands located within a port district, and hence, in suit by district to enjoin one asserting ownership from exercising control over such lands, is not a party in interest.

Port of Seattle v. Oregon & W. R. Co. (D. C.) 242 F. 986.

92. Sufficiency of bill or complaint.—See Lyle v. Perry (D. C.) 250 F. 307.

Sale under decree establishing mechanic's lien held not to be enjoined on allegation of misappropriation by lienor of collateral security made on information and belief without stating source and nature of information. McGraw v. Walsh, 232 F. 122, 146 C. C. A. 314.

A bill to stay prosecution of actions at law pending trial and decision of a test case held not to state grounds for equitable relief. Galion Iron Works Co. v. Ohio Corrugated Culvert Co., 244 F. 427, 157 C. C. A. 53.

A bill by a stockholder to enjoin the corporation from doing an illegal act held sufficient on its face against a motion to dismiss. General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160.

A bill held insufficient to give equity jurisdiction to enjoin libelous publications on the ground of irreparable injury and inadequacy of legal remedy. Willis v. O'Connell (D. C.) 231 F. 1004.

Petition of receivers for an injunction to restrain the payee of a note, to which they allege they have an equitable defense, from disposing of collateral, held sufficient. Grasselli Chemical Co. v. Ætna Explosives Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 603.

In suit by person deprived of opportunity to earn stock under contract, prayer that selling, or incumbering of company's property in violation of his rights be restrained held too vague and indefinite. Wright v. Barnard (D. C.) 248 F. 756.

96. Presumptions and evidence to sustain bill.—In a suit to restrain interference with the sale of plaintiff's tobacco, under Laws N. D. 1913, c. 271, prohibiting sale of snuff, evidence held to show that the tobacco was not a snuff, but a fine cut chewing tobacco. Weyma-Bruton Co. v. Ladd, 231 F. 898, 146 C. C. A. 94.

97. Dismissal before hearing.—Where pending suit to compel removal of obstructions from Columbia river in front of fishing sites on Sand Island, Supreme Court decided that such island was in Oregon, District Court of Washington, held to have erred in retaining the case against plaintiff's motion to dismiss. McGowan v. Columbia River Packers' Ass'n, 38 S. Ct. 129, 245 U. S. 352, 62 L. Ed. 342, affirming decree Columbia River Packers' Ass'n v. McGowan, 219 F. 365, 134 C. C. A. 461.

Bill by receiver of railroad to restrain action at law for damages from overflow due to embankment erected by railroad held properly dismissed. Owen v. Alford, 232 F. 357, 146 C. C. A. 405.

Mere possibility of future litigation resulting from dismissal of suit, in which plaintiff's motion for preliminary injunction, made on bill and affidavits, was denied, does not amount to prejudice to defendant, precluding court from dismissing suit on plaintiff's motion. Orr v. Coca-Cola Co., 247 F. 452, 159 C. C. A. 506.

Action of court in granting plaintiff's motion to dismiss without prejudice to new suit, after denial of preliminary injunction moved for on bill and affidavits, held not abuse of court's discretion. Id.

98. Hearing and relief awarded.—On final hearing on bill to enjoin and have declared void act imposing license taxes, matters not raised by pleadings cannot be considered on final hearing. Union Sulphur Co. v. Reed (D. C.) 249 F. 172.

V. PRELIMINARY AND INTERLOCUTORY INJUNCTIONS

(A) Grounds and proceedings to procure

99. Nature and scope of remedy.—Equity is sedulous to prevent use of preliminary injunction or appointment of receiver to perform function of ejectment. Folk v. U. S., 233 F. 177, 147 C. C. A. 183.

100. Right to preliminary injunction in general.—Pending appeal from interlocutory decree ordering assignment of patents to complainant, complainant held not to be enjoined from suing for infringement of such patents. Chadeloid Chemical Co. v. H. B. Chalmers Co., 242 F. 71, 155 C. C. A. 15.

Under the evidence now produced, held, that plaintiff, purchaser of bonded whisky, was after termination of contract entitled to preliminary injunction, preventing defendant from excluding plaintiff from use of defendant's bottling house for bottling whisky previously bought. Thompson v. Balke, 245 F. 841, 158 C. C. A. 181.

Preliminary injunctions should not issue, unless a reasonably clear case of necessity and otherwise irreparable injury is made out. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 29.

The granting of a temporary injunction restraining a municipality from enforcing against a telephone company an ordinance prohibiting the collection of increased rates until underground installation of wires held proper, though company should be required to make deposit instead of giving bond, to secure patrons in case restitution of increase should be ordered. City of Amarillo v. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 638.

The balance of convenience or hardship frequently is a factor of controlling importance in cases of substantial doubt existing at the time of granting or refusing a preliminary injunction.

Chew v. First Presbyterian Church of Wilmington, Del. (D. C.) 237 F. 219.

Minority stockholders held, on showing made, entitled to preliminary injunction to restrain reorganization by majority. MacArthur v. Port of Havana Docks Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 984.

As preliminary injunction may be issued to maintain status quo, defendant, which contracted to sell ores to complainant, may, pending disposition of suit for specific performance, be restrained by preliminary injunction from selling to any other person or corporation; it appearing that denial of relief would work great injury to complainant. American Smelting & Refining Co. v. Bunker Hill & Sullivan Mining & Concentrating Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 172.

A bill alleging that syndicate managers represented to investors that a block of stock could be purchased at $7 per share, but that they actually purchased for $3.50 per share, stated a cause of action entitling complainants to a preliminary injunction. Gregg v. Megargel (D. C.) 248 F. 960.

Where plaintiff company sold toys manufactured by defendant company, securing customers and aiding in building up a joint business, after defendant has terminated the relation, and pending final decree in plaintiff's suit, the latter is entitled to preliminary injunction restraining further interference by defendant with its trade through threats of litigation for infringement of patent rights. Baker & Bennett Co. v. John C. Dettra & Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 406.

In cases wherein the facts are contested, the courts will not grant relief by preliminary injunction, but will await action until the time for final decree. Id.

Temporary injunction against carrying out of contract by county court concerning custody of county funds held not coram non judice and void. Barrett v. Stoddard County (Mo. App.) 183 S. W. 644.

101. Grounds for denial of temporary injunctions.—Where complainant acquired a few shares after shareholders had been notified of a plan to dispose of corporate property and dissolve corporation, a preliminary injunction on affidavits that sale would violate state and federal laws held properly refused. Venner v. Pennsylvania Steel Co. of New Jersey, 233 F. 407, 147 C. C. A. 343.

Suit held not maintainable, in the absence of a necessary party, to the extent of granting a temporary injunction, as defendant, by reason of the injunction not being binding on such absent party, might lose his rights under a contract. Virginia C. Mining, Milling & Smelting Co. v. Corrigan, 242 F. 809, 155 C. C. A. 397.

Where a telegraph company, after terminating the arrangement under which it maintained lines on a railroad right of way, was denied right of condemnation in Alabama, held, that preliminary injunction against the railroad company's interference with telegraph lines will not be granted, because the government has assumed control of railroads, etc., where the railroad company agreed not to take any action interfering with the telegraph system without governmental approval. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 29.

A temporary injunction to restrain the transfer of stock on the corporation's books will not be granted, in a suit to redeem from a pledge, where the stockholder had lost a similar suit in the state court and did not explain his delay in filing the suit. Gideon v. Representative Securities Corporation (D. C.) 232 F. 184.

Temporary injunction to protect property of street railroad company from strikers held properly denied, it not appearing defendants were destroying property, etc. Puget Sound Traction, Light & Power Co. v. Whitley (D. C.) 243 F. 945.

Where injunction had been issued against defendant's principal, and by its terms it restrained, not only principal, but its agents, injunction against defendant to protect rights, which complainant asserted in suit against principal, will not, on that ground, be granted, for first time injunction extended to defendant. Société Anonyme Du Filtre Chamberland Système Pasteur v. Consolidated Filters Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 358.

The rule as to balancing of injuries, to be considered in some cases upon application for preliminary injunction, does not apply where the right and its breach are clear. Marquette Cement Mining Co. v. Oglesby Coal Co. (D. C.) 253 F. 107.

102. Discretion of court in granting or refusing temporary injunction.—The granting or dissolution of an interlocutory injunction rests in the sound discretion of the court, which may take into consideration the relative damage which the respective parties will sustain if it be granted or refused. Kemmerer v. Midland Oil & Drilling Co., 229 F. 872. 144 C. C. A. 154.

The granting of an interlocutory injunction is within the sound discretion of the trial court. Crane v. Johnson (D. C.) 233 F. 334.

Along with fixed rules of law. as to issuance of preliminary injunction. it is essential that court exercise sound discretion in view of attendant facts and conditions. American Smelting & Refining Co. v. Bunker Hill & Sullivan Mining & Concentrating Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 172.

108. Affidavits for injunction.—An injunction pendente lite will not be granted on averments on information and belief that the defendant was guilty of fraud. National Circle, Daughters of Isabella, v. National Order of the Daughters of Isabella (D. C.) 232 F. 907.

109. Use and effect of answer.—Where an answer under oath, denying the equities of a bill, is filed, a temporary injunction cannot be granted on the bill, for the sworn answer is evidence on behalf of the defendant, and rebuts the allegations contained in the bill. Water Co. of Tonopah v. Public Service Commission of Nevada (D. C.) 250 F. 304.

110. Counter affidavits and other evidence.—The operation of an order of a governing body charged with the duty of fixing water rates for municipal corporations should not be suspended by the issuance of a temporary injunction, unless complainant furnishes substantial evidence that the rate fixed is confiscatory. Water Co. of Tonopah v. Public Service Commission of Nevada (D. C.) 250 F. 304.

115. Orders on application.—Order granting a preliminary injunction restraining enforcement of judgment issued in suit to secure set-off of cross-claim construed, and held not adjudication of right of set-off, but to remain in force until the judgment on the cross-claim became final. J. L. Owens Co. v. Officer, 244 F. 47, 156 C. C. A. 475.

An order granting a preliminary injunction, when clear and unambiguous, cannot be narrowed or broadened by the terms of the writ or supporting bond. Id.

A temporary restraining order, made on application for a temporary injunction in any suit pending, is not a final determination, which renders the issues involved res judicata. Santowsky v. McKey, 249 F. 51, 161 C. C. A. 111.

(B) Continuing, modifying, or dissolving

117. Discretion of court.—The granting or dissolution of an interlocutory injunction rests in the sound discretion of the court, which may take into consideration the relative damage which the respective parties will sustain if it be granted or refused. Kemmerer v. Midland Oil & Drilling Co., 229 F. 872, 144 C. C. A. 154.

The granting or dissolution of an interlocutory injunction rests in the sound judicial discretion of the court of original jurisdiction. Lion Tractor Co. v. Bull Tractor Co., 231 F. 156, 145 C. C. A. 344.

118. Ground for continuing injunction.—A telegraph company, which maintained interstate lines on a railroad right of way, terminated its agreement with the railroad company and sought to condemn easements in the several states, but condemnation was refused in Alabama. Held, that the federal court for Kentucky, which had enjoined the railroad company from interfering with the existing lines pending condemnation, will not continue the injunction as to the Alabama lines, particularly where the courts of that state granted an injunction covering telegraph lines on that part of the right of way wherein the telegraph company asserted an existing easement. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 29.

VI. JUDGMENTS OR ORDERS, VIOLATIONS THEREOF, AND LIABILITIES ON BONDS IN PROCEEDINGS

125. Final judgment, order, or decree.—Railway company securing injunction restraining enforcement of state rate-making law as confiscatory cannot avoid final decree of dismissal as an estoppel in subsequent suit by the state to recover excess passenger fares by asserting that as the state was not a party to the prior suit the injunction did not operate against the rate-making power so far as the state was concerned. State of Missouri v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 36 S. Ct. 715, 241 U. S. 533, 60 L. Ed. 1148.

Dismissal of bill seeking to enjoin enforcement of railway rates fixed by state as confiscatory should be without prejudice to another suit, if after fair test they are found confiscatory. Darnell v. Edwards, 37 S. Ct. 701, 244 U. S. 564, 61 L. Ed. 1317, modifying decree (D. C.) 209 F. 99.

In injunction suit by the United States to restrain its contractor for the manufacture of torpedoes from exhibiting devices furnished by the United States, decree should not include devices not used in the existing torpedo, where the contractor does not display disposition to violate its trust, but the exclusion, should be without prejudice to the government's right to obtain injunction against disclosure on proof of intention to use them. E. W. Bliss Co. v. U. S., 39 S. Ct. 42, 63 L. Ed. —.

A suit to enjoin and restrain a continuation of a trespass, and to prevent waste, begun by the true owner, who was out of possession, cannot be treated and made to serve a purpose of one to remove the cloud from title. U. S. v. Brookshire Oil Co. (D. C.) 242 F. 718.

Court of equity, upon denial of injunctive relief, held not authorized to effect an equitable condemnation of an easement for a telegraph company's lines over a railroad right of way. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 687.

127. Violation of orders and punishment therefor.—See Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Frank (C. C. A.) 230 F. 988.

Defendant held guilty of contempt in violating an injunction against strikers which prohibited interference with employés. Oates v. U. S., 233 F. 201, 147 C. C. A. 207.

In contempt proceeding against defendant in water rights suit for violation of final decree therein, question whether party not a defendant, who transferred to defendant his right to irrigate, had no such right, so that defendant, his successor, received none, could not be tried. Hanley v. Pacific Live Stock Co., 234 F. 522, 148 C. C. A. 288.

Where river, on which lay lands involved in water rights suit, had been subject to overflows, defendant, for permitting its water to flow as it was wont, or from draining his land by a ditch when necessary, could not be held in contempt for violation of the decree enjoining him from impeding the flow of the river as it was wont. Id.

Where decree in water rights suit provided that defendant should have use of so much water as might run out of a river through overflow of its banks without obstruction, defendant was not guilty of contempt for permitting an overflow which he did no act to induce, but endeavored to prevent by closing gaps. Id.

Defendant in water rights suit held not guilty of willful contempt, though negligent in permitting board and brush at his dam to obstruct flow of river for three weeks, until notified of fact. Id.

While dismissal of bill and temporary injunction will not relieve those who violated temporary injunction from effects of their disobedience, or purge their contempt, it may be considered in determining equities. Shuler v. Raton Waterworks Co., 247 F. 634, 160 C. C. A. 44.

Where, at suit of waterworks company in federal court, municipality was temporarily restrained from supplying water to inhabitants, and it enacted ordinance vacating franchise of waterworks company and began suit in state court, held that officials and attorneys participating in enactment of ordinance should not be adjudged guilty of contempt in violating spirit of order. Id.

128. Liabilities on bonds or undertakings.—Where, pending appeal from order enjoining mortgage foreclosure sale under statutory proceedings in state court, settlement of question involved was effected, appellants cannot, appeal being dismissed, assert any rights for damages or costs on injunction bond. Clark v. Fairbanks, 249 F. 431, 161 C. C. A. 405.

§ 1242. (Jud. Code, § 265.) Injunctions to stay proceedings in State courts.

1. Construction of provision in general.—This section was intended to give the force of positive law to the rules of comity between such tribunals and to preserve the independence of each, and extends not only to orders of the federal court, directly restraining proceedings of the federal court, but to all orders of the state court which necessarily have that effect. Amusement Syndicate Co. v. El Paso Land Improvement Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 345.

A suit by the Director General of Railroads to enjoin sale of land owned by a railroad under execution issued on a judgment of a state court, on the theory that, having taken possession of the same, it was exempt from process under act of March 21, 1918, post, § 3115¾j, is a suit of a civil nature arising under the laws of the United States, etc., of which the federal District Court has jurisdiction, for it must be deemed that Act March 21, 1918, modified this section. United States Railroad Administration v. Burch (D. C.) 254 F. 140.

This section should be given such an interpretation as will effectuate its obvious purpose of preventing unseemly conflict between state and federal courts. Hyattsville Building Ass'n v. Bouic, 44 App. D. C. 408.

1½. —— Courts of United States.—The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia is a court of the United States within the meaning of this section. Hyattsville Building Ass'n v. Bouic, 44 App. D. C. 408.

3. —— Proceedings in court.—This section applies to the entire proceedings in a state court, and to injunctions directed to parties engaged in proceedings in the state court, so that, where, in a suit by a trustee holding the legal title to land to compel defendant to remove structures, the state court issued an injunction restraining the trustee from interfering with such structures, the federal court cannot on a suit by the beneficiary of the trust, issue an injunction compelling defendant to remove. Amusement Syndicate Co. v. El Paso Land Improvement Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 345.

A foreclosure proceeding in Maryland by mortgagee of land in that state, under article 66, Code Pub. Civ. Laws Md., which provides, among other things, that a sale under a power of sale in a mortgage can only be made after the giving of a bond approved by the judge or clerk of a court of equity, and must be reported to the court, whereupon there shall be the same proceeding on such report as if the sale were made by a trustee under decree of the court, and that the court has power to hear and determine any objections to a sale by any parties interested, and to confirm or set aside the sale, is a proceeding in a court of a state, which a United States court is prohibited from staying. Hyattsville Building Ass'n v. Bouic, 44 App. D. C. 408.

6. Prosecution of pending actions.—The federal courts have no authority to stay proceedings in the state courts, while they are in progress and before they are concluded by the final judgment or decree, save in the aid of bankruptcy proceedings or their own previously acquired jurisdiction. Smith v. Jennings, 238 F. 48, 151 C. C. A. 124, reversing order Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 232 F. 921.

One against whom numerous suits were begun in state court cannot maintain a bill in federal court to restrain multiplicity of suits, on the ground that the venue of the state court was hostile to him, but, if entitled to protection on that ground, must seek it in the state court. Robinson v. Wemmer (D. C.) 253 F. 790.

7. Effect of prior acquisition of jurisdiction by federal court.—Where a federal court first obtains jurisdiction of the subject-matter in controversy, it may enjoin all proceedings in a state court, commenced afterward, which would have the effect of defeating or impairing its jurisdiction, or the lawful effect of its orders or decrees, or titles which it has made in the exercise of that jurisdiction. Looney v. Eastern Texas R. Co., 38 S. Ct. 460, 247 U. S. 214, 62 L. Ed. 1084, dismissing appeal Eastern Texas R. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas (D. C.) 242 F. 300; Swift v. Black Panther Oil & Gas Co., 244 F. 20, 156 C. C. A. 448; Sherman Nat. Bank of New York v. Shubert Theatrical Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 225; St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. McElvain (D. C.) 253 F. 123.

A federal District Court could not, after its decree enjoining enforcement of rates fixed by a state for intrastate traffic on interstate railway and restraining suits for overcharges had been reversed by Supreme Court, prevent persons not parties to suit from suing in state courts to recover such overcharges. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. McKnight, 37 S. Ct. 611, 244 U. S. 368, 61 L. Ed. 1200, affirming decree Bellamy v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co., 220 F. 876, 136 C. C. A. 442.

A federal court will restrain proceedings in a state court only to enforce its decree or judgment or to protect its jurisdiction already acquired before the proceedings in the state court were begun. Waldo v. Wilson, 231 F. 654, 145 C. C. A. 540, reversing decree Wilson v. Waldo (D. C.) 221 F. 505 and certiorari denied Id., 36 S. Ct. 724, 241 U. S. 673, 60 L. Ed. 1231.

It is no defense to a dependent injunction suit to prevent the nullification or impairment of the just legal effect of the adjudication, decree, or sale made by order of a federal court, or the title to property granted thereunder, that the defendant proposes to do so by means of a subsequent action at law and the trial by a jury of the issues already adjudged by such court. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. McElvain (D. C.) 253 F. 123.

8. Enforcement of judgment, or sale under execution or attachment.—The federal courts, by virtue of their general equity powers, have jurisdiction to enjoin the enforcement of a judgment in the state courts upon the usual principles under which a court of equity will enjoin enforcement of a judgment. United States Railroad Administration v. Burch (D. C.) 254 F. 140.

10. Proceedings after removal of cause to federal court.—Nonresident defendant may, its petition for removal having been denied, file transcript in federal court, and, it appearing that joinder of resident as defendant was fraudulent and that declaration did not state cause of action against both, secure order enjoining further proceedings in state court. Baker v. Jacksonville Traction Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 718.

Where defendant's filing of a petition for removal of cause to federal court and tender of bond effectually removed it though the state court declined to order removal, the federal court may protect its jurisdiction by injunction restraining plaintiffs and their attorneys from further prosecuting the action in the state court. Muir v. Louisville & N. R. Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 888.

11. Enforcement of state statutes.—See, also, notes under § 1243.

While federal courts may enjoin proceedings by state officials under act violative of federal Constitution, it should not be done, except in a case reasonably free from doubt, and when necessary to prevent great and irreparable injury. Cavanaugh v. Looney, 39 S. Ct. 142.

The fact that a state statute can be enforced only by criminal prosecutions does not defeat the jurisdiction of equity to enjoin unlawful interference with property rights by unauthorized criminal proceedings under the statute. Weyman-Bruton Co. v. Ladd, 231 F. 898, 146 C. C. A. 94.

One convicted of violating a state school law, after opportunity to present his defense, cannot maintain suit in a federal court to enjoin proceedings for subsequent violation, on theory that state decisions were erroneous and denied due process of law, in violation of Const. Amend. 14. Gillen v. Board of Public Education of City of Philadelphia (D. C.) 250 F. 649.

12. Enforcement of ordinances.—In suit to enjoin enforcement of an ordinance, where it was admitted that it could not and would not be enforced except through judicial proceedings, the decree will be modified to exclude finding as to validity of franchises and limit relief to injunction against enforcement otherwise than by court proceedings, and against the claim that continued operation of cars pending final adjudication amounted to acceptance of ordinance. City of Cincinnati v. Cincinnati & Hamilton Traction Co., 38 S. Ct. 153, 245 U. S. 446, 62 L. Ed. 389.

13. Interference with receivers.—A federal court, which first obtained jurisdiction over land having oil leases thereon, under which its receiver was receiving the royalties, has power by injunction to restrain enforcement of a judgment for royalties obtained against the lessee in a state court. Swift v. Black Panther Oil & Gas Co., 244 F. 20, 156 C. C. A. 448.

A federal court, which by its receiver had taken possession of land in foreclosure, can enjoin the prosecution by third persons in a state court of a suit to enforce an alleged prior lien. Oppenheimer v. San Antonio Land & Irrigation Co., 246 F. 934, 159 C. C. A. 206.

A federal court, having appointed a receiver of a railroad company, may, in aid of its own jurisdiction, enjoin proceedings against the company in state courts. Jackson v. Parkersburg & O. V. Electric Ry. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 784.

15. Assessment or collection of taxes.—Discriminatory taxation, contravening the state Constitution, may be redressed by injunction in federal courts, when discrimination results from actions by different assessing boards, whose assessments are not subject to any process established by state. Greene v. Louisville & I. R. Co., 37 S. Ct. 673, 244 U. S. 499, 61 L. Ed. 1280, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 88.

State as well as franchise taxes based on assessment of intangible property of public service corporation may be enjoined by federal court for discrimination arising out of systematic undervaluation of other taxable property. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Greene, 37 S. Ct. 683, 244 U. S. 522, 61 L. Ed. 1291, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 97, modifying decree Same v. Bosworth (D. C.) 230 F. 191; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Same, 37 S. Ct. 697, 244 U. S. 555, 61 L. Ed. 1309, affirming decree Same v. Bosworth (D. C.) 209 F. 465.

17. Criminal proceedings.—A federal court cannot enjoin a multiplicity of prosecutions, under a valid state statute prohibiting traffic in intoxicating liquor, for traffic in liquor claimed to be nonintoxicating. Central Consumers' Co. of New Jersey v. Austin (D. C.) 238 F. 616. See, also, Gillen v. Board of Public Education of City of Philadelphia (D. C.) 250 F. 649.

22. Bankruptcy proceedings.—See Pollack v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. (C. C. A.) 233 F. 861.

Bankruptcy court can enjoin insolvency proceedings pending in state courts within four months after their commencement. Ohio Motor Car Co. v. Eiseman Magneto Co., 230 F. 370, 144 C. C. A. 512, certiorari denied National Carbon Co. v. Ohio Motor Car Co., 36 S. Ct. 724, 241 U. S. 673, 60 L. Ed. 1231.

Cited without definite application, Davis v. Hayden (C. C. A.) 238 F. 734.

§ 1243. (Jud. Code, § 266, as amended, Act March 4, 1913, c. 160.) Injunctions based upon alleged unconstitutionality of State statutes.

Construction in general.—A District Judge is without jurisdiction of application for interlocutory injunction against state commissioner of agriculture acting under state statute alleged to be unconstitutional without calling in two other judges and giving notice to the Governor and Attorney General, and no appeal will lie from an order denying injunction on the merits where this section was not complied with. Crescent Mfg. Co. v. Wilson, 242 F. 462, 155 C. C. A. 238, dismissing appeal (D. C.) 233 F. 282.

Determination of validity of statute.—The federal District Court, composed, under statutory requirements of judge of the District Court, judge of another district, and a Circuit Judge, is not, on application for an interlocutory injunction against enforcement of a state statute, called upon to decide the merits of the case. Crane v. Johnson (D. C.) 233 F. 334.

A federal court, organized pursuant to this section, will not, on an application for a preliminary injunction, undertake to determine the validity of a state statute under the state Constitution. Jackson v. Cravens (D. C.) 235 F. 212, appeal dismissed (C. C. A.) 238 F. 117; Cook v. Burnquist (D. C.) 242 F. 321.

On application to three judges for temporary injunction against enforcement of state railroad rates so far as in conflict with order of Interstate Commerce Commission, held, that it was not necessary to pass upon the merits. Eastern Texas R. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas (D. C.) 242 F. 300.

The court may prevent a breach of contract by city in reducing rates; it may hold a statute unconstitutional, as confiscatory, if a proceeding is brought under this section; but it cannot abrogate a contract by holding unconstitutional the law under which the contract was made, and thereupon enlarging the terms of the contract, in order to avoid the consequences of ceasing to act under the contract. Nor should the court order its receivers to treat the public unequally by allowing them to collect an excess fare from those passengers who do not refuse to pay. Gas & Electric Securities Co. v. Manhattan & Queens Traction Corp. (D. C.) 253 F. 453.

Acts of state officers.—The threatened enforcement by state officers, of a statute attacked as repugnant to the federal Constitution may be enjoined by a federal court, where the statute, if exerted against complainants, will produce irreparable injury. Rast v. Van Deman & Lewis Co., 36 S. Ct. 370, 240 U. S. 342, 60 L. Ed. 679, reversing order Van Deman & Lewis Co. v. Rast (D. C.) 214 F. 827; Tanner v. Little, 36 S. Ct. 379, 240 U. S. 369, 60 L. Ed. 691, reversing decree Little v. Tanner (D. C.) 208 F. 605; Pitney v. State of Washington, 36 S. Ct. 385, 240 U. S. 387, 60 L. Ed. 703; Crane v. Johnson (D. C.) 233 F. 334. See, also, Hebe Co. v. Calvert (D. C.) 246 F. 711.

Enforcement of rate regulations and orders of commissions.—See Landon v. Public Utilities Commission of State of Kansas (D. C.) 242 F. 658.

A preliminary injunction, suspending the enforcement of a state statute fixing railroad rates, refused where the statute had been in force for a number of years, and it appeared that the case could be heard on its merits within a very short time. Ann Arbor R. Co. v. Fellows (D. C.) 236 F. 387.

Freight charges collected in excess of Rev. St. Mo. 1909, §§ 3241, 3242, prescribing maximum freight rates, may be recovered after dissolution of the federal injunction against the statute's enforcement. White v. Delano, 191 S. W. 1012, 270 Mo. 16.

Appeals to Supreme Court.—The federal Supreme Court, on appeal from District Court to review denial, on hearing before three judges, of interlocutory injunction to restrain enforcement of order of state Public Service Commission as repugnant to federal Constitution, has jurisdiction to review entire case. Van Dyke v. Geary, 37 S. Ct. 483, 244 U. S. 39, 61 L. Ed. 973, affirming order (D. C.) 218 F. 111.

Where, despite temporary injunction issued by federal District Court restraining him from instituting suits against carriers to enforce state rates in conflict wth those prescribed by Interstate Commerce Commission, Attorney General for Texas began suit in state court, a second injunction restraining prosecution must be deemed in aid of District Court's jurisdiction, and so is not appealable under this section, on theory that it was issued on ground state statutes were unconstitutional. Looney v. Eastern Texas R. Co., 38 S. Ct. 460, 247 U. S. 214, 62 L. Ed. 1084, dismissing appeal Eastern Texas R. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas (D. C.) 242 F. 300.

A litigant denied temporary injunction by the court, where the District Judge had called to his assistance a Circuit Judge and another District Judge, must appeal to the Supreme Court, and cannot, under section 129, Comp. St. 1916, § 1121, appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals. Jackson v. Cravens, 238 F. 117, 151 C. C. A. 193, dismissing appeal (D. C.) 235 F. 212.

Cited without definite application, Cavanaugh v. Looney, 39 S. Ct. 142; Copper Queen Consol. Min. Co. v. Jones (D. C.) 237 F. 131; Kansas City, C. C. & St. J. Ry. Co. v. Barker (D. C.) 242 F. 310; St. Joseph Gas Co. v. Barker (D. C.) 243 F. 206; Brooklyn Heights R. Co. v. Straus (D. C.) 245 F. 132.

§ 1243a. (Act Oct. 15, 1914, c. 323, § 17.) Preliminary injunctions and temporary restraining orders.

Applicability.—See Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum v. Hobart, 244 Fed. 385, 157 C. C. A. 11.

§ 1243b. (Act Oct. 15, 1914, c. 323, § 18.) Security upon issue of restraining order or interlocutory order of injunction.

Restraining order to protect jurisdiction.—This section does not apply to a restraining order issued to prevent the impairment or the exercise of the court's jurisdiction or the enforcement of its orders. Swift v. Black Panther Oil & Gas Co., 244 F. 20, 156 C. C. A. 448.

§ 1243c. (Act Oct. 15, 1914, c. 323, § 19.) Requisites and effect of injunction or restraining order.

Persons affected by injunction.—In suit against officers of labor unions, personal relief by injunction against persons who, pending the suit, succeeded the original parties as officers held erroneous; the suit not being a representative one within equity rule 38 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2513). Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell, 38 S. Ct. 65, 245 U. S. 229, 62 L. Ed. 260, L. R. A. 1918C, 497, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 461, reversing decree Mitchell v. Hitchman

Coal & Coke Co., 214 F. 685, 131 C. C. A. 425, which reversed decree Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell (D. C.) 202 F. 512. Mandate stayed 38 S. Ct. 190.

§ 1243d. (Act Oct. 15, 1914, c. 323, § 20.) Restraining orders or injunctions in cases between employers and employés.

Suits arising prior to act.—See Paine Lumber Co. v. Neal, 37 S. Ct. 718, 61 L. Ed. 1256; Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell, 38 S. Ct. 65, 245 U. S. 229, 62 L. Ed. 260, L. R. A. 1918C, 497, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 461, reversing decree Mitchell v. Hitchman Coal & Coke Co., 214 F. 685, 131 C. C. A. 425, which reversed decree Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell (D. C.) 202 F. 512, mandate stayed 38 S. Ct. 190; Eagle Glass & Mfg. Co. v. Rowe, 38 S. Ct. 80, 245 U. S. 275, 62 L. Ed. 286, reversing decree Hill v. Eagle Glass & Mfg. Co., 219 F. 719, 135 C. C. A. 417.

Effect of statute.—This section legalizes a secondary boycott, at least in so far as it rests on or consists of refusing to work for any one who deals with principal offender. Duplex Printing Press Co. v. Deering (C. C. A.) 252 F. 722.

This section does not legalize any act which was previously unlawful. Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. v. Retail Clerks' International Protective Ass'n, Local No. 424 (D. C.) 250 F. 890.

Unlawful acts.—Under Interstate Commerce Act, § 3 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8565), and section 10 as amended by Act March 2, 1889, § 2 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8574), and despite this section, striking members of labor union will be enjoined from interfering with complainant's transportation business by violence, etc., complainant being a common carrier, and also a carrier of the mails, though strikers may peaceably persuade complainant's employés to leave its service, etc. Alaska S. S. Co. v. International Longshoremen's Ass'n of Puget Sound (D. C.) 236 F. 964.

Temporary injunction to protect property of street railroad company from strikers held properly denied, it not appearing defendants were destroying property, etc. Puget Sound Traction, Light & Power Co. v. Whitley (D. C.) 243 F. 945.

Members of a union and the union itself are properly enjoined, on suit by one to whom their employer was under contract to deliver machines, where such union laborers by unlawful violence, etc., prevented other employés from working, thus precluding delivery of machines. Niles-Bement-Pond Co. v. Iron Molders' Union, Local No. 68 (D. C.) 246 F. 851.

Evidence held insufficient to warrant the granting of an injunction to restrain acts of officers of a labor organization under this act. Duplex Printing Press Co. v. Deering (D. C.) 247 F. 192, decree affirmed (C. C. A.) 252 F. 722.

The action of employés of a company conducting 140 retail grocery stores in St. Louis, in going on a strike at a time when they knew it would necessitate the closing for the time of a majority of the stores, and would result in the loss of a large quantity of perishable foodstuffs (which in fact amounted to $36,000 in value), in afterward entering the stores and using opprobrious epithets and threatening language to the employés, and in congregating in numbers in front of the stores and using harsh, offensive, and insulting language to customers and intending customers, many of whom were women and children, to enforce a boycott, held unlawful, and to authorize a federal court to grant an injunction, under this section, on the ground that it was "necessary to prevent irreparable injury to property, or to a property right," of the employer, and also because such acts were in violation of the Food Conservation Act Aug. 10, 1917, c. 53, § 4, which makes it unlawful "knowingly to commit waste or willfully to permit preventable deterioration of any necessaries in or in connection with their production, manufacture, or distribution," or to conspire or combine "to restrict distribution of any necessaries." Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. v. Retail Clerks' International Protective Ass'n (D. C.) 250 F. 890.

—— Strike for closed shop.—Where union employés of open shop go out on strike for closed shop, employer's action for injunction against officers and members of union organizations to which strikers belong is within this section. Duplex Printing Press Co. v. Deering (C. C. A.) 252 F. 722.

Parties affected by injunction.—A decree in a strike suit enjoining defendants "and all other persons whatsoever who may have acquired notice, information, or knowledge of this judgment" from interfering by threats, violence, or intimidation with complainant's employés binds persons having notice who, although not parties, were in privity with the defendants, but persons not parties nor privies, who ten years later took part in another and unrelated strike as members of the same labor union are not amenable to such decree, although served with notice. Tosh v. West Kentucky Coal Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 44.

All members of a trade union held responsible, and subject to injunction, restraining unlawful acts of some of the members, which they approved. Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. v. Retail Clerks' International Protective Ass'n, Local No. 424 (D. C.) 250 F. 890.

§ 1244. (Jud. Code, § 267.) When suits in equity may be maintained.

I. NATURE AND EXTENT OF EQUITY JURISDICTION

3. Distinction between law and equity maintained.—Equity has jurisdiction to administer common-law remedies only as incidental to some equity. Blue Ridge Electric Co. v. American Bank Note Co., 237 F. 755, 150 C. C. A. 509, reversing decree American Bank Note Co. v. Blue Ridge Electric Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 911.

Jurisdiction at law and in equity are as separate in the federal courts as though administered by different tribunals. Forty Fort Coal Co. v. Kirkendall (D. C.) 233 F. 704.

The distinction between law and equity is substantial and not technical. John A. Roebling's Sons Co. v. Kinnicutt (D. C.) 248 F. 596.

4. —— Equitable defenses not available at law.—See post, § 1251b, and notes.

While an "estoppel in pais" is called an equitable estoppel, it is a legal estoppel as well, and is not treated as a distinctively equitable defense, and can be pleaded in a law case; and hence the existence of such estoppels furnished no ground for a suit in equity to enjoin an action of ejectment and take over the litigation. Weber v. Hertzell (C. C. A.) 230 F. 965.

5. Ancillary jurisdiction.—Federal court of equity is not without jurisdiction on ground of existence of adequate remedy at law to render summary judgment under local law against sureties on appeal bond, where decree has been affirmed. Pease v. Rathbun-Jones Engineering Co., 37 S. Ct. 283, 243 U. S. 273, 61 L. Ed. 715, affirming decree 228 F. 273, 142 C. C. A. 565.

In suit to set aside assignment by corporation and determine validity of bonds in which all parties asked such determination, court, having obtained jurisdiction and control through appointment of receiver, held empowered to determine rights of parties. Williamson v. Collins, 243 F. 835, 156 C. C. A. 347.

As an incident to a suit to have a deed declared a mortgage, court of equity has jurisdiction to declare an accounting for the profits received from the property. Bolin v. Wilkes, 249 F. 705, 161 C. C. A. 615.

6. Retention of jurisdiction.—Defendants cannot defeat a partition suit because complainants asserted that their right to a leasehold in the property had been lost by noncompliance with covenants; equity having jurisdiction would dispose of the question of forfeiture. Towle v. Pullen, 238 F. 107, 151 C. C. A. 183.

Under this section, a court of equity, after denial of injunction, which was the only equitable relief sought, has no jurisdiction to proceed with cause for purpose of awarding damages to complainant. American Falls Milling Co. v. Standard Brokerage & Distributing Co., 248 F. 487, 160 C. C. A. 497.

Where federal District Court had jurisdiction of subject-matter warranting appointment of receiver of embarrassed corporation, it had authority to decide all questions arising therein, and its rulings could be questioned only by those properly parties. Scattergood v. American Pipe & Construction Co., 249 F. 23, 161 C. C. A. 83, certiorari granted Hitchcock v. Scattergood, 38 S. Ct. 583, 247 U. S. 516, 62 L. Ed. 1244.

A court of equity, having obtained jurisdiction of a suit wherein cancellation of contract of sale was sought, will retain the jurisdiction to dispose of all controversies between the parties arising out of the transaction. Fay v. Hill, 249 F. 415, 161 C. C. A. 389.

Equity having jurisdiction of suit to cancel contract between complainant and defendant, giving defendant percentage of profits which were expected to result from complainant's acquisition of a leasehold, in which transaction defendant was interested, on ground that defendant concealed a profit received from the owner, may, for purpose of doing complete justice between the parties, decree a recovery of the sum concealed by defendant. Reid v. Shaffer, 249 F. 553, 161 C. C. A. 479.

When court of equity obtains jurisdiction for equitable purposes, it will retain it to give full relief, whether legal or equitable, as to all purposes relating to subject-matter of bill. U. S. v. Ash Sheep Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 592.

Where the main ground of equitable jurisdiction is also the main object of the suit, as injunctive relief, and this object fails for want of proof, the case will not be retained to decide an incidental question of law. Munger Laundry Co. v. National Marking Mach. Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 144.

Where creditors filed their claims in a proceeding to wind up a partnership, the court of equity, which necessarily determines the validity and extent of the claims for the purpose of devoting any partnership assets to the payment thereof before distribution, will not remit claimants to another tribunal for full relief, if the partnership assets are deficient, but will give personal judgment against the partners for the deficiency. Lackner v. McKechney (C. C. A.) 252 F. 403.

A court of equity, having jurisdiction of a suit by a divorced wife to recover her interest in the community property, will retain jurisdiction of the proceeding to do complete justice; other parties having intervened and set up their claims to such property, and the husband having died. Johnson v. Garner (D. C.) 233 F. 756.

The rule that a court of equity, taking jurisdiction of a controversy for one purpose, will dispose of all such matters in controversy, so as to render complete relief, does not mean that it will pass on claims based on a different matter, asserted in a different capacity and entirely unrelated to the subject of the primary equity. Old Dominion Trust Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Oxford, N. C. (D. C.) 252 F. 613. And see Ingersoll v. Doyle (D. C.) 247 F. 620.

Where a trust has been created as part of the consideration entering into contract, and one of the parties to whom its execution has been intrusted is fraudulently dissipating the fund expressly created to secure the faithful performance of the contract, the other party may invoke relief in equity to prevent the continuation of the fraud; and where equity thus takes jurisdiction it has jurisdiction for all purposes. Hight v. Richmond Park Imp. Co., 47 App. D. C. 518.

II. REMEDY AT LAW AS BAR TO EQUITY JURISDICTION

9. Adequacy of legal remedy.—See Special School Dist. of Ashdown, Ark., v. Jones (C. C. A.) 250 F. 440; Consolidated Fuel Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas (C. C. A.) 250 F. 395; Destructor Co. v. City of Atlanta (D. C.) 232 F. 746.

If remedy at law be doubtful, a court of equity will not decline cognizance of suit on account of existence of legal remedy. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Board of Com'rs of Weld County, Colo., 38 S. Ct. 510, 247 U. S. 282, 62 L. Ed. 1110, reversing decree. 222 F. 651, 138 C. C. A. 175, which denies rehearing 217 F. 540, 133 C. C. A. 392.

The mere fact that a defendant cannot be compelled to pay a judgment at law cannot make the plaintiff's remedy there inadequate, or his injury irreparable, in such sense as to give a federal court of equity jurisdiction. Willis v. O'Connell (D. C.) 231 F. 1004.

To defeat the jurisdiction of equity on the ground of an adequate remedy at law, the remedy at law must be as complete, practical, and efficient to the ends of justice and its prompt administration as a remedy in equity. Wright v. Barnard (D. C.) 233 F. 329; Fredenberg v. Whitney (D. C.) 240 F. 819; St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. McElvain (D. C.) 253 F. 123.

A legal remedy, to be adequate and to exclude the jurisdiction of equity, must be a remedy which the party himself controls and can assert at the moment. Fredenberg v. Whitney (D. C.) 240 F. 819.

10. Constitutional right to jury trial.—See Parkerson v. Borst (C. C. A.) 251 F. 242.

12. Effect of state remedial laws.—Provisions of Constitution or statutes of a state cannot enlarge jurisdiction of a federal court of equity, as restricted by this section. McLaughlin v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., 232 F. 579, 146 C. C. A. 537, certiorari denied St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. McLaughlin, 36 S. Ct. 727, 60 L. Ed. 1233.

Despite this section, the several states cannot, save in so far as federal courts apply their remedies, restrict equitable jurisdiction of federal courts, which, unless abridged by Congress, is coextensive with that of English Court of Chancery at time of Revolution. Nevada-California Power Co. v. Hamilton (D. C.) 235 F. 317.

An adequate remedy at law, which can be administered only in a state court, is not sufficient to compel a federal court to dismiss an equitable cause over which its jurisdiction is complete, and relegate the complainant for his only alternative relief to a state court. Id.

17. Mandamus as remedy.—Where a telephone company's service was being interrupted during a strike by acts of unknown individuals, the remedy of subscribers by mandamus to compel a restoration of the service is not sufficiently speedy, and is inadequate. Stephens v. Ohio State Telephone Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 759.

18. Multiplicity of suits.—Collection of taxes on property claimed to be exempt will not be enjoined, on ground that it would avoid multiplicity of suits, for it will be assumed that tax officers will act in a practical way, and taxes for one year, being defeated, will not subsequently assert rights of taxation. City Council of Augusta, Ga., v. Timmerman, 233 F. 216, 147 C. C. A. 222, affirming decree City Council of Augusta v. Same (D. C.) 227 F. 171.

The legal remedy of each one of a large number of telephone subscribers for the interruption of the service for which he contracted does not, under Judicial Code, § 267, prevent a suit in equity by several subscribers on behalf of all to compel a restoration of the service. Stephens v. Ohio State Telephone Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 759.

Plaintiff, suing to enjoin suit on note and to have same canceled, together with contract alleged to have been obtained through fraud, held not entitled to maintain suit in equity on ground of multiplicity of causes of action. Bronson v. Cook (D. C.) 247 F. 601.

It is no conspiracy for two or more persons, each having a separate and independent cause of action against a third, to agree that they will simultaneously, by independent and separate suits proceed against their adversary, for there is no other way in which they could individually make their contentions than by separate suit; hence, though such persons so agreed and employed the same attorney, it is no ground for equitable relief in favor of the person sued. Robinson v. Wemmer (D. C.) 253 F. 790.

A bill "quia timet" is very limited, and goes to protect an existing possession which has been already established once after an attack at law, and which is again threatened, thereby threatening such a multiplicity of suits as equity will recognize. Pell v. McCabe (D. C.) 254 F. 356.

The fact that a comprehensive and adequate decree may be entered covering the whole controversy between the parties, and a multiplicity of suits thereby avoided, will justify a court of equity taking jurisdiction of the controversy. Royal Trust Co. of Montreal v. Gardiner, 44 App. D. C. 570.

III. INSTANCES OF ADEQUACY OF REMEDIES

19. Accounting.—Equity held to have jurisdiction of a suit on the bonds of an insolvent contractor to recover for materials furnished; other creditors being interested and a complicated accounting being necessary. Dewey Portland Cement Co. v. Texas Bldg. Co., 234 F. 622, 148 C. C. A. 388.

20. Administration of estates of decedents or incompetents.—Where the state law authorized administration by next of kin, or, in their absence, by creditors, and persons not related to or creditors of deceased obtained administration, equity would interpose to protect the endangered rights of citizens of another state. Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 232 F. 921.

26. Breach of contract.—A court of equity held, on the evidence, without jurisdiction to render a money decree against a defendant corporation, based on the claim that defendant had assumed the indebtedness of another corporation, the liability in such case being purely a legal one, and where it further appeared that complainant's claim had never been adjudicated, was disputed by defendant, and that the alleged original debtor was not a party to the suit. Blue Ridge Electric Co. v. American Bank Note Co. (C. C. A.) 237 F. 755.

Merchant's covenant not to sell or permit to be sold on its premises during contract term any other patterns, and not to sell specified patterns except at label prices, being auxiliary to performance of agreements which could not be specifically enforced, could not be enforced by injunction until such relief was shown to be clearly necessary to prevent substantial injustice, in absence of adequate remedy at law. Standard Fashion Co. v. Magrane Houston Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 559.

Where the owner of land, who had granted the timber, together with rights of way for removal, denied the grantee access to the lands, asserting the period for removal had expired without extension, held that, as the grantee's rights had not been determined, equity had jurisdiction to enjoin the owner from denying access, etc., there being no adequate remedy at law. United Timber Co. v. Bivens (D. C.) 253 F. 968.

See, also, Montgomery Traction Co. v. Montgomery Light & Water Power Co., 229 F. 672, 144 C. C. A. 82, affirming decree (D. C.) 219 F. 963.

27. Cancellation of instruments.—While assumpsit is the proper remedy for the recovery of a liquidated sum withheld by one joint adventurer from his associates in the transaction, recourse may be had to equity, where the amount is unliquidated and there is also a prayer for cancellation of the written contract between the parties relating to the transaction. Reid v. Shaffer, 249 F. 553, 161 C. C. A. 479.

Equity has jurisdiction to cancel an instrument which is clearly illegal, but which on its face is valid, and so is capable of a wrongful and vexatious use, where such cancellation is necessary to protection to parties otherwise liable to injury, actual or threatened, from the fact that the instrument is outstanding. General Film Co. v. Sampliner (C. C. A.) 252 F. 443.

Plaintiff is not entitled to maintain suit to cancel note, etc., on ground of fraud, where she could present fraud alleged in action at law. Bronson v. Cook (D. C.) 247 F. 601.

The federal District Court for Virginia may entertain suit on equity side to vacate release of West Virginia judgment, despite this section. Williams v. Miller (D. C.) 249 F. 495.

A bill in equity to set aside an exchange of real estate for fraud of the plaintiff's brokers in effecting the exchange will not be dismissed upon the ground that an action at law would have afforded the plaintiff adequate relief. Bradley v. Davidson, 47 App. D. C. 266.

31. Cloud on title to real estate.—There is a legal presumption that a cloud on the title to real property inflicts such injury upon the persons interested therein as will give a court of equity jurisdiction of a suit for that purpose without proof of other damage. Elder v. Western Mining Co., 237 F. 966, 150 C. C. A. 616.

The general equity rule that a bill to remove cloud from title can only be filed by one in possession does not prevent the maintenance of such a bill by one not in possession, where there are other grounds for equitable relief.

General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160.

32. Conversion.—Bill held not to state a cause of action cognizable in equity, but in effect one for conversion cognizable at law. Parkerson v. Borst (C. C. A.) 251 F. 242.

34. Eminent domain.—Where landowners, seeking injunction to restrain drain construction, failed to ask temporary restraining order, and, pending trial and appeal, the drain was completed, the landowners should be left to their action for damages. Woodlawn Trust & Savings Bank v. Drainage Dist. No. 2 of Dakota County, Neb. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 568.

Court of equity held not the proper tribunal for condemnation of right to maintain telegraph lines on railroad right of way. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. (D. C.) 243 F. 694.

34½. Corporation management.—Suit to charge directors of corporation with personal liability for the corporation's misappropriation of funds held properly brought in equity. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Ehrich (D. C.) 230 F. 1005.

Where there is mismanagement by corporate directors, or premature disposal of corporate property on liquidation, creditors and stockholders liable to be injured thereby will be given relief in equity. Bassett v. Bickford Bros. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 895.

A court of equity held to have power to retain jurisdiction of a suit by minority stockholders to enjoin a consolidation until its effect in actual operation is shown. Simon Borg & Co. v. New Orleans City R. Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 617.

35. Creditors' suit.—A simple contract creditor, who has no lien or security of any kind, and who asserts no right to subject any specific property to the payment of his debt, cannot invoke the aid of equity for the collection of his claim, and is not entitled to have conveyances by his debtors set aside on the theory that they were made to hinder. Gillespie v. Riggs (C. C. A.) 253 F. 943.

Courts of equity have jurisdiction to entertain suits in the nature of creditors' bills for the purpose of administering estates, marshaling assets, and adjusting equities. U. S. v. Minor (C. C. A.) 254 F. 57.

Liability of director of corporation, whose debts exceed subscribed capital stock, in violation of Civ. Code Cal. § 309, held enforceable only in equity. In re La Jolla Lumber & Mill Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 1004.

A suit by corporate creditor against a director of a Montana corporation under Rev. Codes Mont. § 3827, based on the director's incurring debts beyond the prescribed capital stock, is properly brought in equity. Boomer v. Rowe (D. C.) 244 F. 307.

36. Enforcement of decree for payment of money.—Since Comp. St. 1916, § 1608, as to duration of lien of judgments, does not apply to the government, suit will not lie to subject property to judgments, as goverment has complete and adequate remedy by issuance of fi. fa. or execution. U. S. v. Minor (D. C.) 243 F. 953.

Could decree of state court against executor for devastavit be deemed as giving complainant right to appropriation of sureties' property, it would carry with it superior right to satisfaction out of property, and hence suit in federal court to enjoin disposition could not be maintained; complainant already having adequate remedy. Gillispie v. Riggs (D. C.) 248 F. 843.

36¼. Estoppel.—Defense that judgment for defendant, on its defense of champerty in assignment to plaintiff, was equitable estoppel in subsequent action at law against a defendant, who was not a party to the former action, but was in privity with defendant therein, is as available in federal courts in the subsequent action, as in new suit in equity. General Film Co. v. Sampliner (C. C. A.) 252 F. 443.

36½. Forfeiture.—Equity views forfeiture with disfavor, and will only interfere, to work a forfeiture and ascertain damages, where the remedies at law are plainly and substantially inadequate. Semidey v. Central Aguirre Co., 239 F. 610, 152 C. C. A. 444.

36¾. Former adjudication.—The defense of res judicata is as much a defense at law as in equity, and there is no necessity for a preliminary decree in equity establishing such defense. Weber v. Hertzell, 230 F. 965, 145 C. C. A. 159.

The effect of a previous adjudication that the assignment was champertous, made in favor of a party with whom defendant was in privity, at the suit of the same plaintiff, is as available in suit at law as in equity. General Film Co. v. Sampliner (C. C. A.) 252 F. 443.

37. Fraud.—Fraud which enters into the execution of an instrument may be proven in law as well as in equity; and a release, unless a sealed instrument, may be attacked in an action in which it is set up by proof of the fraud. Southern Ry. Co. v. Clark, 233 F. 900, 147 C. C. A. 574.

In an action at law on a contract of subscription to the stock of a corporation, the defense that the subscription was obtained by fraud is open to defendant. Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. Abbot, 247 F. 833, 160 C. C. A. 55, certiorari denied 39 S. Ct. 6.

A suit, in view of pleadings, evidence, and findings, held not one to dissolve a corporation, but one within the power of a court of equity, to re-establish the status prior to fraud. Tevander v. Ruysdael (C. C. A.) 253 F. 918.

A complaint by a bondholder, seeking to foreclose a mortgage given to secure bonds, which alleged that the trustee had refused to act, that the mortgagor was in default, and that the holders of a majority in interest of the bonds had conspired to defraud other bondholders, and apply funds, properly applicable to payment of the bonds, to payment of unsecured indebtedness, held to state a cause of action for equitable relief, notwithstanding the mortgage provided for foreclosure only upon request of a majority of the bondholders. Brown v. Denver Omnibus & Cab Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 560.

Implied or constructive fraud growing out of representations or concealment of or failure to disclose similar facts held sometimes ground for equitable relief without actual or constructive fraud. In re Syracuse Gardens Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 284.

That a judge, fraudulently appointed administrator, resigned his judgeship under promise to be "taken care of," and his successor vacated orders for protection of the estate, enhanced the rights of citizens of other states to equitable relief in a federal court for the protection of their alleged property rights. Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 232 F. 921.

Fraud, to be available as a defense in a legal action, must be fraud in the factum; and, when it is committed in the negotiation, equity is the proper tribunal to grant relief. In re Hunter-Rand Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 175.

Equity held to have jurisdiction, where complainant was defrauded by agreement under which he was employed by corporation and was to receive part of stock, which was to be increased, and which the corporation and its officers failed to carry out. Wright v. Barnard (D. C.) 248 F. 756.

Equity has jurisdiction, on the ground of inadequacy of remedy at law, of suit by government, based on fraud and a trust, and involving an accounting of business for ten years, to impound dividends paid by an oleomargarine manufacturer, since insolvent, to stockholders, its officers, and directors, which but for fraud should have been paid for oleomargarine tax. U. S. v. Capital City Dairy Co. (D. C.) 252 F. 900.

38½. Interpleader.—A suit by a bank to have rights determined in a deposit, claimed by several parties, including itself, held in the nature of a bill of interpleader, and within the equity jurisdiction. Sherman Nat. Bank of New York v. Shubert Theatrical Co., 247 F. 256, 159 C. C. A. 350, affirming order (D. C.) 238 F. 225.

41. Lien.—A bill by a warehouseman claiming a lien on goods cannot be maintained for an injunction against a replevin suit between other parties, since there is an adequate remedy at law by intervention in the replevin case. Sachs v. Kinyoun, 47 App. D. C. 561.

41½. Lost deed.—Court of equity may be invoked by claimant of minerals to establish deed, on which his title depends, lost or destroyed by adversary, to the end that by preserving and recording he may protect himself against bona fide purchaser and show good marketable title. Midkiff v. Colton (C. C. A.) 252 F. 420.

While the mere destruction of a deed will not give equity jurisdiction, yet, where a party in possession of land has by accident lost the evidence of his title, a court of equity has jurisdiction to establish the former existence and contents of the lost document. Virginia & West Virginia Coal Co. v. Charles (D. C.) 251 F. 83.

41¾. Mistake.—Plaintiff, in an action at law, cannot avoid a release signed by him as such for omission of a provision of the contract by mutual mistake; his remedy in such case being in equity. Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins Corp. v. Sperling, 239 F. 715, 152 C. C. A. 549.

42. Money demand.—A suit by government contractor against the government and a subcontractor, whose claimed dereliction caused government to withhold part of final payment, held not within jurisdiction of equity. National Surety Co. v. Washington Iron Works (D. C.) 243 F. 260.

43½. Nonassignability of chose in action.—Nonassignability of cause of action is as available as defense in action at law based on such cause of action as it is available as ground in support of suit in equity to restrain prosecution of such action. General Film Co. v. Sampliner (C. C. A.) 252 F. 443.

44. Nuisance.—A bill in equity by a taxpayer to enjoin the excise board from granting licenses to saloon keepers, filed before the granting of the licenses, but after the board had formally voted to grant them, will not be dismissed on the ground that the plaintiff had an adequate remedy at law by certiorari, where the plaintiff was not a party to the proceedings before the excise board, and it is at last doubtful whether the remedy by certiorari was open to him. Carr v. Washington & O. D. Ry., 44 App. D. C. 533.

48½. Quieting title.—Rule that suit to quiet title can only be brought by one in possession has no application where legal remedy in ejectment is not available. Lancaster v. Kathleen Oil Co., 36 S. Ct. 711, 241 U. S. 551, 60 L. Ed. 1161.

A bill alleging that complainant is the owner of a tract of land, but admitting that defendant railroad company is in the exclusive possession of the entire tract, using the same for railroad purposes, held not to state a cause of action to quiet title. Ennis-Brown Co. v. Central Pac. Ry. Co., 235 F. 825, 149 C. C. A. 137, affirming judgment (D. C.) 228 F. 46.

51. Reformation of instruments.—See Upson Nut Co. v. American Shipbuilding Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 707.

Courts of equity will reform a written contract, where, owing to mutual mistake, the language used did not fully or accurately express the agreement or intention of the parties, and the fact that the interpretation or construction of a contract presents a question of law, and therefore the mistake was one of law, is no bar to relief. Philippine Sugar Estates Development Co. v. Government of Philippine Islands, 38 S. Ct. 513, 247 U. S. 385, 62 L. Ed. 1177.

52. Relief against judgments.—A District Judge did not err in declining to entertain a motion and petition to vacate a judgment on the ground that the moving party had taken a writ of error from the Supreme Court, which was dismissed for want of jurisdiction, and that the time had elapsed within which a writ of error could be taken from the Circuit Court of Appeals, where the judgment was the one the court intended to enter and there were no clerical mistakes, and, treating the petition as a bill in equity, it was not alleged or contended that the petitioner had any equitable defense of which it could not avail itself at law, or a good defense at law of which it was prevented from availing itself by fraud, or accident unmixed with negligence of itself or its agents, as, after the term ended at which it was entered, the judgment passed beyond the control of the court, and errors therein could only be corrected by writ of error or appeal. In re National Telephone Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 785.

A law court has power to set aside release of its judgment, at least when judgment creditor in executing release used a scroll. Williams v. Miller (D. C.) 249 F. 495.

53½. Sale of real property.—Equity has power to order sale of real estate, where it appears that, unless such action is taken, the property will be lost both to life tenant and remainderman, and to extinguish all interests therein, whether vested or contingent. Graff v. Rankin (C. C. A.) 250 F. 150.

54. Specific performance.—Where defendant had contracted to take electrical current from plaintiff, court held not to have exceeded powers, or abused or mistakenly exercised discretion, by enjoining it from taking current from others. Montgomery Traction Co. v. Montgomery Light & Water Power Co., 229 F. 672, 144 C. C. A. 82, affirming decree Montgomery Light & Water Co. v. Montgomery Traction Co. (D. C.) 219 F. 963.

Where it did not appear that damages would be inadequate, specific performance of a contract to convey mining claims to a corporation to be formed, and transfer a percentage of the shares to complainants, will be denied. Ellis v. Treat, 236 F. 120, 149 C. C. A. 330.

Contract by defendant to transport coal in certain vessels for complainant for term of three years held specifically enforceable in equity, where plaintiff's profits were dependent on water transportation, and a sale of the vessels would leave defendant insolvent. Great Lakes & St. Lawrence Transp. Co. v. Scranton Coal Co., 239 F. 603, 152 C. C. A. 437.

Suit to compel railroad company to issue bill of lading for transportation of carload of wheat held not within jurisdiction of federal court of equity because of there being adequate remedy at law. Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Van Dusen Harrington Co., 245 F. 454, 157 C. C. A. 616.

Equity held without jurisdiction of a suit for specific enforcement of a contract for the sale and delivery of coal to a railroad company. Consolidated Fuel Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas (C. C. A.) 250 F. 395.

Where contract provides for giving by defendant of exclusive license to manufacture under a patent, and for plaintiff giving from time to time, as royalties increase, additional security, specific performance by defendant of the agreement should not be decreed, whereby the court assumes protracted supervision of its performance, but only the giving of the license should be ordered. Life Preserver Suit Co. v. National Life Preserver Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 139.

A contract for drainage work held, under the facts shown, specifically enforceable in equity. Board of Com'rs of Mattamuskeet Drainage Dist. v. A. V. Wills & Sons (D. C.) 236 F. 362.

56. Stockholders' rights and liabilities.—Stockholders' liability, under Civ. Code S. D. § 441, cannot be enforced in a federal court by a bill in equity against a number of the stockholders. Clinton Mining & Mineral Co. v. Cochran, 247 F. 449, 159 C. C. A. 503.

Ohio statute (Gen. Code, § 9034) held not to afford an adequate remedy at law, which precluded a stockholder from maintaining a suit in equity to enjoin the corporation from entering into an illegal consolidation. General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160.

57. Taxation.—Equity has jurisdiction of suit to enjoin enforcement of taxes on intangible property of public service corporation on ground of systematic undervaluation of other taxable property. Greene v. Louisville &

I. R. Co., 37 S. Ct. 673, 244 U. S. 499, 61 L. Ed. 1280, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 88.

A federal court of equity held without jurisdiction of a suit to enjoin enforcement of an assessment of benefits made under Road Law Ark. § 13, which provided an adequate remedy at law. McLaughlin v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., 232 F. 579, 146 C. C. A. 537, certiorari denied St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. McLaughlin, 36 S. Ct. 727, 241 U. S. 679, 60 L. Ed. 1233.

As a nonresident owner of property in South Carolina might pursue the remedy given by Civ. Code S. C. 1912, §§ 460–462, in the federal courts, because state could not prevent assertion of such right therein, the remedy was adequate, and collection of taxes levied by South Carolina will not be enjoined, since ordinarily the collection of taxes will not be enjoined, on the ground that the tax is illegal, unless complainant has no adequate legal remedy. City Council of Augusta, Ga., v. Timmerman, 233 F. 216, 147 C. C. A. 222, affirming decree City Council of Augusta v. Same (D. C.) 227 F. 171.

Where, by reason of a reduction of county taxes by the county board of equalization, taxes against a railroad company became discriminatory, held that, under Const. Ark. art. 16, § 13, and Kirby's Dig. § 3966, an injunction against collection will not be issued before application to state tax commission. McDougal v. Mudge, 233 F. 235, 147 C. C. A. 241, reversing order Mudge v. McDougal (D. C.) 222 F. 562.

Act Okl. March 10, 1909 (Comp. Laws 1909, § 7616; Rev. Laws 1910, § 7367; Sess. Laws 1910–11, c. 152), and Okl. March 11, 1915 (Laws 1915, c. 107), afford a plain, speedy, and adequate remedy to property owners complaining of the erroneous assessment of taxes; so, no relief having been sought pursuant to the statutes, the United States, as guardian of Indian allottees, cannot maintain a suit in equity to enjoin sale of allotted lands for delinquent state and county taxes. U. S. v. Board of Com'rs of Osage County, Okl. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 570.

Where a state tax statute makes adequate provision for the testing in the courts of the validity of any tax imposed thereunder, claimed to be in violation of the federal or state Constitution, a federal court will not interfere by injunction to restrain its enforcement. Baldwin Tool Works v. Blue (D. C.) 240 F. 202.

As suit in state court was necessary to enforce Act La. No. 145 of 1916, imposing license taxes on business of mining sulphur, complainant, which was engaged in that business, had adequate remedy at law, and was not entitled to have enjoined enforcement of act on ground that greater part of sulphur mined was sold in interstate and foreign commerce. Union Sulphur Co. v. Reed (D. C.) 249 F. 172.

As there is no right in Louisiana to recover a state tax paid under protest, a suit to enjoin the collection of special road taxes cannot be dismissed on the ground of an adequate remedy at law, for the remedy at law must be as practical and efficient as the remedy in equity. Lancaster v. Police Jury, Parish of Avoyelles, State of Louisiana (D. C.) 254 F. 179.

58. Trespass.—Standing timber purchased from owner of land, with license to cut and remove it, so far partakes of nature of real property that right of removal will be protected by injunction where the landowner's continuous interference might prevent removal within time limited, for action for damages for trespass would be inadequate. United Timber Corporation v. Bivens (D. C.) 248 F. 554.

Where plaintiffs had legal title and such possession of timber land as its character made reasonably practicable, and defendants had trespassed thereon and were continuing to do so, legal remedy held inadequate, so that bill in equity would lie. A. G. Wineman & Sons v. Reeves, 245 F. 254, 157 C. C. A. 446.

59. Trusts.—Plaintiffs held not entitled to invoke equitable aid to recover against the estate of a decedent for trust property which had been distributed, having an adequate remedy at law. Fidelity Trust Co. v. Alexander, 243 F. 162, 156 C. C. A. 28, reversing decree Alexander v. Fidelity Trust Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 938.

As equity will take jurisdiction to enforce trust, unsecured creditor, who had not reduced his claim to judgment, may maintain creditors' bill against debtor corporation and another, which had received funds and property devoted to payment of unsecured creditors, transferred to it in violation of trust agreement by committee appointed to manage affairs of debtor. Kentucky Wagon Mfg. Co. v. Jones & Hopkins Mfg. Co., 248 F. 272, 160 C. C. A. 350.

59½. Waste.—Equity has jurisdiction of a suit, the essential and primary purpose of which is to restrain waste which, if continued, would work irreparable injury to the property in controversy, although the defendant may be in possession. El Dora Oil Co. v. U. S., 229 F. 946, 144 C. C. A. 228.

IV. OBJECTIONS TO JURISDICTION

61. Objection on court's own motion.—Where a case is one of which either law or equity might take jurisdiction, and has been brought in equity without objection, the court is not required of its own motion to decline a hearing in equity. Ashland

Waterworks Co. v. City of Ashland (C. C. A.) 251 F. 492.

Where suit in federal court for mandatory injunction involved public questions, court may on its own motion raise question whether complainant had an adequate remedy at law. Gaines v. Baltimore & C. S. S. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 786.

62. Objections on appeal.—Where the subject-matter of a suit is within the jurisdiction of a court of equity, the objection that complainant had an adequate remedy at law will not be considered when made for the first time in the appellate court. El Dora Oil Co. v. U. S., 229 F. 946, 144 C. C. A. 228; Babcock & Wilcox v. American Surety Co. of New York, 236 F. 340, 149 C. C. A. 472; City of Omaha v. Venner, 243 F. 107, 155 C. C. A. 637.

63. Waiver of objections.—A defendant, by failing to raise objection to jurisdiction in equity in the trial court, waives the same. El Dora Oil Co. v. U. S., 229 F. 946, 144 C. C. A. 228; Thomas v. South Butte Mining Co., 230 F. 968, 145 C. C. A. 162.

Where plaintiff in an action on a life policy made no objection to the trial on the equity side of the court of defenses based on the ground that the policy should be canceled, because a new one, naming a new beneficiary, had been issued at the request of the insured, held, that the case was not so wholly without color of equitable jurisdiction that it can be dismissed on appeal. Royal Union Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lloyd (C. C. A.) 254 F. 407.

CITED WITHOUT DEFINITE APPLICATION

Greene v. Louisville & I. R. Co., 37 S. Ct. 673; 61 L. Ed. 1280, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 88; Smith v. Douglas County, Neb. (C. C. A.) 242 F. 894; Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Van Dusen Harrington Co. (C. C. A.) 245 F. 454; U. S. v. Board of Com'rs of Osage County, Okl. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 570; Marquette Cement Mining Co. v. Oglesby Coal Co. (D. C.) 253 F. 107.

§ 1245. (Jud. Code, § 268.) Power to administer oaths and punish contempts.

II. CONTEMPT

(A) Acts constituting contempt

4. Intent as element.—In order that one may be held for contempt for communications with jurors, it is not necessary to prove that the communications had, or acts done, were accompanied by a wrongful intent; it being sufficient if they would have a tendency to improperly affect the action of the jury. Kelly v. U. S., 250 F. 947, affirming In re Kelly (D. C.) 243 F. 696.

5. Contempt as offense.—See In re Independent Pub. Co., 240 F. 849, 153 C. C. A. 535, affirming judgment (D. C.) 228 F. 787.

7. Misbehavior in presence of court, or so near as to obstruct administration of justice—Presence of court.—The physical nearness to the place where the court is in session of the actual commission of the act charged as a contempt is not important, but, as in the law of constructive presence in criminal cases, the misbehavior is committed where it takes effect. In re Independent Pub. Co. (C. C. A.) 240 F. 849.

10. —— Attempt to influence jurors.—Interference with the proceedings of a grand jury in the performance of its functions is as truly a contempt of court as is interference with the proceedings of a petit jury. U. S. v. Providence Tribune Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 524.

Lengthy conversations between counsel and jurors, drinks and other hospitality, entertainment, hopes aroused, and favors granted or promised, held contempt. In re Kelly (D. C.) 243 F. 696, affirmed Kelly v. U. S., 250 Fed. 947, 163 C. C. A. 197.

15. —— Publications and criticisms.—This section, which was first enacted as Act March 2, 1831, recognized and sanctioned the power of the federal courts to restrain acts tending to obstruct and prevent the untrammeled and unprejudiced exercise of judicial power, by summarily treating such acts as a contempt; so the publication of newspaper articles which tend to obstruct the administration of justice may be treated as contempt. Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 560, 247 U. S. 402, 62 L. Ed. 1186, affirming judgment 237 F. 986, 150 C. C. A. 636, which affirmed U. S. v. Toledo Newspaper Co. (D. C.) 220 F. 458, and leave to file petition for rehearing granted 38 S. Ct. 581.

The public press is not immune from the provisions of this section, but the freedom of the press guaranteed by the Constitution is subordinate to the independence of the judiciary and a newspaper article tending to interfere with the orderly procedure of the courts or to obstruct the administration of justice in accordance with legal standards is a contempt which is committed wherever the newspaper is intended to and does in fact circulate. In re Independent Pub. Co. (C. C. A.) 240 F. 849.

The publication by a newspaper of the city in which a court is sitting of an article tending to obstruct the administration of justice in pending proceedings is within Judicial Code, § 268. U. S. v. Providence Tribune Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 524.

An article stating that certain named witnesses were taken before the grand jury, and that it was believed they had given the authorities much valuable evidence, and that prescriptions had been found in their possession which would play a prominent part in the future, was sufficient interference with the grand jury proceedings to constitute contempt. Id.

18. Misbehavior of officers of court.—That sheriff, in charge of jail, from charitable motives, released, for 8 hours a day for 40 days, that he might work and support his family, a prisoner committed to his custody by United States District Court, does not excuse sheriff's contempt in violating order of commitment, or offense of escape, committed both under federal and state law. In re O'Rourke (D. C.) 251 F. 768.

24. Disobedience or resistance to lawful process, order, or command.—Newspaper publications tending to provoke resistance to an injunctional order, if made in a pending case, held to amount to contempt, within this section. Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., 237 F. 986, 150 C. C. A. 636, affirming judgment U. S. v. Toledo Newspaper Co. (D. C.) 220 F. 458.

Acts of defendant held a contempt, as in violation of an injunction. Bradstreet Co. v. Bradstreet's Collection Bureau (C. C. A.) 249 F. 958.

Persons amenable to an injunctional decree are subject to proceedings for contempt for its violation, without regard to the lapse of time since the decree, especially where the proceedings are criminal in character. Tosh v. West Kentucky Coal Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 44.

28. —— Disobedience to injunction.—Language or conduct designed and having the natural effect to incite others to violence, in disregard of an injunction, is itself a contempt of the court. Stewart v. U. S., 236 F. 838, 150 C. C. A. 100.

32. Defenses.—Publishers of newspaper articles, which tended to obstruct the administration of justice in the federal court, by bringing pressure on federal judge to decide pending litigation in a particular way, cannot escape punishment for contempt on ground that it did not appear judge read articles, or that he was not affected thereby. Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 560, 247 U. S. 402, 62 L. Ed. 1186, affirming judgment 237 F. 986, 150 C. C. A. 636, which affirmed U. S. v. Toledo Newspaper Co. (D. C.) 220 F. 458, and leave to file petition for rehearing granted 38 S. Ct. 581.

(B) Power to punish, and proceedings

37. Court offended.—Where a newspaper is charged with contempt in publications concerning a judge sitting in a pending suit, such judge has jurisdiction to dispose of the contempt proceedings; but, if there be sufficient time, he may call in another judge. Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., 237 F. 986, 150 C. C. A. 636, affirming judgment U. S. v. Toledo Newspaper Co. (D. C.) 220 F. 458.

38. Character of proceeding as civil or criminal.—Proceedings for violation of an injunction, conducted in the name of the United States and by the district attorney, held for criminal contempt, which justified a judgment of imprisonment. Stewart v. U. S., 236 F. 838, 150 C. C. A. 100.

A proceeding in a civil suit, by an order requiring defendant to show cause why it should not be punished for contempt, for violation of an injunction previously issued therein, held one for civil and not criminal contempt. Bradstreet Co. v. Bradstreet's Collection Bureau (C. C. A.) 249 F. 958.

41. Summary proceedings—Jury trial.—Where defendant was adjudged guilty of contempt under this section for attempt to influence a juror as to his verdict, held that, record showing no demand for a jury trial, defendant could not complain that he had been denied same on theory that, as his act was also offense under Comp. St. 1916, § 10305, and state laws, he was entitled to a trial by jury under Act Cong. Oct. 15, 1914, c. 323 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1245a, 1245b), because section 1245e was invalid as class legislation. Couts v. U. S., 249 F. 595, 161 C. C. A. 521.

42. Moving papers.—It is not necessary that an information for criminal contempt in a federal court should pray for any specific punishment. Creekmore v. U. S., 237 F. 743, 150 C. C. A. 497.

Where the informations charging contempt were presented by the United States district attorney, the facts may be alleged on information and belief. Creekmore v. U. S., 237 F. 743, 150 C. C. A. 497; Kelly v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 947.

43. Proof.—The court may take judicial notice of an injunction order which defendants were charged with having violated, and a reference thereto in a judgment in contempt proceedings is unnecessary. Oates v. U. S., 233 F. 201, 147 C. C. A. 207.

In criminal contempt cases, the presumption of innocence attends the accused, and he is to be adjudged guilty only upon evidence which carries conviction beyond a reasonable doubt. Oates v. U. S., 233 F. 201, 147 C. C. A. 207; Hanley v. Pacific Live Stock Co., 234 F. 522, 148 C. C. A. 288; Kelly v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 947.

In a proceeding for contempt tried by the court, the admission of evidence in itself immaterial or irrelevant is not prejudicial error. Swepston v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 205.

In a proceeding for civil contempt for failure to comply with an order to pay money, the burden of proof rests on defendant to show his inability to pay, and such inability must clearly appear. Cutting v. Van Fleet (C. C. A.) 252 F. 100.

44. Purging contempt.—Where defendants did not deny the contempt charged, but merely put in a plea of not guilty and went to trial on that, they did not purge themselves of any contempt in violating the injunction. Oates v. U. S., 233 F. 201, 147 C. C. A. 207.

A disavowal on oath by a person charged with contempt of any intention to commit a contempt is not a complete defense in a federal court, but the whole matter is for determination by the court. Swepston v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 205.

45½. Findings of fact.—A proceeding to punish for criminal contempt being one at law, those matters which are to be actually inferred, and which the opinion of the lower court assumed, will be considered as found; no specific findings being requested or made. Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., 237 F. 986, 150 C. C. A. 636, affirming judgment U. S. v. Toledo Newspaper Co. (D. C.) 220 F. 458.

Under a charge of contempt, in that respondents did conspire with and permit and assist a prisoner committed to their custody to escape, respondents may be found guilty of permitting and assisting in the escape, although the charge of conspiracy is not proved. Swepston v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 205.

An order sentencing a sheriff to jail for contempt for assisting in the escape of a prisoner committed to his custody necessarily involves a finding that the acts charged were intentional. Id.

46. Judgment and commitment.—Where defendant in a civil suit in fact appears in response to an order to show cause why it should not be punished for contempt for violation of an injunction, the court is not limited in granting relief by the prayer of complainant. Bradstreet Co. v. Bradstreet's Collection Bureau (C. C. A.) 249 F. 958.

47. Review.—A conviction for a criminal, although a summary, contempt, is not reviewable on error; but the matter may be reviewed on certiorari, issuable in the discretion of the court. Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 560, 247 U. S. 402, 62 L. Ed. 1186, affirming judgment 237 F. 986, 150 C. C. A. 636, which affirmed U. S. v. Toledo Newspaper Co. (D. C.) 220 F. 458, and leave to file petition for rehearing granted 38 S. Ct. 581. But see Swepston v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 205, holding that final orders imposing punishment for contempt are criminal in their nature, and reviewable by federal Circuit Courts of Appeals on writs of error, upon which matters of law only can be considered.

It is sufficient protection of defendants, charged with contempt, that the reviewing court reverses the judgments, and directs the trial court to reconsider the case, and indicates what incompetent evidence it disregarded. Oates v. U. S., 233 F. 201, 147 C. C. A. 207.

Discretion of trial court in dealing with contempts, and punishment therefor, will not be interfered with, unless grossly abused. In re Sobol, 242 F. 487, 155 C. C. A. 263.

Where not raised in lower court, objection that evidence was insufficient to warrant finding that defendant was guilty of contempt and judgment imposing punishment cannot be raised on writ of error. Couts v. U. S., 249 F. 595, 161 C. C. A. 521.

A proceeding for contempt, arising in connection with a suit in equity, for disobedience of an order made to enforce the rights of a private party, is civil, and is reviewable only by appeal. Cutting v. Van Fleet (C. C. A.) 252 F. 100.

48. —— Findings of fact.—Where defendants, who had been convicted of criminal contempt, contended in Supreme Court that there was no evidence that newspaper articles furnishing basis for prosecution tended to obstruct administration of justice, the Supreme Court will not consider weight of evidence, but simply whether evidentiary facts found by courts below had any reasonable tendency to sustain general conclusions of fact based thereon. Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 560, 247 U. S. 402, 62 L. Ed. 1186, affirming judgment 237 F. 986, 150 C. C. A. 636, which affirmed U. S. v. Toledo Newspaper Co. (D. C.) 220 F. 458, and leave to file petition for rehearing granted 38 S. Ct. 581.

In contempt proceedings, where there were findings showing defendants' guilt, immaterial findings were not prejudicial. Oates v. U. S., 233 F. 201, 147 C. C. A. 207.

In a proceeding for criminal contempt, the finding of the trial court has the conclusiveness of a verdict, if sustained by substantial evidence, and the only question for the reviewing court is whether there was substantial evidence to support it. Oates v. U. S., 233 F. 201, 147 C. C. A. 207; Stewart v. U. S., 236 F. 838, 150 C. C. A. 100; In re Independent Pub. Co., 240 F. 849, 153 C. C. A. 535, affirming judgment (D. C.) 228 F. 787; Kelly v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 947.

Findings that defendants in proceedings for criminal contempt were guilty of willful violation of an injunction, and that, although not parties to the injunction, they had full knowledge of the same, held sustained by the evidence.

Stewart v. U. S., 236 F. 838, 150 C. C. A. 100.

(C) Punishment

49. Aspects or functions of punishments for contempt.—With certain exceptions, a criminal contempt is a crime, and a criminal contempt proceeding is a criminal proceeding for all purposes, and one adjudged guilty of a criminal contempt may be properly characterized as a convict. Creekmore v. U. S., 237 F. 743, 150 C. C. A. 497.

50. Fine or imprisonment as punishment.—Under Comp. St. 1916, § 1615, costs may be assessed against defendant convicted in a criminal contempt proceeding, regardless of this section. Oates v. U. S., 233 F. 201, 147 C. C. A. 207.

A criminal contempt is an "offense," within the meaning of Comp. St. 1916, § 10527, and, where the sentence imposed exceeds a year's imprisonment, may be in a penitentiary; the place of confinement being within the court's discretion. Creekmore v. U. S., 237 F. 743, 150 C. C. A. 497.

Under Rev. St. Ohio, § 7381, enacted pursuant to recommendation of Congress, making it the duty of sheriffs to receive and keep prisoners of the United States until released by due process of law, a federal court may lawfully sentence one convicted of contempt to imprisonment in a county jail in Ohio. Swepston v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 205.

51. Extent of fine or imprisonment.—In proceedings for contempt for violating an injunction, the sentence is within the discretion of the trial court. Oates v. U. S., 233 F. 201, 147 C. C. A. 207.

In the federal courts, where imprisonment is imposed as punishment for a criminal contempt, the length of term is within the discretion of the court. Creekmore v. U. S., 237 F. 743, 150 C. C. A. 497.

It is within the discretion of the court, in imposing a fine for a criminal contempt which made it necessary to discharge the jury and grant a continuance in a criminal case then on trial, to take into consideration the increased costs thus incurred by the government. In re Independent Pub. Co. (C. C. A.) 240 F. 849.

52. Indemnity to party injured.—A defendant, who violated an injunction obtained against him by a railroad company by selling a cut-rate ticket, and thereby presumably preventing it from selling a full-rate one, might properly, on appplication of the railroad company, be fined a sum compensating the railroad company for its loss; the fact that such fine might also act as a deterrent being no objection to its imposition. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Frank (C. C. A.) 230 F. 988.

53. Imprisonment on nonpayment of fine and costs.—If defendant should fail to pay the fine imposed, the court could further order that he be imprisoned until he paid the fine; this not being imprisonment for a fixed term as a penalty which defendant was powerless to escape, since he could escape imprisonment by obeying the order and paying the fine, or by satisfying the court that he had no money with which to do so. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Frank (C. C. A.) 230 F. 988.

Cited without definite application, Marshall v. Gordon, 37 S. Ct. 448, 61 L. Ed. 881, L. R. A. 1917F, 279, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 371; reversing U. S. v. Gordon (D. C.) 235 F. 422.

§ 1245a. (Act Oct. 15, 1914, c. 323, § 21.) Contempt constituting also criminal offense.

Right to jury trial.—See Swepston v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 205.

Where defendant was adjudged guilty of contempt under Comp. St. 1916, § 1245, for attempt to influence a juror as to his verdict, held that, record showing no demand for a jury trial, defendant could not complain that he had been denied same on theory that, as his act was also offense under Comp. St. 1916, § 10305, and state laws, he was entitled to a trial by jury under this and the following section, because section 1245d was invalid as class legislation. Couts v. U. S., 249 F. 595, 161 C. C. A. 521.

§ 1245b. (Act Oct. 15, 1914, c. 323, § 22.) Proceedings to punish contempt.

Right to jury trial.—See Swepston v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 205.

Where defendant was adjudged guilty of contempt under Comp. St. 1916, § 1245, for attempt to influence a juror as to his verdict, held that, record showing no demand for a jury trial, defendant could not complain that he had been denied same on theory that, as his act was also offense under Comp. St. 1916, § 10305, and state laws, he was entitled to a trial by jury under this section, because section 1245d was invalid as class legislation. Couts v. U. S., 249 F. 595, 161 C. C. A. 521.

Cited without definite application, Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 560, 62 L. Ed. 1186; Tosh v. West Kentucky Coal Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 44.

§ 1245d. (Act Oct. 15, 1914, c. 323, § 24.) Provisions limited to contempts specifically embraced therein.

Validity.—See Couts v. U. S., 249 F. 595, 161 C. C. A. 521.

Cited without definite application, Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 560, 62 L. Ed. 1186.

§ 1246. (Jud. Code, § 269, as amended, Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 48.) New trials.

All of the said courts shall have power to grant new trials, in cases where there has been a trial by jury, for reasons for which new trials have usually been granted in the courts of law. On the hearing of any appeal, certiorari, writ of error, or motion for a new trial, in any case, civil or criminal, the court shall give judgment after an examination of the entire record before the court, without regard to technical errors, defects, or exceptions which do not affect the substantial rights of the parties. (40 Stat. 1181.)

This section was amended by Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 48, cited above to read as set forth above. This amendment consisted in the addition of the second sentence, as set forth above.

Notes of Decisions

I. NATURE OF POWER TO GRANT NEW TRIAL

5. Discretion of court.—Review of discretion, see notes under § 1670.

The granting or refusing of a motion for new trial is in the discretion of the lower court. Maryland Casualty Co. of Baltimore, Md., v. Orchard Land & Timber Co., 240 F. 364, 153 C. C. A. 290; R. D. Cole Mfg. Co. v. Mendenhall, 240 F. 641, 153 C. C. A. 439; City of Grafton v. Gentry Bros.' Shows, 240 F. 646, 153 C. C. A. 444; Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Chamberlain (C. C. A.) 253 F. 429.

6. —— Criminal cases.—The discretion of the trial court in granting or refusing a new trial cannot be reviewed on writ of error. Smith v. U. S., 231 F 25, 145 C. C. A. 213; Hughes v. U. S., 231 F. 50, 145 C. C. A. 238; Shepard v. U. S., 236 F. 73, 149 C. C. A. 283; Towe v. U. S., 238 F. 557, 151 C. C. A. 493; Bernal v. U. S., 241 F. 339, 154 C. C. A. 219.

An acquittal cannot be set aside by the court. Cummins v. U. S., 232 F. 844, 147 C. C. A. 38. And see Taylor v. U. S., 244 F. 321, 156 C. C. A. 607.

9½. New trial as to particular branch of case.—A court may order a new trial upon a particular branch of a controversy. Calaf v. Fernandez, 239 F. 795, 152 C. C. A. 581.

A federal court has power to grant a new trial as to a single issue in the case, and such procedure is proper, where the jury has found generally for plaintiff, but failed to find his damages, although shown by undisputed evidence. Original Sixteen to One Mine v. Twenty-One Mining Co. (D. C.) 254 F. 630.

II. GROUNDS FOR NEW TRIAL

(B) Misconduct of parties or counsel

12. Improper influence on jury.—Where accused moved for new trial on ground that deputy marshal had answered queries of jurors during deliberations, questions whether his statements were made before jury had agreed on conviction, and whether they were prejudicial, were questions of fact, on which it was proper for court to receive evidence. Chambers v. U. S., 237 F. 513, 150 C. C. A. 395.

On trial for carrying on business of liquor dealer without paying tax, counsel's reference in opening statement to an immoral resort in the same building held not misconduct justifying a vacation of the verdict. Foley v. U. S., 241 F. 587, 154 C. C. A. 363.

Statements by counsel for a plaintiff in his argument to the jury of what had been done by juries in former trials of the case was so grossly improper as to entitle defendant to a new trial. McKibben v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 577.

12½. —— Waiver of objection.—An objection to argument of prosecuting counsel, first called to the attention of the court by a motion for a new trial, came too late. Smith v. U. S., 231 F. 25, 145 C. C. A. 213.

(C) Rulings and instructions

13. Evidence.—Admission of incompetent testimony without objection is not a ground for new trial. U. S. v. Knoell (D. C.) 230 F. 509.

A new trial granted in an action on an award of damages by the Interstate Commerce Commission, on the ground that the award, which was part of the evidence submitted to the jury, was made on an erroneous basis. Clark Bros. Coal Mining Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 642.

Defendant could not complain, on a motion for a new trial, that evidence to which he objected was admitted for a limited purpose, instead of generally. U. S. v. Fischer (D. C.) 245 F. 477.

The admission in evidence in a criminal case of admissions of defendant, though erroneous, is not ground for new trial, where the fact admitted was not really in controversy, and was independently proven. U. S. v. Stilson (D. C.) 254 F. 120.

15. Objections and exceptions.—The objection that the husband of the bankrupt cannot testify in a prosecution for conspiracy to receive property of the bankrupt to facts incriminating his wife cannot be first raised on the motion for new trial. Knoell v. U. S., 239 F. 16, 152 C. C. A. 66, affirming judgment U. S. v. Knoell (D. C.) 230 F. 509.

Where no oojection was made to the admission of incompetent testimony of one of the defendants incriminating his wife, though the attention of able counsel for defendants was called to the matter by the court, the admission of such evidence is not ground for new trial. U. S. v. Knoell (D. C.) 230 F. 509.

16. Harmless error.—Error, if any, in reimpaneling jury to correct technical irregularity in sealed verdict, held a mere formality, not furnishing ground for a new trial. Kawin & Co. v. American Colortype Co., 243 F. 317, 156 C. C. A. 97.

(D) Disqualification or misconduct of jury

17. Disqualification.—Juror's ownership of one share of stock in plaintiff railway company held not cause for new trial; no prejudice being shown. Memphis St. Ry. Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 242 F. 617, 155 C. C. A. 307.

18. Misconduct.—The reading in a jury room by one of the jurors, at the request of the others, of a newspaper article giving an account of former trials of the case, and reflecting on the defendant, held to entitle defendant to a new trial after an adverse verdict. McKibben v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 577.

That jurors, before it was put in evidence, examined a map of a railroad crossing at which deceased was killed and were heard discussing the case does not warrant new trial for misconduct. Hartwell v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 112.

20. Separation.—That, notwithstanding order against separation of jury, one juror left the others, and went to his office for about 20 minutes, held not ground for setting aside verdict, in absence of showing of injury. Elder v. U. S., 243 F. 84, 155 C. C. A. 614.

22. Objections at trial.—Where defendant contended that juror during course of trial asked whether he would take the stand, and based upon such occurrences a claim of unfairness on part of jury, defendant, having failed to call matter to court's attention before verdict, is not entitled to do so thereafter. Bowers v. U. S., 244 F. 641, 157 C. C. A. 89.

(E) Verdict contrary to law or evidence

23½. Verdict contrary to law.—A conviction on all of the counts for a separate criminal act in a single transaction is not available as a ground for a new trial. Orth v. U. S., 252 F. 566.

24. Verdict contrary to evidence.—The granting or refusing of a new trial for insufficiency of evidence rests in the discretion of the court. Towe v. U. S., 238 F. 557, 151 C. C. A. 493.

26. —— Sufficiency of evidence.—Conviction on uncorroborated testimony of persons convicted of crime will not be set aside on motion for new trial, unless unjust in judgment of court. U. S. v. Knoell (D. C.) 230 F. 509.

27. —— Conflicting evidence.—Verdict for defendant in personal injury action on substantially conflicting testimony held not to be set aside, though regarded as wrong by the District Judge. Stewart v. Boston & M. R. R. (D. C.) 229 F. 862.

30. Inadequate damages.—In an action for breach of contract, where the jury found that defendant broke the contract, but awarded plaintiff a much less sum than the undisputed evidence showed it was entitled to recover, held, that the verdict was so inconsistent that the refusal of the trial court to grant plaintiff a new trial was an abuse of discretion. United Press Ass'ns v. National Newspapers Ass'n (C. C. A.) 254 F. 284.

Where, in action for destruction, by railroad car, of auto, and killing of its driver, contributory negligence might well have been found, plaintiff will not be given new trial because of verdict for $1; it not clearly indicating finding of absence of contributory negligence, and inadequate damages from prejudice, passion, or misconduct. Vanek v. Chicago Great Western R. Co. (D. C.) 252 F. 871.

31. Excessive damages.—See Thrush v. Fullhart, 230 F. 24, 144 C. C. A. 322. See, also, notes under particular statutes giving cause of action for damages.

(G) Newly discovered evidence

38. Diligence.—On a motion for a new trial, in an employe's action for injuries, on the ground of newly discovered evidence, defendant filed affidavits stating that P., a witness for plaintiff, told the affiants that he had made a statement to defendant regarding the accident, but that he was going to go with the other side, because he could get more money out of the other side. Though these affidavits were taken immediately after the trial, no satisfactory reason for not interviewing the affiants before the trial was given, and, though defendant claimed to have been surprised by P.'s testimony, it did not make any suggestion of surprise and ask for further delay at the trial.

Held, that defendant had not met the burden of showing due diligence in the production of the alleged newly discovered evidence, especially as the evidence was of an impeaching character. Tomljanovich v. Victor-American Fuel Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 467.

III. MOTIONS FOR NEW TRIAL

45. Time of filing.—A breach of a court rule requiring motions for new trial to be made four days after entry of verdict is a mere error of procedure not affecting jurisdiction. Abbott v. Brown, 36 S. Ct. 689, 241 U. S. 606, 60 L. Ed. 1199.

A term of federal District Court, Southern District of Florida, which under Comp. St. 1916, §§ 976–978, 1061, must always be open as a court of admiralty and equity, was not brought to an end, so far as criminal business was concerned, so as to prevent granting of new trial, by adjournment in accordance with court rule requiring, pending temporary absence of the judge, the clerk be present for transaction of business under orders of the judge. Id.

48. Determination.—Where the court granted a new trial on motion of both plaintiff and defendant, a vacation of the order thereafter on motion of plaintiff held proper, where the evidence was not in dispute and there had already been three nisi prius hearings. Alwart Bros. Coal Co. v. Royal Colliery Co., 234 F. 20, 148 C. C. A. 36.

TECHNICAL ERRORS DISREGARDED

Civil causes

Defects in process, proceedings, and judgment.—See notes under section 1591.

— Instructions.—Any error in ruling in action against carrier for delay as to effect of accumulation of freight or strike, as affecting burden of proof, held not prejudicial where jury were instructed that carrier had proved strike beyond its control, and that if no negligence was shown it was not liable and burden of proof was on plaintiff. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Olivit Bros., 37 S. Ct. 468, 243 U. S. 574, 61 L. Ed. 908, affirming judgment Olivit Bros. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 96 A. 589, 88 N. J. Law, 376.

In an action for injuries to an employé, the omission of the court to charge, with reference to one of several grounds of negligence, that it must be the proximate cause of the injury to be actionable, held harmless. Republic Iron & Steel Co. v. Hines, 240 F. 77, 153 C. C. A. 113.

Refusal of unobjectionable requests by defendant to charge on assumption of risk held not prejudicial, in view of another request by defendant on that subject, which was given. Southern Ry. Co. v. McGuin, 240 F. 649, 153 C. C. A. 447.

Criminal prosecutions

Decisions prior to amendment of section.—See notes under statutes defining particular offenses.

Defects in indictment.—See notes to section 1691.

Presumption of prejudice.—Where order of court excluding all spectators, except relatives of defendants, members of bar, and newspaper men, deprived defendants of public trial guaranteed by Constitution, prejudice will be presumed, and affirmative injury need not be shown to justify reversal. Davis v. U. S., 247 F. 394, 159 C. C. A. 448, L. R. A. 1918C, 1164.

Prejudice will not be presumed from trivial errors, and in order to justify reversal, even in a criminal case, it must appear that the error was substantial. Linn v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 476.

Conduct of trial in general.—Error by the trial court in holding competent evidence admissible as rebuttal, but not in chief, is not reversible. Kinser v. U. S., 231 F. 856, 146 C. C. A. 52.

Denial of request of accused's counsel to have translation of letter read to him, before same should be read in open court, held, in view of purpose of letter, not reversible error. Prdjun v U. S. (C. C. A.) 237 F. 799.

Sustaining of peremptory challenge to juror on behalf of defendants' promised immunity, and having no real interest in the defense, held not prejudicial to their codefendants. Heitler v. U. S., 244 F. 140, 156 C. C. A. 568.

Prosecutor's failure to disclose that certain defendants had been promised immunity and would testify for the government held not prejudicial to their codefendants. Id.

Examination of witnesses.—Error in permitting improper cross-examination of an impeaching witness held cured by a charge that it was stricken and that the jury should not consider it. Kinser v. U. S., 231 F. 856, 146 C. C. A. 52.

The persistence of the prosecuting atttorney in asking accused whether his signature to an exhibit was genuine, after objection, held not prejudicial, in view of the court's ruling and offer to charge. Cooper v. U. S., 232 F. 81, 146 C. C. A. 273, certiorari denied 36 S. Ct. 725, 241 U. S. 675, 60 L. Ed. 1232.

In a prosecution for counterfeiting, act of the trial court in examining accused as to admissions of guilt held harmless error. Lepper v. U. S., 233 F. 227, 147 C. C. A. 233.

Refusal of court to compel witness for government, in prosecution for violating White Slave Traffic Act, to state source of complaints that accused was running disorderly house, held not error; witness admitting on cross-examination that his testimony to that fact was based on such complaint. Prdjun v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 237 F. 799.

In view of defendant's testimony and his denial, held that, in a prosecution for violation of § 4136b, post, by carrying into what was formerly Indian Territory intoxicating liquors, defendant was not prejudiced by questions impliedly charging him with selling whisky therein. Greer v. U. S., 240 F. 320, 153 C. C. A. 246.

Admission of evidence.—In a prosecution for using the mails to defraud, the admission of parol evidence to establish the existence of the corporation whose stock defendant sold was not prejudicial. Finnegan v. U. S., 231 F. 561, 145 C. C. A. 447.

In a prosecution for conspiracy to use mails to defraud, admission of evidence that defendants participated in a confidence game wholly disassociated with the conspiracy held prejudicial in view of the charge tending to result in a conviction on proof of other offense than the one set out in indictment. Shea v. U. S., 236 F. 97, 149 C. C. A. 307.

Evidence, in prosecution for converting and abstracting funds of national bank, held not prejudicial to defendant, though possibly immaterial. Sheridan v. U. S., 236 F. 305, 149 C. C. A. 437.

In a prosecution under § 4136b, post, for introducing intoxicating liquor from outside into that part of Oklahoma which was the Indian Territory, held that, in view of his admission, testimony that accused was engaged in hauling whisky was not prejudicial. Blackwell v. U. S., 236 F. 912, 150 C. C. A. 174.

In prosecution for rape on girl under age of consent, erroneous admission of evidence of her statement to intimate friend concerning the act held prejudicial error. Callahan v. U. S., 240 F. 683, 153 C. C. A. 481.

On trial for fraudulent use of mails, evidence of embezzlement by party against whom case had been discontinued held prejudicial. McDonald v. U. S., 241 F. 793, 154 C. C. A. 495.

The admission of evidence not prejudicing defendants was not reversible error. McKelvey v. U. S., 241 F. 801, 154 C. C. A. 503.

Admission of conversation stated to have been had on the 5th or 6th of September, or somewhere along there, as impeachment, held not erroneous, in the absence of prejudice. Pablo v. U. S., 242 F. 905, 155 C. C. A. 493.

In prosecution under Criminal Code §§ 37, 215 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 10201, 10385), for violation of and conspiracy to violate section 215, admitting in evidence account book showing receipt of $130.000 realization charges held without prejudice. Preeman v. U. S., 244 F. 1, 156 C. C. A. 429, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 12, 245 U. S. 654, 62 L. Ed. 533.

Secondary evidence of contents of two telegrams held not reversible error, where latter was stricken out because government was unable to make preliminary proofs. Simpson v. U. S., 245 F. 278, 157 C. C. A. 470, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 133, 245 U. S. 667, 62 L. Ed. 538.

Erroneous admission of judgment roll of another prosecution against defendant which he testified had been quashed held prejudicial error. Bullard v. U. S., 245 F. 837, 158 C. C. A. 177.

Admission of hearsay evidence that sheriff had found defendant's still held harmless in view of sheriff's testimony. Id.

In prosecution for introducing intoxicating liquor into that part of Oklahoma which was formerly Indian Territory, in violation of § 4136b, post, where connection of defendants with purchase and shipment of liquor was clearly and indisputably shown, and it was proven without contradiction that one of defendants gave his check on Oklahoma bank in payment for liquors, admission of oral testimony as to amount of check and bank on which it was drawn was harmless. De Moss v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 87.

—— Cure by other evidence.—Error, if any, in admitting evidence competent in chief as rebuttal, was cured by permitting defendant in surrebuttal to introduce evidence as fully as if the government's case in chief had just closed. Kinser v. U. S., 231 F. 856, 146 C. C. A. 52.

Erroneous admission of improper evidence is cured, where defendant subsequently introduced evidence to same effect. Dean v. U. S., 246 F. 568, 158 C. C. A. 538.

The admission of evidence is not ground for reversal, where the same facts were afterwards shown by defendant's testimony. Garanflo v. U. S., 246 F. 910, 159 C. C. A. 182.

Where in prosecution for conspiracy to use mails in connection with scheme to defraud, certain advertisements of one of defendants were received under stipulation, admission of other similar advertisements was not harmful. Holsman v. U. S., 248 F. 193, 160 C. C. A. 271.

In a prosecution for knowingly giving false testimony in a naturalization proceeding, the admission of a transcript of the stenographer's notes of the proceeding was harmless, where defendant himself testified to the same facts shown by the transcript. Gregorat v. U. S., 249 F. 470, 161 C. C. A. 428.

—— Cure by striking out or instruction.—Where court struck out statements volunteered by witness and told jury to disregard them, held, that there was no reversible error, especially where objection was to the questions rather than the objectionable answers. Cuomo v. U. S., 231 F. 116, 145 C. C. A. 304.

Error in admitting evidence, which was not specially prejudicial, was cured by striking the testimony from the record before the witness left the stand. Kinser v. U. S., 231 F. 856, 146 C. C. A. 52.

In a prosecution for conspiring to use the mails in connection with a scheme to defraud, error in admitting evidence of a patent expert as to the scope and validity of patents of corporation, whose stock defendants were selling, held, in view of the charge, not prejudicial. Menefee v. U. S., 236 F. 826, 150 C. C. A. 88.

It is only when evidence erroneously admitted in a criminal case is of such apparent weight and so prejudicial in effect that the judicial warning against it seems light and unavailing by comparison that the error remains uncured by striking it out. Looker v. U. S., 240 F. 932, 153 C. C. A. 618.

Where court improperly admitted in evidence over objection of one of defendants, affidavit made by his alleged coconspirator which did not relate to conspiracy, error was cured by instruction that only those things said or done by one conspirator in furtherance of objects are chargeable against other conspirators. Holsman v. U. S., 248 F. 193, 160 C. C. A. 271.

Exclusion of evidence.—In prosecution for using mails in connection with scheme to defraud in establishing agencies for fire extinguishers, where government introduced evidence that representations as to extinguishers' efficacy were false, exclusion of letters strengthening defendants' belief in their efficacy held prejudicial. Hair v. U. S., 240 F. 333, 153 C. C. A. 259.

On trial for using mails in furtherance of scheme to defraud in connection with bank's reports, exclusion of evidence tending to negative fraudulent intent on part of cashier held prejudicial to other defendants, as well as to cashier. Sparks v. U. S., 241 F. 777, 154 C. C. A. 479.

The exclusion of evidence offered by defendant on trial for conspiracy held not prejudicial error. Roberts v. U. S., 248 F. 873, 160 C. C. A. 631, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 583, 247 U. S. 522, 62 L. Ed. 1247.

Improper argument.—Remarks of district attorney in presence of the jury, constituting misconduct held not prejudicial, because evidence was so clear and convincing that the jury could not have found otherwise than as they did. Robbins v. U. S., 229 F. 987, 144 C. C. A. 269.

Though court did not act on objection to argument, held, that there was no reversible error, unless argument was plainly unwarranted and clearly injurious to accused. Sparks v. U. S., 241 F. 777, 154 C. C. A. 479.

Improper argument of prosecutor is no ground for reversal, where jury were explicitly directed to disregard it. Phelan v. U. S., 249 F. 43, 161 C. C. A. 103.

Instructions.—Conviction under White Slave Traffic Act June 25, 1910 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8814) will not be reversed because of refusal to instruct that certain testimony was that of accomplices, to be received with caution and believed only when corroborated. Caminetti v. U. S., 37 S. Ct. 192, 242 U. S. 470, 61 L. Ed. 442, L. R. A. 1917F, 502, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 1168, affirming judgments Diggs v. Same, 220 F. 545, 136 C. C. A. 147, and Hays v. Same, 231 F. 106, 145 C. C. A. 294.

Instruction that defendants should be found guilty under all counts, if guilty under one, held harmless, where sentence was impossible under any one count. Sparks v. U. S., 241 F. 777, 154 C. C. A. 479.

Failure to charge that guilt of defendants of fraudulent use of mails was dependent on actual intent held not prejudicial as to one defendant. McDonald v. U. S., 241 F. 793, 154 C. C. A. 495.

Refusal to make defendants' guilt of fraudulent use of mails dependent on actual intent held prejudicial as to defendant whose claim of good faith was a question of fact. Id.

Where evidence showed only illicit distillation of whisky, instruction authorizing conviction on proof of distillation of rum, brandy, or whisky was harmless, though indictment specified only whisky. Bullard v. U. S., 245 F. 837, 158 C. C. A. 177.

Error cured by verdict.—Where defendant was convicted on other counts as well, and such conviction would in any event sustain the sentence imposed, the denial of a continuance to obtain testimony germane to only one of the counts, though improper, is no ground for reversal, on writ of error. Young v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 249 F. 935.

The erroneous refusal to direct an acquittal on a count under Criminal Code, § 141 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10311), for aiding a convict to escape from a federal penitentiary, was not prejudicial, where a conviction under a second count thereunder for harboring and concealing the convict to prevent his discovery and arrest was supported by the evidence, and the sentence was not in excess of the maximum provided for that offense. Orth v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 569.

In prosecution, under Penal Code, § 215 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10385), for using mails to defraud, and for a conspiracy to commit such offense, refusal to require prosecution to elect was not prejudicial, where defendant was convicted only of the first offense and sentenced for 13 months and to pay costs, where the statute authorized a fine of not more than $1,000, or an imprisonment of not more than five years, or both. Sidebotham v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 417.

Sentence.—Where punishment imposed on two counts was the same and ran concurrently, defendants held not prejudiced, even though evidence did not warrant a verdict of guilty on one count. Morris v. U. S., 229 F. 516, 143 C. C. A. 584.

Where defendant was convicted under two indictments and sentenced under each verdict concurrently, the fact that the conviction under one indictment was erroneous cannot affect the sentence where it was warranted under the other indictment. Daeche v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 566.

That defendant through a clerical error was sentenced on counts which had been withdrawn from the jury held not ground for reversal, where the punishment was not greater than might have been imposed under any one of the counts. Roberts v. U. S., 248 F. 873, 160 C. C. A. 631, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 583, 247 U. S. 522, 62 L. Ed. 1247.

§ 1249. (Jud. Code, § 272.) Parties may manage their causes personally or by counsel.

Attorney's authority.—Counsel may bind his client to orders and judgments made in progress of cause and in interest of client, a compromise settlement, approved by the court, being binding on the client; but he has no general power to execute a retraxit or disclaimer, or otherwise bind his client by the surrender of his rights. Glover v. Bradley, 233 F. 721, 147 C. C. A. 487, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 921.

Without special authority, an attorney cannot enter a disclaimer for his client. McFarland v. Curtin, 233 F. 728, 147 C. C. A. 494.

Remedies of client.—The remedy of a client for the disclosure by his attorney of information imparted to him in confidence, to the client's injury, is by an action at law for damages. Universal Sav. Corporation v. Morris Plan Co. of New York (D. C.) 234 F. 382.

§ 1251a. (Jud. Code, § 274a. Act March 3, 1915, c. 90.) Amendments to pleadings in suits at law which should have been brought in equity, or vice versa.

Decisions prior to statute.—It was improper for the federal District Court for New York to transfer to the equity side an action at law for damages for breach of a contract to make a bequest. In re Simons, 38 S. Ct. 497, 247 U. S. 231, 62 L. Ed. 1094. And see Waldo v. Wilson, 231 F. 654, 145 C. C. A. 540, reversing decree (D. C.) Wilson v. Waldo, 221 F. 505, and certiorari denied Id., 36 S. Ct. 724, 241 U. S. 673, 60 L. Ed. 1231.

Purpose and effect of statute.—See U. S. v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 247 F. 16, 159 C. C. A. 234, and Keatley v. United States Trust Co. (C. C. A.) 249 F. 296.

This section relates only to the power of the court where a suit has been improperly brought either on the equity or law side and authorizes amendments to make the pleadings conform to the proper practice, but does not validate a transfer from the equity to the law side of the court made before its enactment. Waldo v. Wilson, 231 F. 654, 145 C. C. A. 540, reversing decree Wilson v. Waldo (D. C.) 221 F. 505, and certiorari denied Id., 36 S. Ct. 724, 241 U. S. 673, 60 L. Ed. 1231.

In view of this section, defendant cannot complain that a suit to recover commissions received by a factor in violation of Penal Law N. Y. § 439, was brought on the equity side of the court. Palmer v. Doull Miller Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 309.

Suit in equity.—In view of this section, a suit in equity by a trustee in bankruptcy to set aside a consignment agreement under which defendants furnished goods to bankrupt, and to declare defendants trustees for goods returned, might be maintained, though it was unnecessary to have the agreement set aside, and the suit was in effect an action at law to recover a preference; the suit being a proper resort to the equity powers of a court of bankruptcy. Taylor v. Fram (D. C.) 243 F. 733.

Time for amendment.—The right to amend pleadings "at any stage of the cause" includes the right to make a motion therefor under a mandate from an appellate court directing further proceedings, although the term of court during which the mandate was filed has expired. District of Columbia v. Washington Terminal Co., 47 App. D. C. 570.

Transfer of cause.—See Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 327; Special School Dist. of Ashdown, Ark., v. Jones (C. C. A.) 250 F. 440.

Where a bill is insufficient to give a federal court jurisdiction in equity, but states a cause of action at law, the court is required by this act to transfer the cause to the law side. John A. Roebling's Sons Co. of California v. Kinnicutt (D. C.) 248 F. 596.

Mode of review.—An appeal from the Supreme Court of Porto Rico in a case turning upon questions of law only will not be dismissed, because review should have been sought by writ of error. Sola v. Cintron & Aboy, 237 F. 61, 150 C. C. A. 263.

Where a bill for partition was dismissed on the ground that there was a disputed question of title involved and that the plaintiffs had an adequate remedy at law, this court on an appeal by the plaintiffs will entertain the appeal; the record showing there was no disputed question of fact involved. Staub v. Staub, 47 App. D. C. 180.

Cited without definite application, Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. Abbot (C. C. A.) 247 F. 833; Munger Laundry Co. v. National Marking Mach. Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 144; Marquette Cement Mining Co. v. Oglesby Coal Co. (D. C.) 253 F. 107.

§ 1251b. (Jud. Code, § 274b. Act March 3, 1915, c. 90.) Equitable defenses and equitable relief in actions at law; review of judgments or decrees in such cases.

Effect of section.—See U. S. v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 247 F. 16, 159 C. C. A. 234; Special School Dist. of Ashdown, Ark., v. Jones (C. C. A.) 250 F. 440.

This section contemplates only relief as between the original parties, and it is not a bar to an ancillary suit, in the nature of a bill of interpleader, where other parties are necessary. Sherman Nat. Bank of New York v. Shubert Theatrical Co., 247 F. 256, 159 C. C. A. 350, affirming order (D. C.) 238 F. 225.

This section renders unimportant question whether action is legal or equitable, by permitting equitable defenses in a law action. C. & A. Ry. Co. v. Pressed Steel Car Co., 243 F. 883, 156 C. C. A. 395.

Equitable defenses and relief.—See Wolfe v. Murphy, 47 App. D. C. 296.

A buyer can plead the equitable defense of fraudulent misrepresentations in an action of assumpsit against him by the seller for the purchase price of the goods. Burroughs Adding Mach. Co. v. Scandinavian-American Bank (D. C.) 239 F. 179.

Where plaintiff's cause of action against two of defendants was to prevent waste, equity may enjoin other defendants assisting them, even though plaintiff's cause of action against such defendants was legal in its nature. Beatty Oil & Gas Co. v. Blanton (D. C.) 245 F. 979.

Maintenance of action for trespass against grantee in timber deeds will not be enjoined on theory that interference with rights might prevent removal of timber within period of extension, for that equitable relief could be obtained in law court. United Timber Corporation v. Bivens (D. C.) 248 F. 554.

Where plaintiff sued at law for breach of contract, it was admissible for defendant by cross-petition to seek reformation of the contract. Upson Nut Co. v. American Shipbuilding Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 707.

Reply.—Where answer in action at law pleaded release as purely legal defense, plaintiff is not entitled, by filing replication, to obtain cancellation of such release, under this section. Keatley v. United States Trust Co., 249 F. 296, 161 C. C. A. 304, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 579, 247 U. S. 511, 62 L. Ed. 1242.

In an action for personal injuries, where defendant pleaded a release and plaintiff was not required to reply under the law unless so required by order of the court, a motion to dismiss on the ground that a court of law had no jurisdiction would be denied, since while in the federal courts matters cognizable in equity cannot be considered on the law side of the court, and while the only fraud permissible to be proved at law would be fraud touching the execution of the instrument, it could not be assumed that the release was executed as alleged or that plaintiff could only get relief from the release in equity. Cline v. Southern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 238.

Determination of equitable issues.—Under this section, authorizing equitable relief in actions at law, and in view of Const. art. 3, § 2, held that, while equitable relief can be granted in law cases, procedure remains distinct, and equitable suit should be disposed of before trial of action at law. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Syas, 246 F. 561, 158 C. C. A. 531.

In action for personal injuries, where plaintiff attacked a release set up as having been procured by fraud, question of fraud, while it may be submitted to jury for advisory verdict, should not be submitted to same jury trying the action, though equitable relief is allowable in actions at law. Id.

Where equitable defense is interposed in action at law, it will have to be disposed of by court sitting as a chancellor before trial of action at law to jury. Fay v. Hill, 249 F. 415, 161 C. C. A. 389.

Appeal or writ of error.—Where the answer to an action at law on a contract was in effect a bill in equity, seeking reformation and incidentally to enjoin the action at law, the proceeding was converted into an equitable one, and hence appeal, instead of writ of error, was the appropriate method for review. Philippine Sugar Estates Development Co. v. Government of Philippine Islands, 38 S. Ct. 513, 247 U. S. 385, 62 L. Ed. 1177.

— Absence of court rule.—In the absence of a rule of court to the contrary, an action at law in which an equitable defense is pleaded, under this section, may be reviewed either by error or appeal. Maine Northwestern Development Co. v. Northwestern Commercial Co., 240 F. 583, 153 C. C. A. 387; Union Pac. R. Co. v. Syas, 246 F. 561, 158 C. C. A. 531.

Cited without definite application, Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. Abbot (C. C. A.) 247 F. 833; Royal Union Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Lloyd (C. C. A.) 254 F. 407.

1251c. (Jud. Code, § 274c. Act March 3, 1915, c. 90.) Amendments to show jurisdiction based on diverse citizenship of parties.

Cited without definite application, Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. Abbot (C. C. A.) 247 F. 833.

CHAPTER TWELVE—JURIES

Sec.
1252. Qualifications and exemptions of jurors.
1253. Jurors, how drawn.
1254. Jurors, to be apportioned in the district.
1255. Race or color not to exclude.
1256. Venire, how issued and served.
1257. Talesmen for petit juries.
1264. Challenges.

§ 1252. (Jud. Code, § 275.) Qualifications and exemptions of jurors.

4. Qualifications of jurors.—Under this section, Const. S. C. art. 5, § 22, requiring each juror to be a qualified elector of good moral character, and article 2, § 6, disqualifying persons convicted of certain named offenses, one who had been convicted on plea of guilty of a violation of the act to regulate commerce by making false reports of the weight of certain articles shipped was not thereby disqualified to serve as a grand juror. Christopoulo v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 788.

§ 1253. (Jud. Code, § 276, as amended, Act Feb. 3, 1917, c. 27.) Jurors, how drawn.

All such jurors, grand and petit, including those summoned during the session of the court, shall be publicly drawn from a box containing, at the time of each drawing, the names of not less than three hundred persons, possessing the qualifications prescribed in the section last preceding, which names shall have been placed therein by the clerk of such court, or a duly qualified deputy clerk, and a commissioner, to be appointed by the judge thereof, or by the judge senior in commission in districts having more than one judge, which commissioner shall be a citizen of good standing, residing in the district in which such court is held, and a well-known member of the principal political party in the district in which the court is held opposing that to which the clerk, or a duly qualified deputy clerk then acting, may belong, the clerk, or a duly qualified deputy clerk, and said commissioner each to place one name in said box alternately, without reference to party affiliations until the whole number required shall be placed therein. (39 Stat. 873.)

This section was amended by Act Feb. 3, 1917, c. 27, cited above, by inserting therein the provisions relating to a duly qualified deputy clerk.

Notes of Decisions

4. Drawing of jurors.—Under this section before amendment of 1917, held, that clerk of District Court should participate in drawing of grand jury, and where grand jury was drawn by deputy clerk and a commissioner of same political party, it was not lawful, and indictment found is subject to attack. Dunn v. U. S., 238 F. 508, 151 C. C. A. 444.

12. Use of jurors drawn.—That there was no colored person of African descent on the grand jury held not ground for abatement. Younge v. U. S., 242 F. 788, 155 C. C. A. 376, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 13, 245 U. S. 650, 62 L. Ed. 533.

§ 1254. (Jud. Code, § 277.) Jurors, to be apportioned in the district.

Construction, operation, and validity of statute.—Drawing jurors from only one division of district held not a violation of Const. Amend. 6, especially in view of this section. Ruthenberg v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 168, 245 U. S. 480, 62 L. Ed. 414.

§ 1255. (Jud. Code, § 278.) Race or color not to exclude.

Failure to include colored persons on jury.—That there was no colored person of African descent on the grand jury held not ground for abatement, where there was no showing that they were excluded from service. Younge v. U. S., 242 F. 788, 155 C. C. A. 376, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 13, 245 U. S. 656, 62 L. Ed. 533.

§ 1256. (Jud. Code, § 279.) Venire, how issued and served.

Applicability of statute.—As Comp. Laws Alaska, § 2228, relating to selection of jury, makes no provision for appointment of elisor, and none of the other statutes makes any similar provision, Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1256, 1257, are applicable in case of marshal's interest. Johnson v. U. S., 247 F. 92, 159 C. C. A. 310.

Interest of marshal.—Where marshal out of his own funds paid person to detect gambling, and prosecution was based on information so obtained, held, that he was not an indifferent person, and special officer to serve special venire should be appointed under Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1256, 1257. Johnson v. U. S., 247 F. 92, 159 C. C. A. 310.

§ 1257. (Jud. Code, § 280.) Talesmen for petit juries.

See Johnson v. U. S., 247 F. 92, 159 C. C. A. 310; notes under § 1256.

§ 1264. (Jud. Code, § 287.) Challenges.

16. Nature and extent of examination.—It is not an abuse of discretion to refuse to allow counsel to ask the veniremen questions calculated to be misunderstood. Watlington v. U. S., 233 F. 247, 147 C. C. A. 253.

Examination of jurors on the point of prejudice against capital punishment, determination of which is, by Comp. St. 1916, § 10504, committed to the jury, should be confined to ascertainment of their views and the strength thereof, with the sole object of determining whether they would approach the issue in the proper frame of mind. Manuel v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 272.

Cited without definite application, Schwartzberg v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 241 F. 348.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN—GENERAL PROVISIONS

§ 1266. (Jud. Code, § 289.) Circuit Courts abolished.

Effect of abolition of Circuit Courts.—Abolition of federal Circuit Courts by this section removed any authority for appeal to Supreme Court from Circuit Court of Appeals in habeas corpus arising under Rev. St. §§ 763, 764. Horn v. Mitchell, 37 S. Ct. 293, 243 U. S. 247, 61 L. Ed. 700, dismissing appeal 232 F. 819, 147 C. C. A. 13.

§ 1268. (Jud. Code, § 291.) Powers and duties of circuit courts imposed upon district courts.

Operation of statute.—See Wm. Edwards Co. v. La Dow (C. C. A.) 230 F. 378, and Maryland Casualty Co. of Baltimore, Md., v. Orchard Land & Timber Co., 240 F. 364, 153 C. C. A. 290.

Neither Comp. St. 1916, § 1584, nor section 1587, providing for jury trial of fact issues in the Circuit Courts, was repealed by Judicial Code, and they, as well as section 1668, providing for review, are made applicable to District Courts by this section. Lillie v. Denert, 232 F. 104, 146 C. C. A. 296.

Cited without definite application, Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 259 F. 327.

§ 1271. (Jud. Code, § 294.) Laws revised in this act to be construed as continuations of existing laws.

Operation of statute.—See U. S. v. Cress, 37 S. Ct. 380, 243 U. S. 316, 61 L. Ed. 746; J. Homer Fritch, Inc., v. U. S., 39 S. Ct. 158, 63 L. Ed. —; Jackson v. Cravens (C. C. A.) 238 F. 117.

§ 1272. (Jud. Code, § 295.) Inference not to be drawn from arrangement of sections.

Purpose and effect of section.—See U. S. v. Cress, 37 S. Ct. 380, 243 U. S. 316, 61 L. Ed. 746; J. Homer Fritch, Inc, v. U. S., 39 S. Ct. 158, 63 L. Ed. —.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN—REPEALING PROVISIONS

§ 1274. (Jud. Code, § 297.) Sections, etc., repealed.

Operation of statute.—See U. S. v. Cress, 37 S. Ct. 380, 243 U. S. 316, 61 L. Ed. 746.

§ 1276. (Jud. Code, § 299.) Accrued rights, etc., not affected.

Operation of statute.—Where a suit to foreclose a mortgage accrued prior to January 1, 1912, and the amount in controversy was more than $2,000, but less than $3,000, federal jurisdiction was preserved by this section. Barnes v. Cady, 232 F. 318, 146 C. C. A. 366, affirming order Cady v. Barnes (D. C.) 208 F. 359.

Notwithstanding this section, change in jurisdictional amount contained in Comp. St. 1916, § 991(1), held to apply to suits for acts done or causes arising prior to the taking effect thereof. Sloane v. Kramer Bros. & Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 727.

TITLE XIII—THE JUDICIARY

Chap.		Sec.
13.	Habeas Corpus	1281
14.	District Attorneys, Marshals, Clerks, and Other Court Officers, and Commissioners	1296
16.	Fees and Compensation of Officers	1375
17.	Evidence	1464
18.	Procedure	1534
19.	Limitations	1707
21.	The Court of Claims, Jurisdiction, Powers, and Procedure

CHAPTER THIRTEEN—HABEAS CORPUS

Sec.
1281. Writ of habeas corpus when prisoner is in jail.
1282. Application for the writ of habeas corpus.
1283. Allowance and direction of writ.
1285. Form of return.
1289. Summary hearing; disposition of party.
1291. Appeals, how taken.
1292. Pending proceedings action by State authority void.

§ 1281. (R. S. § 753.) Writ of habeas corpus when prisoner is in jail.

I. CONSTRUCTION AND NATURE OF REMEDY IN GENERAL

1½. Nature of remedy in general.—The writ of habeas corpus is of the highest remedial character intended to summarily protect the liberty of the citizen from unlawful detention. Ex parte Mikell (D. C.) 253 F. 817.

3. Discretion of court.—Habeas corpus is not a discretionary writ, as is certiorari. U. S. v. Rauch (D. C.) 253 F. 814.

6. Remedy by appeal or error affecting power to issue.—Writ of habeas corpus cannot be used as writ of error, but only for consideration of fundamental and jurisdictional questions. Collins v. Morgan, 243 F. 495, 156 C. C. A. 193.

One convicted may not be released on habeas corpus because tried while an escaped insane patient; this not depriving the court of jurisdiction, but so trying him being, at most, error for which appeal is the remedy. Myers v. Halligan, 244 F. 420, 157 C. C. A. 46.

Except in case of great urgency, person in custody of state authorities, charged with a crime, held to be left to his remedy by writ of error to the Supreme Court, and not discharged on habeas corpus. Ex parte Coatz (D. C.) 242 F. 1003.

Where writ of habeas corpus was dismissed by state court, and certiorari denied by state Supreme Court, held, that writ will not be issued by federal court; there being a remedy by writ of error to the federal Supreme Court. Ex parte Merrill (D. C.) 245 F. 778.

7. Scope of review and matters considered.—On the filing of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, setting out the facts, the court may properly determine upon the facts so presented whether the prisoner, if brought before it, would be discharged. Horn v. Mitchell, 232 F. 819, 147 C. C. A. 13, affirming judgment (D. C.) 223 F. 549.

Questions of jurisdiction even will not always be decided on writ of habeas corpus; principle being that, if the court had jurisdiction of the case, writ cannot be employed to retry the issues, whether of law, constitutional or otherwise, or of fact. Collins v. Morgan, 243 F. 495, 156 C. C. A. 193.

10. —— Questions of fact in general.—The courts do not pass upon disputed questions of fact on habeas corpus. Ex parte Graber (D. C.) 247 F. 882.

11. —— Jurisdiction of court.—The finding of the juvenile court, in a criminal prosecution of a father for nonsupport of his minor children, that they were domiciled in the District as alleged in the information, and that the court therefore had jurisdiction, cannot be reviewed on habeas corpus. Posey v. Zinkham, 47 App. D. C. 293.

14. —— Errors or irregularities in proceedings.—Habeas corpus cannot be used to review decision upon legal sufficiency of defense of former jeopardy. Collins v. Morgan, 243 F. 495, 156 C. C. A. 193.

Generally the writ of habeas corpus will not issue, unless the court under whose warrant the petitioner is held is without jurisdiction, and it cannot be used to correct errors. Ex parte Blair (D. C.) 253 F. 800.

II. CUSTODY UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE UNITED STATES, OR FOR ACTS DONE OR OMITTED PURSUANT TO THE LAW THEREOF

19½. In general.—Under Comp. St. 1916, § 10537, prisoner cannot secure release on parole by proceeding in habeas corpus, where the board of parole found that his release would be incompatible with welfare of society, etc.; the board alone having power to parole. Redman v. Duehay, 246 F. 283, 159 C. C. A. 13.

President's action in ordering summary arrest and detention, under Comp. St. 1916, § 7615, of an alien enemy within United States after the declaration of war between United States and Austro-Hungary, is conclusive, and not subject to judicial review on habeas corpus. Ex parte Graber (D. C.) 247 F. 882.

Petitioners who refused, without invoking the Fifth Amendment, protecting against self-incrimination, to obey a subpœna duces tecum, or to answer questions propounded to them in a grand jury investigation, under Comp. St. 1916, §§ 188–198, of corrupt practices in a senatorial primary election, cannot, having been committed for contempt, secure release on habeas corpus on the ground that the statute was unconstitutional. Ex parte Blair (D. C.) 253 F. 800.

22. In deportation or exclusion proceedings under immigration laws—Illegality or irregularity in proceedings.—That the warrant on which a Chinese person, whose deportation was sought, was indefinite, merely charging that he was subject to deportation, being in the United States in violation of the Chinese Exclusion Laws, was not sufficient reason for discharge. Ong Seen v. Burnett, 232 F. 850, 147 C. C. A. 44.

A Chinese person, arrested under a warrant signed by the Assistant Secretary of Labor, will not be discharged on habeas corpus because the warrant should have been signed by the Secretary of Labor. Moy Wing Sun v. Prentis, 234 F. 24, 148 C. C. A. 40.

23. —— Scope of review and power of court.—The authority of the Solicitor of the Department of Labor to affirm on appeal an order of the Commissioner of Immigration denying an alien admission to the United States is not reviewable on habeas corpus where the Secretary of Labor personally affirmed the order. Ching Hing v. White, 234 F. 616, 148 C. C. A. 382, affirming order Ex parte Ching Hing (D. C.) 224 F. 261.

While weight of evidence supporting finding of fact by commissioner of immigration cannot be reviewed, courts may determine on habeas corpus whether there was any evidence to support commissioner's finding; that being question of law. Katz v. Commissioner of Immigration at Port of San Francisco, Cal., 245 F. 316, 157 C. C. A. 508.

On habeas corpus to obtain release from restraint under a warrant for deportation the District Court will not in the first instance determine the country from whence the alien came, where that question could be determined in more than one way and was left open by the warrant of deportation. Ex parte Callow (D. C.) 240 F. 212.

An order of exclusion and deportation unsupported by any evidence is invalid. Hence the question whether there was any evidence before the immigration tribunal in support of its findings may be raised in habeas corpus proceedings. Ex parte Prout (D. C.) 253 F. 97.

24. —— Conclusiveness of decision of officers.—On petition for habeas corpus to procure discharge from a commissioner's order of removal to another district for trial, the commissioner's finding of probable cause is presumed correct unless there was no substantial evidence to sustain it. Witte v. Shelton, 240 F. 265, 153 C. C. A. 191.

Contention that evidence was so conclusive in regard to Chinese woman's right to admission to the country as to make refusal of writ an abuse of discretion held without merit. Mah Shee v. White, 242 F. 868, 155 C. C. A. 456.

Where alien excluded from the United States on ground she was likely to become a public charge brought habeas corpus, finding of commissioner of immigration must be upheld if there is any evidence, however slight, to support his decision. U. S. v. Howe (D. C.) 235 F. 990.

26. Under courts-martial, army or naval officers or authorities—Detention by army officers or authorities.—Release of relator, improperly certified under Selective Draft Act into military service, cannot be denied on ground that respondent, an army officer holding relator in custody, might on complying with writ be exposed to punishment for disobedience of orders of superiors; respondent's remedy being by appeal. Ex parte Beck (D. C.) 245 F. 967.

28. —— Courts-martial or military commissions.—In habeas corpus to determine jurisdiction of state courts, as opposed to military courts, to try offenses by members of the military, the fact that an arrest is under a city ordinance is immaterial, if the ordinance is valid. In re Wulzen (D. C.) 235 F. 362, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 274.

If a military tribunal has jurisdiction to try a person charged with an offense against military law, the civil courts cannot interfere by writ of habeas corpus. Ex parte Dostal (D. C.) 243 F. 664.

Where petitioners, who had been registered pending a prosecution for failure to register as required by Selective Service Act, § 5, post, § 2044e, failed to respond to call to report for service, and were sentenced by court-martial as deserters, their application to the civil court for habeas corpus, on the theory that such tribunal was entitled to proceed first, must be denied. Ex parte Dunn (D. C.) 250 F. 871.

28½. —— Detention by selective draft boards.—Writ of habeas corpus will not issue, when the investigation will in effect be an appellate review of what has been determined by some other tribunal of competent jurisdiction, as determination by the established military tribunal of liability to draft, depending on citizenship, in the absence of arbitrary denial of rights. U. S. v. Heyburn (D. C.) 245 F. 360.

The action of a local draft board in holding a person subject to service after a hearing on evidence is not reviewable on habeas corpus, unless it is shown that the hearing was unfair, or that there was no evidence to support the finding. Ex parte Platt (D. C.) 253 F. 413.

Action of local or district board on claim for exemption under Selective Draft Act may be reviewed by habeas corpus, where board abuses its power or exercises it arbitrarily. Angelus v. Sullivan, 246 F. 54, 158 C. C. A. 280; Ex parte Beck (D. C.) 245 F. 967; Ex parte Hutflis (D. C.) 245 F. 798; U. S. v. Bell (D. C.) 248 F. 992; U. S. v. Mitchell (D. C.) 248 F. 997.

In view of provisions for notice in Rules and Regulations, § 14, and as Conscription Act declares that decision of exemption boards shall be final, nondeclarant alien who not having claimed exemption, was certified into service by boards, is not entitled to habeas corpus on ground he was denied fair hearing, there being no showing that boards did not give him notice required. Ex parte Blazekovic (D. C.) 248 F. 327.

Under Selective Draft Act, §§ 2, 4, 5, post, §§ 2044b, 2044d, 2044e, and Rules and Regulations, §§ 18, 20, relator, nondeclarant alien, who did not claim exemption from military service within seven days after notification, held to have had fair hearing before local and district boards, which certified him for military service, and hence not entitled to habeas corpus on that ground. U. S. v. Finley (D. C.) 245 F. 871.

Where petitioner, who was certified into service under Conscription Act, was not, having failed to comply with rules and regulations as to claim for exemption, absolutely entitled to relief on account of his alienage, issuance of habeas corpus to secure release rests in sound discretion of trial court. Ex parte Blazekovic (D. C.) 248 F. 327.

Where a drafted person, claiming exemption as an alien, by mistake waived exemption in his questionnaire, he had a remedy by appeal to the local board for correction, under Selective Service Rules, § 99, and where, after notice of his classification under section 100, he, through ignorance, allowed himself to be inducted into service, he still has a remedy under section 139, by appeal to the commanding officer of the mobilization camp, and is not entitled to relief by habeas corpus. Ex parte Kusweski (D. C.) 251 F. 977.

Where certification of relator into military service was improper under Selective Draft Act, relator being entitled to exemption as nondeclarant alien, he is, having been arrested as a deserter and held for trial by court-martial, entitled to habeas corpus to secure his release. Ex parte Beck (D. C.) 245 F. 967.

Whether persons certified into National Army under Selective Draft Act meet physical and medical requirements is solely question for exemption boards provided for, and not the courts. In re Traina (D. C.) 248 F. 1004.

Where registrant under Selective Draft Law is certified into military service, decisions of examining boards as to his physical condition cannot be reviewed on habeas corpus; hence one so certified cannot, where he refused to undergo operation as directed by military authorities for cure of pre-existing trouble, obtain his discharge under habeas corpus. De Genaro v. Johnson (D. C.) 249 F. 504.

Nondeclarant alien is not entitled to habeas corpus to obtain his release, having been certified into service under Conscription Act, as he failed to claim his exemption on account of alienage, where it did not appear that, in accordance with Rules and Regulations, §§ 28, 50, he had by proper affidavit, together with excuse for failure to earlier present same, made claim for exemption to either district or local board after certification, and he did not file petition for habeas corpus until nearly two months thereafter, and he had not presented his claim for exemption in accordance with rules and regulations governing draft, it is not abuse of discretion to deny his application. Ex parte Blazekovic (D. C.) 248 F. 327.

A United States District Court has no jurisdiction to review on habeas corpus action of a local or district draft board, acting under the Selective Service Act, in calling to service an alien, who has waived his claims for exemption and been duly classified for military service under the rules to class 1. Ex parte Beales (D. C.) 252 F. 177.

It is not the province of the United States District Court to pass judgment upon what constitutes sufficient evidence to satisfy exemption boards of the alienage of a registrant claiming exemption from military service, unless the board has acted arbitrarily or illegally. United States ex rel. Kotzen v. Local Exemption Board No. 157 of City of New York (D. C.) 252 F. 245.

The court in a habeas corpus proceeding cannot relieve against a merely erroneous decision of a draft board. Ex parte Tinkoff (D. C.) 254 F. 222.

The failure of a registrant, denied exemption by the local board, to appeal to the district board, is a bar to relief by habeas corpus. Id.

29. Detention in proceedings for extradition—In general.—Where arrest by deputy sheriff is in excess of duty of executive authority of state as to rendition of fugitives from justice in another state under Const. U. S. art. 4, § 2, and statutes in aid thereof, person arrested is entitled to his enlargement on habeas corpus as matter of right. Taft v. Lord, 103 A. 644, 92 Conn. 539.

30. —— Jurisdiction and power of courts.—A person held on an executive warrant for extradition to another state may test the legality of his detention under article 4, § 2, of the federal Constitution by habeas corpus proceedings in a federal court. Ex parte Birdseye (D. C.) 244 F. 972.

33. —— Scope of inquiry in general.—On habeas corpus by one charged with conspiracy and arrested under extradition warrant whether he committed any criminal act in the demanding state or was in fact a conspirator held not involved. Ex parte Montgomery (D. C.) 244 F. 967.

35. —— Questions of guilt or innocence of accused and matters of defense.—Where there was evidence that one requisitioned by another state as a fugitive from justice was in the demanding state within the period during which he is charged with crime, the question of his guilt is one for the courts of that state. State v. Boekenoogen (Minn.) 167 N. W. 301.

36. —— Sufficiency of indictment.—If any one count in an indictment charges a crime under the laws of the state, it is sufficient to sustain extradition proceedings against the accused, when attacked in a habeas corpus proceeding. Ex parte Birdseye (D. C.) 244 F. 972.

In habeas corpus proceedings for the discharge of a prisoner held on an extradition warrant, the technical sufficiency of the indictment on which the warrant was issued is not open to question. Id.

The sufficiency of the indictment on which extradition proceedings are based is open on an application for habeas corpus. Hard v. Splain, 45 App. D. C. 1.

In habeas corpus, where relator was sought to be extradited for an offense in another state, the court rightly refused to go into the sufficiency of the indictment in the other state, or the merits of the defense. People ex rel. Goldfarb v. Gargan, 168 N. Y. S. 1027, 181 App. Div. 410, 36 N. Y. Cr. R. 233.

40. —— Questions of limitations affecting prosecution.—Under Cr. Code Ill. §§ 315, 317 (Hurd's Rev. St. Ill. 1915–16, c. 38), on habeas corpus by person arrested for delivery to Illinois authorities, he cannot show that he was usually and publicly a resident of Illinois for the period of limitations following the date of the alleged crime. Biddinger v. Commissioner of Police of City of New York, 38 S. Ct. 41, 245 U. S. 128, 62 L. Ed. 193.

III. CUSTODY UNDER INDICTMENTS, PROCESS OF COURTS, AND DECISIONS OR ORDERS OF COMMISSIONERS

45. Indictments or informations.—Whether act charged in indictment is or is not crime by law which court administers is question within its jurisdiction; but it is no ground for discharge on habeas corpus that indictment is duplicitous, charging in one count offenses under two acts. Collins v. Morgan, 243 F. 495, 156 C. C. A. 193.

IV. CUSTODY UNDER JUDGMENT, DECREE, OR ORDER OF COURT OR JUDGE THEREOF

51. Errors or irregularities in proceedings.—Error in convicting one who stole stamps from a post office, under Penal Code, § 47 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10214), rather than under section 190 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10360), is not available on habeas corpus. Morgan v. Sylvester, 231 F. 886, 146 C. C. A. 82.

Failure to impose fine in addition to imprisonment, under statute providing for both, held not available on habeas corpus. Linningen v. Morgan, 241 F. 645, 154 C. C. A. 403.

Mere error of law in exercise of jurisdiction, though serious, is no ground for habeas corpus. Collins v. Morgan, 243 F. 495, 156 C. C. A. 193.

Where the whole record, taken together, showed the crime of which accused was convicted, he will not be freed on habeas corpus because the order of sentence did not recite the crime. Ex parte Thurston (D. C.) 233 F. 847.

52. Cumulative sentences and sentences in excess of authority.—Writ of habeas corpus may be employed to correct excessive punishment, after that which might have been lawfully imposed has been satisfied. Collins v. Morgan, 243 F. 495, 156 C. C. A. 193; Stoneberg v. Morgan, 246 F. 98, 158 C. C. A. 324.

54. Judgments or orders of state courts—Jurisdiction and power of federal courts in general.—Relator's imprisonment for failure to enter into a recognizance to appear as a state witness is lawful, so far as the federal court is concerned, so that it will refuse her petition for habeas corpus, though she was surrendered to the state authorities by the federal inspector of immigration having her in custody for deportation. In re Andrews (D. C.) 236 F. 300.

V. CUSTODY IN VIOLATION OF CONSTITUTION, LAWS, OR TREATY OF THE UNITED STATES

62. Construction and operation in general.—One incarcerated under state authority, in a proceeding under laws repugnant to federal Constitution, treaties, or laws, may be discharged by the federal courts on habeas corpus. Ex parte Larsen (D. C.) 233 F. 708.

Under Habeas Corpus Act, federal courts may issue writ of habeas corpus to inquire into cause of detention of prisoners held by a state on a criminal charge, if the petitioner alleges that he was performing duty as a soldier of the United States, and may determine summarily the truth of such allegation, and, if true, may discharge the prisoner on the ground that the state court is without jurisdiction. In re Wulzen (D. C.) 235 F. 362, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 274.

The power to issue writ of habeas corpus is to be sparingly exercised, especially when directed toward release of members of the military accused of offenses against the peace of the state; the jurisdiction of the civil courts of the state over such offenses in time of peace being admitted. Id.

§ 1282. (R. S. § 754.) Application for the writ of habeas corpus.

3. Persons who may sue out writ.—Application for writ of habeas corpus by one person on behalf of another entitles the petitioner to only such relief as might be given if the application were made by the person detained in his own name. Ex parte Dostal (D. C.) 243 F. 664.

4. Time for application, and laches.—In the absence of exceptional circumstances in criminal cases, the regular judicial procedure should be followed, and habeas corpus should not be granted in advance of a trial. Jones v. Perkins, 38 S. Ct. 166, 245 U. S. 390, 62 L. Ed. 358, affirming judgment Story v. Same (D. C.) 243 F. 997.

Petition for second writ of habeas corpus by a Chinese woman, who sought admission as the wife of a Chinese merchant, held not subject to demurrer; it appearing that appeal on the original writ had been dismissed to seek a reopening of case under a misapprehension of avowed action of Immigration Bureau. Ex parte Chan Shee (D. C.) 236 F. 579.

5. Requisites of application in general.—Where petition for habeas corpus and certiorari against local board, under Conscription Act, post, § 2044d, does not show petitioner has complied with requirements of act and regulations, or ever presented to local and district boards reason of ignorance assigned in District Court for failure to do so, relief asked against refusal of boards to exempt him as alien must be denied. Summertime v. Local Board, Division No. 10 (D. C.) 248 F. 832.

The petition is of informal character; a simple application, stating that the party is unlawfully confined, being in most cases sufficient. Ex parte Mikell (D. C.) 253 F. 817.

10. Particular averments.—Where unlawfulness of detention alleged in petition consists in order of an inferior tribunal, legally constituted and having jurisdiction over subject-matter and person detained, petition must state facts constituting arbitrary or capricious action. Ex parte Tinkoff (D. C.) 254 F. 222.

§ 1283. (R. S. § 755.) Allowance and direction of writ.

Allowance in general.—Where facts are not in dispute, but only question of law is involved, in attack on judgment of quasi judicial administrative tribunal with inferior jurisdiction committing petitioner, a writ of habeas corpus may issue in beginning, without delay to determine how tribunal will act. Ex parte Beck (D. C.) 245 F. 967.

§ 1285. (R. S. § 757.) Form of return.

Sufficiency of return.—Return to writ of habeas corpus for release of fugitive from justice from another state into Alabama, arrested on warrant issued by Governor on requisition of Governor of other state, attached thereto, held sufficient, and motion to quash properly overruled. Pool v. State (Ala. App.) 78 So. 407, certiorari denied (Ala. Sup.) 79 So. 311.

§ 1289. (R. S. § 761.) Summary hearing; disposition of party.

3. Person in custody of military authorities.—On habeas corpus by father to avoid enlistment of minor son over 16 and under 18 in National Guard, immediate surrender will not be directed, where son was guilty of military offense, but the military authorities would be allowed to retain custody to punish for such offense. Hoskins v. Dickerson, 239 F. 275, 152 C. C. A. 263, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 776, L. R. A. 1917D, 1056.

Where members of state National Guard had been drafted into military service of United States, under National Defense Act, and hence are beyond jurisdiction of state courts, appellate court will not consider whether they were properly mustered into service of state, as case has become moot, and courts will decline to pass upon appeals in such cases. Ex parte McMillan (Ala. App.) 74 So. 396.

6. Scope of inquiry and matters considered on trial or hearing.—On habeas corpus to obtain release from restraint under a warrant for deportation the District Court will not in the first instance determine the country from whence the alien came, where that question could be determined in more than one way and was left open by the warrant of deportation. Ex parte Callow (D. C.) 240 F. 212.

8. Evidence.—On habeas corpus prayed for on theory that indictment did not charge offense, it will be presumed, accused having been convicted, that jury found that averments of indictment were established by the evidence. Leib v. Halligan, 236 F. 82, 149 C. C. A. 292.

In habeas corpus proceedings to procure discharge from an order directing petitioners to be taken to another district for trial, allegations of the indictment against petitioners that the overt acts were committed in furtherance of the object of the conspiracy cannot be presumed to be false in the absence of conclusive evidence in conflict therewith. Witte v. Shelton, 240 F. 265, 153 C. C. A. 191.

In habeas corpus to be relieved from extradition, identity of name raises presumption that the person in custody is the person accused in the indictment, and the accused must clearly show that he is not such person. People Ex rel. Teitelbaum v. Ryan, 168 N. Y. S. 787, 181 App. Div. 404, 36 N. Y. Cr. R. 224.

In habeas corpus governor's extradition warrant makes a prima facie case and places on the prisoner the burden of proving by practically conclusive evidence that he is not a fugitive from justice. Ex parte Montgomery (D. C.) 244 F. 967; Godwin v. State (Ala. App.) 78 So. 313.

On habeas corpus Governor's warrant of extradition presumptively establishes that accused stands charged in proper form with a crime committed in the demanding state, and that he is a fugitive from justice. State v. Boekenoogen (Minn.) 167 N. W. 301.

In habeas corpus to be relieved from extradition, evidence of former conviction was admissible to prove identity of the accused. People ex rel. Teitelbaum v. Ryan, 168 N. Y. S. 787, 181 App. Div. 404, 36 N. Y. Cr. R. 224.

On habeas corpus for the release of a prisoner held under extradition proceedings as a fugitive from justice, it is error to exclude evidence showing that he is not in fact a fugitive. Godwin v. State (Ala. App.) 78 So. 313.

On habeas corpus by Chinese person, who applied for admission to United States as a minor son of a merchant, evidence held to show hearing before immigration authorities was unfair, and exclusion on ground applicant was not a minor was error. Woo Hoo v. White, 243 F. 541, 156 C. C. A. 239.

Evidence at the hearing before a commissioner who ordered petitioner for habeas corpus to be taken to another district for trial held sufficient to show probable cause that defendant was guilty of a conspiracy to cause an agent of an interstate carrier to deliver intoxicating liquors to a fictitious person. Witte v. Shelton, 240 F. 265, 153 C. C. A. 191.

In habeas corpus proceeding held, that there was substantial evidence that relator was in the demanding state within the period during which he is charged with the commission of a crime. State v. Boekenoogen (Minn.) 167 N. W. 301.

10. Order or judgment, and scope and extent of relief.—On habeas corpus, enlisted minor will be remanded to custody of military authorities for trial for offenses and service of any sentence imposed, but thereupon to be released from custody. U. S. v. Brown (D. C.) 242 F. 983.

12. —— Conditional discharge.—Where a Chinese person, applying for entrance into the United States, was ordered deported without a fair hearing, he should not, on writ of habeas corpus, be unconditionally discharged from custody; but such discharge should be conditional, to be effective only in case immigration authorities should fail to give applicant a fair hearing within a reasonable period, as a month. White v. Wong Quen Luck, 243 F. 547, 156 C. C. A. 245.

Cited in dissenting opinion.—Low Kwai v. Backus (C. C. A.) 229 F. 481; Yee Ling v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 242 F. 628.

§ 1291. (R. S. § 765.) Appeals, how taken.

4. Allowance of appeal.—Question as to jurisdictional amount necessary under Judicial Code, § 241 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1281), to sustain appeal to Supreme Court, does not arise in habeas corpus. Horn v. Mitchell, 37 S. Ct. 293, 243 U. S. 247, 61 L. Ed. 700, dismissing appeal 232 F. 819, 147 C. C. A. 13.

6. Jurisdiction of circuit courts of appeals.—Under Judicial Code, §§ 128, 129 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1120, 1121), and in view of failure of any statute to confer on Circuit Court of Appeals jurisdiction similar to that conferred on Circuit Court by Rev. St. § 763, held, that Circuit Court of Appeals is without jurisdiction of appeal from order of District Judge in vacation on habeas corpus. Hoskins v. Funk, 239 F. 278, 152 C. C. A. 266.

6½. Appeal from circuit courts of appeals.—Abolition of federal Circuit Courts by Judicial Code, § 289 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1266), removed any authority for appeal to Supreme Court from Circuit Court of Appeals in habeas corpus arising under Rev. St. §§ 763, 764. Horn v. Mitchell, 37 S. Ct. 293, 243 U. S. 247, 61 L. Ed. 700, dismissing appeal 232 F. 819, 147 C. C. A. 13.

8. Scope of review.—A fact on which petitioners in habeas corpus had the burden of proof, not having been proved, cannot avail them on appeal from an order in their favor based on another ground. Whittaker v. Brannan (C. C. A.) 252 F. 556.

§ 1292. (R. S. § 766, as amended, Act March 3, 1893, c. 226.) Pending proceedings, action by state authority void.

Resentence.—Where superior court having imposed void sentence pronounced a second sentence, pendency of habeas corpus proceedings in United States District Court for purpose of having first sentence declared void, did not invalidate second sentence under R. S. § 766 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1292), superior court treating first judgment as void in pronouncing second sentence, not acting in any matter pending and in process of being heard in United States District Court. Ex parte McCready (Cal.) 177 P. 459.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN—DISTRICT ATTORNEYS, MARSHALS, CLERKS, AND OTHER COURT OFFICERS, AND COMMISSIONERS

Sec.
1296. Duties of district attorneys.
1297. Prosecution of frauds on the revenue.
1311. Duties of marshal.
1323a. Clerks; bond; renewal.
1333. United States commissioners.
1334. Officers and employés of Government, etc., who may not be commissioners or receivers.
1340a. Law books, for judges transmitted to successors.

§ 1296. (R. S. § 771.) Duties of district attorneys.

2. Authority and duty of district attorney in general.—See Gouge v. Hart (D. C.) 250 F. 802.

11. Fees and salary of district attorneys—Extra compensation.—A United States attorney held not to have the right to accept private compensation for services rendered as counsel for the receiver appointed in a suit by the United States. McPherson v. U. S., 245 F. 35, 157 C. C. A. 331.

Cited without definite application, Philadelphia, H. & P. R. Co. v. Lederer (D. C.) 239 F. 184.

§ 1297. (R. S. § 838, as amended, Act Feb. 27, 1877, c. 69, § 1.) Prosecution of frauds on the revenue.

Cited without definite application, McPherson v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 245 F. 35.

§ 1311. (R. S. § 787.) Duties of marshal.

2. Limitation of power to district and service of process from other district.—In view of this section, and under Comp. St. 1916, § 1537, which supplanted Act Cong. May 19, 1828, held, that one federal District Court sitting in New York cannot issue process to be served on a person residing in the state, but in another district. Sewchulis v. Lehigh Valley Coal Co., 233 F. 422, 147 C. C. A. 358.

3. Execution of process or writs.—Service of process in an action at law in the federal District Court is not necessarily restricted to the United States Marshal and his deputies unless the process is directed to them. Rakauskas v. Erie R. Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 495.

9. Return of execution of process or writs and liability for failure of duty.—Marshal's return, not showing that person served with process was agent of foreign corporation for service of process, held not aided by any presumption, as jurisdictional facts must appear affirmatively. Boultbee v. International Paper Co., 229 F. 951, 144 C. C. A. 233.

§ 1323a. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 113, § 1.) Clerks; bond; renewal.

The Attorney General is authorized to require the official bonds of clerks of United States courts to be renewed every four years, and to fix the amounts of such bonds within statutory limits. Failure to take such action shall not affect the liability under such bonds, but upon failure or refusal of any clerk to execute such new bond or bonds his office shall be deemed vacant by order of the President and so declared by the district attorney in open court. (40 Stat. 683.)

This was a provision of the sundry civil appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above.

§ 1333. (Act May 28, 1896, c. 252, § 19, as amended, Act March 2, 1901, c. 814.) United States commissioners.

4. Incompatible offices.—Under Comp. Laws Mich. 1897, § 11881, United States commissioner, who had investigated facts in bankruptcy proceeding of company of which defendant was an officer, with a view to issuance of federal warrant, held not incompetent as a grand juror to return an indictment against defendant for embezzlement on the same state of facts. People v. Lay (Mich.) 159 N. W. 299.

Acceptance by circuit court commissioner of the office of United States commissioner operated to vacate ipso facto his office of circuit court commissioner, under Const. Wis. art. 13, § 3, providing that no person holding office of profit or trust under the United States shall be eligible to any office of trust, profit or honor in this state; such office being, in view of this section, an office of profit and trust under the United States. State v. Turner (Wis.) 169 N. W. 304.

6. Powers and duties of commissioners.—United States commissioners are neither judges nor courts, although they at times act in a quasi judicial capacity and exercise the power of a court, in so far as an act of Congress has conferred specific authority or imposed the performance of a special duty, and while they are authorized to and may issue search warrants, when specially authorized to do so by some act of Congress, they possess no general power in that respect. U. S. v. Jones (D. C.) 230 F. 262.

§ 1334. (Act May 28, 1896, c. 252, § 20.) Officers and employés of Government, etc., who may not be commissioners or receivers.

Counsel for receiver.—A United States attorney held not ineligible to appointment as counsel for a receiver appointed to collect assets in a suit by the United States. McPherson v. U. S., 245 F. 35, 157 C. C. A. 331.

§ 1340a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) Law books for judges transmitted to successors.

Books for judicial officers: For purchase and rebinding of law books, including the exchange thereof, for United States judges, district attorneys, and other judicial officers, including the nine libraries of the United States circuit courts of appeals, to be expended under the direction of the Attorney General: Provided, That such books shall in all cases be transmitted to their successors in office; all books purchased thereunder to be marked plainly, "The property of the United States." * * (40 Stat. 1265.)

This section is a provision of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN—FEES AND COMPENSATION OF OFFICERS

Sec.
1375. Fees to be taxed.
1376. Costs and fees in circuit courts of appeals.
1377. Tables of fees in circuit courts of appeals.

FEES OF ATTORNEYS, SOLICITORS AND PROCTORS

1378. Attorneys, solicitors, and proctors.

CLERKS' FEES

1383. Clerks' fees.
1385a. Clerks of district courts; appointment; salaries in lieu of fees; collection and disposition of fees.
1385b. Same; salaries; amount.
1385c. Same; traveling expenses.
1385d. Same; deputies and clerical assistants; compensation; traveling expenses.
1385e. Same; office expenses.
1385f. Same; salaries; when and by whom payable.
1385g. Same; expense accounts; payment.
1385h. Same; office expenses; payment.
1385i. Same; accounts.

MARSHALS' FEES

1386. Marshals' fees.

RETURNS OF FEES, EMOLUMENTS, AND EXPENSES, AND COMPENSATION AND ACCOUNTS OF OFFICERS

1394. Semi-annual returns of fees by district attorneys, marshals, and clerks.
1398. Semi-annual returns of fees by clerks.
1399. Reports and accounts by clerks for moneys received.
1400. Annual returns of fees by clerks of circuit courts of appeals.
1401. Annual returns of fees by clerk of Supreme Court.
1404. Compensation retained by a clerk.
1404a. Clerks; compensation; single fees.
1414. Payment of surplus fees into the Treasury.
1417. Accounts of district attorneys, clerks, marshals, and commissioners.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES OF DISTRICT ATTORNEYS AND MARSHALS

1418. District attorneys and marshals to be paid salaries.
1419. Salaries of district attorneys.
1420. Assistant district attorneys.
1420a. Assistant district attorneys; compensation.
1424a. Marshals; per diem.
1430. Demanding or receiving illegal fees; failure to account for or pay over fees.
1432a. District attorneys; District of Columbia; subsistence.
1448. District attorneys; District of Columbia; payment to deputies.
1450a. Marshals; western district of Michigan; salary.
1450b. District attorneys; district of Connecticut; salary.

COMMISSIONERS' FEES

1451a. National Park Commissioners; salaries.

WITNESSES' FEES

1452. Witnesses' fees.
1453. Fees and mileage of jurors and witnesses in certain states and territories.

§ 1375. (R. S. § 823.) Fees to be taxed.

7. Effect of statute to limit fees taxable—Other attorney fees.—A contract, by one having a Civil War claim against the government, with an attorney to pay him a fee equal to 50 per cent. of the amount which may be collected upon the claim, and giving the attorney a lien on any warrant that may be issued in payment of the claim, is valid (Comp. St. 1916, § 1375). Newman v. Moyers, 47 App. D. C. 102.

8. —— Proctor's fees.—Proctor's fees are not properly allowable as costs, to be taken out of the general fund recovered in a suit for salvage. The Johnson Lighterage Co. No. 24, 248 F. 74, 160 C. C. A. 214, modifying decree (D. C.) 240 F. 435.

10. —— Marshal's fees.—There can be no legal agreement for a marshal to charge more than $2.50 per day for keeping an attached vessel, the fee limited by Comp. St. 1916, § 1386. The Neptune (C. C. A.) 252 F. 129.

Cited without definite application, U. S. v. Oliphant (C. C. A.) 230 F. 1.

§ 1376. (Act March 3, 1891, c. 517, § 2, as amended, Act Feb. 19, 1897, c. 263.) Costs and fees in circuit courts of appeals.

Cited without definite application, Williamson v. Electric Service Supplies Co. (C. C. A.) 242 F. 873.

§ 1377. (Act Feb. 19, 1897, c. 263.) Tables of fees in circuit courts of appeals.

Relief from liability.—A stipulation to enable the owner to get his money in condemnation proceedings does not release him from liability for costs awarded against him on appeal; nor does the requirement by the New York statute that a city condemning a reservoir site shall furnish the owner with three printed copies of the evidence relieve the owner from liability for costs for certifying the record on appeal and the supervision fee and for printing the record in the Circuit Court of Appeals. In re Bensel (D. C.) 230 F. 932.

FEES OF ATTORNEYS, SOLICITORS, AND PROCTORS

§ 1378. (R. S. § 824.) Attorneys, solicitors, and proctors.

II. DOCKET FEE

3. When taxable.—The bondsmen are liable under Bankr. Act July 1, 1898, § 3e (Comp. St. 1916, § 9587), only for damages incident to the taking and withholding of property, not the costs and expenses incident to resisting the petition taxable under General Orders in Bankruptcy, rule 34 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 11392), and this section. In re J. Ito Terusaki (D. C.) 238 F. 934.

Under this section complainant, upon taking decree pro confesso, is entitled to docket fee of $20; such decree being final. Peerless Light Co. v. Leviton (D. C.) 247 F. 606.

6. Number of fees taxable.—A prevailing party in an appeal, in which separate suits were consolidated and heard on one record, held entitled to tax but one docket fee. Steffens v. Steiner, 232 F. 862, 147 C. C. A. 56.

11. Final hearing—Admiralty.—The dismissal of a suit in admiralty without prejudice on the unopposed motion of libelant is not a "final hearing," which entitles the proctor for respondent to a docket fee of $20; but the submission to the court on exceptions to the libel, which are sustained, is a final hearing, and respondent's proctor is not deprived of the right to a docket fee by the filing of an amended libel alleging facts which libelant is unable to prove, and which is therefore voluntarily dismissed without hearing. Albion Lumber Co. v. Inter-Ocean Transp. Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 1019.

IV. DEPOSITION FEE

15. What constitute depositions for which fees may be taxed.—Libelant's proctor is not entitled to fees for the taking of a deposition of a witness whose testimony was immaterial. The Mary (D. C.) 233 F. 121.

16. "Deposition taken and admitted."—While proctor's fees for taking a deposition cannot be allowed unless it is admitted in evidence, cost of transcribing same may be allowed, where deposition was taken in good faith, though witness appeared and testified. Alaska S. S. Co. v. Gilbert, 236 F. 715, 150 C. C. A. 47.

Cited without definite application. In re National Carbon Co. (C. C. A.) 241 F. 330; Motion Picture Patents Co. v. Universal Film Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 263.

CLERKS' FEES

§ 1383. (R. S. § 828.) Clerks' fees.

I. CLERKS' FEES

26. Copies—"Entry or record."—The proper fee for a certified transcript of the record on appeal or writ of error is 10 cents a folio, since the acts for which the higher fee is prescribed are original acts, deriving their origin from no previous record, and requiring original thought and judgment to make it conform precisely to the things done or ordered, while the originality, discretion, or judgment connected with the making of a certified transcript of the record is restricted to the selection of the parts of the record required by the rules to be transcribed, and responsibility in copying such parts is limited to accuracy, and, while the rule designates the transcript a "return," the return is to be made by transmitting a true copy of the record. U. S. v. Oliphant (C. C. A.) 230 F. 1.

27. —— "Any paper on file."—Charge by clerk of District Court for triplicate copies of declarations of intent for naturalization is not authorized by this section as if authorized by Act June 29, 1906, § 12 (Comp. St. 1916, § 4371), it would be forbidden by section 21 (Comp. St. 1916, § 4377); the service, not having been included in fees named in section 13 (Comp. St. 1916, § 4372), and if the duty arose under section 12 prohibition of section 21 would be applicable. Cross v. United States, 37 S. Ct. 5, 242 U. S. 4, 61 L. Ed. 114.

38. Fees for handling money.—Clerk of District Court is not entitled to charge a 1 per cent commission, or to make any charge whatever, where he acts as distributing agent under the direction of the court. In re Newbold (D. C.) 244 F. 888.

Cited without definite application, Williamson v. Electric Service Supplies Co. (C. C. A.) 242 F. 873; Motion Picture Patents Co. v. Universal Film Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 263.

§ 1385a. (Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 49, § 1.) Clerks of district courts; appointment; salaries in lieu of fees; collection and disposition of fees.

On and after the first day of July, nineteen hundred and eighteen, all clerks of United States district courts shall be appointed by the judge for the district, or the senior judge if there be more than one judge in the district, subject to the approval of the senior circuit judge for the circuit in which the district is situated, and all fees and emoluments authorized by law to be paid to the clerks of the United States district courts, except the clerks of the district courts of Alaska, shall be charged as heretofore and shall be collected, as far as possible, and paid into the Treasury of the United States in such manner and at such times as hereinafter provided; and such clerks shall be paid, in lieu of the fees and emoluments now allowed by law, an annual salary as hereinafter provided: Provided, That this section shall not be construed to require or authorize fees to be charged or collected from the United States. (40 Stat. 1182.)

This section, and the eight sections next following, are an act entitled "An act to fix the salaries of the clerks of the United States district courts and to provide for their office expenses, and for other purposes," cited above.

§ 1385b. (Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 49, § 2.) Same; salaries; amount.

The clerk of the United States district court for each of the judicial districts of the United States, except the clerks of the district courts of Alaska, shall be paid, in lieu of the fees, salaries, and per centum now allowed by law, an annual salary to be fixed by the Attorney General at not less than $2,500 nor more than $5,000, based in each instance upon the amount of business transacted by the court and the fees and the emoluments received by the clerks in the four years last preceding. (40 Stat. 1182.)

See note to § 1385a, ante.

§ 1385c. (Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 49, § 3.) Same; traveling expenses.

When any clerk of a district court is necessarily absent from his official residence on any official business he shall be allowed his actual traveling expenses only and his necessary and actual expenses for lodging and subsistence, the latter not to exceed $4 per day. (40 Stat. 1182.)

See note to § 1385a, ante.

§ 1385d. (Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 49, § 4.) Same; deputies and clerical assistants; compensation; traveling expenses.

When, in the opinion of the Attorney General, the public interest requires it he may, on the recommendation of the clerk of a district court, which recommendation shall state facts (as distinguished from conclusions) showing necessity for the same, allow such clerk to employ necessary deputies and clerical assistants, upon compensation to be fixed by the Attorney General from time to time and paid as hereinafter provided.

When any such deputy or clerical assistant is necessarily absent from the place of his regular employment on official business he shall be allowed his actual traveling expenses only and his necessary and actual expenses for lodging and subsistence, the latter not to exceed $3 per day. (40 Stat. 1182.)

See note to § 1385a, ante.

§ 1385e. (Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 49, § 5.) Same; office expenses.

The necessary office expenses of the clerks of the district courts of the United States shall be allowed when authorized by the Attorney General. (40 Stat. 1182.)

See note to § 1385a, ante.

§ 1385f. (Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 49, § 6.) Same; salaries; when and by whom payable.

The salaries of the clerks, deputy clerks, and clerical assistants to the clerks of the district courts shall be paid monthly by the marshals of the respective districts. (40 Stat. 1182.)

See note to § 1385a, ante.

§ 1385g. (Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 49, § 7.) Same; expense accounts; payment.

The expense accounts of clerks of the United States district courts, when made out and verified, and the expense accounts of their deputy clerks and clerical assistants, when made out and certified as correct by the clerk of such court, covering the necessary expenses incurred by such clerk, deputy clerk, or clerical assistants when necessarily absent from the place of regular employment on official business, shall be paid by the marshal, who shall include them in his accounts with the United States. (40 Stat. 1182.)

See note to § 1385a, ante.

§ 1385h. (Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 49, § 8.) Same; office expenses; payment.

The necessary office expenses of the clerk of the United States district court, as allowed and authorized by the Attorney General, shall be paid by the marshal and included in his accounts with the United States. (40 Stat. 1182.)

See note to § 1385a, ante.

§ 1385i. (Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 49, § 9.) Same; accounts.

The clerk of every district court, except the clerks of the district courts of Alaska, shall account quarterly for all the fees and emoluments earned during the quarter last preceding such accounting, except where the person requiring the services is relieved by law from prepayment of fees and costs, and for all fees and emoluments received within the quarter which had been earned prior thereto. Such accounting shall be in writing and shall be made to the Attorney General, in such form as he may prescribe, on the first days of January, April, July, and October in each year, or within twenty days thereafter, and shall include all moneys received in connection with the admission of attorneys to practice in the court, all that portion retained by the clerk of moneys received for services in naturalization proceedings in whatever capacity rendered, and all other amounts received for services in any way connected with the clerk's office. Such accounts shall be made in duplicate and be verified by the oath of the officer making them. The Attorney General shall cause each such return or account to be carefully examined by the proper officer of the Department of Justice and shall approve the same as he may deem just and proper, and shall transmit it with his approval to the Auditor for the State and Other Departments, by whom an account shall be stated against the officer rendering such return or account. Immediately upon receipt of notice from the auditor, or within ten days thereafter, the clerk shall deposit to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States the amount so stated against him. (40 Stat. 1183.)

See note to § 1385a, ante.

MARSHALS' FEES

§ 1386. (R. S. § 829.) Marshals' fees.

2½. Fees for serving writs—Summons.—The marshal is entitled to only one fee for the service of a summons and copy of the declaration on any defendant at the same time. Burroughs Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Dulaney (D. C.) 238 F. 255.

14½. Fees and expenses in admiralty—Fee for custody of attached vessel.—There can be no legal agreement for a marshal to charge more than $2.50 per day for keeping an attached vessel. The Neptune (C. C. A.) 252 F. 129.

The marshal is, where the claimant of a vessel libeled pays the amount of a decree, having secured its release from custody by the giving of bond, entitled to the commission provided. The Eros (D. C.) 245 F. 814.

15. —— Expenses of keeping property attached or libeled.—The $2.50 per day for keeping an attached vessel, allowed a marshal, covers only cost of custody proper; and, she sinking without his fault, a charge for raising and beaching is proper. The Neptune (C. C. A.) 252 F. 129.

16. —— Commissions on settlement of claim.—Where a decree in admiralty is settled without a sale, the marshal is entitled to have the reduced commission included in the decree as part of the costs. The Eros (C. C. A.) 251 F. 45.

RETURNS OF FEES, EMOLUMENTS, AND EXPENSES, AND COMPENSATION AND ACCOUNTS OF OFFICERS

§ 1394. (R. S. § 833.) Semi-annual returns of fees by district attorneys, marshals, and clerks.

"Fees and emoluments of his office."—Under a rule of a Circuit Court requiring the records in equity cases and on demurrers and rules to show cause to be printed under the clerk's supervision, the clerk made a practice of procuring and retaining extra copies of the record as so printed and using one of them for the transcript of the record returned to the Circuit Court of Appeals, and claimed the right to retain the fees received from litigants for making such transcripts, on the theory that he owned the copies of the record used and could sell them and keep the proceeds. Held, that it was his duty to demand and collect fees at the rate prescribed by statute, and to report and pay such fees to the government. U. S. v. Oliphant (C. C. A.) 230 F. 1.

Interest accruing on money collected by clerk of federal court for official services rendered, and held by him pending his semiannual return, do not constitute emoluments of clerk's office, to be accounted for to United States. U. S. v. MacMillan (C. C. A.) 251 F. 55.

§ 1398. (Act June 28, 1902, c. 1301, § 1.) Semi-annual returns of fees by clerks.

Emoluments.—Where the clerk charged litigants for printing an amount in excess of the amount paid by him for the printing, the amount so received by him was for services connected in a way with the clerk's office, and should have been reported and paid to the government, as the rule requiring printing had the force of law and demanded of the clerk a service in connection with that part of the court's business peculiarly related to his office. U. S. v. Oliphant (C. C. A.) 230 F. 1.

§ 1399. (Act June 30, 1906, c. 3914, § 1.) Reports and accounts by clerks for moneys received.

Liability for fees.—There is no obligation on clerk of District Court to account for fees until he has collected them, and so he is not responsible until collection for payment of fees, in actions by sailors which may be prosecuted without prepayment. The Memphian (D. C.) 245 F. 484.

Criminal prosecution for false entries.—Indictment alleging that accused made false entries in books and records which the Attorney General required to be kept under this section, and that such acts were in violation of Act March 4, 1911 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10270), providing for punishment of any clerk making false entries in accounts with intent to deceive the United States, is not demurrable; the words of the act of 1911, "or whoever being an officer, clerk, agent," etc., embracing clerks of courts. U. S. v. Dodge (D. C.) 251 F. 742.

§ 1400. (Act June 6, 1900, c. 791, § 1.) Annual returns of fees by clerks of circuit courts of appeals.

Prepayment of fees.—Act June 12, 1917, § 1 (see post, § 1630a), which makes appropriation for fees of clerks, provided that courts of United States shall be open to seamen without furnishing bond, or prepayment of or making deposit to secure fees or costs, does not apply to prosecution of appeals in Circuit Court of Appeals; clerk of that tribunal having stated salary, appropriation for which was made by Act March 3, 1917, § 1. The Nigretia, 249 F. 348, 161 C. C. A. 356.

§ 1401. (Act March 15, 1898, c. 68, § 8.) Annual returns of fees by clerk of Supreme Court.

Fees to be accounted for.—This section plainly requires all clerks of United States courts to render an account of all fees received by them from any and all sources in discharge of their official duties. Johnson v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 126.

§ 1404. (R. S. § 839.) Compensation retained by a clerk.

Naturalization fees.—Comp. St. 1916, § 4372, as to fees in naturalization cases, requires extra work from clerks of courts in naturalization proceedings, and permits retaining fees as therein provided, notwithstanding this section, limiting compensation of clerks to $3,500 per year. Darling v. U. S., 51 Ct. Cl. 100.

Amount of compensation and limitation thereon.—Where the clerk charged litigants for printing an amount in excess of the amount paid by him for the printing, the amount so received by him was for services connected in a way with the clerk's office, and should have been reported and paid to the government, as the rule requiring the printing had the force of law and demanded of the clerk a service in connection with that part of the court's business peculiarly related to his office. U. S. v. Oliphant (C. C. A.) 230 F. 1.

Where a clerk of a United States District Court has received the maximum compensation allowed by law, he is not entitled to additional fees or per diems for attendance at court in receiving and referring petitions to referees in involuntary bankruptcy cases. Johnson v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 126.

Compensation of assistants.—Where the regulations of the Department of Justice state that clerks of courts cannot employ, at the expense of the United States, assistants without the permission of the Attorney General, such clerks cannot under the law be reimbursed for the compensations paid assistants whose employment was not authorized by the Attorney General. Johnson v. U. S., 50 Ct. Cl. 126.

§ 1404a. (Act June 12, 1917, c. 27, § 1.) Clerks; compensation retained; single fees.

That for the calendar year nineteen hundred and seventeen, and thereafter, the maximum personal compensation of clerks of United States district courts shall in no case exceed $3,500 per annum, and that single fees only shall be charged by United States marshals and clerks of United States district courts against the United States and against private litigants in every judicial district. (40 Stat. 157.)

This was a provision of the sundry civil appropriation act for the fiscal year 1918, cited above.

§ 1414. (R. S. § 844.) Payment of surplus fees into the Treasury.

Liability of clerk for fees.—Under a rule of a Circuit Court requiring the records in equity cases and on demurrers and rules to show cause to be printed under the clerk's supervision, the clerk made a practice of procuring and retaining extra copies of the record as so printed and using one of them for the transcript of the record returned to the Circuit Court of Appeals, and claimed the right to retain the fees received from litigants for making such transcripts, on the theory that he owned the copies of the record used and could sell them and keep the proceeds. Held, that it was his duty to demand and collect fees at the rate prescribed by statute, and to report and pay such fees to the government. U. S. v. Oliphant (C. C. A.) 230 F. 1.

§ 1417. (Act Feb. 22, 1875, c. 95, § 1.) Accounts of district attorneys, clerks, marshals, and commissioners.

Rendition of account.—Where the clerk of a Circuit Court failed to account to the government for fees collected for services in connection with certified transcripts of records transmitted to the Circuit Court of Appeals, and in the docket records of such cases entries were made showing that transcripts had been forwarded to the court, but failing to show that fees had been charged or collected therefor, and such accounts were examined and passed by the officials of the Department of Justice, the failure of the department to discover that the fees were being withheld did not amount to an approval of the clerk's retention of the fees or to an account stated, defeating a recovery of such fees by the government. U. S. v. Oliphant (C. C. A.) 230 F. 1.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES OF DISTRICT ATTORNEYS AND MARSHALS

§ 1418. (Act May 28, 1896, c. 252, § 6.) District attorneys and marshals to be paid salaries.

Cited without definite application, McPherson v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 245 F. 35.

§ 1419. (Act May 28, 1896, c. 252, § 7.) Salaries of district attorneys.

Cited without definite application, McPherson v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 245 F. 35.

§ 1420. (Act May 28, 1896, c. 252, § 8.) Assistant district attorneys.

Special assistant district attorney.—Under Act June 22, 1870, and Act June 30, 1906 (Comp. St. 1916, § 534), bankrupt charged with knowingly and fraudulently concealing his property from trustee cannot complain that attorney for petitioning creditors was duly appointed special assistant United States district attorney and participated in prosecution. Terry v. U. S., 235 F. 701, 149 C. C. A. 121.

§ 1420a. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 113, § 1.) Assistant district attorneys; compensation.

Except as otherwise prescribed by law the compensation of such of the assistant district attorneys authorized by section eight of the Act approved May twenty-eighth, eighteen hundred and ninety-six, as the Attorney General may deem necessary, may be fixed at not exceeding $3,000 per annum. (40 Stat. 683.)

This was a provision of the sundry civil appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. See § 1420, U. S. Comp. St. 1916.

§ 1424a. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 113, § 1.) Marshals; per diem.

Marshals and office deputy marshals (except in the district of Alaska) may be granted a per diem of not to exceed $4 and $3, respectively, in lieu of subsistence, instead of, but under the conditions prescribed for, the present allowance for actual expenses of subsistence. (40 Stat. 683.)

This was a provision of the sundry civil appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above.

§ 1430. (Act May 28, 1896, c. 252, § 18.) Demanding or receiving illegal fees; failure to account for or pay over fees.

Cited without definite application, McPherson v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 245 F. 35.

§ 1432a. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 113, § 1.) District attorneys; District of Columbia; subsistence.

After July first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, the maximum allowance for actual expenses of subsistence to the United States attorney for the District of Columbia and his assistants, when absent from the District of Columbia on official business, shall be $4 per day. (40 Stat. 683.)

This was a provision of the sundry civil appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above.

§ 1448. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 113, § 1.) District attorneys; District of Columbia; payment to deputies.

The United States district attorney for the District of Columbia shall hereafter pay to his deputies or assistants not exceeding in all $15,000 per annum; also his clerical and messenger hire not exceeding $10,000; office rent, fuel, stationery, printing, and other incidental expenses not exceeding $2,500, out of the fees of his office: Provided, That no expenses other than those above specified shall be allowed. (40 Stat. 683.)

This was a provision of the sundry civil appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

§ 1450a. (Act June 13, 1918, c. 99.) Marshals; western district of Michigan; salary.

From and after the passage of this Act the salary of the United States marshal for the western district of Michigan shall be at the rate of $4,000 a year. (40 Stat. 605.)

§ 1450b. (Act Feb. 26, 1919, c. 51.) District attorneys; district of Connecticut; salary.

From and after the passage of this Act the salary of the United States district attorney for the district of Connecticut shall be at the rate of $4,500 a year. (40 Stat. 1183.)

This section is an act entitled "An act to increase the salary of the United States District Attorney for the district of Connecticut," cited above.

COMMISSIONERS' FEES

§ 1451a. (Act March 1, 1919, c. 86, § 1.) National Park Commissioners; salaries.

National Park Commissioners: For commissioners in the Crater Lake, Glacier, Mount Rainier, and Yellowstone National Parks, at $1,500 each, $6,000. The provisions of section 21 of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation Act approved May 28, 1896, shall not be construed as impairing the rights of said commissioners to receive the salaries provided herein. (40 Stat. 1265.)

This section is a part of the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation act for the fiscal year 1920, cited above.

For Act May 28, 1896, c. 252, § 21, referred to in this section, see U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 1451.

WITNESSES' FEES

§ 1452. (R. S. § 848.) Witnesses' fees.

1. Compensation of witnesses in general.—A libelant held not entitled to have fees for witnesses who were examined before commissioner taxed under Act May 27, 1908 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1453), but to only have them taxed under this section. The Mary (D. C.) 233 F. 121.

5. Witnesses attending voluntarily.—The fees of witnesses who attend voluntarily at the request of the prevailing party may be taxed as costs, as "pursuant to law" does not limit the fees to witnesses attending pursuant to subpœna, but has relation to the word "officer," and restricts the application of the statute to witnesses attending before some officer conducting a hearing in pursuance of law. U. S. v. Southern Pac. Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 270.

8. Witness attending in more than one case or in dual capacity—Attendance fees.—Where, though libels were not consolidated, they involved substantially the same issues and were tried on the same testimony, only one fee for attendance and travel should be allowed witnesses. The Vera, 229 F. 557, 144 C. C. A. 17, amending decree on rehearing 226 F. 369, 141 C. C. A. 199.

13. Relation between right to compensation and distance traveled—Mileage.—It is well settled that mileage for witnesses who attend from a distance beyond the reach of a subpœna can only be allowed to the extent of 100 miles. U. S. v. Southern Pac. Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 270.

§ 1453. (Act May 27, 1908, c. 200, § 1.) Fees and mileage of jurors and witnesses in certain states and territories.

Witness before commissioner.—A libelant held not entitled to have fees for witnesses who were examined before commissioner taxed under this section, but to only have them taxed under Rev. St. § 848 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1452), allowing $1.50 per day. The Mary (D. C.) 233 F. 121.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN—EVIDENCE

Sec.
1464. Competency of witnesses in civil cases.
1465. Competency as witnesses of defendants in criminal cases.
1466. Competency as witness of husband or wife of defendant in prosecution for bigamy, etc.
1468. Mode of proof in common-law actions.
1469. Power to order production of books and writings in actions at law.
1470. Mode of proof in equity and admiralty causes.
1471. Handwriting as basis for comparison.
1472. Depositions de bene esse.
1474. Transmission to the court of depositions de bene esse.
1476. Depositions under State laws.
1477. Depositions under a dedimus potestatem and in perpetuam, etc.
1479. Deposition under a dedimus potestatem.
1480. Subpœna duces tecum under a dedimus potestatem.
1487. Subpœnas to run into another district.
1494. Copies of department records and papers.
1496. Instruments and papers of Comptroller of the Currency.
1497. Organization certificates of national banks.
1504. Copies of records of General Land-Office.
1508. Extracts from the Journals of Congress.
1519. Authentication of legislative acts and proof of judicial proceedings of State, etc.
1520. Proofs of records, etc., not pertaining to courts.
1521. Copies of foreign records, etc., relating to land-titles in the United States.
1523. Revised Statutes as evidence.

§ 1464. (R. S. § 858, as amended, Act June 29, 1906, c. 3608.) Competency of witnesses in civil cases.

Construction and operation of this section and of former law.—The result of the Conformity Act (Rev. Stat. § 914; Comp. St. 1916, § 1537), the Rules of Decision Act (Rev. Stat. § 721; Comp. St. 1916, § 1538), and the Competency of Witnesses Act (Rev. Stat. § 858; Comp. St. 1916, § 1464), is to make state statutes relating to the competency of witnesses and the competency of testimony, as well as the state law of evidence generally, binding on the federal courts sitting within such state, except where in conflict with the federal Constitution, statutes, or treaties. American Issue Pub. Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 248 F. 251.

In criminal prosecution in federal courts, held that, despite Const. Wash. art. 1. § 2, and this section, objection to witness' competency on ground that he did not believe in divine punishment as result of breaking an oath should be sustained. U. S. v. Miller (D. C.) 236 F. 798, overruled by Louie Ding v. U. S., 247 F. 12. 159 C. C. A. 230.

Competency, credibility, and impeachment of witnesses in general.—Evidence of a pending indictment is not competent to affect the credibility of a witness. Walker Grain Co. v. Blair Elevator Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 422.

Where one of the parties to a transaction was dead, a witness who was really an adversary party to decedent is incompetent to testify. Johnson v. Garner (D. C.) 233 F. 756.

Laws of state.—Under this section, federal court should follow decisions of highest state court, interpreting local statutes as to competency of witnesses; but, in absence of direct decisions by state courts, it will not be presumed, in an action, that state court's rule of decision is in conflict with unambiguous terms of state statute.—Central Iron & Coal Co. v. Hamacher, 248 F. 50, 160 C. C. A. 190.

—— Particular state laws.—Under Gen. Code Ohio, § 11495, neither the maker of a note nor indorsers will be deemed parties adverse to representatives of a deceased indorser, in action by holder. Murray v. Third Nat. Bank of St. Louis, 234 F. 481, 148 C. C. A. 247.

A bona fide assignment of his interest in the subject-matter of a suit held to render a witness, otherwise incompetent for interest, competent under Act Pa. May 23, 1887 (P. L. 160) § 6. Alexander v. Fidelity Trust Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 938, decree reversed Fidelity Trust Co. v. Alexander (C. C. A.) 243 F. 162.

Grantees held incompetent, under Civ. Code Prac. Ky. § 606—2, to testify after death of grantor concerning the time a reservation was inserted in their deed. Estep v. Kentland Coal & Coke Co., 239 F. 617, 152 C. C. A. 451.

In action by executor on note owned by his testatrix, held that, under Sess. Laws Colo. 1911, p. 676, one who, according to his own testimony, was primarily liable on note, if valid, instead of defendant, was interested party and incompetent. Cordingly v. Kennedy, 239 F. 645, 152 C. C. A. 479.

Under this section, witness testifying in federal court for Pennsylvania is incompetent to testify as to transactions had with, or statements made by, one dead at time of trial, that being rule of state practice. M. B. Fahey Tobacco Co. v. Senior (D. C.) 247 F. 809, decree affirmed in part and reversed in part (C. C. A.) 252 F. 579.

Under Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 829, one who contracted with corporation through agent cannot after death of agent testify as to circumstances surrounding the contract, but if he does so the agent's report to the corporation is admissible. Baldwin Co. v. R. S. Howard Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 439.

Under Rev. St. § 858, as amended by Act June 29, 1906, and Rev. Code Del. 1915, § 4212, complainant held entitled to testify as to transaction with deceased as basis for decree against corporation though officer's estate owned stock, as decree against it would not be one against the executrix. Wright v. Barnard (D. C.) 248 F. 756.

Privileges and immunity of witnesses.—The federal and state governments have power to provide that returns made to their officers to be used in assessing and collecting revenue and taxes shall not be revealed by the officers, and such provisions protect the officers against commitment for contempt for refusal to produce such returns on subpœna by a court. In re Valecia Condensed Milk Co., 240 F. 310, 153 C. C. A. 236.

§ 1465. (Act March 16, 1878, c. 37.) Competency as witnesses of defendants in criminal cases.

Construction and operation.—Under this section, a defendant jointly indicted and tried with others may at his own request testify on behalf of the government against his codefendants. Heitler v. U. S., 244 F. 140, 156 C. C. A. 568.

Comment on failure to testify.—Accused, who voluntarily testifies for himself, may not omit to explain incriminating circumstances as to which he is informed, without subjecting his silence to the inferences to be drawn from it, and justifying comment in the charge to effect the jury may consider it. Caminetti v. U. S., 37 S. Ct. 192, 242 U. S. 470, 61 L. Ed. 442, L. R. A. 1917F, 502, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 1168, affirming judgments Diggs v. Same, 220 F. 545, 136 C. C. A. 147, and Hays v. Same, 231 F. 106, 145 C. C. A. 294.

Where defendant's counsel did not object to court's remark that defendant's testimony would be more important than a letter written by him, held, that statutory protection against reference to defendant's right to testify was waived. York v. U. S., 241 F. 656, 154 C. C. A. 414.

In a prosecution under Penal Code, § 215 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10385), for using the mails to defraud, where court is alleged to have commented on defendant's failure to testify, evidence held to show that the verdict was based upon the direct and positive testimony of witnesses and documents and the legitimate inferences, and not from any prejudice because defendants did not testify in their own behalf. Sidebotham v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 417.

Where defendant took the stand, but was prevented from answering questions on cross-examination by objections that they did not come within the scope of the direct examination, the prosecutor could comment in his argument on defendant's failure to answer. Le More v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 887.

Argument by the attorney for the United States that the evidence against defendants was conclusive, and that it had not been contradicted, is not objectionable as a comment on the failure of defendants to testify. Bradley v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 289.

Instructions.—Reference in charge to certain government testimony as uncontradicted does not violate this section; it not being plain that no one but defendants could have disputed the facts. Shea v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 440.

A charge that the fact defendant did not testify should not be considered against him, but he was entitled to stand on the presumption of innocence, held in no way prejudicial, but favorable, to the defendant. Kreuzer v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 34.

Cross-examination and impeachment.—In a prosecution for falsely representing himself to be a citizen of the United States, defendant, who took the stand in his own behalf, may be required to answer whether he ran a blind tiger, when the court charges that his answer can be considered, not as evidence of guilt, but only as affecting, in so far as it involved moral delinquency, his credibility as a witness. Christopoulo v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 788.

As the rules of evidence are the same in civil and criminal cases, a defendant who takes the stand may be cross-examined upon his evidence in chief. Greer v. U. S., 240 F. 320, 153 C. C. A. 246.

In a prosecution under Harrison Drug Act Dec. 17, 1914 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 6287g–6287q), wherein defendant had not testified in his examination in chief as to his alleged offer to bribe an officer to delay his arrest, questions relative thereto were not proper cross-examination. Paquin v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 579.

Where a defendant charged with violating Penal Code, § 215 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10385), by using mails in connection with scheme to defraud, whereby ocean carriers were induced to issue fraudulent bills of lading, which were attached to drafts that were negotiated, testified that acceptors who understood transaction were able to pay, etc., cross-examination as to amount of acceptances was not objectionable as relating to matter not brought out on direct examination. Le More v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 887.

A defendant in a criminal case, who elects to take the witness stand, is subject to all the rules and tests applicable to other witnesses, and renders admissible records of former convictions for felony. Williams v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 52.

Where accused took the stand in his own behalf, he could be impeached, like any other witness, by proof of his prior conviction of an offense, which Penal Code, § 335 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10509), made a felony; the evidence being restricted to that purpose. Gordon v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 53.

Where defendant on cross-examination was asked if he had an identified conversation, and he not only denied having said the things to which his attention was directed, but gave his understanding of the conversation, and the government in rebuttal placed a witness on the stand who contradicted him, defendant on surrebuttal is not entitled to again give his version. Bentall v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 294.

It was proper to refuse to allow defendant as a witness to answer a leading question calling for undisclosed state of mind of defendant upon a subject-matter which was vital to the case and upon which it was impossible to contradict him. Flowers v. Bush & Witherspoon Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 519.

§ 1466. (Act March 3, 1887, c. 397, § 1.) Competency as witness of husband or wife of defendant in prosecution for bigamy, etc.

Offenses against wife.—Interstate transportation of wife for immoral purpose, in violation of Act June 25, 1910 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8813), held such a personal wrong against her as authorizes her to testify. Pappas v. U. S., 241 F. 665, 154 C. C. A. 423; U. S. v. Bozeman (D. C.) 236 F. 432.

Wife of codefendant.—The wife of one of several defendants charged with conspiracy, who has pleaded guilty, can testify against the other defendants over their objection, where neither she nor her husband claim privilege. Knoell v. U. S., 239 F. 16, 152 C. C. A. 66, affirming judgment U. S. v. Knoell (D. C.) 230 F. 509.

§ 1468. (R. S. § 861.) Mode of proof in common-law actions.

Documentary evidence.—At the trial on an amended declaration, the original declaration held admissible to contradict a witness of plaintiff, and to show that the allegations of the amended declaration were an afterthought. Cooperative Raw Fur Co. v. American Credit Indemnity Co., 240 F. 67, 153 C. C. A. 103.

Discovery and interrogatories.—Because of this section, Gen. Code Ohio, §§ 11551, 11552, empowering the court in an action at law to require parties to produce books and writings under circumstances where they might have been compelled to produce them by the ordinary rules of chancery, are inapplicable to the federal courts. General Film Co. v. Sampliner (C. C. A.) 232 F. 95.

Examination of witnesses.—Admission of evidence on redirect examination held within the court's discretion. Itasca Lumber Co. v. Martin, 230 F. 584, 144 C. C. A. 638.

In action against revenue collector for penalties paid under protest, permission of witness for defendant to read from diary as to conversation with plaintiff, without stating whether he had independent recollection of conversation, was error. De Witt v. Skinner, 232 F. 443, 146 C. C. A. 437.

The use by the plaintiff of an affidavit previously verified by his witness to refresh his recollection so as to qualify and add to his testimony was not subject to objection that he was impeaching his own witness. George Brown & Co. v. O'Connor, 238 F. 552, 151 C. C. A. 488.

Question to witness, wholly argumentative in character and not directed to any question of fact, is properly excluded. Wilson v. Studebaker Corporation of America (D. C.) 240 F. 801.

—— Cross-examination.—Where contractor claimed that county's engineer was in collusion with others to eliminate him and substitute a different contractor, cross-examination as to favoritism of such other contractor under former contracts held within the court's discretion. Lauderdale County v. Kittel, 229 F. 593, 143 C. C. A. 615.

A witness who testified to contradictory statements made by the prosecuting witness can be cross-examined as to whether he communicated such statements to defendant and as to what he communicated. Kinser v. U. S., 231 F. 856, 146 C. C. A. 52.

Right of cross-examination is not confined to specific questions of direct examination, but extends to subject-matter. De Witt v. Skinner, 232 F. 443, 146 C. C. A. 437; Owl Creek Coal Co. v. Goleb, 232 F. 445, 146 C. C. A. 439.

Where a witness was fully cross-examined as to a matter, the trial judge, in his discretion, may refuse to permit further repetition. Memphis St. Ry. Co. v. Bobo, 232 F. 708, 146 C. C. A. 634.

How far a party may be allowed to, in effect, cross-examine his own witness, is usually a matter in the sound judicial discretion of the trial judge. Big Vein Pocahontas Co. v. Repass, 238 F. 332, 151 C. C. A. 348.

Where defendant claimed that hops tendered under contract were improperly rejected, witness testifying for plaintiff suing for advances, may be properly cross-questioned to bring out the condition of the hops, to show he was testifying to a matter of which he could not have had knowledge. Wolf v. Edmunson, 240 F. 53, 153 C. C. A. 89.

Admission of question in cross-examination of party as to a date, referring to a fire in which plaintiff's children were burned, over objection that it was argumentative, held not an abuse of discretion. George v. Meyers, 241 F. 653, 154 C. C. A. 411.

—— Redirect examination.—Where, on cross-examination, defendant's witness testified to making false statements as to the matter with which accused was charged with perjury, accused is, on redirect examination, entitled to bring out the witness' explanation of her false statements. Safford v. U. S., 233 F. 495, 147 C. C. A. 381.

Question on redirect examination as to what witness, who had difficulty in making himself understood, meant, held properly admitted. George v. Meyers, 241 F. 653, 154 C. C. A. 411.

§ 1469. (R. S. § 724.) Power to order production of books and writings in actions at law.

I. "IN THE TRIAL"

1. Right to require production before trial.—This section does not authorize an order for the production of books and writings before the trial, and so does not deprive a court of equity of jurisdiction to entertain a bill of discovery in aid of an action at law before trial. General Film Co. v. Sampliner (C. C. A.) 232 F. 95.

Complainant cannot be required to present its case before trial, though the facts alleged are to be proven by oral evidence or written documents. Churchward International Steel Co. v. Bethlehem Steel Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 322.

IV. "DUE NOTICE"

4. Necessity and sufficiency.—Where defendant testified that in response to subpœna duces tecum he had produced all correspondence before grand jury, and asserted that he did not receive decoy letters, in response to which it was contended he deposited in mails nonmailable matter, secondary evidence of such decoy letters was properly received, though government served no notice to produce. Pilson v. U. S., 249 F. 328, 161 C. C. A. 336.

VIII. OTHER REMEDIES AND EFFECT OF STATUTE THEREON

21. Remedy by discovery.—This section does not deprive a court of equity of jurisdiction to entertain a bill of discovery in aid of an action at law before trial. General Film Co. v. Sampliner, 232 F. 95, 146 C. C. A. 287.

Cited without definite application, Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 964.

§ 1470. (R. S. § 862.) Mode of proof in equity and admiralty causes.

Taking testimony under equity rules.
—See Block v. Arrowsmith Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 775.

§ 1471. (Act Feb. 26, 1913, c. 79.) Handwriting as basis for comparison.

Genuineness of handwriting offered.—In prosecution for altering postal money order, notebook containing personal memoranda, taken from accused's possession, held admissible as basis of comparison of accused's handwriting, though accused denied that order was issued to him and that book was his. Dean v. U. S., 246 F. 568, 158 C. C. A. 538.

Witnesses who had seen writing of defendant, who was charged with depositing and causing to be deposited in post office letter containing poison, etc., are competent to testify that writing and signature was that of accused. Murray v. U. S., 247 F. 874, 160 C. C. A. 96.

§ 1472. (R. S. § 863.) Depositions de bene esse.

1. Construction and operation of statute in general.—Equity rule 47 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2516), limiting time for taking depositions without order of court does not vary this section, but merely regulates the procedure, and was within the power of the Supreme Court. Audiffren Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 783.

2. Mode of taking depositions.—Though defendant would have sufficient protection by taking depositions under this section, held that, under Act March 9, 1892 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1476), complainant's motion for an open commission to take depositions on written interrogatories in conformity with the state practice should be granted; a considerable economy being effected. Cook v. Flagg (D. C.) 233 F. 713.

6. Right to take depositions—When witness lives at greater distance than 100 miles.—Despite equity rule 46 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2516), held in view of this section, that testimony of infirm witnesses residing more than 100 miles from place of trial might be taken before judge prior to trial. Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 244 F. 836.

10. Notice of taking.—Court has power to vacate notices of taking of depositions de bene esse under this section, if the procedure is irregular. Audiffren Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 783.

14½. —— Notice of filing deposition.—Claimants, being notified of taking of deposition under this section, and not appearing, held not entitled to object that they were not notified of filing of same; it not clearly appearing whether, under local laws of Porto Rico, where deposition was used, that they were entitled to such notice. The D. J. Sawyer, 236 F. 913, 150 C. C. A. 175.

15. Time of taking.—Under Rev. St. §§ 862, 863, 917 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1470, 1472, 1543), and equity rules 47, 56 (Comp. St. 1916, pp. 2516, 2520), plaintiff could not, after expiration of time for taking depositions prescribed by rules, take deposition on notice to defendant without order of court. Block v. Arrowsmith Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 775; Audiffren Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 783.

21. Retaking and re-examination.—The testimony of the same witness may be taken by deposition de bene esse, under this section, more than once, in equity as well as at law. Audiffren Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 783.

Cited without definite application, In re Subpœnas Duces Tecum (D. C.) 248 F. 137.

§ 1474. (R. S. § 865.) Transmission to the court of depositions de bene esse.

12. Admission in evidence—Existence and continuance of grounds for taking.—Deposition taken under stipulation is admissible, without proof that witness was not, at time it was offered, within jurisdiction of court. The Colusa, 248 F. 21, 160 C. C. A. 161, affirming decree (D. C.) 241 F. 968.

16. —— Waiver of objections.—Where defendant read in evidence depositions taken by plaintiff, defendant cannot complain on appeal that the depositions contained incompetent and hearsay evidence. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Collins Produce Co., 235 F. 857, 149 C. C. A. 169.

Where expert accountant, on the taking of his deposition, produced corporate books then in his custody, testified as to matters found therein, and made a tabulation therefrom which was attached to his deposition, all without objection, a stipulation as to the reservation of objections does not warrant exclusion of deposition on trial upon ground that books were not produced. Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. Abbot, 247 F. 833, 160 C. C. A. 55, certiorari denied 39 S. Ct. 6, 63 L. Ed. —.

19. —— Deposition taken in another suit or proceeding.—Contrary to the general rule, a deposition of a witness now dead, taken in a suit between strangers, if tending to prove ancient possession of land, is admissible in evidence; but a deposition of the then clerk of the United States Circuit Court for the Eastern District of Virginia as to destruction of the records of that court in 1865, taken many years before trial in another action, is inadmissible to prove that fact, as it might be shown by the custodian in charge of the records at the time of trial. Virginia & West Virginia Coal Co. v. Charles (C. C. A.) 251 F. 83.

The admissibility of depositions taken in a prior suit between the same parties must be determined in the case in which they are offered. Young v. J. Samuels & Bro. (D. C.) 232 F. 784.

The general rule in Virginia is that depositions taken in a former suit cannot be read in evidence in a subsequent suit, unless there be substantial identity both of parties and issues. Virginia & West Virginia Coal Co. v. Charles (D. C.) 251 F. 83.

24. Suppression of depositions—Grounds.—Where witness refuses to answer pertinent questions, stating she acts upon advice of counsel, thus evading proper inquiry, her whole testimony may be stricken. Kirkpatrick v. McBride, 232 F. 859, 147 C. C. A. 53, affirming decree McBride v. Kirkpatrick (D. C.) 207 F. 893.

§ 1476. (Act March 9, 1892, c. 14.) Depositions under state laws.

Right to take deposition.—Though defendant would have sufficient protection by taking depositions under Rev. St. § 863 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1472), held that, under this section complainant's motion for an open commission to take depositions on written interrogatories in conformity with the state practice should be granted; a considerable economy being effected. Cook v. Flagg (D. C.) 233 F. 713.

§ 1477. (R. S. § 866.) Depositions under a dedimus potestatem and in perpetuam, etc.

IV. ADMISSION OF DEPOSITIONS IN EVIDENCE

16. Admissibility.—Where, after defendant read the direct testimony in a deposition of one of its witnesses, plaintiff withdrew the cross-examination, and defendant thereafter read the cross-examination, it thereby made the cross-examination its own testimony. American Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Berthold & Jennings Lumber Co., 233 F. 971, 147 C. C. A. 645.

Where order for taking deposition applied for during trial limited inquiry to one matter, exclusion of testimony as to other matters held within court's discretion. Norma Mining Co. v. Mackay, 241 F. 640, 154 C. C. A. 398.

§ 1479. (R. S. § 868.) Deposition under a dedimus potestatem.

Effect of statute.—While, under Rev. St. §§ 868, 869 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1479, 1480), a subpœna duces tecum, commanding witness to produce documents before commissioner authorized to take testimony under dedimus potestatem, is only issued upon application to judge, clerk may issue subpœna duces tecum, directing witness to produce documents in criminal proceeding, for his privilege will in all events be protected. In re Subpœnas Duces Tecum (D. C.) 248 F. 137.

§ 1480. (R. S. § 869.) Subpœna duces tecum under a dedimus potestatem.

Effect of statute.—Where exhibits are offered in evidence, trial court has power to impound them with clerk for future use; such power being analogous to that underlying subpœna duces tecum. Perlman Rim Corporation v. Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 304.

While, under Rev. St. §§ 868, 869 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1479, 1480), a subpœna duces tecum, commanding witness to produce documents before commissioner authorized to take testimony under dedimus potestatem, is only issued upon application to judge, clerk may issue subpœna duces tecum, directing witness to produce documents in criminal proceeding, for his privilege will in all events be protected. In re Subpœnas Duces Tecum (D. C.) 248 F. 137.

§ 1487. (R. S. § 876.) Subpœnas to run into another district.

Construction and operation.—This section includes subpœnas duces tecum, as well as ordinary subpœnas ad testificandum. In re Subpœnas Duces Tecum (D. C.) 248 F. 137.

Witnesses beyond 100-mile limit.—A subpœna, served without the district and more than 100 miles from the place of holding court, has no potency, and a witness attending pursuant thereto is regarded as attending voluntarily. U. S. v. Southern Pac. Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 270.

§ 1494. (R. S. § 882.) Copies of department records and papers.

Copies of records—Weigher's certificate.—A government weigher's certificate, stating the quantity, etc., of certain beans, not identified with those involved in the suit, and whose accuracy was not proved, nor its contents brought home to defendant, is incompetent. Llopis v. P. Pastene & Co. (Sup.) 159 N. Y. S. 773.

—— Records of weather bureau.—The records of the weather bureau at St. Louis that the greatest rainfall occurring in over 40 years occurred during a particular storm are inadmissible to prove conditions existing in Madison county. Handfelder v. East Side Levee & Sanitary District, 194 Ill. App. 262.

§ 1496. (R. S. § 884.) Instruments and papers of Comptroller of the Currency.

Authentication.—In view of Rev. St. §§ 178, 327, 884 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 260, 498, 1496), as to certificates of Comptroller of the Currency all certificates from the office of the Comptroller of the Currency of the United States, authenticated by seal, are admissible. Weitzel v. Brown, 112 N. E. 945, 224 Mass. 190.

§ 1497. (R. S. § 885.) Organization certificates of national banks.

Parol evidence.—Under Rev. Laws Okl. 1910, § 5112, and this section, parol evidence is competent to prove existence of a national bank, where its existence is called in question collaterally. Farmers' Nat. Bank v. Johnston (Okl.) 176 P. 236.

§ 1504. (R. S. § 891.) Copies of records of General Land-Office.

Receiver's receipt.—A receiver's receipt from the United States government for land, offered by plaintiff as a foundation for his title in an action to quiet title, without being otherwise certified or shown to be genuine, was inadmissible for any purpose. Olson v. Kelsey (Colo.) 157 P. 194.

§ 1508. (R. S. § 895.) Extracts from the Journals of Congress.

Confirmation of officer's appointment.—Where plaintiff deraigned title from a deed executed by the designated collector of the federal direct tax of 1816, an extract from the Journal of the Executive Proceedings of the United States, certified in accordance with this section, showing that the nomination of the grantor in the deed relied on as collector of direct taxes was confirmed in 1814, is admissible, though not showing that he was appointed designated collector. Virginia & West Virginia Coal Co. v. Charles (D. C.) 251 F. 83.

§ 1519. (R. S. § 905.) Authentication of legislative acts and proof of judicial proceedings of State, etc.

I. AUTHENTICATION OF LEGISLATIVE ACTS

1. Proof of foreign statutes.—Act of Congress providing, how acts of state Legislature shall be authenticated does not deprive state of power to declare, as done by Rev. St. La. 1440, that statutes of another state published in book form shall be admissible and prima facie evidence of its contents. Marzette v. Cronk, 75 So. 107, 141 La. 437.

3. Necessity of proof—Judicial notice.—The courts of the forum will not take judicial notice of foreign statutes. Swan v. Gregory (Mich.) 161 N. W. 933; Otto v. Pryor (Mo. App.) 193 S. W. 28.

Under Code W. Va. 1913, c. 13, § 4 (sec. 333), judicial notice will be taken by the courts of the laws of a foreign state. Appalachian Marble Co. v. Masonic Temple Ass'n (W. Va.) 91 S. E. 403.

10. Parol evidence.—In action based on laws of state of Kansas, permitting one of plaintiff's attorneys, acquainted with laws of Kansas, to testify as to what law was in that jurisdiction, held not error. Church v. Central Coal & Coke Co. (Mo. App.) 195 S. W. 573.

It was not an abuse of discretion for the trial court to permit an attorney to testify what the law of Alaska was on a given subject, where he testified that he had practiced law there for three years and was so practicing when the Code went into effect. Lipsett v. Dettering, 162 P. 1007, 94 Wash. 629.

II. PROOF OF JUDICIAL PROCEEDINGS

(A) Construction, operation, and validity of statutory provision

14. "Records and judicial proceedings."—The probate of a will in common form under Civ. Code Ga. 1910, § 3855, held not a judgment entitled to full faith and credit by virtue of this section in courts of other states. Frederick v. Wilbourne (Ala.) 73 So. 442.

(B) Authentication in general

28. Whether this method exclusive.—A copy of a foreign judgment duly attested, sealed, and certified as required by this section, is admissible in evidence, though not authenticated according to Rev. Laws Okl. 1910, § 5098. Block v. Schafer (Okl.) 162 P. 456.

In an action to recover on a judgment of another state, proof by witness of the attached copy as a compared copy of the judgment on the original docket of the court of such state is admissible. Wallace v. Schneider (Tex. Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 333.

31. Requisites and sufficiency.—Under Civ. Code Ga. 1910, § 5824, exemplification of record of letters of administration of administratrix of deceased nonresident plaintiff in whose name action was revived held sufficient within this section. Stewart v. Fisher, 89 S. E. 1052, 18 Ga. App. 519.

Where a certificate of judicial proceedings in a foreign state pursuant to act of Congress was signed by a deputy clerk and chancellor certified only to official character of clerk, held, that the certificate is not sufficient to be admissible in evidence. Painter v. Bank of Osyka, 73 So. 266, 140 La. 457; Id., 73 So. 268, 140 La. 465.

A certified copy of foreign judgment sued on held properly authenticated under this section, though no judgment is shown to have been signed by the trial judge and filed in the court. Shufeldt v. Bank of Mound City (Okl.) 160 P. 923.

34. —— Probate proceedings.—Certified copy of will executed in Peoria, Ill., and of probate thereof in Pueblo, Colo., testatrix's residence, was not competent evidence of title to realty in Illinois, where authenticated copy was not recorded in Illinois according to Statute on Wills, § 2, and certificate of clerk of Colorado probate court failed to state that will was executed agreeably to laws of Colorado as provided by section 9. Barnett v. Barnett (Ill.) 120 N. E. 532.

Purported certificate of appointment in another state as executors of original nonresident defendant, not bearing seal of any court and not accompanied by letters testamentary or by a copy of will, etc., did not sufficiently prove that parties presenting it were executors entitled to be made parties defendant. First Nat. Bank v. Pancake (N. C.) 90 S. E. 515.

Under Shannon's Code Tenn. §§ 3914, 3915, and this section, a certified copy of a foreign will of one of plaintiff's predecessors in title, which was probated by the proper officer in the foreign state, and a duly certified copy of which, with the certificate of probate, was recorded in Tennessee, held admissible. Fielder v. Pemberton, 189 S. W. 873, 136 Tenn. 440.

37. —— Necessity of complying with statute.—The records and judicial proceedings of a court of another state are not admissible in evidence unless attested and verified as required by Code W. Va. 1913, c. 130, § 19 (sec. 4875). Central Trust Co. of Illinois v. Hearne (W. Va.) 88 S. E. 450.

Where certificate of clerk to document offered as foreign judgment does not comply with St. Wis. 1915, §§ 4140, 4145, or this section, the judgment is inadmissible. Arndt v. Burghardt, 162 N. W. 317, 165 Wis. 312.

Where copy of foreign judgment when offered in evidence was objected to generally, counsel stating that he did not care to press objection, and subsequent evidence showed payment by judgment debtor on judgment, admission of the copy, though it was defective, was not erroneous. Id.

(C) Attestation by clerk

41. Requisites and sufficiency of attestation.—Certificate under seal of court of another state, signed by its clerk, stating a person named to be one of its presiding judges, and certificate signed by such person, designating himself as "presiding judge," complied with this section. Gustavus v. Dahlmer (Sup.) 163 N. Y. S. 132, 98 Misc. Rep. 462.

(D) Certification

45. Necessity of certification.—A foreign judgment certified by clerk, but not by court, is admissible where witness testified that it was true copy of original, which he had examined. Givens v. Givens (Tex. Civ. App.) 195 S. W. 877.

This section requires a judge's certificate as well as attestation by clerk, to entitle transcript of foreign court proceedings to be introduced in evidence. Nease v. Broadwater Mercantile Co. (Tex. Civ. App.) 206 S. W. 692.

(E) "Faith and credit"

54. What faith and credit required—Same as domestic judgment.—In action on a sister state judgment, defense being pending appeal from judgment, effect of appeal on finality of the judgment and its admissibility in evidence is determinable by the laws of state where rendered. Van Natta v. Van Natta (Tex. Civ. App.) 200 S. W. 907.

56. —— Presumptions in favor of foreign judgments.—When copy of foreign judgment is offered in evidence without signature of trial judge, and no proof is offered that such signature is necessary in foreign state, court, assuming that law in such state is same as its own law, should admit copy, since no such signature is necessary in Wisconsin. Arndt v. Burghardt, 162 N. W. 317, 165 Wis. 312.

62. Scope of inquiry in local court—Conclusiveness of judgment, in general.—Under Const. U. S. art. 4, § 1, and this section, save that the question of jurisdiction may be raised, judgment of a foreign court is as conclusive in court of another state as though it were domestic judgment, and no question regarding conduct of trial can be raised. Lucas v. Vulcan Iron Works (D. C.) 233 F. 823.

Duly authenticated record of judgment of sister state is prima facie evidence of jurisdiction of court rendering such judgment. Gustavus v. Dahlmer (Sup.) 163 N. Y. S. 132, 98 Misc. Rep. 462.

A judgment, entered upon a note containing a warrant of attorney to confess judgment without personal service of the maker, is a judgment within the full faith and credit clause of the federal Constitution (article 4, § 1), and this section, pursuant thereto. Miller v. Miller, 156 P. 8, 90 Wash. 333.

66. —— Jurisdiction of foreign court.—Where right of mother of intestate to share in stock in corporation in state of mother's residence and a claim against the corporation was adjudicated by decrees of another state not having jurisdiction of the mother or the corporation by service of process or appearance decrees are not entitled to full faith under Const. art. 4, § 1, and this section. Baker v. Baker, Eccles & Co., 37 S. Ct. 152, 242 U. S. 394, 61 L. Ed. 386, affirming decree 173 S. W. 109, 162 Ky. 683.

In an action in Illinois on a judgment rendered against an Illinois corporation in a foreign state, it is error to admit in evidence a transcript of such judgment, where it not only does not show either directly or by implication that defendant was transacting business in such foreign state, but the petition in the action in such state alleges defendant to be an Illinois corporation having its principal office and place of business in Illinois and maintaining no office or place of business in the foreign state nor complying with the laws of the latter as to foreign corporations doing business therein. Frick-Reid Supply Co. v. Consolidated Adjustment Co., 197 Ill. App. 303.

CITED WITHOUT DEFINITE APPLICATION

Gasquet v. Lapeyre, 37 S. Ct. 165, 242 U. S. 367, 61 L. Ed. 367, dismissing writ of error Interdiction of Gasquet, 68 So. 89, 136 La. 957.

§ 1520. (R. S. § 906.) Proofs of records, etc., not pertaining to courts.

7. Authentication in general—Requisites and sufficiency.—Records and books kept in a public office of a foreign state, not appertaining to a court, are not admissible unless attested and certified as required by Code W. Va. 1913, c. 130, § 20 (sec. 4876). Central Trust Co. of Illinois v. Hearne (W. Va.) 88 S. E. 450.

13. Certificate to attestation—Requisites and sufficiency.—An exemplified copy of special assessment proceedings of an Indiana city is not admissible in the courts of this state, where the certificate of the city clerk attached to such copy does not show that the proceedings conformed to the laws of Indiana. Ledowsky v. Gordon, 194 Ill. App. 442.

§ 1521. (R. S. § 907.) Copies of foreign records, etc., relating to land-titles in the United States.

Authentication of copies.—Letters from Mexican officials to other officials in Mexico, certified by their official custodian, are not admissible as certified copies, under Rev. St. arts. 3694, 3700. Kenedy Pasture Co. v. State (Tex. Civ. App.) 96 S. W. 287.

§ 1523. (Act June 20, 1874, c. 333, § 2.) Revised Statutes as evidence.

Judicial notice of federal laws.—The laws of Congress are not foreign laws that must be pleaded and proven in state courts. Pipes v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 184 S. W. 79, 267 Mo. 385; Stubblefield v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. (Mo. App.) 184 S. W. 149.

Under Code W. Va. 1913, c. 13, § 4 (sec. 333), judicial notice will be taken by the courts of the laws of the United States. Appalachian Marble Co. v. Masonic Temple Ass'n (W. Va.) 91 S. E. 403.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN—PROCEDURE

Sec.
1534. Sealing and testing of writs.
1536. Mesne process and proceedings in equity and admiralty.
1537. Practice and proceedings in other than equity and admiralty causes to conform to practice, etc., in courts of State.
1538. Laws of the States; rules of decision.
1539. Attachments, etc., in common-law causes as provided by laws of State.
1540. Executions, etc., in common-law causes as provided by laws of State.
1541. Rights and remedies of occupying claimants of land as given by statutes of State.
1543. Power of the Supreme Court to regulate the practice of district courts.
1544. Practice in the several courts to be regulated by their own rules.
1545. Suits for duties, imposts, taxes, penalties, or forfeitures.
1547. Orders to save costs, and consolidation of causes of a like nature.
1565. Sale after condemnation.
1567. Delivery bond in admiralty proceedings; general bond by owner of vessel.
1571. Bail and affidavits.
1573. When clerks may take bail de bene esse.
1574. Proceedings in suits against United States.
1575. Petition in suit against United States.
1583. Trial of issues of fact.
1584. Trial of issues of fact by jury.
1585. Trial of issues of fact in admiralty causes.
1587. Trial of issues of fact by the court.
1590. Bill of exceptions.
1591. Defects of form; amendments.
1592. Death of parties.
1593. Death of one of several plaintiffs or defendants.
1594. Death, expiration of term, etc., of officer sued in official capacity, etc.

JUDGMENTS, COSTS, EXECUTIONS, AND MONEYS PAID INTO COURT

1605. Interest on judgments.
1606. Judgments of United States courts to be liens on property, etc.
1607. Indices of judgment records to be kept by clerks.
1608. When judgments of United States courts cease to be liens.
Sec.
1609. Plaintiff or petitioner recovering less than certain amounts to recover no costs.
1614. Costs not recoverable in certain suits for infringement of patent, unless disclaimer entered, etc.
1615. When costs of prosecution to be paid by defendant.
1622. Taxation of fees of witness before a commissioner.
1623. Attorney liable for costs vexatiously increased by him.
1624. Bill of costs, how taxed.
1626. Suits, etc., by poor persons.
1630a. Suits by seamen without prepayment of or bond for costs.
1633. Executions stayed on conditions.
1635. Execution not to issue against officers of revenue in cases of probable cause, etc.
1636. Imprisonment for debt.
1637. Discharge from arrest or imprisonment.
1644. Moneys paid into court, where and how deposited.
1645. Moneys paid into court, how withdrawn; disposition of moneys unclaimed.

PROCEDURE ON ERROR AND APPEAL

1646. Appeals, writs of error, etc.
1647. Appeals and writs of error to circuit courts of appeals; time for taking.
1648. Circuit courts of appeals to Supreme Court; time for taking.
1649. To Supreme Court, time for taking.
1649a. Dismissal; wrong remedy.
1651. Provisions made applicable to circuit courts of appeals.
1653. Removal of causes by writ of error.
1654. Transcripts on appeals [in equity and admiralty].
1656. Printed transcript.
1657. Same.
1658. Citation.
1660. Bond in error and on appeal.
1666. Supersedeas.
1668. Review in cases tried without a jury.
1670. Remand of cause.
1672. Reversal on error limited.

CRIMINAL PROCEDURE

1674. Offenders; how arrested and removed.
1678. Persons arrested to be taken before nearest officer; complaint attached to warrant.
1679. Bail in cases not capital.

Sec.
1684. When penalty of recognizances may be remitted.
1690. Charges joined in one indictment.
1691. Indictments; defects of form.
1692. Judgment on demurrer to an indictment.
1694. Copy of writ to be jailer's authority.
1699. Copy of indictment and list of jurors and witnesses to be delivered to prisoner in capital cases.
1703. Writ of error in capital cases.
1704. Writs of error in criminal cases on behalf of United States in certain instances.

§ 1534. (R. S. § 911.) Sealing and testing of writs.

2. Construction and application of section in general.—This section applies only to writs and process issuing from the courts themselves, and not to notices given by the parties, which are not process of the courts; hence, as condemnation proceedings may under the state statute be instituted upon mere notice, such proceedings are valid, though the notices are not under seal of the court and signed by the clerk. In re Condemnation Suits by United States (D. C.) 234 F. 443.

§ 1536. (R. S. § 913.) Mesne process and proceedings in equity and admiralty.

RULES AND NOTES OF DECISIONS

A. Equity Practice and Procedure.
B. Admiralty Practice and Procedure.

A. EQUITY PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

I. Equity Rules.
II. Equity Procedure in General.

I. Equity Rules

These rules were republished in 1918. The changes made thereby are indicated below.

These rules, so far as applicable, shall be enforced in proceedings under the Copyright Act of 1909, by a provision of rule 1 of the Supreme Court rules adopted under the authority of section 25 of that act. See note to § 9546, post.

RULE 4. NOTICE OF ORDERS

Applicability.—Equity rule 4 does not apply to the entry of a judgment discharging a bankrupt. In re Stafford (D. C.) 240 F. 155.

RULE 7. PROCESS, MESNE AND FINAL

Cited without definite application, Alexander v. Fidelity Trust Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 938.

RULE 8. ENFORCEMENT OF FINAL DECREES

Supplementary proceedings.—Under Rev. St. §§ 913, 914, 916, 917 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1536, 1537, 1540, 1543), and new equity rule No. 8, a trustee against whom a decree was rendered in his representative capacity may be examined in supplementary proceedings. Brown v. Fletcher (D. C.) 239 F. 360.

Cited without definite application, Alexander v. Fidelity Trust Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 938.

RULE 9. WRIT OF ASSISTANCE

Cited without definite application, Alexander v. Fidelity Trust Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 938.

RULE 13. MANNER OF SERVING SUBPŒNA

Cited without definite application, Central Ry. Signal Co. v. Jackson (D. C.) 254 F. 103.

RULE 18. TECHNICAL FORMS ABROGATED

Signature and verification.—Under equity rules 18 and 24 answer signed by solicitor, need not be signed nor verified by defendant. Kinney v. Rice (D. C.) 238 F. 441.

RULE 19. AMENDMENTS GENERALLY

Particular amendments.—Under equity rules 19, 20, a telegraph company will be permitted to amend a bill claiming a perpetual easement in a railroad right of way, so as to set forth the facts on which its claim is based. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Atlanta & W. P. R. Co., 238 F. 36, 151 C. C. A. 112, modifying order (D. C.) 227 F. 465.

Where it clearly appeared that an intervening petitioner was entitled to a lien on movables, held that, under equity rules 19 and 20, petition should be allowed to be amended, so as to state further facts showing right to lien; decree awarding lien on other property being reversed. Whitney-Central Trust & Savings Bank v. General Fire Extinguisher Co., 240 F. 631, 153 C. C. A. 429.

Under equity rules 19 and 26, a District Court has power to consolidate for trial patent causes which involve the same patent, where the parties are the same, although it effected a broadening out of the charge of infringement over a prior election in the record. Union Tool Co. v. Wilson, 249 F. 736, 161 C. C. A. 646, affirming decree Wilson v. Union Tool Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 847.

Under equity rule 19, which leaves the allowance of amendments to the discretion of a court, an amendment to a bill may be allowed, although the matter introduced was known to complainant when the original bill was filed. Whitaker v. Whitaker Iron Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 980.

Technical defects.—That trial judge, in action by receiver against directors of corporation, erroneously held that proof of conspiracy was necessary, held immaterial, where he found the other essential facts against complainant. Howland v. Corn, 232 F. 35, 146 C. C. A. 227.

A bill for infringement of a patent which does not allege that the patent was issued in the name of the United States under the seal of the Patent Office or that it was signed by the Commissioner, nor annex a copy of the patent or make profert thereof, is defective, but is amendable under equity rule 19. Schaum & Uhlinger v. Copley-Plaza Operating Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 924.

RULE 20. FURTHER AND PARTICULAR STATEMENT IN PLEADING MAY BE REQUIRED

Amendment of bill.—Under equity rules 19, 20, a telegraph company will be permitted to amend a bill claiming a perpetual easement in a railroad right of way, so as to set forth the facts on which its claim is based. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Atlanta & W. P. R. Co., 238 F. 236, 151 C. C. A. 112, modifying order (D. C.) 227 F. 465.

Where it clearly appeared that an intervening petitioner was entitled to a lien on movables, held that, under equity rules 19 and 20, petition should be allowed to be amended, so as to state further facts showing right to lien; decree awarding lien on other property being reversed. Whitney-Central Trust & Savings Bank v. General Fire Extinguisher Co., 240 F. 631, 153 C. C. A. 429.

Motion for further particulars.—Motion by defendants in a stockholder's suit for further and better particulars under equity rule 20 held proper. Whitaker v. Whitaker Iron Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 980.

Cited without definite application, Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 242 F. 561; Union Sulphur Co. v. Freeport Texas Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 634.

RULE 21. SCANDAL AND IMPERTINENCE

Pleading law.—Statements of law, statutory and customary, accompanied by copious references to decisions, should not be included in a bill. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 199.

RULE 22. ACTION AT LAW ERRONEOUSLY BEGUN AS SUIT IN EQUITY —TRANSFER

Nature of remedy and transfer of suit in general.—Bill to collect attorney's fees by attachment on the land, originally filed in the state court, held not to show that the remedy at law was inadequate so that it should, after removal, have been transferred to the law side of the court under Judicial Code, § 38 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1020), and equity rule 22. Edward Hines Lumber Co. v. Bowers, 238 F. 782, 151 C. C. A. 632.

That, in suit in equity, right asserted was legal title to land, and possession and enjoyment thereof was sought held not to justify dismissal under equity rule 22, but the suit should be transferred to the law side of the court. A. G. Wineman & Sons v. Reeves, 245 F. 254, 157 C. C. A. 446.

Court held not to have erred in dismissing suit to enforce statutory liability of a number of stockholders, instead of transferring it to the law side of the court, where separate action against each stockholder would be necessary. Clinton Mining & Mineral Co. v. Cochran, 247 F. 449, 159 C. C. A. 503.

Under equity rule 22, the fact that there is a remedy at law is no ground for demurrer or motion to dismiss a bill, but the proper procedure is to move to transfer it to the law side. Fay v. Hill, 249 F. 415, 161 C. C. A. 389.

A draft or check was purchased in England and sent by the purchaser to a bank for plaintiff's account. It was presented for payment at the clearing house and credited to the payee, but subsequently returned on the ground that the drawee had received no instructions to pay it; whereupon the payee bank drew its check and in form repaid the amount to the drawee. Before payment, the drawer made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, and a petition in bankruptcy was filed against him in New York. A creditor attempted to attach the account in the drawee bank, and plaintiff sued the bank to declare a trust for plaintiff and named as defendants the drawee bank, the attaching creditor, the purchaser of the draft, the drawer, his assignee, the petitioning creditors in bankruptcy, and the receiver in bankruptcy. Held that, there being the requisite diversity of citizenship between plaintiff and the drawee bank, the court had jurisdiction, since, if equitable jurisdiction did not exist, jurisdiction at law existed on the theory that there was a claim in personam against the drawee for money had and received under a mistake of fact, and under the new equity rules the claim would be disposed of whether at law or in equity. Eastman Kodak Co. v. National Park Bank (D. C.) 231 F. 320.

Under equity rules 22, 23, suit in equity will not be transferred to law docket, because there is included a matter ordinarily determinable at law, where suit is one primarily for equitable relief. Wright v. Barnard (D. C.) 233 F. 329.

There is no authority, under equity rule 22, for the transfer of a suit for equitable relief brought on the law side to the equity side. Waldo v. Wilson, 231 F. 654, 145 C. C. A. 540, reversing decree Wilson v. Waldo (D. C.) 221 F. 505 and certiorari denied Id., 36 S. Ct. 724, 241 U. S. 673, 60 L. Ed. 1231.

Where a bill states a cause of action cognizable in equity, the denial of a motion made under equity rule 22 to transfer the cause to the law side of the court is not error. Gatewood v. New River Consol. Coal & Coke Co., 239 F. 65, 152 C. C. A. 115.

Equity will grant relief to a creditor against the proceeds of a sale of its insolvent debtor's property by a nonresident trustee, to whom it had been fraudulently conveyed to prevent plaintiff from enforcing his claim without requiring plaintiff to first secure a judgment at law. Murray v. Sioux Alaska Mining Co., 239 F. 818, 152 C. C. A. 604.

Equitable relief not awarded.—Under Judicial Code, § 267 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1244), court of equity, after denial of injunction, which was the only equitable relief sought, has no jurisdiction to proceed with cause for purpose of awarding damages to complainant, but cause should be transferred to law side of court, pursuant to equity rule 22. American Falls Milling Co. v. Standard Brokerage & Distributing Co., 248 F. 487, 160 C. C. A. 497.

A cause brought and tried as one in equity, but resulting in a money judgment for breach of contract, ordered by the appellate court transferred to the law side and the judgment corrected accordingly in view of equity rule 22. Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 327.

Time for transfer.—Where a bill in a federal court presents a mere cause of action at law for damages of which equity is without jurisdiction, a motion to transfer the cause to the law side may be made at any time before the taking of proofs. Parkerson v. Borst (C. C. A.) 251 F. 242.

Waiver of objection.—Failure to move to transfer a bill to the law side, on the ground that there is a complete and adequate remedy at law, and proceeding to a hearing, is a waiver of the objection. Fay v. Hill, 249 F. 415, 161 C. C. A. 389.

Effect of transfer.—Where a bill to cancel for fraud a contract for the exchange of lands, and a deed, was transferred to the law side of the court under equity rule 22, because plaintiff had put it out of his power to restore defendants to their former position, an amended petition, filed by order of court, setting up same transaction and fraud, cannot be regarded as stating a new cause of action, within the statute of limitations, but must be considered continuation of original suit. Friederichsen v. Renard, 38 S. Ct. 450, 247 U. S. 207, 62 L. Ed. 1075, reversing judgment 231 F. 882, 146 C. C. A. 78.

Cited without definite application, Cooper v. Jewett (C. C. A.) 233 F. 618; Munger Laundry Co. v. National Marking Mach. Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 144; Scattergood v. American Pipe & Construction Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 712; Marquette Cement Mining Co. v. Oglesby Coal Co. (D. C.) 253 F. 107.

RULE 23. MATTERS ORDINARILY DETERMINABLE AT LAW, WHEN ARISING IN SUIT IN EQUITY TO BE DISPOSED OF THEREIN

Applicability of rule.—Where only equitable relief sought, which was injunction, was denied, court of equity is without jurisdiction to retain cause and award complainant damages; equity rule 23 applying only to case wherein court of equity has jurisdiction. American Falls Milling Co. v. Standard Brokerage & Distributing Co., 248 F. 487, 160 C. C. A. 497.

Cited without definite application. Cooper v. Jewett (C. C. A.) 233 F. 618; Bankston v. Commercial Trust & Savings Bank (C. C. A.) 250 F. 985; Munger Laundry Co. v. National Marking Mach. Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 144.

RULE 24. SIGNATURE OF COUNSEL

Signature and verification by party.—Under equity rules 18 and 24, where answer is signed by solicitor, it need not be signed nor verified by defendant. Kinney v. Rice (D. C.) 238 F. 441.

RULE 25. BILL OF COMPLAINT—CONTENTS

Name, citizenship, and residence of parties.—Where a suit is brought in a federal court, not only in behalf of complainants, but also in the interest of others, under equity rule 25, the names and residences of such others should be alleged in the bill. Whitaker v. Whitaker Iron Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 980.

Statement of ultimate facts.—Under equity rule 25 a bill which contains repetitions, redundancies, and statements of conclusions is subject to attack in accordance with rule 29. Crim v. Rice, 232 F. 570, 146 C. C. A. 528.

Statements of law, statutory and customary, accompanied by copious references to decisions, should not be included in a bill. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 199.

Under equity rule 25 allegations in bill of due diligence on part of plaintiff, which set out various letters showing diligence, being properly pleaded, are not subject to motion to strike on ground of violation of rules of brevity. Foster v. Callaghan & Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 944.

Where bill, based on written instruments to which defendants were parties, set forth execution and import of writings, that was a sufficient statement of ultimate facts within equity rule 25, and defendants, though entitled to know contents of instruments, could not compel plaintiff to set forth copies of writings, by motion for further and better statement of claim, without averring ignorance thereof as basis for motion. St. Louis Car Co. v. J. G. Brill Co. (D. C.) 249 F. 502.

—— Bill for infringement of patent.—Requisites of a bill for infringement considered under equity rule 25. Bayley & Sons v. Braunstein Bros. Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 671.

Under equity rule 25 the bill in an infringement suit, which asks for a preliminary injunction, must be verified by some one showing that he has knowledge of the facts upon which such relief is asked. Scheuerle v. Onepiece Bifocal Lens Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 270.

Equity rule 25 has not changed established practice requiring that bill for infringement shall contain distinct allegations of compliance with Rev. St. §§ 4886, 4887, as amended by Act March 3, 1897, c. 391, §§ 1, 3 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 9430, 9431). Schaum & Uhlinger v. Copley-Plaza Operating Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 924.

RULE 26. JOINDER OF CAUSES OF ACTION

Causes which may be joined.—A bill for the foreclosure of two mortgages held good under equity rule 26, permitting the joinder of causes of action when it will promote the convenient administration of justice. Crawford v. Washington Northern R. Co., 233 F. 961, 147 C. C. A. 635.

Under equity rules 19 and 26 a District Court has power to consolidate for trial patent causes which involve the same patent, where the parties are the same, although it effected a broadening out of the charge of infringement over a prior election in the record. Union Tool Co. v. Wilson, 249 F. 736, 161 C. C. A. 646, affirming decree Wilson v. Union Tool Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 847.

This rule, though prescribed by the Supreme Court, cannot override statutory limitations of jurisdiction, and does not authorize the joinder with a suit for infringement of patent of a suit for unfair competition between citizens of the same state. Unit Const. Co. v. Huskey Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 129.

Under equity rule 30, and in view of rule 26, held, that defendant might plead counterclaim unrelated to subject-matter of principal suit. Paramount Hosiery Form Drying Co. v. Walter Snyder Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 192.

Under equity rule 26 it is no objection to a bill that it joins several causes of action if all are cognizable in equity and are between the same parties. Eclipse Mach. Co. v. Harley-Davidson Motor Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 463.

Separate trials.—In patent infringement suit, where defendant's answer denied plaintiff's title, and also attacked validity of the patent, plaintiff's remedy was to ask separate trial as to title, which a court of equity could grant, under equity rules 26, 29. Cleveland Eng. Co. v. Galion D. M. Truck Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 405.

Cited without definite application, St. Louis Car Co. v. J. G. Brill Co. (D. C.) 249 F. 502.

RULE 27. STOCKHOLDER'S BILL

Construction in general.—This rule applies to stockholders' suits asserting derivative rights on behalf of the corporation. Bogert v. Southern Pac. Co., 244 F. 61, 156 C. C. A. 489.

Equity rule 27, prescribing requisites of stockholder's bill, held not to apply to a suit brought by a stockholder in his own right against the corporation to enjoin it from doing an illegal act. General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160.

Sufficiency of allegations in general.—Complainant, who was the owner of a fraction of 1 per cent. of the stock of a national bank, brought suit against the bank and a former president to set aside an agreement between the directors and such officer under which, on his resignation, he was paid a sum in cash in settlement of his claim to participation in a pension fund established by resolution of the stockholders. Complainant alleged a request to the directors to bring suit to recover the money, and their refusal, and that the suit was not collusive, but did not allege any application to the stockholders, although there had been a meeting since the transaction. There was no allegation of fraud, nor that the directors owned a controlling stock interest, nor that they had any interest adverse to that of the corporation or the other stockholders. Held, that complainant did not show compliance with the requirements of equity rule 27 to entitle him to maintain the suit. Heinz v. National Bank of Commerce in St. Louis (C. C. A.) 237 F. 942.

A stockholder's bill held to state facts sufficient to entitle complainants, as minority stockholders, to invoke the jurisdiction of a court of equity. Krouse v. Brevard Tannin Co., 249 F. 538, 161 C. C. A. 464.

A bill filed by complainants as stockholders, under equity rule 27, against the corporation and others, considered in the light of the corporate records produced at the instance of complainants, held to state no cause of action, and dismissed for want of equity. Whitaker v. Whitaker Iron Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 980.

Effort to obtain action.—The requirement that the bill set forth with particularity the efforts of plaintiff to secure such action as he desires does not apply, where the allegations clearly show that by reason of antagonistic control of the corporation such efforts would have been futile. Krouse v. Brevard Tannin Co., 249 F. 538, 161 C. C. A. 464.

A bill by shareholder of a corporation, designed to secure relief from unlawful acts of president of corporation, who was majority shareholder, held sufficient, under equity rule 27, though alleging no effort to induce the corporation to act. Forbes v. Wilson (D. C.) 243 F. 264.

RULE 29. DEFENSES—HOW PRESENTED

In general.—See Utah Power & Light Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 328; Victor Talking Mach. Co. v. Strauss (C. C. A.) 230 F. 449; Cleveland Eng. Co. v. Galion D. M. Truck Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 405.

A court of bankruptcy is an equity court, and subject to new equity rule 29, abolishing demurrers in equity suits. (Per Smith, Circuit Judge.) Pollack v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co., 233 F. 861, 147 C. C. A. 535.

Motions to dismiss.—The defense of estoppel and res judicata may be presented on a demurrer, where upon the allegations of the bill it clearly appears that such defense exists. Hewitt v. Great Western Beet Sugar Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 394.

Under Supreme Court equity rule 25 a bill which contains repetitions, redundancies, and statements of conclusions is subject to attack in accordance with rule 29. Crim v. Rice, 232 F. 570, 146 C. C. A. 528.

In a suit to prevent infringement of letters patent, defendant answered denying complainant's right because of its assignment of the letters patent. Held, under equity rules 33, 29, and 30, that such answer set up a defense by way of confession and avoidance, and therefore, though a motion to strike might be applicable where the answer sets up an affirmative defense, such motion is inapplicable. Churchward International Steel Co. v. Bethlehem Steel Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 322.

For requirement that all defenses be incorporated in single motion, by analogy with District of Columbia Supreme Court rule 32, see Ryan v. McAdoo, 46 App. D. C. 117.

In the federal courts of equity, indefiniteness of statement in a bill is not ground for a motion to dismiss, if, fairly construed, it states a cause of action. U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 127.

Under equity rule 29, an objection to misjoinder cannot be taken as a matter of right, save by motion, plea, or answer, nor can it be insisted upon at trial, though the court on its own motion, in the interests of justice, may raise the question. Swift v. Inland Nav. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 375.

Where bill in federal court shows on its face that court is without jurisdiction, it should be dismissed by court on its own motion, though question be not raised by defendant. Bronson v. Boards of Sup'rs of Emmet and Kossuth Counties, Iowa (D. C.) 237 F. 212.

Motions to dismiss under equity rule 29 are to be encouraged in suits for infringement of simple design patents, where a mere inspection of the patent is all that would be necessary on final hearing. Mallinson v. Ryan (D. C.) 242 F. 951.

Motion, undertaking to reach certain parts of bill by setting out effect of portions to which it refers, will not be considered, as court cannot be required to go through the entire pleading to find what portion is attacked by motion to strike. Everglades Drainage League v. Napoleon B. Broward Drainage Dist. (D. C.) 253 F. 246.

In the federal courts a party may take advantage of a prior adjudication either by special plea or by offering the record of that adjudication in evidence. Carmody v. Simpson-Sullivan Co., 44 App. D. C. 39.

—— Determination of motion.—A motion to dismiss a bill is in the nature of a demurrer, and for the purpose of the motion the allegations of the bill must be taken as true. Edwards v. Bodkin, 249 F. 562, 161 C. C. A. 488; Woodall v. Clark (C. C. A.) 254 F. 526; Lowenthal v. Georgia Coast & P. R. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 1010; Puder v. Agler (D. C.) 242 F. 95; Forbes v. Wilson (D. C.) 243 F. 264; First Nat. Bank of Cincinnati, Ohio, v. Durr (D. C.) 246 F. 163; Everglades Drainage League v. Napoleon B. Broward Drainage Dist. (D. C.) 253 F. 246.

Motion to dismiss a bill for want of equity appearing on its face, made under equity rule 29, whether before or after answer, must be decided on allegations of the bill alone. Krouse v. Brevard Tannin Co., 249 F. 538, 161 C. C. A. 464; Albert v. Bascom (D. C.) 245 F. 149; Scattergood v. American Pipe & Const. Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 712; Old Dominion Trust Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Oxford, N. C. (D. C.) 252 F. 613.

Under equity rules 29, 81, held that, where demurrer, filed prior to February 1, 1913, was sustained after that date, it would be assumed that it was submitted before such date, or treated as a motion to dismiss. Weber v. Hertzell, 230 F. 965, 145 C. C. A. 159.

A motion to dismiss, made under equity rule 29, although going to the entire bill may be sustained as to a part of the bill only, where such part relates to relief which cannot be granted because of defect of parties, but the bill is good as to other matters. General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160.

Under equity rule 29, court of equity may in its discretion refuse to dismiss case for defects apparent on face of bill, and require matter to be presented by answer. Wright v. Barnard (D. C.) 233 F. 329.

Waiver of errors in ruling.—Pleading over by a bankrupt after the overruling of his demurrer to a petition of creditors held a waiver of any error in such ruling. (Per Smith, Circuit Judge.) Pollack v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co., 238 F. 861, 147 C. C. A. 535.

Separate hearing.—In a suit for infringement of letters patent by two corporations conspiring together, one of which was alleged to be controlled by the other, held that, under equity rule 29, a separate hearing on defense that there was no conspiracy and one corporation did not control the other cannot be had. Union Sulphur Co. v. Freeport Texas Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 191.

Cited without definite application, American Seeding Mach. Co. v. Dowagiac Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 241 F. 875; Hazen Mfg. Co. v. Wareham (C. C. A.) 242 F. 642; Macbeth-Evans Glass Co. v. General Electric Co. (C. C. A.) 246 F. 695; Goudy v. Hansen (C. C. A.) 247 F. 782; Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 964; Eclipse Mach. Co. v. Harley-Davidson Motor Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 463.

RULE 30. ANSWER—CONTENTS—COUNTERCLAIM

3. Admissions and denials.—In a suit to prevent infringement of letters patent, defendant answered denying complainant's right because of its assignment of the letters patent. Held, that such answer set up a defense by way of confession and avoidance, and therefore, though a motion to strike might be applicable where the answer sets up an affirmative defense, such motion is inapplicable. Churchward International Steel Co. v. Bethlehem Steel Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 322.

Under equity rule 30 the court, upon submission on bill and answer, may consider explanatory facts, and is not limited to mere general denials. Shera v. Merchants' Life Ins. Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 484.

In patent infringement suit denial for want of knowledge is equivalent to specific denial, and puts on plaintiff burden of proving title, in view of equity rule 30. Southern Textile Mach. Co. v. Fay Stocking Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 917.

3½. Alternative defenses.—Under equity rule 30, defendant in an infringement suit may deny plaintiff's title and allege ownership in itself, and also deny the validity of the patent, and cannot be required to elect between such two defenses. Cleveland Engineering Co. v. Galion Dynamic Motor Truck Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 405.

4. Set-off and counterclaim.—See Goodno v. Hotchkiss (D. C.) 230 F. 514.

In suit by purchaser to obtain rescission of contract to buy land, held that, under equity rule 30, vendors were entitled to set up as counterclaim their demand for relief, on account of notes for unpaid purchase money which they had taken up from the indorsees. Knupp v. Bell, 243 F. 157, 156 C. C. A. 23.

A claim to a statutory forfeiture, under Code Miss. 1906, § 2795, held not one arising out of the subject-matter of the suit, which could be pleaded as a counterclaim in equity under equity rule 30. Bankston v. Commercial Trust & Savings Bank (C. C. A.) 250 F. 985.

This rule is to simplify pleading only and does not authorize the setting out of any cause of action cognizable in equity, regardless of whether or not it is a proper subject of set-off or counterclaim. Ohio Brass Co. v. Hartman Electrical Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 629.

Under equity rule 30, and in view of rule 26, held, that defendant might plead counterclaim unrelated to subject-matter of principal suit. Paramount Hosiery Form Drying Co. v. Walter Snyder Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 192.

A complainant, who brings a suit in equity in a district other than that of his residence, held required to meet in such suit any counterclaim which defendant may plead under equity rule 30. Champion Spark Plug Co. v. Champion Ignition Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 200.

5. —— Patent infringement cases.—Under equity rule 30 a defendant in an infringement suit may set up a counterclaim for infringement of other patents, although he could not have maintained an original suit thereon in that district. United States Expansion Bolt Co. v. H. G. Kroncke Hardware Co., 234 F. 868, 148 C. C. A. 466, modifying decree (D. C.) 225 F. 383.

Under rule 30 defendant cannot, as a counterclaim in its answer, set up claims arising out of transactions not included in the original bill; therefore, in a suit for infringement of a patent, defendant cannot counterclaim for plaintiff's infringement of a different patent. Christensen v. Westinghouse Traction Brake Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 898.

A counterclaim for infringement of patents, pleaded in a suit for infringement of trademark, held one arising out of the same transaction, within equity rule 30. Champion Spark Plug Co. v. Champion Ignition Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 200.

7. —— Failure to plead.—Under equity rule 30 a defendant, who has a counterclaim arising out of the transaction which is the subject-matter of the suit, is required to set it up, or it is waived. Caflisch v. Humble (C. C. A.) 251 F. 1.

Cited without definite application, S. E. Hendricks Co. v. Thomas Pub. Co. (C. C. A.) 242 F. 37; Safety Car Heating & Lighting Co. v. United States Light & Heat Corporation (D. C.) 237 F. 646.

RULE 31. REPLY—WHEN REQUIRED—WHEN CAUSE AT ISSUE

Necessity and sufficiency of reply.—See Keatley v. United States Trust Co. (C. C. A.) 249 F. 296.

In action by foreign corporation, allegation of amended answer that plaintiff had not complied with state statute as to permit to do business, unsupported by the evidence adduced, must be deemed to be denied by plaintiff without further pleading in view of equity rule 31. Turner Const. Co. v. Union Terminal Co., 229 F. 702, 144 C. C. A. 112.

In a suit to enforce a family agreement for the division of an estate in the proportions indicated in an unsigned will, and to require an accounting by the executrix and administratrix of parties to the agreement as to property received by them upon a division which it was alleged was not in accordance with the agreement, one of the defendants filed a pleading, denominated an "answer," but which, after denying in part and admitting in part the allegations of the complaint, and pleading limitations and a former adjudication, asked for certain orders, judgments, and decrees. Held that, unless the answer was amended, so as to omit the prayers for affirmative relief, a replication to the answer must stand, as the word "counterclaim," in the rules, must be taken to be a general and comprehensive term, including all counter demands which might be the subject of an independent suit in equity, so as to enable the court to pronounce final judgment in the same suit, both on the bill of complaint and the answer. Goodno v. Hotchkiss (D. C.) 230 F. 514.

Under equity rules 31 and 33, new and affirmative matter pleaded in an answer must, upon submission on bill and answer, be deemed denied, and the case is before the court upon admissions and denials of the answer and averments of bill. Shera v. Merchants' Life Ins. Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 484.

Cited without definite application, Williamson v. Electric Service Supplies Co. (C. C. A.) 242 F. 873.

RULE 33. TESTING SUFFICIENCY OF DEFENSE

Construction and application in general.—In suit to prevent infringement of patent, validity of defense that complainant has released to a third party, the effect of which is to release defendant, is trial question, not to be determined on motion to strike. Churchward International Steel Co. v. Bethlehem Steel Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 322.

Under equity rules 31 and 33, new and affirmative matter pleaded in an answer must, upon submission on bill and answer, be deemed denied, and the case is before the court upon admissions and denials of the answer and averments of bill. Shera v. Merchants' Life Ins. Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 484.

Cited without definite application, Bonney Supply Co. v. Heltzel (D. C.) 243 F. 399.

RULE 34. SUPPLEMENTAL PLEADING

Supplemental bill.—Under equity rule 34, permission to file a supplemental bill alleging matters occurring after the filing of the original bill held proper, although such matters would in effect change the nature of the suit. General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160.

An allegation in a supplemental bill, made as basis for relief not within the scope of the original bill, held not ground for the dismissal or striking out of the supplemental bill. Whitaker v. Whitaker Iron Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 980.

RULE 37. PARTIES GENERALLY—INTERVENTION

Parties to suit.—Receivers of a New Jersey corporation, appointed by state court, will not be substituted as plaintiffs in error in stockholders' suit pending in federal Supreme Court, where four years previously a federal court in another state had appointed other receivers for such corporation. United Copper Securities Co. v. Amalgamated Copper Co., 37 S. Ct. 509, 244 U. S. 261, 61 L. Ed. 1119, affirming judgment 223 F. 421, 139 C. C. A. 15.

As party to agreement collateral to railroad mortgage was not necessary or proper party to foreclosure suit, equity rule 37 held not to authorize court to order that it be made a party. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571, 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 478.

Where jurisdiction appears from the nature of the suit, new equity rule 37 does not impose on the court the duty on its own motion, and without pleadings to inquire into the capacity of the plaintiff to sue. Kardo Co. v. Adams, 231 F. 950, 146 C. C. A. 146, reversing decree American Ball Bearing Co. v. Same (D. C.) 222 F. 967.

Where an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission authorized, and a tariff filed thereunder provided, higher rates to four certain cities than to certain other cities, one of such cities, representing the interest of its citizens, and traffic associations formed for the purpose of representing jobbers and merchants in the three other cities, could maintain a suit to enjoin the enforcement of such order and tariff, as they were within the rule that bills may be filed in the name of unincorporated associations and parties in behalf of others similarly situated, and moreover the equity rules seem to contemplate such a suit for the common benefit of all, where the parties are numerous and have a common or general interest. Merchants' & Manufacturers' Traffic Ass'n of Sacramento v. United States (D. C.) 231 F. 292.

Under Judicial Code, §§ 52, 57, and equity rule 37, where some defendants were residents of Southern district of Georgia and were claiming adversely to plaintiffs, appointment of administrators residing in Northern district held not to divest jurisdiction of District Court for Southern district. Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 242 F. 561.

Intervention.—Where, after decree foreclosing a trust deed on the property of a railroad company, interveners who asserted that their claims were entitled to priority filed intervening petitions under equity rule 37, they cannot thereafter amend the petitions and attack the validity of the trust deed. First Trust Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 965.

RULE 38. REPRESENTATIVES OF CLASS

Common interest.—See Bogert v. Southern Pac. Co. (C. C. A.) 244 F. 61.

In suit against officers of labor unions, personal relief by injunction against persons who, pending the suit, succeeded the original parties as officers held erroneous; the suit not being a representative one within equity rule 38. Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell, 38 S. Ct. 65, 245 U. S. 229, 62 L. Ed. 260, L. R. A. 1918C, 497, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 461, reversing decree Mitchell

v. Hitchman Coal & Coke Co., 214 F. 685, 131 C. C. A. 425, which reversed decree Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell (D. C.) 202 F. 512. Mandate stayed 38 S. Ct. 190.

Under equity rule 38 an incorporated co-operative organization is a proper party, as representing the interest of its members, to conduct a suit in substance brought for their benefit. International News Service v. Associated Press, 39 S. Ct. 68, 63 L. Ed. —.

Mortgage bondholders of a railroad company cannot maintain a suit to enjoin the enforcement of a rate statute, unless it is shown that the mortgage trustee has refused to bring the suit; equity rule 38 not applying. Winthrop v. Fellows (D. C.) 230 F. 702.

Where an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission authorized, and a tariff filed thereunder provided, higher rates to four certain cities than to certain other cities, one of such cities, representing the interest of its citizens, and traffic associations formed for the purpose of representing jobbers and merchants in the three other cities, could maintain a suit to enjoin the enforcement of such order and tariff, as they were within the rule that bills may be filed in the name of unincorporated associations and parties in behalf of others similarly situated, and moreover the equity rules seem to contemplate such a suit for the common benefit of all, where the parties are numerous and have a common or general interest. Merchants' & Manufacturers' Traffic Ass'n of Sacramento v. U. S. (D. C.) 231 F. 292.

Under equity rule 38, one lot owner may maintain a suit in behalf of himself and other owners, where the threatened injury affects all. Chew v. First Presbyterian Church of Wilmington, Del. (D. C.) 237 F. 219.

Under equity rules, corporate creditors, suing directors under Act Pa. April 29, 1874 (P. L. 73), may sue on behalf of all other creditors. United States Smelting Co. v. Hofkin (D. C.) 245 F. 896.

In suit by voluntary association of landowners against a drainage district and the respective tax collectors of two counties, to restrain collection of drainage tax; bill held not multifarious, in view of equity rule 38 each complainant being interested in the subject-matter, but in different amounts, and each defendant being connected, though differently, with the whole dispute. Everglades Drainage League v. Napoleon B. Broward Drainage Dist. (D. C.) 253 F. 246.

RULE 39. ABSENCE OF PERSONS WHO WOULD BE PROPER PARTIES

Indispensable parties.—The court may not dispense with persons having rights so closely related to the issues between the parties in court that a final decision cannot be made without affecting their rights. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571, 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 478.

Absence of an indispensable party to the granting of full relief in equity is not ground for dismissal of bill in its entirety, if there are separable matters as to which relief may be granted without affecting the rights of such person. General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160.

In suit to foreclose mortgage securing railroad bonds, where appointment of receiver was prayed, held, under Judicial Code, § 50, and equity rule 39, that nonresident trustee was not indispensable party, and suit might be proceeded with, though it was not joined. Lowenthal v. Georgia Coast & P. R. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 1010.

Absence from jurisdiction.—Citizens of another state held to be dispensed with as parties in federal court, if, though necessary parties, the case may be finally decided between the litigants without bringing them before the court. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571. 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 478.

A suit in a federal court by minority stockholders against the corporation, which is a corporation of the state, having its property and business therein, and the managing director, who is also a citizen and resident of the state, in which the bill alleges transactions by the directors, who are also the principal stockholders, by which the corporation has been defrauded of property for their individual benefit, should not be dismissed on motion because the other directors are not parties, where by reason of their being out of the jurisdiction they cannot be served, and if brought in their joinder would oust the jurisdiction of the court. In such case, such directors, while proper, are not indispensable parties, even though full relief as to all the transactions alleged cannot be granted without their presence, and the court, having jurisdiction over the corporation and its property, may and should, under equity rule 39 and Judicial Code, § 50 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1032), proceed without them, and grant such relief as the proofs may warrant and as is within its power. Krouse v. Brevard Tannin Co., 249 F. 538, 161 C. C. A. 464.

Equity rule 39 applies not only to defect of parties, due to their being out of reach of process, but also to parties within the reach of process, whose joinder would oust the jurisdiction of the court, in which contingency the court may in its discretion proceed without making such persons parties; the rule particularly applying to parties having an interest in the controversy, but whose interest will not be directly affected by decree in their absence; so that in a foreclosure suit, if it is apparent that the presence of the owner of the equity of redemption will oust the court of jurisdiction, it may proceed without him. Brown v. Crawford (D. C.) 252 F. 248.

Protection of rights of absent parties.—In patent infringement suit, even if equity rule 39, as to proceeding without prejudice to absent plaintiffs, were applicable, the court could not dismiss, without prejudice to alien enemy plaintiffs, and thus expose defendants to two suits. Speidel et al. v. N. Barstow Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 621.

Cited without definite application, Sherman Nat. Bank v. Shubert Theatrical Co. (C. C. A.) 247 F. 256.

RULE 43. DEFECT OF PARTIES—RESISTING OBJECTION

Waiver of objection.—Under equity rules 43, 44, no specific objection of want of parties having been made below, objection because of suit for benefit of members of incorporated co-operative organization being brought by it, instead of them, will be treated as waived. International News Service v. Associated Press, 39 S. Ct. 68, 63 L. Ed. —.

RULE 44. DEFECT OF PARTIES—TARDY OBJECTION

Waiver of objection.—Under equity rules 43, 44, no specific objection of want of parties having been made below, objection because of suit for benefit of members of incorporated co-operative organization being brought by it, instead of them, will be treated as waived. International News Service v. Associated Press, 39 S. Ct. 68, 63 L. Ed. —.

Cited without definite application, Central Ry. Signal Co. v. Jackson (D. C.) 254 F. 103.

RULE 45. DEATH OF PARTY—REVIVOR

Effect of rule.—While formerly, on death of one of parties having an interest in litigation, substitution was effected through a bill of revivor or a bill of that nature, such relief, under new equity rule 45, is now granted on motion. Ex parte Slater, 38 S. Ct. 265, 246 U. S. 128, 62 L. Ed. 621.

RULE 46. TRIAL—TESTIMONY—OBJECTIONS TO EVIDENCE

Testimony taken out of court.—Reference in bankruptcy to a master to take testimony and report findings should only be on notice and showing, as required by equity rules 46, 47, 59. In re C. W. Bartleson Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 1001.

Despite equity rule 46, held, in view of Rev. St. § 863 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1472), that testimony of infirm witnesses residing more than 100 miles from place of trial might be taken before judge prior to trial. Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 244 F. 836.

Cited without definite application, Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. (C. C. A.) 242 F. 799; Holt Mfg. Co. v. C. L. Best Gas Traction Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 354.

RULE 47. DEPOSITIONS—TO BE TAKEN IN EXCEPTIONAL INSTANCES

Effect on statute.—Equity rule 47, limiting time for taking depositions without order of court held not to vary Rev. St. § 863 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1472), but merely to regulate the procedure, and within the power of the Supreme Court. Audiffren Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 783.

Time for taking.—Equity rule 47, which fixes the time for taking depositions, "unless otherwise ordered by the court or judge for good cause shown," does not limit the power of the court by order to permit the taking of depositions at any time. United States Gypsum Co. v. Mackey Wall Plaster Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 397.

Where proceedings were not dismissed because of failure to take testimony within three months, as required by old equity rule 69, an order of re-reference thereafter waived any possible laches. Lackner v. McKechney (C. C. A.) 252 F. 403.

Under Rev. St. § 863 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1472), and equity rule 47, depositions de bene esse cannot be taken by plaintiff without court's permission more than 60 days after joinder of issue. Block v. Arrowsmith Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 775; Audiffren Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 783.

Effect of delay.—Under equity rules 47, 56, 57, held that, where a case was dropped from the trial calendar on stipulation of the parties, and was not reinstated within a year, costs could not, on dismissal, be awarded in favor of defendant and against plaintiff. E. G. Staude Mfg. Co. v. Labombarde, 243 F. 362, 156 C. C. A. 142, reversing decree (D. C.) 229 F. 1004.

Reference to master.—Reference in bankruptcy to a master to take testimony and report findings should only be on notice and showing, as required by equity rules 46, 47, 59. In re C. W. Bartleson Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 1001.

Cited without definite application, Fitzhugh v. Reid (D. C.) 252 F. 234.

RULE 49. EVIDENCE TAKEN BEFORE EXAMINERS, ETC.

This rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 2518, was changed by substituting for the words, "cross and re-examination," at the end thereof, the words "cross-examination" and "reexamination."

RULE 51. EVIDENCE TAKEN BEFORE EXAMINERS

Examiner's report.—Under equity rule 51, held, that master's report in patent infringement suit should not contain unnecessary statement, argument, and debate regarding objections to evidence. Rollman Mfg. Co. v. Universal Hardware Works (D. C.) 229 F. 579.

RULE 54. DEPOSITIONS UNDER R. S. §§ 863, 865, 866, 867—CROSS-EXAMINATION

Time for taking.—See Audiffren Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 783.

RULE 55. DEPOSITION DEEMED PUBLISHED WHEN FILED

Use in other suits.—A party is protected under the general rules of evidence in the right to use depositions taken in a former case between the same parties, where the testimony would not otherwise be procurable; but the relevancy of such testimony must be determined in the case in which it is offered. Young v. J. Samuels & Bro. (D. C.) 232 F. 784.

RULE 56. ON EXPIRATION OF TIME FOR DEPOSITIONS, CASE GOES ON TRIAL CALENDAR

Effect of rule.—See Audiffren Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 783.

Under equity rules 47, 56, 57, held that, where a case was dropped from the trial calendar on stipulation of the parties, and was not reinstated within a year, costs could not, on dismissal, be awarded in favor of defendant and against plaintiff. E. G. Staude Mfg. Co. v. Labombarde, 243 F. 362, 156 C. C. A. 142, reversing decree (D. C.) 229 F. 1004.

Under Rev. St. §§ 862, 863, 917 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1470, 1472, 1543), and equity rules 47, 56, plaintiff could not, after expiration of time for taking depositions prescribed by rules, take deposition on notice to defendant without order of court. Block v. Arrowsmith Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 775.

RULE 57. CONTINUANCES

Applicability and effect of rule.—New equity rule 57, providing that a cause placed on the trial calendar shall not be continued over the term, except for cause shown, does not apply to a cause which has been heard where the term ends before entry of decree. Davis v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 229 F. 633, 144 C. C. A. 43, certiorari denied Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Davis, 36 S. Ct. 723, 241 U. S. 672, 60 L. Ed. 1231.

Under equity rules 47, 56, 57, held that, where a case was dropped from the trial calendar on stipulation of the parties, and was not reinstated within a year, costs could not, on dismissal, be awarded in favor of defendant and against plaintiff. E. G. Staude Mfg. Co. v. Labombarde, 243 F. 362, 156 C. C. A. 142, reversing decree (D. C.) 229 F. 1004.

RULE 58. DISCOVERY—INTERROGATORIES—INSPECTION AND PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS—ADMISSION OF EXECUTION OR GENUINENESS

Purpose and effect of rule.—A bill for relief, and also for discovery, as incidental to such relief, if it fails to state a cause of action for the relief, fails also as to the discovery. Church v. Swetland, 233 F. 891, 147 C. C. A. 565.

A bill for discovery to put a party on his oath is obsolete. Scotten v. Rosenblum (D. C.) 231 F. 357.

Equity rule 58, while it changes the procedure, does not alter the substantive rules governing discovery in equity, nor give any right to discovery which did not previously exist. Wolcott v. National Electric Signaling Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 224.

Admiralty rule 32 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2700), providing for dismissal of libel for failure of libelant to answer interrogatories propounded by defendant, is not extended to defendants by equity rule 58, so as to warrant striking of answer for failure to reply to interrogatories. The Fred E. Richards (D. C.) 248 F. 956.

Scope and extent of discovery.—A party is not in general entitled to discovery in equity from the adverse party as to facts equally within his own knowledge. Wolcott v. National Electric Signaling Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 224.

It was not the purpose of the rule to compel discovery by plaintiff of the particulars of his own cause of action, where such particulars do not relate to any pleaded defense or to compel the defendant to disclose facts material only to his defense. Window Glass Mach. Co. v. Brookville Glass & Tile Co. (D. C.) 229 F. 833; Wolcott v. National Electric Signaling Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 224; Kinney v. Rice (D. C.) 238 F. 444; Marquette Mfg. Co. v. Oglesby Coal Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 351.

Discovery, under rule 58, must be limited to material facts, and does not extend to evidence or facts merely tending to prove material facts. F. Speidel Co. v. N. Barstow Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 617; Wolcott v. National Electric Signaling Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 224; Kinney v. Rice (D. C.) 238 F. 444; Marquette Mfg. Co. v. Oglesby Coal Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 351.

A party will not be required to answer interrogatories propounded under equity rule 58, where they suggest a "fishing expedition," or at least an attempt to pry into the adversary's case. Window Glass Mach. Co. v. Brookville Glass & Tile Co. (D. C.) 229 F. 833.

Equity rule 58 is not intended to prevent the parties from producing their evidence at trial, and the court in exercising its discretion should not allow propounding of interrogatories to a corporate officer, which are necessarily vexatious. Union Sulphur Co. v. Freeport Texas Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 194.

A party interrogated under Equity Rule 58 cannot be required to disclose the names of his witnesses nor his evidence. Marquette Mfg. Co. v. Oglesby Coal Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 351.

Under equity rule 58, defendant held not to be required, in patent infringement suit, to answer interrogatories, as information sought could be easily procured by inspection. Window Glass Mach. Co. v. Brookville Glass & Tile Co. (D. C.) 229 F. 833.

In a stockholder's suit against officers and directors of the corporation, alleging a conspiracy, in violation of their trust, to purchase certain outstanding stock for their own benefit and profit, instead of for the corporation which had the power under its charter and the available means to purchase the same, interrogatories propounded to defendant officers, calling for details of a multitude of business transactions involving also other concerns having no relation to the suit, held improper, where the ulitmate material facts could be ascertained from the books. Du Pont v. Du Pont (D. C.) 234 F. 459.

Equity rule 58 does not warrant the court in requiring answers to interrogatories, which would give no more than an opinion, or no more than the evidence relied on in support or defense of the cause, although, if the answer would disclose a material fact or document, it is no objection to its allowance that it would incidentally require an expression of opinion, or disclosure of some of the evidence to be relied on at the trial, or the giving of other information which, standing alone, could not be required. Batdorf v. Sattley Coin Handling Mach. Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 925.

On issue of infringement, it was no objection to plaintiff's questions, under equity rule 58 of Supreme Court, that it would be difficult, if not impossible, to answer them, or that terms of interrogatories and claims were susceptible of one or more meanings. General Electric Co. v. Independent Lamp & Wire Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 825.

Under equity rules 30, 33, and 58, held that, in a suit for infringement of a patent and to enjoin publications denying its validity, defendant should answer interrogatories seeking admission as to authorship of publication. Rodman Chemical Co. v. E. F. Houghton Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 470.

—— Discovery by corporate officer.—Where a corporate officer was unable to answer interrogatories himself, held that, under equity rule 58, he should not be required to answer the interrogatories on information gleaned from inferior agents of corporation. Union Sulphur Co. v. Freeport Texas Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 194.

Procedure.—Under equity rule 58, held that imposition on defendants of costs incurred by complainant in taking depositions to prove documents was no abuse of discretion; defendants, after first refusing to stipulate as to matter, having declined to pay costs incurred by complainant up to time it offered to stipulate as to such matter. Wagner v. Meccano, Limited, 246 F. 603, 158 C. C. A. 573, affirming in part and reversing in part Meccano, Limited, v. Wagner (D. C.) 234 F. 912.

Party voluntarily answering improper interrogatories held not entitled to say that they ought not to have been propounded. Window Glass Mach. Co. v. Brookville Glass & Tile Co. (D. C.) 229 F. 833.

Where defendant is in doubt, or the meaning of interrogatories does not clearly appear, defendant may require a restatement. Rodman Chemical Co. v. E. F. Houghton Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 470.

An interrogatory filed under equity rule 58 should embrace a single question, and be so framed that it may be clearly seen what the interrogated party is called upon to answer. Kinney v. Rice (D. C.) 238 F. 444.

Under equity rule 58 the court may require the answering of an interrogatory only upon conditions imposed on the interrogating party. Batdorf v. Sattley Coin Handling Mach. Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 925.

Under equity rule 58 the proper practice under a bill of discovery is for plaintiff to plead those facts which entitle him to a discovery and annex such interrogatories as he wishes defendant to answer. If defendant does not dispute plaintiff's right to some discovery, but objects to some or all of the interrogatories, he will make those objections and bring them on for hearing, but is not subject to the old rule that, if he answers one, he must answer all. If he disputes plaintiff's right to any discovery, he will plead in an answer such facts as he deems apposite, and obtain an enlargement of his time to answer the interrogatories until plaintiff's right to discovery is determined. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 964.

Cited without definite application, Helmet Co. v. Wm. Wrigley, Jr., Co. (C. C. A.) 245 F. 824; Scotten v. Rosenblum (D. C.) 231 F. 357; Bonney Supply Co. v. Heltzel (D. C.) 243 F. 399.

RULE 59. REFERENCE TO MASTER—EXCEPTIONAL NOT USUAL

Effect of rule.—Where defendant in a suit for an accounting annexed to his sworn answer acounts rendered by him, the court can take and settle the account itself without reference to a master. McManus v. Sawyer (D. C.) 231 F. 231.

A court of equity held, under the equity rules, to have discretionary power to refer a case to a master, without consent of parties, to hear the evidence and report his findings and conclusions on the whole case for the advice of the court. Holt Mfg. Co. v. C. L. Best Gas Traction Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 354.

Equity rule 59 does not forbid a reference; and, where the cause is referred, it is to be presumed, on exceptions to the report, that the judge properly exercised his discretion. Flanders v. Coleman (D. C.) 249 F. 757.

Matters subject of reference.—See Brown et al. v. Pennsylvania Canal Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 980.

Notwithstanding Bankruptcy Act, § 18d (Comp. St. 1916, § 9602), references to masters to take and report testimony, with findings, recognized by equity rule 59, are permissible, but should only be on notice and showing, as required by equity rules 46, 47, 59. In re C. W. Bartleson Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 1001.

Practice.—Where either party objects to order of reference on ground that it is improper under equity rule 59, proper practice is to move before judge for revocation of order; and a failure so to move is tantamount to acquiescence, as point cannot be initially raised before master. Flanders v. Coleman (D. C.) 249 F. 757.

Cited without definite application, Alexander v. Fidelity Trust Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 938.

RULE 60. PROCEEDINGS BEFORE MASTER

Cited without definite application, Reliance Const. Co. v. Hassam Paving Co. (C. C. A.) 248 F. 701; Rollman Mfg. Co. v. Universal Hardware Works (D. C.) 229 F. 579; Holt Mfg. Co. v. C. L. Best Gas Traction Co. (D. C.) 245 F 354.

RULE 61. MASTER'S REPORT—DOCUMENTS IDENTIFIED BUT NOT SET FORTH

Cited without definite application, Holt Mfg. Co. v. C. L. Best Gas Traction Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 354.

RULE 62. POWERS OF MASTER

Orders.—Equity rule 62, defining the powers of masters, confers no authority on a special master to grant an order in nature of an injunction. In re Gordon (D. C.) 250 F. 798.

Cited without definite application, Holt Mfg. Co. v. C. L. Best Gas Traction Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 354.

RULE 63. FORM OF ACCOUNTS BEFORE MASTER

Evidence.—Equity rule 63 deals with results and not with evidence. It gives no sanction for a demand upon the accounting party to set forth in his account evidence or the sources of possible evidence from which a different account might be stated, although the adverse party may go into such inquiry if he chooses, in which case the inquiry is governed by the ordinary rules of evidence. Cushman & Denison Mfg. Co. v. L. F. Grammes & Sons (D. C.) 234 F. 949.

Cited without definite application, Alexander v. Fidelity Trust Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 938; O. & W. Thum Co. v. Dickinson (D. C.) 254 F. 219.

RULE 66. RETURN OF MASTER'S REPORT—EXCEPTIONS—HEARING

Effect of rule.—Where exceptions to the account a receiver in bankruptcy were referred to a master, who reported thereon, his findings as to the account stand confirmed, unless exceptions to his report are filed within 20 days, as required by equity rule 66. In re El Sevilla Restaurant (D. C.) 253 F. 410.

Cited without definite application, Holt Mfg. Co. v. C. L. Best Gas Traction Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 354.

RULE 67. COSTS ON EXCEPTIONS TO MASTER'S REPORT

Re-reference.—Where, because master's original report was not sufficiently full to permit disposition of exceptions thereto without original examination by court of all testimony presented, court re-referred cause, no allowance of costs under equity rule No. 67 should be made on account of objections and exceptions to master's first report overruled, which were practically duplicated in exceptions and objections to second report. Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. v. Riverside Bridge Co., 247 F. 625, 160 C. C. A. 35.

Cited without definite application, Holt Mfg. Co. v. C. L. Best Gas Traction Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 354; Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co. v. Wagner Electric Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 508.

RULE 68. APPOINTMENT AND COMPENSATION OF MASTERS

Compensation.—Under equity rule 68 it is discretionary with the court to first issue an order to show cause before issuing attachment. Cutting v. Van Fleet (C. C. A.) 252 F. 100.

The compensation allowed a master by a district court under equity rule 68 must be fixed under the rules applicable to costs, to be measured by the time employed "having regard to all the circumstances" of the case. Byerly v. Sun Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 1021.

Cited without definite application, Holt Mfg. Co. v. C. L. Best Gas Traction Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 354.

RULE 71. FORM OF DECREE

Cited without definite application, Ammon & Person v. Narragansett Dairy Co. (D. C.) 254 F. 208.

RULE 73. PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION AND TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDERS

Applicability.—See Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum v. Hobart, 244 F. 385, 157 C. C. A. 11.

Cited without definite application, Everglades Drainage League v. Napoleon B. Broward Drainage Dist. (D. C.) 253 F. 246.

RULE 74. INJUNCTION PENDING APPEAL

Dismissal of bill for injunction.—A decree dismissing a bill for an injunction cannot be superseded, and the status quo of the subject-matter of the suit maintained, except under the provisions of equity rule 74, which is binding upon the courts of this District. Shaw v. Lane, 47 App. D. C. 170.

RULE 75. RECORD ON APPEAL—REDUCTION AND PREPARATION

Notes of Decisions

Statement of evidence.—The requirement of equity rule 75 that the testimony be reduced to narrative form will not be enforced, where the testimony embraces 30 volumes containing more than 12,000 pages, where a part of the testimony was taken before the rule became operative. U. S. v. United States Steel Corporation, 36 S. Ct. 408, 240 U. S. 442, 60 L. Ed. 731.

Where, in an equity suit, the defeated party appealed and also brought error, and the evidence was brought up in a so-called bill of exceptions, it will, the intention being clear that it should be treated also as a statement of evidence under equity rule 75, be so regarded. L. A. Westermann Co. v. Dispatch Printing Co., 233 F. 609, 147 C. C. A. 417.

Where record was printed for use by trial court in deciding the case and even most immaterial testimony was printed in the form of questions and answers, held, that there was no compliance with equity rule 75, cl. (b); but, parties having acted in good faith, and no previous ruling having been had, record will be received. Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. v. Seberling, 235 F. 891, 149 C. C. A. 203.

The failure of an appellant to present his statement of the evidence to the trial judge for approval, as required by equity rule 75, will be disregarded, where it otherwise appears that the transcript is complete and accurate and decision on merits would be the same. Garland v. Quinn, 242 F. 267, 155 C. C. A. 107.

Where court did not approve statement of evidence found in record, as required by equity rule 75, and it is not shown to contain all evidence adduced, it is to be presumed that court's findings were supported by evidence other than that which record disclosed, though counsel had approved statement of evidence as correct. Carson v. Hurt (C. C. A.) 250 F. 30.

A bill of exceptions is not required on appeal in equity cases, under equity rule 75, but only a condensed statement of the evidence, approved by the court or judge. United States v. Great Northern Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 522.

Though record conformed to Act Cong. Feb. 13, 1911 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1656, 1657), and Supreme Court rule 31 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1835), transcript without statement in narrative form, required by equity rule 75, could not be approved. U. S. v. Motion Picture Patents Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 541.

Noncompliance with rule.—The failure of an appellant to state the evidence in the record on appeal in narrative form, as required by equity rule 75, does not effect the appeal, but subjects him to the imposition of costs. Garland v. Quinn, 242 F. 267, 155 C. C. A. 107.

RULE 76. RECORD ON APPEAL—REDUCTION AND PREPARATION—COSTS—CORRECTION OF OMISSIONS

Costs.—Where record is made unnecessarily long by party, he may not recover cost thereof, if successful. Tompkins v. St. Regis Paper Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 838.

RULE 77. RECORD ON APPEAL—AGREED STATEMENT

Agreed statement.—See Swindell v. Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 438.

RULE 79. ADDITIONAL RULES BY DISTRICT COURT

Effect of district court rules.—The established equity practice approved by the Supreme Court under the old rules must be considered to have remained in force, except as changed by the new rules or by rules of the District Court adopted under authority of new rule 79. Individual Drinking Cup Co. v. Union News Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 625.

Information as to which claims of patents would be relied upon held to be obtained by motion under supplementary equity rule 7, § 2, and not by interrogatory under equity rule 58. Window Glass Mach. Co. v. Brookville Glass & Tile Co. (D. C.) 229 F. 838.

Cited without definite application, Holt Mfg. Co. v. C. L. Best Gas Traction Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 354.

RULE 81. RULES EFFECTIVE FEBRUARY 1, 1913—OLD RULES ABROGATED

This rule as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 2530, was changed by substituting for the word "theretofore," after the words "All rules," at the beginning of the second paragraph, the word "heretofore."

Pending causes.—Under equity rules 29, 81, held, that where demurrer, filed prior to February 1, 1913, was sustained after that date, it would be assumed that it was submitted before such date, or treated as a motion to dismiss. Weber v. Hertzell, 230 F. 965, 145 C. C. A. 159.

The equity rules, which went into effect February, 1913, apply to proceedings in causes then pending, as well as those thereafter brought. E. G. Staude Mfg. Co. v. Labombarde, 243 F. 362, 156 C. C. A. 142, reversing decree (D. C.) 229 F. 1004.

Pre-existing practice.—The established equity practice approved by the Supreme Court under the old rules must be considered to have remained in force, except as changed by the new rules or by rules of the District Court adopted under authority of new rule 79. Individual Drinking Cup. Co. v. Union News Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 625.

II. Equity Procedure in General

(A) In general

1. In general.—Under conformity statute (Rev. St. §§ 913, 914, 916, 917 [Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1536 1537, 1540, 1543]), the state practice is adopted only as to common-law actions. Brown v. Fletcher (D. C.) 239 F. 360.

The United States courts have always recognized the distinction between common law and equity under the Constitution as a matter of substance, as well as of form and procedure, though both jurisdictions are vested in the same courts. Bonifaci v. Thompson (D. C.) 252 F. 878.

The jurisdiction of a court of equity, unless enlarged by express statute, is limited to the protection of property rights. Id.

(C) Laches and stale demands

18. Nature and elements.—Lapse of time held to bar rights of occupant of land patented to another in equity as well as at law, in absence of fraudulent concealment of cause of action or excuse for the laches. U. S. v. New Orleans Pac. Ry. Co., 235 F. 841, 149 C. C. A. 153.

Equitable estoppel is the indispensable foundation of such laches, acquiescence, or ratification as will bar a suit. Elder v. Western Mining Co., 237 F. 966, 150 C. C. A. 616.

A party is as much open to the charge of laches for failure to prosecute a suit diligently as for undue delay in its institution. U. S. v. Fletcher, 242 F. 818, 155 C. C. A. 406, affirming decree (D. C.) 231 F. 326.

The doctrine of laches is an equitable principle applied to promote, but never to defeat, justice. Bunch v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 673.

20. Application of doctrine to state or government.—See U. S. v. Fletcher, 242 F. 818, 155 C. C. A. 406, affirming decree (D. C.) 231 F. 326.

26. Lapse of time.—Mere lapse of time not not being of the essence of laches or acquiescence, the surrounding facts and circumstances are to be considered as well as the rights and interests of all concerned. National Circle, Daughters of Isabella, v. National Order of Daughters of Isabella (D. C.) 252 F. 815.

27. —— Effect of delay alone.—Defense of laches does not depend upon mere lapse of time, but circumstances must be such that assertion of plaintiff's rights would be inequitable. Pond Creek Coal Co. v. Hatfield, 239 F. 622, 152 C. C. A. 456.

The right of a complainant to maintain an effective suit to enforce his rights is not barred by laches because of the lapse of time alone where there has been no prejudice from the delay, and where complainant did not acquiesce in the situation, and was not inactive, but mistook his remedy. Bogert v. Southern Pac. Co., 244 F. 61, 156 C. C. A. 489, affirming decree (D. C.) 226 F. 500. Certiorari granted Southern Pac. Co. v. Bogart, 38 S. Ct. 190, 245 U. S. 668, 62 L. Ed. 539.

In legal significance, laches is not mere lapse of time, whether greater or less than precise time of statute of limitations; it is delay for such time as makes doing of equity either impossible or doubtful. Humphreys v. Walsh, 248 F. 414, 166 C. C. A. 424.

Where complainants were at all times in possession of the land, their delay in beginning suit to set aside disclaimers to the land does not constitute laches, which will bar relief. Woodall v. Clark (C. C. A.) 254 F. 526.

29. —— Acquiescence.—Where for over 22 years a purchaser of land acquiesced in the title remaining in his sister, to whom it was transferred from the original grantee, and his will affirmed such title, the heirs of the purchaser cannot thereafter assert a resulting trust in the land. Higginbotham v. Boggs, 234 F. 253, 148 C. C. A. 155, reversing decree Boggs v. Bright (D. C.) 222 F. 714.

30. —— What constitutes unreasonable delay.—A stockholder's delay of 12 years before instituting a stockholder's bill to recover for injuries from the negligence of directors constituted laches, preventing recovery. Kelly v. Dolan, 233 F. 635, 147 C. C. A. 443, affirming decree (D. C.) 218 F. 966.

Where director of corporation, which was in financial difficulties, acquired timber land belonging to it, advancing sums of money to discharge corporate debts, delay of about 20 months in attacking sale is not such delay as will prevent corporation from avoiding it. Wing v. Dillingham, 239 F. 54, 152 C. C. A. 104.

Complainant's delay for over 20 years in suing to quiet its title against claims of president of corporation and his grantees under tax deed held not laches. Edwards v. Sarasota Venice Co., 246 F. 773, 159 C. C. A. 75.

Complainants' eight-year delay in seeking relief against the administrator, who obtained an estate to which complainants were entitled as next of kin, held, in view of complainants' delay in ascertaining their rights, not to warrant denial of relief on the ground of laches. Diamond v. Connolly (C. C. A.) 251 F. 234.

Delay of five years before bringing suit for the cancellation of an alleged forged deed, during which time the person charged with the forgery had died, held, under the facts shown, such laches as debarred complainants from equitable relief. Naylor v. Foreman-Blades Lumber Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 658.

A suit to quiet title, brought after defendant had been in adverse possession for a period longer than required to give it title by prescription under the state statute, held barred by laches. Guenther v. Dennis-Simmons Lumber Co. (D. C.) 246 F. 521.

Where contract expressed by letters called for sale of defendant's accumulation of steel scrap, approximating 8,200 tons, and plaintiff's order blank called for the exact amount of 8,200 tons, laches could not be imputed to defendant, after receiving the order, in failing to notify plaintiff that it would deliver only its accumulation, since defendant could not be held to anticipate that plaintiff would make a claim other than that embodied in the contract as originally written. Upson Nut Co. v. American Shipbuilding Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 707.

31. Prejudice from delay.—Laches held principally a question of inequity of permitting claim to be enforced because of changed conditions. Pickens v. Merriam, 242 F. 363, 155 C. C. A. 139.

In the federal courts the defense of laches is an equitable one, and to prevail the lapse of time and the relation of the defendants to the rights must be such that it would be inequitable to permit plaintiffs to assert their rights. Kentucky Block Cannel Coal Co. v. Sewell (C. C. A.) 249 F. 840.

The rule that equity will not aid a person who has slept upon his rights without excuse is especially to be enforced when the right to relief is based on alleged fraud or criminal acts of persons who have died during period of delay. Naylor v. Foreman-Blades Lumber Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 658.

34. —— Prejudice to defendants.—Over ten years' delay by complainant in instituting suit against defendant on account of wrongful transfer by testamentary trustee of capital stock of which complainant was ultimate beneficiary held to amount to laches barring recovery against defendant, defendant's right of action against its transfer agent having been lost. Dunscomb v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 246 F. 394, 158 C. C. A. 458.

39. Excuses — Personal disabilities.—Where within reasonable time after she married and left her guardian's household, former ward instituted proceedings for opening of settlement of his guardianship accounts, she was not guilty of any laches which would preclude attack on her acknowledgment without consideration of receipt of payment of notes given by guardian for sum he admitted to be due. Beaven v. Stuart (C. C. A.) 250 F. 972.

41. —— Absence or nonresidence.—Suit by executor and residuary legatee of payee of note against distributee of maker's estate, to impress trust on assets in his hands for payment of note, held barred by laches, and not to be saved by exception of statute of limitations as to nonresidence of debtors. Humphreys v. Walsh, 248 F. 414, 160 C. C. A. 424.

42. —— Fraud, concealment, or other act of adverse party.—A suit by stockholders for the cancellation of a renewal of a lease made by the directors held not barred by laches or acquiescence, where the renewal was executed three or four years before the expiration of the former lease and was concealed from complainants until within less than one year before the commencement of suit. Elder v. Western Mining Co. (C. C. A.) 237 F. 966.

44. —— Pendency of legal proceedings.—Failure of intervener, after bill was amended so as to omit her as complainant, to take further steps in establishing her claim until determination of complainant's suit, held not to amount to laches, precluding relief on subsequent intervention. Mathieson v. Craven (D. C.) 247 F. 223.

Effect of existence of judgment. Wolbol v. Steinhoff (Wyo.) 168 P. 251, rehearing denied 170 P. 381.

47. —— Ignorance of facts.—Plaintiff's delay in commencing suit involving mineral rights to land held not to amount to laches; defect in plaintiff's title being discovered only shortly before suit, and defendant, who asserted title to the land, not having discovered defect when he acted as agent for plaintiff's predecessor in purchasing same. Pond Creek Coal Co. v. Hatfield, 239 F. 622, 152 C. C. A. 456.

Complainants' eight-year delay in seeking relief against an administrator who fraudulently represented that he was next of kin, etc., held, in view of their efforts on behalf of their mother, etc., not to warrant denial of relief; the case falling within Rev. Codes Idaho, § 4054, subd. 4, requiring actions based on fraud to be commenced within three years, but providing that such actions shall not be deemed to have accrued until discovery of the fraud. Diamond v. Connolly (C. C. A.) 251 F. 234.

Where defendant was guilty of fraud, a court of equity should be reluctant to deny relief, merely on the ground of laches. Id.

Disclosure of diligence to discover the fraud is, after long delay, indispensable to obtain relief against judgment because of fraudulent representations, in the action in which judgment was obtained, on the tendered issue of ownership of cause of action to give jurisdiction on the ground of diversity of citizenship. Bunch v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 673.

Plaintiff held not guilty of laches in bringing suit for rescission of her agreement for dissolution of partnership with defendant, organization of a corporation in which he should have the controlling share, and transfer to it of partnership assets, much of the most convincing proof of the fraud not coming to light till a few months before suit. Tevander v. Ruysdael (C. C. A.) 253 F. 918.

A complainant held not barred by laches from maintaining a suit for fraud on the ground that it should have sooner discovered the fraud. Santa Marina Co. v. Canadian Bank of Commerce (D. C.) 242 F. 142.

49. Following statute of limitations.—Under Pennsylvania statute (Act March 28, 1867 [P. L. 48]), a bill by a stockholder of corporation in receivership to recover for injuries from directors' negligence cannot be maintained after the expiration of six years. Kelly v. Dolan, 233 F. 635, 147 C. C. A. 443, affirming decree (D. C.) 218 F. 966.

Kentucky statutes of limitation apply to equitable as well as to legal actions. Pond Creek Coal Co. v. Hatfield, 239 F. 622, 152 C. C. A. 456.

In the absence of any statute of limitations enacted by Congress, the federal courts of equity usually follow the state statutes, even in suits which depend upon or arise under the laws of the United States. Benedict v. City of New York, 247 F. 758, 159 C. C. A. 616, affirming decree (D. C.) 235 F. 258.

In applying doctrine of laches in equity actions, federal courts are not bound by statutes of limitation of forum, even when such statutes are applicable by their terms to such actions. Humphreys v. Walsh, 248 F. 414, 160 C. C. A. 424.

A court of chancery cannot grant relief, in a suit by the United States to cancel a patent on account of fraud, after the expiration of six years, in the absence of reasonable care and diligence on its part to discover the same, for Act March 3, 1891, § 8 (Comp. St. 1916, § 5114), expressly forbids such suits, and to grant relief would be a species of judicial legislation. U. S. v. Diamond Coal & Coke Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 266.

Independently of any statute of limitations courts of equity uniformly decline to assist a person who has slept upon his rights and shows no excuse for his laches in asserting them. Naylor v. Foreman-Blades Lumber Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 658.

A state statute, limiting the time for presentation of claims against an estate, is a rule of property, and as such binding on a federal court sitting in equity. Goodno v. Hotchkiss (D. C.) 237 F. 686.

51. —— Delay short of statutory period.—The doctrine of laches has no function when the analogous action or proceeding at law is not barred, and no unusual conditions invoke its application within the period of limitations to secure a just result. Bunch v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 673.

Bill to rescind for fraud having been filed within a few months after the fraud was discovered, and within less than the period of limitations after the making of the representations, suggestion of laches, in the absence of a showing of special circumstances, is without force. Independent Harvester Co. v. Tinsman (C. C. A.) 253 F. 935.

53½. Laches appearing by bill.—In cases of great delay in seeking relief, courts of equity on their own motion require plaintiff to allege and show affirmatively facts excusing delay. Pond Creek Coal Co. v. Hatfield, 239 F. 622, 152 C. C. A. 456.

Bill in stockholders' suit held to disclose such laches on its face, in connection with the discovery called for, as to warrant its dismissal. Whitaker v. Whitaker Iron Co., 249 F. 531, 161 C. C. A. 457, affirming decree (D. C.) 238 F. 980, and writ of certiorari denied 39 S. Ct. 8, 63 L. Ed. —.

55. Pleading as defense.—The plaintiff in a suit in equity to set aside an exchange of real property for fraud of her brokers in effecting the exchange will not be held guilty of laches, where the allegation in the bill that she recently discovered the fraud is not denied in the answer. Bradley v. Davidson, 47 App. D. C. 266.

(D) Parties

57. In general.—The equitable claims of a state or nation appeal to the conscience of a chancellor with no greater or less force than would those of a private citizen under like circumstances, and barring the effect of mere delay, they are judicable in a court of chancery, to whose jurisdiction the state or nation submits them, under the rules applicable to private citizens. U. S. v. Diamond Coal & Coke Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 266.

A court may look beyond the names of the parties to a suit and ascertain the real parties in interest from the facts as they appear in the record. U. S. v. Fletcher (D. C.) 231 F. 326.

In chancery, all persons ought to be made parties who are interested in the controversy. Brown v. Crawford (D. C.) 252 F. 248.

A suit in equity to rescind a conveyance of land for fraud after the death of the injured party must be brought in the name of his heirs at law or devisees. Bradley v. Davidson, 47 App. D. C. 266.

58. Necessary or indispensable parties.—It is the established rule in the federal courts that a suit in equity may proceed without the presence of all proper, or even necessary, parties, and that only indispensable parties must be joined. Lion Tractor Co. v. Bull Tractor Co., 231 F. 156, 145 C. C. A. 344.

An "indispensable party" is one who has such an interest in the subject-matter of the controversy that a final decree cannot be made without affecting his interests or leaving the controversy in such a situation that its final determination may be inconsistent with equity and good conscience. U. S. v. Bean (C. C. A.) 253 F. 1.

A chancery court cannot proceed at all without the presence of the indispensable parties. Brown v. Crawford (D. C.) 252 F. 248.

On a bill for specific performance of an agreement for an exchange of properties, not signed by defendant's wife, she was not a necessary party, as if she was unwilling to join in the conveyance, the court might nevertheless require defendant to execute a deed in accordance with his contract. Dixon v. Anderson (C. C. A.) 252 F. 694.

Ordinarily none but those who join in the contract need be made parties to a suit for specific performance; but where land is incumbered, and the contract calls for title free from incumbrances, it is within the discretion of the trial court to permit or direct that the lienholders be joined. Bryan v. Barriger (D. C.) 251 F. 328.

In suit to foreclose railroad mortgage, held, that whether collateral agreement imposed equitable lien on property of another railroad company could not be adjudicated without affording it an opportunity to be heard. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571, 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 478.

Committee of railroad bondholders and its depositary held not indispensable parties to proceeding by minority bondholder who desired to foreclose mortgage securing bonds to secure appointment of receiver. Lowenthal v. Georgia Coast & P. R. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 1016, decree affirmed Georgia Coast & P. R. Co. v. Lowenthal (C. C. A.) 238 F. 795.

In the strictest sense, the owner of the equity of redemption is not an indispensable party to a foreclosure, though the object of foreclosure is to extinguish the equity of redemption; the procedure being quasi in rem; but if personal judgment is sought as against holder of equity of redemption, he is an indispensable party to a foreclosure, and the mortgagee cannot have relief without his personal presence. Brown v. Crawford (D. C.) 252 F. 248.

Mortgagor corporation held not necessary party to suit in federal court by nonresident trustees, named in mortgage to secure bondholders, against members of Public Utilities Commission to enjoin illegal action of such commissioners. De Pauw University v. Public Service Commission of Oregon (D. C.) 247 F. 183.

Where purchasers of lands formerly belonging to the Seminole Nation, which had been sold for taxes, were not made parties to a suit by the United States against the treasurer of the Oklahoma county in which the lands lay to enjoin him from collecting the taxes and from selling or conveying the lands, the suit must be dismissed for the want of such parties, for they are indispensable. U. S. v. Bean (C. C. A.) 253 F. 1.

Though complainant in courts of North Carolina, in which state debtors resided recovered judgment against them, such debtors are necessary parties in suit in federal District Court for Florida, wherein transfers of property by debtors were sought to be set aside and property subjected to complainant's demand. Bank of Commerce & Trust of Richmond, Va., v. McArthur (D. C.) 248 F. 138.

A judgment defendant is not a necessary party to a suit by the surety on his supersedeas bond brought after affirmance of the judgment to enjoin prosecution of an action on the bond by the judgment plaintiff. Maryland Casualty Co. v. Repass (C. C. A.) 253 F. 328.

Creditors' bill to enforce stockholders' liability on behalf of plaintiff and all others joining in the bill held not maintainable without the corporation as a party. Clinton Mining & Mineral Co. v. Cochran, 247 F. 449, 159 C. C. A. 503.

A bill by creditors of an insolvent corporation against a stockholder held not defective because of the failure to join other stockholders who might be liable on the same grounds. Second Nat. Bank of Erie v. Georger (D. C.) 246 F. 517.

Where there are a number of creditors, a single creditor cannot maintain a bill in equity against the stockholder of an insolvent corporation to collect unpaid subscription for his benefit alone. John A. Roebling's Sons Co. of California v. Kinnicutt (D. C.) 248 F. 596.

To a suit to establish a claim against a testamentary trustee, by an assignee of the beneficiary who repudiates the assignment, such beneficiary is an indispensable party. Brown v. Fletcher, 231 F. 92, 145 C. C. A. 280.

In suit by a wife's administrator to set aside a deed given by decedent and her husband, husband held not an indispensable party. Grigsby v. Miller (D. C.) 231 F. 521.

59. —— Persons legally represented.—Bondholders secured by deed of trust are assumed to be fairly represented by the trustee, and the court can deal with them only through their trustee. Rospigliosi v. New Orleans, M. & C. R. Co., 237 F. 341, 150 C. C. A. 355.

60. —— Grounds for omitting or dispensing with parties.—Persons who have disposed of all their interest in the subject-matter of a suit in equity, and who cannot be affected by the decree, are neither indispensable nor necessary parties. Lion Tractor Co. v. Bull Tractor Co., 231 F. 156, 145 C. C. A. 344.

In suit to vacate contract between aged woman and her agent, rights of possible beneficiaries under contract cannot be concluded, unless they are parties; but agent, his liability to them being personal, may be protected by deposit of money with the clerk of the court, so such beneficiaries are not necessary parties. Parker v. Ross, 234 F. 28.), 148 C. C. A. 191.

The rule that in general courts can deal with bondholders only through their trustees is a rule of convenience, to facilitate the conduct of the suit, and is inapplicable where the trustee occupies a position prejudicial to the interest of the bondholders. Brown v. Denver Omnibus & Cab Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 560.

61. —— One or more suing or defending on behalf of all.—The failure of a creditor to bring his creditors' bill on behalf of other creditors does not render the bill demurrable. Murray v. Sioux Alaska Mining Co., 239 F. 818, 152 C. C. A. 604.

Where members of a class are made parties as representatives of the class, such fact and their relation to the subject-matter should appear from the record. McClelland v. Rose, 247 F. 721, 159 C. C. A. 579, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 341.

62. Proper parties.—Owner of large proportion of stock of defendant company, and in position to control its action, was proper party defendant to suit against company. Vineyard Land & Stock Co. v. Twin Falls Oakley Land & Water Co., 245 F. 30, 157 C. C. A. 326.

Where an administrator, by a false and fraudulent statement that he and certain of his relatives were next of kin, obtained a decree of distribution in their favor, the sureties on the administrator's bond are proper parties to a suit to hold the administrator and other distributees as trustees, etc. Diamond v. Connolly (C. C. A.) 251 F. 234.

The failure to join one who is a proper, but neither a necessary nor an indispensable, party does not deprive a federal court of equity of jurisdiction. U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 127.

63. Complainants.—That plaintiff, seller, prior to institution of suit for rescission, had disposed of identical certificate covering shares of stock sold to defendant, would not bar suit for lack of interest, where plaintiff owned other stock more than sufficient to cover shares sold to defendant, and defendant in said suit for rescission set up demand for damages for wrongful conversion and sale of certificate. Atkins v. Garrett (D. C.) 252 F. 280.

65. Defendants.—A defendant, joined only on the ground that it is a debtor of its codefendant, and against which the only relief prayed is that it be enjoined from paying its codefendant and be required to pay to complainant the amount of the latter's claim, is only a stakeholder and not a real party in interest. General Electric Co. v. Richardson (C. C. A.) 233 F. 84.

In an action for false imprisonment, brought against a sheriff and his deputies, the sheriff was properly joined with the deputies as parties defendant, notwithstanding they both acted in their official capacity. Reichman v. Harris (C. C. A.) 252 F. 371.

67. Making party complainant or defendant.—In suit by a wife's administrator to set aside deeds, one given by herself and husband to M., and one given by M. to another, the proper position of the husband as a party was as a plaintiff, and not as a defendant. Grigsby v. Miller (D. C.) 231 F. 521.

69. Intervention.—In foreclosure suit, intervening petition asserting that trustee was not protecting bondholders' rights under collateral agreement held without relevancy to pending proceedings, as trustee's actions did not indicate infidelity to its trust. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571, 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. (D. C.) 231 F. 478.

Stockholders of a corporation cannot intervene in a proceeding to foreclose a mortgage on corporate property, setting up defenses which were available to the corporation, where there was no averment of any demand upon or refusal by the corporation to assert such defense. Rospigliosi v. New Orleans, M. & C. R. Co., 237 F. 341, 150 C. C. A. 355.

On proceedings to wind up partnership affairs, creditors will be permitted to intervene and file their claims against the partnership assets and against individual partners. Lackner v. McKechney (C. C. A.) 252 F. 403.

In a suit to foreclose a mortgage securing bonds issued by railroad company, stockholders seeking to intervene cannot inject by their answer issues as to whether some of the stockholders had paid for the stock held by them. Fidelity Trust Co. v. Elberton & E. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 1009.

That suit was pending in another district to determine rights of contractor which had received issue of bonds for building railroad held ground for denying intervention urging contractors' breach of contract to defeat foreclosure of mortgage securing bonds, part of which had been disposed of by contractor. Id.

In a suit to enforce a lien on lands, held that, bill being dismissed as to those defendants who were residents of same state as intervener, he being entitled to same relief as complainant, should be allowed to intervene. Mathieson v. Craven (D. C.) 247 F. 223.

A stranger cannot intervene for the purpose of defeating the entire suit, nor for the purpose of litigating with the complainant his right or title to any relief; and if it is desired to set up a new and independent claim, it must be done by an original bill in the nature of a cross-bill. Hopkins v. Lancaster (D. C.) 254 F. 190.

70. Bringing in new parties.—Because purchaser pendente lite will be bound by results of litigation will not alone justify making him party by ancillary proceedings before final decree. Venner v. Pennsylvania Steel Co. of New Jersey (D. C.) 250 F. 292.

71. Defects and objections.—Where contingent remaindermen were not made parties to a partition suit, though life tenants were, a sale for partition disposes only of life estates, and not fee. Glover v. Bradley, 233 F. 721, 147 C. C. A. 487, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 921.

The failure to join in foreclosure proceedings one having an interest in the land does not invalidate the judgment, but merely renders it ineffective as to him. Eckerson v. Tanney (D. C.) 235 F. 415.

(E) Process and appearance

79. Service—Substituted service.—Substituted service of a bill in equity against a foreign corporation, made on its attorney without any order having been procured therefor, is invalid. Johnson-Brown Co. v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. (D. C.) 239 F. 590.

80. Return.—Return of service of a subpœna on a nonresident defendant in an infringement suit held insufficient to give the court jurisdiction over such defendant. Scheuerle v. Onepiece Bifocal Lens Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 270.

82. Appearance.—Under the federal practice an appearance to object to the jurisdiction of the court does not bind the parties appearing to submit to the jurisdiction on the overruling of the objection. Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell, 38 S. Ct. 65, 245 U. S. 229, 62 L. Ed. 260, L. R. A. 1918C, 497, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 461, reversing decree Mitchell v. Hitchman Coal & Coke Co., 214 F. 685, 131 C. C. A. 425, which reversed decree Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell (D. C.) 202 F. 512. Mandate stayed 38 S. Ct. 190.

(F) Bill

83. Nature and office.—A suit in equity is begun by filing the original bill. Waldo v. Wilson, 231 F. 654, 145 C. C. A. 540, reversing decree Wilson v. Waldo (D. C.) 221 F. 505, and certiorari denied Id. 36 S. Ct. 724, 241 U. S. 673, 60 L. Ed. 1231.

84. Form and requisites in general.—In modern practice, pleadings in civil actions at law or in equity are not construed with the strictness formerly applied to criminal indictments, but are to be taken to mean what their language fairly imports. U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 127.

86. Introduction or statement as to parties.—Bill against fraternal insurer, alleging mismanagement, probability of loss of trust funds, and praying appointment of receiver, etc., and that plaintiffs were interested in certain trust funds, is insufficient, not disclosing plaintiffs' interest. Cummings v. Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum (D. C.) 247 F. 992.

88. Premises or statement of cause of action.—Facts which excuse plaintiff from laches are properly pleaded in a bill asking equitable relief, and may be proven upon the trial. Foster v. Callaghan & Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 944.

90. Prayer for relief.—Where a bill is of the nature of a bill to foreclose, it has that effect, though it does not pray such relief. Brown v. Crawford (D. C.) 252 F. 248.

A prayer for general relief in a bill in equity is in aid of the specific grounds enumerated, and is limited to the objects of the bill. Shaw v. Lane, 47 App. D. C. 170.

92. Form and sufficiency of allegations.—Sufficiency of bill is not to be determined by consideration of whether pleader will be able to establish his allegations. Bolin v. Wilkes, 249 F. 705, 161 C. C. A. 615.

A bill of complaint by those next of kin of an Idaho decedent, living in the United States, against the administrator, who had obtained distribution of the property to himself, etc., under Rev. Codes Idaho, § 5702, by false representations that he was the next of kin, held sufficient to charge a fraudulent breach of trust by the administrator. Diamond v. Connolly (C. C. A.) 251 F. 234.

Allegations, in a bill to set aside as clouds on their title disclaimers, as to minerals, held to sufficiently aver complainant's title to the minerals mentioned. Woodall v. Clark (C. C. A.) 254 F. 526.

A bill may properly allege on information and belief, in the alternative, that defendant had actual knowledge or constructive notice of an essential fact, where the complainant has no means of knowing the facts as to such knowledge or notice. Brady v. Reliance Motion Picture Corporation (D. C.) 232 F. 259.

Bill by corporate creditors against directors held to show sufficiently that corporation was insolvent when the directors declared a dividend. United States Smelting Co. v. Hofkin (D. C.) 245 F. 896.

95. Consistency, ambiguity, or repugnancy.—Complainant's statement of conclusion that it treated only "single-stamped" barrels is not supported by its allegations of fact that those supplying it with barrels have both single and double stamped barrels, and that all distinguishing marks have been obliterated before complainant secures them.

Western Extracting Co. v. Smietanka, 234 F. 229, 148 C. C. A. 131.

97. Joinder of causes of action.—Claim against individual defendants for recovery of $36,000 expended by complainant in developing mining property, and claim against corporation for stock and dividends, both claims being under single contract between parties for exploitation of mining property, held separable, in sense that, while they could both be enforced in one action, they could also be separately enforced; action against corporation for stock and dividends being brought in federal court, as involving internal management of foreign corporation after state court had refused to pass on claim against company. Beltz v. Great Western Lead Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 696.

There is no inflexible rule in equity against the splitting of demands, which may be done under special circumstances to avoid injustice. Id.

99. Multifariousness.—A bill is not multifarious which presents a common point of litigation the decision of which will affect the whole subject-matter and will settle the rights of all the parties to the suit. Elder v. Western Mining Co., 237 F. 966, 150 C. C. A. 616.

That complainants prayed for relief to which they were not entitled, or alleged facts not material to relief, would not make bill multifarious. Everglades Drainage League v. Napoleon B. Broward Drainage Dist. (D. C.) 253 F. 246.

100. —— Misjoinder of causes of action.—Bill by United States to enjoin railroad from constructing its line through a forest reserve unless it executes stipulation required by Secretary of the Interior in accordance with its agreement and to obtain damages for timber destroyed in operation of road is not multifarious. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. of Idaho v. U. S., 37 S. Ct. 625, 244 U. S. 351, 61 L. Ed. 1184, affirming decree 218 F. 288, 134 C. C. A. 84.

Court below, under Alaska statute, had discretion to permit joinder of causes of action for diminishing assets of bank by permitting subscribers to surrender stock and for declaring illegal dividend. Jesson v. Noyes, 245 F. 46, 157 C. C. A. 342, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 133, 245 U. S. 667, 62 L. Ed. 538.

Bill to cancel release of judgment and to subject equity in land to payment of the judgment is not multifarious; the cancellation being but incident to the real purpose of the litigation. Ross v. Miller (C. C. A.) 252 F. 697.

103. Impertinence and scandal.—Where bill charged fraudulent conduct against attorney, without stating facts to support charge, such charge is scandalous, and should be stricken from bill. Crim v. Rice, 232 F. 570, 146 C. C. A. 528.

104. Exhibits.—Where, in a suit to set aside a judgment of a state court, the bill described the suit in the state court and the issues involved, and set forth the date of the judgment and the volume and page of the Reports wherein it was reported, the court was authorized to refer to the reported decision and read it in connection with the allegations of the bill, for the purpose of determining what was at issue and decided therein, as if a copy thereof had been appended as an exhibit to the bill; the court not thereby taking judicial notice of a proceeding of the state court, but taking notice of that which was brought to its attention by proper pleading. Hewitt v. Great Western Beet Sugar Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 394.

Instruments of writing need not be set out in extenso in a bill, unless the bill shows that it is essential to the proper construction of the particular clauses complained of, and which are set out. U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 127.

Making exhibit attached to bill a part thereof, and praying reference, had the same effect as though the facts set out in the exhibit were alleged in the body of the bill. Everglades Drainage League v. Napoleon B. Broward Drainage Dist. (D. C.) 253 F. 246.

105. Construction and operation.—While pleadings are not construed in equity with so high a degree of technicality as at law, nevertheless, where allegations are equivocal, they will be construed most strongly against pleader. Du Pont v. Gardiner, 238 F. 755, 151 C. C. A. 605.

Allegations in a bill, although made on information and belief, may rightfully be considered in determining the sufficiency of the bill, where the existence of such facts is also distinctly alleged. Helmet Co. v. Wm. Wrigley, Jr., Co., 245 F. 824, 158 C. C. A. 164.

Where complainant's bill to enforce mechanic's lien alleged that named persons had some interest in premises either as mortgagees or purchasers, but alleged that mortgage was inferior to lien, and evidence indicated that existence of mortgage was uncontroverted, complainant cannot attack decree because of absence of formal proof of mortgage; his pleading amounting to admission of its existence. Turner Const. Co. v. Union Terminal Co., 248 F. 120, 160 C. C. A. 260.

In modern practice, pleadings in civil actions at law or in equity are not construed with the strictness formerly applied to criminal indictments, but are to be taken to mean what their language fairly imports. U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 127.

(H) Answer

116. Denials and admissions.—Where, in a suit in equity the plaintiffs aver in their bill of complaint that a bill of sale of a chattel given by the defendant to the plaintiffs' intestate was in fact a chattel mortgage to secure a debt due by him to their intestate, and ask that it be so declared, and for the sale of the chattel to pay the debt, and defendant admits in his answer part of the debt to be due, and does not deny that the bill of sale was in fact intended as a mortgage, but merely demands strict proof of the material averments of the bill, the pleadings, together with evidence by the plaintiff identifying the bill of sale and the notes evidencing the debt, will support a decree in favor of the plaintiff granting the relief asked. Emig v. Baker, 44 App. D. C. 306.

Where trustees under a deed of trust were restrained pendente lite from taking possession of the real estate sold by them under the deed of trust, on charges by the owner in possession that the purchaser at the sale had bought the property in the interest of the trustees, and that the property had been sold for less than one-half of its real value, and the trustees failed to deny that they were interested in the sale, and made only an equivocal denial of the charge as to the inadequacy of the sale price, this court on an appeal by them affirmed the restraining order. Brown v. Oriental University, 44 App. D. C. 414.

120. Compelling answer.—Requiring the owner of the equity of redemption, in a subsequent lienholder's suit for redemption, to answer a cross-bill for subrogation to the extent of interest paid by the cross-complainant, does not suffice to require him to answer or appear in the main case. Brown v. Crawford (D. C.) 252 F. 248.

(I) Cross-bill

122. Nature and office—Relation to subject-matter of original bill in general.—A cross-bill may not interpose new controversies between codefendants to the original bill, the decision of which is unnecessary to a complete determination of the controversies between the complainant and the defendants over the subject-matter of the original bill. Landon v. Public Utilities Commission of Kansas (D. C.) 234 F. 152.

(J) Replication

138. Failure to reply.—Where in an answer to a bill of complaint praying, among other things, for the establishment of an indebtedness due from the defendant, the defendant avers that part of the alleged indebtedness was usurious, and claims credit for the usury paid, the failure of the plaintiff to reply to such averment of the answer is not an admission by the plaintiff of its truth, that will dispense with the necessity of the defendant's proving its truth on the trial. Emig v. Baker, 44 App. D. C. 306.

(N) Amended and supplemental pleading

146. Discretion of court.—See Kinney v. Rice (D. C.) 238 F. 441.

Allowance of amendment to bill is question within discretion of court. National Bank of Bakersfield v. Moore, 247 F. 913, 160 C. C. A. 103, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 427, 247 U. S. 507, 62 L. Ed. 1241.

The granting or refusing of leave to file a supplemental bill rests in the discretion of the trial court. General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160.

147. Amendment of bill.—Where complainant was entitled to no relief under the evidence, the denial of an amendment to the bill, at close of testimony, as to a certain matter, and changing the prayer for relief, was not error. Parent v. Picotte (C. C. A.) 254 F. 301.

149. —— Matter arising after filing bill.—A complainant is not estopped from adopting a different theory of his case in an amended bill, to meet an authoritative decision rendered after the suit was commenced. Ashland Waterworks Co. v. City of Ashland (C. C. A.) 251 F. 492.

150. —— Matter making new case.—A complainant cannot be permitted, under the guise of amendment, to make a new bill. U. S. v. Whitted, 245 F. 629, 158 C. C. A. 57.

156. Amendment of plea or answer —— Matter making new defense.—In a suit in equity an amended answer, tentatively received during trial, "more in detail," would be rejected to the extent found to raise new issues operating as a surprise. First Trust & Savings Bank v. Bitter Root Valley Irr. Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 320.

158. Amendment to conform to proofs.—Where evidence has been fully taken without objection on an issue not made by the pleadings, complainant may be permitted to amend his bill to meet the evidence and present such issue. Davis v. Gates (D. C.) 235 F. 192.

161. Form and sufficiency of amended pleading.—In a suit in equity an amended answer, tentatively received during trial, "more in detail," would be rejected to the extent found to deny former admissions. First Trust & Savings Bank v. Bitter Root Valley Irr. Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 320.

168. Time for filing.—In suit to compel defendant to hold, as trustee for plaintiff, mineral rights in land, held, that leave to file trial amendment to plaintiff's bill, excusing delay in suing, was improperly refused. Pond Creek Coal Co. v. Hatfield, 239 F. 622, 152 C. C. A. 456.

(O) Signature, verification, and filing

176. Verification.—See Kinney v. Rice (D. C.) 238 F. 441.

177. —— Authority to take.—See Kinney v. Rice (D. C.) 238 F. 441.

(P) Issues, proof, and variance

185. Matters to be proved.—In equity, as at law, fact admitted held proved, with all its consequences, as though fact in avoidance had not been averred, unless such fact also is proved. Clark-Montana Realty Co. v. Butte & Superior Copper Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 547.

(Q) Defects and objections as to pleadings, and waiver thereof

190. Waiver of objections in general —— Objections to bill.—Where there was no demurrer or motion to dismiss, relief held not to be denied, after trial of suit to rescind on the merits, because bill did not allege plaintiff's willingness to return property received by him. Twin Lakes Land & Water Co. v. Dohner, 242 F. 399, 155 C. C. A. 175.

(R) Evidence

196. Rules of evidence in general.—Parol evidence is not admissible, even in equity, to show that the consideration of $1, which the lease recited had been paid, was not in fact paid. Lindlay v. Raydure (D. C.) 239 F. 928.

201. Answer as evidence—Waiver of answer under oath.—The answer in a suit in equity is not evidence, where an answer under oath is waived, and the hearing is not upon bill and answer. Bradley v. Davidson, 47 App. D. C. 266.

(T) Discovery

221½. Right to discovery.—See John A. Roebling's Sons Co. of California v. Kinnicutt (D. C.) 248 F. 596.

A bill of discovery in aid of a defense at law cannot be maintained where complainant has ample proof of his allegations and the evidence sought is plainly cumulative or comparatively unimportant. Galion Iron Works Co. v. Ohio Corrugated Culvert Co., 244 F. 427, 157 C. C. A. 53.

To give equity jurisdiction of a bill as one for discovery, where it also prays for other relief, it must allege that discovery is essential to such relief. Parkerson v. Borst (C. C. A.) 251 F. 242.

A bill for discovery to put a party on his oath is obsolete. Scotten v. Rosenblum (D. C.) 231 F. 357.

A plaintiff cannot require discovery in aid of an action at law of facts of which he has equal knowledge, or equal means of knowledge, with the defendant. Kinney v. Rice (D. C.) 238 F. 444.

Affirmative defenses to a bill of discovery must be confined with the most narrow and technical rigidity to such as the precedents have recognized, and do not include, where the bill is in aid of an action at law, matter which might be a good defense to such action. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 964.

224. Answers to interrogatories—Necessity.—See Kinney v. Rice (D. C.) 238 F. 441.

226. —— Sufficiency.—Answers to interrogatories in a bill in equity required to be under oath are evidence only in so far as they are responsive to the interrogatories. Bradley v. Davidson, 47 App. D. C. 266.

227. Production and inspection of documents.—Under a bill of discovery in aid of an action at law, defendant can be required to produce only such documents as contain evidence material to plaintiff's case. Pressed Steel Car Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 964.

(U) Dismissal before hearing

231. Voluntary dismissal—Effect of answer or cross-bill.—Where attorneys, who had performed services under a contract with a partnership, filed their claim in a proceeding brought by the executor of a deceased partner to wind up the partnership affairs, held, that they acquired an independent standing in the suit, and the court should not allow the original bill, etc., to be dismissed until the intervening petition was disposed of on the merits. Lackner v. McKechney (C. C. A.) 252 F. 403.

232. —— Conditions.—The right of a complainant to dismiss without prejudice, at least before the case has reached a stage where the court could render final decree on the merits, is not subject to the imposition of conditions other than the payment of costs. Young v. J. Samuels & Bro. (D. C.) 232 F. 784.

235. Involuntary dismissal—Grounds in general.—On a bill for specific performance, an objection by defendant that the contract could not be enforced, because it was not signed by his wife, not arising on the allegations in the bill, furnished no ground for its dismissal. Dixon v. Anderson (C. C. A.) 252 F. 694.

An allegation of an essential fact in a bill in equity by way of recital, but in such form that the existence of the fact appears by necessary implication, is good as against a motion to dismiss. Grasselli Chemical Co. v. Ætna Explosives Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 603.

239. —— Dismissal on court's own motion.—A court of equity will on its own motion dismiss a bill, if to grant the relief prayed for would injuriously affect persons materially interested in the subject-matter who are not made parties. U. S. v. Bean (C. C. A.) 253 F. 1.

241. —— Operation and effect.—An order entered on the minutes, on motion of defendant, that the court "does now dismiss this bill for want of prosecution," was in effect a final decree, binding on defendant, which was not entitled at a subsequent term to a formal decree of dismissal "on the merits." Westinghouse Traction Brake Co. v. Orr (C. C. A.) 252 F. 392.

(V) Hearing, submission of issues to jury, and rehearing

244. Separate hearings in same cause.—Disputed rights of inheritance cannot be settled on a preliminary hearing in equity to secure relief against fraudulent administration of an estate, but the plaintiffs, citizens of other states, have a right to be heard and to have the estate preserved pending final determination of their rights. Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 232 F. 921. See Equity Rule 26, ante.

251. Conduct of hearing in general.—Where parties were agreeable to foreclosure of railroad mortgage, and necessity for prompt sale was shown, held, that parties were entitled to have case proceed with convenient expedition. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571, 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 478.

252. Reception of evidence.—In a suit by the vendor for specific enforcement of a contract for the sale of a leasehold interest in land, where the lease prohibited its assignment, except with written consent of the lessor, the court had discretion, after the close of the hearing, to permit complainant to supply proof that such consent had been obtained. United States Gypsum Co. v. Mackey Wall Plaster Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 397.

254. Dismissal at final hearing.—Where bill of trustee of bankrupt mining company, charging actual fraud on part of defendants, alleged conspiracy to wreck company, etc., such bill must be dismissed, where the fraud was not established. Munro v. Smith (D. C.) 243 F. 654.

264. Rehearing—Application and proceedings thereon.—See Kinney v. Rice (D. C.) 238 F. 441.

Where a petition for rehearing is filed by leave of court during the term at which decree was entered the decree does not become final until the petition is disposed of. U. S. v. Midway Northern Oil Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 619.

Entry of an order vacating a decree of dismissal without notice to the defendant even if an error does not affect the jurisdiction of the court to make the order. Id.

(W) Masters and commissioners, and proceedings before them

267. Compensation and fees.—A master's fee of $20,000 is excessive by at least $10,000, where service rendered was found in a few brief meetings, held at intervals during period of less than three months, and in preparation of two reports, which, while thorough, could not have been difficult, and could not have occupied more than two months, had master done nothing else. Brown v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 513.

269. Power to refer to master.—A court of equity held to have power to appoint a commission to make tests of a refuse-burning plant built for a city, and to report the results, as bearing upon the issue as to whether the plant fulfilled the requirements and warranties of the contract. Destructor Co. v. City of Atlanta (D. C.) 232 F. 746.

270. Discretion as to reference.—In a suit for an accounting, it is within the discretion of the court to refer the case to a master for that purpose. Bothwell Co. v. Bice, 247 F. 60, 159 C. C. A. 278.

273. Powers and functions of master in general.—A master, to whom a patent infringement suit was referred, had ample power, which he would not hesitate to use, to speed the cause and prevent unreasonable delay. Rollman Mfg. Co. v. Universal Hardware Works (D. C.) 229 F. 579.

There is no authority in a special master per se, and in the absence of a special statute none can be granted him by the court, to make an order in the nature of an injunction. In re Gordon (D. C.) 250 F. 798.

274. Questions and matters proper for reference.—Where court has determined substantial rights of parties, reference to master for accounting is not denial of hearing before court, particularly as either party, if dissatisfied with master's findings, might except, and such exceptions would be passed on by court. Kentucky Wagon Mfg. Co. v. Jones & Hopkins Mfg. Co., 248 F. 272, 160 C. C. A. 350.

275. Issues embraced in order of reference.—See Wm. Edwards Co. v. La Dow (C. C. A.) 230 F. 378.

288. Objections and exceptions to report and proceedings thereon—Necessity of exceptions.—Where no exceptions were taken to the master's findings of fact, they must be accepted as true by the reviewing court. Fleming v. Noble (C. C. A.) 250 F. 733.

289. —— Time for objecting and excepting.—Proper practice requires that objections to a master's report shall be taken in the trial court, that any errors discovered therein may be rectified by the court itself, or by a reference to the master for correction. Riverside Heights Orange Growers' Ass'n v. Stebler, 240 F. 703, 153 C. C. A. 501.

292. —— Form and sufficiency of exceptions.—Exceptions to reports of masters in chancery are in the nature of a special demurrer, and the party objecting must point out the error; otherwise, the part not excepted to will be taken as admitted. Riverside Heights Orange Growers' Ass'n v. Stebler, 240 F. 703, 153 C. C. A. 501.

Exceptions to the report of a master must specifically point out the matter objected to and the ground of objection, and general exceptions will not be considered. In re Association Dairy Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 749.

297. —— Conclusiveness of report.—Though master was appointed by consent, held, that his findings of fact included in his report were not conclusive, and exceptions thereto might be considered by the court. City and County of Denver v. Denver Union Water Co., 38 S. Ct. 278, 246 U. S. 178, 62 L. Ed. 649.

Under a reference of an entire case to a master by consent of parties, to report his findings of fact and conclusions of law, without the reservation of a right of review his findings of fact are conclusive, if there is any competent evidence to support them. Goldsmith Silver Co. v. Savage, 229 F. 623, 144 C. C. A. 33, affirming decree (D. C.) 211 F. 751.

Where order of reference contained reservation of right of review, findings of master are to be regarded, on exception, as presumptively correct, and should be sustained, except so far as against weight of evidence reported, or so inconsistent with one another that they could not properly stand. Dresser v. Bates (C. C. A.) 250 F. 525, reversing decree Bates v. Dresser (D. C.) 229 F. 772.

Finding of master, referee, or judge, seeing and hearing witnesses, held of great weight, and great caution to be exercised in disturbing it. Fernald Woodward Co. v. Conway Co. (D. C.) 229 F. 819.

There is a presumption in favor of the report of the master based on conflicting testimony. Carlisle v. Smith (D. C.) 234 F. 759.

To justify setting aside findings of a master appointed through consent of the parties, it must clearly appear that there is a mistake or error. Balfe v. Tilton (D. C.) 237 F. 684.

The rule as to the conclusiveness of findings of fact by a master, made by consent of all parties, does not extend to findings on issues not at the time made by the pleadings. Boisot v. Amarillo St. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 838.

In a case involving the constitutionality of a state law, statutory or municipal, the court will not be bound by the findings of a master. Spring Valley Water Co. v. City and County of San Francisco (D. C.) 252 F. 979.

(X) Decree and enforcement thereof

300. Nature and essentials.—While there is a wide discretion in chancellor as to frame or language of his decree, forms and modes of expression used do not affect character of decision, which depends on what has been decided. Linde Air Products Co. v. Morse Dry Dock & Repair Co., 246 F. 834, 159 C. C. A. 136, affirming decree (D. C.) 239 F. 909.

Statement in decree of any facts proved or unproved has fallen into disuse, as unnecessary, except in matters of contempt, or in exceptional cases. Id.

A judgment foreclosing three mortgages, which did not recite amounts due on each separately, held valid; land not bringing enough to satisfy mortgage having priority, so that good title passed to a purchaser at foreclosure sale. Eckerson v. Tanney (D. C.) 235 F. 415.

303. Consent decree.—A consent decree should be construed as if it were a contract. Garrett & Co. v. Sweet Valley Wine Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 371.

307. Decree pro confesso—Effect.—A defendant was as fully bound by a duly rendered decree pro confesso against him as if he had resisted the suit. Ferguson v. Babcock Lumber & Land Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 705.

312. Nature and extent of relief.—Cotenant's grantee, who, believing that he has acquired the whole title, improves land, held so far as practicable to be allotted part improved upon partition, or to be given compensation for betterments. Highland Park Mfg. Co. v. Steele, 232 F. 10, 146 C. C. A. 202, affirming decree Steele v. Highland Park Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 212 F. 972, and decree modified on rehearing Highland Park Mfg. Co. v. Steele (C. C. A.) 235 F. 465.

In suit in equity to secure set-off of judgments in actions at law, judgments are immune from attack, and court is without power to require reduction of complainant's judgment as condition to granting of the relief prayed for. J. L. Owens Co. v. Officer, 244 F. 47, 156 C. C. A. 475.

Questions of interest recoverable by each party on an accounting considered. Bothwell Co. v. Bice, 247 F. 60, 159 C. C. A. 278.

313. —— Conditional relief.—In decreeing specific performance against a city of a contract for hydrants and street lights, which has a number of years to run, the court may properly, as a condition, require complainant to assent to such modifications as may be just and equitable. City of La Follette v. La Follette Water, Light & Telephone Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 762.

316. —— Mortgage foreclosure.—It is much the better practice for a railroad reorganization committee to formulate its plan before final decree and sale of the property, that dissenting bondholders may be heard and granted such relief by the court as may be equitable. United States & Mexican Trust Co. v.

United States & Mexican Trust Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 377.

317. Conformity to pleadings and proofs.—The jurisdiction of a court of equity is always limited to the subject-matter in the case before it. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571, 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 478.

In suit to partition the only part of tract of which plaintiffs were cotenants in which defendant had interest, relief involving other parties and questions foreign to those properly cognizable held to be denied. Highland Park Mfg. Co. v. Steele, 232 F. 10, 146 C. C. A. 202, affirming decree Steele v. Highland Park Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 212 F. 972, and decree modified on rehearing Highland Park Mfg. Co. v. Steele (C. C. A.) 235 F. 465.

Where the complaint alleged defendant agreed to transfer mining claims to corporation to be formed and to deliver a percentage of stock to complainants, held that corporation, not having been formed, defendant could not be ordered to convey a similar percentage of the claims to complainants. Ellis v. Treat, 236 F. 120, 149 C. C. A. 330.

318. —— Prayer for relief.—In suit to enforce mechanic's lien on mortgaged premises, where it appeared that mortgagee advanced sums to owner and that portion of this was deposited to joint account of owner and complainant subject to withdrawal on their joint check, complainant is under his prayer for general relief entitled to order directing owner to join in executing check to enable complainant to withdraw funds. Turner Const. Co. v. Union Terminal Co., 248 F. 120, 160 C. C. A. 260.

In suit for equitable relief, complainant held entitled, under prayer for other and further relief to such relief as was consistent with the pleadings and evidence. Wright v. Barnard (D. C.) 248 F. 756.

323. Opening or vacating.—After decree is opened or set aside, action is left still open and undetermined, and further proceedings may be had thereon. Kalehua v. Clark (C. C. A.) 250 F. 612.

325. —— Time.—Court of equity held generally to have control over decrees throughout the term, but thereafter to have no power to make a substantial change, except by bill of review; but where suit was dismissed as to earlier of alleged fraudulent conveyances on representation that equity in property subsequently conveyed was then sufficient to pay creditors, court held authorized after the term to set aside the decree. Winslow v. Staab, 242 F. 426, 155 C. C. A. 202, affirming decree (D. C.) 233 F. 305.

326. —— Grounds.—A decree entered by stipulation of parties should not be disturbed except on a clear showing of a meritorious defense, the denial of which would work plain injustice. Cushman & Denison Mfg. Co. v. L. F. Grammes & Sons (D. C.) 234 F. 952.

330. Construction and operation.—Decree finding railroad company liable for failure of canal company, which it controlled, to make sinking fund appropriations as required by mortgage given to secure bonds, and which ordered railroad company to make payments to sinking fund, was not conclusive adjudication as to distribution of such fund; the sinking fund not then being in existence. Brown v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 513.

Where judgment decreed superior title to timber lands in oil company as against lumber company, and lumber company was directed to pay over fund collected to pay for timber cut and subsequent judgment in suit in which lumber company was not a party decreed on ground of fraud, title to land and timber in state as against oil company, state was entitled to the fund. Houston Oil Co. of Texas v. State of Texas (C. C. A.) 250 Fed. 572.

A foreclosure decree does not, until deed is made, divest the mortgagee of his lien, or the mortgagor of his right to possession and profits. Eckerson v. Tanney (D. C.) 235 F. 415.

331. Performance and enforcement.—Enforcement of judgment against holders of bonds issued as a bonus and transferred to bona fide holders, held to be conditioned on failure to give security and to provide for return of the bonds to them when paid. Williamson v. Collins, 243 F. 835, 156 C. C. A. 347.

333. —— Sale of property.—In a suit to foreclose a railroad mortgage, the court in its discretion has full power to make an order concerning an upset price upon the sale, if deemed advisable. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F. 571, 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 478.

Decree requiring bidders at foreclosure sale of railroad property to make deposits in cash or bonds of the company, or by certified check, held not to prevent competitive bidding so as to avoid the sale. Rospigliosi v. New Orleans, M. & C. R. Co., 237 F. 341, 150 C. C. A. 355.

The purchaser at sale under judicial decree, which does not order property sold free from lien of taxes, takes it subject to the tax lien. Union Trust Co. v. Great Eastern Lumber Co., 248 F. 46, 160 C. C. A. 186.

The upset price required to be bid for railroad property at a foreclosure sale may fairly be based on the present earning capacity of the road and the value of property not used in its operation. Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 335.

Irregularities in foreclosure proceedings held not to affect title acquired on purchase of land on foreclosure. Eckerson v. Tanney (D. C.) 235 F. 415.

(Y) Bill of review

337. Nature and scope of remedy.—A bill of review deals with the state of things existing at the time it is filed. Thomas v. South Butte Mining Co., 230 F. 968, 145 C. C. A. 162.

339. Grounds—In general.—A surety company, which permitted judgment to be taken against it by default because of a misunderstanding between its New York counsel and its Massachusetts counsel, each of whom understood that the other would attend to the matter, was not entitled to equitable relief against the judgment, as a court of equity does not interfere with judgments at law unless the complainant has an equitable defense of which he could not avail himself at law, or had a good defense at law which he was prevented from availing himself of by fraud or accident, unmixed with negligence of himself or his agents. Interurban General Contracting Co. of New York v. U. S. (D. C.) 229 F. 588.

340. —— Fraud.—Assignees of a corporation could not have equitable relief from a judgment adverse to them in their suit against the corporation's debtor because he fraudulently denied his signature on the sheriff's certificate, in suit against the corporation in which he was attached, that he was indebted to the corporation, thereby perjuring himself. Scotten v. Rosenblum (D. C.) 231 F. 357.

342. —— New matter.—To warrant a court in permitting the filing of a bill of review for the purpose of introducing new evidence, it must appear that such evidence was unknown to the moving party and could not have been produced on the hearing. Thomas v. South Butte Mining Co., 230 F. 968, 145 C. C. A. 162.

The recognized condition of leave to file a bill of review is that the appellate court must be convinced (1) that the alleged newly discovered evidence would probably lead to a different result and (2) that due diligence was used to discover it before the trial. Suhor v. Gooch, 248 F. 870, 160 C. C. A. 628, denying petition for leave to file bill of review of 244 F. 361, 156 C. C. A. 647.

A judgment cannot be reopened for so-called newly discovered evidence which was available at the time of first trial, nor where the bill of review does not show evidence that would support a different conclusion. Scotten v. Rosenblum (D. C.) 231 F. 357.

344. Right of review.—Party not aggrieved held not entitled to maintain bill of review, though he might have insisted on the error on the original hearing or on appeal. U. S. v. Salomon (D. C.) 231 F. 461, decree affirmed 231 F. 928, 146 C. C. A. 124.

347. Leave to file bill.—Leave to file a bill of review in an equity case on the ground of after-discovered evidence must have the same support as a motion for new trial on the same ground in a law case. Suhor v. Gooch, 248 F. 870, 160 C. C. A. 628, denying petition for leave to file bill of review of 244 F. 361, 156 C. C. A. 647.

352. Form and sufficiency of bill.—A bill of review, alleging that defendant's attorney "wrongly" entered the judgment, pleaded merely a conclusion of law. Scotten v. Rosenblum (D. C.) 231 F. 357.

(Z) Costs

359. Discretion of court.—Apart from court rules, taxing of costs in equity cases is within sound discretion of trial court. Wagner v. Meccano, Limited, 246 F. 603, 158 C. C. A. 573, affirming in part and reversing in part Meccano, Limited, v. Wagner (D. C.) 234 F. 912.

Legal and allowable taxable costs are in the discretion of the court on the dismissal of a bill in equity. Christensen v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 284.

362. Prevailing party.—In suit by a former wife to obtain her share in property which had composed the community estate of herself and her former husband, the costs of reciversship proceedings will not be assessed wholly against the husband's interest, though the wife prevailed, where equities were not all in her favor. Johnson v. Garner (D. C.) 233 F. 756.

363. Dismissal.—Where plaintiff waits until the moment of trial before dismissing, a court of equity should tax as far as possible costs so as to reimburse defendant for expenditures for trial, though it cannot allow costs which could not have been allowed had there been a decree for defendant. Bone v. Walsh Const. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 901.

Where party stipulated that costs respecting depositions should be taxed on "final determination," dismissal at plaintiffs' cost on their motion held a "final determination," entitling defendant to such costs. Christensen v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 284.

B. Admiralty Practice and Procedure

I. Admiralty Rules.
II. Admiralty Procedure in General.

I. Admiralty Rules

Rule 2. Mesne Process—Suits in Personam

See, particularly, notes 207, 229, post.

Rule 7. Arrest for Sum Exceeding $500

See, particularly, note 216, post.

Rule 8. Suits in Rem—Custody of Property

See, particularly, notes 646, 751, post.

Rule 9. Same—Process of Arrest

See, particularly, note 246, post.

Rule 12. Suits by Material-Men

See, particularly, note 37, post.

Rule 13. Suits for Wages

See, particularly, note 37, post.

Rule 29. Answers to Libels—Default—Decree Pro Confesso

See, particularly, notes 483, 751, post.

Rule 32. Same—Exposing Defendant to Prosecution

See, particularly, note 313, post.

Rule 37. Foreign Attachment

See, particularly, note 280, post.

Rule 38. Bringing Property into Court to Answer Exigencies of Suit

See, particularly, note 338, post.

Rule 40. Rescission of Decree and Rehearing

See, particularly, note 483, post.

Rule 47. Bail—Conforming to State Laws

See, particularly, note 207, post.

Rule 53. Cross-Libel—Security by Respondents

See, particularly, note 745, post.

Rule 54. Limitation of Liability of Shipowners—Libel or Petition

See, particularly, notes 798, 809, post.

Rule 56. Same—Contest of Liability

See, particularly, notes 798, 809, 835, post.

Rule 57. Same—Proceedings in District Courts

See, particularly, note 806, post.

Rule 59. Same—Collision Cases

See, particularly, notes 159, 162, post.

Admiralty Rules for the Second Circuit

The admiralty rules for the second circuit were republished October 16, 1918. The changes made thereby are set forth or indicated below.

RULE 5. CERTIFYING RECORDS

This rule, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 2707, was changed to read as set forth below.

The appellants shall, within thirty days after giving notice of appeal, procure to be filed in this court the apostles in accordance with the provisions of the act of February 13, 1911.

RULE 6. NEW ALLEGATIONS, ETC.

This rule is the same as former rule 7, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 2707.

Former rule 6 has been omitted from the rules as republished.

RULE 7. NEW PLEADINGS—NEW TESTIMONY

This rule is the same as former rule 8, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 2708.

Former rule 7 is now rule 6.

RULE 8. NEW TESTIMONY—HOW TAKEN

This rule is the same as former rule 9, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 2708.

Former rule 8 is now rule 7.

RULE 9. PRINTING NEW PLEADINGS AND TESTIMONY

This rule is the same as former rule 10, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 2708, except that the ordinal "23d" before the words "General Rule" is changed to "21st."

Former rule 9 is now rule 8.

RULE 10. WRIT OF INHIBITION

This rule is the same as former rule 12, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 2708.

Former rule 10 is now rule 9.

RULE 11. EXTENSION OF TIME

This rule is the same as former rule 17, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 2709.

Former rule 11 has been omitted from the rules as republished.

RULE 12. WHEN RULES OF DISTRICT COURT TO APPLY

This rule is the same as former rule 18, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 2709.

Former rule 12 is now rule 10.

RULE 13. WHAT GENERAL RULES SHALL BE DEEMED ADMIRALTY RULES

This rule corresponds to former rule 19, as set forth in Comp. St. 1916, p. 2709. It has been changed to read as set forth below.

13. The following of the general rules of this court, and no others, shall be deemed admiralty rules, viz.: Rules 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 10, 11; section 4, rule 13; rules 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26; section 3 of rule 27; rules 28, 29, 31, 33, and 34.

Former rules 13–17, inclusive, have been omitted from these rules as republished.

II. Admiralty Procedure in General

Notes of Decisions

(A) In general

1. Nature and source of admiralty law.—The rights of a seaman in the courts of the United States are governed by its statutory law, and not by the law of the flag of the vessel on which he is serving. The Talus (D. C.) 242 F. 954, decree reversed (C. C. A.) 248 F. 670.

3. —— Local or state laws.—A maritime contract for services to be performed on the waters away from a state, mainly on the sea, cannot be nullified, so as to prevent enforcement in an admiralty court, by the statute of frauds of the state where the contract is made. Union Fish Co. v. Erickson, 39 S. Ct. 112.

6. General powers of admiralty courts.—A suit in admiralty by a seaman to recover for an injury alleged to have been caused by defective machinery or appliances on the ship is governed by the admiralty law. Globe S. S. Co. v. Moss, 245 F. 54, 157 C. C. A. 350, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 61, 245 U. S. 663, 62 L. Ed. 537.

Where part owner of vessel seeks to employ it in a dangerous and hazardous enterprise without the consent of and over the objection of owner of other half, a court of admiralty, upon application of latter, may order that vessel be sold and proceeds distributed. The Ellenora (D. C.) 252 F. 209.

(B) Remedies in personam and in rem

18. Mode and form of procedure in general.—A possessory admiralty suit is not limited by the strict conditions of the remedy by replevin. Brooklyn Ash Removal Co. v. Connell, 161 N. Y. S. 1006, 175 App. Div. 182.

26. —— Collision.—While tugs are liable in tort for a collision through their fault, by which their tow is injured, the contractor, who has undertaken to render the service, may also be liable personally for failure to properly perform his contract. The Procida (D. C.) 243 F. 251.

31. What are proceedings in personam in general.—"Actions in rem" are prosecuted to enforce a right to the thing arrested, to perfect a maritime privilege or lien attached to a vessel or cargo, or both, and in which the thing to be made responsible is proceeded against as the real party; and "actions in personam" are those in which an individual is charged personally in respect to some matter of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction, and in which the process and proceedings are different from those in an action in rem; so that a suit in the French Tribunal of Commerce at Oran, Algeria, by the master of a British vessel against the master of a Norwegian vessel, claiming damages for collision, in which that tribunal ordered a "protective seizure," and received a letter of indemnity, and released the vessel from attachment, was a suit in personam, and not a proceeding in rem. The Kongsli (D. C.) 252 F. 267.

37. Grounds for proceedings in personam—Supplies.—Under Act June 23, 1910, § 4 (Comp. St. 1916, § 7786), and Admiralty Rules 12 and 13, parties having claims for services and supplies held entitled to proceed against owner of vessel, who had received insurance money, in personam. Henslee v. West Kentucky Coal Co., 241 F. 609, 154 C. C. A. 367.

39. —— Liability of city.—A city held liable in admiralty for the sinking of a steamer through the negligence of firemen operating from a fireboat. City of Chicago v. White Transp. Co., 243 F. 358, 156 C. C. A. 138, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 60, 245 U. S. 660, 62 L. Ed. 535.

47. Grounds of proceedings in rem.—A claim of a charterer for dead freight, which is in the nature of one for loss of profits, is not enforceable in a suit in rem as a lien on the vessel. Clinton v. Smith & Terry, 249 F. 119, 161 C. C. A. 171, modifying decree The Benefactor (D. C.) 242 F. 582.

A ship held liable in rem for freight money collected by the owners for the benefit of a charterer, but not paid over. The Seguranca (C. C. A.) 250 F. 19.

51. —— Salvage services.—The raising of a sunken vessel, which lay at the bottom of a narrow and much-traveled and navigable stream, was a salvage service, entitling the salvor to a prior lien, enforceable in rem, whether it was rendered under contract or not, for the vessel was in danger, etc. Great Lakes Towing Co. v. St. Joseph-Chicago S. S. Co. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 635.

57. —— Torts in general.—A scow, although under demise to a charterer, held liable in rem for injury to another scow in collision. The Willie, 231 F. 865, 146 C. C. A. 61.

The owner of a vessel has a lien arising out of a collision, given by the general maritime law of the United States, which may be enforced by an action in rem. The Kongsli (D. C.) 252 F. 267.

59. —— Death caused by wrongful act.—Whether a proceeding in rem can be maintained against a vessel for tort causing death depends upon the construction of the state laws. The Merrimac (D. C.) 242 F. 572.

89. Defenses in general—Contributory negligence.—The last clear chance rule is not applicable in collision cases. The Norman B. Ream (C. C. A.) 252 F. 409.

101. Laches and stale demands.—See The Alabama, 242 F. 431, 155 C. C. A. 207.

Where proceeds of sale of vessel are insufficient to pay uncontested liens, defense of laches as to one lien can be raised only by one having lien. The Cora P. White (D. C.) 243 F. 246.

124. Dismissal.—The premature commencement of a suit in admiralty is not ground for dismissal, but, if the right to libel accrues before hearing, will affect only the matter of costs. Munson S. S. Line v. Glasgow Nav. Co., 235 F. 64, 148 C. C. A. 558.

Mere insufficiency of the evidence taken in support of a libel in admiralty is not ground for dismissal of the suit if the evidence in support of the answer supplies the deficiency. The Louise Rugge (D. C.) 234 F. 768, decree affirmed (C. C. A.) 239 F. 458.

(C) Parties

141. Libelants—Charterer.—A charterer, in a suit by the owner to recover the vessel and also charter hire, held entitled to maintain a cross libel based on claims arising out of the same maritime contract. The Arlyn Nelson (D. C.) 243 F. 415.

158. —— Objections to misjoinder or nonjoinder and waiver thereof.—Right of respondent, in suit begun by libel in personam for death by capsizing of vessel, to object that new claims of new claimants could not be introduced without service of process, held not lost, where respondent excepted that it could not be called upon to answer the amended libel as to additional parties. In re Indiana Transportation Co., 37 S. Ct. 717, 244 U. S. 456, 61 L. Ed. 1253.

159. Defendants.—A motion by the libelant in a collision suit against a tug and her tow to dismiss as to the tug with leave to proceed against the tow alone held properly denied under Admiralty Rule 59. The Teaser, 246 F. 219, 158 C. C. A. 379, affirming decree (D. C.) 229 F. 476.

162. —— Bringing in new parties at instance of defendant.—Dismissal of a petition bringing in a charterer under admiralty rule 59, in a suit for injury to a stevedore, held without prejudice to respondent. The Wilhelmina, 232 F. 430, 146 C. C. A. 424.

Where subcharterer libeled charterer to recover damages to cargo on account of alleged unseaworthiness of vessel, and charterer filed petition under admiralty rule 59 to bring in one who executed charter party as managing owner, and he answered, case should be treated as if libel had originally been filed against both charterer and managing owner. Cuneo Importing Co. v. American Importing & Transportation Co., 247 F. 413, 159 C. C. A. 467, affirming decree (D. C.) 241 F. 421.

Admiralty rule 59 permitting the bringing in of other parties on petition of a respondent, is not limited to collision cases, nor to cases where a joint liability is alleged in the petition. A steamship, libeled for failure to deliver cargo, held entitled to bring in under admiralty rule 59 another vessel, on an allegation that the cargo was transhipped on such vessel, as permitted by the bills of lading. The Cetriana (D. C.) 232 F. 175.

166. Claims to property, and intervention and bringing in new parties.—New claims of new claimants may not, without service of process, be introduced by amended libel into existing suit, begun by libel in personam, for death by capsizing of vessel, though respondent has appeared in suit. In re Indiana Transportation Co., 37 S. Ct. 717, 244 U. S. 456, 61 L. Ed. 1253.

In a proceeding to enforce maritime liens on a vessel which had been chartered, where the owner intervened claiming the vessel, the court might in its discretion allow the owner to file a petition against the charterer to obtain reimbursement for any lien perfected against the vessel. The Louis Dolive (D. C.) 236 F. 279.

Charterer of vessel held not entitled to intervene, filing cross-libel for libelant's failure to comply with contract to furnish a marine railway for use of vessel, unless such contract be the same as one with owner by virtue of which libelant asserted a lien against vessel. The Alliance (D. C.) 236 F. 361.

The suggestion to an admiralty court that a ship sought to be libeled is the property and in possession of a foreign government may be made by the appropriate officer of our government, or by a duly accredited representative of the foreign government. The Maipo (D. C.) 252 F. 627.

While a claim of immunity of a vessel in the service of a foreign government from arrest under process from a court of the United States may properly be presented by the Department of Justice, the court may, in its discretion, act on suggestion of the Embassy of the foreign government. The Roseric (D. C.) 254 F. 154.

186. Death of party.—A libel for injuries to a stevedore filed in the district of Maryland, whose Code Pub. Gen. Laws 1904, art. 75, § 26, provides that no action for personal injuries shall abate by reason of the death of the plaintiff, does not abate on the death of the libelant. The Student (D. C.) 238 F. 936.

(D) Process and appearance

194. Property subject to process—Property of government.—Where ship and its equipment was requisitioned into public service, and the officers and crew continued to operate ship, the ship and its officers and crew for the time being became the sovereign's instrumentalities, and the ship was as much in possession of the sovereign as if he had taken it over by a regular charter or manned it for his navy, and is exempt from delay caused by arrest as well as from final condemnation. The Roseric (D. C.) 254 F. 154.

198. Process in general.—The ordinary monition issued in suits in rem held not to give jurisdiction to render decree in personam. The Merrimac (D. C.) 242 F. 572.

202. —— Service in general.—Service of citation on the secretary of a corporation in a proceeding in personam against it in admiralty is good, he being such a head officer as secures knowledge thereof to it. Norfolk Southern Ry. Co. v. Foreman, 244 F. 353, 156 C. C. A. 639.

207. Process in proceedings in personam—Effect on right to arrest of local statutes abolishing imprisonment for debt.—See Rosasco v. Thompson (D. C.) 242 F. 527.

211. —— Attachment of property to enforce appearance.—District Court held authorized to issue writ of attachment in suit in personam in admiralty, though no rule has been adopted for its issuance. Rosasco v. Thompson (D. C.) 242 F. 527.

216. —— Issue of foreign attachment or garnishment.—Where clerk of court, without direction of judge, entered order directing issuance of foreign attachment in admiralty, held that, despite Supreme Court Rules in Admiralty, rule 7, court might sanction action of clerk after entry of order, same as before entry. Gottesman v. Canada Atlantic & Plant S. S. Co. (D. C.) 246 F. 956.

226. Process in proceedings in rem.—A decree in rem cannot be rendered against a vessel by an admiralty court, where no attachment was ever served. The Merrimac (D. C.) 242 F. 572.

229. —— Sufficiency of warrant.—A warrant of attachment issued in a suit in personam, while not in the prescribed form, held to substantially comply with the requirements of admiralty rule 2. The Horsa (D. C.) 232 F. 993.

231. —— Second arrest.—While normally a vessel, once arrested and discharged, may not be re-arrested for the same cause of action, yet if the stipulation was entered into improvidently, or through fraud or mistake, the court may order a new arrest; so, where vessels libeled for towage service were released, they may be re-arrested on an amended libel setting forth other items, provided such items constitute separate causes of action, but not if the items which were omitted from the original libel were part of the several breaches of a single contract. In re John B. Rose Co. (D. C.) 254 F. 367.

244. Appearance—Effect of appearance in action in personam.—A corporation defendant, appearing specially to object to service of process as insufficient, waives objection by answering and going to trial on the merits, after ruling against it, the court having jurisdiction of subject-matter and the parties being within the court's territorial jurisdiction. Norfolk Southern Ry. Co. v. Foreman, 244 F. 353, 156 C. C. A. 639.

Filing of exceptions to libel and answer thereto, held to give admiralty court jurisdiction to render decree in personam, though process was not served to support such decree. The Merrimac (D. C.) 242 F. 572.

246. —— Effect of appearance in proceedings in rem.—Where the claimant of a vessel libeled had notice and appeared on the return day but did not file its answer, it is immaterial that notice of the seizure and the time when the libel would be heard were not published as required by general admiralty rule 9. St. Charles Amusement & Transportation Co. v. Elhardt (C. C. A.) 254 F. 275.

(G) Bonds, stipulations, or other security

262. Bonds and stipulations in general—Construction of stipulation.—An insurer, which was a damage claimant in a proceeding for limitation of liability, held concluded by a stipulation as to the time from which it was entitled to interest. The Princess Victoria, 242 F. 918, 155 C. C. A. 506.

278. —— Necessity.—The owner of a vessel seized under foreign attachment, who has not been served with process, is not required to give a stipulation for value as a condition precedent to entering appearance to defend the suit. E. G. Lyons & Raas Co. v. Deutsche Dampschiffahrts-Gesselschaft Kosmos (D. C.) 243 F. 202.

280. —— Effect of giving.—A garnishee in admiralty held, under admiralty rule 37, entitled to release from further responsibility by giving a stipulation for the undisputed amount in his hands, to abide the decree of the court. The Olson & Mahony (D. C.) 231 F. 559.

282. Security for release of vessel or other property in proceeding in rem.—See Société Napthés Transports v. Bisso Towboat Co., 241 F. 463. 154 C. C. A. 295, certiorari denied Societe Naphtes Transports v. Same, 38 S. Ct. 11, 62 L. Ed. 532.

(H) Pleading, petitions, and motions

291. Libel.—A libel held not to allege facts which gave libelant a maritime lien on a dredge for the sinking of a barge used in connection with the dredge. The Dixie, 249 F. 46, 161 C. C. A. 106, affirming decree (D. C.) 236 F. 607.

313. Answer.—Admiralty rule 32, providing for dismissal of libel for failure of libelant to answer interrogatories propounded by defendant, is not extended to defendants by equity rule 58, so as to warrant striking of answer for failure to reply to interrogatories. The Fred E. Richards (D. C.) 248 F. 956.

331. Cross-libel.—Where, in a proceeding to enforce maritime lien on a vessel, the owner intervened claiming the vessel and then filed a petition against the corporate charterer, the owner cannot in that proceeding set up the defective incorporation of the charterer and try out question of liability of stockholders of charterer. The Louis Dolive (D. C.) 236 F. 279.

333. Reply—Necessity.—See Keatley v. United States Trust Co. (C. C. A.) 249 F. 29.

338. Interrogatories—Time and manner of propounding.—See The Fred E. Richards (D. C.) 248 F. 956.

343. Exceptions to pleadings—Time for making.—Under the liberal rules of pleading in admiralty, exceptions to the libel may be taken in the answer, although the better practice is to except before answering. The Elisabeth Van Belgie (D. C.) 248 F. 1006.

345. —— Hearing and determination.—Where claimant excepted to libel on ground that no admiralty lien was in existence or had been created, allegations of libel are for purpose of exceptions admitted. The Schuylkill (D. C.) 249 F. 781.

350. Amendment of pleadings in general—Discretion of court.—The allowance of an amendment of the libel in a suit in personam, setting up an additional claim for damages growing out of the same alleged breach of charter, held within the discretion of the court. Clinton v. Smith & Terry, 249 F. 119, 161 C. C. A. 171, modifying judgment The Benefactor (D. C.) 242 F. 582.

353. Amendment of libel.—Where the libel of one-fourth interest in a steamer failed to show that libelant was the holder of the legal title, an amendment so showing should be allowed, where libelant asserted he intended to plead a legal title, and it appeared that in the event of dismissal libelant would have great difficulty in enforcing his rights. The Olga (D. C.) 254 F. 439.

355. —— As to parties.—Leave to add, at trial, amendment to libel whereby original individual libelant and another were made, as partners, joint parties libelant held not improper; cause of action not being changed, liability of sureties on stipulation given to procure release of vessel not being enlarged and amendment of answer so as to deny partnership being granted. The D. J. Sawyer, 236 F. 913, 150 C. C. A. 175.

357. —— Introducing new cause of action.—A court of admiralty held to have power in its discretion to permit the amendment of a libel in personam to set up an additional claim growing out of the same breach of charter. The Benefactor (D. C.) 242 F. 582.

Where libel alleged that master of vessel contracted with captain of libelant's tug for towage of vessel into and out of harbor, and that, though libelant was ready and willing, the master repudiated his contract for outward towage, proposed amendment, alleging particulars of contract and circumstances under which it was made, but which did not vary terms of libel, is germane, and was properly allowed. The Holthe (D. C.) 249 F. 783.

361. Time for amendment of pleadings.—Where leave to make trial amendments to libel and answer is obtained, such amendments should be put in form and entered of record before final decree is entered. The D. J. Sawyer, 236 F. 913, 150 C. C. A. 175.

376. Issues, proof, and variance—Pleading and proof.—Defense of laches in libel to enforce maritime lien, not raised by pleadings, cannot be considered. The Cora P. White (D. C.) 243 F. 246.

To prevent surprise and promote the due administration of justice, parties are held in admiralty, as in other branches of jurisprudence, to the positions respectively taken by them in their pleadings. The Ogeechee (D. C.) 248 F. 803.

377. —— Evidence admissible under pleadings.—In admiralty, unless defendant pleads a surprise and procures continuance, testimony of concurring circumstances indicating negligence, though not particularly or specifically pleaded, may be admitted. Norfolk Southern Ry. Co. v. Foreman, 244 F. 353, 156 C. C. A. 639.

(I) Evidence, and taking and filing proofs

392½. Rules of evidence and mode of proof in general—Judicial notice.—It is permissible for an admiralty judge, in considering and determining questions of fact relating to navigation, to use his own personal knowledge and experience, The Eleanore, 248 F. 472, 160 C. C. A. 482.

393. Presumptions in general.—In absence of proof, it will be presumed that one intervening in libel for supplies and claiming a vessel as agent for owners was authorized to do so. The Bronx, 246 F. 809, 159 C. C. A. 111.

Where heavily loaded lighter in tow of a tug capsized at a time when the vessel was proceeding at a rate not in excess of three miles an hour, and there was nothing to show negligence on the part of the tug, the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur does not apply, and will not support a recovery against the tug. The Edgar F. Coney (D. C.) 250 F. 271.

395. Burden of proof in general.—The burden of proving that damage to cargo from sea water which entered the vessel was due to perils of the sea rests upon the vessel. The Jeanie, 236 F. 463, 149 C. C. A. 515, reversing decree The Jeannie (D. C.) 225 F. 178.

The party found in fault upon the merits in a suit for injury to a vessel, although otherwise than in collision, must bear whatever inconvenience of hardship there may be in proving the exact amount of damages sustained. The Mason, 249 F. 718, 161 C. C. A. 628.

Where canal boat, being towed by a tug through a presumably safe and well-marked channel, was grounded and sunk, the tug has the burden of excusing failure in performance of her undertaking. The Westerly (C. C. A.) 249 F. 938.

The burden of showing that a tug exercised all resources of good seamanship for preservation of its tow is upon the tug in suit for salvage of its tow. The Joseph F. Clinton (C. C. A.) 250 F. 977.

While the burden of proving negligence of a tug ordinarily rests on the libelant, the mere occurrence of injury to the tow may under some circumstances raise a presumption of negligence and cast the burden of proof on the tug. Gilchrist Transp. Co. v. Great Lakes Towing Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 432.

A tug, which relies on inevitable accident as a defense to a suit for injury to her tow, must show what the cause of the injury was, or all possible causes, and in either case that the result was inevitable. Id.

396. —— Burden of proof in collision cases.—Where a vessel has committed a positive breach of a statutory duty, she must show, not only that her fault probably did not contribute to a collision, but that it could not have done so. The Thielbek, 241 F. 209, 154 C. C. A. 129, affirming decree (D. C.) 218 F. 251.

A vessel, proceeding in violation of statutory requirements at the time of a collision, to escape liability, must show such violation did not contribute to the collision. Carroll v. City of New York, 249 F. 453, 161 C. C. A. 411.

If a tow collides with another vessel, it is not liable for the damage caused thereby, unless some negligence contributing to the collision is proved against it. The C. W. Mills (D. C.) 241 F. 204, decree affirmed The Mary Wittich, 241 F. 378, 154 C. C. A. 651.

400. Admissibility of evidence in general—Admissibility and proof of documents.—On an issue as to injury to a tow by stranding, not only the oral testimony of marine surveyors but their reports or surveys, as documentary evidence, are admissible. The Mason, 249 F. 718, 161 C. C. A. 628.

404. Weight and sufficiency of evidence.—Possible claimants, such as the owner of a tow, should be notified of a survey of a tug, whose propeller shaft broke and allowed the tow to be stranded, if the survey is to have any weight as evidence. The Westchester (C. C. A.) 254 F. 576.

411. Pleadings as evidence—Admissions in answer.—Admission as to speed of steamer libeled contained in answer to libelant's interrogatories, which answer was verified by master of the steamer, claimant, must be given weight. The Sagamore, 247 F. 743, 159 C. C. A. 601.

(J) Hearing or trial, and decision

426. Course and conduct of hearing—Order of hearing causes.—In a suit for breach of charter of a boat injured in collision, in which third parties alleged to be in fault for the collision were also joined, the tort issues must be first tried; the charterer not being liable if damages were recovered from the tort-feasors. The Stella (D. C.) 243 F. 216.

436. Decision—Damages and expenses in general.—Where both vessels which collided were at fault, the liability must be divided. The Norman B. Ream (C. C. A.) 252 F. 409; The City of Erie (D. C.) 250 F. 259.

Master and owners of vessel sunk in collision through violation of international rule 16 cannot escape apportionment of damage, though other vessel was palpably at fault. Lie v. San Francisco & Portland S. S. Co., 37 S. Ct. 270, 243 U. S. 291, 61 L. Ed. 726, affirming judgment The Beaver, 219 F. 134, 135 C. C. A. 32.

440. —— Allowance of interest.—As the party responsible for damages resulting from a collision became liable when it occurred, interest on the amount of such damages, if not then paid, was allowable from that date. The El Monte (C. C. A.) 252 F. 59.

In collision cases, the allowance of interest on the award rests in the discretion of the court; but, where there are no special circumstances affecting the matter, the general rule should be applied. The Ada (D. C.) 239 F. 363; In re Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co. (D. C.) 250 F. 916.

In collision cases, the general rule is that interest on the damages eventually awarded should be computed from the date of the collision, or from the dates when payments for the necessary repairs were actually made. Interest on demurrage should be computed from the time the vessel returned to service. In re Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co. (D. C.) 250 F. 916.

Where suit for collision was not brought until four years after collision, and was not brought on for trial until two years later, libelant, on recovery, held not entitled to interest. The James McWilliams, 240 F. 951, 153 C. C. A. 637.

Interest on an award of damages for collision held properly allowable only from date of decree. The Mary B. Curtis (C. C. A.) 250 F. 9.

The owners of a chartered ship held entitled to interest on an amount due them from the charterer, but retained by the charterer through a mutual mistake, when settlement was made. The Seguranca (C. C. A.) 250 F. 19.

Where a tug was liable for injuries suffered by a ship in towage, interest on the amount actually expended in repairs, etc., held properly allowed, though, because of libelant's delay in bringing the case on for final hearing, interest was not allowed for the full time between the date of injury and the decree. Gray's Harbor Tugboat Co. v. Petersen, 250 F. 956, 163 C. C. A. 206.

448. Rehearing or new trial.—An application, made six months after the hearing in a suit in admiralty for a personal injury, to reopen the same to admit further evidence on the question of damages, held addressed to the discretion of the court. The I. F. Chapman, 241 F. 836, 154 C. C. A. 538, affirming decree (D. C.) 215 F. 127, certiorari denied Scully v. Kazarian, 38 S. Ct. 9, 62 L. Ed. 529.

(K) Commissioners and proceedings before them

452. Reference to commissioners—When ordered.—While it is an ancient custom to adduce evidence in admiralty before commissioners and examiners, and references of special questions to specially qualified persons, nevertheless an admiralty court cannot, without consent of parties, send merits of cause for trial before commissioner or referee. The Bronx, 246 F. 809, 159 C. C. A. 111.

A marshal's charge for raising an attached vessel being contested on the ground that she sank through his fault, the matter must be referred, and cannot be determined on affidavits. The Neptune (C. C. A.) 252 F. 129.

464. Objections and exceptions to rulings and report—Necessity of exception.—For good cause shown, court may consider exceptions to report of commissioner, although not filed within time prescribed by rules, since findings and conclusions of the commissioner are advisory only. The Coquitlam City (D. C.) 243 F. 767.

(L) Decree, and enforcement thereof

475. Rendition, form, and requisites in general—On recovery against several defendants.—The owner of a vessel, injured by the concurring fault of a towing tug and the owner of a drawbridge, is entitled in admiralty to a decree for half damages against each, with the right to collect from either any deficiency arising through default in payment by the other. Great Lakes Towing Co. v. Masaba S. S. Co., 237 F. 577, 150 C. C. A. 459.

482. Decree by default or pro confesso—Effect of default.—Where respondents filed an answer, but failed to answer interrogatories addressed by libelant to them, their default does not warrant a decree pro confesso against respondents. The Fred E. Richards (D. C.) 248 F. 956.

483. Opening or setting aside decree by default or pro confesso.—Under general admiralty rule, 29, providing that the court may in its discretion set aside a default of a defendant, the court should consider in a general way the questions proposed to be raised, as bearing on the question whether the defendant has been deprived of any important right. St. Charles Amusement & Transportation Co. v. Elhardt (C. C. A.) 254 F. 275.

The attorneys for the individual defendant, in action against a ship and its owner, having allowed default without notifying the court of his death, motion to allow his representatives to contest the action in his place, made after term of court and time, under admiralty rule 40, for moving to open default, will be denied. The Gilbert R. Green (D. C.) 243 F. 927.

485. —— Grounds.—The refusal of the District Court to set aside a default, and allow the claimant of a vessel libeled to answer after sale, held not an abuse of discretion; it appearing the defendant had actual notice and that irregularities before the sale were merely technical, etc. St. Charles Amusement & Transportation Co. v. Elhardt (C. C. A.) 254 F. 275.

500. Operation and effect of decree—Parties and privies.—Where libelant had previously libeled a vessel in rem for personal injuries, and the vessel had been claimed by respondent through its agent, held, that the judgment rendered in the first proceeding might be pleaded by respondent as res judicata. Sullivan v. Nitrate Producers' S. S. Co. (D. C.) 254 F. 361.

505. —— Issues raised and determined.—That a vessel in a suit for collision unsuccessfully contended that she was not in fault does not estop her from alleging such fault in a subsequent suit to charge her pilot with responsibility therefor; but an adjudication that a vessel was in fault for a collision because of the place and manner of her anchorage is conclusive of such fact in a subsequent suit by the vessel against her pilot to charge him with responsibility therefor. Strathleven Steamship Co. v. Baulch, 244 F. 412, 157 C. C. A. 38, certiorari denied Baulch v. Strathleven S. S. Co., 38 S. Ct. 61, 245 U. S. 663, 62 L. Ed. 537.

Where libelant had previously libeled a vessel and respondent, by its agent, appeared and claimed the vessel, held that, as both proceedings were intended to enable libelant to recover for personal injuries, the fact that libelant alleged additional acts of negligence in the second does not of itself prevent the first judgment from being a bar to the second libel. Sullivan v. Nitrate Producers' S. S. Co. (D. C.) 254 F. 361.

542. Setting aside sale.—Where, on libel, a perishable cargo, consisting of cocoa beans, was sold to appellant for 6½ cents a pound, held, that it was proper to set sale aside on objections by master; the beans selling for obviously less than their market value. The Appam, 240 F. 676, 153 C. C. A. 474.

576. Disposition of proceeds or remnants—Priorities of claims in cases arising upon the lakes.—Although the season rule appears to have been recognized and followed upon the Great Lakes, yet, where a tug-boat was actively engaged beyond the season, the rule that claims of equal rank incurred in the same calendar year should have equal priority, while those in subsequent years should have priority over any earlier, is properly applied. The John J. Freitus (D. C.) 252 F. 876.

(M) Appeal.

599. Decisions reviewable—Finality of judgment in general.—A decree in a suit in rem, which releases the vessel, leaving nothing upon which the court can take further action, is in effect a final decree, and appealable. The Attualita, 238 F. 909, 152 C. C. A. 43.

605. Right of review.—Acceptance by a libelant of payment of the portion of a decree in his favor held not a bar to his right of appeal from another part of the decree against him on a separate cause of action. The C. S. Holmes, 237 F. 785, 150 C. C. A. 539.

606. Presentation and reservation in lower court of grounds of review.—The defense that respondent, who chartered a scow, was liable only for injuries resulting from negligence, the charter being a demise, cannot for the first time be raised on appeal from a decree for the owner. Kennelly v. Frederick Starr Contracting Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 229.

607. Parties.—Where joint and several decrees were entered against the claimant of a libeled vessel and the surety on its bond for release, an appeal cannot be maintained by the claimant without the joinder of the surety or a summons and severance. The Rylands, 231 F. 101, 145 C. C. A. 289, certiorari denied Joseph F. Wilson & Co. v. South Atlantic S. S. Co., 36 S. Ct. 727, 241 U.S. 679, 60 L. Ed. 1233.

To an appeal by claimants in a suit in rem in admiralty, a surety company, which executed the stipulation for release of the libeled vessels, is an indispensable party, and must either be joined or notified and a severance effected. The Mary B. Curtis (C. C. A.) 250 F. 9.

620. Taking and perfecting appeal—Assignment of errors.—See Kennelly v. Frederick Starr Contracting Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 229.

An appellant in admiralty, as in equity, is confined to the limits he voluntarily imposes when he appeals, and the court is not required to review in his interest provisions of the decree which he has not challenged by his appeal. The Stadacona, 242 F. 624, 155 C. C. A. 314.

643. Amendments, new pleadings, and proofs, and trial of cause anew—Trial de novo in general.—In view of previous practice in admiralty appeals from District to Circuit Court, and rule 14, pars. 6–10 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1294), relating to the record in admiralty causes, Circuit Court of Appeals hears appeal in admiralty case de novo and may increase decree for libelant, though respondent alone appealed. Consolidated Coastwise Co. v. Conley (C. C. A.) 250 F. 679.

On appeal in admiralty, appellate court has authority to consider case de novo. The Kaiser Wilhelm II, 246 F. 786, 159 C. C. A. 88, L. R. A. 1918C, 795, reversing decree (D. C.) 230 F. 717.

An appeal in admiralty brings up the whole case for trial de novo and the fact that one party did not appeal does not preclude the court from directing a decree more favorable to him. The Canadia, 241 F. 233, 154 C. C. A. 153, modifying decrees, Field v. Hafnia S. S. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 187 and 236 F. 599.

646. —— Amendment of pleadings.—Under rules 7–10 in admiralty of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, a libelant on appeal may properly be allowed to make new allegations in a supplemental libel. Munson S. S. Line v. Glasgow Nav. Co., 235 F. 64, 148 C. C. A. 558.

648. —— New proofs in general.—Under rules 7–10 in admiralty of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, a libelant on appeal may properly be allowed to take new proofs in the Circuit Court of Appeals. Munson S. S. Line v. Glasgow Nav. Co., 235 F. 64, 148 C. C. A. 558.

652. Review—Scope and extent of review in general.—See § 1585.

Where both parties to a proceeding to collect a penalty prescribed by Harter Act, § 5 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8033), consented to treat it as one in admiralty, though, as the libel was in personam, it was not within the admiralty jurisdiction of the court, the award of the District Court should on appeal be treated as an admiralty award, and not as a finding of a jury. U. S. v. James W. Elwell & Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 939.

655. —— Review of interlocutory decree on appeal from final decree.—An appeal to a Circuit Court of Appeals from a District Court in admiralty brings the case up for trial de novo so that the court may review interlocutory decree not appealed from. Reid v. Fargo, 36 S. Ct. 712, 241 U. S. 544, 60 L. Ed. 1156, reversing decree 213 F. 771, 130 C. C. A. 285.

656. —— Persons entitled to allege error in general.—Although one respondent alone appeals in admiralty, it may assign error in the failure to hold a corespondent liable. The Willie, 231 F. 865, 146 C. C. A. 61.

657. —— Errors alleged by one not appealing.—An appeal in admiralty brings up the whole case for trial de novo and the fact that one party did not appeal does not preclude the court from directing a decree more favorable to him. The Canadia, 241 F. 233, 154 C. C. A. 153, modifying decrees Field v. Hafnia S. S. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 187 and 236 F. 599.

666. —— Review of discretion of lower court.—An application, made six months after the hearing in a suit in admiralty for a personal injury, to reopen the same to admit further evidence on the question of damages, held addressed to the discretion of the court, and its action not reviewable by an appellate court. The I. F. Chapman, 241 F. 836, 154 C. C. A. 538, affirming decree (D. C.) 215 F. 127, certiorari denied Scully v. Kazarian, 38 S. Ct. 9, 62 L. Ed. 529.

667. —— Review of weight and sufficiency of evidence in general.—See notes under § 1585.

670. —— Review of evidence by circuit court of appeals.—See notes under § 1585.

672. —— Review of amount of recovery. See notes under § 1585.

674. —— Harmless error in general.—Where admiralty court had jurisdiction of res and parties, order directing commissioner to hear and determine issues, while erroneous, was not jurisdictional error; commissioner having treated reference direction as one to compute and assess damages. The Bronx, 246 F. 809, 159 C. C. A. 111.

676. Determination and disposition of cause.—The Supreme Court, in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, cannot only correct error in the judgment below, but make such disposition of the case as justice may now require, considering changes in fact and in law occurring since the judgment, especially in an admiralty case triable de novo on appeal; so that where, after dismissal in the discretion of the court of a suit, because between alien belligerents in a court of a neutral nation by entry of the United States in the war, it becomes a suit between one belligerent in a court of a cobelligerent against a common enemy, decree will be reversed, as inconsistent with demands of justice under changed circumstances. Watts, Watts & Co. v. Unione Austriaca Di Navigazione, 39 S. Ct. 1, 63 L. Ed. —.

684. —— Modification as to amount.—There being nothing to show on appeal in a salvage case that the value of the cargo was estimated at point of shipment, and not at point of destination, there is no ground for adding freight money. The Kin Ora (C. C. A.) 252 F. 507.

687. —— Remand of case in general.—Decision of an appellate court in admiralty, reversing a decree and remanding for a decree in accordance therewith, construed, and the authority of the lower court thereunder considered. The Steam Dredge A, 229 F. 682, 144 C. C. A. 92.

(N) Costs

704. Parties to and against whom awarded.—Respondents in a suit in admiralty, who were exonerated from liability, held, entitled to costs from a corespondent, who was held liable to libelant. The Louise Rugge, 239 F. 458, 152 C. C. A. 336, affirming decree (D. C.) 234 F. 768.

Where suit for collision was not brought until four years after collision, and was not brought on for trial until two years later, libelant, on recovery, held not entitled to costs. The James McWilliams, 240 F. 951, 153 C. C. A. 637.

705. —— Protection of proctor.—Relative to taxation of costs, a controversy with respect to a contract between a proctor and his client for fees cannot be litigated in the admiralty suit. The Johnson Lighterage Co. No. 24, 248 F. 74, 160 C. C. A. 214, modifying decree (D. C.) 240 F. 435.

726. —— Costs where each party is in part successful.—A libelant, who sues on two claims and recovers on only one, is nevertheless entitled to recover costs, where both were prima facie good, so that the burden of proof rested on the respondent, and both were contested. The John Twohy (D. C.) 243 F. 720.

727. —— Mutual fault in collision cases.—Where, in a suit for collision in which there is no cross-libel, the court finds both vessels in fault and enters a decree for libelant for half damages, the costs also should be divided. The Garden City (D. C.) 236 F. 302.

Under the rule of the First circuit libelant in a suit for collision in which neither cross-libel nor counterclaim is filed is entitled to recover full costs, although he recovers but half damages. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Golden (D. C.) 243 F. 256; The Yarmouth (D. C.) 244 F. 317.

729. —— Unnecessary litigation.—Where libel was filed for and on behalf of a ship, its owners, and crew, seeking to recover salvage, and members of the crew intervened unnecessarily, held, that they should bear the costs of the intervention. The Portugal (D. C.) 253 F. 264.

745. Security for payment—Necessity in general.—Under admiralty rule 53 security for costs and for damages claimed by respondents in their cross-libels will not be required, where libelant is a receiver or trustee in bankruptcy. Chesbrough v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co. (D. C.) 250 F. 922.

Where a libelant assigned his claims, the assignees cannot be required to give security for libelant's payment of claims asserted in cross-libels by the respondents, where such claims were of a distinctly different character from that on which libels were founded. Id.

That libelant had assigned his claims to third persons is no ground for requiring him to give security for costs or for damages claimed by the respondents in their cross-libels, where such security would not otherwise be required. Id.

746. —— Necessity in actions by seamen.—In view of Act July 20, 1892, c. 209, § 1, as amended by Act June 25, 1910, c. 435 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1626), held that, under Sundry Civil Appropriation Act July 1, 1916, foreign seamen may sue for wages without paying or making deposits for costs. The Memphian (D. C.) 245 F. 484.

749. —— Waiver of right to require.—Delay on part of cross-libelants, which continued for several years, in demanding that libelant furnish security for costs and damages claimed, warrants denial of the motion. Chesbrough v. Boston Elevated Ry. Co. (D. C.) 250 F. 922.

751. —— Additional security.—Under admiralty rule 29, the court may on motion and proper showing require a libelant to increase the amount of his stipulation for costs given under rule 8. The Frances L. Skinner (D. C.) 248 F. 816.

769. Amount and items—Marshal's fees and disbursements in general.—The amount of fees due United States marshal, under Rev. St. § 829, subd. 15 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1386), where claimant of a vessel libeled pays the amount of a decree, having secured its release from custody by giving bond, should be included in the decree as part of the costs. The Eros (D. C.) 245 F. 814.

782. Costs on appeal.—A party to a suit in admiralty, who without appealing fails in an attempt to either vary or sustain the decree of the court below, will be treated as an appellant as to costs. The Bronx (C. C. A.) 250 F. 843.

792. Payment and remedies for collection—Priority of claim for costs.—The claimant of a vessel libeled for salvage service must pay the cost of the stipulation required before the property could be released, even though it was excessive. The Portugal (D. C.) 253 F. 264.

(O) Proceedings to limit liability of ship owner

798. Nature of proceeding in general.—See The Ethelstan (D. C.) 246 F. 187.

Under admiralty rules 54, 56, and R. S. §§ 4283, 4285 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 8021, 8023), the proceedings for limitation of liability seem to include the complete settlement of every issue raised between owner and claimants seeking to hold the vessel liable for loss or damage. The Rochester (D. C.) 230 F. 519.

802. Conditions precedent to bringing of proceedings.—Where libels assert the liability of a vessel, the owner may maintain a proceeding for limitation of liability for the claims, although no property has been attached thereunder. The Rochester (D. C.) 230 F. 519.

803. Jurisdiction of proceedings in general.—A District Court held to have jurisdiction of proceedings for limitation of liability. Strong v. Holmes, 238 F. 554, 151 C. C. A. 490.

806. Venue of proceedings.—Admiralty rule 57, relating to venue of suits for limitation of liability, construed. Strong v. Holmes, 238 F. 554, 151 C. C. A. 490.

809. Persons entitled to institute proceedings—Contesting liability in original suit.—Admiralty rule 56 indicates that the owner can contest his liability or the liability of the vessel for any loss or damage. The Rochester (D. C.) 230 F. 519.

820. Libel, petition, or application—Amendment.—Where the petitioner for limitation of liability, as owner of a vessel, was in no way misled in the presentation of its case by the statement of the amount of damages contained in the libel, and in no way altered its position in reliance thereon, the damage claimant's motion to amend should be allowed. In re Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co. (D. C.) 250 F. 916.

825. Stipulations for value and appraisal of interest or value.—The giving of a stipulation for release of a vessel libeled in collision is not a waiver of the right to subsequently maintain proceedings for limitation of liability under Rev. St. § 4283 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8021). Société Napthés Transports v. Bisso Towboat Co., 241 F. 463, 154 C. C. A. 295, certiorari denied Societe Naphtes Transports v. Same, 38 S. Ct. 11, 62 L. Ed. 532.

The owner of a vessel in collision, who after the end of the voyage moved her to another port for sale, without appraisal, held not entitled to deduct towage from the price realized in limitation of liability proceedings. The Ethelstan (D. C.) 246 F. 187.

828. Enjoining or staying proceedings in other suits.—Petitioners in suit for limitation of liability held not entitled to injunction to restrain action against them in state court to recover prepaid charter hire. In re Sugar Products Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 623.

835. Scope and extent of hearing or decision.—In a proceeding for limitation of liability, the questions presented are whether there is any liability in fact, and, if so, whether a proper case for limitation of liability is presented. The Rochester (D. C.) 230 F. 519.

Despite Supreme Court Admiralty Rule 56, petition for limitation of liability under Rev. St. §§ 4283–4289, as amended by Act June 26, 1884, and Act June 19, 1886 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8021), by a shipowner not entitled to limit his liability, should be dismissed, and court of admiralty should not determine the ultimate question of liability. The Erie Lighter 108 (D. C.) 250 F. 490.

842. Appeal.—In proceeding to limit the liability of the owner of a tug and barge for collision with a launch, claimant, passenger on launch, who suffered contusion of thigh and dislocation of four ribs, held entitled to $1,500 damages, to be paid from fund representing value of vessels at fault. The Barge No. 12 (D. C.) 250 F. 923.

843. Costs and expenses.—In a proceeding for limitation of liability, the petitioner is primarily liable for the fees of the commissioner, and such fees are a part of the costs. Indra Line v. Palmetto Phosphate Co., 239 F. 94, 152 C. C. A. 144.

§ 1537. (R. S. § 914.) Practice and proceedings in other than equity and admiralty causes to conform to practice, etc., in courts of State.

I. NATURE OF REQUIREMENT OF CONFORMITY

1. In general.—The federal courts follow the state practice. Quirk v. Bank of Commerce & Trust Co., 244 F. 682, 157 C. C. A. 130.

The result of the Conformity Act (Rev. Stat. § 914; Comp. Stat. 1916, § 1537), the Rules of Decision Act (Rev. Stat. § 721; Comp. Stat. 1916, § 1538), and the Competency of Witnesses Act (Rev. Stat. § 858; Comp. Stat. 1916, § 1464), is to make state statutes relating to the competency of witnesses and the competency of testimony, as well as the state law of evidence generally, binding on the federal courts sitting within such state, except where in conflict with the federal Constitution, statutes, or treaties. American Issue Pub. Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 248 F. 251.

This section does not deprive a federal court of its rightful jurisdiction of a cause on removal from a state court. Webb v. Southern Ry. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 578.

2. What state practice governs.—Public policy defined by Rev. Cr. St. Tex. 1911, arts. 538, 539, relating to dealings in futures, held not violated by enforcement in a federal court in that state of a contract made in New York, and valid therein between citizen of New York and citizen of Texas, for sale of cotton for future delivery. Bond v. Hume. 37 S. Ct. 366. 243 U. S. 15, 61 L. Ed. 565.

A state statute, establishing a rule of procedure in actions for injuries at railroad crossings, held not to apply to a case brought in a federal court in another state. Hall v. West Jersey & S. R. Co., 244 F. 104, 156 C. C. A. 532.

Under conformity statute (Rev. St. §§ 913, 914, 916, 917 [Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1536, 1537, 1540, 1543]), the state practice is adopted only as to common-law actions. Brown v. Fletcher (D. C.) 239 F. 360.

6. Jurisdiction of courts.—In determining whether equitable relief should be granted against default judgment obtained through misunderstanding of counsel, court held not bound by state decisions; the matter concerning the power of the court. Interurban General Contracting Co. of New York v. U. S. (D. C.) 229 F. 588.

When the question of the jurisdiction of a federal court is raised in an action pending therein, that court is not bound by the laws of the state, but follows its own rule of practice; the so-called Conformity Act not being applicable. Golden, Belknap & Swartz v. Connersville Wheel Co. (D. C.) 252 F. 904.

9. Effect of federal statutes regulating procedure.—This section has no application to matters of jurisdiction and service of process covered by the provisions of Judicial Code, §§ 24–27, 40–68.—Vitkus v. Clyde S. S. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 288

Under Judicial Code, § 262 (Comp. St. 1916. § 1239), empowering District Courts to issue writs of scire facias, they may do so in a state which has abolished the writ. Universal Transp. Co. v. National Surety Co. (D. C.) 252 F. 293.

II. APPLICABILITY TO PARTICULAR CLASSES OF ACTION OR PROCEEDINGS

16½. Bankruptcy proceedings.—This section does not make state rules of procedure applicable to bankruptcy courts, practice and procedure of those courts being prescribed by the Bankruptcy Act, and general orders and regulations pursuant thereto; so one creditor, within Bankruptcy Act, may join as petitioning creditor, though not real party in interest under state practice. In re Veler, 249 F. 633, 161 C. C. A. 543.

19. Scire facias.—Act Tenn. 1897, c. 47, § 1 (Shannon's Code Supp. p. 853), sets forth the form of scire facias issued on a conditional judgment rendered on a recognizance or bail bond, while section 1a of the act provides that the statutory form may be so changed as to give the parties notice of the nature of the obligation on which the judgment is rendered, and it shall not be necessary to set out in full all the jurisdictional facts in any scire facias, and when any writ fails to contain the necessary allegations it may be amended. Held that, in view of Shannon's Code Tenn. § 7119, declaring that a bail bond valid as a common-law bond shall be valid under the statutes, a writ of scire facias issued out of the federal District Court for Tennessee upon a conditional judgment on a bail bond may be amended so as to supply the jurisdictional averment that the offender was admitted to bail by the judge. Ewing v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 240 F. 241.

21. Admiralty causes.—This section does not require United States courts in the trial of admiralty causes to conform with the procedure in like causes in the state courts. Waldo v. Wilson, 231 F. 654, 145 C. C. A. 540, reversing decree Wilson v. Waldo (D. C.) 221 F. 505, and certiorari denied 36 S Ct. 724, 241 U. S. 673, 60 L. Ed. 1231.

A state statute as to how process may be served on a railroad corporation is not controlling in a proceeding in personam in admiralty to which the Conformity Act does not apply. Norfolk Southern Ry. Co. v. Foreman, 244 F. 353, 156 C. C. A. 639.

22. Criminal causes.—On a criminal trial in a federal court, the court is not conclusively bound by the rules of evidence as they stood in 1789. Greer v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 209, 245 U. S. 559, 62 L. Ed. 469, affirming judgment 240 F. 320, 153 C. C. A. 246.

State statutes relating to criminal procedure have no application to prosecutions in the federal courts. McClendon v. U. S., 229 F. 523, 143 C. C. A. 591; U. S. v. Bopp (D. C.) 232 F. 177.

Except where Congress has made specific provisions, common law governs procedure in criminal trials in federal courts, and, no such provision being made, local state statute as to accomplice testimony is inapplicable to prosecution in federal court. Bandy v. U. S. 245 F. 98, 157 C. C. A. 394.

As Rev. Laws Okl. 1910, § 5884, does not apply to prosecution in federal court for introducing intoxicating liquors into Oklahoma, held, that instruction that testimony of witness, if an accomplice, should be scrutinized, sufficiently protected accused's rights. Id.

Indictments in federal courts are not amenable to state laws. Simpson v. U. S., 245 F. 278, 157 C. C. A. 470, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 133, 245 U. S. 667, 62 L. Ed. 538.

State statutes regulating admission of testimony in criminal cases have no application to trial of such cases in federal courts. Denning v. U. S., 247 F. 463, 159 C. C. A. 517.

Rev. Laws Mass. c. 218, § 22, declaring that a misdescription of a written instrument is not a variance, has no application to a criminal prosecution in the federal courts for such state. U. S. v. Phelan (D. C.) 250 F. 927.

Though there are no common-law offenses against the United States, and criminal cases are controlled by federal statutes, state statutes and decisions may be persuasive. U. S. v. De Bolt (D. C.) 253 F. 78.

Rev. Codes Idaho, § 4003, requiring clerk of court to transmit to Supreme Court a certified copy of record of an attorney's conviction of a felony or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, is not obligatory upon federal courts or their officers. In re Hofstede (Idaho) 173 P. 1087.

III. EXCLUSION OF EQUITY CAUSES

(A) In general

25. Rules governing practice and procedure—Application of local statutes and procedure.—This section does not require United States courts, in the trial of equity causes, to conform with the procedure in like causes in the state courts. Waldo v. Wilson, 231 F. 654, 145 C. C. A. 540, reversing decree Wilson v. Waldo (D. C.) 221 F. 505, and certiorari denied Id., 36 S. Ct. 724, 241 U. S. 673, 60 L. Ed. 1231.

While the statute of frauds is equally binding upon courts of equity and courts of law, its requirements will be relaxed in equity, where to enforce the statute will make it an instrument of fraud. Kresge v. Crowley, 47 App. D. C. 13.

26. —— Cases arising in Louisiana.—Where, under the state practice, complainant could not, in Louisiana, maintain a suit for partition of an estate in which he was interested, the interdiction on account of his incompetency not having been removed, he cannot maintain a bill for partition in the federal court.—Gasquet v. Fenner (D. C.) 235 F. 997.

(B) Effect of statutes conferring new rights and remedies or enlarging jurisdiction of local equity courts

28. In general—Statutory rights and remedies of an equitable nature.—That a state statute authorizes a suit in certain cases by bill in equity does not confer jurisdiction on a federal court to entertain such a bill. John A. Roebling's Sons Co. of California v. Kinnicutt (D. C.) 248 F. 596.

29. —— Statutory rights and remedies not inherently equitable.—Code Va. 1904, § 2964, providing for issuance of attachment on bill in equity to enforce any claim, legal or equitable, does not extend equitable jurisdiction of federal District Court for Virginia, so as to give that tribunal jurisdiction over suit on West Virginia judgment wherein attachment under such statute was sought against property of judgment debtor located in Virginia. Williams v. Miller (D. C.) 249 F. 495.

35½. Corporation stockholder's liability.—The equity jurisdiction of the federal courts is not affected by state legislation providing an equitable remedy for the enforcement of stockholder's liability, but to authorize relief in such a controversy by a federal court there must be original ground of equity jurisdiction. Second Nat. Bank of Erie v. Georger (D. C.) 246 F. 517.

37½. Injunction against waste.—In proper case, and irrespective of what remedy the state courts afford, federal equity will apply its own remedy in action in equity by assignee of oil and gas lease to restrain others from operating on land. Shaffer v. Marks (D. C.) 241 F. 139.

(D) Effect of statutes creating remedy at law in state courts

55. General rule.—An adequate remedy at law, which can be administered only in a state court, is not sufficient to compel a federal court to dismiss an equitable cause over which its jurisdiction is complete, and relegate the complainant for his only alternative relief to a state court. Nevada-California Power Co. v. Hamilton (D. C.) 235 F. 317.

(E) Effect of limitation statutes

62. Application of laches in conformity with limitation statutes.—Equitable suit in federal District Court for Eastern District of Kentucky will not be barred by Ky. St. § 2514, prescribing 15-year limitation, though such period had elapsed, unless delay amounts to laches or works estoppel. Pond Creek Coal Co. v. Hatfield, 239 F. 622, 152 C. C. A. 456.

63. Application of laches before statutory period has expired.—State statutes of limitations are not binding on federal courts in equity suits, and question whether relief is barred depends on whether complainant has been guilty of laches; federal courts frequently finding laches in delay less than period of limitations. Estep v. Kentland Coal & Coke Co., 239 F. 617, 152 C. C. A. 451.

(F) Effect of statutes restricting jurisdiction in probate matters

67. Probate of will.—Under Const. Tex. art. 5, §§ 6, 8, and Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, arts. 1705, 1706, 1712, 1763, 1764, 1766, 1771, 3206, 3207, and 5699, suit which in part sought to annul a probated will held not within jurisdiction of federal court because under the state practice it could be maintained only in the probate court. Sutton v. English, 38 S. Ct. 254, 246 U. S. 199, 62 L. Ed. 664.

IV. PROCEDURE IN TRIAL COURT

71. Limitations and time to sue.—Cause of action under Sherman Act held to have accrued when damage occurred, and so Pennsylvania limitation act (Purdon's Dig. Pa. [13th Ed.] p. 2282), which statute was applied because action was begun in Pennsylvania, was properly treated as beginning to run at time damage occurred. Bluefields S. S. Co. v. United Fruit Co., 243 F. 1, 155 C. C. A. 531.

In action under Sherman Act, statute of limitations where action is brought governs. Id.

South Dakota statute of limitations (Code Civ. Proc. S. D. § 60), declaring that it includes action on liability created by statute, other than penalty of forfeiture, applies to action created by statute, though liability is in nature of specialty. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Ziebarth, 245 F. 334, 157 C. C. A. 526.

Plaintiff's right of action for compensation for acting as agent of defendant, a nonresident, within the state of Washington, did not accrue so as to start running the three-year period of Rem. & Bal. Code Wash. § 168, until the appointment of his successor on whom process could be served. Société Nouvelle d'Armement v. Barnaby, 246 F. 68, 158 C. C. A. 294.

Action on interest coupons attached to bonds issued by irrigation district, under Act Cal. March 7, 1887, §§ 12, 15, 16, 42, falls within four-year period prescribed by Code Civ. Proc. Cal. § 337, and does not come within exception of section 312. Rialto Irr. Dist. v. Stowell (C. C. A.) 246 F. 294; Same v. Chellis (C. C. A.) 246 F. 308.

The right of action of an interstate carrier for an undercharge will be barred by the state statute of limitations which affects the remedy, though the carrier be entitled by federal laws to recover the difference between the amount charged and the rates fixed by the Interstate Commerce Act. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Willis (Miss.) 71 So. 563.

74. Form of action or proceeding.—A statutory remedy for the enforcement of liabilities not created by statute is not exclusive. Second Nat. Bank of Erie v. Georger (D. C.) 246 F. 517.

Replevin is a mixed action, being both a demand for a thing and damages for withholding; and in replevin for property that defendant knew belonged to plaintiff, held, that plaintiff could recover damages for that eloigned. Olivier v. Mt. Union Tanning & Extract Co. (D. C.) 253 F. 593.

Where at most an assignment could only make plaintiff a joint owner of property held by defendant as joint owner, replevin cannot be maintained; for, being a possessory action, replevin cannot be maintained, unless plaintiff is entitled to immediate exclusive possession. Id.

74½. Election of remedies.—Where there was but a single breach of contract, though evidence might show the breach occurred in different ways, held, that plaintiffs would be required to elect between separate statements of the cause of action, or, at their option, to amend. Wilson v. Leigh Banana Case Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 987.

75. Notice of lis pendens.—Bona fide purchaser from a patentee of land against whom suit was pending in federal court held, despite this section, exempting equity cases, not charged with notice of suit; no lis pendens having been filed as required by Act La. No. 22 of 1904. U. S. v. Calcasieu Timber Co., 236 F. 196, 149 C. C. A. 386.

76. Parties.—In view of Milliken & V. Code Tenn. 1884, § 3559, now Shannon's Code Tenn. 1896, § 4568, judgments denying recovery on bonds against town of Athens, an alleged Tennessee municipality, cannot be treated as nullities, because municipality was found not to have been validly organized, and city of Athens, whose incorporation was provided for by Act Tenn. March 25, 1891 (Acts 1891, c. 70), was not organized until thereafter. Beyer v. City of Athens, Tenn. (C. C. A.) 249 F. 849.

Where notice to bidders required performance bond, and written agreement made bond and notice part of contract, contractor and surety on bond became jointly and severally liable for performance of all conditions in contract, though surety's liability was limited to penalty in bond, so both at common law and under Gen. Code Ohio, §§ 11256, 11258, joint or separate action might be brought against contractor and surety in case of breach of contract. Walsh Const. Co. v. City of Cleveland (D. C.) 250 F. 137.

77. Death of party and revival of action.—See The Student (D. C.) 238 F. 936.

Local state statutes in respect to abatement and survival of actions have no application to action depending solely on statute of United States; but in that case rules of common law, which include judicial opinions, must be looked to, to determine whether action survives. Imperial Film Exch. v. General Film Co. (D. C.) 244 F. 985.

In absence of federal statute, causes of action under the common law or a state statute are governed as to survivorship by the lex loci, and causes of action under the United States laws by the common law. Van Choate v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 120.

Whether a right of action for damages under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act survives the death of the person injured is to be determined by the rules of the common law, regardless of the state law. Caillouet v. American Sugar Refining Co. (D. C.) 250 F. 639.

79. Process—Nature, issuance, and requisites.—In view of Rev. St. U. S. § 787 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1311), and under this section, held, that one federal District court sitting in New York cannot issue process to be served on a person residing in the state, but in another district. Sewchulis v. Lehigh Valley Coal Co., 233 F. 422, 147 C. C. A. 358.

80. —— Service in general.—Evidence held to show that defendant was served in an Iowa suit in accordance with Code Iowa 1897, § 3516, authorizing service of process by any person not a party to the action. Cooper v. Jewett, 233 F. 618, 147 C. C. A. 426.

This section has no application to matters of jurisdiction and service of process covered by the provisions of Judicial Code, §§ 24–27, 40–68. Vitkus v. Clyde S. S. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 288.

Objection to service in a federal court, either for insufficiency of the service or for want of jurisdiction over the defendant, may be made by motion or plea. Id.

An objection that summons was not properly served can be raised by motion to set aside the service upon the face of the complaint. Tauza v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 294.

In an action at law, brought in the federal court, service of summons should be made in conformity to the state law. McCullough v. United Grocers' Corporation (D. C.) 247 F. 880.

81. —— Service on corporation.—Resident director and vice president of a foreign corporation may not be served with process in action against such corporation not doing business in the state. Toledo Railways & Light Co. v. Hill, 37 S. Ct. 591, 244 U. S. 49, 61 L. Ed. 982.

Service upon agent designated by foreign corporation, pursuant to Pub. Laws Me. 1911, c. 152, § 1, held to give jurisdiction to federal court. Boulthee v. International Paper Co., 229 F. 951, 144 C. C. A. 233.

A sales agent held not to have been managing agent of foreign corporation, on whom process against the corporation could be served, under Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 432, subd. 3. American Oil & Supply Co. v. Western Gas Const. Co., 239 F. 505, 152 C. C. A. 383.

Service on foreign corporation under state statute held good in the federal courts unless insufficient as due process of law. Beach v. Kerr Turbine Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 706.

Under Comp. St. 1916, § 6923, for protection of persons furnishing materials and labor for public works, service upon surety company, doing business under act beyond state or territory of incorporation, through clerk of District Court, being manifestly personal, there must be personal service upon resident agent of such company; this section having no application. United States v. Southern Dredging Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 400.

86. Pleading—in general.—Where a purchaser, after being admitted into possession, defaulted, and the vendor forfeited the contract, such purchaser, having recovered damages on account of the vendor's inability to convey the title as agreed, cannot thereafter recover on account of improvements which it placed on the premises, for causes of action cannot be split. Crocker v. Ingersoll Engineering & Constructing Co., 249 F. 31, 161 C. C. A. 91.

An injury to the person and one to property, though resulting from the same tortious act, constitute different causes of action. Borden's Condensed Milk Co. v. Mosby (C. C. A.) 250 F. 839.

In trespass on the case, two causes of action growing out of substantially the same transactions, and depending upon substantially the same evidence, as for criminal conversation and for alienation of the wife's affections, may be joined. Harper v. Harper (C. C. A.) 252 F. 39.

In a declaration by the assignor of a contract, the joinder of a count to recover in plaintiff's own right with one to recover for the benefit of the assignee held permissible, under Rev. Laws Mass. c. 173, § 16, cl. 1. Light v. Gray & Davis (D. C.) 250 F. 631.

87. —— Amendment.—Under Code S. C. § 194, which governs the federal courts in actions at law in that state, no amendment proposed at the trial can be allowed for the purpose of introducing a new cause of action. Chamberlain v. Mensing (C. C.) 51 F. 511.

Where cause begun in state court is removed to federal court question as to amendments of pleadings pursuant to Rev. St. § 954 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1591), relating to curing of defects in forms is one solely for decision of federal tribunal. Salyer v. Consolidation Coal Co., 246 F. 794, 159 C. C. A. 96, certiorari denied Consolidation Coal Co. v. Salyer, 38 S. Ct. 345, 246 U. S. 669, 62 L. Ed. 931.

Under section 542 of the New York Code, as applied by this section to the practice and pleading in the federal courts within the state of New York, a complaint is amendable by the party at any time within 20 days after a demurrer thereto. Rosenbach v. Dreyfuss (D. C.) 1 F. 391.

In action against carrier for damages to interstate shipment of hogs, that the original petition was on a written contract and the amendment to petition was on an implied contract was immaterial, being matter of procedure governed by state practice. Bowles v. Quincy, O. & K. C. R. Co. (Mo. App.) 187 S. W. 131.

87½. —— Bill of particulars.—See O-So-Ezy Mop Co. v. Channell Chemical Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 469.

Denial of a motion by defendant for bill of particulars held not error. Shryock v. S. P. Calkins & Co., 248 F. 649, 160 C. C. A. 549.

88. —— Complaint, declaration, or petition.—Essential elements of declaration for libel stated. Shryock v. S. P. Calkins & Co., 248 F. 649, 160 C. C. A. 549.

89. —— Plea or answer in general.—Under the Conformity Act, Shannon's Code Tenn. §§ 4627, 4636, regulating pleas and the evidence admissible thereunder, is controlling in the federal courts. Kalloch v. Hoagland, 239 F. 252, 152 C. C. A. 240.

An answer to an action on a promissory note, to state a defense of want of consideration, must aver that the payee did not thereby suffer a loss or detriment. Pierce v. Harper (C. C. A.) 249 F. 867.

Under Shannon's Code Tenn. § 2910 (Thompson & S. Code, § 4631), declaring that all allegations in declaration not denied in plea shall be taken as true falsity of charges set up as basis of action of slander were admitted, where defendant pleaded the general issue merely, with no plea of justification. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 712.

Under Practice Act (Act Pa. May 14, 1915 [P. L. 483]) § 20, defendant cannot by affidavit of defense practically incorporate into the statement of claim matter unnecessary therefor, and thereon raise a question of law in limine. McCarty v. Neilson (D. C.) 239 F. 151.

In an action for the purchase price of certain machines, the defenses that the sale had been procured by fraudulent representations and that the machines were mechanically imperfect should be separately pleaded. Burroughs Adding Mach. Co. v. Scandinavian-American Bank (D. C.) 239 F. 179.

Under the code system of pleading in force in Washington, inconsistent defenses may not be pleaded. Tomkins v. Paterson (D. C.) 239 F. 402.

In action against a New Jersey corporation, removed to federal court sitting in New York, though judgment on plea to jurisdiction should go for plaintiff, held that, plaintiff having concealed fact that he was an alien, defendant should be permitted to reinstate its answer on the merits. Sawickas v. Singer Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 600.

Defendant, filing plea to jurisdiction after mistrial, held entitled to reinstate answer, though plea was filed as result of inaccurate information given its counsel by its agents and servants. Kever v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 883.

Pleas in action on contract, which fail to negative all of breaches alleged, are subject to demurrer, not being defenses to whole declaration. Harrison v. City of Tampa (D. C.) 247 F. 569.

Defect in the return of service of process appearing on the face of the record is properly the subject of a motion to quash, and need not be taken up under a plea of abatement. U. S. v. Southern Dredging Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 400.

A person cannot deny existence of a statute upon information and belief. Martin v. Kennecott Copper Corporation (D. C.) 252 F. 207.

92. —— Pleading set-off or counterclaim.—All defenses and set-offs available against an assignor of a chose in action are available against his assignee. Wagner v. Central Banking & Security Co., 249 F. 145, 161 C. C. A. 197.

In an action in the federal District Court of Ohio, the question whether a claim is available as a counterclaim, is controlled by the state laws. Walsh Construction Co. v. City of Cleveland (D. C.) 250 F. 137.

94. —— Demurrer.—Upon overruling of demurrer to replication, court held to have properly heard and determined issue raised by replication, though under Rev. St. Me. c. 84, § 35, judgment would have followed in state court. Boultbee v. International Paper Co., 229 F. 951, 144 C. C. A. 233.

Whether the trial court will allow a demurrant to withdraw his demurrer is a matter of discretion, and whenever a demurrer is interposed the demurrant takes that risk. U. S. v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 211.

A demurrer, for the purpose of the demurrer, admits as true the allegations of the pleading attacked. Tatum v. Louisville & N. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 898.

While a demurrer admits all facts well pleaded, it does not admit conclusions. Rensselaer & S. R. Co. v. Irwin (D. C.) 239 F. 739.

95. —— Verification.—Under Rev. Codes Idaho, § 4201, by which the "genuineness and due execution" of an instrument pleaded in defense is deemed admitted, unless denied by an affidavit filed, the failure to file such affidavit does not preclude plaintiff from denying the effectiveness of a release interposed as a defense. Gold Hunter Mining & Smelting Co. v. Bowden (C. C. A.) 252 F. 388.

96. —— Issues, proofs, and variance.—Answer to action on promissory note, averring want of consideration, must be supported by proof. Pierce v. Harper (C. C. A.) 249 F. 867.

97. —— Defects, objections, and waiver.—In assumpsit in a federal court in Pennsylvania, where, after an affidavit of defense is filed, plaintiff, under Procedure Act Pa. May 25, 1887, § 7, moves the court to direct the entry of a plea in behalf of defendant, which is accordingly done, this constitutes a waiver of his right to move for judgment on the ground of the insufficiency of the affidavit of defense. Edison General Electric Co. v. Johnstown Electric Light Co. (C. C.) 56 F. 456.

When a demurrer is irregularly filed, it may be wholly disregarded or taken from the files upon motion of the complainant, and, where neither of these things has been done, the complainant will not be heard to complain upon appeal that the demurrer was irregularly filed because unaccompanied by the required certificate of counsel and affidavit of defendants. Brazoria County v. Youngstown Bridge Co., 80 F. 10, 25 C. C. A. 306.

Error in the sustaining of a demurrer to a complaint is not waived by the filing of an amended complaint, where the latter is stricken from the files. Snowden v. Ft. Lyon Canal Co., 238 F. 495, 151 C. C. A. 431.

98. Dismissal or nonsuit before trial.—Where plaintiff did not use diligence, and follow Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 528, though he claimed defendant's answer was insufficiently verified, the answer could not be disregarded, but put the case at issue, so that dismissal might be entered for want of prosecution. S. M. Hamilton Coal Co. v. Watts, 232 F. 832, 147 C. C. A. 26, reversing order Watts v. S. M. Hamilton Coal Co. (D. C.) 219 F. 1003.

A stipulation in a state court held not ground for dismissal of an action in the federal court between the same parties. Alsop v. McCombs, 235 F. 507, 149 C. C. A. 53.

Plaintiff in personal injury action begun in federal court is entitled to dismiss his action at any time before submission, defense being mere denial, though that will enable him to begin new action in different form. Cybur Lumber Co. v. Erkhart, 247 F. 284, 159 C. C. A. 378.

In an action in Pennsylvania District Court, held that, despite Practice Act, plaintiff's discontinuance would be stricken off, defendant having filed a counterclaim in nature of set-off. Pyrene Mfg. Co. v. Castle (D. C.) 240 F. 841.

Though plaintiff negligently delayed engaging other counsel after death of his first counsel, held that, as he endeavored to have the case put on trial docket after entry of "neither party," closing case, it should be restored on his giving security for payment of costs already accrued. Craven v. Clark (D. C.) 247 F. 622.

99. Evidence.—In the federal courts, in an action for the injury or death of an employé, the burden of proving contributory negligence rests on the defendant, regardless of any contrary rule in the state courts. New Ætna Portland Cement Co. v. Hatt, 231 F. 611, 145 C. C. A. 497.

Testimony of plaintiff's witnesses that plaintiff's intestate was killed by coming in contact with a return electric wire is sufficient to warrant a finding to that effect, notwithstanding conflicting expert testimony. Sunday Creek Co. v. Gray, 238 F. 325, 151 C. C. A. 341.

Direct and positive testimony, the good faith of which is undisputed, may not be overcome by inferences of the most general character unsupported by a single detail. Illinois Surety Co. v. Standard Underground Cable Co., 238 F. 546, 151 C. C. A. 482.

In an action on an accident insurance policy, where insured had died of appendicitis shortly after falling on the sidewalk and injuring his abdomen, and an expert witness had testified that appendicitis was caused by the fall, the jury were justified in so finding. Ætna Life Ins. Co. v. Wicker, 240 F. 398, 153 C. C. A. 324.

While collateral or irrelevant facts that fix the time at which a relevant fact occurred are admissible in evidence so far as necessary, that rule cannot be employed as a pretext for the admission of evidence in itself incompetent and prejudicial. Bingham Mines Co. v. Bianco, 246 F. 936, 159 C. C. A. 208.

The rule that the burden of proof of contributory negligence of a passenger is upon the carrier will be enforced by the federal courts, even where the rule of state practice is otherwise. Harmon v. Barber, 247 F. 1, 159 C. C. A. 219, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 335, 246 U. S. 666, 62 L. Ed. 929.

Burden of proof, as fixed by examination of pleadings, does not change, although during progress of trial burden of going forward with evidence to rebut prima facie case may shift. Cowen Co. v. Houck Mfg. Co., 249 F. 285, 161 C. C. A. 293.

The test of "relevancy" of evidence is that an evidentiary fact can be considered as admissibly relevant only when the desired conclusion based upon it is a more probable or natural, or at least a probable or natural hypothesis, and when the other hypothesis or explanations of the fact, if any, are either less probable or natural, or at least not more probable or natural. Lee v. Malleable Iron Range Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 795.

101. Witnesses.—The practice of the federal courts as to the scope allowed in cross-examination in criminal cases is not affected by the practice or rules of the courts of the state. Hendrey v. U. S., 233 F. 5, 147 C. C. A. 75.

Gen. Code Ohio, § 11497, construed as giving a party an unlimited right to cross-examine an adversary called by him, is a matter of trial administration, which the federal courts need not follow, under the Conformity Act. American Issue Pub. Co. v. Sloan, 248 F. 251, 160 C. C. A. 329.

103. Examination of party, production of evidence, or view before trial.—Statutory provision of a state, under which a party to an action at law may require the production of books or writings containing evidence in advance of trial, do not apply to procedure in the federal courts. General Film Co. v. Sampliner, 232 F. 95, 146 C. C. A. 287.

104½. Trial—Conduct of trial.—A remark of the trial judge in the presence of the panel on adjourning the trial held not to prejudice the jury, so as to show an abuse of discretion in denying a continuance for the term. Pennsylvania Co. v. Fanger, 231 F. 851, 146 C. C. A. 47.

In action in federal courts it is not improper for judge to suggest to plaintiff that he might elect on which count to proceed. Victor American Fuel Co. v. Tomljanovich, 232 F. 662, 146 C. C. A. 588, affirming orders Tomljanovich v. Victor American Fuel Co. (D. C.) 227 F. 951, and 230 F. 467.

105. —— Mode of trial.—Under Practice Act Pa. 1915 (P. L. 486) § 20, where the questions sought to be raised by hearing on affidavit of defense may be raised as trial questions, it is better practice to do so to avoid appeals from interlocutory judgments. U. S. v. John A. Heitz, Inc. (D. C.) 238 F. 1002.

107. —— Reception of evidence.—Where evidence was admissible for particular purpose, and no request that its effect be restricted to that purpose was made, held, that there was no error. Lauderdale County v. Kittel, 229 F. 593, 143 C. C. A. 615.

It was not error to exclude evidence which was merely cumulative because the record already showed the facts desired to be proved. Wheeler v. City and County of Denver, 231 F. 8, 145 C. C. A. 196.

Exclusion of evidence inadmissible for the purpose for which it was offered is proper, though evidence was admissible on another theory. Flowers v. Bush & Witherspoon Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 519.

108. —— Dismissal or nonsuit at trial, and direction of verdict.—Under this section, and Revisal N. C. 1905, § 539, defendant, which, after denial of motion to dismiss at close of plaintiff's case introduced evidence, and did not renew motion, cannot complain of denial. R. D. Cole Mfg. Co. v. Mendenhall, 240 F. 641, 153 C. C. A. 439.

Under this section, it is proper in federal District Court to allow nonsuit before verdict, where such nonsuit is permissible under state practice. Cybur Lumber Co. v. Erkhart, 247 F. 284, 159 C. C. A. 378.

Under Rev. St. Mo. 1909, § 1980, providing that "the plaintiff shall be allowed to dismiss his suit * * * at any time before the same is finally submitted," which by this section governs federal courts in that state, a plaintiff may of right take a nonsuit at any time before the jury has actually retired. Alsop v. McCombs (C. C. A.) 253 F. 949.

A complaint, sufficient in its allegations, may be dismissed on admissions made by plaintiff's counsel in his opening clearly showing plaintiff had no cause of action. Smith v. Standard Sanitary Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 427.

The state court practice should be followed, where the case is submitted to the jury, or where the jury has been waived. In the first event, the plaintiff cannot take a nonsuit after the jury has retired, nor in the latter, after the case has been submitted to the court for decision. Pannill v. Roanoke Times Co. (D. C.) 252 F. 910.

Where there is no state practice as to the granting of a nonsuit, the federal courts of the state are governed only by the general law. Id.

109. —— Instructions and control of deliberations of jury.—Plaintiff in error, one of the defendants in a prosecution for a conspiracy, held not entitled to complain of an instruction on admissions of conspiracy, etc., by another defendant. Shepard v. U. S., 236 F. 73, 149 C. C. A. 283.

Comp. St. Ann. 1916, § 1537, does not make Act Pa. May 11, 1911 (P. L. 279), applicable in the federal courts, notwithstanding rule 10, § 2, of District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, and rule 10, § 1, of Circuit Court of Appeals, Third Circuit (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1289), forbidding general exceptions to the charge. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. Marland, 239 F. 1, 152 C. C. A. 51.

The giving of a supplemental charge, in which the court impressed on the jury the duty to reach an agreement, but did not indicate an opinion as to the merits, or comment on the facts, held not error. Bernal v. U. S., 241 F. 339, 154 C. C. A. 219.

Though judge may express opinion as to facts, he may not persuade jury as to the facts, or argue the case for either side. Oppenheim v. U. S., 241 F. 625, 154 C. C. A. 383, reversing judgment U. S. v. Oppenheim (D. C.) 228 F. 220.

110½. —— Argument of counsel.—In crossing accident case tried in federal District Court for New York, held, that statement by plaintiff's counsel that he claimed $50,000 damages was no ground for objection, though cause of action arose in Pennsylvania, where such statement would have been improper. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. Skerman, 247 F. 269, 159 C. C. A. 363.

114. Receivers.—See notes under § 1047.

115. Motions in general.—Jurisdiction of federal District Court over a foreign corporation not doing business within the state may, notwithstanding this section challenged by a motion to quash, though under the local practice the question can only be raised by demurrer. Meisukas v. Greenough Red Ash Coal Co., 37 S. Ct. 593, 244 U. S. 54, 61 L. Ed. 987.

The granting of a judgment upon the pleadings on motion is not regarded with favor by the court. Betsch v. Umphrey (C. C. A.) 252 F. 573.

117. Requisites, record, and effect of judgment.—Any entry, whatever its form, is a sufficient entry of a judgment if it clearly shows that it was intended as the determination of the court, and shows the nature and scope of the relief granted. Smith v. Smith, 247 F. 461, 159 C. C. A. 515.

Without valid service of process upon defendant in the absence of its voluntary appearance, there can be no recovery. U. S. v. Southern Dredging Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 400.

118. Vacation of judgment.—After decree in government's suit to cancel a patent of coal lands, the court, upon stipulation by government and defendants, purchasers of land at foreclosure sale in another suit and entitled to deed therefor, that on purchasers' conveyance of adjoining tract to it government would relinquish claim to land in suit, had jurisdiction to modify its decree. U. S. v. Trogler, 237 F. 181, 150 C. C. A. 327.

119. Execution and proceedings after judgment.—Under Rev. St. §§ 913, 914, 916, 917 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1536, 1537, 1540, 1543), and new equity rule 8 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2498), a trustee against whom a decree was rendered in his representative capacity may be examined in supplementary proceedings. Brown v. Fletcher (D. C.) 239 F. 360.

120. Fees and costs in general.—Conformably to the Minnesota statute and practice, which allow recovery by the prevailing party of "disbursements necessarily paid or incurred," where the United States, in an action to recover penalties for violation of the Hours of Service Act, includes a number of independent and unrelated causes of action, and recovers on but one, it is not entitled to tax as disbursements fees of witnesses who testified only in relation to causes of action on which it was defeated. U. S. v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 951.

V. PROCEDURE IN APPELLATE COURT

122. Practice in general.—See Pollack v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. (C. C. A.) 233 F. 861, dissenting opinion of Sanborn, J.

Rule that only parties to the record may appeal from decree of federal court is not affected by local practice under Code Prac. La. art. 571, allowing appeals by strangers to the record. United States ex rel. State of Louisiana v. Boarman, 37 S. Ct. 605, 244 U. S. 397, 61 L. Ed. 1222, affirming decree U. S. v. Same, 217 F. 757, 133 C. C. A. 487.

Act Cong. March 3, 1891, § 11 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1647), fixing time for taking appeals to or suing out writs of error from Circuit Courts of Appeals, should have same construction in various circuits, and varying state rules as to computation of time should not be deferred to, under this section. Siegelschiffer v. Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co., 248 F. 226, 160 C. C. A. 304.

123. —— Appeal, or writ of error.—Despite this section, held that, in an action at law, defendant cannot procure review of the judgment on appeal to Circuit Court of Appeals, but must sue out a writ of error. Smith v. Currie, 230 F. 803, 145 C. C. A. 113.

In an action at law, known as claim and delivery, under the Code of North Carolina (Revisal 1905, §§ 790–802), judgment having gone against defendant, the Circuit Court of Appeals is without jurisdiction, notwithstanding this section, of an appeal by defendant, though bond was given and citation issued to plaintiff, for, the action being one at law, the judgment can be reviewed in the federal courts only on writ of error. Id.

126. —— Presentation of questions in trial court.—What is necessary in a District Court to render rulings reviewable is determined by federal statutes, and, where they are silent by the common-law practice prevailing in the federal courts. Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Le Valley, 233 F. 384, 147 C. C. A. 320, denying rehearing 227 F. 1016, 141 C. C. A. 664.

Where defendant objected to a question to its witness as to whether he had been indicted for forgery, it was not a waiver of the objection and exception for defendant's counsel to state in the presence of the jury that he was not trying to keep anything back, and would like to have the witness explain the matter, as he stated he could. Walker Grain Co. v. Blair Elevator Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 422.

128. —— Effect of transfer of cause.—When appeal is taken under California practice, the action is still pending, and the judgment does not become final until the appellate court has passed its order. Blue Goose Mining Co. v. Northern Light Mining Co., 245 F. 727, 158 C. C. A. 129.

129. —— Record.—The requirement by the New York statute that a city condemning a reservoir site shall furnish the owner with three printed copies of the evidence does not relieve the owner from liability for costs for certifying the record on appeal and the supervision fee and for printing the record in the Circuit Court of Appeals. In re Bensel (D. C.) 230 F. 932.

131. —— Mandate and proceedings in lower court.—Under Code Miss. 1906, § 802, applicable to action in federal District Court for that state, plaintiff, after reversal on appeal of judgment in his favor, held on remand entitled to take voluntary nonsuit before submission of case to second jury, though appellate court directed, should evidence be same on retrial verdict should be directed for defendant. Cybur Lumber Co. v. Erkhart, 247 F. 284, 159 C. C. A. 378.

CITED WITHOUT DEFINITE APPLICATION

Golden, Belknap & Swartz v. Connersville Wheel Co. (D. C.) 252 F. 904; Central Ry. Signal Co. v. Jackson (D. C.) 254 F. 103.

§ 1538. (R. S. § 721.) Laws of the States; rules of decision.

I. LAWS AS RULES OF DECISION

8. State laws as authority in federal courts.—The result of the Conformity Act (Rev. Stat. § 914; Comp. Stat. 1916, § 1537), the Rules of Decision Act (Rev. Stat. § 721; Comp. Stat. 1916, § 1538), and the Competency of Witnesses Act (Rev. Stat. § 858; Comp. Stat. 1916, § 1464), is to make state statutes relating to the competency of witnesses and the competency of testimony, as well as the state law of evidence generally, binding on the federal courts sitting within such state, except where in conflict with the federal Constitution, statutes, or treaties. American Issue Pub. Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 248 F. 251.

As there is no common law of United States, general law administered by federal courts is that of state in which they may be sitting as to matters within their concurrent jurisdiction. Consolidated Ordnance Co. v. Marsh, 116 N. E. 394, 227 Mass. 15.

9. —— Exception of questions involving federal government, constitution, or laws.—See The Sagamore, 247 F. 743, 159 C. C. A. 601.

No state has power to abolish the well-recognized maritime rules concerning the measure of recovery by a seaman injured while in service of a vessel and substitute therefor the full indemnity rule of the common law. Chelentis v. Luckenbach S. S. Co., 38 S. Ct. 501, 247 U. S. 372, 62 L. Ed. 1171, affirming judgment 243 F. 536, 156 C. C. A. 234.

Under Bankr. Act, § 60b, and in view of amendments and of section 47a (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 9644, 9631), a chattel mortgage given by a bankrupt more than four months before the filing of petition is, where not recorded until a few days of filing, voidable by trustee as a preference, being a conveyance required to be recorded by Kirby's Dig. Ark. § 5396, regardless of the construction of law by state courts. Bunch v. Maloney, 233 F. 967, 147 C. C. A. 641, affirming decree In re T. H. Bunch Commission Co. (D. C.) 225 F. 243.

In an action under the federal Employers' Liability Act, measure of damages is to be determined according to the provisions of the act itself and the general common law as administered by the federal courts, unaffected by state legislation and decisions of state courts. Laughlin v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. (Mo.) 205 S. W. 3.

11. What state law governs.—Public policy defined by Pen. Code Tex. 1911, arts. 538, 539, relating to dealings in futures, held not violated by enforcement in a federal court in that state of a contract made in New York, and valid therein between citizen of New York and citizen of Texas, for sale of cotton for future delivery. Bond v. Hume, 37 S. Ct. 366, 243 U. S. 15. 61 L. Ed. 565.

Whether a note executed and made payable in Missouri was negotiable, so as not to be subject to the defense of a failure of consideration in the hands of a bona fide purchaser, was to be determined by the laws of Missouri, though suit thereon was brought in the District Court for the District of Kansas. Kobey v. Hoffman (C. C. A.) 229 F. 486.

12. Judicial notice of state laws.—In determining whether fees for inspection of oils and gasoline exacted by state of Minnesota are so much in excess of cost of inspection as to constitute law a revenue measure, invalid as burden on interstate commerce, Supreme Court of United States takes judicial notice that inspection fee on oil and gasoline in tank cars was twice reduced by the Legislature. Pure Oil Co. v. State of Minnesota, 39 S. Ct. 35, 63 L. Ed. ——.

In action by New Hampshire corporation in federal District Court for New Hampshire, held, that court would take judicial notice that defendant was incorporated under Laws N. H. 1835, c. 14, and Laws 1841, c. 6. Peterborough R. R. v. Boston & M. R. R., 239 F. 97, 152 C. C. A. 147.

Federal court will take judicial notice of state legislative action, making river within state public navigable stream, and authorizing damming of one of its branches. Keystone Wood Co. v. Susquehanna Boom Co., 240 F. 296, 153 C. C. A. 222, affirming judgment (D. C.) 235 F. 800.

District Court of Alaska may take judicial notice of statutes of a state. Jesson v. Noyes, 245 F. 46, 157 C. C. A. 342, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 133, 245 U. S. 667, 62 L. Ed. 538.

Federal courts take judicial notice of the statutes of the states. Southern Ry. Co. v. O'Dell (C. C. A.) 252 F. 540.

The federal District Court for Western District of Virginia takes judicial notice that a circuit court of Virginia is and was in 1856 a court of record and of general jurisdiction. Virginia & West Virginia Coal Co. v. Charles (D. C.) 251 F. 83.

The Supreme Court may take judicial notice of the history of the Central Canal and of the legislation relative thereto. City of Indianapolis v. Indianapolis Water Co. (Ind.) 113 N. E. 369.

18. Questions governed by state laws—Bonds, notes, and loan contracts.—The rights of a banker, who advanced funds to purchase property and delivered the same to a manufacturer under a trust receipt, are, on bankruptcy of the manufacturer, governed by the state laws. In re Bettman-Johnson Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 657.

19. —— Questions affecting transfers, title, or interest in property.—In determining whether a chattel mortgage is a conveyance working a fraud on creditors, the state law governs. Johnson-Baillie Shoe Co. v. Bardsley, Elmer & Nichols, 237 F. 763, 150 C. C. A. 517.

The question of the validity of a chattel mortgage given by bankrupts is one of local law. Garrison v. Kurt, 249 F. 672, 161 C. C. A. 582.

In determining whether title to chattels passed to bankrupt, or remained in seller, state law governs. In re Farmers' Dairy Ass'n (D. C.) 234 F. 118, judgment affirmed Shook v. Levi (C. C. A.) 240 F. 121.

Costs made on writ of attachment against a bankrupt prior to the bankruptcy proceedings held provable, and entitled to preference under the state law. In re Romm (D. C.) 235 F. 383.

In proceedings to reclaim property from trustee in bankruptcy, the question whether the contract under which the bankrupt held the property was a bailment for hire, or a sale, conditional or absolute, must be determined by the law of the state in which it was made. In re Eagle Ice & Coal Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 393.

Unless the bankrupt law otherwise provides, validity of an assignment or claim is to be determined by local law. Davis v. Billings, 99 A. 163, 254 Pa. 574.

Unless the bankruptcy law otherwise provides, the validity of a claim is to be determined in accordance with the principles of the local law. Bennett v. North Philadelphia Trust Co., 66 Pa. Super. Ct. 261.

20. —— Liability for negligence or torts.—Since the federal Employers' Liability Act merely provides the order in which classes of relatives of the deceased workman can recover, the portion of recovery by each class is governed by the state statute. In re Stone (N. C.) 91 S. E. 852.

21. —— Administration of estates and construction of wills.—It is within the power of the state to determine the order in which debts of an estate shall be paid. Therefore the federal courts must give effect to Rev. Laws Nev. § 6052, declaring priorities. Johnson v. Garner (D. C.) 233 F. 756.

23. —— Laws or regulations affecting corporations.—Legislative construction given by Civ. Code Ariz. 1913, pars. 2277–2362, to the words "corporations" and "public service corporations" in Const. Ariz. art. 15, creating Corporation Commission, will be followed by federal Supreme Court, in absence of decision of Arizona Supreme Court to the contrary, notwithstanding article 14, defining "corporation," since the Legislature was empowered by article 15, § 6, to enlarge powers of such commission. Van Dyke v. Geary, 37 S. Ct. 483, 244 U. S. 39, 61 L. Ed. 973, affirming order (D. C.) 218 F. 111.

In a case involving the contractual liability of a stockholder, the statutes and decisions of the highest court of the state where the company was organized govern the controversy. Second Nat. Bank of Erie v. Georger (D. C.) 246 F. 517.

Whether a stockholder of a bankrupt corporation is liable to the estate for the difference between the par value of the stock held by him and the amount originally paid therefor is determined by the law of the state where the corporation was incorporated. In re Manufacturers' Box & Lumber Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 957.

24. —— Liens and mortgages.—In determining the priority of liens in a bankruptcy case, the state law governs. Preetorius v. Anderson, 236 F. 723, 150 C. C. A. 55.

Federal courts will enforce vendor's liens if in harmony with jurisprudence of state in which action is brought. Farrell v. Wysong (C. C. A.) 246 F. 281.

The laws of the state where the assets of a bankrupt are, control as to the nature and effect of a lien thereon for debts of a testator. In re McAusland (D. C.) 235 F. 173.

Courts of admiralty are not inclined to recognize local statutes purporting to establish a lien, where the maritime law gives none, unless the right is unequivocal. The Saturnus (D. C.) 242 F. 173.

II. DECISIONS OF STATE COURTS

32. Authority in general.—Ruling of state court, on right of principal to recover from agent money received by him in carrying out arrangement between them involving violation of criminal statute, turning on question of local law, cannot be re-examined by national court. Danciger v. Cooley, 39 S. Ct. 119, 63 L. Ed. ——.

Decisions of the Montana state court as to the validity of mining locations are not precedents binding on the federal courts in a suit involving the validity of locations in that state made prior to the rendition of such decisions of the Montana court. Butte & Superior Copper Co. v. Clark-Montana Realty Co., 248 F. 609, 160 C. C. A. 509, affirming decree Clark-Montana Realty Co. v. Butte & Superior Copper Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 547, and certiorari denied Butte & Superior Copper Co. v. Clark-Montana Realty Co., 38 S. Ct. 581, 247 U. S. 516, 62 L. Ed. 1245.

While federal court having jurisdiction in particular state is an independent forum, yet it administers no different law than that administered by state courts, and in question involving state, public policy should defer to decisions of state courts. Keystone Wood Co. v. Susquehanna Boom Co., 240 F. 296, 153 C. C. A. 222, affirming judgment (D. C.) 235 F. 800.

In determining the nature of transactions between bankrupt and others, decisions of highest state court, if not controlling are of great weight. In re Shea (D. C.) 245 F. 363.

In proceeding involving validity of bankrupt's assignment for creditors, bankruptcy court will treat matter as undecided by state court, where judge of state court, in making order involving matter, filed no opinion showing that he adjudged assignment invalid, and parties were disagreed as to that fact. In re Colwell Lead Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 922.

33. Construction of state constitutions and statutes—In general.—The federal courts accept the interpretation put by the courts of a state upon its own Constitution and statutes. Colorado Yule Marble Co. v. Collins, 230 F. 78, 144 C. C. A. 376.

In construing the statute of Alaska, transplanted from Oregon, the Oregon decisions, unless departed from by Alaska judgments, are to be considered as local law. In re Seward Dredging Co., 242 F. 225, 155 C. C. A. 65, certiorari denied Sands v. Estabrook, 38 S. Ct. 11, 245 U. S. 651, 62 L. Ed. 531.

34. —— Constitutions.—Decisions of state Supreme Court construing provisions of state Constitution are conclusive on national courts. Bush v. Branson, 248 F. 377, 160 C. C. A. 387; Hill v. Hill (D. C.) 231 F. 345; Harmon v. Bolley (Ind.) 120 N. E. 33.

35. —— Statutes.—The construction of a state statute by the highest court of the state must be accepted by the federal courts. La Tourette v. McMaster, 39 S. Ct. 160, 63 L. Ed. —; Lauderdale County v. Kittel, 229 F. 593, 143 C. C. A. 615; Old Colony Trust Co. v. City of Tacoma, 230 F. 389, 144 C. C. A. 531, affirming decree (D. C.) 219 F. 775; Atlas Portland Cement Co. v. Hagen, 233 F. 24, 147 C. C. A. 94; Union Stockyards Bank of Wichita, Kan., v. Hamilton, 246 F. 580, 158 C. C. A. 550; Bank of Follansbee v. Follansbee Lumber Co., 248 F. 645, 160 C. C. A. 545; Ludlow v. City of Ludlow (C. C. A.) 252 F. 559; Gillespie v. Riggs (C. C. A.) 253 F. 943; In re Davidson (D. C.) 233 F. 462; Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Peddrick (D. C.) 234 F. 781; Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Incorporated Town of Lost Nation (D. C.) 237 F. 709; Hebe Co. v. Calvert (D. C.) 246 F. 711.

The constitutionality of the compulsory insurance provisions of Iowa elective Workmen's Compensation Act, § 42, will not be considered by the federal Supreme Court at the instance of an employer not accepting the act, where the highest state court has held that an employer not accepting is not compelled to insure. Hawkins v. Bleakly, 37 S. Ct. 255, 243 U. S. 210, 61 L. Ed. 678, affirming decree Same v. Bleakley (D. C.) 220 F. 378.

Requisite diversity of citizenship to sustain federal jurisdiction exists where citizen of Arkansas, as administrator under appointment in Tennessee, sues corporation for wrongful death, in view of decision of Supreme Court of Tennessee as to effect of Acts Tenn. 1903, c. 501. Memphis St. Ry. Co. v. Moore, 37 S. Ct. 273, 243 U. S. 299, 61 L. Ed. 733, affirming judgment Same v. Bobo, 232 F. 708, 146 C. C. A. 634.

As to contracts executed before the construction of a state statute by its court of last resort, the courts of the United States are not conclusively governed by the construction thereafter placed upon it by the state court. Kobey v. Hoffman (C. C. A.) 229 F. 486.

A decision by the Oklahoma Supreme Court construing Comp. Laws Okl. 1909, § 5553, as denying benefit of limitations in favor of any person or corporation while it is without the state, is binding on federal courts, so limitations do not run in favor of a foreign corporation, though it maintained a statutory process agent. Quinette v. Pullman Co., 233 F. 980, 147 C. C. A. 654, denying rehearing 229 F. 333, 143 C. C. A. 453.

Where the highest court of a state has interpreted a state statute in a way showing that it is considered a positive enactment and not merely a re-enactment of the common law, as to rights arising thereafter, its construction is binding on the federal courts. Babbitt v. Read, 236 F. 42, 149 C. C. A. 252, affirming decree (D. C.) 215 F. 395.

Ordinarily, a federal court accepts construction of statutes of state by highest court thereof, but if such decision is rendered after rights have accrued or liabilities have been incurred, which are subject of determination by federal court, latter court is not bound by such decision, although it will lean to agreement with state court. State of Missouri v. Angle, 236 F. 644, 149 C. C. A. 640, affirming order In re Sage (D. C.) 224 F. 525.

Holding of Supreme Court of Porto Rico that Rev. Civ. Code 1902, § 187, authorizing inheritance by an illegitimate child who was acknowledged by its father, is not retroactive, when in harmony with prior decisions of that court and the Supreme Court of Spain, held not to be disturbed. Maldonado v. Esteras, 242 F. 912, 155 C. C. A. 500.

Generally a federal court treats the construction of a state statute by the highest court of the state as part of it and read into it. Turner v. Board of Trade of City of Chicago, 244 F. 108, 156 C. C. A. 536, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 133, 245 U. S. 667, 62 L. Ed. 538.

Decision of state court construing local statutes of limitation and with respect to administration are binding on federal court. Salyer v. Consolidation Coal Co., 246 F. 794, 159 C. C. A. 96, certiorari denied Consolidation Coal Co. v. Salyer, 38 S. Ct. 345, 246 U. S. 669, 62 L. Ed. 931.

Instruction, in action in federal court to recover Texas land, in accordance with the latest decision of Texas Supreme Court, that under ten-year statute claim of right required more than entry with intention to acquire adverse title, was erroneous; Texas Supreme Court, after submission, reannouncing original rule to contrary that naked trespasser might by ten years' adverse possession acquire title. Richardson v. Ball, 246 F. 824, 159 C. C. A. 126.

Decision of the highest state court, construing local limitation statutes as to actions for wrongful death, though contrary to previous decisions of inferior courts, is binding on the federal courts. Farley v. Carey Show Print Co., 249 F. 476, 161 C. C. A. 434.

Under the rule that federal courts follow the interpretation of state statutes adopted by the state's highest judicial tribunal, where no question of general or commercial law or the violation of the federal Constitution is involved, the federal court was bound to follow a decision of the Supreme Court of Oklahoma erroneously construing the statute of limitations (Rev. Laws Okl. 1910, § 4657, subd. 3, and section 4660). St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Quinette (C. C. A.) 251 F. 773.

The federal courts will, save in very exceptional cases, follow the construction placed upon the statutes of a state by the courts of last resort of the state. Emerson-Brantingham Implement Co. v. Lawson (D. C.) 237 F. 877.

The decisions of the highest court of a state on the question of the conformity of a statute to the state Constitution are final and conclusive, and a federal court is reluctant to declare the statute invalid on that ground before the question has been considered by the state tribunal. Bergman v. Kearney (D. C.) 241 F. 884.

Decisions by Louisiana Supreme Court, holding that similar laws were not invalid, under Const. La. art. 229, are binding on federal court in considering contention that Act La. No. 145 of 1916 was invalid, under same article. Union Sulphur Co. v. Reed (D. C.) 249 F. 172.

36. Decisions by other than supreme courts.—It is only the highest court of a state whose decisions, construing the state Constitution or statutes, are binding on the federal courts. Skaggs v. Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 827.

37. Dicta and decisions on questions not directly involved.—Where the Supreme Court of a state deliberately considered and construed a statute relating to notice to property owners of proposed changes in valuation, the federal courts will abide by the construction given, though it be questioned as dictum. Skagit County v. Puget Mill Co. (C. C. A.) 249 F. 965.

37½. Conflicting decisions.—In the absence of uniform recognized decisions by the state court governing the rights and conduct of persons regarding the matter under consideration, the federal court may regard with equal respect the decisions of courts of other states. Toby v. Scranton Ry. Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 365.

38. Questions involving licenses or taxation—In general.—Supreme Court accepts decision of state court respecting construction of statute, imposing tax, but must determine questions under federal Constitution upon its own judgment of the operation and effect of the tax. Crew Levick Co. v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 38 S. Ct. 126, 245 U. S. 292, 62 L. Ed. 295, reversing judgment Commonwealth v. Crew Levick Co., 100 A. 952, 256 Pa. 508.

The question whether the lien of a mortgage on personal property is paramount to the lien for the personal property tax is a question of state law, governed by the state decisions. Bear River Paper & Bag Co. v. City of Petoskey, 241 F. 53, 154 C. C. A. 53.

A decision by the highest court of a state, interpreting a revenue law, is binding on the federal courts. Polk County, Iowa, v. Burns, 247 F. 399, 159 C. C. A. 453, reversing judgment In re Hosmer (D. C.) 233 F. 318.

39. —— Assessments and levy of tax.—Federal courts will follow decision of highest state courts of Kentucky in construing Ky. St. §§ 4077–4081, relating to valuation of intangible property of interstate railroad. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Greene, 37 S. Ct. 683, 244 U. S. 522, 61 L. Ed. 1291, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 97, modifying decree Same v. Bosworth (D. C.) 230 F. 191; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Greene, 37 S. Ct. 697, 244 U. S. 555, 61 L. Ed. 1309, affirming decree Same v. Bosworth (D. C.) 209 F. 465.

Judgment of the highest court of the state as to what is a public use for which money may be raised by taxation under the Fourteenth Amendment is entitled to the highest respect. Jones v. City of Portland, 38 S. Ct. 112. 245 U. S. 217, 62 L. Ed. 252, L. R. A. 1918C, 765, Ann. Cas. 1918E, 660, affirming judgment 93 A. 41, 113 Me. 123.

Construction by state court of statute governing notice of proposed increase in valuation of board of equalization held binding on the federal court. Puget Mill Co. v. Skagit County (D. C.) 242 F. 333.

Holding of Ohio Supreme Court that tax imposed under Conservancy Act, § 43, is to be imposed with reference to benefits and burdens upon real estate, held binding on federal court. Orr v. Allen (D. C.) 245 F. 486.

41. —— Collection and payment.—The holding of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky that Ky. St. 1894, § 4131, as amended in 1906 (Acts 1906, c. 22, art. 8, § 3), authorizes the appointment of special collectors, each charged with the duty of collecting only a designated part of the assessed county taxes, must be accepted by the federal Supreme Court. Hendrickson v. Apperson, 38 S. Ct. 44, 245 U. S. 105, 62 L. Ed. 178, affirming judgment 238 F. 473, 151 C. C. A. 409; Same v. Creager, 38 S. Ct. 46, 245 U.

S. 115, 62 L. Ed. 185, affirming judgment Same v. Apperson, 238 F. 473, 151 C. C. A. 409.

A decision of the highest court of the state construing statutes authorizing distress for personal property taxes is conclusive on the federal courts. Bird v. City of Richmond, 240 F. 545, 153 C. C. A. 349.

Decision of highest state court concerning state statutes regarding tax penalties is conclusive on federal courts. Bright v. State of Arkansas (C. C. A.) 249 F. 953.

44. —— Licenses.—In determining constitutionality of state statutes enacted at different dates under which license taxes were assessed federal Supreme Court should follow decision of state court and construe them as being part of single scheme. International Paper Co. v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 38 S. Ct. 292, 246 U. S. 135, 62 L. Ed. 624, Ann. Cas. 1918C, 617, reversing judgment International Paper Co. v. Commonwealth, 117 N. E. 246, 228 Mass. 101.

The state court having construed an ordinance declaring it unlawful to engage in peddling any goods without a license to apply to an isolated transaction, a sale of two small articles at rest in the state before the sale, though defendant's business was otherwise interstate commerce, judgment of state court must be affirmed. Watters v. People of State of Michigan, 39 S. Ct. 29, 63 L. Ed. —.

In so far as ruling of state court, that the state is not concluded by assessor's entry as to whether tax was on property or privilege, turns on the authority of the state board and the assessor under the state statute, and the relative effect to be given their acts, it is not reviewable by the national court. Wells Fargo & Co. v. State of Nevada, 39 S. Ct. 62, 63 L. Ed. —.

45. Decisions affecting corporations, stockholders, and officers thereof—Charters and organizations.—Holding of state court that no written acceptance of state Constitution is necessary to entitle railroad company to rights under future legislation, pursuant to Const. Ala. 1901, § 246, held binding on a federal court. Bryan v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 244 F. 650, 157 C. C. A. 98, writ of error dismissed and certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 334, 246 U. S. 651, 664, 62 L. Ed. 921.

47. —— Stock and stockholders.—The federal Supreme Court, when determining rights under the laws of a state, should follow a ruling of the state court that subscribers to syndicate agreement for purchase of corporate stock and coal properties may rescind for fraud of the promoters, whom they created their agent by merely tendering the stock received. Sim v. Edenborn, 37 S. Ct. 36, 242 U. S. 131, 61 L. Ed. 199, reversing judgment Edenborn v. Sim, 206 F. 275, 124 C. C. A. 339; Alder v. Same, 37 S. Ct. 38, 242 U. S. 137, 61 L. Ed. 204, reversing judgment Edenborn v. Sim, 206 F. 275, 124 C. C. A. 339.

The liability of the stockholders of a Minnesota corporation for the difference between the par value of the stock and the amount they paid is a question of local law, on which the decisions of the courts of that state are controlling. Courtney v. Croxton, 239 F. 247, 152 C. C. A. 235.

Holding of state court that liability of stockholder under state Constitution and laws was discharged, where, after his transfer of his stock, indebtedness was extended, held to be followed by federal court in suit against another stockholder. Way v. Mortenson, 242 F. 903, 155 C. C. A. 491.

48. —— Rights, powers, and liabilities.—The Oklahoma Supreme Court's construction of Const. Okl. art. 23, § 9, is binding on the federal court in an action for the delay in delivering a telegram to which provision is applicable. Gardner v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 231 F. 405, 145 C. C. A. 399.

A decision of a state court construing a state statute, limiting the powers of local corporations, is binding on the federal court. West Penn Chemical & Mfg. Co. v. Prentice, 236 F. 891, 150 C. C. A. 153.

Decision of state court determining character of bonds issued by irrigation district under state statute is conclusive and binding on federal courts. Rialto Irr. Dist. v. Stowell (C. C. A.) 246 F. 294; Same v. Chellis (C. C. A.) 246 F. 308.

Decisions of South Carolina Supreme Court construing similar railway charters held binding on federal courts, being adjudications as to meaning of a state statute, so that lessee of South Carolina railroad company was not entitled to right of way 100 feet each side of its road, without showing that it entered and constructed road without any written contract. Southern Ry. Co. v. Board of Com'rs of Public Works of City of Union, S. C., 246 F. 383, 158 C. C. A. 447.

50. —— Insolvency and dissolution.—The federal court should adopt the rulings of the highest court of Illinois upon the authority of a court of equity to dissolve Illinois corporation. Tevander v. Ruysdael (C. C. A.) 253 F. 918.

52. Questions affecting counties, municipal corporations, townships, or districts—Municipal corporations.—Decision of highest court of state that certain ordinance challenged as repugnant to federal Constitution is within powers conferred by state Legislature on city is conclusive on federal Supreme Court. Thomas Cusack Co. v. City of Chicago, 37 S. Ct. 190, 242 U. S. 526, 61 L. Ed. 472, L. R. A. 1918A, 136, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 594, affirming decree

108 N. E. 340, 267 Ill. 344, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 488.

Where there had been no decision of highest state court upholding bonds issued by a city in excess of constitutional limitation, decisions of the state court construing such limitation are binding on a federal court, where the bondholder sought relief in that tribunal. Sidey v. City of Marceline, Mo., 237 F. 168, 150 C. C. A. 314.

Act Ohio April 5, 1893 (90 Ohio Laws, p. 100), creating board of park commissioners for cities of first grade, second class, and conferring on board corporate powers, should, in view of decision of Ohio Supreme Court that similar acts of April 6, 1900 (94 Ohio Laws, p. 517), and April 16, 1900 (94 Ohio Laws, p. 670), were invalid, be held in federal court unconstitutional, under Const. Ohio, art. 2, § 26, and article 13, § 1, requiring uniform operation of laws, etc. Nichols v. City of Cleveland, 247 F. 731, 159 C. C. A. 589, certiorari denied City of Cleveland v. Nichols, 38 S. Ct. 336, 246 U. S. 668, 62 L. Ed. 930.

Federal courts generally follow decisions of highest court of state as to character and limits of powers and liabilities of municipal and quasi municipal corporations of state. Vincennes Bridge Co. v. Board of County Com'rs of Atoka County, Okl., 248 F. 93, 160 C. C. A. 233.

Decision of state court, construing local municipal ordinance, must be followed by federal court. Lutz v. City of New Orleans (D. C.) 235 F. 978, order affirmed Lutze v. Same, 237 F. 1018, 150 C. C. A. 654.

54. —— Districts.—A basic contention of plaintiff appellant, seeking injunction against enforcement of state drainage statute, which assumes that the statute has a significance which Supreme Court of state has expressly decided it has not, also that Constitution of state forbids exertion of legislative power which same court has expressly held Legislature possesses, cannot be sustained. Orr v. Allen, 39 S. Ct. 23, 63 L. Ed. ——.

When brought in question in a federal court, the powers and duties of an Oklahoma county and a drainage district must be determined from the applicable Oklahoma statutes, as interpreted by the courts of that state. Board of Com'rs of Kay County, Okl., v. Pollard-Campbell Dredging Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 249.

Decision of the Supreme Court of Louisiana, holding valid Act No. 199 of 1916, relating to special road districts, etc., is binding on the federal courts. Lancaster v. Police Jury, Parish of Avoyelles, State of Louisiana (D. C.) 254 F. 179.

55. Construction of statutes relating to judgments.—In determining whether securing judgment on two of series of notes given for motors purchased under conditional sale made in Michigan passed title to buyer, the decisions of the Michigan Supreme Court will be followed. In re Sutton (D. C.) 244 F. 872.

56. Construction of statutes relating to attachment, injunction, and execution.—The remedy by attachment being statutory, the rights of an attaching creditor in a federal court are governed by the state law, as declared by the highest court of the state. Loewe v. Savings Bank of Danbury, 236 F. 444, 149 C. C. A. 496, modifying judgment Same v. Union Savings Bank of Danbury (D. C.) 226 F. 294, and judgment affirmed Savings Bank of Danbury v. Loewe, 37 S. Ct. 172, 242 U. S. 357, 61 L. Ed. 360.

Where state Supreme Court denied certiorari, applied for on claim that Comp. Laws Mich. 1915, § 13765, was unconstitutional, held, that a federal court could not consider the contention that the statute violated the state Constitution. Ex parte Merrill (D. C.) 245 F. 778.

57. Questions involving condemnation proceedings.—In action in federal court involving condemnation proceeding under Act Ohio April 5, 1893 (90 Ohio Laws, p. 100), decision of Ohio Supreme Court, declaring similar legislation invalid, rendered after commencement of proceeding, is controlling, resting on cases decided prior to act. Nichols v. City of Cleveland, 247 F. 731, 159 C. C. A. 589, certiorari denied City of Cleveland v. Nichols, 38 S. Ct. 336, 246 U. S. 668, 62 L. Ed. 930.

59. Construction and effect of contracts—In general.—As to contracts executed before the construction of a state statute by its court of last resort, the federal courts are not conclusively governed by the construction thereafter placed upon it by the state court. Kobey v. Hoffman, 229 F. 486, 143 C. C. A. 554.

Questions whether widow could maintain equitable action on antenuptial agreement, and whether abandonment of husband constituted failure of consideration, held questions of local law, and decision of state court of last resort, would not be reviewed. Schnepfe v. Schnepfe, 230 F. 781, 145 C. C. A. 91.

In construing a contract made within a state as affected by state laws, the state decisions will govern. Reichardt v. Hill, 236 F. 817, 150 C. C. A. 79.

The determination of whether, under a contract for the transportation of live stock and an attendant, the attendant is a passenger for hire, is a question on which the federal courts are not bound by state decisions. Tripp v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 238 F. 449, 151 C. C. A. 385.

The federal courts are as to questions of liens created either by chattel mortgage or pledge, controlled by decision of highest court of state where cases arise. In re P. J. Sullivan Co. (D. C.) 247 F. 139.

A chattel mortgage having been executed and performed within the state of Michigan, a bankruptcy court, in determining rights thereunder, will follow the decisions of the court of that state concerning the construction and effect of the instrument. In re Drag (D. C.) 254 F. 474.

61. —— Bonds and notes.—A rule established for years by the highest court of a state, affecting the rights of parties arising out of contracts for municipal improvements and sureties on statutory bonds given by the contractor, if fixed and definite, and uniform in application, should be followed by the federal courts. American Surety Co. of New York v. Bellingham Nat. Bank (C. C. A.) 254 F. 54.

62. —— Sales and transfers.—Respective rights of a seller of property by a contract of conditional sale and creditors of the buyer are to be determined in a federal court by the law of the state so far as applicable. General Electric Co. v. Richardson, 233 F. 84, 147 C. C. A. 154, affirming decree (D. C.) 228 F. 758.

In determining whether a sale has been consummated, the federal courts will follow the state rules. In re Ricketts, 234 F. 285, 148 C. C. A. 187.

In construing a contract for the furnishing of building materials to general contractors for a courthouse, decisions of the state courts, though not conclusive, will be persuasive. Northwestern Terra Cotta Co. v. Caldwell, 234 F. 491, 148 C. C. A. 257.

63. —— Insurance.—Where form of fire policy is prescribed by state statute, meaning of policy calls for construction of statute, so that decision of highest court of state will control. Grant Lumber Co. v. North River Ins. Co. of New York (D. C.) 253 F. 83.

71. Decisions relating to title, transfers, and liens on property—Conveyances or other transfers.—Deed conveying land in trust for S. for life, and at his death to convey to his appointees or heirs, held, following state court, to create executory trust, so that S. did not take fee. Highland Park Mfg. Co. v. Steele, 232 F. 10, 146 C. C. A. 202, affirming decree Steele v. Highland Park Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 212 F. 972, and decree modified on rehearing Highland Park Mfg. Co. v. Steele (C. C. A.) 235 F. 465.

Law of the state where land is situated held the question for determination, in determining whether construction and operation of deed is in doubt so as to require agreement with state court. Id.

72. —— Mortgages.—The federal Supreme Court is not disposed to disturb a judgment of the Supreme Court of the Philippine Islands, construing local laws and announcing a rule applicable in such Islands respecting the right of redemption from a mortgage. Gauzon v. Compania General De Tobacos de Filipinas, 38 S. Ct. 46, 245 U. S. 86, 62 L. Ed. 165.

73. —— Lease.—A Minnesota mining lease is governed by the law of that state, and in construing such lease the federal courts must follow the decisions of the state courts. Nelson v. Republic Iron & Steel Co., 240 F. 285, 153 C. C. A. 211.

The validity of an oil and gas lease, which the lessee could surrender at his option, is a local question, the decision of which by the court of the state in which the land is located is binding on the federal court. Lindlay v. Raydure (D. C.) 239 F. 928.

A decision of the state court that $1 is such an inadequate consideration for an option to purchase real estate as to invalidate the option does not require the holding that a similar consideration is not sufficient to support an oil and gas lease. Id.

Decisions of a state court, construing oil and gas leases, in so far as they announce the court's view on equitable principles, are persuasive, but not binding. Downey v. Gooch (D. C.) 240 F. 527.

In determining whether Oklahoma oil and gas lease, reserving to lessee right to surrender it at any time on payment of $1 to lessor, was valid contract, resort will be had to decisions of Oklahoma courts prior to lease, and, absent any decision holding such leases void, its validity will be determined by general law. Shaffer v. Marks (D. C.) 241 F. 139.

In cases involving construction of contracts affecting interests in real estate, even where, when the rights of the parties accrued, there was no settled law of decision in the state establishing a rule of property binding on federal courts, such courts should, unless strongly convinced of their error, follow the state decisions. Norfolk Bank for Savings & Trusts v. Whipple (D. C.) 254 F. 195.

74. —— Liens and priorities of claims.—In matters of lien, local law held controlling, if ascertainable with sufficient clearness; but otherwise federal courts will form their own judgment. In re Seward Dredging Co., 242 F. 225, 155 C. C. A. 65, certiorari denied Sands v. Estabrook, 38 S. Ct. 11, 245 U. S. 651, 62 L. Ed. 531.

77. —— Registration of instruments.—The construction of the South Carolina recording acts as not applying to the assignment of choses in action is binding on the federal courts. Ward v. American Agricultural Chemical Co., 232 F. 119, 146 C. C. A. 311, affirming decree In re Floyd & Hayes (D. C.) 225 F. 262.

78. Exemption laws.—Exemption of crop growing on homestead held under laws of United States held governed by laws of the state as construed by its highest court. Olmsted-Stevenson Co. v. Miller, 231 F. 69, 145 C. C. A. 257, affirming order In re Miller (D. C.) 221 F. 690.

Under Bankruptcy Act July 1, 1898, § 6 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9590), providing that exemptions allowed to bankrupts by the state laws shall not be affected, the bankruptcy court, in determining the nature and amount of the exemptions to which the bankrupts are entitled, will follow and adopt the laws of the state of the bankrupts' residence. In re Solomon & Johnson (D. C.) 254 F. 503.

The bankruptcy court is bound by construction of exemption by highest courts of state forbidding sale of reversionary interest. Watters v. Hedgpeth (N. C.) 90 S. E. 314.

80. Construction of wills and administration of estates.—Ruling of Supreme Court of Tennessee that purpose of Acts Tenn. 1903, c. 501, is to determine privileges in state courts of nonresidents appointed as administrators or executors, is conclusive on federal Supreme Court. Memphis St. Ry. Co. v. Moore, 37 S. Ct. 273, 243 U. S. 299, 61 L. Ed. 733, affirming judgment Same v. Bobo, 232 F. 708, 146 C. C. A. 634.

In construing a will affecting title to real estate in Kansas, the federal court is controlled by the construction placed on similar provisions by the Supreme Court of that state. Lucas v. McNeill, 231 F. 672, 145 C. C. A. 558.

In determining rights under a will, decisions of the courts of the state of the testator's residence, wherein the property was located, are controlling. Swann v. Austell (D. C.) 253 F. 807.

81. Liability for negligence and torts.—In absence of state statute, federal courts in determining liability of master for injuries to his servant are governed, not by state decisions, but by common law and decisions of federal tribunals. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Marone, 246 F. 916, 159 C. C. A. 188.

Decision by state court that violation of statute limiting operation of motor vehicles is negligence per se is binding on federal courts. Harmon v. Barber, 247 F. 1, 159 C. C. A. 219, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 335, 246 U. S. 666, 62 L. Ed. 929.

Construction by the Missouri Supreme Court that Rev. St. Mo. 1909, § 7828, requiring the guarding of machinery, abolishes the defense of assumption of risk by the employé, is conclusive on the federal courts. National Enameling & Stamping Co. v. Zirkovics (C. C. A.) 251 F. 184.

Where an alleged tort was committed upon navigable waters of the United States and also within a state, the applicable rules will be determined by the state laws, except where displaced by federal statutes and admiralty law. The Bart Tully (C. C. A.) 251 F. 856.

Whether under the Nebraska statutes the right of action for death from a defective county highway inures to personal representative, or the surviving spouse and next of kin, is peculiarly a question of local law upon which the decision of the highest state tribunal is controlling. Sarpy County v. Galvin (C. C. A.) 251 F. 888.

82. Decisions relating to public lands.—Where mining rights are granted in view of a local rule of the state, such rule will be followed by the federal courts in construing the grant, whether or not it is to be considered strictly as a rule of property. Marquette Cement Mining Co. v. Oglesby Coal Co. (D. C.) 253 F. 107.

83. Questions affecting officers, receivers, and attorneys.—Federal Supreme Court will accept ruling of highest state court under state statute that a proceeding authorized by 3 Lord's Or. Laws, tit. 43, c. 6 (Laws 1913, cc. 82, 86, 97), to determine irrigation rights, is, while before state board, administrative and not judicial. Pacific Live Stock Co. v. Lewis, 36 S. Ct. 637, 241 U. S. 440, 60 L. Ed. 1084, affirming decree (D. C.) 217 F. 95.

On writ of error to state court, Supreme Court must accept state court's definition of authority of state Public Service Commission under state law. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Towers, 38 S. Ct. 2, 245 U. S. 6, 62 L. Ed. 117, L. R. A. 1918C, 475, affirming decree 94 A. 330, 126 Md. 59, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 1144.

The decisions of the state court are binding as to the liability of sureties on a constable's bond executed under a local statute. Sclarenco v. Chicago Bonding Co. (D. C.) 236 F. 592.

On suit by statutory receiver of an Illinois insurance company, the federal court is bound by the decision of the Illinois Supreme Court as to the interpretation of the receiver's statutory powers. Hopkins v. Lancaster (D. C.) 254 F. 190.

84. Construction of criminal statutes.—The federal courts follow the interpretation of the criminal statutes of the state by the state court of last resort. Central Consumers' Co. of New Jersey v. Austin (D. C.) 238 F. 616.

88. Decisions establishing rules of property—Property in general.—Where at the time of the making of a contract, to be performed in the state where made, there is a settled rule of decision in that state as to the damages recoverable for its breach, such rule governs in an action for its breach in a federal court. Gilman v. Lamson Co., 234 F. 507, 148 C. C. A. 273.

In action, based on diversity of citizenship, against hospital chartered as a charitable corporation, federal court should follow state decisions as to liability of such hospitals; such decisions having become rule of property. Paterlini v. Memorial Hospital Ass'n of Monongahela City, Pa., 247 F. 639, 160 C. C. A. 49, affirming judgment Same v. Memorial Hospital Ass'n of Monongahela City (D. C.) 241 F. 429, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 334, 246 U. S. 665, 62 L. Ed. 929.

A state statute, limiting the time for presentation of claims against an estate is a rule of property, and as such binding on a federal court sitting in equity. Goodno v. Hotchkiss (D. C.) 237 F. 686.

89. —— Land titles and interests in real estate.—Illinois decisions that seller, upon buyer's refusal to accept, may vest the buyer with title and sue for the purchase price, held binding on federal court. Kawin & Co. v. American Colortype Co., 243 F. 317, 156 C. C. A. 97.

Decisions of a state court, construing oil and gas leases, in so far as they establish rules of property, are binding on the federal court. Downey v. Gooch (D. C.) 240 F. 527.

Federal courts, in determining estate and rights created by Oklahoma oil and gas lease, must accept and apply decisions of Supreme Court of that state, when contract was entered into, as rules of property. Shaffer v. Marks (D. C.) 241 F. 139.

A decision of the highest state court as to title to land is a binding precedent in subsequent litigation in federal court, in so far as principles of law upon which it was based have become rules of property in state, and application of such principles should be deemed prima facie correct, though not conclusive on parties. Rowe v. Kidd (D. C.) 249 F. 882.

90. Authority of inconsistent decisions—Conflicting decisions in state courts.—Where the decisions of a state Supreme Court construing state laws are conflicting, a federal court will attribute a declaration of law in a case to the facts therein, and deny its application to other cases involving different situations. Kardo Co. v. Adams, 231 F. 950, 146 C. C. A. 146, reversing decree American Ball Bearing Co. v. Same (D. C.) 222 F. 967.

Where state Supreme Court, after action was brought, but before trial, overruled prior decision construing statute, held, that the last construction would be followed. Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. U. S., 241 F. 614, 154 C. C. A. 372.

As to cause of action accruing prior to rendition of decision by state court overruling prior decisions, federal court held not bound by such decision. Dernberger v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 243 F. 21, 155 C. C. A. 551, affirming judgment (D. C.) 234 F. 405.

State decisions as to title by limitations being binding on the federal courts, a judgment of the federal District Court for Texas, following the then latest decision of the state court on the question of limitation title, should be reversed on writ of error, where pending the writ the state court altered its decision. Conn v. Drew (C. C. A.) 250 F. 852.

A state decision construing a mortgage clause assigning rents held controlling on the federal court, rather than a later state decision construing a clause not so similar. In re Israelson (D. C.) 230 F. 1000.

91. —— Conflicting decisions between federal courts and state courts.—As to questions depending on construction of state laws, decision of state court is controlling on writ of error to it; and this, even though a similar provision of a federal statute has been differently construed by the federal court. Detroit & M. Ry. Co. v. Fletcher Paper Co., 39 S. Ct. 13, 63 L. Ed. —.

93. Decisions of federal courts previous to decisions by state courts—In general.—In the absence of a well-established rule by the state court, the federal court is warranted in forming its independent judgment. Dernberger v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 243 F. 21, 155 C. C. A. 551, affirming judgment (D. C.) 234 F. 405.

94. —— Construction of constitutions or statutes.—Where, between a federal court's construction of a state statute controlled by the decision of the state Supreme Court, and the time when the federal court is again called upon to decide the question, or to enforce its decision therein, the state Supreme Court has reversed its former ruling, or decided at variance with the federal court, the latter court must conform to the latest state decision, as an exception to the rule of law of the case. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Quinette (C. C. A.) 251 F. 773.

98. Questions involving process, remedies, or procedure.—Whether state Constitution gave consent of state to be sued is a question of local state law, decision of which by state Supreme Court is controlling with federal courts; no federal right being involved. Palmer v. State of Ohio, 39 S. Ct. 16, 63 L. Ed. —.

Whether an action at law for breach of contract will lie in a federal court against one not a party, but who has assumed the contract, is to be determined by the state law. Gibson v. Victor Talking Mach. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 225.

99. Exception of decisions involving federal questions—Questions involving federal government.—Decisions of state courts in construing state statutes held not to govern in construing indictment in federal court. McClendon v. U. S., 229 F. 523, 143 C. C. A. 591.

100. —— Questions involving constitution or treaties.—Supreme Court accepts decision of state court respecting construction of statute, imposing tax, but must determine questions under federal Constitution upon its own judgment of the operation and effect of the tax. Crew Levick Co. v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 38 S. Ct. 126, 245 U. S. 292, 62 L. Ed. 295, reversing judgment Commonwealth v. Crew Levick Co., 100 A. 952, 256 Pa. 508.

Theory of state as to nature of tax on property employed in interstate commerce, while not conclusive on national courts, should not be rejected, unless it can be said to be ill founded. Cudahy Packing Co. v. State of Minnesota, 38 S. Ct. 373, 246 U. S. 450, 62 L. Ed. 827, affirming judgment State v. Cudahy Packing Co., 151 N. W. 410, 129 Minn. 30.

A decision of a state court affirming the constitutionality of a state statute is not conclusive on the federal courts, where the statute is attacked as in violation of the federal Constitution. Webb v. Southern Ry. Co., 248 F. 618, 160 C. C. A. 518, reversing judgment (D. C.) 235 F. 578, and certiorari denied Southern R. Co. v. Webb, 38 S. Ct. 582, 247 U. S. 518, 62 L. Ed. 1245.

The decisions of state courts as to the validity of state statutes are not binding upon the federal courts, so far as rights secured under the federal Constitution are concerned. Knapp v. Bullock Tractor Co. (D. C.) 242 F. 543.

Whatever views a state court may have expressed regarding the validity of a state statute under the federal Constitution, the courts of the United States must decide the question according to their own convictions. Orr v. Allen (D. C.) 245 F. 486.

A decision of the state court, construing the federal Constitution, is not binding on the national court sitting within such state. Bryan v. Barriger (D. C.) 251 F. 328.

102. —— Impairing obligation of municipal contracts.—The federal Supreme Court will not disturb a decision of the state court that a municipal ordinance requiring a street railway company to pave its tracks with asphalt did not impair the obligations of its charter, where the state court found that the use of crushed stone by the railway company would interfere with the pavement of the other parts of the street. Southern Wisconsin Ry. Co. v. City of Madison, 36 S. Ct. 400, 240 U. S. 457, 60 L. Ed. 739, affirming judgment City of Madison v. Southern Wisconsin Ry. Co., 146 N. W. 492, 156 Wis. 352.

Where the validity of municipal bonds depended upon the construction to be given Acts Tenn. 1897, c. 13, and Acts Tenn. 1901, c. 450, incorporating the municipality, and the contract had been entered into before an interpretation of the statutes by the Tennessee court, the federal courts are not bound by a decision of the Tennessee court holding the bond issue invalid, and, having obtained jurisdiction of a suit involving the validity of some of the bonds, they may exercise an independent judgment. Town of Newbern v. National Bank of Barnesville, Ohio (C. C. A.) 234 F. 209.

103. —— Questions involving federal laws.—See Moore v. Douglas (C. C. A.) 230 F. 399.

Congress having occupied the field with respect to interstate telegrams by Act Cong. June 18, 1910, amending the Interstate Commerce Act of 1887, state regulations and decisions no longer govern as to the validity of contractual limitations of liability. Poor v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Mo. App.) 196 S. W. 28; Meadows v. Postal Telegraph & Cable Co. (N. C.) 91 S. E. 1009; Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Schade, 192 S. W. 924, 137 Tenn. 214. Contra, Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Piper (Tex. Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 817.

A ruling of a state court that the "next of kin" under Act April 22, 1908, as amended by Act April 5, 1910, are the legitimate children of the same mother, who is dead, negatives any right to trace the parentage to the father. Seaboard Air Line Ry. v. Kenney, 36 S. Ct. 458, 240 U. S. 489, 60 L. Ed. 762, affirming judgment Kenney v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 82 S. E. 968, 167 N. C. 14.

A state decision, which in generally construing limitation acts denied their benefit to a foreign corporation, must be followed by the federal courts, though it also adjudicated that a foreign corporation was not entitled to the benefit of limitation acts unless it became a resident and waived its right to remove actions to the federal courts. Quinette v. Pullman Co., 233 F. 980, 147 C. C. A. 654, denying rehearing 229 F. 333, 143 C. C. A. 453.

The liability of a railroad company, subject to the Interstate Commerce Act, on a contract with an interstate shipper, is not governed by state law, but is a federal question, governed by uniform rule. United Metals Selling Co. v. Pryor, 243 F. 91, 155 C. C. A. 621, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 61, 245 U. S. 662, 62 L. Ed. 536.

As precedents, judgments, one by a federal District Court, and the other by a state Supreme Court, that defendant had no exclusive right to use the word "Tabasco" in connection with pepper sauce, are not controlling in the federal Circuit Court of Appeals. McIlhenny Co. v. Gaidry (C. C. A.) 253 F. 613.

Where rights as to mining claims had become vested by patents issued before state court decisions as to validity of locations, federal court would exercise independent judgment as to effect of defective verification of declaratory statements on validity of locations. Clark-Montana Realty Co. v. Butte & Superior Copper Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 547.

Congress having undertaken by the Anti-Trust Acts to deal with monopolies affecting interstate commerce, and having conferred jurisdiction of questions arising thereunder on the federal courts, in determining such questions those courts exercise an independent judgment, unaffected by the decisions of the state courts. Skaggs v. Kansas City Terminal Ry. Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 827.

When a cause is removed from a state to a federal court, the latter tribunal will determine for itself whether jurisdiction has been validly acquired, in such respect not being bound by state statutes and decisions. Hudson Nav. Co. v. Murray (D. C.) 236 F. 419.

A decision of the state court, construing its statute fixing the time in which a defendant shall answer or plead in the state court, must be followed by the United States court in determining whether the petition for removal was filed in time. Waverly Stone & Gravel Co. v. Waterloo, C. F. & N. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 239 F. 561.

A federal court is not bound by the construction of statutes of a state by its highest court, where the inquiry is whether they as enforced effect results contrary to inhibition of federal statutes. Iowa Loan & Trust Co. v. Fairweather (D. C.) 252 F. 605.

The bankruptcy court, in allowing exemptions under the state laws, must be governed by the construction and interpretation of the highest court of the state. In re Libby (D. C.) 253 F. 278.

The holdings of state courts that injuries received before voyage began do not fall under the term "transportation" or the contract of shipment are not controlling in case of an interstate shipment, in view of provision including such injuries in term "transportation" in Interstate Commerce Act, § 1. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Whaley (Tex. Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 833.

A judgment of the Supreme Court of Texas that Act Cong. June 18, 1910, c. 309, does not supersede the state law as to the liability of a telegraph company for negligence in delivery of an interstate message is controlling authority upon the Court of Civil Appeals until the contrary is held by the Supreme Court of the United States. Postal Telegraph-Cable Co. v. Prewitt (Tex. Civ. App.) 199 S. W. 316.

III. AUTHORITY OF STATE LAWS ON PARTICULAR SUBJECTS

104. Enforcement of rights under state statutes.—The United States courts will follow and apply a state statute determining the status of an insurance agent. Maryland Casualty Co. v. Eddy, 239 F. 477, 152 C. C. A. 355.

Rights created by the statutes of the state, to be pursued in the state courts, may be enforced and administered in the national courts, either at law, in equity, or in admiralty, as the nature of the rights or remedies may require. Landon v. Public Utilities Commission of Kansas (D. C.) 234 F. 152.

Defendant, buyer, would not, four months after institution of suit by plaintiff, seller, for rescission for nonpayment of purchase price, have right to make payment of note given for purchase price and demand surrender of stock sold, but held by plaintiff as collateral, in view of Civ. Code Louisiana, art. 2564, as to dissolution taking place "of right"; that is, as a matter of course. Atkins v. Garrett (D. C.) 252 F. 280.

105. —— Right to maintain or defend suit or action.—Married woman's guaranty of husband's debts, being unenforceable in Texas state court, held unenforceable in federal District Court sitting in Texas. Union Trust Co. v. Grosman, 38 S. Ct. 147, 245 U. S. 412, 62 L. Ed. 368, affirming decree Grosman v. Union Trust Co., 228 F. 610, 143 C. C. A. 132, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 613.

If a state gives parties the right to bring an action or suit to annul will or set aside probate, the federal courts can enforce the same remedy; but this relates only to independent suits, and not to procedure incidental or ancillary to the probate. Sutton v. English, 38 S. Ct. 254, 246 U. S. 199, 62 L. Ed. 664.

106. —— Equitable rights and defenses.—See Williams v. Provident Life & Trust Co. of Philadelphia, 242 F. 417, 155 C. C. A. 193.

Jurisdiction to appoint a receiver, contrary to the general principles of equity jurisprudence, cannot be conferred upon a federal court of equity by a state statute authorizing such appointment by courts of the state. Davis v. Hayden, 238 F. 734, 151 C. C. A. 584.

The remedies in equity afforded by state statutes may, with proper parties and averments, be made available in the equity courts of the United States. Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 232 F. 921.

107. —— Rights of citizens of other states.—Where the state law authorized administration by next of kin, or, in their absence, by creditors (Park's Ann. Civ. Code Ga. § 3943), and persons not related to or creditors of deceased obtained administration, equity would interpose to protect the endangered rights of citizens of another state. Jennings v. Smith (D. C.) 232 F. 921.

113. —— Rights under mortgages.—A federal court in mortgage foreclosure suit held without power to decree sale without right of redemption of mining apparatus, which under Civ. Code S. D. § 189, is realty. Hardin v. Graham (S. D.) 159 N. W. 895.

114. —— Right to liens.—As federal Employers' Liability Act authorizes actions in state courts and makes state practice applicable, Gen. St. Minn. 1913, § 4955, giving attorneys lien on cause of action of their clients, is properly applied to action brought in courts of that state under federal act where defendant settled claim with the client. Dickinson v. Stiles, 38 S. Ct. 415, 246 U. S. 631, 62 L. Ed. 908, affirming judgment Holloway v. Dickinson, 163 N. W. 791, 137 Minn. 410.

118. —— Assessment and collection of taxes.—A state statute, providing that the amount of any tax paid erroneously shall be refunded, entitles a taxpayer to maintain an action therefor in the federal courts, if the elements of federal jurisdiction, such as diverse citizenship, be present. Smith v. Douglas County, Neb., 242 F. 894, 155 C. C. A. 482.

120. Commercial or other general law.—On questions of general commercial law, decisions of state courts are not controlling in federal courts, but rules enunciated by various national courts should be applied. Colorado Yule Marble Co. v. Collins, 230 F. 78, 144 C. C. A. 376; In re Jarmulowsky, 249 F. 319, 161 C. C. A. 327, affirming orders In re H. & L. Jarmulowsky (D. C.) 243 F. 632; Aktieselskabet Korn-og Foderstof Kompagniet v. Rederiaktiebolaget Atlanten (C. C. A.) 250 F. 935.

Federal courts sitting in the state should defer to decisions of the state courts applying principles of law to local conditions. Old Colony Trust Co. v. City of Tacoma, 230 F. 389, 144 C. C. A. 531, affirming decree (D. C.) 219 F. 775.

A federal court is not bound by a decision of the highest court of a state upon a question of general law, which was not rendered until after the commencement of the suit in which it is invoked. Hart v. Adair, 244 F. 897, 157 C. C. A. 247.

While the decisions of a state court upon a general legal proposition not covered by statute are not binding upon the federal courts, they are naturally given considerable weight by such courts. Paterlini v. Memorial Hospital Ass'n of Monongahela City, Pa. (D. C.) 229 F. 838, judgment reversed (C. C. A.) 232 F. 359, 146 C. C. A. 407.

While recognizing importance of harmony in judicial decisions, federal courts on questions of law are not bound by decisions of state courts, though leaning to agreement with such courts if question is doubtful. U. S. v. Brewer-Elliott Oil & Gas Co. (D. C.) 249 F. 609.

123. —— Liability for torts.—Whether an action for death arising under the statute of one state may be maintained in a federal court sitting in another state is a question of general jurisprudence, upon which the state decisions are not conclusive. Lauria v. E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 687.

125. —— Liability of master for torts of servant.—In federal courts telegraph company is not liable for willfulness of servant in failing to deliver telegram, unless it had knowledge before event or afterwards ratified act. Berg v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (S. C.) 96 S. E. 248.

126. —— Contracts in general.—Even though price of goods refused by buyer is recoverable in Illinois merely as damages, held, that federal courts will lean toward an agreement with the state court. Kawin & Co. v. American Colortype Co., 243 F. 317, 156 C. C. A. 97.

It is the rule in the federal courts that, unless debtor agrees to accept partial assignment of debt due him, he is not bound thereby. Sheatz v. Markley, 249 F. 315, 161 C. C. A. 323, certiorari denied Kirby-Smith v. Sheatz, 38 S. Ct. 581, 247 U. S. 518, 62 L. Ed. 1245.

Federal law does not recognize mental anguish as an element of damage in actions against telegraph companies for failure to deliver messages. Berg v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (S. C.) 96 S. E. 248.

129. —— Negotiable instruments.—Upon questions of general law decisions of the state courts are not binding on the federal courts sitting within their borders; therefore a decision of the state court that a municipality was not estopped from denying the validity of its bonds, which had passed into the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value without notice, is not binding on the federal courts. Town of Newbern v. National Bank of Barnesville, Ohio (C. C. A.) 234 F. 209.

135. Laws relating to procedure in general.—See General Film Co. v. Sampliner (C. C. A.) 232 F. 95; U. S. v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 951; Devost v. Twin State Gas & Electric Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 349.

136. Limitation of actions.—Where there was only one debt due from insolvent, his direction to put to his credit note delivered to creditor must be construed as payment on debt, and to have revived same, although barred by limitations. In re Salmon, 249 F. 300, 161 C. C. A. 308, reversing order (D. C.) 239 F. 413.

Limitation of actions in federal courts held governed by state law as construed by its highest court, though legislation or judicial construction differs from that prevailing elsewhere. City of Memphis, Tenn., v. Board of Directors of St. Francis Levee Dist. (D. C.) 231 F. 217.

Federal courts, in enforcing claims against estates of decedents and executors and administrators, are bound by the same statutes and rules that govern the local tribunals, including the statute limiting the time for filing claims. Goodno v. Hotchkiss (D. C.) 237 F. 686.

137. —— Enforcement of particular limitation laws.—The conversion of a suit in equity into an action at law, or vice versa, is not alone sufficient to constitute the beginning of a new action within the limitation statutes. Friederichsen v. Renard, 38 S. Ct. 450, 247 U. S. 207, 62 L. Ed. 1075, reversing judgment 231 F. 882, 146 C. C. A. 78.

Where a bill to cancel for fraud a contract for the exchange of lands and a deed, was transferred to the law side of the court under equity rule 22 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2502) because plaintiff had put it out of his power to restore defendants to their former position, an amended petition, filed by order of court, setting up same transaction and fraud, cannot be regarded as stating a new cause of action, but must be considered continuation of original suit. Id.

Ky. St. 1909, § 2545, extending the period of limitation where a first action is dismissed for want of jurisdiction, held to apply where the first action was brought in a federal court in Kentucky. Merko v. Sturm & Dillard Co., 233 F. 68, 147 C. C. A. 138.

Limitation held not to begin to run, under Kirby's Dig. Ark. § 81, against an action to recover property which an administratrix held in trust for the heirs, until she repudiated the trust. Bumpass v. McGehee, 247 F. 306, 159 C. C. A. 400.

Under Code Civ. Proc. Cal. §§ 352, 370, held that, where woman's husband joined her in action for damages for malicious prosecution, she could not, having been nonsuited, begin new action, in which husband joined, after expiration of period of limitations, on ground that her coverture tolled running of statute. Lee v. Levison, 247 F. 478, 159 C. C. A. 532.

Under Code Civ. Proc. Cal. § 355, plaintiff in California state court, who suffered nonsuit, which was affirmed on appeal, cannot within one year after affirmance commence new action; period of limitations having elapsed. Id.

Letter of a corporation held to contain a sufficient acknowledgment of an antecedent debt to raise the bar of the statute of limitations of New Jersey (3 Comp. St. N. J. 1910, p. 3167, § 10). Stokes v. Williams, 249 F. 114, 161 C. C. A. 166.

Balances due upon unpaid capital stock of a corporation do not become payable, so as to start the running of limitation, until there has been a call or assessment. In re Phœnix Hardware Co., 249 F. 410, 161 C. C. A. 384.

In view of Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 820, held, that New York trust company doing banking business, on being sued for deposit by foreign government, might interplead private individual, who had previously instituted action seeking to impose trust on such funds. Kingdom of Roumania v. Guaranty Trust Co. of New York (D. C.) 244 F. 195.

138. Actions to which state limitation laws apply.—Action by carrier to recover full charges authorized, brought in federal court under commerce statute, is governed by local state statutes of limitation. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Zemurray, 238 F. 789, 151 C. C. A. 639; Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Ziebarth, 245 F. 334, 157 C. C. A. 526; Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co. v. Malsby Co. (Ga. App.) 96 S. E. 710; Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Virginia Mfg. Co. (Va.) 89 S. E. 103.

For the sake of uniformity, federal courts will accept state statutes of limitation whenever by so doing they are not required to abrogate their own principles. Pond Creek Coal Co. v. Hatfield, 239 F. 622, 152 C. C. A. 456.

An action by a connecting carrier for unpaid freight claimed to be due on an interstate shipment held based on the bill of lading, so that, where brought in the federal District Court for California, Code Civ. Proc. Cal. § 337, prescribing a period of four years, is applicable, instead of sections 338, 339. New York Cent. R. Co. v. Mutual Orange Distributors (C. C. A.) 251 F. 230.

The provision of the Employers' Liability Act U. S. § 6 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 8662), that actions must be commenced within two years from the date of accrual, is not a mere limitation, but affects the remedy, and the provisions of Revisal N. C. 1905, § 370, allowing a new action to be brought within 12 months after nonsuit, has no application to such act. Belch v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. (N. C.) 96 S. E. 640.

140. —— Conflict of limitation laws.—Although, ever since the federal Judiciary Act of 1789 (Rev. St. U. S. § 721 [U. S. Comp. St. 1916, § 1538]), the state statute has been the general rule of limitations as to common-law actions in the federal courts, yet no such rule can obtain where a later federal statute governing the matter expressly provides otherwise. Belch v.

Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. (N. C.) 96 S. E. 640.

141. Laws of evidence.—See New Orleans & N. E. R. Co. v. Harris, 38 S. Ct. 535, 247 U. S. 367, 62 L. Ed. 1167.

Tax Law N. Y. § 258, providing that mortgage subject to tax shall not be received in evidence, held not applicable in the federal courts. Marsh v. Leseman, 242 F. 484, 155 C. C. A. 260.

Code Miss. 1906, § 1985, as amended by Laws Miss. 1912, c. 215, the so-called prima facie statute does not apply to a suit under the federal Employers' Liability Act, in which case burden is on plaintiff to prove negligence, being a matter of substance not subject to control by law of states. New Orleans & N. E. R. Co. v. Hanna (Miss.) 78 So. 953.

141½. Evidence in criminal prosecutions.—On criminal trial, witness convicted of forgery, held competent, though incompetent under state law when Judiciary Act of 1789, superseded by this section, was passed. Rosen v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 148, 245 U. S. 467, 62 L. Ed. 406, affirming judgments 237 F. 810, 151 C. C. A. 52, and Pakas v. U. S., 240 F. 350, 153 C. C. A. 276.

Conviction of an infamous crime does not render the person incompetent to testify in the federal court, though making him incompetent to testify in state court. Brown v. U. S., 233 F. 353, 147 C. C. A. 289; Rosen v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 237 F. 810; Pakas v. U. S., 240 F. 350, 153 C. C. A. 276; Reed v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 21; Safford v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 471; Manuel v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 272.

Communications made in good faith to an attorney at law for the purpose of obtaining advice or assistance are privileged, though no fee is paid. Lew Moy v. U. S., 237 F. 50, 150 C. C. A. 252.

The competency of a witness to testify against codefendants of her husband after he had pleaded guilty depends, in the absence of state or federal statute, on the common law of the state at the time of the first judiciary act. Knoell v. U. S., 239 F. 16, 152 C. C. A. 66, affirming judgment U. S. v. Knoell (D. C.) 230 F. 509.

Under Laws Wash. 1854, p. 186, §§ 289–293, now Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. §§ 5990–5993, and Const. Wash. art. 1, § 11, held, that one offered as witness in federal District Court for Washington, cannot, under this section, be rejected as incompetent because of want of belief in Supreme Being; no such rule as to competency having prevailed in Washington when federal court was established. Louie Ding v. U. S., 247 F. 12, 159 C. C. A. 230; overruling U. S. v. Miller (D. C.) 236 F. 798.

As Judiciary Act of 1789 adopted state laws in force at time states were admitted, held that, under Const. Fla. 1839, art. 17, § 1, and Act March 15, 1843 (Laws Fla. 1843, No. 37), in force at time of admission, one offered as witness, who was convicted of felony in District Court for Arkansas is competent to testify in District Court sitting for Florida. McCoy v. U. S., 247 F. 861, 160 C. C. A. 83.

§ 1539. (R. S. § 915.) Attachments, etc., in common-law causes as provided by laws of State.

1. Operation and effect in general.—The remedy by attachment being statutory, the rights of an attacking creditor in a federal court are governed by the state law, as declared by the highest court of the state. Loewe v. Savings Bank of Danbury, 236 F. 444, 149 C. C. A. 496, modifying judgment Same v. Union Savings Bank of Danbury (D. C.) 226 F. 294, and judgment affirmed Savings Bank of Danbury v. Loewe, 37 S. Ct. 172, 242 U. S. 357, 61 L. Ed. 360.

4. Attachments as original process for commencing suits.—Where there was personal service on defendant, though its property was attached, action is personal one; attachment being for purposes of security only. Rederiaktiebolaget Amie v. Universal Transp. Co., 245 F. 282, 157 C. C. A. 474.

Under this section jurisdiction cannot be acquired in action begun in federal court by issue and levy of attachment, but personal service on defendant is indispensable; issue and levy of attachment being permitted only in action begun in federal court in which personal service has been or can be made. Cleveland & Western Coal Co. v. J. H. Hillman & Sons Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 200.

28. Service and return of process.—Where valid personal judgment has been obtained on domiciliary service, though empowered through garnishment proceedings, after debtor had become a nonresident, to inquire as to validity of her claim against life insurance company, court could not, without further personal service, bind her by a judgment requiring payment of the fund in court over to insured. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Dunlevy, 36 S. Ct. 613, 241 U. S. 518, 60 L. Ed. 1140, affirming judgment 214 F. 1, 130 C. C. A. 473.

30. State attachment and garnishment statutes construed—Actions in which attachment will lie.—See W. D. Reeves Lumber Co. v. Leavenworth, 248 F. 686, 160 C. C. A. 586.

32. —— Property subject to attachment.—See In re Fuetl (D. C.) 247 F. 829.

39. —— Levy—Requisites, validity, and manner of making.—See Ellis v. Reed, 238 F. 341, 151 C. C. A. 357.

Cited without definite application, Golden, Belknap & Swartz v. Connersville Wheel Co. (D. C.) 252 F. 904.

§ 1540. (R. S. § 916.) Executions, etc., in common-law causes as provided by laws of State.

2. Construction and operation in general.—Under conformity statute (Rev. St. §§ 913, 914, 916, 917 [Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1536, 1537, 1540, 1543]), the state practice is adopted only as to common-law actions. Brown v. Fletcher (D. C.) 239 F. 360.

12. Adoption by courts of state statutes.—Under Code Civ. Proc. N. Y. § 2446, and this section, and a rule of the United States District Court, held, that bank account could not be seized on execution under a judgment imposing a fine. Berkman v. New York Produce Exch. Bank (Mun. Ct.) 167 N. Y. S. 441, 101 Misc. Rep. 282.

20. Enforcement of judgments in general.—An execution on a judgment against a county or other public corporation may not be lawfully issued and levied on the funds or property acquired by it in its governmental capacity, unless expressly authorized by statute. Clearwater County v. Pfeffer, 236 F. 183, 149 C. C. A. 373.

Under this section and the statutes of Minnesota, a federal court is without authority to issue and levy an execution for the immediate enforcement of a judgment rendered against a county. Id.

23. —— Supplementary proceedings.—Under Rev. St. §§ 913, 914, 916, 917 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1536, 1537, 1540, 1543), and new equity rule 8 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2498), a trustee against whom a decree was rendered in his representative capacity may be examined in supplementary proceedings. Brown v. Fletcher (D. C.) 239 F. 360.

24. —— Action at law.—To authorize recovery on a judgment, there should be some evidence, either by the recitals of the judgment or otherwise, that the court had acquired jurisdiction over the defendant or to raise a presumption of jurisdiction. Denny v. Giles (C. C. A.) 250 F. 987.

30. Local laws construed and applied.—Under Rev. Laws Mass. c. 189, § 1, providing that "any person or corporation may be summoned as trustee of the defendant," one of a number of defendants jointly sued in tort may also be summoned as trustee of any or all of the others. Susquehanna Coal Co. v. Pratt & Young (D. C.) 251 F. 665.

Cited without definite application, Golden, Belknap & Swartz v. Connersville Wheel Co. (D. C.) 252 F. 904.

§ 1541. (Act June 1, 1874, c. 200.) Rights and remedies of occupying claimants of land as given by statutes of State.

Claimant entitled to benefit of statute.—This section has no application to homestead entries. Patterson v. Chaney, 173 P. 859, 24 N. M. 156.

§ 1543. (R. S. § 917.) Power of the Supreme Court to regulate the practice of district courts.

10. Equity practice.—Under Rev. St. §§ 862, 863, 917 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1470, 1472, 1543), and equity rules 47, 56 (Comp. St. 1916, pp. 2517, 2520), plaintiff could not, after expiration of time for taking depositions prescribed by rules, take deposition on notice to defendant without order of court. Block v. Arrowsmith Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 775.

10½. Supplementary proceedings.—Under Rev. St. §§ 913, 914, 916, 917 (Comp. St. 1913, §§ 1536, 1537, 1540, 1543), and new equity rule No. 8 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2498), a trustee against whom a decree was rendered in his representative capacity may be examined in supplementary proceedings. Brown v. Fletcher (D. C.) 239 F. 360.

Cited without definite application, Rosasco v. Thompson (D. C.) 242 F. 527; Central Ry. Signal Co. v. Jackson (D. C.) 254 F. 103.

§ 1544. (R. S. § 918.) Practice in the several courts to be regulated by their own rules.

2. Power to establish rules.—See Central Ry. Signal Co. v. Jackson (D. C.) 254 F. 103.

Under this section a Circuit Court had power to require the clerk of such court to supervise the printing of the record in suits in equity and on demurrers and orders to show cause. U. S. v. Oliphant (C. C. A.) 230 F. 1.

5. Effect of rules.—Rev. St. § 839 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1404), provides that no clerk of a District or Circuit Court shall be allowed to retain of the fees or emoluments of his office for his personal compensation a sum exceeding $3,500 a year. Section 833 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1394) requires every such clerk semi-annually to make to the Attorney General a written return of all fees and emoluments of his office, and Act June 28, 1902 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1398), similarly provides, and further provides that "emoluments" shall be understood as including all amounts received in connection with certain matters and all other amounts received for "services in any way connected with the clerk's office." Section 918 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1544) authorizes Circuit and District Courts to make rules and orders to govern their procedure, and otherwise regulate their practice. Thereunder a Circuit Court adopted a rule requiring the record in suits in equity and on demurrers and rules to show cause to be printed under the supervision of the clerk, upon payment by the parties of the estimated cost, and providing that the costs for printing should be taxed against the losing party. Held that, where the clerk charged litigants for printing an amount in excess of the amount paid by him for the printing, the amount so received by him was for services connected in a way with the clerk's office, and should have been reported and paid to the government, as the rule had the force of law and demanded of the clerk a service in connection with that part of the court's business peculiarly related to his office. U. S. v. Oliphant (C. C. A.) 230 F. 1.

8. Modification, suspension, or abrogation of rules.—The rule of court fixing the fees in case of reference to the referee as a special master cannot be changed nunc pro tunc, after reference, so as to allow him greater fees. In re Growe Const. Co. (D. C.) 253 F. 981.

8½. Admiralty practice.—Under admiralty rule 38 of the Southern district of New York, libelant, who did not obtain leave of court before filing interrogatories for answer by respondent, is not entitled to aid of court on account of respondent's failure to answer, notwithstanding ordinary practice in district of filing interrogatories without leave. The Fred E. Richards (D. C.) 248 F. 956.

9½. Bankruptcy proceedings.—See In re Greenbaum (D. C.) 243 F. 965, citing rule 29, district of Michigan; Wing v. McCallum (D. C.) 244 F. 197, citing rule 110, District Court, S. D. Florida.

Under bankruptcy rule 15 of Southern district of New York, an order may be reviewed on petition filed more than 10 days after rendition, where time was actually extended by referee, although not embodied in his return. In re Grant, 238 F. 132, 151 C. C. A. 208.

Under rule of District Court and General Order in Bankruptcy No. 27 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 11390), held that, two years after a referee had entered an order practically denying petitioner's claim, it was too late to have review, and a subsequent referee was without jurisdiction to allow the claim. International Agr. Corporation v. Cary, 240 F. 101, 153 C. C. A. 137.

District Court cannot, in action by trustee in bankruptcy to recover property on ground that it was delivered as a preference, review under rule of court, findings of fact by referee, where parties stipulated for that mode of trial. Grant v. National Bank of Auburn (D. C.) 232 F. 201.

Creditor cannot oppose discharge and at same time sue on his claim in state courts, on ground that it is not provable in bankruptcy and not dischargeable. The proper practice, under District Court rule 15, in such case, is for bankrupt to request referee to certify matter up to District Court, and not to apply in District Court for stay in first instance. In re Menzin (D. C.) 233 F. 333.

10. Briefs and transcripts.—Under a rule of a Circuit Court requiring the records in equity cases and on demurrers and rules to show cause to be printed under the clerk's supervision, the clerk made a practice of procuring and retaining extra copies of the record as so printed and using one of them for the transcript of the record returned to the Circuit Court of Appeals, and claimed the right to retain the fees received from litigants for making such transcripts, on the theory that he owned the copies of the record used and could sell them and keep the proceeds. Held, in view of sections 1383, 1394, 1404, 1414, that it was his duty to demand and collect fees at the rate prescribed by statute, and to report and pay such fees to the government. U. S. v. Oliphant (C. C. A.) 230 F. 1.

11. Costs and fees.—See In re Wester (C. C. A.) 242 F. 465; In re Weissbord (D. C.) 241 F. 516.

Where the parties to a reclamation proceeding, by consent referred to the referee as a special master, orally agreed that the successful party should pay the master's fee, etc., held, as the matter was not one devolving on the referee by virtue of his office, that he could collect only the compensation provided for by the court rules; there being no stipulation as therein provided for increased compensation. In re Growe Const. Co. (D. C.) 253 F. 981.

15½ Exceptions.—See Graboyes v. U. S., 250 F. 793, 163 C. C. A. 125.

Comp. St. Ann. 1916, § 1537, does not make Act Pa. May 11, 1911 (P. L. 279), applicable in the federal courts, notwithstanding rule 10, § 2, of District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, and rule 10, § 1, of Circuit Court of Appeals, Third Circuit (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1289), forbidding general exceptions to the charge. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. Marland, 239 F. 1, 152 C. C. A. 51.

Under rule 10, § 2, of Rules of District Court of United States for Eastern District of Pennsylvania, and rule 10, § 1, of Rules of United States Circuit Court of Appeals for Third Circuit (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1289), mere general exception to whole charge will not support specifications of error with reference to specific instructions given and omitted. Letterman v. U. S., 246 F. 940, 159 C. C. A. 212.

17. Judgments by default or pro confesso.—Default judgment rendered by District Court for Eastern District of Tennessee against defendant, upon whom substituted service was made in North Carolina, held binding upon such defendant. Babcock Lumber & Land Co. v. Ferguson (D. C.) 243 F. 623.

20. New trial.—A breach of a court rule requiring motions for new trial to be made four days after entry of verdict is a mere error of procedure not affecting jurisdiction. Abbott v. Brown, 36 S. Ct. 689, 241 U. S. 606, 60 L. Ed. 1199.

22. Pleadings, verification of.—In assumpsit on a contract, plaintiff, while filing its affidavit of claim, served no copy on defendant, so as to attempt to lay the foundation for a judgment for want of an affidavit of defense. Under a rule on defendants to plead and to furnish a bill of particulars of the defense, defendants filed a plea of non assumpsit and one of set-off, and also denied the several averments of the complaint. Plaintiff made the guardian of the principal defendant a party defendant. The rules of the district court provide for verification of plaintiff's statement in assumpsit, and that no evidence shall be admitted save as set forth in defendant's affidavit in traverse of the statement of claim. Held that, as defendant's counterclaim for moneys paid under the contract asserted the defendant's incapacity, there was a substantial compliance with the rules, entitling defendants to assert the defense of want of capacity. Arkansas Grand Prairie Oil & Gas Co. v. Davidson (C. C. A.) 233 F. 641.

27. Proceedings in vacation.—A term of federal District Court, Southern District of Florida, which under Judicial Code, §§ 9–11, and 76, must always be open as a court of admiralty and equity, was not brought to an end, so far as criminal business was concerned, so as to prevent granting of new trial, by adjournment in accordance with court rule requiring, pending temporary absence of the judge, the clerk be present for transaction of business under orders of the judge. Abbott v. Brown, 36 S. Ct. 689, 241 U. S. 606, 60 L. Ed. 1199.

28. Jury.—It is within the powers of a District Court to make and enforce a rule prohibiting the disclosure of names of jurymen drawn for a term to any party prior to two days before the beginning of the term, and such rule may be enforced in criminal cases, where the offense is less than capital. Hendrickson v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 249 F. 34.

§ 1545. (R. S. § 919.) Suits for duties, imposts, taxes, penalties, or forfeitures.

Form of action.—It is the general rule, applicable, not only to customs duties, but to internal revenue taxes, that a common-law action of debt lies in favor of the government whenever, by accident, mistake, or fraud, the government has not received full payment of duties and excise taxes. U. S. v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry., 249 F. 678, 161 C. C. A. 588.

In action to recover revenue taxes, such as excise tax on corporations, rule which denies use of any but statutory remedy has no application to general government, unless clearly and specifically so declared. Id.

Whether or not an action is for a penalty or forfeiture depends on the character of the liability sought to be enforced. If it is to recover compensation for a loss sustained by plaintiff it is not, but if the sum claimed has no relation to any such loss, but is arbitrarily exacted for some act or omission of defendant, the action is essentially penal. U. S. v. Joles (D. C.) 251 F. 417.

Recovery of unpaid duties.—Notwithstanding Act June 22, 1874, and Act Oct. 3, 1913, § 3 (Comp. St. 1916, § 5594), that the liquidation of the amount of customs duties shall be final and conclusive, United States can maintain an action to recover customs duties where it has been defrauded of the amount actually due. U. S. v. John A. Heitz, Inc. (D. C.) 238 F. 1002.

§ 1547. (R. S. § 921.) Orders to save costs, and consolidation of causes of a like nature.

1. Discretion of court.—An order consolidating actions at law against different defendants and cross-actions by them for trial together to the same jury held within the discretion of the court under this section. Columbia-

Knickerbocker Trust Co. v. Abbot, 247 F. 833, 160 C. C. A. 55, certiorari denied 39 S. Ct. 6, 63 L. Ed. —.

5. Order or stipulation for consolidation.—There being no basis for a location of income between different parts of railway system covered by separate mortgages, an order consolidating causes is not erroneous in failing to order receiver in parent suit to segregate income derived from part of system covered by mortgage involved in outstanding foreclosure suit. Bankers' Trust Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 789.

12. Causes properly consolidated—Foreclosure suits.—Where entire railway system was in possession of receiver for benefit of holders of all liens, and all issues involved would have to be decided by same court, it was not abuse of discretion to consolidate another suit to foreclose a mortgage on a part of the system with receivership suit. Bankers' Trust Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 789.

That one of defendants in foreclosure suit is a Texas corporation, and is not a party to a receivership suit, is no obstacle to consolidation of such foreclosure suit with the receivership cause; no deficiency judgment against such corporation being sought. Id.

Cited without definite application, Earl v. Ellison (Ark.) 210 S. W. 342.

§ 1565. (R. S. § 939.) Sale after condemnation.

Contempt.—The judge of the District Court appointed three appraisers under sections 939, 940, Rev. St. U. S. 1878 (U. S. Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1565, 1566), to appraise and place a value upon certain fur seal skins seized by United States revenue cutters in Bering Sea, and brought to Sitka for condemnation and sale. The United States marshal interfered with the appraisers and forbade them from appraising the skins claiming they were in his possession. Held, guilty of contempt of court. In re Atkins, 5 Alaska, 20.

§ 1567. (R. S. § 941, as amended, Act March 3, 1899, c. 441.) Delivery bond in admiralty proceedings; general bond by owner of vessel.

10. Form of bond or stipulation in general.—A letter of indemnity, taken after a "protective seizure" by the French Tribunal of Commerce in Oran, Algeria, upon which a vessel was released from attachment arising out of a collision, did not have the force of a bond given to discharge a vessel arrested upon a suit in rem, in which latter case the bond discharges the lien, and releases the vessel, and takes the place of the vessel itself. The Kongsli (D. C.) 252 F. 267.

25. Effect of giving stipulation—Recall or rearrest of property after release.—A court held, under the facts shown, to have power to order the arrest of a vessel in a suit in rem after the giving and acceptance of a stipulation for value without appraisal. The I. F. Chapman, 241 F. 836, 154 C. C. A. 538, affirming decree (D. C.) 215 F. 127, certiorari denied Scully v. Kazarian, 38 S. Ct. 9, 62 L. Ed. 529.

38. Cancellation of stipulations on dismissal of libel.—An admiralty court may properly cancel a stipulation for release of a vessel libeled in collision, given without appraisal, on the subsequent institution of proceedings by the owner for limitation of liability and the giving of a bond for the appraised value of the vessel. Société Napthés Transports v. Bisso Towboat Co., 241 F. 463, 154 C. C. A. 295, certiorari denied Societe Naphtes Transports v. Same, 38 S. Ct. 11, 62 L. Ed. 532.

§ 1571. (R. S. § 945.) Bail and affidavits.

Cited without definite application, U. S. v. Schallinger Produce Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 290.

§ 1573. (R. S. § 947.) When clerks may take bail de bene esse.

Cited without definite application, The Eros (D. C.) 245 F. 814.

§ 1574. (Act March 3, 1887, c. 359, § 4.) Proceedings in suits against United States.

See Mill Creek & Minehill Nav. & R. Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 246 F. 1013.

Review.—Judgments of the District Courts, in the exercise of the power conferred on them, concurrently with the Court of Claims, by the Tucker Act of March 3, 1887, to decide claims against the United States, are reviewable exclusively and directly by the Supreme Court, and this remedy is unaffected by the general distribution of appellate power by Judiciary Act 1891, or by the Judicial Code; implications of repeal being prevented by sections 294, 295, thereof (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1271, 1272), and Tucker Act, § 4 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1574), being excepted from the repealing clause. J. Homer Fritch, Inc., v. U. S., 39 S. Ct. 158, 63 L. Ed. —.

§ 1575. (Act March 3, 1887, c. 359, § 5.) Petition in suit against United States.

Waiver.—Since the Tucker Act, under which a corporation sued United States to recover moneys, payment of which it was contended was wrongfully required, is for benefit of the suitor, jurisdictional objections may be waived by government. Everett Ry., Light & Power Co. v. U. S. (D. C.) 236 F. 806.

Oral motion, in suit under Tucker Act against United States for extension of time to appear, move, or answer, held a general appearance, waiving objections that suit was not brought in district for state wherein corporate plaintiff was created. Id.

§ 1583. (R. S. § 566.) Trial of issues of fact.

1. Validity and scope of provision.—This section has no application to the District Courts as now organized. Wm. Edwards Co. v. La Dow (C. C. A.) 230 F. 378.

1½. Questions for and functions of jury in general.—Facts are either "evidential facts," meaning facts which can be directly established by testimony or evidence, or "ultimate facts," which can only be deduced by inference from evidential facts. Evidential facts, if in controversy, must be found by a jury, if the case is a jury case; but ultimate facts need not be submitted, if only one inference can fairly and reasonably be drawn. Real Estate Title Insurance & Trust Co. v. Lederer (D. C.) 229 F. 799.

Where the evidence is such that a verdict based thereon would be set aside, it is proper for trial court, particularly in negligence actions, to direct verdict for defendant; the scintilla rule not prevailing. Dernberger v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 405. The controlling question is whether the testimony as a whole is inconsistent with any other conclusion than that claimed by plaintiff. Dickinson v. Scruggs, 242 F. 900, 155 C. C. A. 488. And although juries are recognized triers of fact, federal court in civil case may direct verdict, when evidence, with all inferences that jury could properly draw, would be insufficient to support contrary verdict, and it would be necessary to set such verdict aside, if rendered. Lauria v. E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 353.

Whenever the evidence is such that reasonable men may reasonably differ as to the inferences to be drawn therefrom, the case should be submitted to the jury. Dernberger v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 243 F. 21, 155 C. C. A. 551, affirming judgment (D. C.) 234 F. 405; Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. of California v. Vogel, 232 F. 337, 146 C. C. A. 385; Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. United States, 234 F. 272, 148 C. C. A. 174; Hobbs v. Kizer, 236 F. 681, 150 C. C. A. 13; Carolina, C. & O. Ry. Co. v. Stroup, 239 F. 75, 152 C. C. A. 125; Hudson & M. R. Co. v. Iorio, 239 F. 855, 152 C. C. A. 641; McCarthy v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 240 F. 602, 153 C. C. A. 406. And a case is properly taken from the jury and dismissed where the evidence, conceding all the inferences which the jury can justifiably draw from it, is insufficient to warrant a verdict. Gill v. Waterhouse, 245 F. 75, 157 C. C. A. 371. And where only one finding is possible under the evidence, the matter should be decided by the court, although, if opposite inferences can be drawn, question is one for jury. Postal Telegraph-Cable Co. v. Darrow (C. C. A.) 250 F. 581.

Where there is evidence in support of cause of action, it is properly submitted to the jury. Stark Electric R. Co. v. McGinty Contracting Co., 238 F. 657, 151 C. C. A. 507. And where plaintiff's case is supported by substantial evidence, verdict should not be directed for defendant, though the trial judge might conceive it his duty to set aside any verdict for plaintiff, and award a new trial at least once, and a verdict cannot be directed for defendant, unless plaintiff's evidence is such that no reasonable man might deem it fit to induce conviction; but, in determining whether verdict is against the weight of the evidence, the court merely applies its own judgment. Richards v. H. K. Mulford Co., 236 F. 677, 150 C. C. A. 9.

An issue as to which the evidence is conflicting is for the jury. Creal v. Gallup, 231 F. 96, 145 C. C. A. 284. But it is the duty of the court to direct a verdict, even on conflicting evidence, where it is so conclusive in favor of one party that a verdict for the other party would be set aside. Ewert v. Beck, 235 F. 513, 149 C. C. A. 59.

The weight of the testimony is for the jury. Gold Hunter Mining & Smelting Co. v. Johnson, 233 F. 849, 147 C. C. A. 523; Chambers v. Farnham, 236 F. 886, 150 C. C. A. 148. As well as the credibility of the witnesses. Gold Hunter Mining & Smelting Co. v. Johnson, 233 F. 849, 147 C. C. A. 523; Midland Valley R. Co. v. Bell, 242 F. 803, 155 C. C. A. 391, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 12, 245 U. S. 653, 62

L. Ed. 532; Dickinson v. Scruggs, 242 F. 900, 155 C. C. A. 488; Harris v. U. S., 249 F. 41, 161 C. C. A. 101, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 425, 246 U. S. 675, 62 L. Ed. 933. But whether a discredited witness, on whom the prosecution relied, is sufficiently corroborated to take the case to the jury, is a question of law. U. S. v. Murphy (D. C.) 253 F. 404.

Where plaintiff's evidence warranted a presumption which entitled it to recover, evidence by defendant contradicting the presumption does not entitle defendant to a directed verdict, but merely raises an issue for the jury; and an averment in the answer denying the presumed facts does not justify taking the case from the jury. Standard Trust Co. of New York v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 240 F. 303, 153 C. C. A. 229.

In suit by a purported resident of New York, removed to the federal court for diversity of citizenship, whether plaintiff was a resident of New York and entitled to sue in its courts, so that the state court had jurisdiction, held for the jury. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. Sherman, 230 F. 814, 145 C. C. A. 124.

The admissibility of expert testimony, depending on the qualification of a witness, is to be determined by the trial judge. U. S. v. Fischer (D. C.) 245 F. 477.

2. Right to jury trial and questions for jury in particular proceedings.—Under Rev. Code Prac. La. art. 329, providing that, when the defendant in his answer alleges on his part new facts, they shall be considered denied, and neither replication nor rejoinder shall be admitted, where an answer was filed, and a cause fixed for trial on the merits, and on the day set for the trial defendant filed a further answer or plea of estoppel, the court, in overruling exceptions to such plea, erred in dismissing the case, as, a jury not having been waived by the parties, the questions of fact involved were for a jury. Block v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 113.

Ownership of property, see Claiborne v. Brophy, 236 F. 190, 149 C. C. A. 380.

3¼. —— Making of contract.—See Lauderdale County v. Kittel, 229 F. 593, 143 C. C. A. 615; Swift & Co. v. Detroit Rock Salt Co., 233 F. 231, 147 C. C. A. 237.

3½. —— Validity of contract.—See Moody v. Kell, 235 F. 86, 148 C. C. A. 580.

3¾. —— Construction of contract.—See New York & Philadelphia Coal & Coke Co. v. Meyersdale Coal Co., 236 F. 536, 149 C. C. A. 588; P. J. Carlin Const. Co. v. Guerini Stone Co., 241 F. 545, 154 C. C. A. 321, certiorari granted Guerini Stone Co. v. P. J. Carlin Const. Co., 38 S. Ct. 9, 245 U. S. 643, 62 L. Ed. 528.

4. —— Performance or breach of contract.—See Lauderdale County v. Kittel, 229 F. 593, 143 C. C. A. 615; Colorado Yule Marble Co. v. Collins, 230 F. 78, 144 C. C. A. 376; American Music Stores v. Kussel, 232 F. 306, 146 C. C. A. 354; Ransom & Randolph Co. v. Pinches, 234 F. 847, 148 C. C. A. 445; Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Collins Produce Co., 235 F. 857, 149 C. C. A. 169; Claiborne v. Brophy, 236 F. 190, 149 C. C. A. 380; Chambers v. Farnham, 236 F. 886, 150 C. C. A. 148; City of Port Washington v. Thacher, 245 F. 94, 157 C. C. A. 390; Maynard v. Reynolds (C. C. A.) 251 F. 784.

4½. —— Insurance.—See Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. of California v. Vogel, 232 F. 337, 146 C. C. A. 385; Parrish v. Order of United Commercial Travelers of America, 232 F. 425, 146 C. C. A. 419; American Temperance Life Ins. Ass'n of City of New York v. Solomon, 233 F. 213, 147 C. C. A. 219; Spring Garden Ins. Co. of Philadelphia, Pa., v. Wood, 233 F. 223, 147 C. C. A. 229; Royal Exch. Assur. of London v. Thrower, 246 F. 768, 159 C. C. A. 70, affirming judgment (D. C.) 240 F. 1024, which affirmed on rehearing (D. C.) 240 F. 811; Metropolitan Casualty Ins. Co. of New York v. Johnston, 247 F. 65, 159 C. C. A. 283.

6¼. —— Corporations.—See Smithson v. Roneo (D. C.) 231 F. 349; Cohansey Glass Mfg. Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Philadelphia (C. C. A.) 251 F. 177.

6½. —— Criminal prosecutions.—See U. S. v. Knoell (D. C.) 230 F. 509; U. S. v. Fischer (D. C.) 245 F. 477; Dean v. U. S., 246 F. 568, 158 C. C. A. 538; Hamburg-American Steam Packet Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 747; Shea v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 440; U. S. v. Murphy (D. C.) 253 F. 404.

6¾. —— Damages and amount of recovery.—See Roller v. George H. Leonard & Co., 229 F. 607, 143 C. C. A. 629; McNeil Higgins Co. v. Old Dominion S. S. Co., 235 F. 854, 149 C. C. A. 166; United States Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry Co. v. Eastham, 237 F. 185, 150 C. C. A. 331; Hart-Parr Co. v. Barth Mfg. Co., 249 F. 629, 161 C. C. A. 539.

7½. —— Execution of written instruments.—See Southern Ry. Co. v. Clark, 233 F. 900, 147 C. C. A. 574; Preston v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (D. C.) 250 F. 480.

7¾. —— Fraud.—See Muller v. Globe & Rutgers Fire Ins. Co. of City of New York, 246 F. 759, 159 C. C. A. 61; In re Pierce, Butler & Pierce Mfg. Co., 246 F. 814, 159 C. C. A. 116, reversing order (D. C.) 231 F. 312; Vulcan Metals Co. v. Simmons Mfg. Co., 248 F. 853, 161 C. C. A. 7, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 427, 247 U. S. 507, 62 L. Ed. 1241.

8½. —— Libel and slander.—See Grand Union Tea Co. v. Lord, 231 F. 390, 145 C. C. A. 384.

9. —— Malicious prosecution and false imprisonment.—See Remington Typewriter Co. v. Nolan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 685; Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Thomasson (C. C. A.) 251 F. 833; Reichman v. Harris (C. C. A.) 252 F. 371.

10¼. —— Negligence in general.—See Richards v. H. K. Mulford Co., 236 F. 677, 150 C. C. A. 9; New York & Porto Rico S. S. Co. v. Guanica Centrale, 231 F. 820, 145 C. C. A. 640; Allen v. Roydhouse (D. C.) 232 F. 1010; McNeil Higgins Co. v. Old Dominion S. S. Co., 235 F. 854, 149 C. C. A. 166; Alabama & V. Ry. Co. v. American Cotton Oil Co., 249 F. 308, 161 C. C. A. 316.

10½. —— Payment.—See Lillie v. Dennert, 232 F. 104, 146 C. C. A. 296; Colorado Title & Trust Co. v. Childers, 241 F. 631, 154 C. C. A. 389.

11. —— Penal actions.—See U. S. v. Forty Barrels and Twenty Kegs of Coca Cola, 36 S. Ct. 573, 241 U. S. 265, 60 L. Ed. 995, reversing judgment 215 F. 535, 132 C. C. A. 47; Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. U. S., 234 F. 268, 148 C. C. A. 170.

12. —— Personal injury actions in general.—Negligence of employer, causing injury to employé, see Siegesmund v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 229 F. 956, 144 C. C. A. 238; Virginian Ry. Co. v. Linkous, 230 F. 88, 144 C. C. A. 386, judgment affirmed on rehearing 235 F. 49; Burras v. Cudahy Packing Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 596; Sustock v. Shenandoah Abattoir Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 900; Erie R. Co. v. Krysienski, 238 F. 142, 151 C. C. A. 218; Flickwir & Bush v. Walkonen, 238 F. 307, 151 C. C. A. 323; Flickwir & Bush v. Pontynen, 238 F. 310, 151 C. C. A. 326; Big Vein Pocahontas Co. v. Repass, 238 F. 332, 151 C. C. A. 348; George Brown & Co. v. O'Connor, 238 F. 552, 151 C. C. A. 488; Overstreet v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 238 F. 565, 151 C. C. A. 501; Porter v. Titusville Fruit & Farm Lands Co., 238 F. 759, 151 C. C. A. 609; Carolina, C. & O. Ry. Co. v. Stroup, 239 F. 75, 152 C. C. A. 125; Schunnemunk Const. Co. v. Sbaratta, 239 F. 716, 152 C. C. A. 550; Southern Ry. Co. v. Derr, 240 F. 73, 153 C. C. A. 109; Republic Iron & Steel Co. v. Hines, 240 F. 77, 153 C. C. A. 113; Leahy v. Detroit, M. & T. Short Line Ry., 240 F. 82, 153 C. C. A. 118; Rjasko v. Pennsylvania Coal & Coke Corporation, 241 F. 248, 154 C. C. A. 168; Midland Valley R. Co. v. Bell, 242 F. 803, 155 C. C. A. 391, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 12, 245 U. S. 653, 62 L. Ed. 532; Heskett v. Pennsylvania Co., 245 F. 326, 157 C. C. A. 518; Marland v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., 246 F. 91, 158 C. C. A. 317, certiorari denied Philadelphia & R. R. Co. v. Marland, 38 S. Ct. 191, 245 U. S. 671, 62 L. Ed. 540; McClintic-Marshall Const. Co. v. Forgy, 246 F. 193, 158 C. C. A. 353, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 332, 246 U. S. 662, 62 L. Ed. 927; Washington & Berkeley Bridge Co. v. Pennsylvania Steel Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 487; E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. v. Smith (C. C. A.) 252 F. 491; E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. v. Kelly (C. C. A.) 252 F. 523; Southern Ry. Co. v. O'Dell (C. C. A.) 252 F. 540.

Carrier's liability for injuries to passengers, see New York, N. H. & H. Ry. Co. v. Kilby, 233 F. 252, 147 C. C. A. 258; Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. Bump, 234 F. 52, 148 C. C. A. 68; Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Irving, 234 F. 562, 148 C. C. A. 328; Spiesberger v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 235 F. 864, 149 C. C. A. 176; Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Schrimpf, 236 F. 200, 149 C. C. A. 390; Boston Elevated Ry. Co. v. Teele, 248 F. 424, 160 C. C. A. 434; Omaha & C. B. St. Ry. Co. v. McKeeman (C. C. A.) 250 F. 386.

Res ipsa loquitur. Chicago Rys. Co. v. Kramer, 234 F. 245, 148 C. C. A. 147; Smith v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 239 F. 103, 151 C. C. A. 277.

Performing abortion. Hobbs v. Kizer, 236 F. 681, 150 C. C. A. 13.

Injuries on railroad track. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Penso, 239 F. 684, 152 C. C. A. 518; McCarthy v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 240 F. 602, 153 C. C. A. 406.

Balanced probability that actionable negligence existed, see Southern Ry. Co. v. Derr, 240 F. 73, 153 C. C. A. 109.

Negligence in use of street, see Jacob v. Ivins (C. C. A.) 250 F. 431. Violation of speed ordinance. Puget Sound Electric Ry. v. Benson (C. C. A.) 253 F. 710. Defects in street. City of Superior v. Olt, 239 F. 100, 152 C. C. A. 150.

Injuries at railroad crossing, see Hartwell v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 112; Tacoma Ry. & Power Co. v. Cothary, 235 F. 872, 149 C. C. A. 184; Patterson Transfer Co. v. Schlugleit (C. C. A.) 252 F. 359; Zimmerman v. Pennsylvania Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 571.

12a. —— Contributory negligence.—Of passenger, see New York, N. H. & H. Ry. Co. v. Kilby, 233 F. 252, 147 C. C. A. 258; Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. Bump, 234 F. 52, 148 C. C. A. 68; Spiesberger v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 235 F. 864, 149 C. C. A. 176; St. Louis Merchants' Bridge Terminal Ry. Co. v. Munger, 246 F. 938, 159 C. C. A. 210; of person going to railroad depot, Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rogers, 244 F. 76, 156 C. C. A. 504; of person struck by automobile, Patterson Transfer Co. v. Schlugleit (C. C. A.)

252 F. 359; of person injured at railroad crossing, Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Kilmer, 231 F. 628, 145 C. C. A. 514; Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Emens, 231 F. 636, 145 C. C. A. 522; Hartwell v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 112; Tacoma Ry. & Power Co. v. Cothary, 235 F. 872, 149 C. C. A. 184; Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. James, 241 F. 344, 154 C. C. A. 224; Zimmerman v. Pennsylvania Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 571; of person struck by a railroad motorcar while crossing a railroad bridge, Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Penso, 239 F. 684, 152 C. C. A. 518; of person whose team took fright from object on a railroad right of way, see Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Ennis, 236 F. 17, 149 C. C. A. 227; of employé injured, George Brown & Co. v. O'Connor, 238 F. 552, 151 C. C. A. 488; The Ansonia v. Sullivan, 239 P. 296, 152 C. C. A. 284; Fentress Coal & Coke Co. v. Elmore, 240 F. 328, 153 C. C. A. 254; William Cramp & Sons Ship & Engine Bldg. Co. v. Waczak, 242 F. 842, 155 C. C. A. 430; Pocahontas Consol. Collieries Co. v. Johnson, 244 F. 368, 156 C. C. A. 654, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 14, 245 U. S. 658, 62 L. Ed. 535; Heskett v. Pennsylvania Co., 245 F. 326, 157 C. C. A. 518; St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Maynord, 246 F. 115, 158 C. C. A. 341; E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. v. Smith (C. C. A.) 252 F. 491; Peters v. Delaware & H. Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 562.

12b. —— Assumption of risk.—By servant injured, see Siegesmund v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 229 F. 956, 144 C. C. A. 238; Sunday Creek Co. v. Gray, 238 F. 325, 151 C. C. A. 341; New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. Salkaukus, 238 F. 778, 151 C. C. A. 628; Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. Marland, 239 F. 1, 152 C. C. A. 51; Southern Ry. Co. v. Mays, 239 F. 41, 152 C. C. A. 91; Gold Hunter Mining & Smelting Co. v. Bowden (C. C. A.) 252 F. 388; Southern Ry. Co. v. O'Dell (C. C. A.) 252 F. 540.

12c. —— Proximate cause.—See Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, 233 F. 956, 147 C. C. A. 630; Lee Line Steamers v. Page, 237 F. 57, 150 C. C. A. 259; Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Gelvin, 238 F. 14, 151 C. C. A. 90, L. R. A. 1917C, 983; Muller v. Globe & Rutgers Fire Ins. Co. of City of New York, 246 F. 759, 159 C. C. A. 61; Bjornquist v. Boston & A. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 929.

12d. —— Respondeat superior.—See Buckeye Cotton Oil Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 712; Bjornquist v. Boston & A. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 929.

12e. —— Ratification of act of agent.—See Buckeye Cotton Oil Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 712; Bailey v. Mississippi Home Telephone Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 581.

16. —— Title to real estate.—See Creal v. Gallup, 231 F. 96, 145 C. C. A. 284.

18. Questions for court in general.—See Continental Public Works Co. v. Stein, 232 F. 559, 146 C. C. A. 517; Chambers v. Farnham, 236 F. 886, 150 C. C. A. 148; Swiss Bankverein v. Zimmermann, 240 F. 87, 153 C. C. A. 123; Metropolitan Casualty Ins. Co. of New York v. Johnston, 247 F. 65, 159 C. C. A. 283; Globe & Rutgers Ins. Co. of City of New York v. Prairie Oil & Gas Co., 248 F. 452, 160 C. C. A. 462.

19. Equity suits.—See Union Pac. R. Co. v. Syas, 246 F. 561, 158 C. C. A. 531.

As Acts Ky. 1898, c. 49 (Ky. St. § 4679c), does not, in view of sections 4 and 6, contemplate jury trial on questions of necessity, a jury trial on that issue is not warranted where proceeding to condemn easement for telegraph lines over railroad right of way is brought in the federal court, because it is for some purposes deemed an action at law within this section. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 249 F. 385, 161 C. C. A. 359.

20. Bankruptcy proceedings.—See Wm. Edwards Co. v. La Dow (C. C. A.) 230 F. 378; Marshall v. Nevins, 242 F. 476, 155 C. C. A. 252.

25. Waiver of jury trial.—Where a defendant who did not assent to a reference, expressly objected on the hearing before the master to the consideration of the cause by the master, and insisted upon its right to have the cause tried by a jury, and on the hearing on exceptions to the master's report appeared only to protest the jurisdiction of the court, it did not waive its right to a jury trial by failing to take formal exceptions to the order of reference. Wm. Edwards Co. v. La Dow (C. C. A.) 230 F. 378.

26. Instructions.—Sufficiency of instructions in particular actions, see notes under appropriate section of statute dealing with action in question.

As to comments by the judge, expressions of opinion, and other forms of the charge invading the province of the jury, it has been held that in the federal courts the trial judge may express his opinions on facts, and advise jury regarding its conclusions thereon, provided it is given to unequivocally understand that it is not bound thereby; his comments to be judicial and dispassionate, and leave jurors free to exercise their independent judgment, and that part of charge as to turf exchange being a sham, considered with its context and the entire charge, did not go beyond such rule. Shea v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 440. And in a prosecution for violation of the White Slave Act (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 8812–8819), the expression of the court's opinion as to the evidence was permissible; the jury being further charged that they were not bound by the court's opinion. Beyer v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 39. A statement by a judge to the jury that an instruction was given by request is not error, and especially where he added that he thought the instruction a fair statement of the law. Colorado Yule Marble Co. v. Collins, 230 F. 78, 144 C. C. A. 376.

Where every one connected with trial knew when the charge was given that written instrument did not contain complete contract, held that court committed no error in so telling the jury. Missouri Dist. Telegraph Co. v. Morris & Co., 243 F. 481, 156 C. C. A. 179, appeal dismissed 38 S. Ct. 11, 245 U. S. 651, 62 L. Ed. 531.

Charge in prosecution for misapplication of funds of national bank in violation of Rev. St. § 5209 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9772), which minimized defendant's testimony as to his intent, held erroneous as improperly minimizing testimony of accused as to his intent. McCallum v. U. S., 247 F. 27, 159 C. C. A. 245.

In prosecution in federal court, trial judge has right to express opinion as to weight of evidence, provided question of fact is ultimately submitted to jury. Parish v. U. S., 247 F. 40, 159 C. C. A. 258.

An instruction approved that, while a juror should not lightly surrender an opinion which he conscientiously holds, when he finds himself in minority he should stop and consider whether he is more likely to be surely right than the majority upon a question about which there can be no absolute certainty. Boston & M. R. R. v. Stewart (C. C. A.) 254 F. 14.

In personal injury action, where plaintiff's testimony concerning cause of injury was somewhat improbable, denial of requested charge that, if some of his statements were contrary to physical laws, verdict must be rendered for defendant, held proper; all questions of probability being left to jury. Delaware. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Tuovinen, 240 F. 678, 153 C. C. A. 476.

The charge of a court is not subject to exception because it does not instruct the jury on a point in issue, where such instruction was not requested by either party. Stephenson v. Atlantic Terra Cotta Co., 230 F. 14, 144 C. C. A. 312; Hughes v. U. S., 231 F. 50, 145 C. C. A. 238; Pennsylvania Co. v. Fanger, 231 F. 851, 146 C. C. A. 47; Keystone Coal & Coke Co. v. Fekete, 232 F. 72, 146 C. C. A. 264; Alverson v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co., 236 F. 331, 149 C. C. A. 463; Boston & M. R. R. v. Baker, 236 F. 896, 150 C. C. A. 158; Arnold v. Horrigan, 238 F. 39, 151 C. C. A. 115; Republic Iron & Steel Co. v. Hines, 240 F. 77, 153 C. C. A. 113; Ford Motor Co. v. Farrington, 245 F. 850, 158 C. C. A. 190. And the failure to give an instruction limiting the purpose for which particular evidence may be considered is not error, where such instruction is not specially requested. Hallowell v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 865. It is also held that, where the judge has delivered his charge, he is entitled to have his attention called either to errors or omissions in same, and cannot be required to look through a large number of lengthy requests, and determine whether they were all covered by charge given. Hamburg-American Steam Packet Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 747. It is of course improper to refuse appropriate requested instructions, where they are not covered by the charge as given. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Needham, 244 F. 146, 156 C. C. A. 574; Kansas City, C. & S. Ry. Co. v. Shoemaker, 245 F. 117, 157 C. C. A. 413. But refusal of requested instructions, which so far as they were correct and material were embraced in the general charge, is not error. Missouri Valley Bridge & Iron Co. v. Blake, 231 F. 417, 145 C. C. A. 411; Glass v. U. S., 231 F. 65, 145 C. C. A. 253; New York & Porto Rico S. S. Co. v. Guanica Centrale, 231 F. 820, 145 C. C. A. 640; International Lumber Co. v. U. S., 231 F. 873, 146 C. C. A. 69; Manchester Mill & Elevator Co. v. Strong, 231 F. 876, 146 C. C. A. 72; Owl Creek Coal Co. v. Goleb, 232 F. 445, 146 C. C. A. 439; Atlas Portland Cement Co. v. Hagen, 233 F. 24, 147 C. C. A. 94; Holsman v. U. S., 248 F. 193, 160 C. C. A. 271; Parish v. U. S., 247 F. 40, 159 C. C. A. 258; Dosset v. U. S., 248 F. 902, 161 C. C. A. 20; Shea v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 440; E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. v. Kelly (C. C. A.) 252 F. 523; Le More v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 887; Dr. J. H. McLean Medicine Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 694; O'Hare v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 538; Bradley v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 289.

Requests to charge must be timely, and it is within the province of the District Court to request counsel to present their requests at or before close of the evidence, and before argument, and to announce that he will not entertain requests not made in apt time. In the Southern district of New York it is the custom not to refuse requests after the charge has been delivered, but requests at that time cannot receive the careful attention they would receive if presented at the close of the evidence, and the trial judge should not be held to the same degree of accountability for erroneously refusing a request then presented as he must be one presented at a more appropriate time. Linn v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 476. And where trial court, after giving charge fairly presenting controversy, stated that counsel might call his attention to any points they would like to have specifically answered, defendant, having been cast below, cannot raise in appellate court matter not then called to trial court's attention. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Minds, 244 F. 53, 156 C. C. A. 481, affirming judgment Minds v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 267.

In giving instructions requested, the court is not required to use the precise language of counsel. O'Hare v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 538. And the mode of instructing a jury by partly written and party oral instructions is within the discretion of the court. Warren Bros. Co. v. Wright, 239 F. 71, 152 C. C. A. 121.

As to giving undue emphasis to particular matters, it has been held that, where the instructions given presented the issues, the refusal of other instructions emphasizing such facts is proper. Spring Garden Ins. Co. of Philadelphia, Pa., v. Wood, 233 F. 223, 147 C. C. A. 229. And denial of requests that fraud is not presumed and could not be inferred from particular items of evidence was not error. Arnold v. Horrigan, 238 F. 39, 151 C. C. A. 115. A charge on reasonable doubt, which singled out and emphasized a particular matter, though it was not vital to case, was properly refused. Dosset v. U. S., 248 F. 902, 161 C. C. A. 20.

While it is error to refuse an instruction on an issue fairly presented by the evidence, Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Glas, 239 F. 256, 152 C. C. A. 244; a request to charge may properly be refused, where it has no relation to any issue which has arisen in case, Hamburg-American Steam Packet Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 747; Himrod v. Ft. Pitt Min. & Mill. Co., 238 F. 746, 151 C. C. A. 596; Memphis St. Ry. Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 242 F. 617, 155 C. C. A. 307; Cavoretto v. Alaska Gastineau Mining Co., 245 F. 853, 158 C. C. A. 193; Ivins v. Jacob (D. C.) 245 F. 892; Hamburg-American Steam Packet Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 747; U. S. v. Stilson (D. C.) 254 F. 120; or where there was no evidence of facts hypothesized, May Department Stores Co. v. Runge, 241 F. 575, 154 C. C. A. 351; and a requested instruction, directing a verdict for defendant, which was predicated on unproven facts and ignored facts bearing on the vital issue of the case, was properly refused. Manchester Mill & Elevator Co. v. Strong, 231 F. 876, 146 C. C. A. 72; but it was held that, in an action for the death of a brakeman, a portion of the charge was not misleading, as indicating that the action might be based in part on the presumption of negligence which applied to an action between the carrier and a passenger, Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Glas, 239 F. 256, 152 C. C. A. 244.

A charge is to be considered as a whole, and not tested by the standard of absolute verbal accuracy in every isolated phrase. Allen v. Roydhouse (D. C.) 232 F. 1010; Russo-Chinese Bank v. National Bank of Commerce of Seattle, Wash., 36 S. Ct. 652, 241 U. S. 403, 60 L. Ed. 1065, affirming judgment 206 F. 646, 124 C. C. A. 434; Stephenson v. Atlantic Terra Cotta Co., 230 F. 14, 144 C. C. A. 312; Grand Union Tea Co. v. Lord, 231 F. 390, 145 C. C. A. 384; Erie R. Co. v. Krysienski, 238 F. 142, 151 C. C. A. 218; Pennsylvania R. Co. v, Glas, 239 F. 256, 152 C. C. A. 244; Republic Iron & Steel Co. v. Hines, 240 F. 77, 153 C. C. A. 113; Memphis St. Ry. Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 242 F. 617, 155 C. C. A. 307; Southern Trust Co. v. Lucas, 245 F. 286, 157 C. C. A. 478; Shea v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 433; Le More v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 887. However, though a portion of the charge stated the correct rule, error in another portion was not cured, where the jury were left free to follow the erroneous charge, and there was no attempt to correct it. Dr. J. H. McLean Medicine Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 694.

Charge in criminal prosecution on proof of conspiracy, see Daeche v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 566; on alibi, see Shea v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 433; on the testimony of character witnesses, see Linn v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 476; on reasonable doubt, see Linn v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 476; Oppenheim v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 241 F. 625, reversing judgment U. S. v. Oppenheim (D. C.) 228 F. 220; Shea v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 433; on acts of coconspirators, see Shea v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 440; on uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice, see Bosselman v. U. S., 239 F. 82, 152 C. C. A. 132; on evidence of good character, see Hughes v. U. S., 231 F. 50, 145 C. C. A. 238; on admissibility of evidence against some of the defendants, but not against others, see Hendrey v. U. S., 233 F. 5, 147 C. C. A. 75.

26½. Demurrer to evidence.—A demurrer to plaintiff's evidence was waived by the introduction of evidence on the part of defendant. Fisher Mach. Works Co. v. Dougherty, 231 F. 910, 146 C. C. A. 106. Especially where defendant did not renew motion or request directed verdict. Lohman v. Stockyards Loan Co., 243 F. 517, 156 C. C. A. 215, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 134, 245 U. S. 668, 62 L. Ed. 539.

27. Direction of verdict.—In a proper case, the trial judge, in the exercise of a sound discretion, may direct a verdict, and if in such case a motion is made for directed verdict, it is error to refuse it. McCarthy v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 240 F. 602, 153 C. C. A. 406. But, where defendant made no motion for directed verdict, the submission of the case to the jury was proper. Kreuzer v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 34; Victor American Fuel Co. v. Tomljanovich, 232 F. 662, 146 C. C. A. 588, affirming orders Tomljanovich v. Victor American Fuel Co. (D. C.) 227 F. 951 and 230 F. 467. And, on the other hand, plaintiff may not dismiss without prejudice after motion for directed verdict has been made and submitted. Spies v. Union Pac. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 434.

It is the duty of the court, in considering a motion to direct a verdict, to take that view of the evidence most favorable to the party against whom it is desired that the verdict should be directed, and determine the matter from that evidence and reasonable and justifiable inferences therefrom. U. S. v. De Bolt (D. C.) 253 F. 78; Southern Ry. Co. v. Clark, 233 F. 900, 147 C. C. A. 574; Hobbs v. Kizer, 236 F. 681, 150 C. C. A. 13; Flickwir & Bush v. Walkonen, 238 F. 307, 151 C. C. A. 323; Carolina, C. & O. Ry. Co. v. Stroup, 239 F. 75, 152 C. C. A. 125; Leahy v. Detroit, M. & T. Short Line Ry., 240 F. 82, 153 C. C. A. 118; Dickinson v. Scruggs, 242 F. 900, 155 C. C. A. 488; Huttig v. John Paul Lumber Co., 243 F. 539, 156 C. C. A. 237; Davis v. Carnegie Steel Co., 244 F. 931, 157 C. C. A. 281; Vascacillas v. Southern Pac. Co., 247 F. 8, 159 C. C. A. 226; Pennsylvania Co. v. Avran, 249 F. 474, 161 C. C. A. 432; Patterson Transfer Co. v. Schlugleit (C. C. A.) 252 F. 359.

The granting of a nonsuit and dismissal of a complaint in an action at law is but a nonsuit, and if upon all the evidence the plaintiff has not established a cause of action, the proper disposition is to direct a verdict for defendant. Quereau v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., (D. C.) 251 F. 986.

The introduction of evidence by defendant after the court overruled its motion for a directed verdict at the close of plaintiff's testimony waives any error in the ruling of the motion. International Lumber Co. v. U. S., 231 F. 873, 146 C. C. A. 69.

Where both parties moved for direction of verdict, direction of verdict for plaintiff is finding that defendant's contract was breached, so that it is immaterial whether the breach was actual or anticipatory. Tri-Bullion Smelting & Development Co. v. Jacobsen, 233 F. 646, 147 C. C. A. 454.

28. Nonsuit.—Where the complaint was dismissed at the close of plaintiff's case, plaintiff's evidence must be accepted as true. Gleason v. Thaw, 234 F. 570, 148 C. C. A. 336.

Plaintiff was not as matter of right entitled to voluntary nonsuit after court had decided to direct verdict for defendant. Barrett v. Virginian Ry. Co., 244 F. 397, 157 C. C. A. 23, certiorari granted 38 S. Ct. 61, 245 U. S. 659, 62 L. Ed. 535.

28½. Conduct and deliberations of jury.—The jury in criminal case may properly take cognizance of facts which are matters of general information. U. S. v. Schafer (D. C.) 254 F. 135.

29. Rendition and form of verdict.—A compromise verdict in action on quantum meruit held one resulting from improper compromise of vital principles, and not from justifiable concession of views. Goelet v. Matt J. Ward Co., 242 F. 65, 155 C. C. A. 9.

Directed verdict, signed by juror designated by court, held sufficient without all the jurors' signing it or selecting their own foreman to sign it. Bryan v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 244 F. 650, 157 C. C. A. 98, writ of error dismissed and certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 334, 246 U. S. 651, 62 L. Ed. 921.

Where verdict for plaintiff was on defendant's motion set aside, it is improper for trial court to enter judgment, in absence of any verdict by jury, notwithstanding court might have entered judgment upon verdict directed by it at trial. Pellerin v. International Cotton Mills, 248 F. 242, 160 C. C. A. 320.

A "general verdict" is one by which the jury pronounces at the same time on the fact and the law, either in favor of the plaintiff or the defendant. Schofield v. Baker (D. C.) 242 F. 657.

30. Special verdicts.—The submission of special questions or findings of fact to the jury in a personal injury action is discretionary on the part of the trial court. Fisher Mach. Works Co. v. Dougherty, 231 F. 910, 146 C. C. A. 106.

In action for injuries to mine motorman, special findings by jury that they did not know how plank which caused injury had become loose, or how long it had been loose, are not inconsistent with, or insufficient to sustain, a general verdict for plaintiff. Daly Judge Mining Co. v. Towey, 240 F. 658, 153 C. C. A. 456.

30½. Correction of verdict.—A federal court cannot look to the testimony for the purpose of correcting a faulty verdict, even though there is no dispute over the facts. Original Sixteen to One Mine v. Twenty-One Mining Co. (D. C.) 254 F. 630.

31. Appointment of auditor.—In an action at law to recover for goods sold and delivered, which involves the examination of long accounts, many items of which are in dispute, a federal court may properly appoint an auditor to make a preliminary examination, hear the evidence, and report his findings, with a view to simplifying the issues for the jury. Peterson v. Davison (D. C.) 254 F 625.

33. Review of findings of fact.—See notes under Const. Amend. 7, post.

Verdict, finding bankrupt guilty of conspiracy to conceal assets, cannot be disturbed, when supported by submissible evidence. Gretsch v. U. S., 242

F. 897, 155 C. C. A. 485, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 12, 245 U. S. 654, 62 L. Ed. 532.

There being direct and positive testimony connecting defendant with the charge, the verdict of guilty is not reviewable. Banks v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 889.

Cited without definite application, Ex parte Mason (C. C. A.) 244 F. 154; Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co. (C. C. A.) 249 F. 385.

§ 1584. (R. S. § 648.) Trial of issues of fact by jury.

Repeal.—Neither section 1584, nor section 1587, providing for jury trial of fact issues in the Circuit Courts was repealed by Judicial Code, and they, as well as section 1668, providing for review, are made applicable to District Courts by section 1268. Lillie v. Dennert, 232 F. 104, 146 C. C. A. 296.

Purpose and effect of statute.—Under Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1584, 1587, 1668, where jury was orally waived, held, that questions decided at the trial could not be reviewed on writ of error. Illinois Surety Co. v. U. S., 229 F. 527, 143 C. C. A. 595; Id., 229 F. 533, 143 C. C. A. 601. See, also, notes under Const. Amend. 7, post.

§ 1585. (Act Feb. 16, 1875, c. 77, § 1.) Trial of issues of fact in admiralty causes.

10. Effect of findings of fact.—See The Leonard J. Busby, 241 F. 855, 154 C. C. A. 557.

A finding on a question of fact by an admiralty court, which heard the witnesses, will be accepted by the appellate court, unless the evidence greatly preponderates against it. The Hardy, 229 F. 985, 144 C. C. A. 267; Erie & M. Ry. & Nav. Co. v. Dunseith, 239 F. 814, 152 C. C. A. 600; Great Lakes Towing Co. v. American Shipbuilding Co., 243 F. 849, 156 C. C. A. 361; Norfolk Southern Ry. Co. v. Foreman, 244 F. 353, 156 C. C. A. 639; Globe S. S. Co. v. Moss, 245 F. 54, 157 C. C. A. 350, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 61, 245 U. S. 663, 62 L. Ed. 537; Lake Drummond Canal & Water Co. v. John L. Roper Lumber Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 796.

While findings by an admiralty court on questions of fact are reviewable on appeal, when made on conflicting evidence they are entitled to and are given great weight, and will not be reversed, except for plain error. The Baron Napier, 249 F. 126, 161 C. C. A. 178. Where based upon testimony taken in open court, the findings should be accepted by the appellate court, unless the evidence clearly preponderates against it. Erie & M. Ry. & Nav. Co. v. Dunseith, 239 F. 814, 152 C. C. A. 600. And a decree based on sharply conflicting evidence will not be disturbed, trial judge having heard testimony. Sorenson v. Alaska S. S. Co., 247 F. 294, 159 C. C. A. 388, affirming decree (D. C.) 243 F. 280; The W. H. Flannery, 249 F. 349, 161 C. C. A. 357; The Mason, 249 F. 718, 161 C. C. A. 628; Eastern Transp. Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 42; The Beaver (C. C. A.) 253 F. 312.

Where the question of responsibility for a collision is a doubtful question of fact, and the finding of the trial court is supported by substantial evidence, it will not be disturbed on appeal. The Rockaway, 246 F. 682, 158 C. C. A. 638, affirming decree (D. C.) 240 F. 844.

Decree in admiralty, based on sharply conflicting evidence, will not be disturbed; trial judge having heard testimony. Sorenson v. Alaska S. S. Co., 247 F. 294, 159 C. C. A. 388, affirming decree (D. C.) 243 F. 280.

Where a narrow issue of fact is presented, upon which the evidence is conflicting, the decision of an experienced trier of facts, who heard the witnesses, is not to be set aside, unless certainty of error can be asserted. The F. B. Squire, 248 F. 469, 160 C. C. A. 479.

Findings of the District Court, which heard the witnesses, on a question of fact as to fault of a passing steamer for the sinking of a barge moored near the channel, held not reviewable by the appellate court. The Eleanore, 248 F. 472, 160 C. C. A. 482.

Where testimony showing a pro tanto satisfaction of libelant's claim was received, it must be assumed on appeal that the lower court gave proper effect thereto in fixing amount. The Emilia S. De Perez, 248 F. 480, 160 C. C. A. 490.

While findings by an admiralty court on questions of fact are reviewable on appeal, when made on conflicting evidence they are entitled to and are given great weight, and will not be reversed, except for plain error. The Baron Napier, 249 F. 126, 161 C. C. A. 178.

Appellate court is reluctant to disturb finding of fact in admiralty case by trial judge, who had advantage of seeing and hearing witnesses. The W. H. Flannery, 249 F. 349, 161 C. C. A. 357.

Conditions considered under which evidence on an issue of fact in an admiralty suit is subject to review on appeal without reference to the finding of the trial court. The Mason, 249 F. 718, 161 C. C. A. 628.

Awards of salvage almost always depend on such a nice adjustment of differing estimates of danger and value that appeals therefrom, to merit consideration, must show a yielding to erroneous principle or plain misapprehension of facts. The Joseph F. Clinton (C. C. A.) 250 F. 977.

A finding of the trial court as to the size and age of a seaman, who testified at the hearing on a libel in personam for personal injuries, will be deferred to on appeal. Goode v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 556.

In a steamship passenger's libel in admiralty for personal injury from a fall in the bathroom, a finding that there was no faulty construction and that a handhold was then and there would be taken as conclusive, where there was but one deposition on the issue, and that was made by appellant. The Great Northern (C. C. A.) 251 F. 826.

Where it was undisputed that claimant's steamship did not keep a proper lookout, and was exceeding the speed permitted by the harbor regulations, at the time of collision, and the evidence was conflicting as to fault of the tug towing libelant's barge, the trial judge's finding for libelant against claimant will be affirmed. The Gaston (C. C. A.) 251 F. 887.

The trial court, in making an award for salvage services, has much the duty of a jury, and the amount fixed by it will not be disturbed, if within those limits which define the maximum and minimum which reasonably should be awarded. The No. 92 (C. C. A.) 252 F. 117.

While since Act March 3, 1891, as before Act Feb. 16, 1875 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1585, 1586), appellate jurisdiction in admiralty is not limited to matters of law, finding of fact as to allowance for salvage should not be disturbed for mere doubt, or inclination to differ, but only for clear and certain conviction. The Kia Ora (C. C. A.) 252 F. 507.

A verdict of the jury, assessing damages for the death of a married woman, should not be disturbed, when there is any evidence on which it can be supported; and the same rule should be applied when the damages are assessed by a commissioner in a shipowner's proceeding to limit liability. The O'Brien Brothers (D. C.) 253 F. 855.

11. Remand.—Where the trial court found against a libelant, seeking to recover on account of collision on the ground that the respondent was not a person responsible, but did not determine the question of negligence, the appellate court, on reversing the decree, will not, regardless of its authority to consider the record, determine the question of negligence, but will remand the case to enable the trial court to determine such question. Clinchfield Fuel Co. v. Henderson Iron Works Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 411.

§ 1587. (R. S. § 649.) Trial of issues of fact by the court.

½. Repeal.—Neither section 1584, nor section 1587, providing for jury trial of fact issues in the Circuit Courts, was repealed by Judicial Code, and, they as well as section 1668, providing for review, are made applicable to District Courts by section 1268. Lillie v. Dennert, 232 F. 104, 146 C. C. A. 296.

1. Trial without jury.—A prayer by each party for binding instructions in his favor is equivalent to a joint request for a finding of fact by the court, and does not amount to a submission without the intervention of a jury within Rev. St. §§ 649, 700 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1587, 1668); hence the direction of a verdict by the court is conclusive. Williams v. Vreeland, 244 F. 346, 156 C. C. A. 632.

In action at law, where the parties are entitled to a jury trial, the court may not itself pronounce verdict for either party, except on consent, even though it may instruct the jury that the evidence establishes a fact involved and direct a finding to that effect. Quereau v. Lehigh Valley R. Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 986.

2. Waiver of jury.—Notwithstanding this section, parties are presumed to have waived a jury, even in the absence of a written stipulation, when they were present at the trial in person or by counsel and made no demand for a jury, as the section was designed to enable the parties to make agreements in vacation, and to prevent either party demanding a jury unexpectedly at the trial. Defendants, who attended proceedings under a reference, both before the master and before the District Court on exceptions to the master's report, without objection or protest, waived their right to a jury trial, especially where another defendant protested, and insisted upon its right to a jury trial, but the defendants in question remained silent and did not join in such protest. Wm. Edwards Co. v. La Dow (C. C. A.) 230 F. 378.

A stipulation on first trial, waiving jury trial, does not affect right of either party to demand trial by jury after judgment on first trial has been reversed and cause remanded. F. M. Davies & Co. v. Porter, 248 F. 397, 160 C. C. A. 407.

Failure to object to the hearing by the court of a motion to dismiss for want of jurisdiction, although it raises an issue of fact, held a waiver of the right to a jury trial. Parkerson v. Borst (C. C. A.) 251 F. 242.

3. —— Authority for review.—In view of Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1584, 1587, 1668, where a case was tried without a jury on an oral waiver of a jury trial and without any written stipulation waiving such a trial, the questions decided at the trial could not be reexamined on writ of error, and no questions were open to review except those arising upon the process pleadings, or judgment. Illinois Surety Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 229 F. 527.

5¼. Agreed statement of facts.—It is not permissible to import into an agreed statement of facts, by inference, deduction, or otherwise, anything not expressly stated as a fact. Blair v. U. S., 241 F. 217, 154 C. C. A. 137, reversing judgment U. S. v. Blair-Murdock Co. (D. C.) 228 F. 77.

5½. View by court.—In action tried to the court, facts ascertained by view of locus in quo may be considered as evidence; but, where the matter is one for experts, the court will not consider impressions obtained on view, as against their opinions. Wall v. U. S. Mining Co. (C. C. A.) 232 F. 613.

6. Findings of court.—Findings that a bank had accepted a deposit unconditionally and intended to honor a check by the depositor held findings of ultimate facts, which the court had power to make. Security Nat. Bank of Sioux City, Iowa, v. Old Nat. Bank of Battle Creek, Mich., 241 F. 1, 154 C. C. A. 1.

Where defendant rested on the evidence introduced by plaintiff, she cannot complain that the court found the facts in accordance with plaintiff's evidence. Winslow v. Staab (D. C.) 233 F. 305.

7. General or special findings.—Where a case is submitted to the court under this section, and a general finding is made on which judgment is entered, a party cannot thereafter demand as of right that special findings be made. Calaf v. Fernandez, 239 F. 795, 152 C. C. A. 581.

Under this section the court, where an action is tried without jury, has discretion to find the facts either generally or specially. Virginia & West Virginia Coal Co. v. Charles (D. C.) 251 F. 83.

8. Form and sufficiency of findings.—A memorandum opinion by the trial judge, who, sitting without a jury, found generally for defendant, does not amount to a special finding of facts. Smith & Co. v. Kingfalfa Mills, 237 F. 82, 150 C. C. A. 284.

An opinion will not take the place of findings, as regards the record, preserving right to review depending on findings. First Nat. Bank v. Weitzel, 239 F. 497, 152 C. C. A. 375.

9. Agreed statement of facts as finding.—Where stipulated facts were the ultimate facts, it is unnecessary that they be repeated by the court in the form of special findings in order that their sufficiency to support the judgment may be challenged. U. S. v. Chicago & A. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 101.

9½. Construction of findings.—Findings by the trial court held to show that the bonds of a bankrupt corporation had been delivered as collateral to secure an antecedent debt represented by a note indorsed by directors, not that they had been delivered as consideration for making an individual note in payment of the corporation's note. Lyon v. Bleeg, 240 F. 405, 153 C. C. A. 331.

10. Findings equivalent to verdict.—Both under the decisions and this section, finding of fact by trial court, whether general or special, has effect of a verdict. First Nat. Bank of Bayonne v. Anglo-South American Bank, 230 F. 817, 145 C. C. A. 127; Turner v. Schaeffer, 249 F. 654, 161 C. C. A. 564.

In a proceeding under the pure food act of Congress to condemn case of lithia water as misbranded, the finding of the court on jury trial being waived must be accepted as the verdict of a jury. Goode v. U. S., 44 App. D. C. 162.

11. Review.—Where an action is tried to the court without a jury by stipulation under this section the judgment is not subject to revision, if supported by the findings and there is material evidence in support of such findings. —Schoenwald v. Bishop, 244 F. 715, 157 C. C. A. 163. See, also, notes under § 1668, post.

12. —— Questions reviewable.—Under this section where transcript of record did not show that jury was waived by stipulation in writing, judgment, though valid, because judge is regarded as sitting as arbitrator, cannot be reviewed by writ of error, except for error appearing on face of pleadings or of judgment itself. Bowers v. Henry Steers, Inc., 241 F. 377, 154 C. C. A. 257.

13. —— Findings.—Under Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1587, 1668, findings in actions tried to the court may be general or special, and where general only rulings during trial can be reviewed, but if special sufficiency to support judgment may be determined. Good Pine Lumber Co. v. Duke, 229 F. 714, 144 C. C. A. 124; Maryland Casualty Co. of Baltimore, Md., v. Orchard Land & Timber Co., 240 F. 364, 153 C. C. A. 290; Good Pine Lumber Co. v. Duke, 240 F. 695, 153 C. C. A. 493; Société Nouvelle d'Armement v. Barnaby, 246 F. 68, 158 C. C. A. 294.

Where an action at law is by stipulation tried to the court, under the provisions of Rev. St. §§ 649, 700 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1587, 1668), the findings of fact by the court are not reviewable by an appellate court, if there is any competent evidence on which they could have been made. Chautauqua Institution v. Zimmerman, 233 F. 371, 147 C. C. A. 307.

Whether the trial court's findings are supported by the agreed facts and the additional evidence is a question of fact on the weight of the evidence, which, in a trial of an action at law by the court, the national courts are forbidden to review by Const. Amend. 7, and Rev. St. §§ 649, 700 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1587, 1668). Security Nat. Bank of Sioux City, Iowa, v. Old Nat. Bank of Battle Creek, Mich., 241 F. 1, 154 C. C. A. 1.

15. Reference—Power to refer.—See, also, notes under § 1668, post.

17. —— Review.—Under Rev. St. §§ 649, 700 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1587, 1668), where parties waived jury trial by attending proceeding under reference without objection, or written stipulation held, that the only question reviewable was whether the facts found sustained the judgment. Wm. Edwards Co. v. La Dow, 230 F. 378, 144 C. C. A. 520, modifying judgment In re Miller (D. C.) 221 F. 471.

Cited without definite application, McCoach v. Continental Passenger Ry. Co. of Philadelphia (C. C. A.) 233 F. 976; Prudential Ins. Co. of America v. Herold (D. C.) 247 F. 681.

§ 1590. (R. S. § 953, as amended, Act June 5, 1900, c. 717, § 1.) Bill of exceptions.

Decisions based on rules of Circuit Court of Appeals, see notes under § 1114, ante.

Notes of Decisions

I. OBJECT, FORM AND CONTENTS OF BILL OF EXCEPTIONS

1. Necessity and sufficiency of objections and exceptions at trial to preserve questions for review in general.—In trial of issue of fact by court without a jury, see notes under § 1668.

On writ of error to review jurisdiction in action against bank commissioner and his surety, whether surety is liable need not be decided, where the judgment of the District Court was not defensively invoked upon such question. Johnson v. Lankford, 38 S. Ct. 203, 245 U. S. 541, 62 L. Ed. 460.

In suit to restrain municipality from enforcing water rate ordinance, held, that point not having been raised below, it was not open to municipality to urge on appeal that, as complainant could be excluded from streets, its property should be computed at its junk value. City and County of Denver v. Denver Union Water Co., 38 S. Ct. 278, 246 U. S. 178, 62 L. Ed. 649.

Where no question of misjoinder was raised by the pleading, it cannot be raised on appeal. Historical Pub. Co. v. Jones Bros. Pub. Co., 231 F. 638, 145 C. C. A. 524, motion for reargument dismissed 231 F. 784, 145 C. C. A. 655.

An appellate court on a writ of error can only consider errors which have been properly excepted to at the trial. International Lumber Co. v. U. S., 231 F. 873, 146 C. C. A. 69; Continental Public Works Co. v. Stein, 232 F. 559, 146 C. C. A. 517; Kleman v. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n, 237 F. 903, 150 C. C. A. 643.

Where the rulings given were prima facie correct, appellant, if desirous of anything further, should bring the rulings to the attention of the court. Victor American Fuel Co. v. Tomljanovich, 232 F. 662, 146 C. C. A. 588, affirming orders Tomljanovich v. Victor American Fuel Co. (D. C.) 227 F. 951, and 230 F. 467.

In action against master for conscious suffering and death of servant brought under Massachusetts Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation Acts, contention that master was entitled to rely under its general denial upon contractual assumption of risk by servant, as opposed to voluntary assumption of risk, not having been urged below, cannot be urged on appeal. Boston & M. R. R. v. Baker, 236 F. 896, 150 C. C. A. 158.

Difficult questions, while possibly involved in a proceeding to cancel a contract, as to the legality of legislation, cannot be disposed of, when not raised by precise pleadings, and not decided below. Garzot v. O'Neill, 237 F. 73, 150 C. C. A. 275.

In action to recover taxes paid, on theory that they were assessed in violation of Pol. Code Porto Rico, § 290, exempting certain property, contention that property assessed was not of kind exempted, cannot for first time be raised in the appellate court by assignment of errors. Richardson v. Fajardo Sugar Co., 237 F. 195, 150 C. C. A. 341.

In view of failure to object at trial, held, that the limited scope of evidence and the limited bar of the action on the ground of election of remedies could not be raised on appeal. Arnold v. Horrigan, 238 F. 39, 151 C. C. A. 115.

A contention not urged in trial court cannot be considered on appeal. Towle v. Pullen, 238 F. 107, 151 C. C. A. 183.

A ruling directing the jury to allow interest upon whatever verdict they should render could not be reviewed, where no exception was taken. Goelet v. Matt J. Ward Co., 242 F. 65, 155 C. C. A. 9.

Objection that contract sued on is contrary to good morals and champertous, and not enforceable in equity, may be considered by appellate court, though not raised below. Jones v. Pettingill, 245 F. 269, 157 C. C. A. 461, certiorari denied Pettingill v. Jones, 38 S. Ct. 61, 245 U. S. 663, 62 L. Ed. 536.

Appeal from decree directing distribution in creditors' suit held to present nothing for review, and should be dismissed, because no exceptions were taken to auditor's report, on which it was based. Evans v. Crown Gasoline & Oil Co., 245 F. 933, 158 C. C. A. 221.

The defense that plaintiff has no title to the asserted right of action is always open and may be raised in the appellate court, although not asserted in the court below. Sterrett v. Second Nat. Bank of Cincinnati, Ohio, 246 F. 753, 159 C. C. A. 55, certiorari granted 38 S. Ct. 345, 246 U. S. 668, 62 L. Ed. 930.

Objection that suit was prematurely brought is waived, where without presenting objection in any way to court below, defendants answered to merits. Lumbermen's Trust Co. v. Title Ins. & Inv. Co. of Tacoma, 248 F. 212, 160 C. C. A. 290.

Defense that contract upon which suit is based was invalid, because made after creation of relation of attorney and client, there being no evidence that contract was just and equitable, cannot be presented for the first time on appeal, since it involves the trial of two issues of fact. Maynard v. Reynolds (C. C. A.) 251 F. 784.

1a. —— Coparties.—On the trial jointly of defendants, indicted jointly, but represented on the trial by separate counsel, objections would sometimes be made and exceptions taken by counsel for one defendant, and sometimes by counsel for the other. Held, that a request by counsel for one of the defendants for an instruction, and an exception taken by him to its refusal, could be invoked in behalf of the other defendant, as the real object of making objections and taking exceptions is to call the trial court's attention especially to some point of law, and this object was accomplished when one counsel called the court's attention thereto. Gardner v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 575.

1b. —— Objections to jurisdiction.—On writ of error to review jurisdiction of District Court, whether petition or case is defective need not be decided, where the judgment of the District Court was not defensively invoked on such question. Johnson v. Lankford, 38 S. Ct. 203, 245 U. S. 541, 62 L. Ed. 460.

Where contention that plaintiff had fraudulently magnified damages so as to give federal court jurisdiction was not raised below, contention that court was without jurisdiction cannot be sustained on error, unless fraud affirmatively appears. Mullins Lumber Co. v. Williamson & Brown Land & Lumber Co., 246 F. 232, 158 C. C. A. 392.

On appeal from a decree of the District Court, it is the duty of the Circuit Court of Appeals to see that the statutory jurisdiction of the District Court was not exceeded, irrespective of any question raised by the parties with respect to the matter. Devost v. Twin State Gas & Electric Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 349.

Under Rev. Laws Mass. 1902, c. 173, §§ 18, 19, questions of jurisdiction must be raised by plea or answer in abatement; however, evidence relating to the question of jurisdiction having been admitted at the trial, a case on appeal will be treated as though a plea in abatement had been filed. Bjornquist v. Boston & A. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 929.

On every writ of error or appeal in the federal courts, the first and fundamental question is that of jurisdiction, of which the court itself must take notice, as well the jurisdiction of the court below as its own. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. State of Nebraska (C. C. A.) 251 F. 279.

1c. —— Pleadings.—Though objection might have been made to mode of amendment of complaint, no objections having been made below, matter cannot be reviewed on appeal. Victor American Fuel Co. v. Tomljanovich, 232 F. 662, 146 C. C. A. 588, affirming orders Tomljanovich v. Victor American Fuel Co. (D. C.) 227 F. 951, and 230 F. 467.

Though complaint as amended might have been subject to special demurrer as duplicitous, no demurrers having been made below, matter cannot be reviewed on appeal. Id.

An exception is not necessary to open a question of law arising in the sustaining of a demurrer to a complaint. Snowden v. Ft. Lyon Canal Co., 238 F. 495, 151 C. C. A. 431.

Where defendant claimed as bona fide purchaser, held, that failure of its answer to set aside mineral patents to allege that consideration was bona fide and truly paid cannot be raised for first time on appeal, answer not having been attacked below, and evidence showing such payment having been received without objection.—U. S. v. Grand Canyon Cattle Co., 247 F. 446, 159 C. C. A. 500.

1d. —— Defects in indictment.—Where accused by plea in abatement to indictment attacked mode of selecting grand jury, and overruling of that plea is shown by record proper, question is sufficiently reserved for review; exceptions being unnecessary. Dunn v. U. S., 238 F. 508, 151 C. C. A. 444.

Though indictment, charging that defendant deposited in mails letter and circular giving information as to obtaining of contra-conceptives, was attacked for lack of reasonable certainty, objection that circular was not set out in extenso was not raised, so as to justify review, since, if that was the basis of objection, it should have been stated more definitely. Pilson v. U. S., 249 F. 328, 161 C. C. A. 336.

The objection that the language of the indictment is indefinite, uncertain, and ambiguous is not available on writ of error, where no such objection was made in the court below, since it does not then appear that accused was prejudiced. Sugar v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 79.

1a. —— Conduct of trial in general.—Remarks made by the court in the presence of the jury are not subject to review by an appellate court, where no objection was made nor exception taken at the time. Lane v. Leiter, 237 F. 149, 150 C. C. A. 295.

Where there was no objection to a statement by the court in admitting evidence, and no exception was reserved at the time, the matter cannot be reviewed. Wolf v. Edmunson, 240 F. 53, 153 C. C. A. 89.

2. —— Rulings on evidence and sufficiency of evidence.—An appeal will not be dismissed, on the ground that there was no proof of complainant's ownership of the cause of action sued on, where the point was not made before the trial court. Davis v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 229 F. 633, 144 C. C. A. 43, certiorari denied Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Davis, 36 S. Ct. 723, 241 U. S. 672, 60 L. Ed. 1231.

Plaintiff had been purchasing millwood from defendant, and had become largely indebted to defendant. He conveyed all of the millwood then owned by him to defendant on June 17, 1911, and took in return a written agreement giving him an option to purchase it at $1.25 a load. He sued defendant, alleging a subsequent oral contract by which he was to sell the millwood for defendant and receive for his services and expenses the proceeds above $20,000. Defendant denied the oral agreement, and alleged that when the sale of the wood to it was made plaintiff was indebted to other persons, and that in consideration of the bill of sale it promised to pay his other debts. Plaintiff denied that defendant agreed to settle or pay any such debts. On redirect examination he testified, over the objection that it was improper and no part of the case, that other creditors were not provided for in the bill of sale. Held, that the objection that the evidence was improper was under the circumstances too general and uncertain upon which to found a fatal error, as it could not have been clear to the court what the basis of the objection was. Itasca Lumber Co. v. Martin (C. C. A.) 230 F. 584.

The admission of M.'s testimony was not error, even though it was irrelevant and immaterial, where plaintiff's testimony regarding the conversation was introduced without objection, and no objection or motion to strike out for irrelevancy or immateriality was ever made during the trial. Id.

Appellate courts need not consider the question whether there was substantial evidence to sustain a conviction, in the absence of a request for an instructed verdict and an exception to its denial. Glass v. U. S., 231 F. 65, 145 C. C. A. 253.

In trespass to try title, objection to defendant's answer in a prior suit in equity offered as evidence by plaintiffs held sufficient to call the court's attention to the fact that it was unsigned and unsworn to by defendant or his counsel. Creal v. Gallup, 231 F. 96, 145 C. C. A. 284.

An objection to testimony given in another case, because it could not bind defendants, waived the objection that it deprived defendants of right to cross-examination. Grandison v. Robertson, 231 F. 785, 145 C. C. A. 605, modifying decree (D. C.) 220 F. 985.

General objections to evidence are sufficient, where the ground therefor is manifest; but, where it is not manifest, the objection must state the specific ground on which it is based. Id.

Under a general objection to the authentication of a transcript of judicial proceedings, objection on appeal that clerk's name was typewritten, where not specifically urged below, cannot be relied on. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 233 F. 82, 147 C. C. A. 152.

Where testimony is inadmissible, and could not under any state of facts be rendered admissible, a general objection is sufficient to present for review the question of the admission of such evidence. Safford v. U. S., 233 F. 495, 147 C. C. A. 381.

Plaintiff held not entitled to complain of introduction of evidence that defendant was incompetent to contract, though such defense was not pleaded, where no claim of surprise or motion to postpone was made. Arkansas Grand Prairie Oil & Gas Co. v. Davidson, 233 F. 641, 147 C. C. A. 449.

In an action for injuries to a shipment of cattle, the carrier held not entitled to complain that damages were assessed on the basis of the value of the animals at destination; no objection being made to evidence thereof. Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, 233 F. 956, 147 C. C. A. 630.

In the federal courts it is not sufficient to state that objection is made to the admission of evidence without at the same time stating specifically the ground of the objection. Gilman v.

Lamson Co., 234 F. 507, 148 C. C. A. 273.

In action for wrongful death, it cannot be urged on appeal for the first time that there was no proof of heirship of those parties for whose benefit the action was brought. Miller & Lux v. Petrocelli, 236 F. 846, 150 C. C. A. 108.

Where only a general objection was made to the admission of evidence offered, a specific objection will not be considered by the appellate court unless of such a character that it could not have been obviated in the trial court. Examiner Printing Co. v. Aston, 238 F. 459, 151 C. C. A. 395, affirming judgment Aston v. Examiner Printing Co. (D. C.) 226 F. 496.

Where there was no request to direct a verdict, the charge is not in the record, and no exceptions were taken, nor error assigned to the ruling on a motion for new trial, defendant cannot urge the insufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict. Kalloch v. Hoagland, 239 F. 252, 152 C. C. A. 240.

Objection to introduction of exemplified copy of letters testamentary of foreign executor, who was suing as plaintiff, cannot be considered on appeal, where not called to attention of trial court. Cordingly v. Kennedy, 239 F. 645, 152 C. C. A. 479.

Where it did not appear that objection to testimony was made before witness answered question, receipt thereof cannot be complained of on appeal. Klein v. Darnell, 239 F. 844, 152 C. C. A. 630.

Where no objection was made below that an answer to a question was not responsive, but was only an estimate, and there was no request to strike same, matter cannot be complained of on appeal. Wolf v. Edmunson, 240 F. 53, 153 C. C. A. 89.

An objection to a question is properly overruled when no ground is specified, or when the ground is so general as to be insufficient to direct attention to the particular defect or the objectionable feature relied upon. Greer v. U. S., 240 F. 320, 153 C. C. A. 246.

The question of the sufficiency of the evidence to support the charge made by the indictment is not presented for review, where no exception was reserved to a ruling of the court thereon. Benson v. U. S., 240 F. 413, 153 C. C. A. 339.

Assignments of error to the admission of evidence cannot be considered on appeal, where the objections were general, and did not point out the specific grounds for the rejection of such evidence. R. D. Cole Mfg. Co. v. Mendenhall, 240 F. 641, 153 C. C. A. 439.

An objection to evidence in general terms as irrelevant, immaterial, and incompetent is too general to be considered on error if in any possible circumstances it could be deemed, or could be made, relevant, material, or competent. Rose v. U. S., 240 F. 685, 153 C. C. A. 483.

In action against railroad company for violating Hours of Service Act, admission of evidence of other accidents claimed to show a negligent habit on part of company could not be questioned for first time on appeal, on ground they were not similar to principal accident offered in justification of retention of employés on duty longer than 16 hours. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. U. S., 243 F. 114, 155 C. C. A. 644.

Objection that use of mails in execution of scheme to defraud was in response to decoy letters held not available, where objection on that ground was not made to the admission of the letters. Freeman v. U. S., 243 F. 353, 156 C. C. A. 133.

Admission of mortgage and certified copy thereof held not reviewable, where objections were not made or else exceptions were not taken. Lohman v. Stockyards Loan Co., 243 F. 517, 156 C. C. A. 215, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 134, 245 U. S. 668, 62 L. Ed. 539.

Rulings in admitting and refusing to strike evidence cannot be reviewed; exceptions not having been taken thereto. Clark v. U. S., 245 F. 112, 157 C. C. A. 408.

Accused held not entitled to complain that reference by witness for identification purposes to another prosecution against him implied that accused was guilty of other charge, where his objection did not present that theory. Dean v. U. S., 246 F. 568, 158 C. C. A. 538.

An objection that the introduction in evidence of certified copies of certain statutes made unnecessary costs could not be urged on appeal, when not made when the exhibits were offered in evidence. Smith v. Smith, 247 F. 461, 159 C. C. A. 515.

Defendant is not entitled to have objections to admission of evidence considered on error, when they were not raised in court below, particularly where objections could have been obviated, if raised. Griffin v. U. S., 248 F. 6, 160 C. C. A. 146.

In prosecution for depositing in mails nonmailable matter, defendant, if not satisfied, that post cards and letter involved contained nonmailable communications when received, should have stated that as ground for their rejection, or raised it by motion for directed verdict, and cannot for first time raise it on writ of error. Id.

Assignment of error complaining of admission of evidence on ground of objection not urged in court below is not well taken. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 712.

The propriety of a hypothetical question, objected to on the ground that it assumed the existence of conditions not shown by the evidence, cannot be reviewed, where the objection did not point out any matter which was not pertinent to the case. Sharples Separator Co. v. Skinner (C. C. A.) 251 F. 25.

The objection that certain pamphlets offered in evidence by plaintiff were not the identical ones handed him is not available in the appellate court, where not raised below. Id.

A mere "I object" to questions, without stating ground of objection, did not necessarily suggest impropriety of cross-examination as to indictments or arrests, as distinguished from convictions, so as to allow review. Shea v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 433.

For review of admission of evidence, exception must have been taken. Spann v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 517.

Objection of admission of ledger sheets, without accounting for the original memoranda, is not available in appellate court; the objection below having been merely irrelevancy and immateriality. Id.

It is within the sound discretion of the Circuit Court of Appeals to notice the claim of counsel for a convicted defendant that there was no evidence to sustain the verdict, although the question was not raised in the trial court. Doe v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 903.

3. — Conduct of counsel.—A conviction will not be reversed for permitting United States attorney to read extracts from the testimony given by the witness he was cross-examining before the grand jury, which could have been read to the witness to refresh her recollection, where no exception was taken to reading those extracts. Bosselman v. U. S., 239 F. 82, 152 C. C. A. 132.

Where no exception was taken relating exclusively to language of summing up of defendant's counsel, complaint on appeal cannot be predicated thereon. Akalitis v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., 239 F. 299, 152 C. C. A. 287.

3½. — Conduct and deliberations of jury.—In absence of objection or request for ruling, anything said or done concerning an object left where the jury could see it, and examined by one of them without being in evidence, held not reviewable. York v. U. S., 241 F. 656, 154 C. C. A. 414.

Permitting jury to take depositions to jury room cannot be reviewed, where objection was not made or else exception was not taken. Lohman v. Stockyards Loan Co., 243 F. 517, 156 C. C. A. 215, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 134, 245 U. S. 668, 62 L. Ed. 539.

4. — Submission of issues of fact to jury, and verdict.—Where there was no request to direct a verdict, the charge is not in the record, and no exceptions were taken, nor error assigned to the ruling on a motion for new trial, defendant cannot urge the insufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict. Kalloch v. Hoagland, 239 F. 252, 152 C. C. A. 240.

A claim that the verdict was a compromise verdict need not be considered, where it rests upon no exception taken at the trial. Goelet v. Matt J. Ward Co., 242 F. 65, 155 C. C. A. 9.

5. — Instructions.—Where petition generally alleged damages submitted, defendant's objection to charge on damages as specifying items not included in petition presents nothing for review, where defendant was requested by the court to make its objection specific. Atlas Portland Cement Co. v. Hagen, 233 F. 24, 147 C. C. A. 94.

In action to recover compensation for procuring an agency, held, that exception to charge did not present question whether expenses should be deducted from the agreed commission, and so such question cannot be raised on error. Ransom & Randolph Co. v. Pinches, 234 F. 847, 148 C. C. A. 445.

The construction placed upon a contract by a trial court in its instructions cannot be reviewed, where no different instructions on the point were requested, and no exceptions taken to those given. Alverson v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co., 236 F. 331, 149 C. C. A. 463.

In the federal courts, exceptions to instructions given, or to the refusal to give instructions requested, to be considered by an appellate court, must be taken at the trial and while the jury is at the bar, and such fact must affirmatively appear. Alverson v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co.. 236 F. 331, 149 C. C. A. 463; Miller & Lux v. Petrocelli, 236 F. 846, 150 C. C. A. 108. See, also, notes under § 1114, ante.

It is sufficient exception for review that, at proper time, the direction of verdict was so brought to attention of court and defendant that both understood the purpose of plaintiffs to make it the basis of a writ of error. Long v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 238 F. 919, 151 C. C. A. 653.

Alleged errors in the charge of the court cannot be considered, in the absence of exceptions. American Locomotive Co. v. Harris, 239 F. 234, 152 C. C. A. 222; Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co. v. Hall, 243 F. 76, 155 C. C. A. 606; Fronsoe v. Bushnell (C. C. A.) 251 F. 850; Kreuzer v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 34.

The omission in the charge to withdraw immaterial testimony from the consideration of the jury will not be considered on writ of error, where the charge was not excepted to for that reason, and no error was assigned. Co-operative Raw Fur Co. v. American Credit Indemnity Co., 240 F. 67, 153 C. C. A. 103.

The omission in the charge to withdraw immaterial testimony from the consideration of the jury will not be considered on writ of error, where the charge was not excepted to for that reason, and no error was assigned. Cooperative Raw Fur Co. v. American Credit Indemnity Co., 240 F. 67, 153 C. C. A. 103.

Defendant cannot object on appeal to the court's omission to instruct the jury that failure to warn, to be actionable, must have been the proximate cause of the injury, where he did not except to the charge for failure to contain it. Republic Iron & Steel Co. v. Hines, 240 F. 77, 153 C. C. A. 113.

Error in charge hypothesizing facts not shown by evidence held to have been squarely called to the court's attention by the exception. May Department Stores Co. v. Runge, 241 F. 575, 154 C. C. A. 351.

Objection that use of mails in execution of scheme to defraud was in response to decoy letters held not available, where exception was not taken to instructions that this was immaterial. Freeman v. U. S., 243 F. 353, 156 C. C. A. 133.

Overruling of motion for new trial based on alleged errors in instructions is not alone sufficient to reverse judgment, where no exceptions were taken to any of instructions given. Daly Judge Mining Co. v. Towey, 240 F. 658, 153 C. C. A. 456.

Exceptions to instructions must be sufficiently specific to direct the attention of the court to the particular errors complained of. Hammond v. U. S., 246 F. 40, 158 C. C. A. 266, reversing judgment U. S. v. Hammond (D. C.) 226 F. 849.

Exceptions to instructions on measure of damages for cutting timber from public land held distinctly based on contention that court erred in authorizing any other measure of damages than value of stumpage, and in authorizing the jury to add interest. Id.

Defendant's exception to that part of the charge alleged to contain a request of plaintiff cannot be sustained on writ of error, where it appeared from the charge that it was not given as instruction, but only as a statement of plaintiff's contention. Boston Elevated Ry. Co. v. Teele, 248 F. 424, 160 C. C. A. 434.

Where raised by motion for an instructed verdict for defendant when the case was finally rested, the question whether negligence asserted was that of defendant master may be reviewed on writ of error, though no exceptions were reserved to instructions presenting such issue. Consolidated Interstate-Callahan Mining Co. v. Witkouski (C. C. A.) 249 F. 833.

Where defendant excepted to a charge that there is a presumption that the testimony of a witness having peculiar knowledge, which was withheld, would not support the contention of the party withholding it, on the ground that the charge applied to one of its agents, but it appeared that the designated agent took the stand and fully testified, neither the propriety of the charge as a general statement, nor whether it was prejudicial to defendant as referring to another agent who did not in fact testify, need be reviewed. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 712.

Exception to the charge submitting the theory that if plaintiff was a mere middleman, without any agency duties, he might recover commissions of the buyer, even if the sellers did not know of his compensation agreement with the buyer, being apparently intended only to challenge the rule of law announced, does not authorize review of the charge as unauthorized by the evidence. Eaton v. Clabaugh (C. C. A.) 251 F. 575.

5¼. —— New trial.—On writ of error, a judgment cannot be reversed on account of alleged newly discovered evidence, never called to the attention of the trial court. Turner v. Schaeffer, 249 F. 654, 161 C. C. A. 564.

5½. —— Dismissal. Where no exception was taken to the dismissal of the complaint, an appellate court need not consider the matter on plaintiff's writ of error. Farley v. Carey Show Print Co., 249 F. 476, 161 C. C. A. 434.

5¾. —— Judgment.—Where separate suits by a shipper against two railway companies to enforce an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission were heard together, error in awarding a joint judgment against both defendants for attorney's fees does not require a reversal, where the only objection made below was that the amount was excessive. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. George A. Hormel & Co., 240 F. 386, 153 C. C. A. 312.

6. Necessity or object of bill of exceptions.—A bill of exceptions is necessary to review the rulings of the District Court on motions relating to the pleadings, the evidence, or requests for instructions; and where grounds of the written motion for directed verdict, the written motion itself, the ruling thereon, and the exception thereto were not preserved by the bill of exceptions, they were not a part of the record, and the ruling was not reviewable. Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Le Valley, 233 F. 384, 147 C. C. A. 320, denying rehearing 227 F. 1016, 141 C. C. A. 664.

There being in the record an agreed statement of facts which the court used as a basis of its judgment, a bill of exceptions to support an assignment to the rendering of judgment for a certain amount is not required. Mound Coal Co. v. Jeffrey Mfg. Co., 240 F. 129, 153 C. C. A. 165, granting rehearing 233 F. 913, 147 C. C. A. 587.

A writ of error which is accompanied by neither the judgment roll nor a bill of exceptions, presents no matter which can be reviewed by the appellate court. Fraad Talking Mach. Co. v. Empire Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 618.

Where not saved in bill of exceptions, bill of particulars is no part of record. Central Commercial Co. v. Jones-Dusenbury Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 13.

A "bill of exceptions" is a written statement of objections to the decision of a court upon a point of law, made by a party to the cause, and properly certified; and a stenographic transcript of the entire proceedings of a criminal trial, including the colloquies of counsel, etc., is not a bill of exceptions, and should not be allowed as such. Linn v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 476.

Where there was no bill of exceptions, and no error appeared in the record, judgment must be affirmed on writ of error. Leitner v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 304.

8. Cases tried by court.—See notes under § 1668, post.

14. Matters apparent on record reviewable without bill of exceptions—Verdict.—Whether verdict supports judgment is question of law which appears on face of record, without bill of exceptions, and may be assigned as ground of reversal, though no exception is taken. East St. Louis Cotton Oil Co. v. Skinner Bros. Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 249 F. 439.

19. Subject and contents.—An assignment of error relating to remarks of the trial court, which remarks do not appear in the bill of exceptions, cannot be considered. Fisher Mach. Works Co. v. Dougherty, 231 F. 910, 146 C. C. A. 106.

20. Incorporating evidence—Necessity.—Refusal to withdraw one of plaintiff's claims from the jury as without supporting evidence held not shown to be erroneous, where bill of exceptions did not purport to set out all the evidence or its substance. Pacific Mail S. S. Co. v. Balderach, 229 F. 562, 144 C. C. A. 22.

Where record fails to disclose that bill of exceptions contains all of the evidence produced in case, verdict cannot be reviewed on writ of error. Central Commercial Co. v. Jones-Dusenbury Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 13.

27. Conclusiveness of bill.—Though the opinion of the Circuit Court of Appeals shows that counsel for plaintiff in that court stated that the quantum meruit claim had been disregarded, and that the trial proceeded solely on ground of breach of special contract, the bill of exceptions failing to bear this out, the trial court cannot, on the theory that such was the fact, be put in error in admission of evidence. Guerini Stone Co. v. P. J. Carlin Const. Co., 39 S. Ct. 102, 63 L. Ed. —.

Where evidence was made part of the exceptions, held, that recital in the bill of exceptions could add nothing to what the evidence itself showed. Boultbee v. International Paper Co., 229 F. 951, 144 C. C. A. 233.

II. ALLOWANCE AND SIGNING OF BILL OF EXCEPTIONS

30. Time for allowance of bill.—The right to a bill of exceptions expires with the adjournment of the term at which the case was tried, unless there is an order, agreement of counsel, or ruling of the court granting time within which to file bills, save in extraordinary circumstances. U. S. v. Thibodeaux, 232 F. 91, 146 C. C. A. 283; Proctor Coal Co. v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 236 F. 910, 150 C. C. A. 172; Susquehanna Coal Co. v. Casualty Co. of America (D. C.) 247 F. 137.

Mere misunderstanding of rule does not warrant settlement of bill of exceptions after term. Susquehanna Coal Co. v. Casualty Co. of America (D. C.) 247 F. 137.

Where defendant's counsel, who prepared bill of exceptions, took it to court at chambers after plaintiff's counsel had made objection to insertion of typewritten copy of insurance policy involved, and court in presence of opposing counsel observed necessity of inserting photographic copy, bill, in view of informality of such proceedings, must be deemed to have been presented at that time. Defendant's counsel, having presented bill of exceptions during term, held, under circumstances, not to have been guilty of neglect, though bill of exceptions, as changed, was not presented during term, because of intervening summer recess and inability of defendant's counsel to serve same on counsel for plaintiff. In re Federal Life Ins. Co., 248 F. 908, 161 C. C. A. 26.

A bill of exceptions may be allowed by consent after the time fixed by order or rule of the District Court and after the expiration of the term at which the case was decided. E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. v. Smith, 249 F. 403, 161 C. C. A. 377.

Where after reversal of judgment against them as executors trial court set aside stipulation dismissing as to defendants individually, refusal of court to sign and allow a bill of exceptions setting forth proceedings on motion to vacate stipulation, cannot be reviewed, as, after trial on the merits, defendants who brought error made no effort to have proceedings on motion incorporated in bill of exceptions of proceedings of trial which was duly signed. Griggs v. Nadeau (C. C. A.) 250 F. 781.

30½. Allowance of informal bill.—A paper, though informal, held sufficient as a proposed bill of exceptions to warrant the judge in his discretion receiving it and putting it in shape for settlement. Long v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 238 F. 919, 151 C. C. A. 653.

31. Authentication.—The clerk of the court cannot make exceptions a part of the record, and reviewable, by writing them into the journal of the proceedings of the trial court, without the approving certificate or signature of the trial judge. Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Le Valley, 233 F. 384, 147 C. C. A. 320, denying rehearing 227 F. 1016, 141 C. C. A. 664.

38. Amendment.—Where there was no bill of exceptions, a writ of error will not be remanded to compel the trial court to settle and include therein a condensed statement in narrative form of the evidence. Mound Coal Co. v. Jeffrey Mfg. Co., 233 F. 913, 147 C. C. A. 587, affirming judgment Jeffrey Mfg. Co. v. Mound Coal Co. (D. C.) 215 F. 222, rehearing granted Mound Coal Co. v. Jeffrey Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 240 F. 129, and judgment affirmed on rehearing 240 F. 412.

§ 1591. (R. S. § 954.) Defects of form; amendments.

I. CONSTRUCTION AND APPLICATION OF STATUTE

4. Suits in equity.—Where a District Court erroneously held on demurrer to a bill that a certain person was not a necessary party, on reversal of the final decree in the case complainant is entitled to amend the bill by making such person a party. Brown v. Fletcher, 231 F. 92, 145 C. C. A. 280. See, also, notes under § 1536.

II. DEFECTS CURED BY STATUTE

4½. Jurisdictional defects.—This section applies to all proceedings, regardless of state statutes, but cannot give jurisdiction. In re Griggs, 233 F. 243, 147 C. C. A. 249, denying rehearing 227 F. 795, 142 C. C. A. 319.

7. Pleadings—Variance.—Though the evidence was sufficient prima facie to make out a cause of action on a quantum meruit, the complaint in an action for commissions was properly dismissed, where the cause of action on a quantum meruit was not pleaded, and plaintiff did not ask leave to amend his complaint, so as to set it up, nor call the court's attention to any such claim. Matt J. Ward Co. v. Goelet (C. C. A.) 230 F. 979.

III. DEMURRER AS MODE OF RAISING OBJECTIONS

15. Waiver of demurrer.—When the declaration fails to state a cause of action, and clearly shows that upon the case as stated the plaintiff cannot recover, the defendant, upon his demurrer being overruled, may answer upon leave and go to trial without losing the right of having his demurrer heard on appeal. Teal v. Walker, 4 S. Ct. 420, 111 U. S. 242, 28 L. Ed. 415, reversing judgment Walker v. Teal (C. C.) 5 F. 317.

Answering over after a demurrer is overruled waives the point raised by the demurrer, where there is not an entire failure to state a cause of action. Board of Com'rs of Hamilton County v. Sherwood, 64 F. 103, 11 C. C. A. 507.

IV. AMENDMENTS

17. Effect of conformity act and state practice.—Where cause begun in state court is removed to federal court, question as to amendments of pleadings pursuant to this section is one solely for decision of federal tribunal. Salyer v. Consolidation Coal Co., 246 F. 794, 159 C. C. A. 96, certiorari denied Consolidation Coal Co. v. Salyer, 38 S. Ct. 345, 246 U. S. 669, 62 L. Ed. 931.

18. Discretion of court.—The allowance of amendments to pleadings is in the discretion of the court. Thomsen v. Cayser, 37 S. Ct. 353, 243 U. S. 66, 61 L. Ed. 597, Ann. Cas. 1917D, 322, reversing judgment Union Castle Mail S. S. Co. v. Thomsen, 190 F. 536, 111 C. C. A. 368, and 190 F. 1022, 111 C. C. A. 674; Highland Park Mfg. Co. v. Steele, 232 F. 10, 146 C. C. A. 202, affirming decree Steele v. Highland Park Mfg. Co. (D. C.) 212 F. 972, and decree modified on rehearing Highland Park Mfg. Co. v. Steele (C. C. A.) 235 F. 465; Ames v. Sullivan, 235 F. 880, 149 C. C. A. 192; Western Coal & Mining Co. v. McCallum (C. C. A.) 237 F. 1003; In re Frank, 239 F. 709, 152 C. C. A. 543, affirming order (D. C.) 234 F. 665; Gooch v. Presbyterian Home Hospital, 239 F. 828, 152 C. C. A. 614; Clinton v. Smith & Terry, 249 F. 119, 161 C. C. A. 171, modifying judgment The Benefactor (D. C.) 242 F. 582.

19. Time for amendment.—After the proof had been closed, and the argument was in progress, the court allowed the declaration to be amended so as to enlarge the averments in relation to the damages sustained by the plaintiff. Held reversible error. Brewer v. Jacobs (C. C.) 22 F. 217.

Where the proof shows that the county court had power to issue the bonds under any law, a variance between the allegations and the proof, as to the particular law under which the bonds were issued, is immaterial; it being the duty of the court to allow the pleadings to be amended to conform to the proof. Huey v. Macon County (C. C.) 35 F. 481.

After commencement of trial, where jurisdictional question as to citizenship of parties is developed in the proof, see Imperial Refining Co. v. Wyman (C. C.) 38 F. 574, 3 L. R. A. 503.

A verdict will not be set aside, if it is apparently just under the law and evidence, though the pleadings allege only negligence, and the proof shows such acts as amount to willful injury in law, as, if the pleadings are too narrow, they can be amended even after verdict. Shumacher v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. (C. C.) 39 F. 174.

In an action against several defendants upon a contract signed by one of them for the benefit of all, a joint answer admitted the execution of the contract. Six years after the making of such answer, and after the evidence had all been taken, and some of the witnesses had died, one of the defendants asked leave to file an amended answer denying the authority of his codefendant to execute the contract for him. Held, that the application came too late. Rice v. Ege (C. C.) 42 F. 658.

A defendant, whose absence from the country had prevented the commencement of an action against him for libel until after the expiration of the period of limitation, appeared after the expiration of such period, but failed to plead the statute because it was supposed that his absence would prevent its running. A decision of the state court of last resort having given a different interpretation to the statute, defendant applied for leave to amend his answer by setting it up. Held, that the application should be denied, in the exercise of discretion, as inequitable. Salisbury v. Bennett (C. C.) 72 F. 743.

After repeated postponements because defendant was not ready for trial, he will not be permitted to amend by setting up a counterclaim, which can be determined in an independent suit, when this would necessitate another continuance because of the absence of plaintiff's witnesses. Jacobus v. U. S. (C. C.) 86 F. 84.

Three years after the commencement of an action, the plaintiff, by leave of court, filed an amended petition, in which he placed his right to recover on a different ground from that stated in his original petition. The case was thereafter tried three times, a judgment for plaintiff after the third trial being reversed by the supreme court on the ground that the amended petition stated a new cause of action, which was at the time barred by limitation. Held, that the court would not, in the exercise of its discretion, after the cause had been remanded and nine years after such amended petition was filed, permit plaintiff to again amend by restating the original cause of action, which he had abandoned. Wyler v. Union Pacific Ry. Co. (C. C.) 89 F. 41.

When justice requires it, the court will permit the filing of special pleas setting up defenses on the merits, when offered in good faith, even after the jury has heard all the evidence and the court has ruled upon prayers for instructions; especially will it do so in cases involving less than $5,000 in value, and which are consequently not subject to review by the supreme court. Cronin v. Patrick County (C. C.) 89 F. 79.

Leave to file an amended complaint will not be granted after a case has been long at issue and testimony has been taken, where it is clear that the proposed amendments present matter which is immaterial, and cannot aid the plaintiff. Municipal Inv. Co. v. Industrial & General Trust Co. (C. C.) 89 F. 254.

It is not error to permit amendments of the declaration on a trial to conform pleadings to proof on matters introducing no new cause of action. Mack v. Porter, 72 F. 236, 18 C. C. A. 527.

The action of a trial court in denying a motion for judgment on the ground of a variance, and in permitting the amendment of the declaration, after the conclusion of plaintiff's evidence, to conform to the proof, is not an abuse of discretion, where it is not claimed that defendant was misled by the variance to his prejudice. Southern Exp. Co. v. Platten, 93 F. 936, 36 C. C. A. 46.

Denial of a motion to amend an intervening petition after a delay of four years held not error, where intervening rights would be affected by the amendment. Davis v. Virginia Ry. & Power Co., 229 F. 633, 144 C. C. A. 43, certiorari denied Virginia Ry. & Power Co. v. Davis, 36 S. Ct. 723, 241 U. S. 672, 60 L. Ed. 1231.

Allowance of trial amendment, not adding new cause of action, after close of evidence, together with denial of continuance to defendant, held not an abuse of discretion. Western Coal & Mining Co. v. McCallum (C. C. A.) 237 F. 1003.

Under this section a court can permit the complaint by plaintiff, suing as agent, to be amended to show delivery, notice, presentation, etc., of the note to or by plaintiff in his capacity as agent. Fleitman v. McKinnon, 238 F. 98, 151 C. C. A. 174.

In a suit for libel defendant may serve an amended answer setting up a justification of the alleged libel, which was not pleaded in the original answer, notwithstanding the lapse of more than seven months between the filing of the original answer and the application to amend. Hollander v. Baiz (D. C.) 43 F. 35.

21. Process amendable.—In view of Rev. St. § 716 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1239), authorizing the issuance of scire facias out of the United States court, and this section a scire facias issued out of the federal District Court for Tennessee to recover on a bail bond may be amended to show the missing jurisdictional fact that the court admitted the offender to bail. Ewing v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 240 F. 241.

That a notice on the back of plaintiff's statement of claim was not signed by counsel is a defect which may be corrected. Watson v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 906.

Court, in quashing service on foreign corporation, may authorize the issuance of process, in order that service may be made on managing agent within state. Knapp v. Bullock Tractor Co. (D. C.) 242 F. 543.

25. Complaint or petition.—Although two special demurrers to the plaintiff's declaration for matters of form have been sustained, the court will permit the plaintiff to amend upon terms, it appearing that the case is important and difficult, and that, if the amendment was not allowed, a part of the plaintiff's remedy would be cut off by an exercise of the discretion from which there is no appeal. Wilbur v. Abbot (C. C.) 6 F. 817.

An amendment setting up that the original complainant was, at the time of executing the papers sought to be set aside and canceled, insolvent and largely indebted, and that therefore the conveyances executed by him were void as against his creditors, who are now represented by the administrator, who has been substituted in lieu of the original complainant, should be allowed. Lyster v. Stickney (C. C.) 12 F. 609.

Land was conveyed as part of a bonus to aid the construction of a cable road. A bond was executed conditioned for the construction of the road. The road was not built, and, in an action on the bond, the answer set up a parol agreement that the deed was not to take effect if the road was not built because of failure to secure additional bonus. The court sustained a demurrer thereto, and allowed plaintiff to amend his complaint by alleging that the sole consideration for the conveyance was the bond, and the sole consideration for the bond was the conveyance. Held, that this amendment was within the court's discretion, not being variant from the recitals of the bond, or prejudicial to defendant. Blewett v. Front St. Cable Ry. Co., 51 F. 625, 2 C. C. A. 415; Front St. Cable Ry. Co. v. Blewett, Id. Affirming judgment (C. C.) 49 F. 126.

In liability insurer's action against attorneys for neglecting to defend action against policy holder, refusal to permit amendment by striking out allegation as to amount for which settlement could have been made held not error. Maryland Casualty Co. v. Price, 231 F. 397, 145 C. C. A. 391, affirming judgment Same v. Price, Smith, Spilman & Clay (D. C.) 224 F. 271.

In a coal miner's action, where he could rely either on the statute or the common law, the granting of an amendment to conform the complaint to the exact words of the statute was not error. Victor American Fuel Co. v. Tomljanovich, 232 F. 662, 146 C. C. A. 588, affirming orders Tomljanovich v. Victor American Fuel Co. (D. C.) 227 F. 951, and 230 F. 467.

26. —— Citizenship of parties.—Plaintiff may amend his declaration, to show that he was an alien when the action was brought, instead of a citizen, as alleged. Conolly v. Taylor (1829) 2 Pet. 556, 7 L. Ed. 518, followed. Betzoldt v. American Ins. Co. (C. C.) 47 F. 705.

28. —— Change of parties or their capacity.—Leave to amend by striking out an admission of partnership between plaintiffs, and inserting that defendant has no information on which to form a belief on that point, will not be granted where defendant has been required to answer under terms. Stewart v. Townsend (C. C.) 41 F. 121.

29. —— Change of form of action.—Amendments will be allowed to correct errors in pleading when the opposite party is not misled and substantial justice so requires. It is not the policy of modern procedure to defeat a party who has a meritorious cause of action because he has not declared in the right form. Coghlan v. Stetson (C. C.) 19 F. 727.

30. —— New cause of action.—See Walker v. Iowa Cent. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 241 F. 395.

An amendment stating that plaintiff, at the time of the injury, was traveling on defendant's road on a second-class ticket, instead of first-class, as stated in the original complaint, does not change the cause of action. Atlantic & P. Ry. Co. v. Laird, 17 S. Ct. 120, 164 U. S. 393, 41 L. Ed. 485, affirming judgment 58 F. 760, 7 C. C. A. 489.

Where the original complaint in an action against a railroad company for injuries alleges that defendant was incorporated under the laws of a certain state, an amendment stating that it was incorporated under act of congress does not change the cause of action. Id.

Where the original declaration in an action of trespass sought to recover damages for injury to plaintiff's realty and its use and occupation by reason of the deposit thereon of refuse and washings from defendant's ore washes, an amended declaration, which counts on the same injuries, merely stating the facts in more amplified form, is one a recovery upon which would have been barred by a recovery on the original declaration, which would be supported by the same evidence, is governed by the same rules as to damages and subject to the same plea, and hence does not state a new cause of action. Painter v. New River Mineral Co. (C. C.) 98 F. 544.

The amendment of a complaint by a change in the averment of the statute violated does not set out a new cause of action where both statutes were substantially identical, and the last mentioned was passed as substitute for the one first pleaded. Rosenbach v. Dreyfuss (D. C.) 1 F. 391.

30½. Bill of particulars.—Under its general power to allow amendment of pleadings, a trial court may, in its discretion, permit the amendment of a bill of particulars attached to the declaration. Laflin v. Shackleford, 98 F. 372, 39 C. C. A. 102.

31. Plea or answer.—Where no sufficient reason is shown for amending an answer which a general replication treats as a denial of the existence of the agreement set up in the complaint, the motion to amend will be denied. Gardner v. Crossman (C. C.) 11 F. 851.

A plea of nul tiel record should conclude with a "verification," and not "to the country"; but such an error is one of form, and is therefore, under the present practice, amendable. Wittemore v. Malcomson (C. C.) 28 F. 605.

It is in the discretion of the court to refuse to permit an amendment during the course of the trial which would interpose an entirely new defense, not suggested by the original answer, though it must have been well known to defendant when the original answer was filed. Jefferson v. Burhans, 85 F. 924, 29 C. C. A. 487.

32. —— Equity.—Leave to amend an answer, in a suit to foreclose a mortgage, by the insertion of an additional fact, refused, where such fact was known to the defendant at the time the answer was filed. Cross v. Morgan (C. C.) 6 F. 241.

32½. Replication or reply.—The objection that plaintiff in his replication failed to plead rescission of the contract would, if demurred to, be curable by amendment, and could not, in a court of error, operate to invalidate the trial below. Ankeny v. Clark, 13 S. Ct. 617, 148 U. S. 345, 37 L. Ed. 475.

In replevin in a federal court defendant pleaded in justification that he was a sheriff, and took the goods under an attachment issued by a state court. At the close of plaintiffs' evidence, defendant moved the court to direct a verdict for him. This was denied, and plaintiffs thereupon obtained leave to amend their replication so as to allege that the suit in which the attachment issued was determined, the judgment satisfied, and the property disposed of long prior to the commencement of the present suit; and proofs were thereafter given by both parties. Held, that the amendment did not set up a new cause of action, but was merely an additional replication to the new matter pleaded in the answer, and its allowance was within the court's discretion. Wise v. Jefferis, 51 F. 641, 2 C. C. A. 432.

The refusal of the trial court to permit a city during the trial to amend its reply, so as to allege that its engineer was corruptly hired not to give notice of defects in the paving, held not error. City of Hutchinson v. Kansas Bitulithic Co., 239 F. 659, 152 C. C. A. 493.

34. Pleadings in admiralty.—See The Holthe (D. C.) 249 F. 783.

37. Conditions on granting amendment—Costs.—When it does not appear that plaintiff has been prejudiced by defendant's delay in interposing a particular defense,—unless in making proof of his case, which he might not have done had the defense been interposed originally,—a motion to amend the answer will be granted, on payment of taxable costs to the time of amendment. Arnold v. Chesebrough (C. C.) 33 F. 571.

44. Judgment and record.—Where the failure of the clerk to enter judgment in the first place in accordance with the court's direction was a mere omission, it may be corrected by the entry of judgment nunc pro tunc. U. S. v. Chicago & A. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 101.

46. Causes of appellate jurisdiction.—To prevent reversal for an unimportant and nonprejudicial variance, complaint may be treated on appeal as amended. Guerini Stone Co. v. P. J. Carlin Const. Co., 39 S. Ct. 102, 63 L. Ed. —.

Where instructions allowed finding for plaintiff on count of indebitatus assumpsit, though such recovery was not warranted by evidence, held, that plaintiff should not be allowed on appeal to file an amended declaration in special assumpsit, and have affirmance of judgment on theory that verdict was based on count in quantum meruit. American Locomotive Co. v. Harris, 239 F. 234, 152 C. C. A. 222.

48. —— Change of parties.—The Circuit Court of Appeals may permit a party which has been omitted from an appeal, and not summoned and severed to be brought in by amendment, where it appears and waives citation. The Mary B. Curtis, 250 F. 9, 162 C. C. A. 181; The Seguranca, 250 F. 19, 162 C. C. A. 191.

V. DEFECTS OR ERRORS REGARDED HARMLESS ON REVIEW

49. Prejudice from error.—A decree enjoining enforcement of intrastate rates fixed by state for interstate carrier as confiscatory will not be disturbed for errors not affecting result. Rowland v. Boyle, 37 S. Ct. 577, 244 U. S. 106, 61 L. Ed. 1022, affirming decree Boyle v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. (D. C.) 222 F. 539.

Though suit by defendants, attacking validity of mortgage which plaintiffs sought to foreclose, was pending, refusal of court to stay foreclosure proceedings until determination of first suit was harmless as to defendants; mortgage being upheld in first suit. Ibanez v. Hongkong & Shanghai Banking Corporation, 38 S. Ct. 413, 246 U. S. 627, 62 L. Ed. 907.

Errors in the conduct of a trial, which are inconsequential, do not warrant a reversal. Compagnie Générale Transatlantique v. Bump, 234 F. 52, 148 C. C. A. 68.

Refusal to incorporate in the record an epitomized statement of the testimony held harmless, consideration of it being precluded by rule of court requiring it to be brought to the appellate court by bill of exceptions. Mound Coal Co. v. Jeffrey Mfg. Co., 240 F. 129, 153 C. C. A. 165, granting rehearing 233 F. 913, 147 C. C. A. 587.

Where judgment must have gone against plaintiffs on one defense, alleged errors in rulings with reference to other defenses need not be considered. Hornblower v. City of Pierre, 241 F. 450, 154 C. C. A. 282, affirming judgment (D. C.) 231 F. 496.

In an action under Sherman Act begun in district for Pennsylvania, held, that failure of court to apply shorter limitation act of Louisiana (Civ. Code La. arts. 3536, 3537), place where cause of action arose, in accordance with Act Pa. June 26, 1895 (P. L. 375), was harmless to plaintiff. Bluefields S. S. Co. v. United Fruit Co., 243 F. 1, 155 C. C. A. 531.

Any error in requiring plaintiff to elect between paragraphs held harmless, where practically all evidence was admitted, and no error was claimed in the instructions bearing on the excluded paragraph. Robbins v. Pennsylvania Co., 245 P. 435, 157 C. C. A. 597.

Where plaintiff was in no event entitled to relief, denial of its motion to transfer cause to equity docket and trial with jury was not prejudicial error. Southern Ry. Co. v. Board of Com'rs of Public Works of City of Union, S. C., 246 F. 383, 158 C. C. A. 447. And where bill to cancel contract of sale, on which buyer had already sued, at least stated equitable defense, it was immaterial that bill was not transferred from equity side, for, had it been transferred and treated as answer to action at law, it would have been disposed of by court sitting as chancellor before trial of action at law to jury. Fay v. Hill, 249 F. 415, 161 C. C. A. 389.

An error in procedure cannot be treated as harmless, on the theory that the judgment was just, where the error was such that trial was not according to due process of law. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Syas, 246 F. 561, 158 C. C. A. 531.

If error could make no difference in the judgment, it may be disregarded. Austro-American S. S. Co. v. Thomas, 248 F. 231, 160 C. C. A. 309, L. R. A. 1918D, 873.

To render error harmless, it must appear beyond doubt that it did not and could not prejudice the rights of the complaining party. Id.

Where, under evidence, defendant's cross-demand would have been denied, had it been considered, refusal of trial court to consider same is not prejudicial, if erroneous. Sun Co. v. Vinton Petroleum Co., 248 F. 623, 160 C. C. A. 523, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 580, 247 U. S. 514, 62 L. Ed. 1244.

Where, in action by purchaser for damages on account of vendor's inability to convey title as agreed, there was error in favor of purchaser in assessment of damages, such error will not be considered; it appearing that it was more than counterbalanced by reason of vendor's forfeiture of improvements placed on premises by purchaser. Crocker v. Ingersoll Engineering & Constructing Co., 249 F. 31, 161 C. C. A. 91.

50. Errors favorable to party complaining.—Instruction for defendant railroad as to sufficiency of handhold or grab iron within Safety Appliance Act March 2, 1893, § 4, and Act March 2, 1903 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8608), held more favorable to defendant than the law authorized. St. Joseph & G. I. Ry. Co. v. Moore, 37 S. Ct. 278, 243 U. S. 311, 61 L. Ed. 741, affirming judgment Moore v. St. Joseph & G. I. Ry. Co., 186 S. W. 1035, 268 Mo. 31.

Plaintiff may not complain of instruction allowing it to recover for injury from unsuccessful as well as successful attempt to monopolize. Buckeye Powder Co. v. E. I. Dupont de Nemours Powder Co., 39 S. Ct. 38, 63 L. Ed. —.

In contractor's action for county's breach of contract, county not being entitled to instruction as to conclusiveness of engineer's report, instruction on that subject held favorable to it. Lauderdale County v. Kittel, 229 F. 593, 143 C. C. A. 615.

Where shareholder did not establish his right to enjoin the sale of corporate property and dissolution, he cannot complain that the court ordered the depositing of a sum of money for his protection in lieu of a preliminary injunction against such proceedings. Venner v. Pennsylvania Steel Co. of New Jersey, 233 F. 407, 147 C. C. A. 343.

Where, for the destruction of his pasture by fire, plaintiff was allowed to recover the rental value for the season, or part of the season, when the destruction took place, but the time for reseeding was limited to one season, defendant cannot complain. Chicago, B.

& Q. R. Co. v. Gelvin, 238 F. 14, 151 C. C. A. 90, L. R. A. 1917C, 983.

The admission at the trial on an amended declaration of part of the opening statement of plaintiffs' counsel at the trial on the original declaration held favorable, and not prejudicial, to plaintiff. Co-operative Raw Fur Co. v. American Credit Indemnity Co., 240 F. 67, 153 C. C. A. 103.

In action for damages under Sherman Act, erroneous admission of findings in previous case, on theory that they were conclusive, held not prejudicial to plaintiff, relieving it of duty of proving certain facts. Bluefields S. S. Co. v. United Fruit Co., 243 F. 1, 155 C. C. A. 531.

The erroneous submission of issues to the jury is harmless, where the verdict is in favor of the plaintiff in error. United Press Ass'ns v. National Newspapers Ass'n (C. C. A.) 254 F. 284.

Appeal from decree by plaintiff alone brings up for review only what was decided adversely to him, and not whether decree, so far as favorable to him, was erroneous. Santa Marina Co. v. Canadian Bank of Commerce (C. C. A.) 254 F. 391.

In view of proviso in Employers' Liability Act April 22, 1908, § 3 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8659), as to contributory negligence, where carrier violates statute, instructions as to contributory negligence held favorable to defendant, and submission of that question harmless. Clark v. Erie R. Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 478.

51. Pleadings.—Parties held not injured by rulings on pleadings, where they were permitted to give in evidence all matters of offense, defense, and reply. Lauderdale County v. Kittel, 229 F. 593, 143 C. C. A. 615.

In assumpsit on express contract, where court allowed plaintiff, having amended so as to rely on a quantum meruit, to withdraw its amendment and thereafter to show value of goods delivered defendant, held, that error was harmless, defendant sharply contesting issue and introducing evidence applicable thereto. American Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Berthold & Jennings Lumber Co., 233 F. 971, 147 C. C. A. 645.

When point was not argued, denials upon information and belief, though in respect of matters within pleader's knowledge, held to be assumed good. Stave & Timber Corporation in Norfolk, Va., v. A. H. Andrews Co., 242 F. 230, 155 C. C. A. 70.

In action on judgment on note given in settlement of an action, refusal to permit amendment, to allege that note sued on in the original action had not been returned, held harmless. Westwater v. Murray, 245 F. 427, 157 C. C. A. 589.

Where defendant was refused leave to file preliminary motions before filing its pleas in accordance with stipulation made when its default was set aside, but withdrawal of certain counts of declaration gave defendant every advantage the motions would have given it, denial of leave was harmless if erroneous. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 712.

51½. Conduct of trial in general.—A remark by the trial judge in the presence of the panel as to plaintiff's physical condition held not prejudicial, in view of the charge leaving the nature and extent of the injuries to the jury. Pennsylvania Co. v. Fanger, 231 F. 851, 146 C. C. A. 47.

Where defendant's mental incapacity was not contradicted, and there was no conflict in medical testimony, remark by trial judge in his charge that an alienist called by defendant was one of the ablest in the locality held no ground for reversal. Arkansas Grand Prairie Oil & Gas Co. v. Davidson, 233 F. 641, 147 C. C. A. 449.

Error in permitting counsel to read from the testimony of one of defendant's witnesses given at a former trial is harmless, where the extract tended in no way to contradict his testimony given at the second trial. Tacoma Ry. & Power Co. v. Cothary, 235 F. 872, 149 C. C. A. 184.

That communication from jury was presented to judge, and answered in writing, when the judge was not in open court, and the parties and their counsel were not present, held not ground for reversal, where no harm resulted. Fillipon v. Albion Vein Slate Co., 242 F. 258, 155 C. C. A. 98, certiorari granted Fhillipon v. Same, 38 S. Ct. 12, 245 U. S. 648, 62 L. Ed. 530.

Though plaintiff's counsel was guilty of misconduct in telling defendant's witness that he would have him punished for perjury, if he testified, as he had on a previous trial, yet, where the witness did not change his testimony, and the jury disregarded its finding for plaintiff, the verdict need not be set aside because of the improper conduct of plaintiff's counsel. Puget Sound Electric Ry. v. Matson (C. C. A.) 253 F. 33.

52. Rulings on evidence.—In an action against a railroad company to recover the value of cotton destroyed by fire while on a platform adjoining defendant's track, where direct evidence was introduced tending to prove that the cotton was discovered to be on fire shortly after three locomotives had passed, one or more of which was emitting large cinders in unusual quantities, and that there was no means for the fire being set other than by such locomotives, it was error to admit evidence that a few days afterwards an entirely different locomotive, in no way responsible for the injury complained of, emitted large cinders as it was passing such platform, which fell on cotton and scorched it; and the admission of such evidence was prejudicial, as further inquiry should have been limited to the construction, condition, and operation of the locomotives shown to be the only ones by which the fire might have been caused. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 801, 145 C. C. A. 111, reversing judgment on rehearing 218 F. 990, 133 C. C. A. 673.

Every theoretical error in the admission of evidence is not ground for reversal, and mistakes which do not involve injustice should ordinarily be disregarded. Missouri Valley Bridge & Iron Co. v. Blake, 231 F. 417, 145 C. C. A. 411.

In an action by one struck by an electric car while attempting to pass from the right of way through a turnstile, erroneous admission of evidence as to its condition held harmless; the negligence relied on being that of the operatives of the car. Tacoma Ry. & Power Co. v. Cothary, 235 F. 872, 149 C. C. A. 184.

Where evidence of inconsistent statements made by witness out of court was hearsay, error in refusal of court to permit defendant, transcript of witness' testimony at former trial being read on account of his absence from state, to withdraw statement that questions as to witness' inconsistent statements were not for impeachment, was harmless. Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Ennis, 236 F. 17, 149 C. C. A. 227.

In action against attorney of bankrupt for his participation in conversion by bankrupt of money of his estate, admission of evidence that in one case the bankrupt, who was seeking to obtain currency, was persuaded to take a draft, held harmless. Arnold v. Horrigan, 238 F. 39, 151 C. C. A. 115.

In action for death of plaintiff's husband, a servant, erroneous admission of evidence as to ages and occupation of plaintiff's children was harmless. Akalitis v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., 239 F. 299, 152 C. C. A. 287.

The range of cross-examination is committed in large measure to the discretion of the trial judge, and error in the exercise thereof must be plain and harmful before an appellate court will reverse. N. P. Sloan Co. v. Uncasville Mfg. Co., 240 F. 680, 153 C. C. A. 478.

In action on note which defendants denied signing, admission of financial statement purporting to be signed by them held not prejudicial error, though they denied signing the statement. Vandeventer v. Traders' Nat. Bank of Kansas City, Mo., 241 F. 584, 154 C. C. A. 360.

One not appearing to be purchaser in good faith of preferential payment held not prejudiced because decree was based in part on testimony received in another case tried with the suit against her. Watson v. Adams, 242 F. 441, 155 C. C. A. 217.

Admission of evidence as to reason for omitting signals as railway engine approached bridge where decedent was struck held harmless, where evidence showed contributory negligence. Robbins v. Pennsylvania Co., 245 F. 435, 157 C. C. A. 597.

The erroneous admission of evidence, where harmless, is no ground for reversal. Société Nouvelle d'Armement v. Barnaby, 246 F. 68, 158 C. C. A. 294.

In action by purchaser on account of alleged worthlessness of part of land, admission of evidence as to reclamation warrants for work after purchase and purchaser's suit to quiet title was not reversible error, though remote. Garwood v. Scheiber, 246 F. 74, 158 C. C. A. 300.

Failure to directly and clearly withdraw evidence bearing only on issues withdrawn cannot be complained of, where its retention was not likely to prejudice the jury in the determination of the simple questions remaining. Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. U. S., 246 F. 353, 158 C. C. A. 417, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 333, 246 U. S. 663, 62 L. Ed. 928.

In action for death of a servant, where master's superintendent was competent to testify, not only as to his orders to deceased servant, but circumstances surrounding fatal accident, withdrawal of testimony by superintendent as to his orders was harmless as to defendant master. Central Iron & Coal Co. v. Hamacher, 248 F. 50, 160 C. C. A. 190.

In action against steamship company for threatening objection and asserting worthlessness of check, admission of section of Italian statute held cured by requiring reduction of verdict. Austro-American S. S. Co. v. Thomas, 248 F. 231, 160 C. C. A. 309, L. R. A. 1918D, 873.

Refusal of a federal court for Texas to suppress depositions taken in Germany, on ground that they had not been transmitted to court as provided by Texas statutes was not reversible error, though such depositions, because of war between Germany and other countries, had been transmitted to State Department at Washington and thence mailed to court. Birge-Forbes Co. v. Heye, 248 F. 636, 160 C. C. A. 536, certiorari granted 38 S. Ct. 426, 246 U. S. 676, 62 L. Ed. 933.

Plaintiff in error cannot complain of the overruling of an objection to a question, where the witness answered in the negative. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 712.

In action on life policy, where defense was suicide, and witness at trial gave testimony tending to support defense, erroneous admission of transcript of his testimony, given before coroner and offered to impeach his testimony at trial, must be deemed prejudicial, where jury, after considerable deliberation, returned and asked that transcript of witness' testimony at inquest be again read to them, which was done. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Neasham (C. C. A.) 250 F. 787.

Where the answer was not unfavorable to it, defendant cannot complain in the appellate court of the allowance of a hypothetical question. Sharples Separator Co. v. Skinner (C. C. A.) 251 F. 25.

In an action for malicious prosecution, based on arrest of plaintiff on a charge of embezzlement, admission in evidence of newspaper clippings giving an accurate account of the arrest was not harmful to defendant. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Thomasson (C. C. A.) 251 F. 833.

In ejectment, by heir at law of devisee by will authorizing executrix to sell realty only if personalty was insufficient to pay legacies, against defendant claiming under executrix's bargain and sale deed, admission of evidence of will of executrix, giving her own estate, subject to debts and charges, to her daughter for life, etc., held harmless to plaintiff. Fronsoe v. Bushnell (C. C. A.) 251 F. 850.

Admission in evidence of certified copy of restored transcript of appearance docket of probate court, so far as relating to sale of certain other real estate of testator, held harmless to plaintiff. Id.

New trial cannot be granted defendant, because some evidence allowed in rebuttal was repetition, where it is not evident that defendant was prejudiced. Harper v. Harper (C. C. A.) 252 F. 39.

In a servant's action for injury while oiling a loose pulley, any error in the admission of testimony on a long cross-examination that screens, subsequently placed around the pulleys to exclude dust and particles of cotton, would also operate to protect employés, was not so harmful as to require a reversal. E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. v. Smith (C. C. A.) 252 F. 491.

53. — Facts otherwise established. —An objection to the admission of a letter in evidence on the ground that it was a copy was cured by the subsequent introduction of the original. Lauderdale County v. Kittel, 229 F. 593, 143 C. C. A. 615.

Admission of exhibit over objection held not reversible error, where no exception was reserved to oral testimony covering substantially the main facts contained in the exhibit. Good Pine Lumber Co. v. Duke, 229 F. 714, 144 C. C. A. 124.

Admission of opinion of witness as to incompetency of defendant's engineer held not reversible error, where he stated facts from which such incompetency might have been found. Missouri Valley Bridge & Iron Co. v. Blake, 231 F. 417, 145 C. C. A. 411.

In view of uncontradicted testimony as to plaintiff's injuries, held, any error in not striking out a physician's opinion as speculative was harmless. Chicago Rys. Co. v. Kramer, 234 F. 245, 148 C. C. A. 147.

The erroneous admission of evidence is harmless, where similar evidence of more forcible character is admitted without objection. Waters v. Guile, 234 F. 532, 148 C. C. A. 298.

A nonresponsive answer of a witness is not prejudicial, where merely cumulative of other testimony to the same general effect received without objection. Id.

In ejectment for a mining claim, where defendant contended plaintiff's rights were lost by failure to do assessment work, but admitted he had driven off one sent to do such work, improper admission of letter written by such person to plaintiff's predecessor in title, reciting such facts, was not prejudicial, though its statement of the threats was slightly different from defendant's. Ames v. Sullivan, 235 F. 880, 149 C. C. A. 192.

Ruling that map of commissioners appointed under Webster-Ashburton treaty of 1842, relative to Canadian boundary, was conclusive, held harmless, if erroneous, though the treaty and commissioners' report was not introduced, for the court took judicial notice thereof. Daigle v. U. S., 237 F. 159, 150 C. C. A. 305.

The admission of evidence as to a fact not alleged in the declaration is harmless, where similar evidence had been more than once introduced without objection, and defendant admitted that he knew the condition existed. Kalloch v. Hoagland, 239 F. 252, 152 C. C. A. 240.

Erroneous admission of hearsay testimony, corroborating only witness testifying to fact found by jury, held not necessarily harmless, on theory that it did not affect jury. Klein v. Darnell, 239 F. 844, 152 C. C. A. 630.

Testimony by witness that he had conversation with one of defendant's witnesses is harmless, where such witness had substantially admitted facts referred to in conversation, as is testimony that such witness had a conversation with another of defendant's witnesses, without stating its purport. Woo Vey v. U. S., 242 F. 838, 155 C. C. A. 426, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 60, 245 U. S. 660, 62 L. Ed. 535.

Admission of written statements, signed by plaintiff after injury, held not error, where they contained nothing materially different from his testimony. O'Brien v. Las Vegas & T. R. Co., 242 F. 850, 155 C. C. A. 438.

Admission of hypothetical question not justified by evidence was harmless, where evidence at later stage warranted question. Erie R. Co. v. Linnekogel, 248 F. 389, 160 C. C. A. 399.

Plaintiff in error cannot complain of mode of proving fact which it specifically admitted. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 712.

The admission of testimony is harmless, if erroneous, where the fact elicited was established by other competent evidence. Sharples Separator Co. v. Skinner (C. C. A.) 251 F. 25.

In action for criminal conversation and alienation, although suspicions of wife's daughters as to improper relations of their mother and defendant were incompetent, the error of admitting them was immaterial; suspicions being inevitable, if their testimony was true. Harper v. Harper (C. C. A.) 252 F. 39.

54. —— Error cured by withdrawal or instructions.—Plaintiff, who had formerly been a station agent in defendant's employ in British Columbia, was arrested in Buffalo on a charge based on an alleged shortage in his accounts and held for extradition. Upon promises by defendant's special agent, he waived extradition and voluntarily crossed the border into Canada, when, contrary to such promises, he was placed under close arrest and transported 2,400 miles in a public railroad coach, and subjected during such transportation to humiliation and unnecessary brutality. On a trial for false arrest and malicious prosecution, the undisputed facts showed that there was no probable cause. A witness testified that defendant's auditor, who instigated the prosecution, said that he was not sure that the alleged shortage was anything more than an error in bookkeeping, but that plaintiff had been snippy to him, and that he was going to make it as hard for him as he could. The court subsequently struck out this testimony and told the jury to disregard it. Held that, as this testimony could have left no possible impression on the jury's mind, except on the questions of probable cause and the amount of damages, its subsequent withdrawal cured the effect of its admission, since it was of no importance on the question of damages, in view of the more important matters bearing on that question. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co. v. Black (C. C. A.) 230 F. 798, 145 C. C. A. 108, affirming judgment Black v. Canadian Pac. Ry. (D. C.) 218 F. 239.

Error in admitting, in an action for breach of warranty of power, evidence of breakdowns of machinery, held not prejudicial, in view of the instructions and the verdict. B. F. Sturtevant Co. v. Champion Fibre Co., 232 F. 1, 146 C. C. A. 193.

In a jury trial, the admission of incompetent evidence will be regarded as harmless error, if the jury are instructed to disregard it, unless the evidence was so impressive that it probably affected the verdict. Oates v. U. S., 233 F. 201, 147 C. C. A. 207.

In personal injury action by switchman, erroneous admission of evidence of negligence not pleaded held harmless, where the court restricted the jury to a consideration of the negligence alleged. St. Louis Merchants' Bridge Terminal Ry. Co. v. Schuerman, 237 F. 1, 150 C. C. A. 203.

Error in improperly admitting evidence as to damages from a fire escaping from a railroad right of way and burning part of plaintiff's pasture, in which he was feeding cattle, held prejudicial, despite an instruction that the jury could not consider certain injuries to cattle for which defendant was not liable. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Gelvin, 238 F. 14, 151 C. C. A. 90, L. R. A. 1917C, 983.

Various rulings of the trial court on the admission of evidence in an action for libel considered, and held not erroneous when taken in connection with the instructions to which no objection was made. Examiner Printing Co. v. Aston, 238 F. 459, 151 C. C. A. 395, affirming judgment Aston v. Examiner Printing Co. (D. C.) 226 F. 496.

The admission of defendant's evidence and the exclusion of plaintiffs' evidence on an issue which the court in his charge assumed in plaintiffs' favor was not prejudicial to plaintiff. Co-operative Raw Fur Co. v. American Credit Indemnity Co., 240 F. 67, 153 C. C. A. 103.

The admission of irrelevant and incompetent evidence in an action for unlawful combination and discrimination held prejudicial to plaintiff, notwithstanding the court's charge correctly defining the issues and instructing the jury to disregard other questions presented by the evidence. Frey & Son v. Welch Grape Juice Co., 240 F. 114, 153 C. C. A. 150.

Plaintiff in error cannot complain of admission of evidence subsequently withdrawn from the jury. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 712.

56. Exclusion of evidence.—In action for injuries to servant, where he testified that he did not examine roof where he worked, exclusion of cross-examination as to his examination of place was without prejudice. Owl Creek Coal Co. v. Goleb, 232 F. 445, 146 C. C. A. 439.

In proceeding to forfeit potatoes and vehicles bringing them into United States from an island in St. John river separating same from Canada, held that, as claimant had been notified that produce from the island was dutiable, he could not complain of exclusion of evidence as to monuments offered to show that he in good faith believed island a part of United States. Daigle v. U. S., 237 F. 159, 150 C. C. A. 305.

In action brought in state court and then removed to the federal court, held, that the exclusion of evidence showing the applicability of the federal Employers' Liability Act was prejudicial. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Woods, 238 F. 917, 151 C. C. A. 651.

The exclusion of plaintiff's evidence on an issue which the court in his charge assumed in plaintiff's favor was not prejudicial to plaintiff. Co-operative Raw Fur Co. v. American Credit Indemnity Co., 240 F. 67, 153 C. C. A. 103.

Exclusion of evidence that defendant was operating lighter, which capsized, only as agent, held harmless, where its vice president's act rendered it liable, even though only an agent. Chiarello Bros. Co. v. Pedersen, 242 F. 482, 155 C. C. A. 258.

Act of court in rejecting some of findings in previous suit, which it had, prior to trial, determined were admissible, held harmless to plaintiffs; findings not being admissible as res judicata. Bluefields S. S. Co. v. United Fruit Co., 243 F. 1, 155 C. C. A. 531.

Exclusion of witness' statement that if he had looked he could have seen the cars was harmless, as such testimony could have little, if any, weight in face of positive statement of another, with him at the time, that he looked and did not see them. Pocahontas Consol. Collieries Co. v. Johnson, 244 F. 368, 156 C. C. A. 654, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 14, 245 U. S. 658, 62 L. Ed. 535.

Exclusion of evidence that place on railroad right of way where decedent was struck was part of a highway held immaterial, in view of the evidence, where court ruled that rights and obligations were the same as on a highway. Robbins v. Pennsylvania Co., 245 F. 435, 157 C. C. A. 597.

In an action for injuries to plaintiff's cows, on which a milking machine purchased from defendant had been used, the exclusion of evidence as to the results of the use of milking machines in other dairies, etc., held not reversible error. Sharples Separator Co. v. Skinner (C. C. A.) 251 F. 25.

Exclusion of evidence in an action tried to a jury held not prejudicial error. Cohansey Glass Mfg. Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Philadelphia (C. C. A.) 251 F. 177.

57. —— Facts proved by other evidence.—Where witness had already testified to the same fact which party sought to prove by him, refusal to permit him to reiterate his statement held not prejudicial. Lauderdale County v. Kittel, 229 F. 593, 143 C. C. A. 615.

Where plaintiff admitted as true all that would have appeared from reports, the exclusion of such reports themselves was not reversible error. Spring Garden Ins. Co. of Philadelphia, Pa., v. Wood, 233 F. 223, 147 C. C. A. 229.

Error in limiting the cross-examination of plaintiff's witness is not prejudicial to defendant, where defendant was permitted in the course of his own case to introduce the same evidence he sought to bring out from plaintiff's witness. N. P. Sloan Co. v. Uncasville Mfg. Co., 240 F. 680, 153 C. C. A. 478.

Exclusion of question calling for opinion of witness as to whether plaintiff's injuries were real or simulated held harmless, where her testimony showed her opinion that plaintiff's sickness was a sham. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Lanterman, 245 F. 548, 157 C. C. A. 660.

Where the court found that a fact was established by other evidence, the rejection of evidence offered to show such fact was harmless, if erroneous. Virginia & West Virginia Coal Co. v. Charles (D. C.) 251 F. 83.

58. Direction of verdict.—Directing verdict for certain defendants was harmless; no acts aimed at plaintiff having been done by them, and the jury having exonerated the other defendant with whom they were alleged to have conspired. Buckeye Powder Co. v. E. I. Dupont de Nemours Powder Co., 39 S. Ct. 38, 63 L. Ed. ——.

Where directed verdict was signed by one juror designated by the court, held that plaintiff was not prejudiced because all the jurors did not sign it or select their own foreman to sign it. Bryan v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 244 F. 650, 157 C. C. A. 98, writ of error dismissed and certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 334, 246 U. S. 651, 664, 62 L. Ed. 921.

59. Submission of issues.—In action for false arrest and malicious prosecution, submission of question of probable cause held harmless to defendant; it appearing as a matter of law that there was no probable cause. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co. v. Black, 230 F. 798, 145 C. C. A. 108, affirming judgment Black v. Canadian Pac. Ry. (D. C.) 218 F. 239.

The erroneous submission of a question of law to the jury is harmless, where the jury correctly decided the question. Continental Public Works Co. v. Stein, 232 F. 559, 146 C. C. A. 517.

Measure of damages on all the counts for personal injury being the same, refusal to take one from the jury was harmless, where a verdict could be directed for plaintiff on another. Chicago Rys. Co. v. Kramer, 234 F. 245, 148 C. C. A. 147.

Where it is impossible to determine whether a verdict was based on a ground of liability improperly submitted, the submission of such ground of liability is prejudicial error. Murray v. Third Nat. Bank of St. Louis, 234 F. 481, 148 C. C. A. 247.

Where jury by their special finding showed that they correctly interpreted written correspondence passing between parties, erroneous submission of matter was harmless. Philadelphia Casualty Co. v. Thacher, 236 F. 869, 150 C. C. A. 131.

In a servant's action, the refusal of instructions taking from the jury a question of negligence not raised by the evidence, as well as an issue of damages not raised, held prejudicial. United States Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry Co. v. Eastham, 237 F. 185, 150 C. C. A. 331.

Though court might have told jury that transmission of fire alarms was consideration for contract, held that submission of this question could not be complained of where the jury found the contract as the court would have charged. Missouri Dist. Telegraph Co. v. Morris & Co., 243 F. 481, 156 C. C. A. 179, appeal dismissed 38 S. Ct. 11, 245 U. S. 651, 62 L. Ed. 531.

In action for personal injuries, where plaintiff attacked, as having been procured by fraud, release set up by defendant, submission to jury, trying action for damages, of question of fraud for advisory verdict, held prejudicial error. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Syas, 246 F. 561, 158 C. C. A. 531.

Where it would have been duty of court to have directed verdict on an issue in condemnation proceeding, refusal of court to submit that issue to jury was harmless, though erroneous. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 249 F. 385, 161 C. C. A. 359.

Where in slander suit one of two counts should not have been submitted, and verdict was general and no apportionment was possible, judgment for plaintiff must be reversed and new trial granted. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co. v. Sloan (C. C. A.) 250 F. 712.

Where the court rendered judgment for defendant, the refusal to sustain defendant's demurrer to the evidence, if erroneous, was harmless. Virginia & West Virginia Coal Co. v. Charles (D. C.) 251 F. 83.

60. Instructions.—In action for slandering one by saying his cash and stock were short, error in instructions taking from jury questions as to whether language used was only a charge of irregularity or negligence, held prejudicial. Grand Union Tea Co. v. Lord, 231 F. 390, 145 C. C. A. 384.

Error in instructions on materiality of representations in application for life policy relating to insured's age and use of intoxicants do not warrant reversal, where answers, if false, were not such as to avoid policy. American Temperance Life Ins. Ass'n of City of New York v. Solomon, 233 F. 213, 147 C. C. A. 219.

In a tort action for damages, where the facts were such that it could not be certain that the jury would have allowed interest as part of the damages, no demand before suit being shown, an instruction that interest should be allowed is prejudicial error. Arnold v. Horrigan, 238 F. 39, 151 C. C. A. 115.

61. —— Applicability.—In assumpsit by a sales agent, submitted on the common counts, held, that an instruction allowing recovery of the commissions provided amounted to reversible error; the sales agent not having consummated the sale. American Locomotive Co. v. Harris, 239 F. 234, 152 C. C. A. 222.

Where there was no evidence tending to show that deceased changed his mind and decided to accept renewal certificate of accident policy after expiration of policy in force when it was tendered, that part of instruction on renewal of policy which requires insured to accept same before expiration of old policy was harmless, if erroneous. Brawner v. Royal Indemnity Co., 246 F. 637, 158 C. C. A. 593.

62. —— Refusal to charge.—Master has no valid cause for complaint because requested instruction was modified to exclude assumption of risk of extraordinary danger created by customary methods, and ignored question of knowledge of such methods, unless customary method was one that reasonably careful employer would have adopted. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Proffitt, 36 S. Ct. 620, 241 U. S. 462, 60 L. Ed. 1102, affirming judgment 218 F. 23, 134 C. C. A. 37.

Any error in failing to charge in action for threefold damages brought under Anti-Trust Act, § 7 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8829), by shippers against ocean carriers, that burden was on plaintiffs to show that rates were excessive, does not require remand where the court carefully instructed as to the estimate by the jury of all the elements of the judgment. Thomsen v. Cayser, 37 S. Ct. 353, 243 U. S. 66, 61 L. Ed. 597, reversing judgment Union Castle Mail S. S. Co. v. Thomsen, 190 F. 536, 111 C. C. A. 368, and Id. 190 F. 1022, 111 C. C. A. 674.

Where the facts from which the jury were instructed to infer waiver of the requirement of notice were uncontroverted, plaintiff cannot complain of the refusal of a charge that the order had waived the requirement. Parrish v. Order of United Commercial Travelers of America, 232 F. 425, 146 C. C. A. 419.

In an action to recover a payment by bankrupt corporation discharging a loan made by defendant to one of its officers, refusal of a charge raising question whether defendant had reason to believe officer was using funds of corporation held not prejudicial to plaintiff in view of other charges given. Smith v. Robins, 236 F. 114, 149 C. C. A. 324.

In an action for breach of contract to make monthly deliveries of coal, where damages awarded were less than those which defendant admitted if contract was made, and court failed to charge on damages in view of an agreement to spread deliveries over entire month, held, that failure was prejudicial. New York & Philadelphia Coal & Coke Co.

v. Meyersdale Coal Co., 236 F. 536, 149 C. C. A. 588.

Refusal of instruction as to contributory negligence of deceased, killed by car in mine, if he did not look, held harmless, there being insufficient evidence to overcome presumption that he looked and failed to see the car. Pocahontas Consol. Collieries Co. v. Johnson, 244 F. 368, 156 C. C. A. 654, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 14, 245 U. S. 658, 62 L. Ed. 535.

63. — Error cured by verdict.—Where plaintiff was entitled to judgment and verdict in its favor under undisputed evidence, errors in instructions are not prejudicial. Hamilton Iron & Steel Co. v. Groveland Mining Co., 233 F. 388, 147 C. C. A. 324.

In action on construction contract, held that any error in instructions as to effect of action of engineer was cured by deduction from verdict of amount sufficient to complete contract according to finding of engineer. Stark Electric R. Co. v. McGinty Contracting Co., 238 F. 657, 151 C. C. A. 507.

In an action against owner of delivery automobile by plaintiff, who was struck by same while on sidewalk, instruction presenting doctrine of res ipsa loquitur while improper, plaintiff having called driver of the car, who testified as to defects in steering apparatus causing accident, was harmless as to defendant, where evidence justified verdict in favor of plaintiff. Jacob v. Ivins (C. C. A.) 250 F. 431.

Where jury found that brakeman was guilty of no contributory negligence, error of court in failing to charge, action being governed by federal Employers' Liability Act, that his contributory negligence would diminish recovery, was harmless. Harris v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. (Mo. App.) 200 S. W. 111.

64. Judgment or decree.—Failure to allow for supposed increase of travel in reduction of rates does not require reversal of decree enjoining enforcement of state regulation of rates for intrastate traffic on an interstate carrier as confiscatory. Rowland v. Boyle, 37 S. Ct. 577, 244 U. S. 106, 61 L. Ed. 1022, affirming decree Boyle v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. (D. C.) 222 F. 539.

In a suit to enjoin officers of labor unions, the error, if any, in enjoining them only in their individual capacities and not in their official capacities could not be complained of by them. Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell, 38 Sup. Ct. 65, 245 U. S. 229, 62 L. Ed. 260, L. R. A. 1918C, 497, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 461, reversing decree Mitchell v. Hitchman Coal & Coke Co., 214 F. 685, 131 C. C. A. 425, which reversed decree Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell (D. C.) 202 F. 512. Mandate stayed 38 S. Ct. 190.

The failure of the court to make special findings of fact before judgment, or to make its subsequent findings as of the day of the trial, is not prejudicial to plaintiff in error. Panama R. Co. v. Beckford, 231 F. 436, 145 C. C. A. 430.

Where under Code Civ. Proc. S. D. § 321, and Laws S. D. 1903, c. 117, judgment of federal District Court of South Dakota could be made a lien by filing copy with the clerk of the state circuit court, error of district court in declaring its judgment a lien is harmless. Cooper v. Jewett, 233 F. 618, 147 C. C. A. 426.

In suit by surety for reimbursement for sums paid to satisfy judgment against himself and principal, principal cannot complain that court improperly allowed surety to recover costs expended in such suit, where surety was denied larger sums to which he was entitled. Id.

Where, in an action tried to court without a jury, interest on amount due plaintiff was wrongfully withheld, and such interest exceeded an item asserted to have been erroneously allowed, judgment may be affirmed by reviewing court. Hughitt v. Wayne County Securities Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 57.

Legal effect of extension of railroad receivership to income of property covered by mortgage on part of system being to impound earnings, etc., for benefit of bondholders under that mortgage, there was no prejudicial error in court's refusal to make more specific order for impounding income. Bankers' Trust Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 789.

Judgment of foreclosure against Oklahoma property is not open to objection on the ground that by Rev. Laws Okl. 1910, § 5162, no order of sale could issue until the expiration of six months from its entry, where no sale had occurred, though nearly a year had elapsed. Finley v. Halliburton (C. C. A.) 251 F. 860.

65. Reference.—Where admiralty court had jurisdiction of res and parties, order directing commissioner to hear and determine issues, while erroneous, was not jurisdictional error; commissioner having treated reference direction as one to compute and assess damages. The Bronx, 246 F. 809, 159 C. C. A. 111.

66. Dismissal.—Where dismissal of suit was proper, plaintiff was not prejudiced whether court dismissed same on motion or on its own motion. Porter v. Coble, 246 F. 244, 158 C. C. A. 404.

§ 1592. (R. S. § 955.) Death of parties.

I. ABATEMENT OR SURVIVAL OF ACTION

7. Survivability determined by common law or local statute—Actions of tort.—See The Student (D. C.) 238 F. 936.

8. —— Action on federal statute.—An action to recover internal revenue taxes erroneously collected is assumpsit on an implied contract and survives against the personal representatives of the collector if he dies pending the suit. Philadelphia, H. & P. R. Co. v. Lederer (D. C.) 239 F. 184, judgment affirmed (C. C. A.) 242 F. 492.

9. —— Action on federal penal statute.—An action by the receiver of an insolvent national bank against its directors, to recover for losses sustained through their misconduct or negligence, for the benefit of creditors and stockholders, is ex contractu, and survives the death of a defendant. Bates v. Dresser (D. C.) 229 F. 772.

Where recovery for the results of a monopolistic conspiracy is sought under Sherman Act, § 7 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8829), the action will survive against the estate of a decedent in case he secured some benefit at the expense of plaintiff. United Copper Securities Co. v. Amalgamated Copper Co., 232 F. 574, 146 C. C. A. 532.

II. CONTINUANCE OR REVIVAL OF ACTION

27. Continuance of suit.—By surviving partner in action by firm on contract, see Jones v. Pettingill, 245 F. 269, 157 C. C. A. 461, certiorari denied Pettingill v. Jones, 38 S. Ct. 61, 245 U. S. 663, 62 L. Ed. 536.

Cited without definite application, Van Choate v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 245 F. 120.

§ 1593. (R. S. § 956.) Death of one of several plaintiffs or defendants.

Survivability of actions.—In action on contract made with plaintiffs as partners, where one died, action held properly permitted to proceed in the name of the survivor, under this section. Jones v. Pettingill, 245 F. 269, 157 C. C. A. 461, certiorari denied Pettingill v. Jones, 38 S. Ct. 61, 245 U. S. 663, 62 L. Ed. 536.

§ 1594. (Act Feb. 8, 1899, c. 121.) Death, expiration of term, etc., of officer sued in official capacity, etc.

See Pullman Co. v. Knott, 37 S. Ct. 428, 243 U. S. 447, 61 L. Ed. 841.

Necessity of pendency of suit.—This section does not authorize action against collector of internal revenue to recover taxes paid his predecessor, where only pending proceeding was a claim for refund. Philadelphia, H. & P. R. Co. v. Lederer, 242 F. 492, 155 C. C. A. 268, affirming judgment (D. C.) 239 F. 184.

JUDGMENTS, COSTS, EXECUTIONS, AND MONEYS PAID INTO COURT

§ 1605. (R. S. § 966.) Interest on judgments.

Period during which interest is computed.—Decree on appeal increasing allowance for salvage will draw interest from date of District Court decree. The Kia Ora (C. C. A.) 252 F. 507.

Where, in a suit covered by a bond to indemnify against costs from litigation, in the United States District Court, costs had been taxed several years after the judgment therein for costs and damages, the obligee may recover, in addition to such costs, interest thereon from the date of judgment, under this section and Comp. Laws Mich. 1897, §§ 4865, 10308. City of Owosso v. Barber Asphalt Paving Co. (Mich.) 158 N. W. 230.

§ 1606. (Act Aug. 1, 1888, c. 729, § 1.) Judgments of United States courts to be liens on property, etc.

13. Persons entitled to lien.—Under this section, Laws N. C. 1889, c. 439, and Pell's Revisal N. C. § 574, held that judgments in favor of United States against surety on distillers' bonds became liens on his property. U. S. v. Minor, 235 F. 101, 148 C. C. A. 595.

18. Priority of lien.—As a term of court in West Virginia may last a number of days or weeks, judgments rendered at various times during the term are presumed, as regards priority between themselves, to relate back to the first day of the term, and as liens they are equal, although the lien to be preserved, etc., must be docketed in accordance with Code W. Va. 1913, c. 139, § 6 (sec. 5098). In re McGraw (D. C.) 254 F. 442.

§ 1607. (Act Aug. 1, 1888, c. 729, § 2.) Indices of judgment records to be kept by clerks.

Records open to inspection.—The contents of a public record office are always at the service of a person desiring to examine the same, on due application to the official in charge. Miller v. Moise (C. C.) 168 F. 940.

§ 1608. (R. S. § 967.) When judgments of United States courts cease to be liens.

Operation as to judgments in favor of United States.—Notwithstanding this section, judgments in favor of the United States held not barred by limitations (Pell's Revisal N. C. § 391). U. S. v. Minor, 235 F. 101, 148 C. C. A. 595.

Suit to subject property to judgment in favor of government.—Since this section, as to duration of lien, does not apply to the government, held, that suit would not lie to subject property to judgments, as government had complete and adequate remedy by issuance of fi. fa. or execution. U. S. v. Minor (D. C.) 243 F. 953.

§ 1609. (R. S. § 968.) Plaintiff or petitioner recovering less than certain amounts to recover no costs.

Recovery on part of several counts.—Where plaintiff prevailed on first count of its declaration, though unsuccessful on second, it was, having recovered more than $500, entitled to costs under this section. West End St. Ry. Co. v. Malley, 246 F. 625, 158 C. C. A. 581, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 423, 246 U. S. 671, 62 L. Ed. 931.

On recovery in an action at law for infringement, the costs are taxable to defendant, although the action was based on two patents, and the issues as to one were withdrawn from the jury. Sears, Roebuck & Co. v. Pearce (C. C. A.) 253 F. 960.

Dismissal for want of jurisdiction.—Where a patent infringement suit was dismissed for want of jurisdiction, no costs could be taxed. United States Envelope Co. v. Transo Paper Co. (D. C.) 229 F. 576.

§ 1614. (R. S. § 973.) Costs not recoverable in certain suits for infringement of patent, unless disclaimer entered, etc.

Cited without definite application, Sears, Roebuck & Co. v. Pearce (C. C. A.) 253 F. 960.

§ 1615. (R. S. § 974.) When costs of prosecution to be paid by defendant.

Costs of preliminary examination.—A judgment requiring defendants to pay the costs of the cause does not require payment of the costs of the preliminary examination, if the court had discretion to make such requirement under this section. U. S. v. Smith (D. C.) 240 F. 756.

Costs to which this section declares defendant subject, when judgment is rendered against him in prosecution for fine or forfeiture, held only those of trial under indictment, and not of preliminary trial, governed by Rev. St. § 1014 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1674). U. S. v. Briebach (D. C.) 245 F. 204.

Despite the amendment of Rev. St. §§ 5399, 5406, by Criminal Code, §§ 135, 136 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 10305, 10306), United States commissioner is not a court, and costs of preliminary hearing before him cannot, under Rev. St. §§ 974, 1014 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1615, 1674), be assessed against the defendant. U. S. v. Schwartz (D. C.) 249 F. 755.

Action for penalty.—An action to recover penalties under Hours of Service Act March 4, 1907, c. 2939, § 3 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8679), is a civil action, in which on recovery plaintiff is entitled to tax its costs and disbursements. U. S. v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 951.

Conviction of criminal contempt.—Under this section costs may be assessed against defendant convicted in a criminal contempt proceeding, regardless of Judicial Code, § 268 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1245), authorizing punishment by fine and imprisonment. Oates v. U. S., 233 F. 201, 147 C. C. A. 207.

Security for costs.—In view of this section, Judicial Code, § 128, and Act Feb. 6, 1889, § 6, Rev. St. § 1000 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1120, 1660), authorizes the taking of security for costs on writ of error in a criminal case, where the court had exercised its jurisdiction to adjudge the costs against the defendant though the writ was not a supersedeas. American Surety Co. v. U. S., 239 F. 680, 152 C. C. A. 514.

§ 1622. (R. S. § 981.) Taxation of fees of witness before a commissioner.

Cited without definite application,
Safford v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 471.

§ 1623. (R. S. § 982.) Attorney liable for costs vexatiously increased by him.

Expense of procuring expert witnesses.—In view of this section plaintiff, who delayed dismissal until the eve of trial, cannot be taxed with expenditures by defendant to procure necessary expert witnesses, and defendant is entitled to only the usual witness fees. Bone v. Walsh Const. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 901.

§ 1624. (R. S. § 983.) Bill of costs, how taxed.

II. TAXATION OF COSTS IN GENERAL

4. Want of jurisdiction, dismissal, and nonsuit.—In equity, see note 33, post.

Where an action was dismissed on the defendant's special plea to the jurisdiction, the court is without authority to award costs. Budris v. Consolidation Coal Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 673.

8. Order taxing costs.—On reversal of judgment "with costs," costs of first trial, resulting in a mistrial, and second trial, resulting in verdict for defendant, held taxable against defendant, in view of long established custom. Frey & Son v. Welch Grape Juice Co. (D. C.) 242 F. 1004.

11. Appeal from taxation of costs.—An order allowing attorney's fees will be reversed where there is no proof of the value of the legal services in the amount allowed or any other amount. England v. Commercial Bank of New Madrid, Mo., 242 F. 813, 155 C. C. A. 401.

III. FEES AND EXPENSES—TAXATION AS COSTS

13. In general.—Courts exercise a discretion, in the taxation of costs and disbursements, in determining what are necessary and reasonable items. U. S. v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 951.

An action to recover penalties under Hours of Service Act March 4, 1907, § 3 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8679), is a civil action, in which, on recovery, plaintiff is entitled to tax its costs and disbursements. Id.

14. Costs unnecessarily incurred.—In a creditors' suit, where complainant is successful, his counsel are entitled only to their reasonable and necessary disbursements. Central Trust Co. of New York v. United States Light & Heating Co., 233 F. 420, 147 C. C. A. 356.

15. Attorney's fees.—A contingent fee contract does not give the attorney such an interest in the case as to entitle him to appear therein after its removal to a federal court which had disbarred him. Leonard v. Toledo, St. L. & W. R. Co. (D. C.) 232 F. 281.

18. Expense of exhibits.—Where plaintiff delayed his dismissal until the eve of trial, defendant cannot be allowed as costs of disbursement for the preparation of models for various alleged anticipating structures. Bone v. Walsh Const. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 901.

20. Expense of printing.—Under this section cost of printing record in patent infringement suit, as required by District Court rule 11, held taxable. Christensen v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 284.

21. Expense of copies.—Under this section, defendant, where plaintiff delayed dismissal until the eve of trial, is entitled to tax as costs disbursement for certified copies of patents and publications which would necessarily have been used. Bone v. Walsh Const. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 901.

22. Stenographer's charges.—The fee paid to a stenographer for a copy of his minutes for convenience and use of a party on the trial is not taxable as costs under this section. Stallo v. Wagner, 245 F. 636, 158 C. C. A. 64.

IV. PERSONS ENTITLED TO, AND PERSONS LIABLE FOR, COSTS

29. "Prevailing party."—The prevailing party in any action is one in whose favor the decision or verdict is rendered and judgment entered. U. S. v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 235 F. 951.

The United States, when the prevailing party plaintiff in an action at law, is entitled to recover costs and disbursements, usually in conformity to the state practice, when no specific provision is made therefor by a federal statute. Id.

30. —— Partial success.—A trustee in bankruptcy held not entitled to recover costs made on a supplemental bill on which he did not recover, although successful generally in the suit. Babbitt v. Read, 236 F. 42, 149 C. C. A. 252, affirming decree (D. C.) 215 F. 395.

On recovery in an action at law for infringement, the costs are taxable to defendant, although the action was based on two patents, and the issues as to one were withdrawn from the jury.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. v. Pearce (C. C. A.) 253 F. 960.

V. COSTS IN EQUITY AND ADMIRALTY

33. Taxation.—Where, in a creditors' suit, a fund is recovered or protected by the exertions of complainant's counsel, it is proper for the court, out of the fund, to allow fees to complainant's counsel. Central Trust Co. of New York v. United States Light & Heating Co., 233 F. 420, 147 C. C. A. 356.

Where, in suit to restrain construction of railroad, defendant asked assessment of damages to which complainant might be entitled, costs held properly imposed on defendant. Eastern Oregon Land Co. v. Deschutes R. Co., 246 F. 400, 158 C. C. A. 464, reversing deeree Same v. Des Chutes R. Co. (D. C.) 213 F. 897. Certiorari denied Deschutes R. Co. v. Eastern Oregon Land Co., 38 S. Ct. 192, 245 U. S. 672, 62 L. Ed. 540.

Where general bondholders of canal company, which was controlled by railroad company, recovered against latter and compelled it to pay sum of nearly $2,000,000 for distribution among bondholders, proceeding must be deemed adverse as to railroad company, though it held some bonds of canal company, and in allowing attorney's fees nothing should be charged against bonds held by railroad company. Brown v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (D. C.) 250 F. 513.

Award of $200,000 in favor of attorneys for holders of bonds of canal company, who recovered from railroad company, which controlled latter, nearly $2,000,000, held excessive. Id.

Where a patent infringement suit was dismissed for want of jurisdiction, no costs could be taxed. United States Envelope Co. v. Transo Paper Co. (D. C.) 229 F. 576.

Cost of internal revenue stamps affixed to deed of special master in chancery held to be taxed as part of the costs. Crawford v. New South Farm & Home Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 999.

Allowance of compensation to attorneys for bondholders not participating in reorganization scheme in suit to foreclose railroad mortgage, out of entire fund applicable to payment of such bonds, rests within discretion of the trial court. Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 236 F. 814.

On dismissal of a patent infringement suit at cost of plaintiffs on their motion, charges for transcribing five copies of depositions were not taxable. Christensen v. General Electric Co. (D. C.) 248 F. 284.

Where a court of equity, having jurisdiction over the subject-matter of a suit and the parties, dismisses the bill of complaint because the plaintiff has failed to make out a case calling for equitable relief, it has jurisdiction to award costs against the unsuccessful party. Burlingame v. Manchester, 44 App. D. C. 335.

CITED WITHOUT DEFINITE APPLICATION

The Eros (D. C.) 245 F. 814.

§ 1626. (Act July 20, 1892, c. 209, § 1, as amended, Act June 25, 1910, c. 435.) Suits, etc., by poor persons.

I. OPERATION OF STATUTE IN GENERAL

2½. Effect as to statute relating to District of Columbia.—Sections 175 and 176, Code of Law D. C. 1901 (31 Stat. 1219, c. 854), relating to the prosecution of actions without the payment of costs, have been repealed by this section as amended by Act June 25, 1910. Neubeck v. Holmes, 44 App. D. C. 67.

II. RIGHT TO PROSECUTE SUIT IN FORMA PAUPERIS

3. Parties entitled.—Under this section the privileges of action in forma pauperis are limited to citizens of the United States. The Memphian (D. C.) 245 F. 484.

In view of this section, held that, under Sundry Civil Appropriation Act July 1, 1916, foreign seamen may sue for wages without paying or making deposits for costs. Id.

An alien is not entitled to prosecute an action in the courts of the District of Columbia without the payment of costs. Neubeck v. Holmes, 44 App. D. C. 67.

9. Criminal prosecutions.—This section does not empower a District Court to order its reporter to furnish a transcript to defendant in a criminal case without compensation. U. S. v. Fair (D. C.) 235 F. 1015.

9½. Bankruptcy proceedings.—As under the statute, payment of the clerk's filing fees has priority over payment of attorney's fees, a bankrupt cannot reverse this order, and, after paying his attorney a fee, file his petition and schedules as pauper. In re Darr (D. C.) 232 F. 415.

CITED WITHOUT DEFINITE APPLICATION

In re Abdu, 38 S. Ct. 447, 247 U. S. 27, 62 L. Ed. 966.

§ 1630a. (Act July 1, 1918, c. 113, § 1.) Suits by seamen without prepayment of or bond for costs.

Courts of the United States, including appellate courts, hereafter shall be open to seamen, without furnishing bonds or prepayment of or making deposit to secure fees or costs, for the purpose of entering and prosecuting suit or suits in their own name and for their own benefit for wages or salvage and to enforce laws made for their health and safety. (40 Stat. 683.)

This was a provision of the sundry civil appropriation act for the fiscal year 1919, cited above. It has been repeated in prior appropriation acts.

Notes of Decisions

Foreign seaman.—In view of section 1626, held that, under Sundry Civil Appropriation Act July 1, 1916, foreign seamen may sue for wages without paying or making deposits for costs. The Memphian (D. C.) 245 F. 484.

In circuit court of appeals.—This section does not apply to prosecution of appeals in Circuit Court of Appeals; clerk of that tribunal having stated salary, appropriation for which was made by Act March 3, 1917, § 1. The Nigretia, 249 F. 348, 161 C. C. A. 356.

Appeal from order of dismissal.—Under Appropriation Act June 12, 1917 (a prior enactment of this section), seamen, their libel to enforce payment of wages having been dismissed, are not entitled to perfect an appeal without making required deposit to secure costs. In re Abdu, 38 S. Ct. 447, 247 U. S. 27, 62 L. Ed. 966.

§ 1633. (R. S. § 987.) Executions stayed on conditions.

Stay of execution—Power to grant.—Where a defendant attempted unsuccessfully to modify a written contract by parol evidence in an action at law, the court held to have power to stay execution on the judgment to permit the filing of a bill to reform the contract. American R. Co. of Porto Rico v. Ponce & G. R. Co., 246 F. 925, 159 C. C. A. 197.

§ 1635. (R. S. § 989.) Execution not to issue against officers of revenue in cases of probable cause, etc.

1. Construction and operation of statute in general.—This section is applicable only to collector making illegal exaction, so that, where successor of such collector is sued, the successor is individually liable, if liable at all. Roberts v. Lowe (D. C.) 236 F. 604.

§ 1636. (R. S. § 990.) Imprisonment for debt.

What constitutes "imprisonment for debt."—A commitment for contempt for failure to pay a master's fee awarded by the court, made on application of the master, is not an "imprisonment for debt," but for refusal to obey the order of the court. Cutting v. Van Fleet (C. C. A.) 252 F. 100.

Cited without definite application, Safford v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 471.

§ 1637. (R. S. § 991.) Discharge from arrest or imprisonment.

Cited without definite application,
Safford v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 471.

§ 1644. (R. S. § 995.) Moneys paid into court, where and how deposited.

Money "accruing to the United States."—By regulation of the Treasury Department public moneys, including moneys accruing to the United States from the forfeiture, shall be deposited to the credit of the treasurer. After the entry of an order adjudging default on a criminal recognizance and directing the issuance of a scire facias, but before any hearing thereon, one of the sureties remitted the amount named in the recognizance, but without interest or costs, to the clerk, who credited the same to him and deposited the money to the credit of the court. Held, that the money did not "accrue to the United States," so as to become its absolute property, prior to final judgment of forfeiture on return of the scire facias, but until that time was money received by the clerk in a pending cause within this section, and was properly deposited by him, and subject to withdrawal on order of the judge. U. S. v. Smart (C. C. A.) 237 F. 978.

§ 1645. (R. S. § 996, as amended, Act Feb. 19, 1897, c. 265, § 3, and Act March 3, 1911, c. 224.) Moneys paid into court, how withdrawn; disposition of moneys unclaimed.

See U. S. v. Smart (C. C. A.) 237 F. 978.

Violation of § 10267.—Under this section and Rev. St. § 5153 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9691), held, that in condemnation suit, where award was held in abeyance to await determination of conflicting claims, it was not a violation of Criminal Code, § 99 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10267), for the clerk to deposit such award according to stipulation of parties in national banks not designated as public depositaries. U. S. v. Conway Lumber Co. (D. C.) 234 F. 961.

PROCEDURE ON ERROR AND APPEAL

§ 1646. (Act March 3, 1891, § 4.) Appeals, writs of error, etc.

4. Parties to appeals or writs of error—Persons entitled to appeal.—Where decree adjudged plaintiff to have interest in property on payment of specified amount, defendant's acceptance of such payment held not such acquiescence or acceptance of benefits as prevented him from appealing. Jones v. Pettingill, 245 F. 269, 157 C. C. A. 461, certiorari denied Pettingill v. Jones, 38 S. Ct. 61, 245 U. S. 663, 62 L. Ed. 536.

Unless there is a separable controversy, or unless there is some sum to which a party is entitled in any event, he may not accept the benefit of the decree and later appeal. Spencer v. Babylon R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 24.

5½. —— Necessary and proper parties.—See Veitia v. Fortuna Estates, 240 F. 256, 153 C. C. A. 182.

6. —— Necessity for all parties jointly affected by judgment or decree to join in appeal or writ of error.—Receivers appointed in foreclosure suit held not necessary parties to appeal by trustee from order enjoining it from prosecuting another suit to enforce a collateral agreement. Ex parte Equitable Trust Co. of New York, 231 F 571, 145 C. C. A. 457, reversing order Equitable Trust Co. of New York v Western Pac. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 231 F 478.

7. —— Joint or several judgments or decrees.—A judgment adjudging two persons charged and tried together guilty of contempt for violating an injunction, although by separate acts, may be reviewed as to both on a single writ of error. Tosh v. West Kentucky Coal Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 44.

8. —— Summons and severance or notice to join in appeal.—Where his codefendant appeared, filing a waiver, held, that writ of error sued out by plaintiff in error would not be dismissed for his failure to serve notice upon or obtain severance from his codefendant. Richards v. American Bank of Alaska, 234 F. 300, 148 C. C. A. 202.

Where two defendants asserted a limitation title to a defined parcel of the land in suit, in which no other defendant claimed an interest, they may alone bring error, without a severance from the other defendants, and without any reason being assigned for the failure of such defendants to join. Conn v. Drew (C. C. A.) 250 F. 852.

11½. —— Amicus curiæ.—Only parties to the appeal record can be recognized as parties by the appellate court, and briefs filed by one not party to appeal can be considered only as addressed to court by amicus curiæ. Veitia v. Fortuna Estates, 240 F. 256, 153 C. C. A. 182.

12. —— Objections and amendments.—As a question of defect of parties is one requiring opening up of record, that matter will not be considered on motion to dismiss appeal, where error may probably be met by amendment, but will be postponed until hearing on merits. Graham v. O'Ferral, 236 F. 717, 150 C. C. A. 49.

The Circuit Court of Appeals may permit a party, which has been omitted from an appeal and not cited and severed, to be brought in by amendment with its consent and waiver of citation. The Seguranca, 250 F. 19, 162 C. C. A. 191. See, also, The Mary B. Curtis, 250 F. 9, 162 C. C. A. 181.

13. Effect of transfer or proceedings therefor—Transfer of jurisdiction in general.—Where, after perfection of an appeal in a patent case, defendant discovered new evidence, held, that a motion to reopen the case should by appellate court be directed to District Court for consideration, so that if it should find the case should be reopened it might apply for dismissal of appeal and remand of record. Wagner v. Meccano, Limited, 235 F. 890, 149 C. C. A. 202, authorizing reopenment in District Court Meccano v. Wagner (D. C.) 234 F. 912.

14. —— Vacating order or judgment. See U. S. v. Pollak (D. C.) 230 F. 532.

§ 1647. (Act March 3, 1891, c. 517, § 11.) Appeals and writs of error to circuit courts of appeals; time for taking.

4. Proceedings to which limitation applies.—Appeal from order granting petition of one claiming, under bill of sale, brick manufactured by bankrupt's lessee, opposed by bank, which made advances to lessee under contract with bankrupt and lessee, held to fall within Bankruptcy Act July 1, 1898, § 24a (Comp. St. 1916, § 9608), allowing appeals from controversies in bankruptcy, time for perfection of which is six months, instead of section 25a (Comp. St. 1916, § 9609). Bank of Ragland v. Hudson, 247 F. 241, 159 C. C. A. 335.

Where judgment in contempt proceedings was entered August 30, 1915, appeal taken October 16, 1916, comes too late, and must be dismissed, under this section. Shuler v. Raton Waterworks Co., 247 F. 634, 160 C. C. A. 44.

7. Computation of period.—Lodging of petition for writ of error and draft of order allowing it with the clerk held not an application to the court or judge for the allowance or issue of the writ. Camden Iron Works Co. v. City of Cincinnati, 241 F. 846, 154 C. C. A. 548.

Where petition for writ of error was presented to judge within six months, but without application for immediate allowance, and was not again called to his attention, held, that plaintiff in error was not entitled to allowance as of date of such presentation. Id.

Under this section Circuit Court of Appeals held without jurisdiction, where writ of error is not issued within six months, though allowed within that period. Collins v. Huffman, 245 F. 554, 158 C. C. A. 20.

An appeal taken within six months of rendition of decree confirming foreclosure sale held to be within time prescribed by this section. Painter v. Union Trust Co., 246 F. 240, 158 C. C. A. 400.

Under this section, a writ of error cannot, where six-months period expires on Sunday, be sued out on following Monday. Siegelschiffer v. Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co., 248 F. 226, 160 C. C. A. 304.

This section should have same construction in various circuits, and varying state rules as to computation of time should not be deferred to, under Comp. St. 1916, § 1537, conforming practice in civil cases in federal courts to state practice. Id.

10. Extension of time.—Six months limitation on suing out writ of error under this section held jurisdictional, and courts cannot extend it. Delay in settling a bill of exceptions does not operate to extend the time for taking a writ of error, as the writ can properly issue in advance of the settlement of the bill. Camden Iron Works Co. v. City of Cincinnati, 241 F. 846, 154 C. C. A. 548.

13. Effect of delay.—See In re National Telephone Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 230 F. 785.

The allowance of a writ of error in a criminal case did not divest the District Court of jurisdiction and transfer the case to the Circuit Court of Appeals; and where the writ itself was not issued and filed within the six months allowed by statute, the District Court had jurisdiction to vacate an order staying proceedings and an order releasing defendants on bail. U. S. v. Pollak (D. C.) 230 F. 532.

§ 1648. (Act March 3, 1891, c. 517, § 6.) Circuit courts of appeals to Supreme Court; time for taking.

As to time for allowing or entertaining writs of error, appeals, or writs of certiorari to bring up causes for review by the Supreme Court, see ante, § 1228a.

§ 1649. (R. S. § 1008.) To Supreme Court, time for taking.

See note under § 1648, ante.

§ 1649a. (Act Sept. 6, 1916, c. 448, § 4.) Dismissal; wrong remedy.

Distinction between remedy by appeal and writ of error, see notes under §§ 1120, 1213–1215.

Notes of Decisions

Construction and operation in general.—Despite Act Sept. 6, 1916, § 7 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1649a, note), held that, under this section, writ of error sued out to review judgment in contempt proceedings, rendered in 1915, cannot be dismissed on ground that judgment, being rendered in equity, was reviewable only by appeal. Shuler v. Raton Waterworks Co., 247 F. 634, 160 C. C. A. 44.

Notwithstanding proper procedure for review was by writ of error, the court on appeal could not, in view of this section, dismiss the appeal, being required by such section to disregard the procedural oversight. Equitable Trust Co. v. Denver & R. G. Ry. Co., 250 F. 327, 162 C. C. A. 397.

Under this section, reviewing court will treat a case at law, erroneously brought by appeal, as brought by writ of error, Ana Maria Sugar Co. v. Quinones (C. C. A.) 251 F. 499.

By the express terms of this section a federal appellate court having jurisdiction to review a cause may not dismiss a writ of error solely because an appeal should have been taken, but must disregard the error. Toyo Kisen Kaisha v. Hartman (C. C. A.) 253 F. 422.

Abolition of distinction between modes of review.—This section does not abolish distinction between writs of error and appeals, but only to provide for review in the appropriate way, notwithstanding a mistake in choosing the mode of review. Gauzon v. Compania General De Tobacos de Filipinas, 38 S. Ct. 46, 245 U. S. 86, 62 L. Ed. 165.

Equitable defense in action at law.—Under this section it is immaterial, method of review of actions at law, where equitable defenses are interposed pursuant to Judicial Code, § 274b, not having been prescribed by court rule as authorized, whether case be brought by appeal or writ of error. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Syas, 246 F. 561, 158 C. C. A. 531.

§ 1651. (Act March 3, 1891, c. 517, § 11.) Provisions made applicable to circuit courts of appeals.

Effect of section in general.—Appeals and writs of error are to be taken to Circuit Court of Appeals in manner practiced in Supreme Court before 1891. Rederiaktiebolaget Amie v. Universal Transp. Co., 245 F. 282, 157 C. C. A. 474.

§ 1653. (R. S. § 997.) Removal of causes by writ of error.

1. Nature of writ of error.—Writ of error operates proprio vigore to remove record, while citation gives notice to parties and brings them into court. Rederiaktiebolaget Amie v. Universal Transp. Co., 245 F. 282, 157 C. C. A. 474.

Writ of error is writ of the appellate court, addressed to judge of trial court, directing him to send record and proceedings in case to appellate court, and is not brought until it is filed in court which rendered judgment. Siegelschiffer v. Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co., 248 F. 226, 160 C. C. A. 304.

9. Transcript of record — Time of docketing or return.—On appeal to Circuit Court of Appeals, there being in the particular district no statute or rule fixing time, that tribunal may relieve appellant from effect of his laches in omitting to seasonably furnish transcript of record. Graham v. O'Ferral, 236 F. 717, 150 C. C. A. 49.

11. — Scope and contents of record.—The trial court should exercise supervision over the record certified, by excluding matters redundant and immaterial to the presentation of the question for review. Bond v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 804.

20. Assignment of errors.—Decisions based on rules of Circuit Court of Appeals, see notes under § 1114, ante.

On appeal by charterer from a decree in favor of owner for injuries to scow where charterer asserted that recovery should have been allowed only in so far as owner was not insured, such contention was equivalent to abandonment of any point except question of insurance, and assignment of error cannot be construed to raise contention that charterer was liable only for negligence. Kennelly v. Frederick Starr Contracting Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 229.

In a prosecution in a federal court, the denial of a motion in arrest of judgment is not assignable as error. Beyer v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 39.

21. — Time of filing.—Amended assignment of errors, filed several months after the writ of error had been granted, although by leave of the trial court, cannot be considered. Kreuzer v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 34.

22. — Necessity of assignment.—A point not presented by an assignment of error cannot be considered on appeal. Feilbach Co. v. Russell, 233 F. 412, 147 C. C. A. 348; Arnold v. Horrigan, 238 F. 39, 151 C. C. A. 115; Holsman v. U. S., 248 F. 193, 160 C. C. A. 271; Wight v. Washoe County Bank (C. C. A.) 251 F. 819.

Question as to costs chargeable by clerk held not reviewable, where there was no taxation or request for taxation of costs, and no assignment of error raising the question. Williamson v. Electric Service Supplies Co., 242 F. 873, 155 C. C. A. 461, affirming decree (D. C.) 236 F. 353.

The contention that an allowance of counsel fees in a judgment sustaining a demurrer was premature will not be passed on, where error is not assigned to this feature of the judgment. Morgan's Louisiana & T. R. & S. S. Co. v. Isaac Joseph Iron Co., 243 F. 149, 156 C. C. A. 15.

A judgment will not be reversed for failure to allow nominal damages, in the absence of a specific assignment or complaint on that ground. Davis v. Carnegie Steel Co., 244 F. 931, 157 C. C. A. 281.

Question whether trial judge erred in stating that in his opinion letter made basis of prosecution for violating statute against mailing obscene matter, was solicitation for immoral purpose, mailed in contravention of act, cannot be reviewed where not assigned. Parish v. U. S., 247 F. 40, 159 C. C. A. 258.

Where the denial of a motion for new trial on the ground that defendant did not have a fair trial was not included in assignments of error, and was no part of the bill of exceptions, that question cannot be reviewed. Linn v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 476.

Where a suit for the infringement of a patent was referred and the master worked out a difficult apportionment, any error as to details should be pointed out in the exceptions to his report and in the assignments of error to decree, and if not so pointed out cannot be considered by reviewing court. Oehring v. Fox Typewriter Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 584.

27. —— Errors considered without assignment.—Though defendant pleaded over after the overruling of its demurrer to declaration, etc., sufficiency of declaration to state a cause of action may be reviewed as an unassigned error appearing on record. Mound Coal Co. v. Jeffrey Mfg. Co., 233 F. 913, 147 C. C. A. 587, affirming judgment Jeffrey Mfg. Co. v. Mound Coal Co. (D. C.) 215 F. 222. Rehearing granted Mound Coal Co. v. Jeffrey Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 240 F. 129, and judgment affirmed on rehearing, Id. 412.

Objections that the trial court was without jurisdiction need not be assigned, to be considered, but will be raised by the appellate court on its own motion. Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., 237 F. 986, 150 C. C. A. 636, affirming judgment U. S. v. Toledo Newspaper Co. (D. C.) 220 F. 458; Spencer v. Patey, 243 F. 555, 156 C. C. A. 253; Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum v. Hobart, 244 F. 385, 157 C. C. A. 11.

The error of the District Court in holding that, under Personal Property Law N. Y. § 62, an unrecorded conditional sale contract was invalid against creditors, held so plain, and so closely related to an assignment of error, that it would be considered, though not specifically assigned. Mergenthaler Linotype Co. v. Hull, 239 F. 26, 152 C. C. A. 76.

Exception to charge, though not properly assigned as error, may be considered in case involving personal liberty. Bandy v. U. S., 245 F. 98, 157 C. C. A. 394.

It is competent for Circuit Court of Appeals to notice plain error, in absence of any assignment. Grafton v. Meikleham, 246 F. 737, 159 C. C. A. 39, reversing decree In re Meikleham (D. C.) 236 F. 401. Certiorari denied Meikleham v. Grafton, 38 S. Ct. 334, 246 U. S. 665, 62 L. Ed. 929.

29. —— Rulings on evidence.—On appeal from a judgment of the District Court affirming an order of the referee, the question of the admissibility of evidence, which was not assigned as error, and on which no finding was based, will not be reviewed. Gandia & Stubbe v. Cadierno, 233 F. 739, 147 C. C. A. 505.

30. —— Rulings on instructions.—The omission in the charge to withdraw immaterial testimony from the consideration of the jury will not be considered on writ of error, where the charge was not excepted to for that reason, and no error was assigned. Co-operative Raw Fur Co. v. American Credit Indemnity Co., 240 F. 67, 153 C. C. A. 103.

Requests to charge, as found in the stenographer's minutes, cannot be considered on writ of error, where not embodied in the record and the assignments of error. Linn v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 476.

31. —— Sufficiency of assignments.—The following assignments have been held too broad and indefinite: That the verdict is contrary to the law, McClendon v. U. S., 229 F. 523, 143 C. C. A. 591; that the judgment was not sustained by the evidence and was against the evidence did not raise the objection that there was no finding that the bankrupt intended a preference, Wm. Edwards Co. v. La Dow (C. C. A.) 230 F. 378; that the court erred in refusing to render judgment for defendant, instead of plaintiff, Fisher Mach. Works Co. v. Dougherty, 231 F. 910, 146 C. C. A. 106; that the verdict was contrary to the evidence and contrary to the law, or that the court erred in rendering judgment against defendants and in rendering judgment for costs against them, Vandeventer v. Traders' Nat. Bank of Kansas City, Mo., 241 F. 584, 154 C. C. A. 360; that upon pleadings, evidence, and record verdict should have been for plaintiff in error, Northern Central Coal Co. v. Barrowman, 246 F. 906, 159 C. C. A. 178; that the court erred "in his instructions," no particular instructions being set forth, or that court erred in sustaining objections to "certain questions," without setting them forth or describing them, Vandeventer v. Traders' Nat. Bank of Kansas City, Mo., 241 F. 584, 154 C. C. A. 360. And a specification of error which declared that appellant would rely upon an error specified in an assignment at a named page of the record presents nothing for review, where at that page there was nothing in the record referring to the specification. Cooper v. Jewett, 233 F. 618, 147 C. C. A. 426. Assignment complaining of admission of evidence which did not set forth the evidence admitted was insufficient. Bandy v. U. S., 245 F. 98, 157 C. C. A. 394. An assignment complaining of the refusal of a request conceded to be faulty, presents nothing for review, where there was no assignment of error on the ground that the judge failed to charge correctly concerning the subject-matter of the request refused. Fall v. Bennett, 248 F. 491, 160 C. C. A. 501.

36. Scope and extent of review as dependent on record—In general.—On appeal from denial of petition to vacate judgment, record suggesting no question of law held to present nothing for review. Rose v. Harrison, 117 N. E. 313, 228 Mass. 261.

37. —— Rulings on evidence.—Where there was no request to direct a verdict, the charge is not in the record, and no exceptions were taken, nor error assigned to the ruling on a motion for new trial, defendant cannot urge the insufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict. Kalloch v. Hoagland, 239 F. 252, 152 C. C. A. 240.

In action for architectural services, where plans and specifications were not in the record, or produced before the court, held, that error could not be found in the exclusion of evidence that they were for a new structure, and not for alterations. First Nat. Bank v. Hoggson Bros., 242 F. 261, 155 C. C. A. 101.

The alleged error in overruling an objection to a question as not being cross-examination cannot be reviewed, where the witness' testimony in chief is not in the record. Id.

Defendant's constitution, in evidence in action for libel based on letters of its president and secretary to one of its local lodges, giving reason for rejecting plaintiff's claim under an accident certificate, not being in the record, it cannot be said there was no evidence of the members addressed having an interest in the subject-matter, relative to it, and the occasion being privileged. Wise v. Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (C. C. A.) 252 F. 961.

Relative to claim that the occasion called for mere rejection of claim, the form of certificate not being in the record, it cannot be said the statements did not relate to defenses provided for by it. Id.

Defendant's claim, that there was no proof of authority in its president and secretary to render it liable for libel in their letters giving reason for rejecting claim under one of its accident certificates, is unavailing on error to direction of verdict for it; only part of all its constitution in evidence being in bill of exceptions, and that part giving them broad power in the premises. Id.

An assignment of error, based on an offer of proof therein set forth, presents nothing for review, where the record fails to disclose that it was excluded, or, if excluded, that an exception was taken thereto. Keefe v. Worcester Trust Co. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 536.

38. —— Review of instructions.—Where court charged that defendant could not be held responsible criminally for salesman's misrepresentations, unless made by his authority, and record did not show objection, or purport to contain all the evidence, the verdict must be deemed to determine that the representations were made with defendant's sanction. Weeks v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 219, 245 U. S. 618, 62 L. Ed. 513, affirming judgment 224 F. 64, 139 C. C. A. 626.

In the federal courts, the fact of exceptions to instructions given, or to the refusal to give instructions requested, to be considered by an appellate court, must affirmatively appear. Alverson v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co., 236 F. 331, 149 C. C. A. 463. Thus a contention that the court in its charge assumed a fact cannot be reviewed where it does not appear from the record that any exception was taken to such statement. Missouri Dist. Telegraph Co. v. Morris & Co., 243 F. 481, 156 C. C. A. 179, appeal dismissed 38 S. Ct. 11, 245 U. S. 651, 62 L. Ed. 531. And the refusal of a requested charge cannot be reviewed on error, where the record did not show reservation of any exceptions. W. D. Reeves Lumber Co. v. Leavenworth, 248 F. 686, 160 C. C. A. 586.

Where no request for instruction directing verdict of not guilty appeared in transcript, and it did not appear that any exception was taken to any of instructions or to denial of requested instructions, assignment of error complaining that court erred in refusing to direct acquittal cannot be considered. Gladstone v. U. S., 248 F. 117, 160 C. C. A. 257, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 582, 247 U. S. 521, 62 L. Ed. 1246.

Where the instructions given by the court below were not in the record, questions of the propriety of the refusal of requested instructions cannot be reviewed. Magon v. U. S., 248 F. 201, 160 C. C. A. 279.

In prosecution under Act June 1906, § 23 (Comp. St. 1916, § 4379), for knowingly giving false testimony in naturalization proceeding, question whether it was error for court in its charge to incorporate that section of Criminal Code defining perjury cannot be reviewed on writ of error where facts developed by evidence were not shown by record. Gragorat v. U. S., 249 F. 470, 161 C. C. A. 428.

39. —— Ruling on motions and orders.—Where the record does not show that a motion for continuance was presented to the trial court and ruled on, plaintiff in error fails to show an abuse of discretion. Pennsylvania Co. v. Fanger, 231 F. 851, 146 C. C. A. 47.

41. —— Review of questions of fact and findings.—Where testimony and instructions given by court below were not in record, questions of sufficiency of evidence cannot be reviewed. Magon v. U. S., 248 F. 201, 160 C. C. A. 279.

The sufficiency of the evidence to sustain a conviction cannot be reviewed on writ of error, in the absence of exceptions and a bill of exceptions incorporating therein the evidence. Gregorat v. U. S., 249 F. 470, 161 C. C. A. 428.

The count legally charging an offense, and the evidence not being a part of the record, the judgment cannot legally be arrested. U. S. v. Joseph Fleming & Son Co. (D. C.) 251 F. 932.

§ 1654. (R. S. § 698.) Transcripts on appeals [in equity and admiralty].

3. Effect of failure to file transcript.—An appellant cannot omit a transcript of the evidence in an equity cause, or a bill of exceptions in a law case, and take advantage of favorable findings, based upon the evidence, which are inconsistent with the record upon which the appeal is based. Hight v. Richmond Park Imp. Co., 47 App. D. C. 518.

4. Contents of record or transcript.—There being no definite expression in record as to whether payments by national bank shareholders to receiver to assist in paying bank's indebtedness were to be applied on shareholders' statutory liability, the Supreme Court on appeal is required to decide which contention is more reasonable and probable considering all facts and circumstances stipulated and proved. Korbly v. Springfield Inst. for Savings, 38 S. Ct. 88, 245 U. S. 330, 62 L. Ed. 326, affirming judgment Pepper v. Same, 218 F. 814, 134 C. C. A. 502.

A master's finding of facts cannot be reviewed, in the absence from the record of a certificate or other proof that it contains all the evidence taken relating to such findings. Goldsmith Silver Co. v. Savage, 229 F. 623, 144 C. C. A. 33, affirming decree (D. C.) 211 F. 751.

Where decree in suit for infringement of patent briefly dismissed bill, held, that transcript on appeal should include all evidence tending to support grounds which would justify dismissal, even though court in its opinion showed that it based decree on particular ground. Linde Air Products Co. v. Morse Dry Dock & Repair Co., 246 F. 834, 159 C. C. A. 136, affirming decree (D. C.) 239 F. 909.

Appeals are decided on the record sent up whenever possible, and a decree will not be reversed where, from the record, the appellate court could determine nature of evidence improperly excluded, and that it would not have affected the result. In re Soltmann, 249 F. 455, 161 C. C. A. 413.

§ 1656. (Act Feb. 13, 1911, c. 47, § 1.) Printed transcript.

Omission of statement in narrative form.—Because of the anticipated bulkiness of the record in a suit in equity, the parties had the notes of the testimony transcribed directly into printed pages and bound into convenient volumes. The record as so printed conformed to Supreme Court rule 31 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1835) and to the provisions of the statute. Held that, while the record in this shape was found satisfactorily convenient, the District Court could not approve a transcript of the record for transmission to the Supreme Court without the statement in narrative form required by equity rule 75 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 2527) unless leave to omit such statement was obtained from the Supreme Court, as it would be an evasion of the duty imposed on the District Court to apply the exception contained in the rule as to setting forth parts of the testimony in full to the whole testimony. U. S. v. Motion Picture Patents Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 541.

§ 1657. (Act Feb. 13, 1911, c. 47, § 2.) Same.

See U. S. v. Motion Picture Patents Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 541; note under § 1656.

§ 1658. (R. S. § 998.) Citation.

Citation on appeal or writ of error—Necessity.—Where appeal was allowed in open court, and was perfected during term at which appeal was rendered, there was sufficient notice of appeal, without citation. Edwards v. Bodkin, 249 F. 562, 161 C. C. A. 488.

—— Nature and effect of citation.—Writ of error operates proprio vigore to remove record, while citation gives notice to parties and brings them into court. Rederiaktiebolaget Amie v. Universal Transp. Co., 245 F. 282, 157 C. C. A. 474.

§ 1660. (R. S. § 1000.) Bond in error and on appeal.

Construction of court rules, see notes under §§ 1114, 1232.

Notes of Decisions

2½. In criminal case where writ of error is not a supersedeas.—See American Surety Co. v. U. S., 239 F. 680, 152 C. C. A. 514.

4. Necessity of bond to perfect appeal or error.—Under this section, writ of error, but for Supreme Court rule 29 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1833), of which rule 13 for Circuit Courts of Appeals (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1292) is a copy, can be perfected and cause heard without any security at all, except for costs. Rederiaktiebolaget Amie v. Universal Transp. Co., 245 F. 282, 157 C. C. A. 474.

Where a trustee in bankruptcy desires a supersedeas, he may obtain the same upon giving a bond in compliance with this section and section 1666, though the order allowing the appeal imposed no condition with respect to the appeal. Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Harvey (C. C. A.) 250 F. 952.

Bankruptcy Act, § 25c (Comp. St. 1916, § 9609), relieving a trustee in bankruptcy from giving bond on appeal or writ of error, does not relieve him of the obligation to give a supersedeas bond, as required by this section and section 1666, and if the trustee secures a supersedeas, giving bond, it is enforceable. Id.

10. Contents or conditions of bond.—A bond given by plaintiff in error in an action at law, conditioned for payment of "all costs and damages that may be awarded against it, if it shall fail to make its plea good," unless so specified in the approval, does not operate as a supersedeas. Ætna Life Ins. Co. of Hartford, Conn., v. Ryan (D. C.) 253 F. 457.

12. Time of delivery or filing.—On appeal to Circuit Court of Appeals, that tribunal may relieve appellant from effect of his laches in omitting to give security for costs; there being no rule or statute fixing time for filing in the particular situation. Graham v. O'Ferral, 236 F. 717, 150 C. C. A. 49.

14½. Effect of bond in general.—A dissolved corporation, appealing from decree against it and giving bond, cannot assert that it is incapable of maintaining and defending pending suits. Pease v. Rathbun-Jones Engineering Co., 37 S. Ct. 283, 243 U. S. 273, 61 L. Ed. 715, affirming decree 228 F. 273, 142 C. C. A. 565.

16. Bonds void or defective.—Under Supreme Court rule 29 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1833), of which rule 13 for Circuit Courts of Appeals (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1292) is copy, held that, though no supersedeas bond was given when writ of error was taken, it is, under this section, mere irregularity, and any Circuit Judge or judge of Circuit Court of Appeals may, after expiration of 60-day period prescribed by section 1007 (section 1666), fix amount of supersedeas bond. Rederiaktiebolaget Amie v. Universal Transp. Co., 245 F. 282, 157 C. C. A. 474.

17. Effect of failure to give bond.—Where defendant in error failed to promptly move to dismiss, and entered into stipulation as to the record, writ will not be dismissed for plaintiff in error's laches in filing bond, etc., but plaintiff will be given opportunity to perfect writ by filing bond, under penalty of dismissal for failure. Fisher Hydraulic Stone & Machinery Co. v. Warner, 233 F. 527, 147 C. C. A. 413, reversing judgment (C. C.) 188 F. 465.

19. Enforcement of liability.—The writ of scire facias, to enforce liability of the surety on an appeal bond, is original only in the sense that, being obtained, the subsequent procedure is as in an action at law, entitling the defendant to answer and to jury trial. Universal Transp. Co. v. National Surety Co. (D. C.) 252 F. 293.

It is not ground of objection to issuance of scire facias against the surety on an appeal bond, to enforce its liability thereon, that it was not a party to the original action. Id.

20. Rendition of summary judgment on bond.—Jurisdiction of federal District Court to render summary judgment against sureties on appeal on affirmance without notice cannot be questioned, where thereafter sureties asked decision on question of their liability under the evidence. Pease v. Rathbun-Jones Engineering Co., 37 S. Ct. 283, 243 U. S. 273, 61 L. Ed. 715, affirming decree 228 F. 273, 142 C. C. A. 565.

21. Enforcement of judgment pending appeal.—Where, under this section and section 1666 bond superseding decree appealed from had been given, trial court is without jurisdiction to enforce obedience to decree by contempt proceedings. Smith v. Government of Canal Zone, 249 F. 273, 161 C. C. A. 281.

Where, in violation of stay or supersedeas of decree from which appeal had been previously taken, trial court attempted to enforce it by contempt proceedings, and record and parties were before appellate court, it may set aside judgment or order in contempt proceedings, as an attempt to enforce decree suspended, though such judgment or order might not be subject to review on writ of error as attempted. Id.

§ 1666. (R. S. § 1007, as amended, Act Feb. 18, 1875, c. 80, § 1.) Supersedeas.

Construction of court rules, see notes under §§ 1114, 1232.

Notes of Decisions

2. Construction and application in criminal prosecutions.—See American Surety Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 239 F. 680.

Where, though writ of error was allowed, the writ was not issued and filed within the time allowed by statute, District Court held to have jurisdiction to vacate stay of proceedings and order releasing defendants on bail. U. S. v. Pollak (D. C.) 230 F. 532.

5. Power or authority to allow writ.—A single judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals is without power to grant a stay pending an appeal in a habeas corpus proceeding, where the District Judge, who remanded the relator and allowed the appeal, refused the stay. U. S. v. Johnson (C. C. A.) 251 F. 889.

6. Writ operating as supersedeas.—Where order of Chief Justice of Court of Appeals granting writ of error from federal Supreme Court merely followed this section, petitioner's failure to subsequently comply with statute by lodging copy of writ in clerk's office for respondent's use did not affect validity of order that writ should operate as supersedeas. Ohio River Contract Co. v. Gordon, 189 S. W. 451, 172 Ky. 404.

7. Effect on further proceedings in lower court.—Where bond superseding decree appealed from had been given, trial court is without jurisdiction to enforce obedience to decree by contempt proceedings. Smith v. Government of Canal Zone, 249 F. 273, 161 C. C. A. 281.

7½. Effect as to other actions and proceedings.—A supersedeas bond, given by the defendant in an infringement suit, who was the manufacturer, on appeal from a decree granting an injunction, is not a bar to a suit against a customer of defendant, brought in another jurisdiction pending the appeal. Meccano, Limited, v. John Wanamaker, New York (D. C.) 241 F. 133.

Where plaintiff in replevin, in federal District Court for Pennsylvania, recovered judgment, and defendant sued out writ of error more than 60 days thereafter, which did not operate as a supersedeas, held, that action on replevin bond, under Pennsylvania replevin act of 1901 (P. L. 88), could not be suspended until determination of writ of error. Moore v. American Fidelity Co. of Montpelier, Vt. (D. C.) 247 F. 609.

8. Necessity of giving security.—Where a trustee in bankruptcy desires a supersedeas, he may obtain the same upon giving a bond, though the order allowing the appeal imposed no condition with respect to the appeal. Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Harvey (C. C. A.) 250 F. 952.

Bankruptcy Act, § 25c (Comp. St. 1916, § 9609), relieving a trustee in bankruptcy from giving bond on appeal or writ of error, does not relieve him of the obligation to give a supersedeas bond, as required by this section and section 1660, and if the trustee secures a supersedeas, giving bond, it is enforceable. Id.

9. Amount and sufficiency of bond.—Where judge signing writ of error and citation fixed amount of supersedeas bond by formal order, judge of Circuit Court of Appeals will not interfere with amount fixed in order, though citation was signed without production of bond. Rederiaktiebolaget Amie v. Universal Transp. Co., 245 F. 282, 157 C. C. A. 474.

16. Time for filing writ or bond—Extension of time by justice or judge.—Under Supreme Court rule 29 (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1833), of which rule 13 for Circuit Courts of Appeals (Comp. St. 1916, p. 1292) is copy, held that, though no supersedeas bond was given when writ of error was taken, it is, under Rev. St. § 1000 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1660), mere irregularity, and any Circuit Judge or judge of Circuit Court of Appeals may, after expiration of 60-day period prescribed by this section, fix amount of supersedeas bond. Rederiaktiebolaget Amie v. Universal Transp. Co., 245 F. 282, 157 C. C. A. 474.

18. Vacation of supersedeas.—Where Chief Justice of Court of Appeals has allowed writ of error from federal Supreme Court, Court of Appeals has no jurisdiction to vacate the order granting the writ of error and directing that it operate as a supersedeas; the jurisdiction being in the federal Supreme Court. Ohio River Contract Co. v. Gordon, 189 S. W. 451, 172 Ky. 404.

20½. Effect of bond as estoppel.—Where a supersedeas bond recited the rendition and entry of the decree, the sureties are estopped in a proceeding thereon from questioning the bond by collaterally attacking the decree. Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Harvey (C. C. A.) 250 F. 952.

21. Extent of liability on bond.—Where a trustee in bankruptcy appealed to the Supreme Court from a decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals reversing a judgment in his favor, giving a supersedeas bond, held that, as the decree appealed from awarded costs, etc., enforcement of the bond cannot be denied, on the ground that there was no judgment or decree on which execution could issue. Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Harvey (C. C. A.) 250 F. 952.

The enforcement of a supersedeas bond given on appeal to the Supreme Court from a decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals, which awarded costs in favor of the successful party, is not affected by the fact that at the time the bond was given the costs had not been taxed, for that was part of the proceedings stayed. Id.

24. Issuance and stay of execution.—When writ of error removing cause to United States Supreme Court is granted, the cause is pending therein, and execution cannot be stayed unless plaintiff in error files his writ of error within legal time after entry of judgment, for there can be no supersedeas if writ of error is invalid. Seaboard Air-Line Ry. Co. v. Horton (N. C.) 96 S. E. 954.

§ 1668. (R. S. § 700.) Review in cases tried without a jury.

1. Construction in general.—Sections 1584 and 1587, providing for jury trial of fact issues in the Circuit Courts, were not repealed by Judicial Code, and they, as well as section 1668, providing for review, are made applicable to District Courts by section 1268. Lillie v. Dennert, 232 F. 104, 146 C. C. A. 296.

3. Mode of review.—See notes under §§ 1120, 1213–1215.

4. Stipulations waiving jury.—Under Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1584, 1587, 1668, where a case was tried without a jury on an oral waiver of a jury trial and without any written stipulation waiving such a trial, the questions decided at the trial could not be re-examined on writ of error, and no questions were open to review except those arising upon the process, pleadings, or judgment. Illinois Surety Co. v. U. S., 229 F. 527, 143 C. C. A. 595; Id., 229 F. 533, 143 C. C. A. 601.

7. Exceptions to rulings—Necessity.—Where motion to enter satisfaction of judgment was tried to the court, but jury was not waived, the appellate court on writ of error will not, no objection having been made, consider whether order of court was mere award of an arbitrator, but will treat decision as one which can be reviewed. Lillie v. Dennert, 232 F. 104, 146 C. C. A. 296.

Rules 11 and 24 for Circuit Courts of Appeals (Comp. St. 1916, pp. 1290, 1326) apply to assignment of errors in Circuit Court of Appeals, and do not warrant review in action tried to court of matters not reviewable under this section, because not presented below. Maryland Casualty Co. of Baltimore, Md., v. Orchard Land & Timber Co., 240 F. 364, 153 C. C. A. 290.

8. —— Rulings on evidence or pleading.—Exception to judgment held insufficient to preserve for review rejection of testimony, and so assignment of error complaining of such rejection may be disregarded. Cordingly v. Kennedy, 239 F. 645, 152 C. C. A. 479.

The question whether there was any substantial evidence to sustain the findings, can be reviewed only when it was presented to and decided by the trial court, and an exception to the ruling taken and allowed. Security Nat. Bank of Sioux City, Iowa, v. Old Nat. Bank of Battle Creek, Mich., 241 F. 1, 154 C. C. A. 1.

9. —— Form and sufficiency.—Where, in action tried to court, there was general finding for defendants, exception to judgment on ground evidence was insufficient to justify it does not present for review on error question of sufficiency of evidence. Garwood v. Scheiber, 246 F. 74, 158 C. C. A. 300.

10. —— Objections or exceptions to mode or form of procedure.—Decree granting relief under Bankruptcy Act July 1, 1898, § 67e (Comp. St. 1916, § 9651), avoiding fraudulent transfers, will not be disturbed on ground that bill was framed under section 60b of that act as amended by Act Feb. 5, 1903, § 13, and Act June 25, 1910, § 11 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9644), where the objection was not raised below, and the issue of fraudulent transfer was found against appellant. Dean v. Davis, 37 S. Ct. 130, 242 U. S. 438, 61 L. Ed. 419, affirming decree 212 F. 88, 128 C. C. A. 658.

11. —— On reference.—An erroneous conclusion of the master in an equity suit that a reorganized company was not liable for unsecured debts of the old corporation could be reversed by the Circuit Court of Appeals on appeal upon the merits, though the exceptions to such conclusion were put upon other grounds. Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Guardian Trust Co., 36 S. Ct. 334, 240 U. S. 166, 60 L. Ed. 579, affirming decrees Central Imp. Co. v. Cambria Steel Co., 201 F. 811, 120 C. C. A. 121, and 210 F. 696, 127 C. C. A. 184.

Order confirming master's report held in effect to overrule objections, and not to be reviewable, in the absence of an exception thereto, or to the entry of judgment. Rutan v. Johnson & Johnson, 231 F. 369, 145 C. C. A. 363.

12. Bill of exceptions—Necessity.—While, on error from final judgment, errors of law appearing on the face of the record proper are available, without bill of exceptions or equivalent, not so as to errors in rulings of law in the course of the trial, which require exceptions at the time, and their incorporation into the record by such means. Ana Maria Sugar Co. v. Quinones (C. C. A.) 251 F. 499. See, also, notes under § 1590.

19. Review on submission of questions of law and fact to court.—Where both parties moved court to instruct verdict, thereby affirming there was no disputed question of fact, and necessarily requesting court to find the facts, they are concluded by finding made by trial court, and appellate court is limited, in reviewing its action, to consideration of correctness of finding on law, and must affirm, if there is any supporting evidence. Moore v. Fain (C. C. A.) 251 F. 573; Dickinson v. Harris, 242 F. 926, 155 C. C. A. 514; La Crosse Plow Co. v. Pagenstecher (C. C. A.) 253 F. 46.

Where averment of fact in motion on which court granted it was not controverted below, it cannot be drawn in question here. Camp v. Gress, 244 F. 121, 156 C. C. A. 549, certiorari granted 38 S. Ct. 14, 245 U. S. 655, 62 L. Ed. 533.

A prayer by each party for binding instructions in his favor is equivalent to a joint request for a finding of fact by the court, and does not amount to a submission without the intervention of a jury within Rev. St. §§ 649, 700 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1587, 1668); hence the direction of a verdict by the court is conclusive. Williams v. Vreeland, 244 F. 346, 156 C. C. A. 632.

As trial court heard evidence, it will be presumed that decree was right, unless it appears that there has been obvious error in application of law, or some serious mistake in consideration of evidence. U. S. v. Porter Fuel Co., 247 F. 769, 159 C. C. A. 627.

20. Review on agreed statement of facts.—A defense not regarded by trial court or included in agreed statement of facts cannot be considered on defendant's appeal. Alaska Salmon Co. v. Territory of Alaska, 236 F. 62, 149 C. C. A. 272.

When a case is submitted on an agreed statement of facts, the sufficiency of the facts so agreed on to sustain the judgment entered may be reviewed on writ of error. Blair v. U. S., 241 F. 217, 154 C. C. A. 137, reversing judgment U. S. v. Blair-Murdock Co. (D. C.) 228 F. 77.

22. Review as dependent on requests for findings or rulings.—Review of denial of motion for judgment is limited to the specific questions presented on the motion. National Surety Co. v. Lincoln County, Mont., 238 F. 705, 151 C. C. A. 555, affirming judgment Lincoln County v. Coast Bridge Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 468.

General finding made in cause submitted to court under this section is not reviewable where no request for special findings nor motion for a finding for adverse party was made during the trial. Calaf v. Fernandez, 239 F. 795, 152 C. C. A. 581.

In action tried to District Court in accordance with Rev. St. §§ 649, 700 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1587, 1668), made applicable to District Court by Judicial Code, §§ 289-291, held, that plaintiff in error, defendant below, who did not object to admission of evidence and requested no special findings, could not complain on appeal that evidence was insufficient to sustain judgment. Maryland Casualty Co. of Baltimore, Md., v. Orchard Land & Timber Co., 240 F. 364, 153 C. C. A. 290; Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. George A. Hormel & Co., 240 F. 381, 153 C. C. A. 307; H. F. Dangberg Land & Live Stock Co. v. Day, 247 F. 477, 159 C. C. A. 531.

Whether special finding is supported by evidence may be raised by special request and exception to finding, and in case of general finding by general request and exception to refusal. Société Nouvelle d'Armement v. Barnaby, 246 F. 68, 158 C. C. A. 294; Garwood v. Scheiber, 246 F. 74, 158 C. C. A. 300.

Where court, on its own motion, at close of plaintiff's case, entered judgment for defendant, dismissing complaint on merits, plaintiff may secure review of dismissal, though it had made no request for findings of fact and declaration of law in its favor. Meyer & Chapman State Bank v. First Nat. Bank of Cody, 248 F. 679, 160 C. C. A. 579.

In an action tried to the court without a jury by stipulation, where the court is not asked to rule that there is no substantial evidence to justify judgment, the findings of fact must be accepted by the appellate court, and only rulings on matters of law, duly excepted to, are reviewable. Pederson v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 622.

23. Scope and extent of review—In general.—In reviewing the trial court's denial of motion for new trial, the fact that he had seen and heard the witnesses should be considered in support of his action. Carolina C. & O. Ry. Co. v. Stroup, 239 F. 75, 152 C. C. A. 125.

24. —— In absence of special findings of fact or where findings are general.—Under Rev. St. §§ 649 and 700 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1587, 1668), findings in action tried to the court may be general or special, and where general only rulings during trial can be reviewed, but if special sufficiency to support judgment may be determined. Société Nouvelle d'Armement v. Barnaby, 246 F. 68, 158 C. C. A. 294; Good Pine Lumber Co. v. Duke, 229 F. 714, 144 C. C. A. 124; Smith & Co. v. Kingfalfa Mills, 237 F. 82, 150 C. C. A. 284; City of Goldfield, Colo., v. Roger, 249 F. 39, 161 C. C. A. 99; National Surety Co. v. Lincoln County, Mont., 238 F. 705, 151 C. C. A. 555, affirming judgment Lincoln County v. Coast Bridge Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 468. And where there was no agreed statement of facts, or special finding of facts, and bills of exception were not taken in such time that they could be considered, assignments of error, complaining of sustaining of demurrer to petition and of rendition of judgment in favor of defendant, must be overruled. Proctor Coal Co. v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 236 F. 910, 150 C. C. A. 172.

25. Review of special findings of fact.—In civil cases at law, tried without a jury, where the finding is general, the review extends only to errors arising in the course of the trial; but where there is a special finding of facts, or an agreed statement, the appellate court can inquire whether the facts support the judgment. Panama R. Co. v. Beckford, 231 F. 436, 145 C. C. A. 430. But where there are specific findings the weight of the evidence cannot be reviewed. Panama R. Co. v. Beckford, 231 F. 436, 145 C. C. A. 430.

27. Review of general findings and questions of fact—Review in general.—See McCormick v. Provident Life & Trust Co. of Philadelphia, 249 F. 141, 161 C. C. A. 193.

The parties to an action tried without a jury cannot by consent authorize review of the sufficiency of the evidence to support a general finding. Sierra Land & Live Stock Co. v. Desert Power & Mill Co., 229 F. 982, 144 C. C. A. 264.

On writ of error to review a judgment rendered in an action where jury was waived, only inquiries open are, in view of Rev. St. §§ 700, 1011 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1668, 1672), whether evidence tends to support ultimate finding, and whether the finding in turn is sufficient to sustain the judgment. Turner v. Schaeffer, 249 F. 654, 161 C. C. A. 564.

A general finding on an issue of infringement in an action at law tried by the court without a jury held reviewable by the appellate court. Chicago & A. Ry. Co. v. Pressed Steel Car Co., 243 F. 883, 156 C. C. A. 395, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 11, 245 U. S. 652, 62 L. Ed. 532.

Concurrent findings of two lower courts as to matter of fact will not be disturbed unless clearly erroneous. Baker v. Schofield, 37 S. Ct. 333, 243 U. S. 114, 61 L. Ed. 626, affirming decree 221 F. 322, 136 C. C. A. 320.

Findings by trial judge, who heard evidence and saw witnesses when testifying, will not be disturbed, unless clearly against weight of evidence, or induced by a mistaken view of law. Trujillo & Mercado v. Succession of Rodriguez, 233 F. 208, 147 C. C. A. 214; Columbia Graphophone Co. v. Searchlight Horn Co., 236 F. 135, 149 C. C. A. 345; Bijur Motor Lighting Co. v. Eclipse Mach. Co., 243 F. 600, 156 C. C. A. 298, affirming decree (D. C.) 237 F. 89; Vineyard Land & Stock Co. v. Twin Falls Oakley Land & Water Co., 245 F. 30, 157 C. C. A. 326; First Nat. Bank of McGregor v. Eiseman, 246 F. 597, 158 C. C. A. 567; Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. U. S., 247 F. 466, 159 C. C. A. 520, affirming judgment U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. (D. C.) 238 F. 428; Farmers' State Bank v. Freeman, 249 F. 579, 161 C. C. A. 505.

The finding of the chancellor should not be disturbed, unless it clearly appears that he has made a serious mistake of fact, or has fallen into some plain error of law. Conkling Mining Co. v. Silver King Coalition Mines Co., 230 F. 553, 144 C. C. A. 607; Wilson v. Sands, 231 F. 921, 146 C. C. A. 117; L. A. Westermann Co. v. Dispatch Printing Co., 233 F. 609, 147 C. C. A. 417; De Laski & Thropp Circular Woven Tire Co. v. United States Tire Co., 235 F. 290, 149 C. C. A. 6, affirming decree (D. C.) 232 F. 884; Semidey v. Central Aguirre Co., 239 F. 610, 152 C. C. A. 444; Estep v. Kentland Coal & Coke Co., 239 F. 617, 152 C. C. A. 451; Fay v. Hill, 249 F. 415, 161 C. C. A. 389; Ridge v. Healy (C. C. A.) 251 F. 798; Moran v. Morgan (C. C. A.) 252 F. 719.

28. —— Findings on conflicting evidence.—Findings of court based on conflicting evidence are conclusive on appeal. Butte & Superior Copper Co. v. Clark-Montana Realty Co., 248 F. 609, 160 C. C. A. 509, affirming decree Clark-Montana Realty Co. v. Butte & Superior Copper Co. (D. C.) 233 F. 547, and certiorari denied Butte & Superior Copper Co. v. Clark-Montana Realty Co., 38 S. Ct. 581, 247 U. S. 516, 62 L. Ed. 1245; Galle v. Hamburg Amerikanische Packetfahrt Actien Gesellschaft, 233 F. 424, 147 C. C. A. 360; Simmons v. Hodges (C. C. A.) 250 F. 424. And a finding of the District Court that miner's rules relating to the diversion of water were not in force when the rights of the parties originated, made upon conflicting evidence, cannot be disregarded by the Circuit Court of Appeals, even if contrary to the weight of evidence. Alaska-Juneau Gold Mining Co. v. Ebner Gold Mining Co., 239 F. 638, 152 C. C. A. 472.

Findings of fact, made on conflicting evidence, will not be reversed, unless it clearly appears that the court made a serious mistake in the finding of fact, or fell into a controlling error of law. Luten v. Sharp, 234 F. 880, 148 C. C. A. 478, affirming decree (D. C.) 217 F. 76; Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., 242 F. 799, 155 C. C. A. 387; Ryan v. Ohmer, 244 F. 31, 156 C. C. A. 459; Schlank v. Smith, 246 F. 686, 158 C. C. A. 642; The F. B. Squire, 248 F. 469, 160 C. C. A. 479. And findings, based on conflicting evidence taken in open court, will not be disturbed on appeal, in the absence of a showing that in arriving at such findings the trial court erroneously applied some rule of evidence or found contrary to the decided weight of testimony. Leggat v. McLure, 234 F. 620, 148 C. C. A. 386.

Where, in equity case, testimony which was conflicting was heard orally by court, its findings for that reason are entitled to deference on appeal. U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co. of New Jersey, 38 S. Ct. 473, 247 U. S. 32, 62 L. Ed. 968, affirming decree (D. C.) 222 F. 349, and leave to file petition for rehearing granted 38 S. Ct. 581; Adamson v. Gilliland, 37 S. Ct. 169, 242 U. S. 350, 61 L. Ed. 356, reversing decree Gilliland v. Adamson, 227 F. 93, 141 C. C. A. 641; U. S. v. Cannon, 244 F. 750, 157 C. C. A. 198; Turner & Dahnken v. Crowley (C. C. A.) 252 F. 749.

29. —— Conclusiveness of findings.—Regardless of the rule as to review of findings of fact in case tried without a jury, the appellate court will examine the evidence of the facts, where a review of the decision of the trial court on jurisdiction is invoked, although there is a presumption of the correctness of the trial court's decision. Davis v. Anderson-Tully Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 681.

Where an action at law is by stipulation tried to the court, under the provisions of Rev. St. §§ 649, 700 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1587, 1668), the findings of fact by the court are not reviewable by an appellate court, if there is any competent evidence on which they could have been made. Chautauqua Institution v. Zimmerman, 233 F. 371, 147 C. C. A. 307; Illinois Surety Co. v. U. S., 229 F. 527, 143 C. C. A. 595; Id., 229 F. 533, 143 C. C. A. 601; Sierra Land & Live Stock Co. v. Desert Power & Mill Co., 229 F. 982, 144 C. C. A. 264; Rutan v. Johnson & Johnson, 231 F. 369, 145 C. C. A. 363; Lillie v. Dennert, 232 F. 104, 146 C. C. A. 296; Shelton v. Gas Securities Co., 239 F. 653, 152 C. C. A. 487; Société Nouvelle d'Armement v. Barnaby, 246 F. 68, 158 C. C. A. 294; Virginia & West Virginia Coal Co. v. Charles (C. C. A.) 254 F. 379.

Whether the trial court's findings are supported by the agreed facts, and the additional evidence is a question of fact on the weight of the evidence, which, in a trial of an action at law by the court, the national courts are forbidden to review by Const. Amend. 7, and Rev. St. §§ 649, 700 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1587, 1668). Security Nat. Bank of Sioux City, Iowa, v. Old Nat. Bank of Battle Creek, Mich., 241 F. 1, 154 C. C. A. 1.

The Circuit Court of Appeals cannot review the trial court's construction of a contract, the language of which was so general and obscure as to make parol evidence as to its meaning competent, where there was testimony to sustain the construction. General Electric Co. v. Chattanooga Coal & Iron Corporation, 241 F. 38, 154 C. C. A. 38.

30. —— Effect of findings as verdict.—Where a jury was waived by stipulation, the court's finding on the issues of fact had the effect and force of a verdict by a jury. First Nat. Bank of Bayonne v. Anglo-South American Bank, 230 F. 817, 145 C. C. A. 127.

31. —— Weight and sufficiency of evidence.—Findings of fact by the chancellor, though not conclusive on appeal, are presumptively correct, and unless clearly against the weight of the evidence, will not be disturbed, particularly where the testimony was given orally. U. S. v. Grass Creek Oil & Gas Co., 236 F. 481, 149 C. C. A. 533; Bush v. Branson, 248 F. 377, 160 C. C. A. 387; Fuller v. Reed, 249 F. 158, 161 C. C. A. 210, affirming decree Thurston v. Same (D. C.) 229 F. 737; Fay v. Hill, 249 F. 415, 161 C. C. A. 389.

Where plaintiff and his associates testified to representation, and court evidently believed them, held, that decree could not be disturbed, notwithstanding the claimed improbability that such representation was made. Twin Lakes Land & Water Co. v. Dohner, 242 F. 399, 155 C. C. A. 175.

On review of action tried to the court without a jury, credibility of witnesses cannot be weighed. Turner v. Schaeffer, 249 F. 654, 161 C. C. A. 564.

32. Review of findings on reference—In general.—Under Rev. St. §§ 649, 700 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1587, 1668), where parties waived jury trial by attending proceeding under reference without objection, or written stipulation held, that the only question reviewable was whether the facts found sustained the judgment. Wm. Edwards Co. v. La Dow, 230 F. 378, 144 C. C. A. 520, modifying judgment In re Miller (D. C.) 221 F. 471.

Where, in an action to recover property on the ground that it was delivered as a preference, the parties, though there was no authority by statute, stipulated for trial to a referee, the trial court cannot review the referee's findings of fact, any more than an appellate court can review findings of fact in an action at law tried without a jury, where there is no statutory authority for the waiver of a jury and reservation of exceptions. Grant v. National Bank of Auburn (D. C.) 232 F. 201.

A finding of fact by a special master based on conflicting evidence, and credibility of witnesses, will not be disturbed, where supported by evidence. Parker v. Ross, 234 F. 289, 148 C. C. A. 191; Fleming v. Noble (C. C. A.) 250 F. 733; In re Victor (D. C.) 246 F. 727; In re S. & S. Mfg. & Sales Co. (D. C.) 246 F. 1005.

Findings of fact made by a referee, where the reference is to hear and determine the action, have the effect of the verdict of a jury; but judgment may be set aside where the findings are clearly against the weight of evidence. Fifth Nat. Bank of City of New York v. Lyttle (C. C. A.) 250 F. 361.

33. —— Findings approved by court.—A report of the master, approved by the trial judge, is presumptively correct, and will not be disturbed by the appellate court unless some obvious error of law or serious mistake in considering the evidence has occurred. Lasswell Land & Lumber Co. v. Lee Wilson & Co., 236 F. 322, 149 C. C. A. 454; Tatum Bros. Real Estate & Investment Co. v. Shenk, 246 F. 684, 158 C. C. A. 640, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 334, 246 U. S. 664, 62 L. Ed. 928; Brown v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 513; Robinson v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 461; John A. Schmitt's

Sons v. Shadrach (C. C. A.) 251 F. 874. Particularly where another finding disposing of appellant's contention was supported by evidence. Emerson v. Fisher, 246 F. 642, 158 C. C. A. 598. And especially where trial court's opinion showed that master was well fitted to discharge his duties, and that judge most painstakingly scrutinized report and exceptions. Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. v. Riverside Bridge Co., 247 F. 625, 160 C. C. A. 35.

Cited without definite application, McCoach v. Continental Passenger Ry. Co. of Philadelphia (C. C. A.) 233 F. 976; Schoenwald v. Bishop (C. C. A.) 244 F. 715; Equitable Trust Co. of New York v. Denver & R. G. R. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 327; Prudential Ins. Co. of America v. Herold (D. C.) 247 F. 681.

§ 1670. (Act March 3, 1891, c. 517, § 10.) Remand of cause.

I. REVIEW AND DETERMINATION IN SUPREME COURT

2. Questions considered.—Where decree enjoining enforcement of municipal ordinance prescribing maximum water rates, on ground that they were confiscatory, could be affirmed on that ground, though complainant be not deemed owner of certain water rights, question whether complainant was, under state laws, entitled to such water rights, should not be determined. City and County of Denver v. Denver Union Water Co., 38 S. Ct. 278, 246 U. S. 178, 62 L. Ed. 649.

3. Persons entitled to allege error.—Any error in basing recovery in personal injury action upon federal Employers' Liability Act April 22, 1908 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8657), cannot be urged where defendant relied on that statute and the rights that under that statute it supposed it possessed. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co. v. Winters, 37 S. Ct. 170, 242 U. S. 353, 61 L. Ed. 353, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 54, affirming judgment Winter v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 155 N. W. 1103, 131 Minn. 496.

7. Affirmance.—Decree affirmed on motion, where courts of two circuits had reached same conclusion on questions of fact, and questions of law were settled, and rulings clearly right. Eichel v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 38 S. Ct. 47, 245 U. S. 102, 62 L. Ed. 177, affirming decree United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Eichel, 241 F. 357, 154 C. C. A. 237.

10. Jurisdiction and proceedings after remand.—On remand from the Supreme Court, the District Court has no power, except to enter a decree in conformity with the mandate. In re Bensel (D. C.) 230 F. 932.

II. REVIEW AND DETERMINATION IN CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS

12. Scope and extent of review—Matters or evidence considered in determining questions.—In determining the propriety of rejecting an offer of proof, the entire offer, and not isolated portions, should be considered. Chambers v. Farnham, 236 F. 886, 150 C. C. A. 148.

On appeal from judgment sustaining demurrer to answer alleging rescission by Interstate Commerce Commission of order of reparation, later proceedings of the Commission, resulting in reinstatement of the order, will be passed upon, though not presented to the lower court. Morgan's Louisiana & T. R. & S. S. Co. v. Isaac Joseph Iron Co., 243 F. 149, 156 C. C. A. 15.

13. —— Questions considered.—Rulings by the trial court on an indictment, sentence under which was suspended, can be reviewed. Cooper v. U. S., 232 F. 81, 146 C. C. A. 273, certiorari denied 36 S. Ct. 725, 241 U. S. 675, 60 L. Ed. 1232.

Where one count in an indictment is good, and the sentence is no greater than could lawfully be imposed under such count, the sufficiency of other counts becomes immaterial in a reviewing court. Aczel v. U. S., 232 F. 652, 146 C. C. A. 578.

Where, in an equity case, testimony complained of by appellant was unnecessary to sustain the decree, the question of its admissibility will not be determined. Cooper v. Jewett, 233 F. 618, 147 C. C. A. 426.

Where the evidence may differ on retrial, there being other errors necessitating reversal, the appellate court need not determine whether an instruction correct in law was justified by the facts. Murray v. Third Nat. Bank of St. Louis, 234 F. 481, 148 C. C. A. 247.

Where an appeal in a proceeding involving claims against a bankrupt was by stipulation limited to two claims involving only preference, question whether claimant had been paid need not be reviewed, after a decision that claimant was not entitled to preference as to one claim, and that the other claim was unenforceable. Citizens' Trust Co. v. Mullinix, 235 F. 875, 149 C. C. A. 187.

Where the grand jury returned an indictment against corporations for violating Cr. Code, § 83 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10251), relating to campaign contributions, held that the inquiry being no longer in progress questions whether a witness was guilty of contempt in failing to produce documentary evidence and give testimony as required will not be determined on writs of error to review denial of his application for habeas corpus and to review motion to quash presentment. Ex parte Fox, 236 F. 861, 150 C. C. A. 123.

Where assignments of error on cross-writ were contingent and in the alternative, they need not be reviewed, where judgment for defendant, which sued out the cross-writ, was affirmed. Proctor Coal Co. v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 236 F. 910, 150 C. C. A. 172.

Where trial court granted complainant relief in suit for unfair use of complainant's trade-mark, regardless of its registration, on upholding the decision on appeal, the validity of registration need not be determined. Baldwin Co. v. R. S. Howard Co., 238 F. 154, 151 C. C. A. 230, affirming decree (D. C.) 233 F. 439.

Where trial court found that chattel mortgagee had valid lien on automobile sought to be forfeited under Rev. St. § 2140 (Comp. St. 1916, § 4141), because used by mortgagor to carry intoxicating liquors into Indian country, but declared lien of mortgagee inferior to claim of United States, mortgagee was entitled to raise on record question whether automobile was subject to forfeiture, as well as whether its interest could be forfeited. Shawnee Nat. Bank v. U. S., 249 F. 583, 161 C. C. A. 509.

Where administrator of estate filed petition in state court to sell property for payment of debts, and trustee in bankruptcy of one of the heirs entitled to share in the land consented to sale, any question of jurisdiction to enjoin sale became moot, and petition seeking injunction should be dismissed. Tripplehorn v. Cambron (C. C. A.) 250 F. 605.

Where plaintiff appealed from a decree of noninfringement, and not from the part of the decree sustaining the validity of the patent, held, that the question of infringement was the only one presented. F. W. Rauskolb Co. v. Anthony Mfg. Co. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 650.

Where result would be same in any event, question whether a suit to cancel a certificate of naturalization will lie, or whether a writ of error in naturalization proceedings was only remedy, need not be determined. U. S. v. Smith (D. C.) 247 F. 131.

15. —— Theory and grounds of decision in lower court.—Inaccuracy of statement by court of last resort that assumption of risk was of no effect in an action under Employers' Liability Act furnishes no ground for reversing its affirmance of the judgment, where correctness of charge is not attacked. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Brown, 36 S. Ct. 602, 241 U. S. 223, 60 L. Ed. 966, affirming judgment 144 P. 1075, 45 Okl. 143.

Direction of verdict for passenger, alleged to have been ravished by porter, held not sustainable on theory that improper advances created liability, where question of damages was submitted on theory of actual rape. Dickinson v. Scruggs, 242 F. 900, 155 C. C. A. 488.

Where action was tried and submitted on theory that contract between plaintiff and defendants was legal, question whether it was valid under anti-trust laws will not be reviewed. Ford Motor Co. v. Farrington, 245 F. 850, 158 C. C. A. 190.

Decree should be sustained on appeal, though lower court assigned erroneous reasons. Gideon v. Hinds, 238 F. 140, 151 C. C. A. 216; Kalloch v. Hoagland, 239 F. 252, 152 C. C. A. 240; Linde Air Products Co. v. Morse Dry Dock & Repair Co., 246 F. 834, 159 C. C. A. 136, affirming decree (D. C.) 239 F. 909; Clinton Mining & Mineral Co. v. Cochran, 247 F. 449, 159 C. C. A. 503; U. S. v. Porter Fuel Co., 247 F. 769, 159 C. C. A. 627; Bush v. Branson, 248 F. 377, 160 C. C. A. 387.

Where trial court found on issues joined that it had no jurisdiction, and ordered petition dismissed, decree should be dealt with as dismissing petition for want of jurisdiction, and not for want of equity, regardless of court's opinion. Tripplehorn v. Cambron (C. C. A.) 250 F. 605.

Where a complaint was dismissed generally, without any reason being specified, the defendants are entitled to insist upon all the objections made below in order to sustain the judgment. Brown v. Denver Omnibus & Cab Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 560.

Where defendants moved to dismiss on several grounds, the judgment of dismissal may be sustained on any of the grounds made in the motion to dismiss. U. S. v. Board of Com'rs of Osage County, Okl. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 570.

16. —— Extent of review dependent on mode of review or nature of decision.—On writ of error from a judgment dismissing an action on demurrer, all questions raised by the demurrer are reviewable. Dowd v. United Mine Workers of America, 235 F. 1, 148 C. C. A. 495.

Appeal, after defendant's application to rehear motion for preliminary injunction was denied, presents for review only propriety of preliminary injunction complained of. Thompson v. Balke, 245 F. 841, 158 C. C. A. 181.

Where writ of error is directed only to judgment, order, made after judgment, denying new trial or application for modification of judgment, is not reviewable. Ford Motor Co. v. Farrington, 245 F. 850, 158 C. C. A. 190.

18. Persons entitled to allege error—Appellees or defendants in error.—In a suit for injunction against officers of labor unions, a clause in the decree, enjoining as confederates all present and future members of the unions, was not a matter of which the defendants might complain. Hitchman Coal &

Coke Co. v. Mitchell, 38 S. Ct. 65, 245 U. S. 229, 62 L. Ed. 260, L. R. A. 1918C, 497, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 461, reversing decree Mitchell v. Hitchman Coal & Coke Co., 214 F. 685, 131 C. C. A. 425, which reversed decree Hitchman Coal & Coke Co. v. Mitchell (D. C.) 202 F. 512. Mandate stayed 38 S. Ct. 190.

Where complainants, suing on a judgment designating the rate of interest, failed to appeal from that portion of the decree reducing the rate of interest, they cannot, on defendants' appeal, complain. Cooper v. Jewett, 233 F. 618, 147 C. C. A. 426.

Where defendant did not appeal from a decree awarding it affirmative relief, the propriety of the denial of some of the relief sought by defendant cannot be reviewed. Lasswell Land & Lumber Co. v. Lee Wilson & Co., 236 F. 322, 149 C. C. A. 454.

Where defendants, who had judgment below, did not appeal from ruling adverse to one of their contentions, such ruling cannot be reviewed. Henna v. Sauri & Subira, 237 F. 145, 150 C. C. A. 291.

Where trustee in bankruptcy took no appeal from decree of District Court, Circuit Court of Appeals may not consider point made in his brief that District Court erred in not making allowance. Sanborn-Cutting Co. v. Paine, 244 F. 672, 157 C. C. A. 120.

Where a trust company, which made advances to a lessee to enable her to build on the demised ground, sued the lessee and lessor to foreclose its liens, etc., and the lessor in the same proceeding recovered for rent due, and foreclosure was ordered, the original decree, not having been appealed from by the lessee, is conclusive as to her, notwithstanding lessor's appeal from the decree in favor of the trust company and a subsequent agreement between those parties. Finley v. Halliburton (C. C. A.) 251 F. 860.

Where defendant did not appeal from the portion of the decree which was adverse to it, that matter will not be reviewed on plaintiff's appeal. Rogers v. Marion County Lumber Corporation (C. C. A.) 251 F. 876.

21. —— Estoppel to allege error.—Objection to evidence on ground that it was no part of the case held untenable; it being directly relevant to a matter which defendant itself pleaded. Itasca Lumber Co. v. Martin, 230 F. 584, 144 C. C. A. 638.

Where defendant offered no evidence as to the cost of conforming to the warranty, and urged only an erroneous theory of damages, he cannot complain that the court instructed that the measure of damages was the difference between the value as warranted and the actual value. B. F. Sturtevant Co. v. Champion Fibre Co., 232 F. 1, 146 C. C. A. 193.

Where defendant read in evidence depositions taken by plaintiff, defendant cannot complain on appeal that the depositions contained incompetent and hearsay evidence. Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Collins Produce Co., 235 F. 857, 149 C. C. A. 169.

Where trial court, after giving charge fairly presenting controversy, stated that counsel might call his attention to any points they would like to have specifically answered, defendant, having been cast below, cannot raise in appellate court matter not then called to trial court's attention. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Minds, 244 F. 53, 156 C. C. A. 481, affirming judgment Minds v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 267.

A plaintiff cannot except to his own motion for voluntary nonsuit. Cybur Lumber Co. v. Erkhart, 247 F. 284, 159 C. C. A. 378.

Where defendant requested directed verdict at close of plaintiff's evidence, and again at close of all of evidence, it cannot be heard to say that case ought to have gone to jury; plaintiff's motion for directed verdict having been granted. La Crosse Plow Co. v. Pagenstecher (C. C. A.) 253 F. 46.

A party cannot complain that a case was submitted to the jury on his own theory of the issues, whether such theory was or was not correct. Weinstein v. Studebaker Corporation (D. C.) 238 F. 963.

22. Amendments of proceedings of lower court.—See notes under § 1591.

24. Trial de novo.—Appeal in equity opens up the whole case, and brings before reviewing tribunal the entire case. Linde Air Products Co. v. Morse Dry Dock & Repair Co., 246 F. 834, 159 C. C. A. 136, affirming decree (D. C.) 239 F. 909; Sun Co. v. Vinton Petroleum Co., 248 F. 623, 160 C. C. A. 523, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 580, 247 U. S. 514, 62 L. Ed. 1244. Hence incompetent evidence which trial court itself stated would be disregarded, the court receiving testimony, without determining in first instance its competency or relevancy, must be disregarded. Anderson v. Hultberg, 247 F. 273, 159 C. C. A. 367.

25. Presumptions on appeal or error —Burden of showing error.—There being no evidence to the contrary, the Supreme Court will adopt the assumption that trustees for shareholder savings banks acted lawfully in making payments to receiver of insolvent national bank. Korbly v. Springfield Inst. for Savings, 38 S. Ct. 88, 245 U. S. 330, 62 L. Ed. 326, affirming judgment Pepper v. Same, 218 F. 814, 134 C. C. A. 502.

Where no appeal was taken from order denying holders of receivers' certificates certain priorities, it must be assumed that they did not assert priority over those charges. Ball v. Improved Property Holding Co. of New York, 247 F. 645, 159 C. C. A. 547.

The legal presumption is that the orders of the court below in a suit in equity are just, lawful, and without prejudice to any of the parties to the suit, and the burden is on an appellant, who assails one of them, to show by the record that it was erroneous and prejudicial to him. Bankers' Trust Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 789.

26. —— Facts or evidence not shown by record.—Where court charged that defendant could not be held responsible criminally for salesman's misrepresentations, unless made by his authority, and record did not show objection, or purport to contain all the evidence, the verdict must be deemed to determine that the representations were made with defendant's sanction. Weeks v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 219, 245 U. S. 618, 62 L. Ed. 513, affirming judgment 224 F. 64, 139 C. C. A. 626.

In an action for the death of a brakeman, it will be presumed that matter omitted from the record, to which a witness referred in indicating the position of a crack in the railroad truck, was sufficient to support the verdict. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Glas, 239 F. 256, 152 C. C. A. 244.

In absence of record evidence showing what "service extensions" for which materials were furnished included, held that finding that the materials were not an operating expense will be adopted. John A. Roebling's Sons Co. of California v. Idaho Ry., Light & Power Co., 243 F. 527, 156 C. C. A. 225.

Where, in proceeding under Rev. St. § 2140 (Comp. St. 1916, § 4141), to forfeit automobile on ground that it was used as means for introduction of intoxicants into Indian country, court found that chattel mortgagee had valid lien, but that it was inferior to rights of United States under forfeiture proceeding, it must be presumed, in absence of evidence, that mortgagee had nothing to do with introduction of liquor into Indian country. Shawnee Nat. Bank v. U. S., 249 F. 583, 161 C. C. A. 509.

Where the evidence on which order was based was not incorporated in the record, it will be presumed that the evidence supports the order. Cross v. Georgia Iron & Coal Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 438.

27. —— Organization and jurisdiction of lower court.—Regarding jurisdiction to impose sentence after the trial term, it will be presumed on appeal that postponements were for a lawful purpose. Miner v. U. S., 244 F. 422, 157 C. C. A. 48.

29. —— Interlocutory orders.—Where order of reference did not show presence of or assent by defendants, and record threw no light on the subject, held, that it would be assumed that they were not present or did not assent. Wm. Edwards Co. v. La Dow, 230 F. 378, 144 C. C. A. 520, modifying judgment In re Miller (D. C.) 221 F. 471.

In view of presumption of validity attending acts of a court of record, held, that defendant against whom a foreign executor recovered judgment could not question judgment on appeal, because executor's bond was not in accordance with Rev. St. Colo. 1908, § 7153, for twice amount of recovery; lower court having discretion to accept lesser bond. Cordingly v. Kennedy, 239 F. 645, 152 C. C. A. 479.

32. —— Instructions.—Where the instructions are not in the record, it will be presumed that they properly applied the law to the facts. Inter-Island Steam Nav. Co. v. Ward, 232 F. 809, 147 C. C. A. 3, writ of error dismissed 37 S. Ct. 1, 242 U. S. 1, 61 L. Ed. 113.

Where defendant did not complain of the charge given, there is a presumption that the instructions were as favorable to defendant as the case warranted. Carolina C. & O. Ry. Co. v. Stroup, 239 F. 75, 152 C. C. A. 125.

In the absence of the evidence, it will be presumed there was testimony warranting refusal, in action against publishing company for libel, of instruction that any malice of its editor could not be imputed to it. American Issue Pub. Co. v. Sloan, 248 F. 251, 160 C. C. A. 329.

33. —— Verdict, findings, or judgment.—Where an order of reference requires the master to report his findings only, there is no presumption that his report contains all the evidence taken before him. Goldsmith Silver Co. v. Savage, 229 F. 623, 144 C. C. A. 33, affirming decree (D. C.) 211 F. 751.

Where the verdict was for plaintiff, each controverted issue on which the testimony was conflicting must be taken as decided in plaintiff's favor. Lehigh Valley Coal Co. v. Lukaszunas, 230 F. 792, 145 C. C. A. 102.

Where defendant did not appeal, and complainant only appealed from the award of damages, claiming it inadequate, it will be presumed that the determination of the trial court that defendant was liable was correct, although such matter might be reviewed. L. A. Westermann Co. v. Dispatch Printing Co., 233 F. 609, 147 C. C. A. 417.

Where the master, who paid some of the hospital and medical expenses of an injured servant, made no request that the award of damages be diminished on that ground, the award will not be disturbed on appeal, for it will be presumed that it was so diminished. Grand Trunk Ry. Co. of Canada v. Knapp, 233 F. 950, 147 C. C. A. 624.

There being a general finding for plaintiff, suing a contractor's surety, it must be assumed, on appeal, that deviations from specifications were found not to have been at plaintiff's instance or to have been authorized by the contract. National Surety Co. v. Lincoln County, Mont., 238 F. 705, 151 C. C. A. 555, affirming judgment Lincoln County v. Coast Bridge Co. (D. C.) 231 F. 468.

In action for discrimination in distributing cars where there was evidence besides award, held, it will be presumed that verdict for less than amount of award was not based on award of Interstate Commerce Commission. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Minds, 244 F. 53, 156 C. C. A. 481, affirming judgment Minds v. Pennsylvania R. Co. (D. C.) 237 F. 267.

Jury's finding that gesture by defendant's driver toward plaintiff's child was so threatening as to amount to negligence will be presumed to be supported by evidence; witness having illustrated gesture, which could not be reproduced in the record. Fell Brewing Co. v. Adamo, 245 F. 935, 158 C. C. A. 223.

33½. Review of discretionary rulings of lower court—In general.—An appellate court is only justified in setting aside an order addressed to the discretion of the trial court if an abuse of discretion clearly appears. City of Des Moines, Iowa, v. Des Moines Water Co., 230 F. 570, 144 C. C. A. 624, affirming judgment (D. C.) 218 F. 939.

35. —— On pleadings.—The allowance of amendments to pleadings is in the discretion of the court, and such discretion will ordinarily not be disturbed. In re Frank, 239 F. 709, 152 C. C. A. 543, affirming order (D. C.) 234 F. 665; Gooch v. Presbyterian Home Hospital, 239 F. 828, 152 C. C. A. 614. And so of a proposed amendment to answer to set up additional defenses after conclusion of evidence. Ames v. Sullivan, 235 F. 880, 149 C. C. A. 192. Or of a trial amendment. Western Coal & Mining Co. v. McCallum (C. C. A.) 237 F. 1003. Or leave to file a supplemental bill. General Inv. Co. v. Lake Shore & M. S. Ry. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 160. And discretion of trial judge in refusing to require bill of particulars will not be disturbed, unless inspection of whole record clearly convinces appellate court that refusal resulted in injustice, which is not the case where both counts of the declaration relate to the same matters, and, in the second count, defendant's alleged wrongful acts are detailed. Harper v. Harper (C. C. A.) 252 F. 39.

35½. —— Pleading in criminal prosecutions.—A motion by the defendant in a criminal case for a bill of particulars is addressed to the discretion of the court, and its action thereon is not reviewable. Knauer v. U. S., 237 F. 8, 150 C. C. A. 210.

Discretion of trial court in granting leave to withdraw pleas of guilty and enter pleas of not guilty to indictment is not reviewable. Billingsley v. U. S., 249 F. 331, 161 C. C. A. 339, affirming judgment U. S. v. Billingsley (D. C.) 242 F. 330, and certiorari denied Billingsley v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 583, 247 U. S. 523, 62 L. Ed. 1247.

36. —— Dismissal or nonsuit before trial.—An order setting aside dismissal and setting a case for hearing, relating to a discretionary matter, will be reviewed only in so far as the court did not have jurisdiction. S. M. Hamilton Coal Co. v. Watts, 232 F. 832, 147 C. C. A. 26, reversing order Watts v. S. M. Hamilton Coal Co. (D. C.) 219 F. 1003.

37. —— Continuance.—Granting or refusing a continuance rests in the sound discretion of the trial court, whose action will not be disturbed, except in a case of clear abuse of that discretion. Bond v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 804; Washington Ry. & Electric Co. v. Scala, 45 App. D. C. 484, judgment affirmed 37 S. Ct. 654, 244 U. S. 630, 61 L. Ed. 1360; Spear v. U. S., 246 F. 250, 158 C. C. A. 140, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 335, 62 L. Ed. 929; McClendon v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 229 F. 523; Pennsylvania Co. v. Fanger, 231 F. 851, 146 C. C. A. 47; Hale v. U. S., 242 F. 891, 155 C. C. A. 479; Warren v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 89; Shea v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 433. And denial of 10 minutes to defendant's counsel to examine charge, for purpose of framing exceptions and requests for additional instructions, held not an abuse of discretion. Hughes v. U. S., 231 F. 50, 145 C. C. A. 238.

39. —— Relating to jury.—The length of time a jury will be held for deliberation rests within the sound discretion of the court, and no abuse of discretion is shown by holding them from Saturday afternoon till Monday. Bernal v. U. S., 241 F. 339, 154 C. C. A. 219.

40. —— Conduct of trial or hearing.—It is within the discretion of the trial court to limit the time for argument in a criminal case. Samuels v. U. S., 232 F. 536, 146 C. C. A. 494.

Discretion as to granting separate trial to numerous defendants can be reviewed only when abused. Schwartzberg v. U. S., 241 F. 348, 154 C. C. A. 228.

40½. —— Requiring election.—The disposition of an objection that defendants were or had been embarrassed in their defenses by a denial of their motion to require prosecution to elect would be within the discretion of the trial court, and reviewable only if that discretion was abused. Sidebotham v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 417.

41. —— Rulings on evidence.—It is within the discretion of the trial court to limit the number of witnesses a defendant charged with a criminal offense may introduce on a single point in issue. Samuels v. U. S., 232 F. 536, 146 C. C. A. 494.

The exclusion of testimony on objection that it is too remote does not require reversal, though the appellate court is of the opinion it should have been admitted. Overstreet v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 238 F. 565, 151 C. C. A. 501.

The propriety of leading questions is so largely a matter of discretion, and depends so much on the circumstances of each case, that it is unwise for an appellate tribunal to review the act of the trial court in allowing leading questions. Linn v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 476.

42. —— Directing verdict.—When trial court has directed verdict on conflicting evidence, appellate court may not reverse judgment, unless convinced, on consideration of evidence, that lower court in its discretion might have sustained contrary verdict. Fricke v. International Harvester Co., 247 F. 869, 160 C. C. A. 91.

43. —— Submission of questions to jury.—The submission of special questions or findings of fact to the jury in a personal injury action is discretionary on the part of the trial court, and error cannot be assigned thereon. Fisher Mach. Works Co. v. Dougherty, 231 F. 910, 146 C. C. A. 106.

44. —— New trial or rehearing.—The discretion of the court, in the granting or denial of a motion for new trial, where there is evidence to support the verdict, is not reviewable on error. Shepard v. U. S., 236 F. 73. 149 C. C. A. 283; Smith v. U. S., 231 F. 25, 145 C. C. A. 213; Towe v. U. S., 238 F. 557, 151 C. C. A. 493; Maryland Casualty Co. of Baltimore, Md., v. Orchard Land & Timber Co., 240 F. 364, 153 C. C. A. 290; R. D. Cole Mfg. Co. v. Mendenhall, 240 F. 641, 153 C. C. A. 439; City of Grafton v. Gentry Bros.' Shows, 240 F. 646, 153 C. C. A. 444; Bernal v. U. S., 241 F. 339, 154 C. C. A. 219; Ford Motor Co. v. Farrington, 245 F. 850, 158 C. C. A. 190; Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Chamberlain (C. C. A.) 253 F. 429. And disposition of a motion for new trial, based on alleged newly discovered evidence, is within the discretion of the trial judge, reviewable only for manifest abuse. Yeates v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 60. But while ordinarily the ruling of the trial court on motion for new trial is not subject to review, yet, if an abuse of discretion is shown, the matter may be reviewed. United Press Ass'ns v. National Newspapers Ass'n (C. C. A.) 254 F. 284. And while the grant of a new trial on the ground of excessive damages is a matter of discretion with the trial court, not subject to review (Southern Ry. Co. v. White, 232 F. 144, 146 C. C. A. 336) where amount of plaintiff's recovery was uncontroverted, but jury, in violation of court's charge, found for less amount than that established by evidence, reversal of judgment based on such verdict was not violation of rule that refusal of trial court to disturb verdict on motion for new trial is matter of discretion. Glenwood Irr. Co. v. Vallery, 248 F. 483, 160 C. C. A. 493. And notwithstanding rule as to review of discretion in granting or refusing new trial, prejudicial error in denial of new trial for juror's disqualification held reviewable. Memphis St. Ry. Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 242 F. 617, 155 C. C. A. 307.

44½. —— Sentence and extent of punishment in criminal cases.—The appellate court cannot substitute its own discretion for that of the District Court, and, those believing lighter punishments than those imposed for violation of the Harrison Drug Act (Comp. St. 1916, § 6287) would have vindicated the law, punishment imposed cannot be treated as excessive. Wallace v. U. S., 243 F. 300, 156 C. C. A. 80, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 11, 245 U. S. 650, 62 L. Ed. 531.

Nature of sentence held discretionary in trial court, and not reviewable, if within the statutory limits. Freeman v. U. S., 243 F. 353, 156 C. C. A. 133.

Where sentence imposed for theft of property of United States, was within Penal Code, § 190 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10360), appellate court cannot treat punishment as excessive and showing abuse of discretion of trial judge, though judge admitted he considered defendant's ulterior purpose in theft and fact that he was guilty of subornation of perjury. Peterson v. U. S., 246 F. 118, 158 C. C. A. 344, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 332, 62 L. Ed. 932.

45. —— Proceedings after judgment, and costs and allowances.—Discretion of court in authorizing new parties after judgment cannot be reviewed except for abuse. United States ex rel. State of Louisiana v. Boarman, 37 S. Ct. 605, 244 U. S. 397, 61 L. Ed. 1222, affirming decree U. S. v. Same, 217 F. 757, 133 C. C. A. 487.

As the amount of fees to be allowed complainant's counsel in a creditors' suit rests peculiarly within the knowledge of the trial judge, unless his discretion is abused, an allowance will not be disturbed. Central Trust Co. of New York v. United States Light & Heating Co., 233 F. 420, 147 C. C. A. 356.

An appellate court will not interfere with the discretion of the trial court in adjudging costs in a suit in equity. Weiland v. Pioneer Irr. Co., 238 F. 519, 151 C. C. A. 455.

Allowance of counsel fees under Copyright Act, § 40 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9561), held not reviewable, unless an abuse of discretion is shown. S. E. Hendricks Co. v. Thomas Pub. Co., 242 F. 37, 154 C. C. A. 629.

In suit to set aside corporation's deed of assignment to controlling stockholder, and to determine validity of bonds, discretion of trial court in allowing fees to plaintiff's solicitor against the company instead of such stockholder held not reviewable. Williamson v. Collins, 243 F. 835, 156 C. C. A. 347.

Under Rev. St. & Codes Porto Rico, § 5350, providing that, when its Supreme Court reversed a judgment, it shall render such judgment as should have been rendered, except when some matters of fact need ascertainment, or there is uncertainty as to the damages to be assessed or matter to be decreed, courts should be slow to control its discretion in determining the damages, which had been fully tried. Ana Maria Sugar Co. v. Quinones (C. C. A.) 251 F. 499.

46. Error waived in appellate court.—Contentions not discussed either in appellant's brief or orally must be treated as abandoned. Pond Creek Coal Co. v. Hatfield, 239 F. 622, 152 C. C. A. 456; Town of Newbern v. National Bank of Barnesville, Ohio, 234 F. 209, 148 C. C. A. 111; May v. U. S., 236 F. 495, 149 C. C. A. 547; Bandy v. U. S., 245 F. 98, 157 C. C. A. 394; Sun Co. v. Vinton Petroleum Co., 248 F. 623, 160 C. C. A. 523, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 580, 247 U. S. 514, 62 L. Ed. 1244; Consolidated Interstate-Callahan Mining Co. v. Witkouski (C. C. A.) 249 F. 833. And where error assigned, on ground of objection to the indictment that the grand jury was not selective, designated, nor impaneled according to law, was not argued orally or by brief, and the record disclosed no fact upon which the claim could be based, it would not be considered. Sugar v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 74. And so where nothing more than the bare assignment of error is set forth in the brief. Wege v. Safe-Cabinet Co., 249 F. 696, 161 C. C. A. 606. And the propriety of refusal of requested instructions will not be determined, where, on hearing in appellate court, assignments of error complaining of refusal were waived. Boston & M. R. R. v. Baker, 236 F. 896, 150 C. C. A. 158. But the waiver of assignments of error, for failure to argue the same on appeal, will, where appellant proceeded on the theory that action was one of trover, when it was also one on the case, be overlooked, and assignment will be considered. Arnold v. Horrigan, 238 F. 39, 151 C. C. A. 115.

47. Subsequent appeals—Scope and extent of review.—Save in exceptional circumstances questions decided upon one writ of error or appeal are not open to consideration by same appellate court on subsequent writ of error or appeal in same case. Tillar v. Cole Motor Car Co., 246 F. 831, 159 C. C. A. 133, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 579, 247 U. S. 511, 62 L. Ed. 1242.

Where decree for defendant was on complainant's appeal reversed, defendant, not having urged in appellate court that decree in its favor was proper under its cross-demand for reformation of written instrument, cannot complain, on appeal from subsequent decree for complainant, that trial court refused to consider its cross-demand. Sun Co. v. Vinton Petroleum Co., 248 F. 623, 160 C. C. A. 523, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 580, 247 U. S. 514, 62 L. Ed. 1244.

48. —— Former decision as law of case.—Where the original decree in a suit applies to the facts, it becomes the law of the case on subsequent litigation. Ferrell v. Prame, 236 F. 727, 150 C. C. A. 59. Thus holding on former appeal that verdict for defendant should have been directed was the law of the case, where the evidence was the same. Linkous v. Virginian Ry. Co., 242 F. 916, 155 C. C. A. 504, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 10, 245 U. S. 649, 62 L. Ed. 530. And a decision on a former writ of error that plaintiff was entitled to recover future profits is the law of the case on subsequent trial; the relevant facts remaining the same. United Press Ass'ns v. National Newspapers Ass'n (C. C. A.) 254 F. 284.

Decision of Circuit Court of Appeals, reversing decree for defendant, will, on appeal from decree entered pursuant to that decision, be accepted as law of case, where purpose of appeal was to keep alive right of defendant to present question involved for determination of Supreme Court. Ash Sheep Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 591. And a decree amended in conformity with a decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals, rendered on appeal from an earlier decree, will not be disturbed upon second appeal; the earlier decision having announced the law of the case. Lesamis v. Greenberg (C. C. A.) 250 F. 848.

While a decision on a former appeal is the law of the case on second appeal, the court may determine that its mandate was misinterpreted below. Continental & Commercial Trust & Savings Bank v. North Platte Valley Irr. Co., 237 F. 188, 150 C. C. A. 334.

Contentions of accused disposed of on prior appeal become law of case, and, having been settled adversely to him, are no ground for reversal on subsequent appeal. Perara v. U. S., 235 F. 515, 149 C. C. A. 61.

49. —— Questions concluded.—Where, on appeal from first trial, appellate court held plaintiff could not recover for breach of contract, count of complaint setting up defendant's own repudiation and seeking recovery on that ground, thus excusing plaintiff's breach, cannot be treated as stating a cause of action not arising out of contract, but the former decision governs. Caledonian Ins. Co. v. Levy, 233 F. 92, 147 C. C. A. 162.

In an action at law, previous decisions of an appellate court are not findings of fact, nor are conclusions used for the purpose of argument in directing formulation of pleadings equivalent to decision upon meaning of statements to be included in pleadings. Gleason v. Thaw, 234 F. 570, 148 C. C. A. 336.

Permission granted by appellate court to file in the court below a supplemental bill does not bind the court as to the validity of the new claims sought thereby to be presented. Saalfield Pub. Co. v. G. & C. Merriam Co., 238 F. 1, 151 C. C. A. 77.

Questions decided on former appeal, and reconsidered on petition for rehearing and on petition for order directing subsequent proceedings below, must be accepted as final on subsequent appeal, where nothing was presented to court which had not been previously considered. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Eichel, 241 F. 357, 154 C. C. A. 237.

Where decree provided for taxation of disbursements if appeal was taken and decree affirmed, held, that any error or abuse of discretion in such provision should have been presented on the appeal, and could not be presented on subsequent appeal from order taxing disbursements. Guaranty Trust Co. of New York v. International Steam Pump Co., 242 F. 920, 155 C. C. A. 508.

Reversal on writ of error of judgment for defendant, on ground that refusal of instructions as to defenses was erroneous, does not on retrial warrant direction of a verdict for defendant; defenses not being established by uncontroverted evidence. Board of Com'rs of Muddy Bottom Swamp Land Dist., No. 1, Tippah County, Miss., v. Equitable Surety Co., 246 F. 633, 158 C. C. A. 589.

Where after reversal of a judgment against defendants as executors the trial court set aside stipulation executed on first trial which dismissed action against defendants as individuals, and authority and jurisdiction of trial court to dismiss stipulation was upheld on defendant's application for prohibition or mandamus, the matter will not be reconsidered on a writ of error to review a judgment against defendants as individuals. Griggs v. Nadeau (C. C. A.) 250 F. 781.

54. Decision of cause—Scope of decision or relief.—Though an injunction was denied, the court has jurisdiction to preserve the status quo, pending appeal or final determination, though dismissing the bill. Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., 237 F. 986, 150 C. C. A. 636, affirming judgment U. S. v. Toledo Newspaper Co. (D. C.) 220 F. 458.

58. Affirmance—Error not shown.—In reviewing judgment of Supreme Court of Porto Rico, in action where local law governs, Circuit Court of Appeals must uphold decision of lower court, unless convinced that clear error was committed. Plazuela Sugar Co. v. Pastoriza, 245 F. 115, 157 C. C. A. 411.

60. —— Remission of part of recovery.—Evidence and instructions held reasonably to show that the verdict was for the proper amount of damages, with interest, so as to permit plaintiff to remit the interest to avoid a reversal. B. F. Sturtevant Co. v. Champion Fibre Co., 232 F. 1, 146 C. C. A. 193.

In action for damages for breach of contract to sell vessel, where unpaid installment was not deducted from value of vessel as fixed by jury, because it had been deducted in admiralty suit, growing out of same transaction, such unpaid installment must be remitted, if judgment for plaintiff be allowed to stand; decree in admiralty suit having been vacated for want of jurisdiction. Rederiaktiebolaget Amie v. Universal Transp. Co. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 400.

64. Modification—Amendment of defects and correction of errors.—Where right to recover against all owners of vessel on shipper's libel for full amount, in case any of them was liable, was not controverted, decree of Circuit Court of Appeals that payment should be made by a certain estate, a part owner only, should be modified to render all the owners liable. Luckenbach v. W. J. McCahan Sugar Refining Co., 39 S. Ct. 53, 63 L. Ed. ——.

65. —— Modification as to amount of recovery.—Where fine imposed in prosecution under Act Cong. July 23, 1892 (Comp. St. 1916, § 4140), as amended by Act Jan. 30, 1897 (Comp. St. 1916, § 4137), for selling intoxicating liquor to an Indian, was not authorized, the judgment, which was otherwise correct, will not be reversed, but Circuit Court of Appeals may modify it, by striking out provisions imposing excessive fine. Salazar v. U. S., 236 F. 541, 149 C. C. A. 593.

An alleged excess in the verdict is a matter to be dealt with by the trial court, and not on writ of error by a federal appellate tribunal. Stultz v. Cousins, 242 F. 794, 155 C. C. A. 382.

66. —— Modifying provisions of judgment.—Where vendor, who took back deed of trust for unpaid purchase money providing that purchaser or his heirs or assigns might obtain releases for any parcels not less than 640 acres upon payment of amount due thereon as prorated, foreclosed deed of trust against unreleased lands which had been disposed of, modification of decree on appeal, consented to by vendor, so as to permit each defendant to prevent sale of his land by paying proportionate share of amount decreed, is proper. Carson v. Hurt (C. C. A.) 250 F. 30.

69. Reversal—Jurisdictional defects.—Though record on appeal to Circuit Court of Appeals discloses no facts to support federal jurisdiction, yet, where judgment on merits is valid, it will be upheld, pending inquiry into jurisdictional facts, or judgment may be reversed, with directions to trial court, on finding jurisdictional facts, to enter final judgment. Alexandria Paper Co. v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 246 F. 122, 158 C. C. A. 348.

Where counsel for plaintiff in error, upon oral argument in open court admitted facts supporting federal jurisdiction, the judgment, being otherwise valid, cannot be reversed because the record failed to show facts supporting federal jurisdiction. Id.

70. —— Error as to ground of decision.—On an erroneous conviction on a count for aiding a convict to escape from a federal penitentiary, and on a proper conviction on a count for harboring and concealing the convict, both parts of a single transaction, within Criminal Code, § 141 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10311), imposing an imprisonment of not more than six months for each related offense, where there should have been but one sentence, not exceeding six months, defendant, sentenced to imprisonment for twelve months, was entitled to have the case remanded for sentence according to law. Orth v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 566.

71. —— Technical or trivial defects or errors.—See notes under §§ 1246, 1591, 1691.

A case for injury to railroad employé, fairly tried on the merits, will not be reversed on refined distinctions between interstate and intrastate commerce, except on a clear conviction of error in the trial judge's view. Southern Ry. Co. v. O'Dell (C. C. A.) 252 F. 540.

72. —— Amount or extent of recovery.—While it is the general rule in equity that costs are in the discretion of the trial court, and that no appeal will lie upon a decree merely upon the ground of error in awarding costs, yet, where the decree is erroneous in any other respect, the appellate court may reverse or modify it with respect to costs. Chapin-Sacks Mfg. Co. v. Hendler Creamery Co. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 553.

73. —— Reversal in part, or as to one or more coparties.—Where defendants were charged severally, judgment may be affirmed as to those properly held liable, and reversed as to any not properly held. Chiarello Bros. Co. v. Pederson, 242 F. 482, 155 C. C. A. 258.

Where gold coin was forfeited in proceedings under Act June 15, 1917, post, § 7678d, on the ground it was delivered for export outside of the United States, but it was ordered delivered to the claimant on his giving a bond conditioned that it would not be exported, etc., held that, though the provision for delivery on bond was unwarranted, the entire judgment will be reversed, to enable the trial court to pass on questions of law and fact under a proper construction of the statute. U. S. v. Fernandez (C. C. A.) 254 F. 302.

74. —— Rendering final judgment.—Where issues were fully heard before master, and all proper evidence was admitted, and exceptions to his findings raised no serious question of fact, appellate court may dispose of such exceptions without remanding case to trial court, which erroneously declined to consider them. City and County of Denver v. Denver Union Water Co., 38 S. Ct. 278, 246 U. S. 178, 62 L. Ed. 649.

In action for breach of alleged contract for sale of sugar plantation, Circuit Court of Appeals, though finding there was no evidence warranting submission of case to jury and that verdict should have been directed for defendant, cannot, on defendant's writ of error, enter verdict and render judgment for defendant, but must remand for new trial. Sucrerie Central Coloso de Porto Rico v. Fajardo, 248 F. 432, 160 C. C. A. 442.

75. —— Directing judgment in lower court.—An appeal from a decree adverse to the government's contention that a combination of steamships to monopolize ocean travel violates Anti-Trust Act July 2, 1890 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8821), will be reversed, and case remanded with directions to dismiss without prejudice, where the controversy has become a moot one in consequence of the European War. U. S. v. American-Asiatic S. S. Co., 37 S. Ct. 233, 242 U. S. 537, 61 L. Ed. 479, reversing decree Same v. Prince Line (D. C.) 220 F. 230.

76. —— New trial and directing further proceedings in lower court.—Where action for damages for false imprisonment was heard on pleadings, and questions involving police powers of large municipality in times of widespread disorder could be far more intelligently disposed of when evidence had been heard and was before appellate court, judgment will be reversed, and case remanded for disposition on evidence. Pfeil v. Jamison, 245 F. 119, 157 C. C. A. 415.

In action on bonds and interest coupons, where record did not show how much judgment should be reduced on account of recovery improperly allowed on interest coupons upon which action was barred by limitations and there was no stipulation as to matter, judgment must be reversed and remanded for further proceedings. Rialto Irr. Dist. v. Stowell (C. C. A.) 246 F. 294; Same v. Chellis (C. C. A.) 246 F. 308.

A general verdict, returned on trial of an action which was without reversible error, may be permitted to stand pending an inquiry and determination by the trial court on the question of its jurisdiction. Chicago & A.

R. Co. v. Allen, 249 F. 280, 161 C. C. A. 288.

It fairly appearing from trial court's opinion that the conflicting evidence, on the question of an unrecorded mortgage on stock of goods being in fraud of subsequent creditors, was not duly considered, because of misapprehension that mortgagee had agreed to sell mortgagor all the goods it needed; and so did not contemplate that mortgagor would seek credit elsewhere, there will be a reversal and remand for new trial. Hawkins v. Dannenberg Co. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 529.

79. Mandate and proceedings in lower court—Mandate and order of remand.—A mandate from the Circuit Court of Appeals, reversing a judgment, with costs "in the sum of $50.10," held not to entitle plaintiff to execution for costs incurred by him in the District Court, but only for costs of the appellate proceedings, including those specified in the mandate. Bailey v. Mississippi Home Telephone Co. (D. C.) 254 F. 358.

80. —— Effect in lower court of appellate court decision.—Where appellate court, on reversing judgment for defendant, expressly declared it was not its intention to in any wise pass upon merits of controversy, presumption that there was evidence sufficient to warrant finding for either party is conclusively negatived. F. M. Davies & Co. v. Porter, 248 F. 397, 160 C. C. A. 407.

81. —— Powers and duties of lower court.—After dismissal and remand on appeal, on discovery of new evidence, held that, the decree being interlocutory, the District Court is not deprived of power to set aside its decree and reopen the case because a term expired while the appeal was pending. Wagner v. Meccano, Limited, 235 F. 890, 149 C. C. A. 202, authorizing reopenment in District Court Meccano v. Wagner (D. C.) 234 F. 912.

After trial and determination on appeal on the theory that defendants' dictionary was a revision of one, the copyright to which plaintiff had owned before its expiration, plaintiff cannot change his theory by alleging that it was a revision of a different dictionary. Saalfield Pub. Co. v. G. & C. Merriam Co., 238 F. 1, 151 C. C. A. 77.

After a decree of a District Court has been affirmed or reversed by the appellate court, the question whether a party should be allowed to file a bill of review in the District Court must be passed upon by the appellate court. Suhor v. Gooch, 248 F. 870, 160 C. C. A. 628, denying petition for leave to file bill of review 244 F. 361, 156 C. C. A. 647.

When the decree of the trial court in an equity case is reversed or modified on appeal, with costs, the costs of the appellate court are meant, unless the mandate otherwise provides; and, the trial court having a discretion as to costs in such cases, the application of the successful party for costs after the mandate has gone down must be addressed to the trial court. Romeike v. Romeike (C. C. A.) 251 F. 273.

Where appellate court had granted new trial, to allow defendant opportunity to litigate an issue, the trial court, in granting defendant's motion to amend, to plead such matter, did not abuse its discretion in failing to impose costs as a condition. Mundler v. Palmer (Sup.) 165 N. Y. S. 987.

82. —— Proceedings after remand.—See Cybur Lumber Co. v. Erkhart, 247 F. 284, 159 C. C. A. 378.

Where a District Court erroneously held on demurrer to a bill that a certain person was not a necessary party, on reversal of the final decree in the case complainant is entitled to amend the bill by making such person a party. Brown v. Fletcher, 231 F. 92, 145 C. C. A. 280.

85. —— Rendition of judgment as directed.—Decree pursuant to mandate of Circuit Court of Appeals in foreclosure of vendor's lien held not void because ordering deficiency execution against defendant and sureties on his appeal bond. Pease v. Rathbun-Jones Engineering Co., 37 S. Ct. 283, 243 U. S. 273, 61 L. Ed. 715, affirming decree 228 F. 273, 142 C. C. A. 565.

No objection to form of decree on foreclosure of vendor's lien can be raised in lower court after decree was affirmed on appeal, where no objection was taken on the appeal. Id.

Decree of federal District Court restraining sales by certain railroads of land grants in violation of covenants, and enjoining selling of timber on said lands, or mineral deposits except as part of land, held warranted by mandate of federal Supreme Court on remand on reversal for further proceedings and enjoining sales of timber until Congress should provide for their sale. Oregon & C. R. Co. v. U. S., 37 S. Ct. 443, 243 U. S. 549, 61 L. Ed. 890.

The decree of a District Court, entered upon a mandate of the Circuit Court of Appeals in a suit for infringement of trade-mark, considered and modified, and, as so modified, approved as in conformity to the mandate. Fairbanks v. American Piano Co., 242 F. 490, 155 C. C. A. 266.

After affirmance of decree, trial court cannot take action on allowance of costs by appellate court. Tompkins v. St. Regis Paper Co. (D. C.) 240 F. 838.

87. —— New trial.—Where Circuit Court of Appeals reversed judgment on writ of error, its finding on the evidence before it can have no weight on the new trial, unless the evidence is practically the same as that on which the court based its finding. Washington & Berkeley Bridge Co. v. Pennsylvania Steel Co. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 487.

Where, on a second trial, after reversal of a conviction, the evidence was different, and the testimony of an accomplice, on which the prosecution relied, was much shaken, the trial court is not bound to follow the decision of the appellate court on a former trial, to the effect that the jury's findings were conclusive. U. S. v. Murphy (D. C.) 253 F. 404.

89. Jurisdiction and proceedings of appellate court after remand—Recall or return of cause from lower court.—Writ of error to review judgment of reversal with instructions to dismiss entered by Circuit Court of Appeals on rehearing after recall of its mandate ordering a new trial, will not be dismissed because trial court had theretofore entered judgment on original mandate and had adjourned before writ of error sought. Thomsen v. Cayser, 37 S. Ct. 353, 243 U. S. 66, 61 L. Ed. 597, reversing judgment Union Castle Mail S. S. Co. v. Thomsen, 190 F. 536, 111 C. C. A. 368, and Id., 190 F. 1022, 111 C. C. A. 674.

90. —— Rehearing in appellate court.—Though court discussed questions other than jurisdictional question upon which decision was based, held, that rehearing on such questions would not be ordered. Supreme Council of Royal Arcanum v. Hobart, 244 F. 385, 157 C. C. A. 11.

That after submission and before decision party intervened giving necessary diversity of citizenship held not ground for rehearing, when not called to court's attention until after decision. Id.

Where petitioner would be affected by decree appealed from, though he was not named therein, and had he then asked, he would have been heard when appeals were originally argued, his petition for reargument will be granted to avoid possible injustice; it appearing that he had no record notice of appeals. Alexander v. Fidelity Trust Co., 249 F. 1, 161 C. C. A. 61.

92. —— Amendment of judgment.—Where, after decision of case by Circuit Court of Appeals, Supreme Court in similar case laid down a different measure of damages, Circuit Court of Appeals will modify its opinion accordingly. Utah Power & Light Co. v. U. S., 242 F. 924, 155 C. C. A. 512, modifying opinion 230 F. 328, 144 C. C. A. 470.

93. —— Amendment of mandate.—After expiration of term at which decree was reversed, appellant's petition to recall mandate for correction, by adding to costs taxed, must be denied, where item sought to be added was contested, and no voucher was before clerk when he prepared mandate. E. G. Staude Mfg. Co. v. Labombarde, 247 F. 879, 160 C. C. A. 101.

94. Dismissal or withdrawal of appeal or error.—Motions to dismiss appeals without consideration of the merits should not be granted, except when it clearly appears that there has been a fatal failure to comply with legal requirements. Halfpenny v. Miller, 232 F. 113, 146 C. C. A. 305.

As a question of defect of parties is one requiring opening up of record, that matter will not be considered on motion to dismiss appeal, where error may probably be met by amendment, but will be postponed until hearing on merits. Graham v. O'Ferral, 236 F. 717, 150 C. C. A. 49.

Dismissal of appeal from decree vacating probate of and holding void a will held not to vacate the decree and leave the will in force, even as to an unborn remainderman, though dismissal was pursuant to compromise out of court. Stewart v. Oneal, 237 F. 897, 150 C. C. A. 547.

A cause should not be dismissed by an appellate court without a hearing on the merits, because of a mere inadvertence of counsel, not amounting to flagrant neglect. E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. v. Smith, 249 F. 403, 161 C. C. A. 377.

§ 1672. (R. S. § 1011, as amended, Act Feb. 18, 1875, c. 80, § 1.) Reversal on error limited.

3. Review of questions of law or fact in general.—See notes under §§ 1583, 1587, 1668, and Const. Amend. 7.

On writ of error to review a judgment rendered in an action where jury was waived, only inquiries open are, in view of Rev. St. §§ 700, 1011 (Comp. St. 1916. §§ 1668, 1672), whether evidence tends to support ultimate finding, and whether the finding in turn is sufficient to sustain the judgment. Turner v. Schaeffer, 249 F. 654, 161 C. C. A. 564.

8. Conflicting evidence.—Under this section, jury's finding of facts on conflicting evidence is conclusive on appeal. Hobbs v. Kizer (C. C. A.) 236 F. 681, 150 C. C. A. 13.

Cited without definite application, Schoenwald v. Bishop (C. C. A.) 244 F. 715.

CRIMINAL PROCEDURE

§ 1674. (R. S. § 1014.) Offenders, how arrested and removed.

I. VALIDITY, CONSTRUCTION, AND OPERATION IN GENERAL

5. Construction and operation in general—"Mode of process" defined.—The provision of this section authorizing designated state officers to make arrest for violation of federal statutes, process to be issued against offender "agreeably to the usual mode of process against offenders in such state," requires such arrest to be made with complaint and warrant. McMichael v. Culliton (N. J. Sup.) 104 A. 433.

6. —— "Process" defined.—Relative to commission of perjury under Criminal Code, § 125 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10295), a United States commissioner, under this section, wherein "process" is used with the meaning of "procedure," has authority to conduct a preliminary hearing (recognized by section 981 [Comp. St. 1916, § 1622], and called for by Comp. St. 1916, § 1678), and therein to administer oaths. Safford v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 471.

7. —— "Court of the United States" within statute.—Despite the amendment of Rev. St. §§ 5399, 5406, by Criminal Code, §§ 135, 136 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 10305, 10306), United States commissioner is not a court, and costs of preliminary hearing before him cannot, under Rev. St. §§ 974, 1014 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1615, 1674), be assessed against the defendant. U. S. v. Schwartz (D. C.) 249 F. 755.

14. Authority to arrest, hold to bail, or commit to jail in general.—Rev. St. §§ 1014, 1015 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1674, 1679), referring to admission of offenders to bail, are, as to District Courts, declarative of inherent common-law power of such courts to admit offenders. Ewing v. U. S., 240 F. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

II. COMPLAINT, WARRANT, EXAMINATION, COMMITMENT, AND BAIL

(A) Preliminary complaint

18. Necessity and procedure for.—In criminal procedure, several modes to bring defendant to trial are accepted as regular; one being by complaint, followed by warrant of arrest, preliminary hearing, and indictment, a second by presentment of grand jury, followed by issuance of bench warrant, and a third being by information from official representative of sovereign power. U. S. v. Simon (D. C.) 248 F. 980.

(B) Preliminary warrant and commitment

29. Arrest without warrant.—A state officer was not justified in law in making an arrest without complaint and warrant for acts which under the federal statute constitute only a misdemeanor and were not committed in the presence of such officer. And in action for false imprisonment, the fact that the arrest was made upon information received from agents of the Red Cross that plaintiff had committed acts constituting a misdemeanor under federal statutes is not legal justification, where arrest was without complaint and warrant; this section authorizing designated state officers to make arrest for violation of federal statutes, requiring that such arrest be made with complaint and warrant. McMichael v. Culliton (N. J. Sup.) 104 A. 433.

(C) Examination and commitment

41. Conduct of examination—Evidence, sufficiency of.—On preliminary examination before United States commissioner, where the evidence shows probable cause that the offense charged was committed, he is warranted in holding defendants. Ex parte Westbrook (D. C.) 250 F. 636.

46½. Costs.—Costs to which Rev. St. § 974 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1615), declares defendant subject, when judgment is rendered against him in prosecution for fine or forfeiture, held only those of trial under indictment, and not of preliminary trial, governed by section 1014 (section 1674). U. S. v. Briebach (D. C.) 245 F. 204. See, also, U. S. v. Schwartz (D. C.) 249 F. 755.

(D) Admission to bail

66. Proceedings to admit to bail.—It is sufficient that judge, when informed by deputy clerk that accused desired admission to bail and offered as surety an attorney well known to judge, fix amount and direct approval of bond. Ewing v. U. S., 240 F. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

Admitting accused to bail is not a step in trial, and bail bond cannot be attacked because accused was not present when judge accepted it. Id.

70. Bond, undertaking, recognizance, and deposits—Requisites and validity in general.—A bail bond executed on Sunday, given to secure the release of one arrested in Texas on a charge of violating the federal law, is valid under the Texas laws, which govern, pursuant to this section. De Orozco v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 237 F. 1008.

While the purpose of a recognizance and a bail bond is the same, a "recognizance" is an obligation of record entered into before some court of record, and need not be signed by the principal or the surety, while a "bail bond," is signed by the parties; the consideration being the release of one accused from custody. Ewing v. U. S., 240 F. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

Bail bond taken in federal District Court for Tennessee held sufficient, under Shannon's Code Tenn. §§ 7116, 7118, 7119, 7125, 7126, containing all the requisites of common-law bond, though signed by only one surety. Id.

Attorney, surety on bail bond, having secured release of offender, cannot question authority of deputy clerk, who received bond; the United States having changed its position to its prejudice. Id.

A bail bond is not rendered invalid because of a mere verbal inaccuracy, caused by acicdental transposition of words, which does not work injury to any person in interest. Anduaga v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 61.

74. —— Conditions and obligations.—Condition of bail bond given by one charged by United States commissioner with violating federal laws held to substantially comply with Code Cr. Proc. Tex. 1911, art. 293, which governed. De Orozco v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 237 F. 1008.

In view of Acts Tenn. 1903, c. 99 (Shannon's Code Supp. p. 852), held, that bail bond covered accused's release pending motion for new trial before sentence, and, where he then absconded, surety on his bond became liable. Ewing v. U. S., 240 F. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

77. Liability of sureties.—Surety on bail bond can be held liable only within absolute terms of his undertaking, which cannot be enlarged; and before there can be recovery on bail bond, it must appear that offender was bailed by one qualified to admit to bail. Ewing v. U. S., 240 F. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

79½. —— Liability of principal to reimburse surety.—Surety on bail bond is quasi jailer, and there is no implied obligation on part of principal to reimburse surety for amount paid on principal's default. Ewing v. U. S., 240 F. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

81. Discharge of sureties.—In view of Code Cr. Proc. Tex. 1911, art. 293, held, that the bail bond of one charged with violating the federal laws, who was arrested in Texas, is not released because the United States commissioner, ordering his arrest, postponed hearing without the affidavit provided by Code Cr. Proc. Tex. 1911, art. 205. De Orozco v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 237 F. 1008.

The failure of the United States commissioner, ordering the arrest of the principal in a bail bond, to enter a continuance of hearing on his docket, will not exonerate the bail and authorize principal to refuse to appear at the time set for the subsequent hearing. Id.

82. Relief from liability or forfeiture.—Under this section and Code Cr. Proc. Tex. 1911, § 500, it is no defense to forfeiture of bail bond of accused, arrested in Texas for offense against the United States, that he died after forfeiture and before final judgment on the bond. De Orozco v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 237 F. 1008.

84. Action or scire facias on bond, undertaking, or recognizance—Remedy.—A recognizance or bail bond may be enforced by scire facias or civil action; debt lying on the recognizance. The United States may adopt remedy of scire facias in recovering on bail bond, and have judgment entered after return of process, if no sufficient cause is shown for setting aside conditional judgment. Ewing v. U. S., 240 F. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

88. —— Pleading.—In view of Rev. St. § 716 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1239), authorizing the issuance of scire facias out of the United States court, and Rev. St. § 954 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1591), providing for the amendment of such writs for any defect or want of form, a scire facias issued out of the federal District Court for Tennessee to recover on a bail bond may be amended to show the missing jurisdictional fact that the court admitted the offender to bail. A writ of scire facias is considered both as process and declaration, and informalities which may be taken advantage of by demurrer can be cured by amendment; an amendment being permissible to show custom of taking bond out of court. Ewing v. U. S., 240 F. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

89. —— Evidence.—In scire facias on conditional judgment on bail bond, testimony that offender was admitted to bail by judge is not objectionable as contradictory of record, where record did not show by whom offender was admitted to bail. Ewing v. U. S., 240 F. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

91. —— Judgment and enforcement.—No judgment can be rendered against the wife of the principal in a bail bond, who did not execute the bond as principal or surety, and did not upon the death of the principal become his legal representative. De Orozco v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 237 F. 1008.

Though scire facias on conditional judgment on bail bond did not allege accused was admitted to bail by judge, yet, where evidence of fact which rested in parol was received without objection, judgment cannot be attacked on ground it was not supported by writ. Ewing v. U. S., 240 F. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

IV. REMOVAL OF OFFENDERS TO OTHER DISTRICT FOR TRIAL

(A) Validity and construction in general

111. Removal in general.—Though defendants were indicted in the District Court for Rhode Island, they may be removed for trial on indictment against them in the District Court in the Southern District of New York; there being no claim for speedy trial in District Court for Rhode Island, and no showing that granting of warrant of removal would result in unreasonable delay. In re Tillinghast (D. C.) 233 F. 712.

115. District of Columbia.—One charged with offense created by act of Congress applying specially to District of Columbia may, under this section, be removed to District of Columbia for trial, it appearing he was taken into custody elsewhere, for there is no extradition between District of Columbia and a state. U. S. v. McCarthy (D. C.) 250 F. 800.

118. Sufficiency of indictment or complaint.—In proceedings for the removal of one charged with crime from one federal district to another for trial, merely technical objections to the sufficiency of the indictment should not be considered. Conetto v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 42.

119. Conclusiveness and effect of indictment.—An indictment charging a criminal conspiracy introduced in evidence in proceedings before a United States commissioner for removal of defendant to another district for trial is itself prima facie evidence of probable cause. Witte v. Shelton, 240 F. 265, 153 C. C. A. 191.

§ 1678. (Act Aug. 18, 1894, c. 301, § 1.) Persons arrested to be taken before nearest officer; complaint attached to warrant.

See Safford v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 471; note under § 1674, ante.

§ 1679. (R. S. § 1015.) Bail in cases not capital.

Declarative of common law.—Rev. St. §§ 1014, 1015 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1674, 1679), referring to admission of offenders to bail, are, as to District Courts, declarative of inherent common-law power of such courts to admit offenders. Ewing v. U. S., 240 F. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

§ 1684. (R. S. § 1020.) When penalty of recognizances may be remitted.

Construction in general.—Under the provision that a court may in its discretion remit the penalty of a forfeited criminal recognizance, whenever it appears "that there has been no willful default of the party," etc., the court can exercise such discretion only when the failure of defendant to appear was not willful. U. S. v. Fabata (D. C.) 253 F. 586.

—— "Willful default" defined.—That the failure of defendant in a criminal case to appear to the time required by his recognizance was by advice of his attorney does not make his default other than "willful." U. S. v. Fabata (D. C.) 253 F. 586.

Discretion of court.—An application under this section for relief from the forfeiture of a recognizance is addressed to the discretion of the court. U. S. v. Smart, 237 F. 978, 150 C. C. A. 628.

Application for remission of penalty.—A petition for relief from the penalty of a forfeited recognizance held sufficient under this section. U. S. v. Smart, 237 F. 978, 150 C. C. A. 628.

§ 1690. (R. S. § 1024.) Charges joined in one indictment.

1. Joinder of counts on offenses in general.—See Morris v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 229 F. 516.

Separate criminal acts in a single transaction may be split up into as many counts relating to the transaction as the United States attorney may think necessary, so that, if the proof is insufficient for a conviction on one count, the government may have its benefit on another charge to which it is applicable. Orth v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 566. And a motion to quash an indictment on the ground that the three counts charged the same offense is properly denied, for such motion is not favored, and is addressed to the discretion of the court, while a motion to elect is the proper remedy. Wetzel v. U. S., 233 F. 984, 147 C. C. A. 658. Under Laws Alaska 1913, c. 39, one charged of violating Act June 26, 1906, regulating fisheries of Alaska, cannot complain that the indictment, which was in several counts, included more than one offense. Thlinket Packing Co. v. U. S., 236 F. 109, 149 C. C. A. 319.

6. Offenses against the postal service in general.—Under this section United States may in one indictment join two charges of embezzlement against cashier of post office; one embezzlement of money, and the other embezzlement of stamps, property of United States. McNeil v. U. S., 246 F. 827, 159 C. C. A. 129.

A count charging a violation of Criminal Code, § 211 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10381), by mailing obscene matter, etc., was properly joined in one indictment with a count under section 212 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10382), charging the mailing of an envelope bearing defamatory and obscene matter. U. S. v. Davidson (D. C.) 244 F. 523.

12. Conspiracy and other offenses.—A charge, under Penal Code, § 215 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10385), for using the mails for a scheme to defraud, and a charge under section 37 (section 10201), for a conspiracy to commit such offense, may be joined under this section, relating to several charges for same transaction or for two or more transactions connected together. Sidebotham v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 417.

16. Offenses created by oleomargarine act.—A number of charges of violations of the oleomargarine laws may under this section be joined in one indictment; the several charges being based on acts connected with the other and for transactions of the same class of crime. Kreuzer v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 34.

23. Election between counts or offenses.—Under indictment charging entry into railroad car containing interstate shipment, with intent to steal, and larceny therefrom, held, that defendants could be convicted on both counts. Morris v. U. S., 229 F. 516, 143 C. C. A. 584.

Under this section, government cannot, in a prosecution for conspiring to violate and for violating Harrison Drug Act, be required at close of its case to elect on which of acts conviction would be sought; several charges being joined in one indictment. Wallace v. U. S., 243 F. 300, 156 C. C. A. 80, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 11, 245 U. S. 650, 62 L. Ed. 531.

Under indictment under Comp. Laws Territory Alaska 1913, § 266, charging that on July 30, 1913, defendant wantonly wasted and destroyed salmon taken in waters of Alaska, prosecution's evidence tending to prove offense on July 26th was not an election to prove the offense on that day. Alaska Packers' Ass'n v. U. S., 244 F. 710, 157 C. C. A. 158.

Where one indictment charges two offenses, motion to require prosecution to elect is addressed to sound discretion of trial court. McNeil v. U. S., 246 F. 827, 159 C. C. A. 129.

Where an indictment was duplicitous because charging, in one count, the three several offenses denounced by the Espionage Act, § 3, post § 10212c, the United States attorney will not be allowed to elect to rely on one of the offenses and nolle pros. the others; for that would amount to an amendment, and violate U. S. Const. Amend. 5, declaring no person shall be held to answer for an infamous crime unless on presentment of an indictment of a grand jury, etc. U. S. v. Dembowski (D. C.) 252 F. 894.

25. Charging different acts as one offense, or duplicity.—It is elementary that two separate offenses cannot be included in one count of an indictment. Where a statute creates a single offense, but specifies in the alternative different acts, any one of which will constitute the offense, an indictment may charge the commission of such offense by all the means mentioned, using the conjunctive "and" wherever the statute uses the word "or," without being duplicitous. And where a statute prohibits the doing of a certain thing, or attempting to do such thing, these are merely different modes of doing one thing; hence an indictment in one count charging that defendant with the offense of causing insubordination in violation of the Espionage Act, § 3, post, § 10212c, and attempting to cause such insubordination, is not duplicitous. Such act, declaring that whoever shall willfully make or convey false reports with intent to interfere with military operations, and whoever shall willfully cause or attempt to cause insubordination, or shall obstruct the recruiting or enlistment services, shall be punished, includes three different offenses, which cannot be joined in one count of an indictment. U. S. v. Dembowski (D. C.) 252 F. 894. And see U. S. v. Blakeman (D. C.) 251 F. 306.

Under Criminal Code, § 332 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10506), making person aiding, abetting, etc., a principal, indictment for aiding, abetting, etc., violations of Act May 18, 1917, post, § 2044e, held not to charge more than one offense. Ruthenberg v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 168, 245 U. S. 480, 62 L. Ed. 414.

Terms "house of ill fame," "bawdy house," and "brothel" being synonymous, indictment charging keeping of all three resorts charges but one offense. And indictment charging that defendants conspired to set up or keep house of ill fame, brothel, or bawdy-house within prohibited zone of military post, in violation of Selective Service Act May 18, 1917, § 13, post, § 2019b, is not duplicitous, as charging several offenses; conspiracy alone being charged. U. S. v. Casey (D. C.) 247 F. 362. And see U. S. v. Stilson (D. C.) 254 F. 120. And an indictment, charging a conspiracy to commit four separate offenses, is not bad for duplicity. Knoell v. U. S., 239 F. 16, 152 C. C. A. 66, affirming judgment U. S. v. Knoell (D. C.) 230 F. 509. Nor is a charge in a single count of a conspiracy to violate two or more laws of the United States. Knauer v. U. S., 237 F. 8, 150 C. C. A. 210.

Indictment charging cashier of bank with issuing "and" putting forth a certificate of deposit with intent to injure "and" defraud the bank held not duplicitous and bad, under Rev. St. § 5209 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9772). Simpson v.

U. S., 229 F. 940, 144 C. C. A. 222, certiorari denied 36 S. Ct. 552, 241 U. S. 668, 60 L. Ed. 1229.

Indictment charging violation of Criminal Code, § 217 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10387), which alleged that accused did deposit and cause to be deposited in post office for mailing and delivery a poison, etc., is not duplicitous because of allegation that accused did deposit and cause to be deposited such poison. Murray v. U. S., 247 F. 874, 160 C. C. A. 96.

Where a notary appended false certificates to statements by several physicians, which were intended to be used in connection with a claim for exemption from military service, the false certification of each statement was a separate offense under the Selective Service Act, and the several offenses could not be charged in a single count of the indictment. U. S. v. Blakeman (D. C.) 251 F. 306.

Indictment charging that defendants conspired to commit an offense against and to defraud the United States in violation of Pen. Code, § 37 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10201), and to unlawfully and willfully aid and counsel unknown persons to refuse to register under the Selective Draft Act, post, § 2044e, did not charge two distinct offenses, no facts being alleged to show a conspiracy to defraud the United States, so that the allegation as to fraud was surplusage. Sugar v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 79.

Where a statute creates a single offense, but specifies in the alternative different acts, any one of which will constitute the offense, an indictment may charge the commission of such offense by all the means mentioned, using the conjunctive "and" wherever the statute uses the word "or," without being duplicitous. U. S. v. Dembowski (D. C.) 252 F. 894.

28. Consolidation of indictments.—The trial court may, in its discretion, consolidate several indictments before trial, and try the same together. Le More v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 887.

The consolidation for trial of an indictment for conspiracy to commit a crime against the United States and one against the same defendants for commission of such crime held proper, under this section. Vane v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 28.

Where defendants were charged with violation of the Sherman Act (Comp. St. 1916, § 8820 et seq.), as well as violating Criminal Code, § 37 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10201), by conspiring to form a military enterprise, in violation of section 13 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10177), against the dominions of a foreign prince with whom United States was at peace, and the several acts charged were practically the same, the indictments should be consolidated and tried together. U. S. v. Bopp (D. C.) 237 F 283.

29. Proof as to part of counts.—Where evidence supports one count, and sentence might be imposed under one court, refusal to direct verdict is not error. McDonald v. U. S., 241 F. 793, 154 C. C. A. 495.

Separate criminal acts in a single transaction may be split up into as many counts relating to the transaction as the United States attorney may think necessary, so that, if the proof is insufficient for a conviction on one count, the government may have its benefit on another charge to which it is applicable. Orth v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 566.

Where, under the evidence, there might be a conviction on some of the counts, if not on others, requested charge that, to convict in this cause, certain matter must be proved, is bad, as requiring conviction or acquittal on all the counts. Bonfoey v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 802.

30. Verdict under indictment containing several counts.—Acquittal of a defendant, charged with using the mails to defraud, on some of the counts of the indictment, held not to negative guilt on other counts. Lyman v. U. S., 241 F. 945, 154 C. C. A. 581.

Where jury did not have indictment before them, and had been instructed that there were in substance only two charges, verdict finding defendants guilty as indicted in both counts is sufficient to support a conviction though indictment contained more than two counts, indicating that the jury found defendants guilty on the whole indictment. U. S. v. Bachman (D. C.) 246 F. 1009.

§ 1691. (R. S. § 1025.) Indictments; defects of form.

1. Defects or imperfections in matters of form in general.—The rule applicable to an information is no less liberal than that prescribed for indictments by this section, and its averments of facts constituting the offense need be only so certain and specific as fairly to inform defendant of the crime intended to be alleged, and to make the judgment a complete defense to a second prosecution for the same offense. Simpson v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 241 F. 841.

This section authorizes observance of dictates of common sense. Whitehead v. U. S., 245 F. 385, 157 C. C. A. 547, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 191, 245 U. S. 670, 62 L. Ed. 540.

Defects in an indictment charging that railroad company, in violation of Interstate Commerce Act, § 10 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8574), assisted a shipper to obtain transportation at less than the regular rates, etc., held mere imperfections of form, which, after verdict, were cured by this section. Elgin, J. & E. Ry. Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 907.

2. Preliminary proceedings in general.—A sworn charge previously made is not necessary to render an indictment valid. Ruthenberg v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 168, 245 U. S. 480, 62 L. Ed. 414.

4. Selecting, summoning, and impaneling grand jury.—Socialists held denied no constitutional or statutory rights because grand jury was composed exclusively of members of other parties and of property owners. Ruthenberg v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 168, 245 U. S. 480, 62 L. Ed. 414.

Failure of clerk to participate in selection of grand jury, as required by 36 Stat. 1164 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1253), held prejudicial error which cannot be disregarded under this section, and indictment thereunder must be set aside. Dunn v. U. S., 238 F. 508, 151 C. C. A. 444.

An indictment is not effective until it is found a true bill by a properly constituted grand jury. Cooper v. U. S., 247 F. 45, 159 C. C. A. 263.

5. Proceedings of grand jury.—The absence of the judge from the district during a part of the deliberations of the grand jury does not invalidate the indictment. Badders v. U. S., 36 S. Ct. 367, 240 U. S. 391, 60 L. Ed. 706.

Though the district attorney was guilty of misconduct before the grand jury, in attempting to influence them to return an indictment, the indictment is not open to attack, unless it appears that the rights of accused were prejudiced. And where the district attorney in impartial judicial manner summarized the evidence produced before the grand jury, informed them as to the law, and then stated that he desired an indictment, but in no way attempted to dominate them, the indictment, returned without discussion, is not open to objection, being free from coercion; the evidence being clear and conclusive. U. S. v. Rintelen (D. C.) 235 F. 787.

An indictment is not subject to attack where founded on sufficient evidence, because the grand jurors from reading newspapers had acquired strong opinions, and even bias against accused. Id.

An indictment is not subject to plea in abatement because incompetent testimony was presented to the grand jury, unless competent evidence sufficient to justify the indictment was not presented. U. S. v. Rintelen (D. C.) 235 F. 787. And the use in evidence before the grand jury of papers seized under a valid search warrant is not ground for quashing the indictment. U. S. v. Gouled (D. C.) 253 F. 242. That matter was brought to attention of grand jury by one of its members having dealings with defendants concerning the matter involved, held not ground for quashing, where he withdrew and took no part in the proceedings. Elder v. U. S., 243 F. 84, 155 C. C. A. 614.

After finding of indictment and apprehension of defendant, asking of and being informed by grand jurors what transpired before them is not improper. U. S. v. Perlman (D. C.) 247 F. 158.

11. Requisites and sufficiency of indictment in general.—Under this section an indictment will be held sufficient which contains a sufficient accusation and alleges facts sufficient to sustain a conviction and apprise defendant of the charge against him. Knauer v. U. S., 237 F. 8, 150 C. C. A. 210. And to avail themselves of the record of conviction or acquittal against further prosecution, etc. U. S. v. Prieth (D. C.) 251 F. 946. The purpose of an indictment is to inform accused, with reasonable certainty, of the nature of the offense charged, so he may properly prepare his defense, to enable him to use his acquittal, if again accused, and to enable the court to determine whether acts alleged to constitute a crime would warrant a conviction thereof, if proved. U. S. v. Greenbaum (D. C.) 252 F. 259.

An indictment, averring goods stolen from a freight house and consigned to certain persons while in the course of interstate shipment were received by accused, held, in view of this section, sufficient to charge the offense of receiving such goods, denounced by Act Feb. 13, 1913 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8603). Kasle v. U. S., 233 F. 878, 147 C. C. A. 552.

In view of this section, an indictment held sufficient to charge offense of introducing, from without into that part of state of Oklahoma which was Indian Territory, intoxicating liquor. Dosset v. U. S., 248 F. 902, 161 C. C. A. 20.

12. Indictment in several counts or charging separate and distinct offenses.—In determining the sufficiency of an indictment, each count must be treated as a whole, and not merely as a part thereof. Samuels v. U. S., 232 F. 536, 146 C. C. A. 494. And where accused was convicted on two counts, and sentence was passed on both counts, but ordered to run concurrently, and one of the counts was sufficient, error in sustaining the other count was harmless. Frankfort v. U. S., 231 F. 903, 146 C. C. A. 99; Kreuzer v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 34. And a general conviction on several counts will not be disturbed, because of defects in some of the counts, where there is one good count. Greenburg v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 728; Thurston v. U. S., 241 F. 335, 154 C. C. A. 215, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 9, 62 L. Ed. 529; Gee Woe v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 428; Doe v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 903.

Where defendants were convicted of entering a railroad car with intent to commit larceny, and of stealing goods therefrom, but the punishment imposed on both counts was the same and ran concurrently, they were not prejudiced, even though there was no evidence to warrant the verdict of guilty on one count; the evidence clearly warranting a conviction on the other. Morris v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 229 F. 516.

Where sentence imposed did not exceed that which might be imposed for a single conviction for violating postal laws (Criminal Code, § 211; Comp. St. 1916, § 10381), accused cannot complain of overruling of his motion to compel government to elect under which count of indictment it would proceed. Wetzel v. U. S., 233 F. 984, 147 C. C. A. 658.

Where there was evidence to support a conviction under one count of the indictment, and there was a single sentence upon the two counts, the conviction will not be reversed, as without support in evidence, though one of the counts was not established. Brand v. U. S., 236 F. 219, 149 C. C. A. 409.

Where the evidence abundantly supported more than one of the five counts charging the defendant with violating Drug Registration Act Dec. 17, 1914 (Comp. St. 1916, § 6287o), and the sentence imposed was such as could have been imposed under section 9 of that act for a single offense, the judgment will not be reversed for errors affecting only one count. Baldwin v. U. S., 238 F. 793, 151 C. C. A. 643.

To amend is to correct or rectify or to free from error; hence to cure an indictment of the defect of duplicity, by striking from the single count in which several offenses were charged, is to amend the same. U. S. v. Dembowski (D. C.) 252 F. 894.

In view of this section, an indictment held not fatally defective, on motion for new trial, because it charged in separate counts a conspiracy to commit acts which constituted offenses under different statutes. U. S. v. Stilson (D. C.) 254 F. 120.

13. —— Reference between counts.—In a prosecution under Criminal Code, § 215 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10385), for using the mails in connection with a scheme to defraud, subsequent counts in an indictment may refer to a previous count for the scheme. Linn v. U. S., 234 F. 543, 148 C. C. A. 309.

That a count in an indictment is bad does not affect the propriety of references in other counts to facts stated therein to avoid repetition. Doe v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 903.

14. Description of offense in general.—An indictment for seditious conspiracy under Criminal Code, § 6 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10201), must charge force, which cannot be implied from the words "feloniously, unlawfully, willfully, and maliciously"; but where the overt act is alleged in charging defendants with intent to engage in armed hostility against the United States, "by attacking with force and arms," defendant is so apprised of element of force that to sustain a demurrer on such ground would give effect to a mere defect of form, contrary to this section. Phipps v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 251 F. 879.

Indictment charging that defendants conspired to interfere with registration under Selective Draft Act May 18, 1917, § 5, post, § 2044e, by publication of newspaper counseling persons not to register, sufficiently charged a public offense, notwithstanding section 6 of the Selective Draft Act, post, § 2044f, was also the basis of the offense charged, the act and not the sections being important, in view of this section. Sugar v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 79.

In view of this section, the allegations of an information need only fairly inform defendant of crime intended to be alleged, and to make available a plea of former acquittal or conviction, if a second prosecution were instituted for the same offense. Dr. J. H. McLean Medicine Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 694.

15. Certainty and particularity.—In view of this section, indictment need only be so certain and specific as to fairly inform defendant of crime alleged and make judgment defense to second prosecution. Simpson v. U. S., 241 F. 841, 154 C. C. A. 543; Linn v. U. S., 234 F. 543, 148 C. C. A. 309; U. S. v. United States Brewers' Ass'n (D. C.) 239 F. 163. The highest degree of certainty is not required, but certainty to a common intent is sufficient. Finnegan v. U. S., 231 F. 561, 145 C. C. A. 447. And while the rules of criminal procedure require that one accused shall be fully apprised of the charge against him, yet the object is to convict the guilty, as well as to shield the innocent, and no impracticable standard of particularity should be set up. U. S. v. Gouled (D. C.) 253 F. 239.

Indictment under Criminal Code, § 37 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10201), for conspiracy to corrupt election for Representative in Congress, held so vague, uncertain, insufficient, and duplicitous as not to sufficiently apprise defendants of the nature of the charge. U. S. v. Gradwell (D. C.) 234 F. 446, judgment affirmed 37 S. Ct. 407, 61 L. Ed. 857.

If indictment for conspiracy to intimidate voter was intended to charge a direct threat to have sentence pronounced, held that it was argumentative and lacked positiveness. U. S. v. Welch (D. C.) 243 F. 996.

17. Indictment where statute punishes common-law crime.—When the definition of an offense, whether it be by common law or by statute, includes generic terms, it is not sufficient that an indictment charge the offense in the same generic terms, but it must aver the particulars. Knauer v. U. S., 237 F. 8, 150 C. C. A. 210; U. S. v. Bopp (D. C.) 230 F. 723.

22. Particulars constituting or evidence of offense.—An indictment charging that a railroad company violated Interstate Commerce Act. § 10 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8574), by false billing, etc., assisting a shipper to obtain transportation at less than the usual rates, is not defective because it did not set out the waybills, for the waybills are mere evidence of the classification, etc. Elgin, J. & E. Ry. Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 907.

An indictment must fully and clearly set out the elements which constitute the crime, but need not allege matters of evidence nor the means by which the crime was to be accomplished, unless the act is one the criminality of which depends on the circumstances under which it was done. U. S. v. United States Brewers' Ass'n (D. C.) 239 F. 163.

24. Surplusage.—In an indictment for using the mails to defraud, the words "as aforesaid," in a paragraph alleging facts not previously mentioned, are surplusage. Finnegan v. U. S., 231 F. 561, 145 C. C. A. 447.

Indictment charging conspiracy to induce persons to violate Conscription Act, post, § 2044a et seq., held not bad, as including in single count charge of conspiracy to commit an offense, as well as to defraud United States; averments of conspiracy to defraud in accordance with Criminal Code, § 37 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10201), being surplusage. U. S. v. Sugar (D. C.) 243 F. 423.

25. Bill of particulars.—Where an indictment sets forth all the essential elements of an offense, the filing of a bill of particulars under the order of the court would not involve any usurpation upon the functions of the grand jury. U. S. v. Stobo (D. C.) 251 F. 689.

A motion by the defendant in a criminal case for a bill of particulars is addressed to the discretion of the court. Knauer v. U. S., 237 F. 8, 150 C. C. A. 210; U. S. v. Pierce (D. C.) 245 F. 888. But where indictment sufficiently charged all of the essential facts to constitute the offense, defendant, if desirous of other details, must demand a bill of particulars. Sheridan v. U. S., 236 F. 305, 149 C. C. A. 437.

A bill of particulars can in no way aid an indictment fundamentally bad; the office of the bill, which is addressed to the discretion of the court, being to render the defendant more particular information as to matters essential to his defense. Collins v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 609; U. S. v. Rintelen (D. C.) 233 F. 793. And, in reviewing judgment sustaining demurrer to indictment, bill of particulars is to be disregarded; it forming no part of the record for the purpose of the demurrer. U. S. v. Comyns, 39 S. Ct. 98, 63 L. Ed. —. And see Foster v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 481.

A bill of particulars may be ordered by the court, in its discretion, in cases where the indictment, while so expressed as to be good on demurrer, does not furnish defendant with all information he is entitled to have before being compelled to go to trial. Foster v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 481; U. S. v. Pierce (D. C.) 245 F. 888. And a bill of particulars should never be granted where it will unduly limit the evidence of the prosecution; but it is a settled rule that, while an indictment may be sufficient in itself, if it charges an offense in the words of the statute, it is not sufficient as against a motion for bill of particulars, but the court, upon motion, may in its discretion require the pleader in such case to descend to particulars. U. S. v. Gouled (D. C.) 253 F. 239.

When a bill of particulars is made and served, it concludes the rights of all parties, and the prosecution must be confined to the particulars specified. U. S. v. Gouled (D. C.) 253 F. 239; U. S. v. Pierce (D. C.) 245 F. 888.

Defendants indicted for conspiracy and violation of Espionage Act June 15, 1917, § 3, post, § 1012c, held not entitled to bill of particulars setting forth names of those to whom pamphlets containing alleged false statements regarding military operations of United States were delivered, or setting forth names of persons solicited, etc. U. S. v. Pierce (D. C.) 245 F. 888.

Where an indictment charged that defendants conspired to impede enlistment service by public speeches, private solicitation, and the publication of a magazine, held, that they were entitled to a bill of particulars of the speeches, etc., relied on. U. S. v. Eastman (D. C.) 252 F. 232.

32. Description of persons and misnomer.—Under this section, indictment for entering railroad car containing interstate shipment and stealing goods therefrom held not defective for failure to allege that railroad company was incorporated. Morris v. U. S., 229 F. 516, 143 C. C. A. 584.

The failure of an indictment for using the mails in the execution or attempted execution of a scheme to defraud a bank to allege that the bank was incorporated did not prejudice the defendant, and hence the indictment would not be quashed because thereof, in view of this section. McClendon v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 229 F. 523.

Indictment under Criminal Code, §§ 37, 215 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 10201, 10385), charging conspiracy to violate and violation of section 215, with reference to illegal use of mails, held not bad for failure to state that collection agency through which defendants realized on scheme was corporation, etc., or show relation of defendants to agency. Preeman v. U. S., 244 F. 1, 156 C. C. A. 429, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 12, 245 U. S. 654, 62 L. Ed. 533.

It is not always necessary that the names of third persons be set forth in the indictment, or that there be an allegation that such names are unknown. U. S. v. Prieth (D. C.) 251 F. 946.

33. Designation of defendants.—An indictment charging defendants with defrauding the United States of taxes on artificially colored oleomargarine, which alleged that they carried on their business under a corporate name, but treated them as principals, is not bad as failing to charge them as principals. U. S. v. Orr (D. C.) 233 F. 718.

34. Averment of venue or place of offense.—In view of this section, an inaccurate statement as to the voting precinct in which defendant resided, contained in an indictment charging failure to register as required by the Selective Draft Act, must, in view of the usual knowledge prevailing as to such locations, be disregarded. Breitmayer v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 249 F. 929.

Objection that no venue was laid in indictment for combining and engaging in monopoly in restraint of interstate commerce held without merit. U. S. v. Cowell (D. C.) 243 F. 730.

Indictment charging conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States should allege place of commission of overt act; and an indictment for conspiracy in anticipation of bankruptcy to conceal assets from trustee held sufficient. U. S. v. Baker (D. C.) 243 F. 741.

An indictment for concealing property while bankrupt, alleging the concealment took place at the city of Detroit, in this district, on July 5, 1916, specifies the place. U. S. v. Greenbaum (D. C.) 252 F. 259.

35. Averment of time or date.—It is the general rule that, though the grand jury has not evidence of exact date of offense, and though its oath is to make true presentment, and though time is not of essence, indictment must allege offense as of day certain, though the offense may be proved as of any day prior to indictment and within limitations. To the requirement that the indictment must allege a day certain, there are two exceptions: Misdemeanors, and offenses of omission, rather than of commission. And an indictment charging violation of Anti-Drug Act, in that defendant gave order for opium and failed to preserve duplicate so as to be accessible, comes within one of these exceptions, and need not allege offense as of day certain; the charge being omission to perform statutory duty, though the indictment must allege that the offense was committed within two years after acceptance of order. But where time is not of essence of offense, allegation of indictment of commission on day certain is so far of form, rather than of substance, as to be within this section, and the indictment in question was held sufficient, though alleging date of offense no more definitely than unknown date within essential two-year period. U. S. v. Gaag (D. C.) 237 F. 728.

Indictment for combining and engaging in monopoly in restraint of interstate commerce held to sufficiently allege the time of the offense by alleging that the parties were engaged in the unlawful combination or contract between specified dates. U. S. v. Cowell (D. C.) 243 F. 730.

An indictment, charging theft from the mails, which laid the date of the theft at a time after the filing of indictment, is not subject to general demurrer, where true date appeared from other averments. Adams v. U. S., 246 F. 830, 159 C. C. A. 132.

An indictment under Selective Service Act, § 13, post, § 2019b, as to disorderly houses, was not defective, because not giving the correct date of the regulations prescribed thereunder; they being judicially noticed. U. S. v. Scott (D. C.) 248 F. 361.

An indictment for concealing property while bankrupt, alleging the concealment took place at the city of Detroit, in this district, on July 5, 1916, specifies the time. U. S. v. Greenbaum (D. C.) 252 F. 259.

An averment in an indictment that the conspiracy charged was formed "on the —— day of May, 1917," held sufficiently definite, where the statute charged to have been violated was enacted on May 18, 1917. Firth v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 36.

36. Alleging intent.—An indictment charging that defendant did willfully, unlawfully, and feloniously commit a robbery is sufficient, and need not allege the specific intent. Vane v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 254 F. 32.

37. Alleging scienter or knowledge.—An information charging an interstate shipment of drugs misbranded, in that the package and an accompanying circular contained false and fraudulent statements, alleged that the shipment was made by S., the defendant, trading as S.'s Medical Institute, that the name of the article given on the label was S.'s Nerve Compound, and that the representations were false and fraudulent, in that they were applied to such article knowingly and in reckless and wanton disregard of their truth and falsity. Held, that the information sufficiently showed that it was defendant's knowledge and defendant's wanton and reckless disregard of the truth that was intended to be charged, especially in view of this section. Simpson v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 241 F. 841.

38. Allegation of "willfulness" or "willfully" committing acts.—Indictment, charging conspiracy to use mails in connection with scheme to defraud, held to sufficiently allege defendants' fraudulent intent, though not using word "willful." Holsman v. U. S., 248 F. 193, 160 C. C. A. 271.

40. Charging fraud.—Though the owners of the stock of a corporation may technically commit a fraud on the corporation, such an offense would be so technical and so contrary to ordinary understanding that an indictment will not be construed to charge it, if such construction may be avoided. Hart v. U. S., 240 F. 911, 153 C. C. A. 597.

43. Conclusion of pleader.—See U. S. v. Bopp (D. C.) 230 F. 723.

In an indictment for using the mails to defraud, the paragraph alleging the particular use of the mails, held not bad as an argumentative conclusion. Finnegan v. U. S., 231 F. 561, 145 C. C. A. 447.

In an indictment of a physician under Harrison Anti-Narcotic Law, § 2 (Comp. St. 1916, § 6287h), for dispensing opium "not in the course of his professional practice," the phrase quoted, following the language of the statute, is not bad as a conclusion of the pleader, as it states the ultimate facts. U. S. v. Rosenberg (D. C.) 251 F. 963.

45. Inconsistent allegations and repugnancy.—An indictment for conspiracy to conceal assets from trustee in bankruptcy, averments that the property which was to belong to bankrupt estate consisted of proceeds of sale of firm merchandise, and that property to be concealed belonged to partners individually and as members of firm, held not repugnant, when considered with other averments. Malvin v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 449.

Indictment charging conspiracy in anticipation of involuntary bankruptcy to conceal property from trustee held not bad for inconsistency in allegations as to ownership of property. U. S. v. Baker (D. C.) 243 F. 741.

46. Setting out or describing written instruments.—Indictment charging conspiracy to prevent registration under Selective Draft Act May 18, 1917, post, § 2044e, held not defective, because translation of newspaper article alleged to have been printed pursuant to plan, and not an exact copy of article, was set out. U. S. v. Galleanni (D. C.) 245 F. 977.

51. Following language of statute.—See Morris v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 229 F. 516.

An indictment based on an alleged violation of a statute sufficiently describes the nature of the crime charged, if it follows the language of the statute, unless it is too indefinite to accurately indicate, without addition of other words, the essential elements of the alleged crime. U. S. v. Greenbaum (D. C.) 252 F. 259. And where definition of offense by statute includes generic terms, indictment in the same terms, without particulars, is insufficient. U. S. v. Bopp (D. C.) 230 F. 723.

An indictment following the statute, charging a railway mail clerk with delaying, embezzling, etc., letters in the mail held sufficient. McShann v. U. S., 231 F. 923, 146 C. C. A. 119.

An indictment for combining and engaging in a monopoly in restraint of interstate trade and commerce must give particulars and not rely simply on the words of the statute. U. S. v. Cowell (D. C.) 243 F. 730.

Indictment for violation of White Slave Act, § 3 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8814), in language of statute held sufficient. Simpson v. U. S., 245 F. 278, 157 C. C. A. 470, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 133, 245 U. S. 667, 62 L. Ed. 538; U. S. v. Brand (D. C.) 229 F. 847.

An indictment under Act Cong. Feb. 14, 1917, post, § 10200a, providing punishment for persons making threats to take the life of or inflict great bodily harm upon the President of the United States, which follows the language of the statute in alleging the crime charged, and informs the defendant fully of the nature thereof, and sets forth the exact language alleged to constitute the crime, is sufficiently definite. U. S. v. Jasick (D. C.) 252 F. 931. And see U. S. v. Stickrath (D. C.) 242 F. 151.

An indictment charging that defendants, in violation of the Espionage Act, conveyed false reports, with intent to interfere with the success of the military and naval forces of the United States, etc., but which did not specify the reports, or to whom they were made, but merely followed the language of the statute, held insufficient; the statute itself being general. Foster v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 481.

An indictment charging, in the words of the Espionage Act, that defendant did make and convey false reports, etc., with intent to interfere with military and naval operations, etc., held insufficient to charge any offense. Collins v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 609.

An indictment under Espionage Act, tit. 1, § 3, post, § 10212c, for willfully obstructing the recruiting or enlistment service, is sufficiently specific, if it charges the offense in the language of the statute. Doe v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 903.

52. Negativing exceptions in statutes or constitution.—Unless a statute creating an offense so defines it that it cannot be properly described without negativing an exception, an indictment for violation thereof need not negative the exception. U. S. v. Greenbaum (D. C.) 252 F. 259. And where a statute defining an offense contains exceptions in the enacting clause, an indictment found under it must aver that defendant is not within such exceptions. Breitmayer v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 249 F. 929.

In prosecution for violating Harrison Anti-Narcotic Act, § 2a (Comp. St. 1916, § 6287h), held, that state must negative exception in favor of dispensing of drugs by duly registered physicians to patients personally attended, and indictment failing to negative exception is defective. U. S. v. Hammers (D. C.) 241 F. 542.

Under Act Dec. 17, 1914, c. 1, §§ 1, 8 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 6287g, 6287n), indictment for having possession of opium, etc., held not required to negative an innocent possession by alleging that the possession was for purposes of sale. U. S. v. O'Hara (D. C.) 242 F. 749.

Indictment under Selective Draft Act, § 13, post, § 2019b, as to disorderly houses near military camps, etc., need not negative the exception respecting acts punishable under the Articles of War. U. S. v. Scott (D. C.) 248 F. 361.

Indictment charging failure to register as required by the Selective Draft Law, which alleged that accused was a male between ages of 21 and 30, and was not an officer or enlisted man of the Regular Army or Navy, nor of the National Guard or Naval Militia, nor of the Officers Reserve Corps, nor of the Reserve Corps in the service of the United States, and was not in any manner exempted nor excused from registering, sufficiently negatived the exceptions in the act. Sugar v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 74.

There being no express exception or reference to exemptions in Bankruptcy Act July 1, 1898, § 29b (Comp. St. 1916, § 9613), an indictment thereunder for concealing property need not allege the property was not exempt from execution under state laws, though section 6 (section 9590) secures to bankrupts allowance of exemptions under such laws. U. S. v. Greenbaum (D. C.) 252 F. 259.

53. Setting out rules and regulations of executive department.—Indictment charging conspiracy to violate Selective Service Act of May 18, 1917, § 13, post, § 2019b, and regulation of Secretary of War, promulgated thereunder, need not set forth regulation of Secretary, for courts will take judicial notice thereof. U. S. v. Casey (D. C.) 247 F. 362.

56. Indorsement of names of witnesses on indictment.—On trial for using mails in execution of scheme to defraud in connection with treatment of fictitious diseases, testimony of witness not named in indictment, if showing that treatment was in good faith and for actual ailment, held not prejudicial. Freeman v. U. S., 243 F. 353, 156 C. C. A. 133.

60. Variance between indictment and proof.—A defendant cannot be charged with one crime and convicted of another merely because the latter is developable out of the proof, which fails to establish the crime charged in the indictment. Hendrey v. U. S., 233 F. 5, 147 C. C. A. 75.

Where an indictment, charging conspiracy to violate Act Jan. 17, 1914 (Comp. St. 1916, § 6287q), denouncing an offense, with respect to importation of opium, which specified numerous acts as constituting the offense, charged the several acts conjunctively, conviction may be had upon proof of any one of them. Shepard v. U. S., 236 F. 73, 149 C. C. A. 283.

Under indictment under Comp. Laws Territory Alaska 1913, § 266, alleging that on July 30, 1913, defendant wantonly wasted and destroyed salmon taken in waters of Alaska, prosecution was not bound to prove commission of offense on that day. Alaska Packers' Ass'n v. U. S., 244 F. 710, 157 C. C. A. 158.

Where indictment described property generally, averring that a more particular description was to the grand jury unknown, the prosecution must show that grand jurors were in fact ignorant of a more particular description as to a substantial portion of the property, or there must be acquittal because of the variance. Feener v. U. S., 249 F. 425, 161 C. C. A. 399.

In case of offenses committable only on Sunday, if indictment alleges a definite Sunday, another or different date may be proved. U. S. v. Gaag (D. C.) 237 F. 728.

62. When and how objections may be raised in general.—Indictment for conspiracy to defraud the United States out of customs duties on imported coal by false weights held sufficient, in absence of objection before trial or to testimony or request, to limit scope of the charge. Smith v. U. S., 231 F. 25, 145 C. C. A. 213.

After plea of not guilty the only objection that can be made to the indictment in trial court is that it fails to describe various acts intended to be proved with that reasonable certainty which the law requires. Oesting v. U. S., 234 F. 304, 148 C. C. A. 206.

Where accused fails to demur, move to quash, or in arrest after verdict, he waives his right to object to form of indictment, though he may object that it does not charge an offense. Id.

Unless objections to the form of an indictment are pointed out by demurrer, or otherwise taken advantage of on trial, such objections cannot be urged after verdict, unless they affect the substantial rights of accused. Sheridan v. U. S., 236 F. 305, 149 C. C. A. 437.

Objection, made on the day the case was called for trial by motion to abate the prosecution was properly overruled as not having been made with due promptness. Benson v. U. S., 240 F. 413, 153 C. C. A. 339.

Unless information is void, objection to verification cannot be raised for first time on appeal, unless refusal to consider it would shock judicial conscience. Objection to verification of information held technical, and waived by pleading without raising it. Simpson v. U. S., 241 F. 841, 154 C. C. A. 543.

Defects in the acknowledgment of the information are waived, if not raised by suitable objection before trial, and cannot thereafter be raised. Abbott Bros. Co. v. U. S., 242 F. 751, 155 C. C. A. 339.

A motion in arrest of judgment may be used for purpose of taking advantage of any defect in indictment, based upon knowledge obtained during or after conclusion of trial. But, affiavit by defendant held insufficient to warrant sustaining of motion in arrest of judgment, on ground that indictment was not supported by material and competent testimony. Cooper v. U. S., 247 F. 45, 159 C. C. A. 263.

Under the approved practice in the courts of the United States, questions which can as well and better be raised at the trial should not be raised by demurrer, especially in view of this section. U. S. v. Werner (D. C.) 247 F. 708.

In prosecution for conspiracy to violate Espionage Act, tit. 1, § 3, post, § 10212c, by obstructing recruiting and enlistment service of the United States by means of newspaper articles, whether the means alleged to have been adopted would have accomplished the purpose is a question of fact, which cannot be passed upon on demurrer to the indictment. U. S. v. Prieth (D. C.) 251 F. 946.

Practice of attacking an indictment, as not stating an offense, by objection to introduction of evidence, does not prevail in federal courts, and will not be permitted, except under extraordinary circumstances; but motion to quash, demurrer, or motion in arrest is proper practice. McKnight v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 252 F. 687; Grant v. U. S., (C. C. A.) 252 F. 692. The objections should be made by motion to quash demurrer, or motion in arrest of judgment, and not by objections to testimony, or by requests for instructions. Simpson v. U. S., 229 F. 940, 144 C. C. A. 222, certiorari denied 36 S. Ct. 552, 241 U. S. 668, 60 L. Ed. 1229.

An information charging defendant made an interstate shipment of drugs misbranded in violation of Food and Drugs Act June 30, 1906, § 8, as amended by Act Aug. 23, 1912 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8724), which alleged false statements were applied by defendant to the article knowingly and in wanton disregard of their falsity, held sufficient as against motion in arrest, in view of this section. Dr. J. H. McLean Medicine Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 253 F. 694.

64. Motion to quash or set aside indictment.—A motion to quash an indictment on the ground that the three counts charged the same offense is properly denied, for such motion is not favored, and is addressed to the discretion of the court, while a motion to elect is the proper remedy. Wetzel v. U. S., 233 F. 984, 147 C. C. A. 658.

The question whether a person not authorized appeared before the grand jury returning the indictment may be raised by motion to quash, although plea in abatement is the proper remedy in all cases of contested fact. May v. U. S., 236 F. 495, 149 C. C. A. 547.

Assistant to Attorney General appointed for special prosecutions under Rev. St. §§ 161, 177, 348, 360, and Act June 30, 1906 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 235, 259, 517, 535), held at least a de facto officer, so that, on motion to quash indictment, his right to appear before grand jury could not be questioned. Id.

Objections made on the day the case was called for trial by motions to quash the indictment, which stated facts sufficient to constitute the offense, was properly overruled as not having been made with due promptness. Benson v. U. S., 240 F. 413, 153 C. C. A. 339.

Motion to quash relates to defects appearing on face of indictment and should be made at or before beginning of trial. Cooper v. U. S., 247 F. 45, 159 C. C. A. 263.

On motion to quash, the allegations of an indictment are to be assumed true. U. S. v. Doremus (D. C.) 246 F. 958.

After a defendant has pleaded to the indictment, subsequently moved for a bill of particulars, and the case has been set for trial, the court will not entertain a motion to quash on grounds personally known to defendant from the first. U. S. v. Gouled (D. C.) 253 F. 242.

Cited without definite application, U. S. v. Schaefer (D. C.) 248 F. 290; U. S. v. Schafer (D. C.) 254 F. 135.

§ 1692. (R. S. § 1026.) Judgment on demurrer to an indictment.

Cited without definite application, U. S. v. Werner (D. C.) 247 F. 708.

§ 1694. (R. S. § 1028.) Copy of writ to be jailer's authority.

Delivery of warrant or mittimus.—Where petitioner was delivered by the United States marshal, as directed in the order of sentence, to the United States penitentiary in which he was sentenced to be confined, and a certified copy of the order and record of the conviction was delivered to the warden, the prisoner was properly retained, though no warrant or mittimus was delivered. Ex parte Thurston (D. C.) 233 F. 847.

§ 1699. (R. S. § 1033.) Copy of indictment and list of jurors and witnesses to be delivered to prisoner in capital cases.

List of witnesses or jurors in general.—This section applies only to treason and capital offense, defendants who were not charged with treason and capital offenses are not entitled to list of names and addresses of all witnesses sworn by government before grand jury. U. S. v. Pierce (D. C.) 245 F. 888.

Rule of court.—It is within powers of District Court to make and enforce in criminal cases less than capital a rule prohibiting the furnishing of a list of jurors to the defendant more than two days prior to the term. Hendrikson v. U. S., 249 F. 34, 161 C. C. A. 94.

§ 1703. (Act Feb. 6, 1889, c. 113, § 6.) Writ of error in capital cases.

Security for costs.—In view of Rev. St. § 974 (Comp. St. 1916, § 1615), Judicial Code, § 128, and this section, Rev. St. § 1000 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 1120, 1703, 1660), authorizes the taking of security for costs on writ of error in a criminal case, where the court had exercised its jurisdiction to adjudge the costs against the defendant, though the writ was not a supersedeas. American Surety Co. v. U. S., 239 F. 680, 152 C. C. A. 514.

§ 1704. (Act March 2, 1907, c. 2564.) Writs of error in criminal cases on behalf of United States in certain instances.

8. Decisions reviewable in general—Decision sustaining demurrer to indictment.—Construction of Cr. Code, § 215 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10385), relating to use of mails in a scheme to defraud, held involved in a decision of the District Court by which a demurrer to an indictment under that section was sustained so as to sustain an appeal by the United States. U. S. v. New South Farm & Home Co., 36 S. Ct. 505, 241 U. S. 64, 60 L. Ed. 890.

Decision sustaining demurrer to indictment held based on a construction of Criminal Code, § 215 (Comp. St. 1916, § 10385), as to using mails to execute a scheme to defraud, and so to allow review under this section by error to District Court. U. S. v. Comyns, 39 S. Ct. 98, 63 L. Ed. —.

9. —— Decision sustaining special plea in bar.—Judgment quashing indictment because of previous adjudication that offense was barred by limitations is one sustaining special plea in bar, within this section, the clause therein giving writ of error to United States to review decision sustaining special plea in bar, not being limited to judgments based on invalidity or construction of statute. U. S. v. Oppenheimer, 37 S. Ct. 68, 242 U. S. 85, 61 L. Ed. 161.

Cited without definite application. U. S. v. Nice, 36 S. Ct. 696, 60 L. Ed. 1192; Guerini Stone Co. v. P. J. Carlin Const. Co., 39 S. Ct. 102; U. S. v. Hill, 39 S. Ct. 143, 63 L. Ed. —.

Decisions Relating to Crimes and Criminal Procedure in General

4. Verification of information.—Objection to verification of information held technical, and waived by pleading without raising it. Simpson v. U. S., 241 F. 841, 154 C. C. A. 543.

Defects in the acknowledgment of the information are waived, if not raised by sutiable objection before trial, and cannot thereafter be raised. Abbott Bros. Co. v. U. S., 242 F. 751, 155 C. C. A. 339.

An information signed by the district attorney and supported by affidavits subjoined, held sufficient to sustain a judgment of conviction, regardless of the sufficiency of the acknowledgment. Id.

Notaries public held without authority to administer oaths in connection with criminal prosecutions, and hence information made on oath of persons whose affidavits, taken before notaries public, were annexed was defective. U. S. v. Schallinger Produce Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 290.

Information not filed by United States attorney under sanction of official oath, but upon oath of parties whose affidavits were annexed, held insufficient, unless affidavits could be considered. Id.

Proceeding against corporation for violation of criminal statute held a criminal proceeding, so that information based upon annexed affidavits taken before notaries public was insufficient. Id.

Information for violating quarantine regulations, under Act Aug. 20, 1912 (Comp. St. 1916, § 8762), on which warrant of arrest was not asked, held not to require verification, and not defective for insufficiency or informalities in annexed affidavits. U. S. v. Adams Express Co. (D. C.) 230 F. 531.

6. Inspection of minutes of grand jury.—Grand jury minutes may be inspected by court; but right should be exercised only on a strong showing, in furtherance of justice, or for protection of individual rights. Inspection will not be made on a showing only of incompetent evidence before grand jury; it being enough that there was any competent evidence. U. S. v. Perlman (D. C.) 247 F. 158.

Examination by the court of grand jury minutes of proceedings upon which an indictment was returned is justified only in extreme cases, where it is shown by positive allegation that the indictment was the result of fraud or corruption, or of caprice, and was not the expression of a fair judgment on the facts. U. S. v. Gouled (D. C.) 253 F. 242.

10. Withdrawal of plea of guilty.—Where judgment on plea of guilty was a nullity for want of jurisdiction, held, that court, on objection to the convict's competency as a witness, did not err in permitting him to withdraw his plea of guilty and plead not guilty. Gretsch v. U. S., 242 F. 897, 155 C. C. A. 485, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 12, 245 U. S. 654, 62 L. Ed. 532.

Granting leave to withdraw pleas of guilty and enter pleas of not guilty to an indictment is discretionary with trial court. Billingsley v. U. S., 249 F. 331, 161 C. C. A. 339, affirming judgment U. S. v. Billingsley (D. C.) 242 F. 330, and certiorari denied Billingsley v. U. S., 38 S. Ct. 583, 247 U. S. 523, 62 L. Ed. 1247.

12. Plea in abatement and demurrer thereto.—Plea in abatement, filed more than two years after indictment, and after offense would have been barred, held properly stricken as too late. Younge v. U. S., 242 F. 788, 155 C. C. A. 376, certiorari denied 38 S. Ct. 13, 245 U. S. 656, 62 L. Ed. 533.

The right to file a plea in abatement for irregularity in drawing the grand jury, months after the indictment was returned, is not absolute, but subject to the sound discretion of the court. Matters v. U. S., 244 F. 736, 157 C. C. A. 184.

An averment on information and belief that the grand jurors who returned an indictment had no knowledge of its contents held insufficient as a basis for a plea in abatement. U. S. v. Bopp (D. C.) 232 F. 177.

An equivocal expression, used in the plea in abatement to an indictment, is to be taken against the pleader. U. S. v. Scott (D. C.) 232 F. 192.

A plea in abatement to an indictment for disqualification of a grand juror under Gen. Laws R. I. 1909, c. 279, § 1, and amended Const. R. I. art. 2, § 2, held insufficient. Id.

A plea in abatement, filed nine months after the return of an indictment, on the ground of irregularity in the drawing of the grand jury, held insufficient, because filed too late. Moffatt v. U. S., 232 F. 522, 146 C. C. A. 480.

A plea in abatement filed after answer and motion to quash, on grounds which accused might have discovered before, comes too late. U. S. v. Rintelen (D. C.) 235 F. 787.

A plea of abatement, filed 108 days after the filing of the indictment and the arraignment, there being nothing excusing the long delay, is not timely. U. S. v. Perlman (D. C.) 247 F. 158.

14½. Continuance.—Where defendant had the services of able counsel throughout the trial, denial of a continuance on the ground of absence of additional counsel cannot be deemed an abuse of the court's discretion. Warren v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 250 F. 89.

The denial of a motion for continuance, signed only by counsel and not stating facts under oath, is proper. Id.

Where defendant was able to produce a number of character witnesses, denial of a continuance on the ground of absence of other character witnesses cannot be deemed an abuse of the court's discretion. Id.

That attorneys employed by defendant, who expected to be present and try his case, were unable to be present, does not alone make refusal of continuance error; defendant having counsel present to defend him. Bond v. U. S. (C. C. A.) 252 F. 804.

16. Use of demurrer in general.—On demurrer to an indictment, the allegations therein should be accepted as true. U. S. v. Boutin (D. C.) 251 F. 313; Knoell v. U. S., 239 F. 16, 152 C. C. A. 66, affirming judgment U. S. v. Knoell (D. C.) 230 F. 509; U. S. v. Doremus (D. C.) 246 F. 958. And a contention of counsel on demurrer to an indictment, unsupported by any facts in the record, need not be disposed of. U. S. v. Cudahy Packing Co. (D. C.) 243 F. 441.

On demurrer to an indictment charging defendant with sending through the mails nonmailable matter, the court can only decide whether the matter is so clearly innocent that the question should not be submitted to the jury. U. S. v. Klauder (D. C.) 240 F. 501.

